OAT AND GRAIN VARIETIES DISCUSSED AT LOCAL MEET

Branch, Clinton and Bonda oats are still popular varieties according to what George Briggs, well known Wisconsin agronomist, said last Wednesday when he spoke to Hartford and Kewaskum farm audiences. Most oat fields were badly in-fectured with leaf and stem rust last year and grain growers fear that the rust may carry over to this year's crop. Hence farmers are looking for rust resistant varieties. In checkin the 1953 results, Ajax, a Canadian variety, was about as rust free as any variety. Ajax is a tall, late oat that lodges readily. For this reason many farmers are hesitant in planting it. Sauk, a new variety which is quite rust resistant, will not be available for planting until next year.

If we have a relative rust free year, any of the oat varieties can be planted. There is so little difference in yield or maturity dates that the choice of variety is not important. Then such factors as stiffness of straw, or early and late maturity is important and should be considered in selecting the oats you will plant.

Three varieties of barley may be planted and are in demand for malting purposes. These are the Kindred or 'L' type, the Montcalm, a Canadian variety, and the Ogerbrucker variety. These are the varieties the malting industry prefers. Barley growing hit an all-time low in 1953. The malting industry can use about 15 or 20 more million bushels of barley than we are now growing. Why not plant more barley in 1954?

The Henry spring wheat is still considered a good wheat from the viewpoint of acre yield and uses. The Blackhawk leads as a good winter wheat.

What Do You Think
of Your Kewaskum?

It may well be as a reader of this column suggests and has been stated in the Milwaukee Journal
several years back, that many parents need to know a lot more about the laws that apply when their youngsters start driving automobiles.

As the Journal column states:
The first law is that nobody—repeat, nobody, or any age (except operators of military vehicles and farm tractors)—may operate a vehicle in this state without a valid license. The question, then, is how a youth may learn to drive in the first place.

He must get an instruction permit. It is good for not more than 60 days, during daylight hours only.
He may then drive only with a licensed operator in the seat beside him, and nobody else in the car.
Our correspondent has seen the whole family ride along while Junior practices driving.

Sixteen is the usual minimum age for a license or permit. If the driver is 18 or older, he is on his own. If he is 16 or 17 he may get a license or permit only if his parent or guardian consents. The latter—this is important—then becomes ligally liable for damages caused by the youth's "negligence or willful
misconduct."

The motor vehicle department
may grant a daylight license to a 14 or 15 year old if satisfied that it is "necessary." The youth must qualify, of course, like any other driver. The "necessity" usually concerns the family livelihood, as on a farm. Youths in this age bracket, even though licensed, may not drive
in Milwaukee county.

From the standpoint of his own
self-interest, the law puts an added
premium on safe and sane driving by the 16 or 17 year old. All drivers are liable to have their licenses suspended or revoked for serious
offenses, but in the 16-17 bracket suspension is mandatory for 30
days to a year upon conviction
for any moving traffic violation.

Your committee will continue to enlighten Kewaskum citizenry in subsequent articles.

CHAPEL OF ICE—Members of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity at Syracuse University in New York built this impressive Christmas chapel of ice on the lawn of their fraternity house. The 14-foot structure is illuminated from within, and chimes are provided by a record player.

OH, DEER—FINALLY GOT HIM—After five years of hunting, Mrs. H. L. Ripley of Cadiz, Ohio, finally made her first kill, and only 12 minutes after the Ohio hunting season opened. The animal is expected to dress at about 250 pounds. Mr. Ripley went to Pennsylvania the same day in his quest for deer and came back empty handed.

LICKING A PROBLEM—Postmaster Henry G. Riecks of Mercer Island, Wash., tired of complaints about the taste of glue on postage stamps—so he did something about it. The inventive Riecks devised a sign with a sponge tongue for wetting stamps.

Farms Hit New Highs Of Efficiency

American agriculture has reached a peak of efficiency unequalled in all the centuries man has cultivated the earth, reports the National Geographic Magazine in a significant review of scientific results achieved at Beltsville, famous Federal experimental farm 12 miles from Washington.

The author of the review is Magazine staff writer Samuel W. Matthews. A four-man team of National Geographic photographers headed by John E. Fletcher produced the eighteen photographs—twelve in full color—which illustrate the article.

"Because of Beltsville and its experiment stations like it in all 48 States," Mr. Matthews writes, "a revolution is taking place on the American land"

Machines Till Fields

"Today's farmer operates machines, unknown to his grandfather, that till his fields, mend his fences and milk his cows. He plants seeds from which grow foods and fibers unheard of in this country a few decades ago.

"He raises streamlined pigs that arrive in larger litters and give more ham and bacon, and sheep with longer, finer wool.

Beltsville scientists invented the aerosol spray bomb for killing harmful insects. They discovered the weed-killing powers of the amazing chemical 2, 4-D, conducted the first American tests of DDT and developed the hybrid Pan American tomato that resists wilt disease. They are working on a new strain of cotton that may prove to be superior to all others.

At Beltsville, the best local breeds of dairy cattle are being crossbred with Red Sindhis from India to produce cows that will milk to cool climate quotas in the warm regions of the South. Beltsville workers have turned out hormone sprays that keep blossoms on fruit trees long past normal falling time. They invented a machine that sorts eggs for color electronically.

Crab Grass Beaten?

A new Korean grass being tested at Beltsville may be the long-sought lawn cover that crowds out crab grass. Beltsville has produced a lily as big as a trombone bell and a pig that won't sunburn.

But of all the marvels created by these modest Department of Agriculture scientists, only one—a turkey that just fits an apartment-sized oven—bears the name "Beltsville," reports the National Geographic.

Largest in the nation, the experimental farm has 11,000 rolling Maryland acres. There are 2,000 employees, 950 buildings and 53 miles of roads. Included in the property are a granary, acres of greenhouses and an airport. Agents sent out to scout the land prior to its purchase 45 years ago reported it worn out and infertile.

"Anyone can grow a crop on good land," roared the Secretary of Agriculture, James Wilson. "Buy it!"

Soon restored to full production by good scientific management, Beltsville is now a national pride.

CHURCH RENT: ONE PEPPERCORN

Abbottstown, Pa. — When the Lutheran congregation of this small town pays its rent for the year, it will be only the third time in 283 years the rental has been collected. The church bought two lots from John Abbott, at a cost of five shillings and the annual payment of one peppercorn—a dried berry of the black pepper. The 1953 payment will be made as a part of the 200th anniversary of the founding of the town.

At the beginning of 1953 U.S. farmers had nearly four and one-half million tractors, or 185 per cent more than in 1940. They had 140 per cent more trucks, but only 10 per cent more automobiles than in 1940.

a major guardian of the country's forests and farms, food, clothing and future health.

BURIED MONEY GONE

Baldwin Park, Cal. — Deciding to buy a house, Caryl E. Purcell, 39-year-old machinist, cashed in a $10,000 life insurance policy for $7,900 and then cashed some bonds he had accumulated. Wanting the money "where he could get it in a hurry," Purcell buried it under his garage. Recently, he decided to take a look at his cache and it was gone.

HALLOWEEN FALL FATAL

Baltimore, Md. — Little "Danny" Forrester, 7 started out on a trick-or-treats round with his brother Michael and some playmates. Visiting a neighbor's house, Danny lost his balance on the porch and fell backwards into a coal bin, 4 feet below. Not apparently seriously hurt, the child was taken home. His parents took him to a doctor, who immediately ordered the child to a hospital, where he died before midnight.

This is the prettiest Sunflower quilt you have ever seen. Soft yellow, light brown and a harmonizing green makes this a quilt to remember. Set the blocks in an all-over pattern or alternated with white blocks. The finished quilt will measure about 77 x 100". Pattern and directions on C3310 for only 20c.

CROP CONTROL—Department of Agriculture figures on last fall's pig crop, and the upcoming spring crop, point a moral for all the minds which are struggling with controls for basic crops.

The only controls on pigs are the controls of supply and demand. In the first half of 1953, the price of hogs on the hoof at Chicago went down more than 5 cents a pound. So the fall pig crop—usually about a third of all pigs littered—was off 10 per cent. During the last half of the year, prices at Chicago crept up about 3 cents a pound. Now farmers tell the Department they intend to breed about 4 per cent more pigs in the spring than they did last spring.

Considering the permanent investment that must be made to go into the pig business, swings of 10 per cent on the small crop and 4 per cent on the big one are large. And it was all done with the help of market quotations.
