This is the wish of some, but what is your opinion?

Next week we will tell where you can leave your ideas. So jot them down on your memo pad for deposit in these boxes.

The Kewaskum Indians outbatted Lomira 18-6 here Friday afternoon for their second straight Tri-county conference victory without a setback. The team is now tied with Campbellsport, defending title, for the loop lead.

Tom Tessar, an end, set up Kewaskum's first score against the Lions with a long run and quarterback Don Bradke plunged for the score. The extra point try was no good. In the third quarter Bradke scored again and then passed to Halfback Russ Rodenkirch for the third marker. In the last quarter Zimmerman went over on a four-yard shot for the Lions.

The Indians traveled to Brandon this Friday afternoon in quest of their third victory in as many starts in league play. The Mitchellmen were favored to win over once defeated Brandon.

Next Friday afternoon Kewaskum plays host to Campbellsport in the annual homecoming tilt here. This game will drop one of the two teams out of first place and most likely will settle the Tri-county championship for this season. The veteran Belle team will be heavy favorites.

Regal Ware, Inc. Produces 2,000,000th 105mm. Steel Cartridge Case On Tuesday

No Formal Celebration Held; Reigle, Company President, Presents Case to Chicago Ordnance District

Tuesday, October 15, 1953, was just another workday at Regal Ware, Inc., Kewaskum, Wisconsin, with one notable exception—the 2,000,000th 105 mm. steel cartridge case being manufactured by the firm rolled off the production line.

Actually, the production of the 2,000,000th steel case is a magnificent achievement. At the outbreak of the Korean War, the production techniques for manufacturing cartridge cases from steel, instead of scarce and more costly brass, were not fully developed.

Regal Ware, through hard work, experiments and research, made valuable contributions to the development of this relatively new field. Today, it is one of the few firms in the U.S.A. that has succeeded in producing the 105 mm. steel case successfully.

While no formal celebration took place to mark the occasion, officials of Regal Ware, Inc. took "time out" to thank representatives of the Chicago Ordnance District for their cooperation and to praise the employees of the company for their part in making the production of the 2,000,000th steel case possible.

J. O. Reigle, president of the company, in behalf of all employees presented the 2,000,000th cartridge case to the Chicago Ordnance District of the U. S. Army represented by Edward Thompson of Chicago and Mr. Donald S. Skene, resident ordnance inspector. Among those present during the brief ceremony were L. N. Peterson, executive vice-president of Regal Ware, Inc., Robert F. Draper, executive engineer, and Clayton Kohn, assistant superintendent of the steel cartridge case division of the company.

PARISH ALTAR SOCIETY HAS MONTHLY SOCIAL MEETING

The Ladies' Altar society of Holy Trinity church met on Tuesday evening. The members joined in a living rosary, reciting the prayers for the intention of their pastor, Father La Bue. Each lady held a lighted candle in her hand. A beautiful shrine, appropriate for the month of October, was set up by Mrs. Alois Muckerheide.

The evening's session opened with a short prayer, followed by a business meeting, reports by several of the ladies, a talk by Father La Bue and then movies. A fine lunch was served by Mrs. Gilbert Reindl, Mrs. Allen Reindl and Mrs. Ralph Remmel. An attendance prize was won by Mrs. P. J. Haug.

Slips were handed in for a more proper title for the sick committee. A good deed for the day was to be placed on the reverse side of the slip. The winner was Mrs. Lloyd Hron with the title "The Sunshine and Cheer" committee. She received a gift. The school sisters were judges.

They then rolled the barrel with parcels containing mission work. One parcel was given each lady to take home and do the work at home.

Three Cars Tangle in Main St. Crash in Romaine Takes Part in Gala Dedication of New Highway 41

Three autos were involved and damaged in a collision in front of Serwe's Tap on Main street early Sunday evening.

A 1937 La Salle driven by John Klein, 41, Kewaskum, was traveling west along Main street when the driver lost control of his car and rammed into a 1940 Buick sedan parked at the curb, of which Sylvester J. Stern, 16, R. 2, Kewaskum, was the driver. The Stern machine was pushed into another car parked in front of it, a 1946 Chevrolet sedan, owned and driven by Harold E. Stern, 24, 502 Pennsylvania ave., West Bend. Neither driver of the parked vehicles was in his car at the time of the crash.

After the impact the Klein auto tipped over on its side on the street. The left side and right front of the Klein car, the left rear end of the Sylvester Stern machine, and the trunk and rear end of the Harold Stern vehicle were damaged. Klein sustained minor injuries.

Gasoline was spilled in the street following the tangle and one of the Kewaskum fire engines was called out to wash it away and prevent a possible fire.

Plan School Lunches For Good Nutrition

With our children returning to the classroom it's time to give thought to their noon lunches. Correct eating habits and diets may mean the difference between good or poor grades as well as good or poor health.

Where school prepared lunches are available it is largely the responsibility of the school to supply nutritional food. However, where packed lunches are still a "must," the responsibility for children's eating habits falls largely on the parents. But regardless of the lunch facilities all schools should provide opportunities for handwashing before eating, and assure ample lunch time so that "gulping" of food does not become a habit.

The lunch—whether prepared at school or carried from home should meet the needs of the child for growth and activity. It should provide at least one-third or more of the child's nutritional needs for the day.

Each day's lunch should include a substantial serving of good protein food such as meat, fish, egg, cheese, or peanut butter; an ample amount of bread and butter; and a serving of fruit or vegetable—some cooked and some raw. Sweets should be limited in amount and should not replace any of the above mentioned dishes. Local home agents or home economic teachers can supply many good suggestions concerning home packed lunches.

If your child has breakfast at an early hour slip in an extra sandwich or apple for that mid-morning snack. Too many pupils eat most of their lunch during morning recess and have little food left at noon.

During the early autumn while we still have many warm days, it is especially important that milk be kept cold. A thermos bottle will fill the bill; or if the school serves milk a refrigerator will solve the problem. Avoid sandwich fillings which spoil quickly such as salad mixtures containing egg or ground meat, or custard fillings in cake.

The noon lunch can be an educational as well as a nutritional experience. Here is an opportunity for pupils to demonstrate a knowledge of good nutrition and eating habits, and exhibit an ability and willingness to apply knowledge. Alert parents and teachers will make the most of this possibility.

1 Word Can Change Your Life—ATTITUDE

Got a healthy, holy attitude toward life these days? The troubles of this world are impartial. They treat us pretty nearly alike. It sometimes looks as though one person gets more than the share he might deserve, but when all scores are totaled up, there isn't much difference. The difference is in how these impartial circumstances are met. Some take them with a smile, others with a snort. Some greet them sighing, others singing. Some curse the bitter times; others work for better times.

The artists have Jesus wrong. They've made sorrow the primary color of his life. But it wasn't. It was joy. He suffered without turning sour. His was a joyful spirit which made him independent of his circumstances.

POTATO PATTIES

- 6 potatoes
- 2 tablespoons flour
- Salt
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 tablespoon grated Swiss cheese
- Tomato sauce

Boil the potatoes. Mash and add flour, butter, cheese and salt. Mix well and shape into round patties, rather thick, making a hole in the middle. Cook in a well greased baking dish in an oven degree. When they are browned, pour the tomato sauce over them and serve in the baking dish.

Bees A Prime Factor In Crop Production

The abundant harvest of over 50 of Wisconsin's high quality crops will be completed within the next few weeks and a prime factor in this amazing production was the cross pollination of the plants performed by the 4½ billion bees in the state.

According to E. L. Chambers, chief of the State Department of Agriculture's Plant Industry Division, 80 per cent of all insect pollination is done by honey bees and the existence and survival of important crops such as alfalfa, clovers, tree fruits, berries and garden crops depends on the bee. Wisconsin has around 180,000 colonies averaging 25,000 worker bees per colony providing the state's 35,000,000 acres of plant life with the vital pollination.

A healthy colony of bees gathers from 45 to 65 pounds of pollen a year. Chambers estimated that in order to collect one pound of pollen the bees from one colony or hive would visit more than 8,000,000 flowers. To store the season's supply of pollen for the colony would require visiting around 500,000,000 flowers. Many growers of fruit and feed crops have had bee colonies brought in to insure plant pollination. Wisconsin annually produces approximately 3½ million dollars worth of seed and around 10 million dollars worth of fruit whose value depends so much on pollination by bees.

If you have a doorway that you have long wanted to tear out and replace with a plastered arch, you will be interested in this job.

Note that it will be necessary to tear out more plaster than the actual width of the arch. This is because a double 2x4 header will be necessary to support from above, formerly supported by full length studs and the doorway.

Whenever possible cut away plaster to a point where the new joint will come directly over a 2x4 stud. That makes it easier to get a firm base for the new lath.

Cut curves for the corner of the arch out of 2" lumber. Four pieces exactly alike will be needed. Nail these in place.

Cover the inside of the curves with metal lath as illustrated. Either wood, metal, or gypsum lath may be used on the remainder of the opening. Metal corner bead should be used on all corners or edges. Otherwise it is almost impossible to get straight corners.

Buy regular rough or brown coat plaster for the first coat. Use sharp plastering sand, or vermiculite. Mix according to directions.

Apply plaster with a trowel. It should not be level with the old plaster. Leave about 1/8" for the finish plaster.

Be sure to wet the edges of the old plaster before applying the new.

Allow the first coat several days to dry. Cracks may develop between the old and the new plaster. This is caused by the old plaster absorbing too much moisture from the new.

Buy ready mixed finish plaster or lime putty for the finish coat. Mix according to directions. Wet the edges of the old plaster to prevent too much absorption.

Trowel to a smooth finish. Test with a straight edge to be sure there are no high or low spots. Allow several weeks for plaster to dry before painting or papering.

Apply wall sealer before painting. Apply wall size before papering.

PART I

What Is Drug Addiction

It is a sickness, and the drug addict is a sick person. He is suffering from an illness that results from some personality difficulty, or from poor adjustment to society. The addict is apt to introduce others to the drug habit so that, besides the danger to himself, there is the further danger that he will infect others, making new addicts and spreading the disease. That is why recognition and treatment are so essential.

Is There Any Legitimate Use For Narcotic Drugs?

Drugs, like alcohol give temporary relief from pain, fear, disappointment, unhappiness and a sense of frustration. Sedative drugs, properly used on a physician's prescription, are of great value in the treatment of ill patients. The drugs cause relaxation of mind and body, relieve anxiety and pain, and induce sleep. However, abused, sedative drugs may lead to addiction with its attendant misery, suffering, degradation and despair, entirely out of proportion to the temporary relief that they may give at the beginning.

What Harm Do Drugs Do?

Drugs have definitely harmful effects. They adversely affect the functioning of brain and nervous system. Drug addiction gradually causes the addict's memory to become blurred; he loses the power to think, to reason, to concentrate, to make judgments. He loses any ambition he may have had. His sole interest is how to get hold of the drug, regardless of how this has to be done. In short, the addict suffers severe mental and moral deterioration.

Why Is It Dangerous To Begin Taking Drugs?

The terrible thing about taking drugs is that no matter what kind of a person you are, once you begin taking drugs, you find it harder and harder to stop, until at last you just can't stop. You have become a drug addict.

What Sort Of People Become Drug Addicts?

The smallest group are the medical or accidental addicts. These are normal, well-adjusted individuals for whom drugs have been prescribed during a severe or prolonged illness for easing pain or inducing sleep. They become so habituated to the drug that they cannot do without it. The largest use drugs in order to feel "more normal," mentally or physically. The third group are psychopathic addicts, who take drugs for the "kick" they get or expect to get from them. It often happens that normal persons who have become accidental addicts develop neurotic or even psychopathic characteristics.

What Is Meant By "Addiction-Prone?"

This refers to those neurotic and psychopathic persons who are likely to become addicts. They have some emotional difficulty with which they cannot deal, so that the drug appears attractive to them. Later they find that the drug has provided only temporary solution of their problems. In its wake have come illness and intense suffering.

Add butter and vanilla. Cool slightly while beating eggs. Add egg yolks and mix well. Fold into egg whites. Turn into greased baking dish. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 hour and 10 minutes, or until souffle is firm. Serve immediately with your favorite sauce or with cream. Makes 8 servings.

- Lettuce
- Lemon slices
- Slice potatoes and add oil and vinegar. Add onion, celery, capers, parsley, salt and pepper. Mix with dressing. Garnish with lettuce, beets and lemon slices.

HASH

Two cups left-over meat, beef, lamb or chicken.
2 cups mashed potatoes
1 tablespoon grated onion
1/2 cup milk
1/4 tsp. sweet basil
1/4 tsp. thyme
Salt and pepper to taste
Heat half of the milk, but do not boil. Add sweet basil and let stand 5 minutes. Chop meat fine and combine all ingredients. Form into flat cakes and brown slowly.

BAKED POTATO

Select large, smooth, potatoes, wash and scrub for baking. Rub with cooking oil or fat. Place in a baking pan and bake in an oven 450 degrees until tender. To test the potatoes squeeze them with the hand wrapped in a towel. When soft, break the skin and serve hot with butter.

SCALLOPED POTATOES WITH PIMIENTOS

- 4 cups diced potatoes
- 1 green pepper chopped fine
- 2 pimientos chopped fine
- Salt and pepper
- Cheese sauce

Prepare and dice potatoes. Put in saucepan and pre-boil 5 minutes. Drain, uncover and shake dry. Add the green pepper and pimientos, salt and pepper. Cover with cheese sauce. Bake 40 minutes in an oven 350 degrees.

CHEESE SAUCE

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 1 cup milk
 - Salt
 - 1/2 cup diced cheese
- Melt butter, add flour, making a smooth paste. Add salt. Gradually stir-in milk. When sauce is well blended, add the cheese; stirring until smooth.

POTATO AND CRAB SALAD IN PEPPER CUPS

- 1 cup crab meat
- 2 cups cold, diced, boiled potatoes
- 3 large green peppers
- 3/4 cup boiled dressing or mayonnaise
- Parsley
- Juice of 1/2 lemon

To make the pepper cases, cut the peppers in halves lengthwise; remove all seeds. Boil for 5 minutes, then put in cold water. When cool enough to handle, peel off the thin, paperlike skin. Cover with cold water and put in a cold place for 1 hour, to crisp.

Mix the crab meat and potatoes. Let stand a few minutes before serving, with the lemon juice sprinkled over. Mix with the dressing and serve in the pepper cases. Garnish each plate with shredded lettuce and a sprig of parsley.

His First Day of School

By Verdie McMillen

He walks like his soles were inlaid with springs
And his eyes shine like diamonds in my wedding ring.
His smile, very broad, has a limit in space—
There is just so much room on his sunny face;
His first day at school—and he's dressed for the part—
What is that strange feeling that tugs at my heart?

PAINTING WITH PETALS—Reviving an ancient form of religious art, Sydney Goodwyn puts finishing touches on a floral "well dressing" in Dean's Yard, Westminster Abbey. A layer of clay is applied to a wood framework, a pattern drawn in the clay, and flower petals and small bits of greenery stuck in place. The exhibit was made to further the Westminster Abbey Fund Appeal.

"'Twas ON THE ISLE OF CAPRI"—That's where Christine Kiehl, of Miami, Fla., has been amazing grown-up underwater fishing experts. Wearing flippers nearly as big as herself, and wielding a submarine spear-gun, Christine always comes back with the "big ones."

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John Kempf, who passed away on Oct. 3, 1953: In the graveyard softly sleeping Where the flowers gently wave, Lies the one we loved so dearly, In his lone and silent grave. Husband, father, you are gone but not forgotten— Never will your memory fade; Sweetest thoughts will ever linger 'Round the grave where you are laid. We loved you, yes, we loved you, But the Saviour loved you more, And so the angels sweetly called you To that bright and happy shore. It was hard to part with you, Oh, so sad to see you die; But then we'll try to meet you Some sweet day by and by. Sadly missed by his wife and children.

Holstein Breeders 4-H and FFA Bull Sale; Six Local Project Members

For the past several years the county extension office and the high school agricultural departments of Hartford, Kewaskum, Slinger and West Bend, have encouraged 4-H and FFA boys to raise a purebred bull calf as a project.

In this project the boy is given a young bull calf to raise. The calf is furnished by a Holstein breeder of the county. These young bulls are sold at a public auction which is held at the county fairgrounds at Slinger on the last Friday of October, which this year is October, 30.

The breeder and the boy share in the sale receipts depending upon the age of the calf when the boy received it. This year's sale will include 19 young bulls, ranging in age from 10 to 14 months. These calves were consigned by thirteen purebred Holstein breeders. Thus there will be available animals from numerous blood lines and a wide choice of color markings.

All calves have been Bang's tested and inoculated for shipping fever.

Below are the names and addresses of breeders who have consigned calves to this project, and the boys who have raised the young bulls:

About The Home

By FRANCES DELL

Household pests are not a very pleasant topic to discuss. It is a subject that homemakers must have knowledge of, however.

There is no single insecticide that will kill all types of pests. For this reason identification is the first step. Learn where the insects are entering the house and their breeding spot.

The German cockroach is a common pest, particularly troublesome in the warmer, Southern sections of the United States. They like dark places such as behind sinks, stoves, under cabinets and around pipes. To control cockroaches, spray with a two percent solution of chlordane.

Ants can breed out of doors and enter the house through very small cracks. They quite often breed behind baseboards and within walls. To control spray nest, if possible, or entrance with a two percent chlordane solution. Use a good commercial ant poison that the insects will pick up and carry back to the nests as an everyday precaution.

Silverfish feed on paper products and are often found around book cases. They can be controlled by using a ten per cent DDT powder.

A great deal is written about the control and prevention of moths. They are most often found around wool, mohair or other hair products.

The best preventive measures seem to be: Sun all woolens before packing them for storage—Spray with five per cent DDT—Pack all garments with moth balls or flakes.

Be sure to leave the door of your oven open after you've baked. This lets moisture escape and prevents rusting.

Stripes and solids, checks and plains are effectively co-ordinated in the new group of fashions in suitings, tweeds, iridescent fabrics and denims, says Betty Ann. Autumn leaf colors—golds, browns, and greens—are popular in the transitional styles. Fruit tones, rich and mellow like Tuscan purple and winepress red, are favorites.

Combinations of hot and cold colors are important fashion news. Warm toned shades like rusts are combined with cool pinks, and rich browns with icy blues.

The transitional fashion group includes all types of styles. There is a galaxy of separates—blazer jackets, separate vests, and skirts—in many different fabrics and patterns. There are smart suits, fashionable daytime dresses, and glamorous date costumes.

Toe interest will be important in shoes this fall. On one hand there's the delicate Spanish toe, which is sharply pointed and even more elegant than the tapered toe of last year. It's usually coupled with the Spanish or "stiletto" heel, very high and needle slim.

The square toe is found this year in a variety of smart suit shoes, flats, spectators, even in some dress pumps. It makes a bow to the casual air with no sacrifice of line or beauty. A more extreme version is called the "jewel box" toe and resembles, in miniature, a fashionable lady's jewel box.

The squared toe often is combined with a squared vamp line and a squared-off heel.

Top news for handbags this fall is size. They're bigger than ever . . . and naturally roomier . . . and come in a variety of interesting leathers and shapes. Along with these overgrown leather handbags you'll see some ultra-slim novel and elongated tubular and envelope bags.

Combinations of leathers are a fashion filip. Saddle, calf, cow and suedes are all popular. You'll see them in all possible combinations such as gleaming calf trim on natural side leather or textured leather with velvety dark suede. For the first time in a long, long while, leather handbags are prominent for after dark, especially woven leather and in sparkling glazed and gilded kid leather.

Novel among the plethora of new shapes in outsized leather handbags are satchels, pouches, shopping bags and closed bucket bags. For afternoon you'll see stunning pleated handbags with bellows or fluting in smooth or suede leather. All in all, things will be in the bag this fall, and with room to spare.

Pineapple Lattice Pie
Pastry for 2 crust 9 inch pie; ½ cup sugar; 4 tablespoons flour; 2½ cups (No 2 can) crushed pineapple undrained; 2 tablespoons butter.

Roll half of the pastry and line the bottom of a nine inch pie pan. Roll remaining pastry for top crust, cut into long strips one-half inch wide. Weave lattice design on waxed paper and set aside. Mix sugar, flour and undrained pineapple. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Pour into pastry lined pan and dot with butter. Quickly flip waxed paper with lattice crust over top of pie and press edges together firmly. Place immediately in hot oven, 450 degrees, for 10 minutes, reduce heat to moderate 350 degrees, and continue baking for 30 minutes longer. Serves six.

The tart shells for the cherry tarts may be made several days in advance and placed in the freezer, if desired. These may be baked either the day before or the day they are to be served. Cherry filling may be made in the morning and chilled, to be added to the tart shells just before serving; or it may be poured into the baked tart shells as soon as it is cold and garnished at the last minute.

In repainting plaster walls that aren't new, nail holes, plaster cracks and damaged surfaces should be filled with patching plaster and then given a priming coat to stop excess absorption of paint and to assure an even toned finish.

Canned Salmon Makes Real Taste-Tempters

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

HERE'S a zesty dish all your family will enjoy—deviled salmon with rice. Salmon in the familiar one-pound tin can is a good buy. Every ounce of this complete protein food is usable and full of valuable nutrients. Nothing is added except a little salt for seasoning, and the salmon is pressure cooked in a way which can't be duplicated at home. Take advantage of the liquid as well as the meat. Eat the softened bones, too, because they contribute added calcium and phosphorus, which build strong bones and teeth.

DEVILED SALMON WITH RICE

(4 servings)

One 1-pound can salmon, milk, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ cup chopped onion, ½ cup diced green pepper, 3 tablespoons flour, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, ¼ cup chili sauce, 3 cups hot cooked rice.

Drain and flake salmon. Add enough milk to salmon liquid to make 1½ cups; reserve. Melt butter. Add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add flour, salt and mustard; stir to a smooth paste.

Add reserved liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in chili sauce and salmon; heat. Turn rice on serving platter; spoon salmon mixture in center.

For your next luncheon party, try this beautiful salad:

MOLDED SALMON SALAD

One envelope unflavored gelatin, ¼ cup cold water, ¼ cup vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, 1 one-pound can salmon, 1 cup finely diced celery, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped, OR ½ cup ICY-COLD evaporated milk, whipped.

Soften gelatin in cold water and vinegar. Place over boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add sugar, salt and mustard; stir until blended. Cool. Drain and flake salmon; stir into gelatin mixture with celery. Fold in whipped cream or whipped evaporated milk.

*Turn into individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold and serve with mayonnaise or cucumber cream dressing. If desired, serve with tomato slices and salad greens.

CUCUMBER CREAM DRESSING

(6 servings)

One-half cup well-drained, finely chopped cucumbers, ½ cup heavy cream, whipped, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Do not peel cucumber, wash and chop very fine; drain well. Combine all ingredients.

Prepare Youngsters For Big Adventure

Thousands of small fry looked forward to the biggest event in their small lifetimes—the first day at school. Whether it was a happy day rested largely with preparations which should have started long before the great day rolled around, according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association.

Children who have already learned independence and self-confidence have made a long start toward success in school. If, also, they have been checked by the doctor to make sure they are in good physical condition, their adventure is pretty sure to be a shining success.

If, on the other hand, they have been babied and over-protected up to the last possible moment; or if they enter with some undiscovered defect, like defective eye-sight, as an added strike against them, the outlook is at least doubtful and may be disastrous.

For the sake of this year's beginners and for all the others who are going to reach school age next year and the next, the doctors urge the following program: First. Start preparation for school life long before that first day at school. Give youngsters their part of the responsibility for the work and fun at home long before they leave home to go to school. Second. Help them learn to play and work with others on equal terms and without special indulgences, but with a sure backing, always, of family love and affection. Third. Take them regularly to the doctor for a physical check-up, especially before—not after—they start to school. Even now much can be done to see that this year's beginner starts on his big adventure unhandicapped by defects that can be corrected.

Finally, the doctors especially warn over-protective parents that babying their children will not guard them against troubles ahead. Mental hospitals are full of unhappy emotional children who have been forced to live in a world of grown-up men and women.

Lawns and perennial flowers will respond to a good feeding of fertilizer this fall, say landscaping specialists at the University of Wisconsin.

Doctors Say You Can Catch Plantar Warts

There is news about the warts that pop out on the soles of some unfortunate feet which is important, not only to victims, but to everybody else who plans to take his swimming and exercising indoors when the weather changes. The news is embodied in a bulletin on these painful foot growths issued by the Minnesota State Medical association.

Plantar warts have been definitely shown to be infectious, though the period between exposure and development of the warts may stretch to months. The causative organism is thought to be a virus and it has been shown to lurk on gym floors and in swimming pools. Once it went from foot to foot in a boys' school where gym equipment became infected.

The importance of plantar warts is all in their position, according to the doctors. They are actually the same painless, relatively harmless eruptions that occasionally appear on the hands; but when they appear on the soles of the feet they are subject to pressure and pressure produces so much pain that such things as dancing and athletics become impossible. Even ordinary walking sometimes becomes so painful that victims prefer to stay in bed.

There are a variety of treatments, the bulletin says. All appear to produce good results for some and fail with others. Radiotherapy appears to be the best; but it must be administered with the utmost caution to avoid damaging underlying tissues. Surgery is also often unsatisfactory, since the wart has been known to grow again in the very spot that was excised.

There is one consolation, however, if all else fails. It may take months or years; but eventually even plantar warts fall off and disappear of their own accord.

Korean Vets Given Hints On G. I. Schooling

J. P. Cullen, Manager of the Veterans Administration Milwaukee Regional Office today issued a round-up of 10 useful tips for the thousands of veterans planning to start school this fall under the Korean GI Bill.

First, Cullen said, veterans should not jump hastily into training, without having a clear idea of where the training will lead them.

Instead, they should give careful thought to the choice of a goal, as well as to the training program that will help them reach it. The law allows a veteran to change his program no more than once, so it is to his advantage to choose correctly in the first place, Cullen said.

Second, is to remind veterans having trouble making up their minds about their goal that they may request vocational counseling, to help them arrive at a sound choice of training. To apply for counseling, a veteran need only fill in the appropriate space on VA's application form for GI training.

Cullen's third tip is to urge veterans to make sure the course they want has been State-approved for Korean GI training. Any VA regional office can tell a veteran whether the course of his choice is on the approved list.

Fourth, he advises veterans they should make their own arrangements for gaining admittance to school before they file their applications with VA.

This step often can save them much time and trouble later on, since they will be able to find out in advance whether the school has room for them and whether they meet its requirements for admission.

Fifth, veterans should make every effort to send their applications for training certificates to VA as soon as possible. This will give a time cushion so that any snags may be ironed out before school begins.

As tip number six, VA urges veterans to check their applications thoroughly, before mailing them to the VA. An incomplete application can only cause delay, since VA will have to write back to the veteran for the missing information, before any action can be taken.

Also, veterans should make certain that a photostat or certified copy of their separation paper accompanies the application.

Seventh, is to remind applicants that the forms should be sent to the VA regional office, at 342 North Water Street, Milwaukee 2, Wisconsin, and not to VA headquarters in Washington, D. C. Applications received in Washington have to be sent back to the regional office, a time-consuming process.

Eighth, veterans with dependents are advised to gather together the necessary proof of dependency, so that this material can be sent to VA as soon as it is requested.

Veterans with dependents receive higher GI allowance rates than those without. In order for VA to pay the higher rates, it must have proof of dependency status. For a wife, for example, this would consist of a photostat of the marriage certificate, and for a child, it would be a photostat of the birth certificate.

As his ninth point, Cullen reminds veterans to take along enough money of their own to take them over for at least the first two months of training. It takes that long, under the law, for a veteran's first GI allowance check to reach him.

The reason is that the allowances are paid some time after the end of each month of training completed. But before VA can make a payment, it must receive a certificate—signed by the veteran and his school—stating that he actually was in training during that month. Allowance checks usually go out with-

Be Sure You Have A Birth Certificate

You may take for granted that your birthday comes around every year on a certain day. You think you've reached a certain age. You even think your name is Joe Jones or Jane Smith. But can you prove it?

That's where that bit of paper called a birth certificate comes in handy. It proves that your original birth certificate is on file at the bureau of vital statistics and a copy of it is filed at your county register of deeds office, or your city health department. It can help you all your life.

By proving the fact of your birth it can be used for proving parentage, inheritance of property, legal dependency and so forth. By showing the place of your birth it proves you're an American citizen. This is required for voting, passports, and similar occasions. By showing date of birth it proves your age for such things as entrance to school, driver's license, and right to marry to name but a few.

Besides these direct, personal things the registration of your birth also aids you indirectly. Each birth registered is included in vital statistic reports used by public health agencies for program planning; by schools for such things as deciding on building programs; and by business men who are interested in population trends.

Surprisingly, there are still thousands of residents who have no birth certificate. By acting promptly, while older members of their families are still living, a certificate can easily be obtained through the local registrar or the state bureau of vital statistics.

Today with most babies being born in hospitals, or certainly with a doctor in attendance, filing a birth certificate has become a routine matter. One of the first things the doctor does after seeing that mother and baby are doing well is to fill out a birth certificate.

Parents should check the spelling of names and all other information to see that it is correct. If the birth is registered, the parents should receive a notification within 90 days after a baby is born. If this is not received they should write the State Board of Health.

Yes, a birth certificate is far more than just a piece of paper—it's your "passport to citizenship."

HASHED BROWN POTATOES

6 cold, cooked potatoes
Salt and pepper to taste
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
Chop the potatoes, adding salt and pepper. Heat the fat in a frying pan. Add the chopped potatoes to the depth of one inch. Press the potatoes down in the pan, packing them firmly. Cook slowly without stirring, until the potato is brown. Fold like an omelet and serve on a hot platter.

in 20 days after VA gets the certification.

Cullen's tenth and final training tip applies to veterans who already have started training under the Korean GI Bill. It is a reminder for veterans and their schools to submit the monthly certification of training to VA as soon after the end of each month as possible.

This form, which must be signed both by the veteran and a responsible official of his school, must be received by VA before payments of GI payments may be made. The sooner it reaches VA, the less chance there will be of a delay in mailing a veteran his allowance check.

Bible Comment:

Religion of Thanks Typified in Psalms In Praise of God

WHEN the Apostle Paul, contemplating the blessings of God through Christ, sought to express his wonderment and praise, prose failed him, and he burst into the lyricism of psalm: "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift."

The giving of thanks was a deep and impassioned thing in Paul, the Christian.

And the note of thankfulness was deep and strong in the religion of the Old Testament, which was the heritage of both Paul and his Master.

Its highest expression is in the Psalms.

If one had to choose one Psalm that typifies the religion of thanksgiving, one would probably pick the 107th, although the group of Psalms from the 103rd through the 107th are full of the note of thanks.

Thankfulness in religion is not only a proper attitude for blessings received, it is also an attitude of receptiveness.

An unthankful soul is a closed soul. Not much can penetrate the wall of an unthankful spirit.

Probably the most beautiful of all the Psalms are those in which the note of thankfulness is uppermost—the Psalms of praise for what God has done, that call upon men to bless God for His goodness and wonderful works to the children of men, and that express the love of the Lord as the proper response of a thankful heart.

There is such a thing as saying "Please" to God. The Psalmists knew how to say it, as humble suppliants, and they knew how to say "Thanks."

As the Psalms offer us the rich substance of praise and thankfulness, they offer, too, the finest models in beauty of form and expression.

It is not a coincidence, but in frank recognition of this, that in so many churches the responsive readings are drawn from the Psalms.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

For years sportsmen have wondered about that strange phenomenon known to grouse-country inhabitants as the "wild flight" or "crazy flight" and now Byron Dalrymple thinks he knows what causes it. For some seasons that young outdoorsman-writer has been collecting bits and pieces of information about the sometimes crazy behavior of ruffed grouse.

It all started from this hunting episode: A bird came zooming across an open pasture. It was twisting and turning like a mourning dove, but the instant Dalrymple and his companion saw it they knew it was a grouse. It came barreling along, wing-tipped the top branches of one of three lonely trees in the field, and went into a wild spin that grounded it.

He got up, shook himself, walked around in circles, cheeping to himself and acting dazed. Then he took off straight up, spiraling himself into the branches in a most unprofessional manner. He finally teetered on a limb and sat right there looking at the hunters for 15 minutes or more, having difficulty keeping his balance.

As his years of grouse hunting went along, Dalrymple saw many more exhibitions of fantastic behavior by individual grouse. He never forgot what an old-timer had said: that it happened some falls, and some falls it didn't. That checked. The question, of course, was: Why? He suspected that the answer lay in something different about different seasons.

Before presenting his hypothesis, let me say that Dalrymple carefully considered the parasite, fall leaf and fall-shuffle theories and they didn't satisfy him.

Now for years he has made it a practice to take the crops out of birds as they are killed. It didn't take many seasons of observing to point up the fact that during one season the birds might be literally gorging on soft fruits, while during the next very little fruit might be in evidence. Why?

Simply because grouse will always take soft food, especially fruit, when it is available in preference to other foods. Some years, as any hunter knows, are excellent fruit years, and some are very poor. In checking crops of grouse that have killed themselves in wild flight, Dalrymple has never yet opened such a crop without being reminded of pulling the cork out of a bottle of wine. The wild-flight season comes exactly at the time when old fruit is beginning to ferment. Those grouse are loop-winged drunk!

Someday some grouse expert is going to test alcohol content of the fermented soft fruit in crops of grouse which have gone on flying benders, and analyze their blood. Until that time, I'll put my money on this theory that the wild flight is purely and simply a matter of unwitting tipping by Old Ruff.

WISTFUL VISTA—These three little "Huck Finns" seem ready to set off on a fishing expedition down some river, but the skyscrapers on the horizon give the lie to the illusion. Actually, the children are from the Children's Aid Society in New York, and are going fishing in Central Park.

Chimpanzees are generally regarded as the smartest of the apes, says the National Geographic Society. They can master simple arithmetic, apparently recognize photographs of themselves, and learn table manners including use of cup and saucer, knife and fork.

Watch Out For The Danger Years

Be careful of those critical years when habits are formed, warns The Better Vision Institute. Seeing habits, that is. For the process of seeing is an acquired art and skill, like dancing or playing the piano. We must learn to see.

And so it falls upon parents to be extremely observant and critical of their children's seeing activities during the early formative years when the visual patterns that will play a major part throughout life are established. For this is a seeing age. Never before in all history were so many critical tasks demanded of our eyes—those precious organs which are so little understood but so essential to practically all of our activities and achievements.

The eyes of a baby, at birth, are about two-thirds as large as they will be when, at the age of eight or nine, they reach their full growth. But right in the midst of the growing period, while his eyes are still immature and easily damaged, the child is tossed into the hopper of school life and required to concentrate his vision on printed words. This concentration is one of the most exacting tasks possible. So the parents of a five- or six-year-old must be careful not to put his young eyes to work on print or any other small objects, except for very brief periods.

Until the age of eight or nine, children are normally farsighted, because their eyeballs are too short from front to back and, consequently, the light rays which enter the eyes naturally come to a focus behind the retina. However, a youngster can force himself to see even small, close-up objects, since his eyes have a remarkable amount of "accommodation." That is, he can radically change the shape of the wonderful little lenses in his eyes, so that they bring light rays to a focus on the retina, or backscreens of the eyes, which are the real centers of sight. But changing the shape of the lenses, and holding it there, is hard work for the delicate ciliary muscles. Eyestrain and even permanent damage may result. So don't assume that your child is being perverse or showing a dislike for reading when he keeps glancing out of the window instead of fixing his gaze on the book. He may be saying, "My eyes are tired." Make sure that he does his reading with good light and big print as well as in moderate doses. He should hold the book at an angle, about 15 inches from his eyes, and should rest them frequently.

Occasionally in young children and more often in older ones, the eyeball is not too short but too long. This means that light rays focus in front of the retina and the child is nearsighted. In such a case, a pair of glasses for distant vision may be a wise investment.

School children are susceptible not only to farsightedness or nearsightedness but to astigmatism, a totally different eye condition. It usually results from a slight malformation of the cornea, or glassy "watch crystal" in front of the pupil, and is apt to cause trouble in doing close work. Fortunately, as a rule it can easily be corrected with spectacles.

Since the visual tests given by most schools are too cursory to be adequate, mothers should watch constantly for symptoms of eyestrain or seeing difficulty. To make sure of your child's visual well-being, take him to an eyesight specialist for an examination at the age of three or four, again on entering school, and at intervals during the school career. Summer is an ideal time for these examinations. When you are providing your child with clothes and equipment for the next term, make certain that his vision—the best tool of all—is good and sharp!

Test Well Water To Insure Safe Supply

During the past quarter century supervision of public water supplies has become so thorough and effective that urban populations have ceased to worry about the quality of the water they consume. Outbreaks of water-borne diseases traceable to pollution of municipal water sources are rare.

However, in most of our rural areas the family water supply comes from private wells, and the man who said there's many a slip 'twixt cup and lip was putting it mildly if he was referring to the things that can happen to a private well.

Pollution from various sources frequently contaminates private well water. Because this pollution is often hidden and unsuspected, the construction of safe wells is not a simple procedure. Every year hundreds of rural and suburban dwellers spend large sums of money for well construction and they have a right to ask, "How can I be sure of a safe well?"

Most of their troubles are due to faulty construction at the outset. Wisconsin has tried to assure a pure and lasting water supply for well owners by establishing a state well construction code. But there are at least a quarter million wells in our state which were constructed before the state code was enacted, and it is estimated that close to half of these are either permanently or periodically unsafe.

One way to eliminate risk is to contract with a registered well contractor to build or repair a well in conformity with the present code, with final payment for services rendered contingent upon compliance with the code.

A well that has been found safe cannot be guaranteed to remain so indefinitely, for the source of supply may at any time become contaminated by surface pollution due to natural or man-made causes. For this reason a well should be tested from time to time, and its superstructure watched carefully and kept in safe condition throughout the year.

Proper construction plus constant supervision of our wells will do much to assure pure water for each of us.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK — Nineteen-forty-nine is playing a return engagement. As has been noted here before some of the principal props of the postwar boom have lost their lifting power.

Inventory accumulation has ceased. As a result, wholesale buying of durables has fallen to and below retail demand levels. Housing demand, all over the country, has lost some of its urgency. Prices of stock, which capitalize estimates of future earnings, have declined.

For the immediate future, it is unlikely anyone will be badly hurt. Plants under way must be completed. Loans to business, which measure trade, have turned up from their summer let-down. The greatly increased postwar population must eat and be clothed.

Over a little longer term, the outlook is obscure. Lower current output will mean less plant building next year. Perhaps there will be a rebound in a year, perhaps in a shorter or longer time. The country will stay in business of maintaining an expanding population at a rising standard of living.

DISPERSING INDUSTRY — Railroads of the nation have offered to help with the task of dispersing American industry so as to offer fewer tempting targets. This has taken on more importance with verification that the Russians have at least an experimental hydrogen bomb.

"Railroads, particularly in the East, have a fund of knowledge about industry movements that is available to any businessman considering a plant shift," said David I. Mackie, chairman of the Eastern Railroad Presidents Conference, spokesman for 36 major Eastern railroads.

Mr. Mackie said he believed industrial dispersal, if it were undertaken, would be less of a problem in the United States than in any other major nation, because of the over-all excellence of this country's transportation system. He noted that all forms of transport—both the railroads and their competitors—were at peaks of efficiency today.

THINGS TO COME — Shelf paper that glues in place brings the glue up with it when peeled off, its maker claims. . . A transparent coating for chromework on automobiles is designed to halt pitting. . . Christmas gifts may come in bright plastic boxes which can be kept after emptying for use as containers. . . At last, an outdoor motor maker offers his wares in rubber mountings that damp that din. . . Plastic trombones, trumpets and clarinets will appear among Christmas novelties. They really play tunes.

SPUR FOR SALES — Several factors ganged up on the legal distillers of the nation this year to convince them the time had come for more aggressive advertising and merchandising efforts. The inflated $10.50 excise tax continued. Bootlegging under this shelter, increased. Tax-paid withdrawals of domestic aged whiskies dropped 12 million gallons in a single year.

One of the ideas for combating the sales slump was that of putting whiskey into decanters—always a popular holiday season promotion—at no advance in cost.

Schenley Distributors, Inc., packaged its fast-selling Schenley Reserve in this manner. Distributor orders for the four months remaining of this year have since risen to be four times as great as those for the corresponding period of 1952, even topping the brand's record sales in 1948.

NATURE'S BOUNTY — The end-of-August heat wave punished a large part of the country, but its blows were concentrated more where there were people than where there were crops. Except for some loss of milk production, which helped a little to ease the butter supply problem, major crops probably didn't suffer.

August estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics showed a prospective wheat crop of 1,169,000,000 bushels, and corn crop of 3,218,000,000 bushels. These are both down from July figures, but still high. Cotton, which thrives on heat, showed a condition gain that promises a 15,160,000-bale crop.

September is unlikely to cut these figures appreciably. Pressure will grow in Congress for some form of two-price system for dumping surpluses abroad, and the Eisenhower administration will face the embarrassment in 1954 of placing controls on three major crops.

BITS O' BUSINESS — Men are losing their vests keeping suit prices level. The saving in goods and labor offsets higher cloth prices and wages. Just before the two busiest days in years on the N.Y. Stock Exchange, the Exchange bought in a seat and retired it.

How to Start a Nail

AS MANY a youngster or amateur craftsman has learned by painful experience, there are several wrong ways of starting a nail. There also is a correct way, which will avoid smashed fingers.

In the illustrations by the National Safety Council, the wrong way is demonstrated in the upper two pictures, with the painful result if the nail slips. Rule 1 is to avoid holding the nail by the thumb and finger near the point of the nail.

If the thumb and finger are held near the head of the nail, as shown in the lower illustrations, the digits will be knocked out of the way and will escape injury even though the nail slips. Of course, avoid having the thumb and finger snug against the head of the nail, too; otherwise the hammer is likely to strike them as well as the head of the nail.

Kenny Institute Admitted Record Number of Patients in 1952

"It tugs the heart strings to go through Elizabeth Kenny Institute in Minneapolis, Minn."

A country weekly newspaper editor recently made this declaration at the start of a story, describing a visit to Kenny Institute, the Sister Elizabeth Kenny Foundation's polio treatment center for Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, North Dakota and South Dakota. Kenny Institute also is the Kenny Foundation's International Training Center for Kenny Therapists who administer the Kenny treatment for polio under medical supervision.

"One sees patients in all stages of the affliction," the editor continued. "It gets a bit weepy to watch children of tender years, trying courageously to learn to walk all over again, or even stand, and smiling happily at every bit of progress they make. They do want so much to be able to run and play as they did before they were stricken. Kindness seems to be the watchword, and there is a lot of loving care and attention everywhere."

With completion of a new wing and modernization of the existing structure at a cost of more than $600,000, Kenny Institute is rated as one of the largest, if not the largest, treatment centers for acute polio cases in the world. Associated with the Kenny medical staff are some of the leading specialists in physical medicine and orthopedics in the Midwest. The University of Minnesota has assigned University hospitals interns to Kenny Institute on a rotating plan for study of physical medicine.

The Institute is fully approved by the American College of Surgeons and is a member of the American Hospital association.

Setting an all-time high since Kenny Institute was established in 1942, more than 1,200 polio victims were admitted to the Institute in 1952. No charge is made for the Kenny treatment at Kenny Institute, and Kenny Therapist trainees are given intensive, two-year courses under scholarships provided by the Kenny Foundation.

To permit the Kenny Foundation to operate Kenny Institute and expand its Kenny Therapist training program, generous contributions are needed to the Kenny polio fund appeal now in progress.

Benefits to polio victims will multiply as the Kenny Foundation program is expanded. Give generously to the Kenny Foundation 1953 polio fund appeal.

CHILDREN'S SERVICE LETTER

APPEAL RETURNS COMING IN

Pictures of Sally and Sue appear on letters sent to residents by the local sponsoring committee of the Children's Service Society of Wisconsin. To cover its services to children this state-wide, non-sectarian agency depends on voluntary gifts.

Responses to letters sent out by the Washington County Sponsoring committee of the Children's Service Society of Wisconsin are coming in slowly according to Joseph Weninger, treasurer of the committee, Allenton State Bank, in Allenton.

No solicitation is being made in the cities of Hartford or West Bond where the agency is a participating member of the community chest.

Dr. Richard G. Edwards and Mrs. Charles Miller are local members of the society's sponsoring committee.

One phase of the society's program is casework service to the unmarried mother and her child. In order to give adequate service, the society gives preference to the younger unmarried mother and the unmarried mother coming early enough in her pregnancy to permit the working out of satisfactory plans for the mother and her child. The unmarried mother is given aid in arranging plans for confinement and in her relationship to her family, friends and the father of her baby, as well as direction for her own future, such as living plans or job possibilities.

Miss Margaret Winchell, executive director of the society, points out that much consideration must be given plans for the expected child and what the unmarried mother's decision, either to keep him or release him for adoption, will mean to her and him in her present as well as future life.
