

Louis Bath Home Totally Destroyed in $25,000-30,000 Fire Tuesday

In one of the most disastrous fires in the Kewaskum area in recent years, the spacious country home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bath, Sr. in the town of Auburn burned to the ground early Tuesday afternoon.

The house was completely destroyed down to the foundation. Burned out it were all of the furniture, household appliances, fixtures, clothing, personal effects and other contents, including antiques and valuables. Burned to death was the family dog, a black and tan fox terrier, which was a close pet of the Baths.

The only things saved in the fire were a few items of furniture removed by neighbors and spectators who arrived at the scene early and an amount of cash. Mr. Bath entered the home through a broken out window to remove the money from a drawer in a smoke filled, blazing room.

The Baths planned to leave for Florida either Tuesday or Wednesday. They were in Kewaskum

BATHS EXPRESS THANKS

Our thanks are extended to the members of the Kewaskum and Beechwood fire departments, the state forest department of the Mauthe lake area, and our neighbors for their response and assistance when our home was destroyed by fire Tuesday. We are especially grateful to the neighbors and state forest department for their help. All services rendered were deeply appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bath

Tuesday morning making final preparations. They left for their home to pack the rest of their things and when they arrived there about noon, they discovered the house to be on fire. The flames had already a good start.

They immediately drove to the closest neighbor, called the Kewaskum fire department and summoned the Mauthe lake fire equipment. The equipment and crew of men from nearby Mauthe lake arrived first and instantly went to work, aiding as much as possible. When the Kewaskum firemen reached the scene, smoke was pouring through the roof and walls of the house.

The fire had already spread through the house. The firemen used all of the water in their truck in an effort to check the blaze but to no avail. In the meantime the Mauthe lake tank pick-up truck hauled more water from the lake in hurried trips and emptied it into the local engine. Later the Beechwood firemen's tank truck arrived with another load of water and this also was siphoned into the engine and pumped on the flames.

But while fire fighters were getting the blaze somewhat under control in one place the flames raged in another. Finally the fire got out of hand and with no more water available at the moment the structure could not be saved.

Several firemen narrowly escaped possible serious injury when a chimney collapsed directly above them. Warning yells from other firemen gave them just time to jump out of the path of the mass of falling brick. Some firemen sustained scratches, bruises and burns. Mrs. Bath was taken to Kewaskum by Dr. R. G. Edwards. She suffered shock. Firemen remained at the scene for three hours, protecting other buildings, watching the fire, and cleaning up debris. Cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Since they purchased the property, Mr. and Mrs. Bath have continuously been remodeling and redecorating the building since 1951. A tremendous amount of work was put in the completely remodeled home. The interior was beautifully decorated in fashionable knotty pine and it contained modern fixtures, appliances and conveniences. The improvements had

Miss Browne Observes 25 Years of Teaching Here

Miss Margaret Browne, Kewaskum High school commercial teacher, this year is serving her twenty-fifth year of teaching in the school. A resident of Harvard, Ill., Miss Browne received her education at St. Joseph's grade school and Harvard Community High school in Harvard, Whitewater State college, and Gregg College in Chicago.

She then received her first teaching position at Boyd, Wis., remaining there for a year and then coming to Kewaskum. She has been here since. Many former students and graduates of the local high school came back to thank Miss Browne for the fine start she gave them while they were in school.

Miss Browne said she enjoys teaching here and it doesn't seem like 25 years.

Indians Win Over Oostburg, 74-52

After losing to West Bend and Cedar Grove, the Kewaskum Indians won their first non-conference tune-up game here Tuesday evening, downing Oostburg, 74-52, in easy fashion.

The defending Tri-County champions, Kewaskum was hard hit by graduation. Facing them against Oostburg was the only regular back from last year, Forward Russ Rodenkireh with 22 points. Other leading scorers were Center Koepke with 18 and Forward Klein with 17. Top man for Oostburg was Pen-Hacken with 11. Demunk and Mentink tallied 10 points each.

The Indians outscored their opponents in every quarter and led at halftime, 34-26. The contest was fairly close until the final period in which Kewaskum counted 26 markers to Oostburg's 14.

The Tri-County conference race got underway on Friday night of this week with Kewaskum traveling to North Fond du Lac, Lomira at Brandon, and Campbellsport at Rosendale. Next Tuesday night the Indians bump up against the veteran Campbellsport five, pre-season favorites to cop the title. The tilt will be played at Campbellsport, Oostburg 10 16 12 14-52 Kewaskum 15 19 14 26-74

Emil Ramel Dies

Emil Ramel, 86, a resident of the village of Kewaskum for the past 26 years, died late Thursday afternoon, Dec. 3, at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meisenheimer. The body will be in state at Miller's Funeral home from 10:30 a. m. Sunday to 11 a. m. Monday and at St. Lucas Ev. Lutheran church from 12 noon to 2:00 p. m. Monday, the time of services.

Father of K. Wm. Haebig Succumbs

Charles J. Haebig, 72, 139 N. 8th ave., West Bend, well known businessman and bowling enthusiast, died at St. Joseph's hospital in that city early Tuesday morning, Dec. 1. Mr. Haebig suffered a stroke at about 5 o'clock Sunday evening while bowling with his sons. He was taken to the hospital for treatment, but did not regain consciousness.

Mr. Haebig was born at Appleton on Aug. 16, 1881, and married Kathryn Cotter in that city in 1909. In 1905 the couple moved to West Bend, Mr. Haebig opening a tailor shop. In 1928, at the time his son, Raymond, joined him in business, Mr. Haebig added the dry cleaning service. Another son, Robert, joined him in business in 1931.

Mr. Haebig held membership in the Knights of Columbus, Catholic Order of Foresters, and the West Bend Chamber of Commerce. He was a member of the board of trustees of the Washington County Institutions, a former trustee of Oak Sanitarium, Pewaukee, and served the Wisconsin Bowling association as honorary president during 1951 and 1952.

Surviving are five children, Raymond, Dorothy, Robert, Margaret (Mrs. Joseph O'Meara, Jr.), of West Bend, and Assemblyman K. William Haebig of Kewaskum; nine grandchildren, and a brother, Edward Haebig, of Waupaca. Mrs. Haebig died April 20, 1929.

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Friday morning at the Kapfer-Gehl funeral home in West Bend and at 9:30 at Holy Angels church, the Rt. Rev. Megr. Edward Stelling officiating. Interment was in Holy Angels cemetery.

LAND OF LAKES STANDINGS (Northern Division)

WON LOST KEWASKUM 1 0 West Bend 1 0 Horicon 1 0 Mayville 0 0 Port Washington 0 0 Fond du Lac 0 1 Rosendale 0 1 Brandon 0 1 Scores Sunday—Kewaskum 78, Fond du Lac 74; West Bend 71, Rosendale 59; Horicon 61, Brandon 55; Port Washington vs. Mayville (postponed).

The Kewaskum Chevrolets got off to a good start in their opening Lakes game here Sunday night against Fond du Lac but had to come from far behind and play one of the fightingest contests of their career to come out on top, 78-74. Kewaskum is defending champion in the circuit.

The Chevs really had their hands full with the crack Fond du Lac team. The visitors, with a very big squad that was taller than Kewaskum by far, have such famous basketball names as Lautenschlager, Raschid and McTrusty in their lineup. They come from basketball families.

The big Fondy team got off to a flying start and played Kewaskum police speedometer, snow tires on rear wheels, spare tire, and blow-out proof tubes in all tires.

They dropped in 21 points in the frame compared to Fondy's 29 and the count was 55-49. The visitors rallied back in the final quarter for 25 buttons to Kewaskum's 29 but fell short by four points at the final whistle.

It was a very exciting tilt to watch and a big crowd witnessed the contest. Facing the Chevrolets in victory were the Tassar brothers, Wayland and Johnny, who scored 24 and 23 points respectively. Stautz, who played a whirlwind floor game, added 16, Augie Bilgo 12, and Fred Engel 3. Johnny started slow but showed his form of old in the last three periods. Wayland played one of his best games. The big guns for Fond du Lac were Jed Raschid with 29 points, Adams with 16 and Lautenschlager with 14. Raschid and Lautenschlager are a couple of sharp-shooting guards. Allen Tassar and Ellie Ramfium were missing from the Kewaskum team. They were gone deer hunting.

Fond du Lac 15 13 20 26 74 Kewaskum 7 20 31 20 78

The Kewaskum Land of Rivers team also started the season off on the right foot with an easy 61-44 win over Slinger Sunday. The locals led all the way and outscored the visitors in every period, increasing their margin as the tilt progressed.

The Rivers squad has been greatly strengthened and has a lot of height this season with the addition of George Hanrahan, Don Meisenheimer and Leroy Keller, stars of last year's high school title winning team. Hanrahan was the top scorer for the night with 23 points, followed by Meisenheimer with 17. These hook shooting artists couldn't be stopped by Slinger, Wolf with 16 and Kratz with 13 paced the losers.

Kewaskum was ahead at the half, 32-24. Other local scoring was done by Syl Hawig with 8 points, Leroy Keller 6, Bob Dreher 4, Merlin Seefeldt and Lloyd Keller 3 apiece.

Two Young Men Are Hurt in Accidents

A Mr. Schultz from Mayville, whose first name was not obtainable, sustained a broken knee cap and cuts on his face in a traffic accident early Tuesday morning on Highway 28, two miles west of Kewaskum.

The young man was on his way home from work at Regal Ware, Inc. in Kewaskum, where he is employed on the night shift. He lost control of his car, which ran into a ditch, careened back onto the highway, rolled over and skidded on its top.

Sylvester A. Herriges, 31, of R. 2, Kewaskum, received head lacerations but escaped serious injury in an accident Wednesday night, Nov. 25, at the Highway 45 overhead bridge just north of Kewaskum. Brief mention of the mishap was made last week.

Herriges was traveling south on the road when his car hit an icy spot and went out of control. The auto swerved across the highway to the east side and rolled down the embankment. The 1949 model car was extensively damaged. Herriges was taken to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, in the firemen's ambulance but was released the next day.

WOMAN'S CLUB PLANS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

The Woman's club has planned its annual Christmas party and regular meeting for three o'clock p. m., December 12, at the Library building.

A stimulating story of "The Other Wise Man," under the direction of Mrs. R. G. Kroncke, will be presented by members of the club. Mrs. N. W. Held is narrator, and other participants who will pantomime the story are Mmes. K. W. Koopke, D. N. Koerbie, J. L. Raschbacher, A. M. Hron, R. T. Kautz, P. N. Landmann, F. E. Nolting, T. J. Illinois Man is Seriously Hurt in Fall at Hotel

William Cunningham, 66, of 441 Addison Ave., Elmhurst, Ill., was seriously injured when he fell down a stairway at the Republican Hotel in Kewaskum at about 10:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Cunningham, in company with Steve Johnson of Villa Park, Ill., had stopped off at the hotel to spend the night while enroute to Green Bay. While Johnson remained in the hotel lobby, Cunningham left to retire and was shown to his room by the hotel proprietor.

About a half hour later a thudding sound was heard in the lobby. The noise came from the rear of the hotel and those present went to investigate. They found Cunningham had fallen down an open stairway on the second floor and landed on top of a clothes mangle on the first floor, according to Chief of Police Jerry Guttman. He was found out and bleeding in an unconscious condition with his head under the machine.

Police and a physician were summoned and the man was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, in the firemen's ambulance. He suffered fractured ribs, a punctured lung and possible skull fracture. He regained semi-consciousness Thursday at the hospital but was reported to be in serious condition.

Cunningham is a justice of the peace and is engaged in the insurance business in Elmhurst. It is believed that he had retired for the night. Apparently he left his room to go to the bathroom when he fell down the stairway.

LARK BUNTING

LARK BUNTING
©1953 National Wildlife Federation

Here is a sparrow that even the rank amateur will recognize as being out of the ordinary run of sparrows. About 7½ inches long with a wing-spread of 11½ inches and a tail 3½ inches, it could be classed as larger than a Song Sparrow and smaller than a Towhee. The male in breeding plumage looks more like a small blackbird or maybe one might say a sparrow-sized blackbird. The male has large white wing patches. In the fall months the male, female and young are brown with striped breasts and white wing patches. The bird weighs about one ounce, which is more than a Junco weighs.

The Lark Bunting has been found all the way across the continent from the Pacific Coast to Massachusetts but in spite of this it is essentially a bird of the West. It appears regularly and in good abundance in breeding season from southern Alberta to southwestern Manitoba south to eastern New Mexico, northwestern Texas, eastern Nebraska and west central Minnesota. East of this area it is more or less accidental. The winter months are spent south of southern Texas, southern Arizona on to Sonora and southern Lower California.

In all its range it is essentially a bird of the open plains rather than of the wooded areas. In its natural habitat it feeds on the seeds of weeds, grass and grain and on grasshoppers, beetles and weevils. In some instances it has been noted that 78 per cent of the food may be grasshoppers so there is little doubt about the usefulness of the bird under these circumstances.

The bird has won popularity enough in part of its range to have been selected as the State Bird of Colorado. This is probably not due to any recognition of its importance because at times it may harm growing grain. Rather the bird offers an appeal because of its appearance. The fact that it destroys great quantities of Russian thistle seeds is of course to its credit but no matter how much of a surplus the bird might destroy there still would be enough left over to assure survival of Russian thistle.

The nest is built on the ground, often sunk into the ground. It is made of grasses and is lined with down, fine hair and fine dried grasses. In the nest the female lays 4 to 5 eggs each weighing about 1/10 ounce. The eggs are light greenish blue rarely sprinkled with reddish brown spots. There may be two annual broods but this is not always the case. After the nesting period the male loses the black appearance which makes him look like a white-winged blackbird.

I lived in Iowa many years studying birds without ever seeing one of these interesting birds. Yet when a few years later I spent some months west of Nebraska, I got to know them well. Only this year friends of mine reported seeing them east of my home in New York State. I envy them the opportunity they had but am looking forward to returning to the part of the continent where Lark Buntings are an everyday occurrence.

Recommended Pole Shed For Dairy Farm

By County Agent Fred Evert
Has your dairy herd outgrown the barn?

Many a Wisconsin farmer has improved his breeding, feeding, and management program in the last ten years to where the herd is literally busting at the seams in the dairy barn.

If construction cost seems painfully expensive to you this fall, here's an idea for a big, but low-cost addition to the dairy barn area.

Stan Witzel, U. of Wis. farm engineer, recommends a pole-type shed. The shed is made with pressure-treated poles set in the ground. Pressure-treated planking on the sides is used near the ground.

Witzel says the pressure treated poles will last 30 to 50 years. He spaces poles 15' x 16' so a man can work around them for any cleaning operation.

The shed can be used for a dozen or more things—housing young stock, stacking hay or bedding, storing machinery, or even for cover when early farrowing time comes around.

The shed will cost anywhere from 50¢ a square foot up to $1.35 depending on how much farm lumber or farm labor you use in building.

He recommends putting up the shed at least 50 feet from the dairy barn and in a direction away from prevailing winds for fire safety. The shed will need good drainage.

In most parts of Wisconsin one side of the shed can be left open, but Burnett County farmers will probably want to plan the building so that all sides can be closed. Seasoned, thrifty cattle don't need the warm temperature, and a cold barn doesn't need so much bedding.

Plans for a pole shed and other farm buildings can be obtained from County Agent Fred Evert at Webster.

The amberjacks is considered a good food fish.—Sports Afield.

DETAILS FOR BRICK VENEER GARAGE

If you intend on building your own garage, it is a good idea to consult your local building code restrictions regarding rat wall construction. If there are no restrictions, the rat wall should be 24" below the surface of the ground for your own protection.

The brick veneer garage, however requires a cement footing to carry the load of the brick and framework. This footing should be below frost level. It should also be below fresh fill which is apt to settle. See Illustration.

The footing should be wider at the bottom than at the top. Also note that the footing for the brick need only be 4" wide at the top.

The curb extending above the floor level is to keep the sill dry and prevent rot.

Anchor the sills to the curb by means of bolts set into the cement.

Leave a ledge on the inside wall below the floor level. This is to serve as a shelf when the floor is poured.

If you intend to use brick above the doorway, you will need either an I beam, or a 4" angle iron, to carry the load. The flange on the iron must be wide enough that brick may be laid on it.

When you buy the beam or iron, give the steel company the length of the span and the number of brick to be supported. They will tell you the size you need.

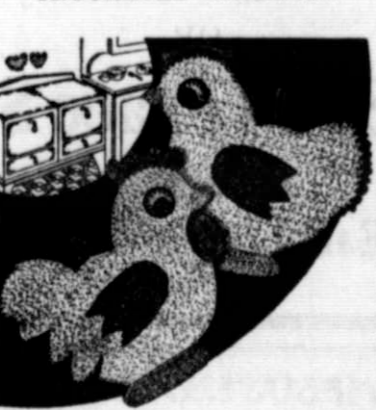

Some people prefer to use wood construction above the doorway of the garage. It saves the cost of the steel and makes construction much simpler for the beginner.

PART I THE TERRIBLE TEENS

So many questions have been received recently in regard to teenagers and how to "take" them, suppose we start by trying to answer some of the most frequent ones:

1. Why Are Teen-Agers So Hard to Live With?

Well, the answer is that they are hard for themselves to live with. They don't really know what they want. They are in an in-between stage: they are going through what amounts to a second resistance phase. The first one was between the ages of one and three, when they said "No" to everything, remember? What they are really trying to do now in their teens is to prove themselves. They are experimenting with life. They are still mighty unsure of themselves, but don't say that they are not trying to give proof of their great sureness, by asserting themselves.

Teen-agers aren't "all of a piece." They are going through an uneven, spotty process of growing up. What strikes us is the incongruity between their bold claims to maturity, on the one hand, and their running to Mom and Dad for comfort, help and sympathy, on the other.

2. Why Are Teen-Agers So Much Worse Today?

The answer is that they are not. Every age has special problems, and it has always been hard for one generation to understand the other. And don't think that the misunderstanding is necessarily a one-way street. Far from it! The difficulties run in both directions. We oldsters seem to have forgotten completely how we reacted when we were in our teens. And the youngsters can't imagine that they will ever have such old-fogey notions as their parents seem to be cursed with. Mr. and Mrs. Tomkins may look at their Teddy and exclaim in despair: "Well, youngsters are just different nowadays"—but they are not.

3. What Is It That Teen-Agers Need? What Are They After?

First and foremost, they need understanding. They need understanding of their need for freedom; of their need for companionship with each other; of their need to feel secure. They have to learn to take responsibility and to face reality. And don't let anyone tell you that that's a small order!

The teen-ager is as uncertain of himself as he is of his voice. He thinks it is coming out nice and low and well-modulated, and off it goes high up on an undignified squeak! He puts on a great show of bravado and self-assurance, but deep down inside, he has a great sense of insecurity, and is just plain scared. That explains his playing Mr. Big, his overacting his recklessness, his speeding with the family car, his staying out late.

COOKIE CRISP PASTRY FOR YOUR HOLIDAY PIE

Are you baking a pie to celebrate a holiday — or just because pie is so good? This year, try a really sensational pastry — sweet, crisp and flakey light with baking soda. Perfect for pumpkin, mince, or any fruit pies, as well as your favorite chiffon mixtures.

SPICY SODA PASTRY

- 2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1/4 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 tablespoon vinegar
- 3 tablespoons orange juice or other citrus fruit juice

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening. Mix vinegar and fruit juice together and add to dry ingredients. Mix lightly with fork. Chill 1 hour. Roll out 1/4 of dough into circle. Line 9" pie pan, making a high standing rim. Flute by pressing between forefinger of one hand and thumb and forefinger of other. Fill and bake as desired. (For shell alone, bake at 425° F., hot oven, 10 minutes.) Use remainder of pastry for topping a deep-dish pie, cinnamon roll-ups or tarts.

Today cranberries are just as popular as they were in the 1880's when cranberry picking was a social event. Try these recipes, you'll find them delicious.

Cranberry Sherbert

- 2 cups water
- 4 cups cranberries
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 cup strained orange juice
- 6 tablespoons strained lemon juice

Bring water to boil, add cranberries. Simmer without stirring about 5 minutes. Press through a fine sieve. Soften gelatin in cold water, add with sugar to cranberries. Stir over low heat until sugar and gelatin are dissolved. Cool. Add orange juice and lemon juice. Pour in refrigerator tray and freeze until mushy. Remove from tray to cold bowl; beat with rotary beater until pink and fluffy. Return to tray and freeze until firm.

Cranberry Relish

- 1 quart cranberries
- 1 large orange
- 4 medium sized tart apples
- 4 cups sugar

Grind raw cranberries, unpeeled orange and apples through a fine food grinder. Mix well with sugar and allow to stand 24 hours before using. This will keep indefinitely.

From Thatched Hut to Brick Dwelling

The young gentleman from El Salvador, hands in pockets, looks on approvingly as his father helps move the new furniture into their new home, one of 250 specially-designed new houses built by the government with the help of the specialized agencies of the United Nations. The housing project is part of a community development plan designed to better the living and working conditions of some 100,000 such valley dwellers in El Salvador.

The American Dairy Association of Wisconsin is directed by dairy farmers. Members of the executive committee, who meet between regular board meetings to approve all expenditures and to act on immediate determination of policy, are pictured above. Seated, left to right, are Homer Melvin, Glenbeulah, Lyman D. McKee, Route 3, Madison, Joseph Niemer, Plainfield, Standing, left to right, are Albert Hansen, Black River Falls; Arnold Agnew, Milton Junction; and Edward Kaderly, Juda. Arthur Trebilcock, Madison, is the seventh member of the committee. All the committee members, except Niemer and Trebilcock, are actively engaged in dairy farming, the other two being dairy plant operators.

SALT OF THE EARTH—Sea-water wells make a pleasing pattern on this salt "farm" near Okayama, Japan. Here, oriental workers obtain salt by the most primitive method, collecting sea-water in the wells and then, when the water has evaporated, scraping the light crust of salt off the earth. The process is dependent upon warm sun and light rainfall.

WHAT MAKES DOGGIE RUN?—That's what little Judy Boatman is learning as Harry Miller explains to her some of the features of "Vesta," the world's first transparent dog. Miller, director of the Gaines Dog Research Center of New York, which developed the plastic model, is helped in his lecture by Vesta, who was equipped by Cleveland, Ohio, electronics experts with an intricate sound system which enables her to "talk" about herself for several minutes, each of her organs lighting up as it is mentioned. Constructed by Deutsches Gesundheits Museum in Cologne, Germany, Vesta will soon tour many leading cities in the U. S. Every detail of her body, including internal organs and muscular system, is faithfully reproduced in plastic. Modeled after a female Great Dane, Vesta is life-sized, being 5 1/2 feet long and 3 1/2 feet high.

THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

To keep fingernails well groomed with colored polish requires an hour a week and touch up time in between, says Betty Ann. If you just cannot find the time for this type of manicure, then don't attempt it at all.

Save color polish for special occasions, and for everyday concentrate on keeping your fingernails spotlessly clean and neatly filed. You might use a colorless polish. It takes only a minute to apply, and does not present such a ghastly picture when it chips.

But no matter how hard you work or play, you can keep your fingernails attractive. Use a brush to clean them morning and night. During the day remove bits of dirt with an orange stick or by rubbing a bit of facial tissue under the nails.

Very long fingernails are not fashionable. They are ugly. File your nails to moderate length.

Many older women manage to retain the youthful beauty of their faces only to have their necks tell the age story. Of course, the reason is obvious.

Most girls start at an early age to pamper their faces, but give no thought to their necks.

When the results appear somewhere along in the forties, a woman can make up for lost time with diligent effort. But why tolerate even the first signs of an unattractive, old looking neck at any time?

It's the old story of an ounce of prevention being worth a pound of cure.

Your ounce of prevention should consist in nightly creaming, good posture and a couple of simple exercises. After you have applied your night cream to your face, extend your massage to include the neck, smoothing the cream on gently. Learn to hold your head erect at all times so that no tendency to sagging will develop.

You can exercise the muscles of the lower jaw by throwing your head back, jutting out your lower teeth and opening and closing the jaws so that you feel a pull on the muscles under the chin.

To strengthen the neck muscles, lie on your back with a pillow under your shoulders, and arms folded across chest. Raise and lower your head slowly without moving shoulders.

With the narrow silhouette in fashion, this is the season of all seasons to take care of your foundation garments so they can do the streamlining job they were designed to do. Suits them frequently, for the garment fits better when it's been laundered, just as your hose fit better right after you've washed them.

The very life of the elasticized fabrics in foundation garments depends on cleanliness and proper care. Body oils and body cosmetics are hard on the threads and tend to deteriorate them. Some women have the mistaken idea that frequent washing is injurious to elasticized garments. The truth of the matter is, frequent washings are necessary to keep garments in good condition!

Always use lukewarm soapsuds and lukewarm rises, and handle them gently. Squeeze or blot out moisture, and don't wring or twist your foundation garment if you value its life. You may hang it to dry over the shower rod or a towel rack, but never over a rack that has sharp edges! And let it dry at room temperature, away from direct heat.

Here's a vegetable relish to go with hamburgers on toasted buns. Mix finely shredded cabbage and onion together; add chopped onion, green pepper and sweet pickles. Season with salt, pepper, sugar and vinegar.

Orange Cranberry Muffins
1/4 cup shortening; 1/4 cup sugar; 2 eggs well beaten; 2 cups sifted all purpose flour; 5 teaspoons baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon grated orange peel; 2/3 cup fresh orange juice; 2/3 cup whole cranberry sauce, drained.

Cream together shortening and sugar. Stir in well beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Add dry ingredients and grated peel to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice. Blend thoroughly. Fill greased muffin tins one-third full, making a hole in the center of the batter. Put in one teaspoonful of cranberry sauce, then fill tins with more batter until two-thirds full. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, for about 30 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 12 muffins.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

Every year millions of people suffer with itching, swelling and blisters of poison. There have even been cases where, when left untreated, the victim has suffered prostration and death. The poison oak of the Pacific States has similar effects.

There are many different cures but none of them are completely satisfactory. The best policy is prevention. The first step in this direction is knowing poison ivy when you see it. (I know of several cases where a poison ivy vine was cultivated in a garden.)

Poison ivy can grow as a vine on ground cover or a shrub. When the bush or vine becomes well established, it may grow stiff branches, four or five feet long. The three-parted leaves are perhaps the surest way to identify it.

When poison ivy climbs a tree, it usually develops a rope-like stem covered with rootlets. It will often be large to put your hand around—a thing you certainly would not want to do, as the rootlets can poison the same as the foliage.

There are a number of ways to identify poison ivy. Three leaves, a high sheen with small variation in the edges of the leaves is a start. Learn how the leaves darken through the season. This is most important as there are numbers of non-poison vines similar in appearance to poison ivy but they keep their same shade of green coloring through the season.

Dipped Potato Chips Assure Tasty Party

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

IT'S fun to dip potato chips into tempting dips. Just set a large bowl of crisp potato chips in the center of a low table and around it place several smaller bowls of dips. Here are three very good dip recipes:

Chili Dip (Makes about 2 cups)

One cup sieved baked beans (1 one-pound can); 2 tablespoons minced onion; 1 teaspoon dill seeds or 1/4 cup chopped dill pickle; 1/2 teaspoon chili sauce; 1 teaspoon chili powder; dash pepper; 2 chopped, hard-cooked eggs; salt to taste. Combine all ingredients and chill until needed.

Chicken Liver-Mushroom-Scallion Dip (Makes about 1 1/4 cups)

Three quarters cup chopped, sauteed chicken livers; 1/2 cup chopped, sauteed mushrooms; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon pepper; 1/2 cup minced scallions, tops and all; 2 tablespoons chili sauce; 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce; about 1/4 cup mayonnaise. Combine all ingredients. Add a bit more mayonnaise if necessary to make mixture of dipping consistency.

Blue Cheese Dip (Makes about 1 cup)

One quarter pound blue cheese, crumbled; 1/2 cup chili sauce; 2 tablespoons mayonnaise; 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt; 1/4 cup chopped parsley; 2 tablespoons minced onion. Combine all ingredients. Blend well and chill until serving time.

We had a request for a really different turkey dressing. This looks like it.

Devised Ham Turkey Dressing (Makes enough stuffing for 1 small turkey)

Three cups dry bread crumbs, 1 cup chopped walnut meats, 3 eggs, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1 cup diced apple, teaspoon of thyme or sage, 2 cans (2 1/4 ounces) deviled ham. Mix coarse dry crumbs with chopped nuts. Stir in eggs, celery and apples. Add seasoning. Additional seasonings may be added if desired. Blend in deviled ham.

Potato chips and bowls of savory dips make a party a sure success.

Note: If you have a favorite poultry stuffing recipe, try adding 1 or 2 cans of deviled ham to the basic ingredients, depending on the quantity of bread or crumbs used. Deviled ham adds a deliciously different flavor to bread and other stuffings.

Bible Comment:

Scriptures Stress Need for Citizens To Perform Duties

THE religion of Israel was a mass religion, always emphasizing God's choice and call to the nation as a whole.

But this emphasis did not in any way minimize the importance of the individual and the soundness of his character and conduct.

This has a distinct bearing upon our modern democracy, which in a way is a mass affair. We think of democracy often, perhaps too often, as consisting in popular suffrage and the rule of the majority.

However, the vote of a majority never in itself made anything right. The true essence of democracy is self-rule.

When the rule of kings is discarded, it is the individual who becomes king, and if he abdicates democracy may become a very sorry affair.

Is not our greatest weakness today the fact that so many citizens fail to exercise their prerogatives and privileges, to say nothing of their duty?

The Old Testament made plain one's place and duty as a member of society. There was the terrible example of Achan, who, in an hour of victory, stole a Babylonian garment and bars of silver. Profiteering Achan in their country's hour of danger have not been lacking in recent history.

National righteousness, to the Psalmist, meant justice. Conceptions of right and judgment were at the heart of all relationships. As the individual was responsible for his personal integrity, those who ruled, that is society, were responsible for rights, liberties and fair dealing.

It is the sense of right and judgment that we most need today. It is in the moral foundations that modern societies are weakest.

Too many issues are settled, not upon the basis of what is right and fair, but upon the power of individuals or groups to enforce their will. This would not be the case if we would recognize our duties to society.

Child Immunization "Health Insurance"

With the polio season now on the wane, it's time parents gave thought to some of the other childhood diseases. Many cases of illness could be prevented, and recovery from others hastened, if parents would only take time to familiarize themselves with the ordinary diseases of childhood.

To take advance action against the preventable diseases, parents should have their children immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus, and vaccinated against smallpox. Though luckily, deaths from these diseases are becoming less and less common in Wisconsin, when the "grim reaper" does strike, its victims are almost always infants or very young children. Thus immunization during the early months of babyhood is "health insurance" all parents should purchase for their children. Following this initial protection, additional shots called "boosters" are also needed through childhood for defense against these diseases.

Almost all children are susceptible to diphtheria if they have not been inoculated against it. For this reason, every child should receive immunizing injections before he is six months old. A booster may be recommended when

Flattering Fall and Winter Clothes To Please The Man In Your Life

Dress up for the man in your life whether you two are just home alone, waiting for company or going out on the town. For at home, pick pants or skirts— whichever flatters you — says Estelle Lane Brent, Fashion Editor of McCall's Magazine. Make the colors gay and be comfortable she continues, and describes several costumes that will help you look your best for "him" at all times this fall and winter:

"Select a jeweled silk shantung shirt and flared velveteen skirt by Charles of Haymaker. You will look elegant anywhere in a wool and rabbit's-hair jersey blouse, satin-bound and a huge circular satin skirt lined with matching taffeta—by Mary Blair of Arle.

"For pixie brightness and comfort choose an all denim outfit—a Roman-striped circular skirt, tapered pants and sleeveless cardigan blouse by Peg Palmer. Another pants combination that's bound to please has daisies embroidered on wool tweed treader pants and a rib-knit sweater. A Greta Platry design, it is both pretty and warm.

"Bright peasant embroidery outlined in gold borders a white felt skirt by Carolyn Schnurer. The wrapped blouse is matte jersey. You will look sophisticated and be comfortable in velveteen trousers, a cotton shirt with French cuffs and a long-sleeved black jersey, all by Cynthia for Gordon Peters.

"Dress up for him when he takes you out. Look glamorous as a French cafe in a printed wool. It has the new rounded hip and bust line, a tiny waist cinched with a contour belt, and is designed by Mildred Orrick of Janice Milan.

"Look brisk as an October day in this perfect dress for a football game. Designed by David Crystal it is of wool and rabbit's-hair fabric with a smart round neck and interesting yoke detail. Look trim as his streamlined car in a wool jersey dress with a high turtle neck by Will Saunders of Gross-Sydney.

"Pat Warren of Nantucket Naturals makes you look feminine as a flirtatious glance in a figure-molding wool jersey dress with satin piping. Look slim as an arrow in a braided-trimmed wool crepe coat dress by Kane Weill. It has a wide collar on the becoming low neckline."

What's Eating You Cause More Ulcers Than What You Eat

Stomach trouble, more often than not, begins in your head. You don't get stomach ulcers from what you eat, but from what's eating you.

We may die of what we eat and drink, but more often we die of what we think and feel. In a world where our watchwords are speed, snap, and crowded moments, our bywords are oftentimes breakdowns and crackups. It is not the amount of work we do, but the pressure and strain under which we work that does the harm.

More than one in ten at one time or another during life suffers from ulcers of the stomach and duodenum. Certainly it is no wonder that stomach ulcers have shown a remarkable increase in recent years. Hurried, irregular meals, uncontrolled and excessive use of alcohol or tobacco, lack of exercise and relaxation—in addition to the stress, strain, and worry of our civilized life—all contribute to bigger and better stomach ulcers.

The primary symptom of an ulcer is abdominal pain which is usually relieved by food, only to return again when the stomach empties itself. The pain is always felt when digestive juices work on the lining of the stomach or duodenum. Actually ulcers are little holes that develop in this soft mucous lining. The hole develops when the lining loses its ability to protect itself from digestive juices.

Nervous tension is not the cause of all peptic ulcers, but it plays a part in a good many cases. Your emotions are definitely linked with the flow of digestive juices in your stomach. Sometimes physicians will treat ulcers that stem from tension by using a drug which helps reduce some of the nervous impulses to the stomach.

But cure of such ulcers cannot depend entirely on drugs or diet. A cure most often depends upon removing the causes of nervous tension, changing our attitudes towards the causes of continued worry, and just plain slowing down.

Sports Afield

By Ted Kesting

Within the last half century, hunting has become a mass pastime to a greater extent than ever before in this country. Likewise, sport fishing has increased by leaps and bounds. Along with this increase, there is much evidence to indicate a decline in the average level of sportmanship.

This decline in standards of conduct among sportsmen is a serious matter writes Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson in his forthcoming book "Wildlife Management." Dr. Gabrielson is president of the Wildlife Management Institute and formerly was head of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

He remarks that there are many different opinions as to what constitutes good sportmanship, but all definitions should include some, if not most, of the following:

Shoot only when the game is clearly visible. Observance of this rule would eliminate many of the fatal hunting accidents that occur each year.

Shoot only when game is within range. Every man who goes into the field with a gun should know accurately its range and pattern.

Shoot only at individual targets. Don't shoot blindly into a flock of birds. If the majority of gunners would follow this practice, crippling losses could be greatly reduced.

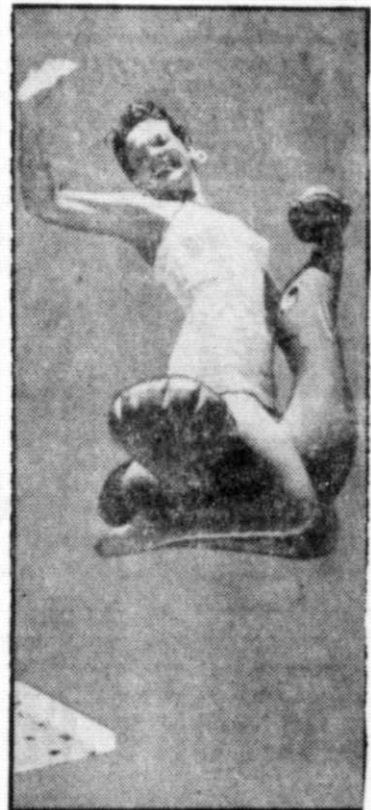

Take only what can be used. Too many sportsmen like to play Santa Claus by bringing home game or fish to distribute to their friends. Too often the gifts promptly find their way into the garbage can.

Don't be a limit hound. Give the game more than an even break. Those who handicap themselves by self-imposed rules have many thrilling memories which are denied those who measure success by the number of kills.

Practice the golden rule toward your fellow sportsmen and landowners. Land posted against hunting and fishing is the normal reaction to the ignorance, boorishness and stupidity, not to mention criminality of those who cut fences, trample crops, shoot livestock, and sprinkle farm families and homes with shot in their selfish anxiety to get the last possible individual bird and animal.

Sportsmen themselves have taken the lead in pushing legislation designed to conserve wildlife. Unfortunately many fish and game officials have been too busy with fascinating new problems to realize that certain basic necessities such as law enforcement have been neglected. Selling higher standards of sportmanship to those who buy licenses would bring great returns in better-satisfied hunters, and at the same time lessen the difficulties of managing wildlife resources.

Using a Hand Saw

HERE are some good tips about using a hand saw. They were prepared by the National Safety Council.

1. Keep the saw sharp, teeth properly set and clean.
2. Use a cross-cut saw for cutting across the grain, a rip saw with the grain.
3. Start the cut with two long slow pulls up, guiding with the thumb. (See drawing.) Then get the hand away and go ahead.
4. To prevent sticking, keep the blade true with the cut. In wet or gummy wood a little oil or paraffin may help.
5. Don't "ride" the saw. If it doesn't cut well, it may need sharpening or setting.
6. If you use one knee to steady the work, watch your balance.
7. Saw teeth can make a worse cut than a sharp knife. Handle with care.

Fatigue Often Caused By Strain & Stress of Poor Body Alignment

How you sit at work, stand in a bus, open a window, or lift a bag of groceries can have an important bearing on your health and energy as well as your looks. Good posture often goes hand in hand with good health.

Despite the astonishing array of labor saving appliances, ranging from washing machines to automobiles, most people keep complaining about feeling tired. One important reason is that they do not use correctly the body appliances with which they were born.

Our body, like any well constructed "machine," works best when all of the parts are in proper relationship. Stresses and strains from poor body alignment during everyday activity are known causes of fatigue. Aches and pains caused by chronic poor posture may be eliminated by posture exercise, along with the use of well designed furniture.

People are a lot of pounds of assorted tissues, muscles, and organs draped on a structure of bones. Holding that combination in balance is a lot of work for the bone framework, but when the structure is used properly it is designed to support the body with the least muscular effort.

Poor posture, the slump and the slouch, puts a strain on the semi-rigid points, especially those in the spine, for which they were not intended. Their protest against such abuse is shown by pain and the resultant "tired feeling."

When sitting be certain you have a good support at your back with your feet resting on the floor without the feeling of seeking the floor. Long periods of sitting are tiring, so change your position from time to time. Standing in one place for long periods is also fatiguing. Change your weight by rocking forward or backward or from side to side. And even when lying down a firm mattress on sagless springs will give necessary support to your body.

Good posture, or good body mechanics, is a matter of thinking about it in daily duties and during relaxation. Better health, good appearance, a feeling of composure, and a saving of energy are among the awards of good posture.

Gen. Ridgeway Promises Unqualified Support To Men & Women Of Army

General Matthew B. Ridgeway

Washington—General Matthew B. Ridgeway addressed the following message to men and women of the Army after he was sworn in as Army Chief of Staff:

"TO THE MEN AND WOMEN OF THE ARMY:

"Upon being sworn in as Chief of Staff, United States Army, I thought it appropriate to address brief remarks to the small group of distinguished guests present at the ceremony. In fact, however, I was speaking not to them alone but also to all of you—both in and out of uniform—wherever you may be stationed. The remarks were these:

"When the President transmitted to the Congress his plan for reorganizing the Defense Department, which plan has since become law, he emphasized two essential objectives—the maintenance of democratic institutions and the protection of the integrity of the military profession.

"The first is clear. It means, in my case, service under the direct personal command of a distinguished civilian of highest integrity, Secretary Stevens, and through him under another great American patriot of highest character, Secretary Wilson.

"Today, more than ever, our future depends on the moral stature of those clothed with great authority. We are very fortunate to have these civilian commanders.

"The President's second objective, while likewise clear to us, needs much continuing explanation to many in our Government and certainly to the American people.

"The integrity of the military profession is indispensable to an effective, efficient military establishment, and that in turn to the Nation's security. The term itself, "integrity of the military profession," implies an Officer Corps of such character and competence as will provide the highest professional and spiritual leadership; and a Non-Commissioned Officer Corps indoctrinated and inspired by the Officer Corps, whose precepts are its guides and whose standards it emulates.

"It implies fearless, forthright expression of honest objective professional military views.

"It implies completely loyal execution of decisions, once announced by proper civilian authorities.

"To attain this second objective will require a full recognition, by civilian authority, of the qualities of integrity, devotion to duty, and loyalty, and extension by the civilian commanders of a like loyalty to the military services.

"As a fundamental institution in the development of our national life, the United States Army has played a proud historic role. It has produced leaders unsurpassed in character, competence, and courage—moral equally with physical.

"I accept with pride and trust in Divine guidance, the challenge of continuing the service of great distinction which my predecessor General J. Lawton Collins has rendered. It shall be my constant purpose within the scope of my responsibility and authority, to insure that the highest traditions of the United States Army are maintained in all their finest aspects; that the Army accomplish in full its assigned missions; and that the men and women who wear its uniform and their dependents, receive the full measure of respect and consideration from their countrymen, which high-principled devotion and utter loyalty in both peace and war so fully merit.

"Today my admiration for you, the American soldier, is greater than ever; and I can find no adequate words to express my own feelings of humble pride in sharing service of country with you.

"You will have my complete and unqualified support. I shall expect yours."

Wis. Cheese Display Most Popular Exhibit, Chicago Dairy Show

Wisconsin dairy foods gained many new friends at the recent International Dairy Show at Chicago where the Wisconsin cheese display proved to be one of the most popular exhibits.

During the eight days of the exposition over 15,000 samples of Wisconsin cheese were distributed to visitors and more than 35 varieties of the Badger state's natural cheeses were viewed by thousands attending the show.

The cheese display was sponsored and set up as part of the farm products promotion program of the Wis. Dept. of Agric. Gift boxes of Wisconsin cheese furnished by Wisconsin gift cheese shippers added color to the bulk cheese display. Informational leaflets were distributed describing the varieties of cheese and listing the sources where they could be obtained.

Don Wilkinson, in charge of the Department's promotion program, declared that the display met with extremely favorable reaction from dairy show visitors as well as the Dairy Show management. Since a majority of those attending the show were from Chicago or nearby urban communities, those in charge of the cheese exhibits received many questions representing consumer interest.

W. D. Wentworth, New York, president of this first international dairy show, expressed the hope that many more organizations would follow the precedent set by Wisconsin in promoting their dairy products at next year's show beginning October 9.

Mary Ellen Jenks, the 1953 Alice in Dairyland, served as official hostess for the week-long show.

Merrill Richardson and Frank Wing assisted in the administration of the Wisconsin dairy display.

Wis. Duck Stamp Sales Well Over 100,000

Wisconsin is one of a half dozen states whose duck hunters number more than 100,000, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service announces on the sale of the $2 duck stamps required of all waterfowl hunters. Duck stamp sales were as follows in the top states: California, 214,456; Minnesota, 163,109; Texas, 151,120; Michigan, 136,306; Wisconsin, 134,351; and Illinois, 119,873.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

New York—The National Association of Purchasing Agents has just published its October report, and it shows these shrewd industrial buyers facing firmly in two directions—as confused as the rest of us.

At the end of September, the purchasing Agents expected October to be tough. At the end of October, they pronounce it not so bad. Order books declined—a little. Employment was lower—but not much. Production cuts were made—in a few places. However, the slide they had feared in all these categories didn't develop. As a group, the Purchasing Agents are fairly happy.

However, the report also tabulates individuals' policies for the near future. Buying policies remain from day-to-day ordering up to 60 days. Inventory controls are tightening. Price commitments are made as brief as possible. All these are the actions of buyers expecting substantial price declines. Man by man, the buyers are still scared of the future.

WRITINGEST WOMAN—As we face the advance of more and more bigger and better and brighter machines, it is always cheering when word comes of some role in industry in which the human being does the job best.

This week's word of cheer for our obsolescent species comes from Fort Madison, Iowa, where the Sheaffer Pen Company makes fountain pens. As the final test of serviceability, after all the mechanical gauges have done their stuff, Sheaffer has a live woman pick up the completed pen, ballpoint or mechanical pencil and write something.

For the last six years, this task has devolved upon Irene Williams. She spends every hour of every working day at a table in the huge plant. The hand temperature changes, the reversals of stroke, the changes of pressure and other human variables can't be duplicated by the machine.

During the six years Miss Williams has written some 45 million words. The first million gave her writer's cramp, but now she feels no pain.

ATOMIC ENERGY LAG—The last week in October saw the second annual conference on atomic energy in private industry, convened by the National Industrial Conference Board, in session. It didn't have much progress to report since a year earlier.

Industrialists demanded changes in the Atomic Energy (McMahon) Act of 1946 to allow them to own fissionable material, to import raw materials, to experiment with power generation, and to patent new processes they might discover. Rep. C. Hollifield, chairman of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, declared the recent decision to have Westinghouse build an atomic-energy electric generating plant was only made after private capital had failed to come forward with a definite proposal to do so. A representative of the CIO repeated the charge that to allow private development of atomic energy would be to give to the DuPonts the $12 billion already spent in government atomic development.

The head of British atomic energy development for the Ministry of Supply showed a series of slides of atomic installations whose counterparts are still being hidden behind barbed wire from American physicists and engineers.

THINGS TO COME—A four-pound sand blaster will clean small surfaces the way its grown-up counterparts brighten buildings. . . An all-transistor hearing aid offers six levels of sound. Most such devices have two. . . A lucite gauge to be clamped on the steering column now makes it possible to see the oil level in your automobile engine, just like foreign cars. . . Picture-frames with built-in tubular light bulbs can be had for your prized paintings. . . You can buy a polyethylene bag to keep your outboard motor in until open-water time next spring.

BITS O'BUSINESS—John L. McCaffrey, president of International Harvester Co., said his company business was off 18 per cent since last April. . . Steel scrap recovered $4 of its $14-a-ton summer decline on sales in Chicago and Pittsburgh. . . Private estimates were that the cotton crop would be a million bales larger than the last official estimate. . . The Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production remained at 232, its September level, in October.

Last year's visitors to national forests included 8,027,000 picnickers; 5,931,000 anglers; 2,984,000 hunters; 1,641,402 campers; 974,061 swimmers and 815,639 hikers and horseback riders.—Sports Afield.
