Games Sunday—Kewaskum at Rosendale, Fond du Lac at West Bend, Port Washington at Horicon.
Game Wednesday—Mayville at Brandon.

The West Bend Benders beat the Kewaskum Chevrolts for the second time this season in a return game here Sunday night before a packed house. And they did it by a bigger margin than in the first tilt at West Bend. The final score was 83-51. The setback dropped Kewaskum out of a five-way tie for first place. Now there are still four tied for the lead as all other leaders won Sunday. The Benders are first half champions.

It was a typical, hard-fought game and tempers flared on several occasions. With this came a good share of beefing, all to the delight of the noisy crowd. The Benders were the more fortunate. Five of their players had four personal fouls, some of them right after the half, and not a one had to leave the contest because of five. On the other hand, Kewaskum lost four players on fouls and this weakened their lineup a great deal. It also was an important factor in preventing them from overtaking the winners.

As a result of some sharp shooting on long shots, the Benders advanced to a 29-20 lead in the first quarter and stayed ahead by about that margin through most of the tilt. However, the Chevrs came within four points of tying them on a couple of occasions. The intermission count was 43-34, and at the third quarter's end it stood at 64-57. The visitors scored six more free throws than the losers.

Reliable Johnny Tessar again was the top man in the scoring department with 26 points. Twelve of these were scored on free throws. He missed only one in 13 tries for a remarkable average. John was held pretty well in check (the Benders rode two guards on him) from the field, sinking seven shots. Augie Bilgo and Frankie Krueger came through with 12 points apiece and Wayland Tessar contributed 11. Meyer and Boldt shared top honors for the Benders with 20 points each. Giombetti, one of the league's top-notch scorers, tallied 18 and Rauon 16.

This Sunday night Kewaskum travels to Rosendale.

March of Dimes Drive Lags, Far Short of Goal

A disappointing response to his recent appeal to March of Dimes chairmen throughout the county to report to him the results of the drive in their areas prompted Michael J. Goring, Jr., general chairman of the drive in this area, to repeat his request this week.

Goring stated that only a few of the many chairmen in the county have forwarded their reports to him up to this time, in spite of the fact that the drive was extended this year to allow more time for each chairman to complete his calls.

Contributions to date, Goring revealed, total about $6,000. This is a far cry from the $20,000 goal which the 1954 March of Dimes campaign hoped to reach in Washington county. The chairman was sure, he said, that the total will mount somewhat as returns are received by the West Bend headquarters, but he expressed small hope of seeing the goal attained. He fears were further substantiated by a report from Ray Jeffords, chairman of the drive in the Hartford area, who also reported that returns are coming in "pretty slow."

Goring appealed to all persons who have not yet been contacted and who wish to make a contribution to this year's all-out March of Dimes drive to send their checks, money orders or cash donations direct to: Michael J. Goring, Jr., March of Dimes, Co-Chairman, West Bend, Wis. A final report on the drive will be made as soon as all results are tabulated, the chairman announced.

Lakes All-Stars Nosed Out by Benders, 79-75

The West Bend Benders rallied in the second half to defeat a team of northern division Land o' Lakes all-stars Saturday night at Melane gym, West Bend, 79-75.

The Benders probably would have been no match for the stars, had all of those on the team participated. The all-stars played without three of their most outstanding stars, Johnny Tessar, Doug Ritchie and Fritz Lautenschlager, none of whom were present. Even without them the stars rocked the Benders on their heels in the first half as they roared to a 50-29 lead.

The Benders played very poor ball in the first half. Wrucke of Horicon and Dick Russart starred for the all-stars in this half. They scored 13 and 11 points respectively. However, in the second half West Bend straightened out and kept pecking away at the 21-point deficit until they finally knotted the count. They scored 30 points in the third period, one more than they made in the entire first half.

The Benders seemed to play out in the final quarter again but they hung on enough to win as Giombetti tallied 11 points in the stanza. He capped scoring honors with 27 points. Wrucke, with 21, paced the stars.

Augie Bilgo and Wayland Tessar represented Kewaskum in the game. Bilgo scored seven points and Tessar six. John Tessar was a unanimous choice on the team but failed to take part.

Report on Kewaskum School District Expansion Program; Need $450,000 Building Addition

Enrollment of Over 500 Students in High School Expected by 1963

The county school committee, headed by Atty. Deane R. Bascom, last week revealed the extent of progress that has been made on the proposed Union Free high school district in the Kewaskum area and the need for building expansion at Kewaskum High school. The fact that areas not in the high school district pay about as much as the areas that are, has helped to facilitate the re-organization plan.

The committee reported that a building program costing an estimated sum of $450,000 would give Kewaskum High school the facilities it definitely needs whether the district was expanded or not. Most of the areas affected have been cooperative and agreeable about joining the district and it is possible that the proposed district will become a reality by July 1, 1954.

As far as the proposed high school building addition is concerned, that would be up to the electors of the district at a later date. It was emphasized that the union free high school plan involves no change in the elementary school districts.

Nearly a year ago the county school committee began its work in organizing the proposed district. Much study by the committee was required and meetings with the town and village boards and one with the school boards in the area were involved. Very soon a meeting with the boundary committee appointed by the town boards will be held. Then next will be public hearings on the proposed high school district.

The final step would be to have an order issued by the joint committee creating the district. This order cannot become effective until July 1, 1954.

It was pointed out in the report that "any order issued by the committee creating a high school district does not obligate the new district to entertain a building program. This decision is made by the electors of the new district."

Now about 70 per cent of the high school students are tuition students. Areas not in the high school districts have no vote in the school administration.

The county school committee stressed that "it is very necessary that the high school facilities at Kewaskum be expanded" and reasons were given why it is imperative that the district be made larger thus providing a more adequate tax base. "The school operated in 1952-53 with one less classroom than it should have," the report stated.

With school enrollment expected to increase from the present 250 to over 500 by 1962, there will have to be provisions made for 10 classrooms to accommodate these young people. A summary of needed facilities that could be provided at an estimated sum of $450,000 follows:

1. TEN conventional classrooms;
2. Administration offices which are now limited;
3. Gymnasium, with shower rooms and dressing rooms for boys and girls, athletic and physical education office and supply storage rooms;
4. Chemistry and physics laboratory;
5. Music rehearsal rooms plus 3 or 4 small practice rooms and a band instrument and uniform storage rooms;
6. Cafeteria for hot lunch services;
7. New heating system;
8. Library.

A thorough study of the present facilities at the high school has been made by the county school committee as well as census out and anticipated enrollment increases.

The present Kewaskum High school is free of debt, the report indicated and the present grounds are large enough so that the new proposed building expansion could be easily made without causing a crowded situation on the school playgrounds.

Not taking into consideration the increase by normal population growth, the estimated high school enrollment at Kewaskum during the next few years follows:

1953	256 (actual)
1954	296
1955	327
1956	349
1957	378
1958	417
1959	446
1960	463
1961	497
1962	500
1963	519

The proposed Kewaskum High school district would include areas in the towns of Kewaskum, Barton, Wayne, Auburn (in Fond du Lac county) and perhaps Scott in Sheboygan county.

Anyone living in the Kewaskum area interested in studying the report of the county school committee can obtain a copy from H. D. Sheski, county superintendent of schools and secretary of the county school committee.

Outline Further Plans for Brotherhood Week

Following the original organization session at the court house in West Bend earlier this month, leaders of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, sponsors of the National Brotherhood Week observance to be held throughout the country next week from Feb. 21 to 28, laid further plans this week for the furtherance of the cause of the Brotherhood of Man.

As part of the county observance, pertinent literature was sent to church organizations throughout the county during the week as well as to other leading civic and fraternal groups in the hope of spreading the ideals of the organization in the hopes of promoting world peace.

It is also hoped to have schools in the county actively participate in the program by illustrating to the students the importance of the 'Brotherhood of Man' philosophy in fostering the ideals of true democracy and world harmony.

Further programs, talks and a wider circulation of the literature issued by the National Conference of Christians and Jews are planned to stimulate interest in the ideals of the conference.

At West Bend a proclamation has been issued by Mayor Michael Gehl in reference to the observance of Brotherhood Week.

Basic Rules For Choosing and Using Cooking Fats & Oils

Fats are important in cooking for seasoning, smoothness and extra energy value. But many housewives don't know which fat to use when because of the bewildering variety on their market shelves, according to the editors of McCall's Magazine. They give you a quick summary of the traditional and modern fats available nowadays, their ingredients and uses:

Butter: Made by churning milk and cream. Contains a rich supply of important vitamin A. Among the many kinds are sweet butter (unsalted and made from cream), salted creamy butter, dairy butter (made at home or on the farm), whipped butter (whipped like cream to make it airy and spreadable). Uses depend on the cook, and all cooks have their own.

Margarine: Made from a variety of vegetable oils churned with skim milk. Almost all brands are fortified with vitamins A and D. A fine table spread. Also used extensively in baking and cooking.

Cooking oils: Made from olives or from crushed seeds such as cottonseed, corn, peanut and soya. These oils are refined, bleached and deodorized before packaging in jars or tins. Used in salad dressings, cooking, frying and baking.

Shortenings are of five types. (1) The hydrogenated all-vegetable shortenings, which are fine, white, semisolid fats with a very creamy texture made from cottonseed and other vegetable oils. Although especially adapted for use in quick-method cakes, they are used with equal success in other types of cakes, baking, frying, deep-fat cookery.

(2) The meat-fat and vegetable shortenings, which are similar in appearance to the all-vegetable types and used in exactly the same way. Both these shortenings are packed in cans.

(3) Lard, a pork fat which is refined, filtered and bleached. Best quality is mild in flavor, light in color, firm when cool. Lard is used only for pastry, frying and deep-fat cookery. Sold in containers.

(4) Poultry fat, which is rendered from chicken, goose or turkey. Sold in specialty shops in jars or cans but mainly rendered at home. Used in cooking, baking, frying.

(5) Suet, which is the rather stiff white fat stripped from beef. Sold by the pound in butcher shops. Used for larding lean meats and also as an ingredient in steamed puddings.

SKIN DISEASE IS THREAT TO PIGS

Hog raisers were advised this week to watch for signs of a new swine skin disease, parakeratosis, in their hogs.

The disease usually affects pigs between the ages of eight and 16 weeks, the American Veterinary Medical Association said. The cause of the condition is not known, but the disease apparently affects pigs more under drylot-feeding conditions.

Parakeratosis causes hard, dry crusts on the pig's skin. Usually the disease ends in complete recovery, but it may cause great discomfort and losses through setbacks in the rate of gain for the animals.

GLUING HEADBOARD ON BED

The home repairman often has need to repair furniture which has split similar to the job illustrated. It is a difficult job of gluing because of the small holding surface and the problem of clamping.

A good quality of ready mixed household glue is suitable for the job. Casein or resin glue are also excellent. The latter, however, must be mixed in small batches and used when the job is ready. It will not keep.

This type of repair job should be done with wood dowels. These are round pegs of wood set into both pieces of wood to hold them in place. You can try the job without dowels, but the holding surface is rather small.

If the wood is 3/4" thick, use a 3/8" dowel. If the wood is 1/2" thick, use a 1/4" dowel. If the wood is thinner than 1/2" it is too thin to dowel unless you are an expert.

Place the pieces to be glued together, and mark the location of the dowels on both pieces. This job should have at least three dowels.

Open up the joint and lay the pieces side by side with the marks together. Mark the edges, using a try square for a guide.

Bore holes into the edge of both pieces, the size of the dowel you are to use. Be sure the holes are centered. A good way to do this is with headless nails as shown above. The holes should be 1" deep.

Cut pieces of dowel about 1 3/4" long, and insert them in the holes of one side. Then fit both pieces together. Make any adjustments necessary to get a good fit.

At this point you should prepare the cleats and clamps you are going to use to hold the pieces together after gluing. If you do not have bar clamps, a piece of clothes line will do as illustrated. Cleats should be used to keep the pieces being glued in proper alignment. Only one clamp and one cleat are shown in the illustration. For a job like this, two cleats and three clamps would be needed. Get them ready to use in a hurry.

Remove the dowels and prepare the glue. If you are using casein or resin glue, now is the time to mix it.

Place glue in the dowel holes in one side of the piece, and drive the dowels all the way in. Place glue in the holes of the other piece, and also on all other surfaces to be glued.

Assemble and clamp without delay. Also put cleats in place to keep work in proper alignment. Clamp as tightly as possible, or as tightly as needed to bring parts together.

Remove surplus glue with a wet rag before the glue hardens on the surface.

Leave work in clamps 24 hours.

Jealousy of the New Baby Part III

In meeting the problem of the Junior's jealousy of the new baby, you will find:

Scolding does not help, nor does punishing the child, nor shaming him before others. Instead, parents must try to understand what is behind their child's reactions. The child behaves as he does out of fear of losing your love. If you scold or threaten or shame, he only becomes more afraid, for he feels that he may already have lost your love, and your scolding serves as proof that his worst fears are correct.

"Oh," says Mrs. Tilford, "I see I must treat them both alike. I'll get dolls for both of them. Then Sue will be OK, and she won't be jealous of Baby Tessie any more."

But that's not the answer either. Different children have different needs for love and affection. Pete crawled off his mother's lap and away from her embraces just as soon as he could crawl; Stephen, on the other hand, used to run up and hug his mother's knees and snuggle up to her, like a kitten, till he was quite a big fellow.

Because Tom needs an appendix operation, is no reason for Dick's having one, too.

To overcome jealousy, we must try insofar as we can, to give each child what he needs of love and affection. Unfortunately, it's not like a standard recipe for a modern cake: "Take contents of this box of cake mix, and 1/2 cup of milk..." and you may be sure that your cake will turn out fine, every time. When it comes to children's jealousy, alas, there is no such hard and fast rule. There is only this: Since jealousy in a child means competing for approval and love, you can meet it and avoid it, if you give your child the approval and love he needs at the time and in the form and amount he requires.

Don't Really Count

When my husband and I were building our home in the country we employed Tom White, a jack-of-all trades and master of masonry. One morning he appeared with two husky sons as his helpers. My husband asked, "How many youngsters have you, Tom?" "Got seven of 'em—yep, seven." "Really? I'm one of seven, too. I have three brothers and three sisters." "Oh shucks," said Tom as he picked up a shovel, "if you count girls, I got 13."

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Meal-In-One-Plate

Here's a combination that's sure to increase the popularity rating of any hostess. These melt-in-your-mouth finger sandwiches are designed for the bridge luncheon or evening refreshments.

Half moons of Boston Brown bread, spread with delicate-flavored cream cheese; deviled ham finger sandwiches garnished with parsley tips; home made date nut bread spread with butter and cut in squares; triangles of white bread with tuna or crab meat filling; and open face rounds of salt rye bread with hippy cheese and garnished with stuffed olives. This gives variety aplenty in shape, color and flavor.

If you envy the hostess who has an extra pair of hands to make such attractive tidbits possible and still stay in the living room to greet and visit with her guests—fret no more—there is a way to have maid service without the maid! Thanks to a new transparent, protective food wrapping material made of saran, you can prepare completely the sandwich plate or a delicate salad hours ahead of time and leave them in the refrigerator until the very minute you are ready to seat your guests and pour the coffee. Another feature of the new plastic wrap is its ability to cling to the plate so that no tape or string is necessary.

The tuna filling sandwich is the only one requiring a recipe:

Tuna or Crab Meat Sandwich Filling (Makes 12 to 16 Sandwich Triangles)

Mix together with fork, in order given:

6 oz. (about 1 cup) tuna fish, minced	1 teaspoon finely diced green pepper
2 teaspoons lemon juice	1 teaspoon finely diced pimiento
1/4 cup finely chopped celery	1/2 cup boiled salad dressing or mayonnaise (enough to make good spreading consistency)
1 teaspoon finely minced mild onion

Use thinly sliced white bread. Spread with butter or mayonnaise and trim crusts. Spread evenly with filling. Cover with second slice of buttered bread. Cut into triangles or fingers.

It's an idea—use bits of leftover Thanksgiving turkey in this recipe in place of tuna fish, and omit the lemon. Or you can pinch pennies by using peanut butter instead of crab meat with equally satisfactory results.

Hors d'oeuvres and canapes add elegance to any special occasion when the social whirl gets underway. These suggestions lend themselves particularly to the season.

Sardine Pastries

Plain pastry
Boneless, skinless sardines
Cayenne Pepper
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 egg white beaten
Roll pastry to 1/8 inch thickness. Cut in rectangles 2 1/2" x 1 1/2". Drain the sardines, if large, cut in halves crosswise. Sprinkle each with cayenne and lemon juice. Place sardine lengthwise on each rectangle of pastry. Roll up like a jelly roll, pressing the ends together. Brush with beaten egg-whites. Bake in an oven 400 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes.

Shrimp Canape

6 tablespoons finely chopped shrimp
Juice of 1 lemon
Salt
Worcestershire sauce
Minced pickled beets
Large olives
Thin lemon slices
Season shrimp with lemon juice, salt, and a few drops of Worcestershire sauce. Spread on prepared bread. Place a narrow border of minced pickled beets around the edge of the canape. Garnish the plate with olives and lemon slices.

Tomato Slices

Use slices of firm ripe tomatoes. Lay a boneless sardine across each slice.

Stuffed Carrot Slices

Scrape a large even carrot. Cut off ends and make a hole through center with an apple corer. Stuff with highly seasoned cream cheese mixed with finely cut chives. Chill until cheese is firm. Cut in 1/4 inch slices.

Saratoga Chips

Spread potato chips with a paste made of Roquefort cheese and minced onions. Arrange a variety of hors d'oeuvres on any large platter.

Canapes

Slice bread 1/4 inch thick. Remove crusts. Cut in any desired shapes. Toast or saute on one side. Spread untoasted side with any cocktail spread. Garnish very simply.

Chicken & Pepper Spread

1/3 cup firmly chopped chicken
1 tablespoon chopped green peppers
1 teaspoon prepared horseradish
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pearl onions
Watercress
Blend the chicken, pepper, horseradish, mayonnaise and salt. Spread on canape. Sprinkle with tiny pearl onions. Garnish with watercress.

Tongue Spread

1/2 cup deviled tongue
2 teaspoons vinegar
Artichoke relish
Parsley
Butter
Spread canape with butter. Cov-

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

This flash picture, taken outdoors at night with a simple camera, was awarded a $1,000 prize in the 1953 Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

A Flash in the Night Pays Off

USING your camera and flash attachment outdoors at night may not pay off in a fashion quite as dramatic as the picture above did for the young lady who took it, but it is sure to pay off in interesting pictures.

There is an unusual story behind the picture we've chosen to illustrate today's column. It was made by an 11-year-old girl, using a box camera, and with it she won the $1,000 Grand Prize in the animals and pets class of the 1953 Newspaper National Snapshot Awards.

Patricia Delaney of Schenectady, New York, was at a camp in the Adirondacks last summer when one evening she spied the baby raccoons huddled together on the branch of the tree. "I thought the two baby coons looked cute, so I ran in to get my camera and snapped them," Patricia explained when interviewed after winning the prize.

I was delighted to run into this picture and the story with it because I don't know of any better way to convince you that flash snaphooting outdoors at night is easy.

Outdoor activities at night—such as skating or tobogganing parties in northern climes, the beach parties in the balmy southland—offer excellent picture-taking opportunities.

There is no difference between taking flash pictures indoors and taking them outdoors at night. The same thing is important to remember—distance. The light of the flash falls off rapidly. These small bulbs are powerful, but obviously cannot light a large area. So watch your distance. Figure it correctly by following the instructions packed with your film or the chart on the flashbulb carton. They'll give you the right answer for the type of film and bulb you are using. —John Van Guilder

WOMAN'S PAGES

Now is the time for all good girls to come to the aid of their wardrobes.

Winter clothes serve most of us from October through March. To keep them in top condition and to keep ourselves from becoming thoroughly bored with them along about February, it is a good idea to set aside a few hours for repairs, refreshing and refurbishing, says Betty Ann.

The morning of a windy day would be ideal for such a session. After selecting the clothes that need repairs, hang the others outdoors, woollens particularly benefit from fresh air baths.

While doing your mending, you might consider new ways of accessorizing your outfit. Many women fall into a set accessorizing pattern; it eliminates the need to think while dressing.

By planning different clothes combinations you can give a big lift to a weary wardrobe without spending a penny. And that should give a lift to anyone's spirits.

And should your budget be in rather good shape, you can lend new excitement to your wardrobe by adding a really striking pair of gloves, a bit of jewelry or a scarf.

Your meat dollar is an important item in the food budget. Protect your investment by proper care of the meats you buy. Here are some pointers to remember in storing pre-packaged (self-service) meats:

All meats should be stored in the coldest part of the refrigerator or immediately upon your return from the store.

Prepackaged smoked or cured and packaged sausage may be stored in the original wrapper. However, prepackaged fresh meats should have the wrapper loosened at both ends before refrigeration.

If small cuts of fresh meats are not to be used within a few days, they may be frozen. Remove the self-service wrapper and rewrap in special freezer paper. Although zero storage is preferable, fresh meats may be frozen in the freezing section of the refrigerator if they are used within one week.

If there are young children in the home, a list of phone numbers for the baby sitter to use in case of an emergency should be kept near the telephone.

If too many sweets and too little sleep lately have been the undoing of your complexion, you had better establish an emergency regimen immediately.

You know what you should do. The sooner you get to it, the quicker will you gain back your smooth skin and glowing eyes.

Start by eliminating all sweets from your diet. Have fresh fruit for dessert. Have more fruit or raw carrots for between meal snacks.

Plan to spend more time out of doors. The fresh air will stimulate your skin and outdoor exercise will prepare you for the extra sleep which you also need. Try to get to bed at least an hour earlier than usual.

To treat the blemishes you now have, use a medicated cream at bedtime and cover them with a medicated lotion during the day. Do not put make-up over the blemishes unless you care to risk further infection.

Good manners are needed even when prompting a child to be courteous. For instance, your daughter neglects to introduce you to a child she has brought home. Don't embarrass her by saying, "You forgot to introduce your friend." But you can say, "Janie, I don't believe I've met your friend." Never embarrass a child when correcting his manners.

Baked bananas with ham are a delicious combination. Just peel the fruit and place in a shallow greased baking dish; sprinkle with sugar and salt and dot with butter or margarine. Bake in a moderate oven about 15 minutes and serve at once.

It's easy to make a malted milk drink at home. Just beat three tablespoons of malted milk powder with one cup of milk and add any other desired flavoring.

Once a week wipe off finger marks from doors, woodwork and painted walls, if you want to keep your house looking shipshape. Use a damp cloth wrung out of water in which some sudsy detergent has been dissolved.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

The Chinese witchhazel or Hamamelis mollis is a very unusual shrub. Unusual, because, even in the colder sections, it flowers during midwinter. It is a hardy shrub and is outstanding for its brilliant yellow-petalled, redish-centered blooms.

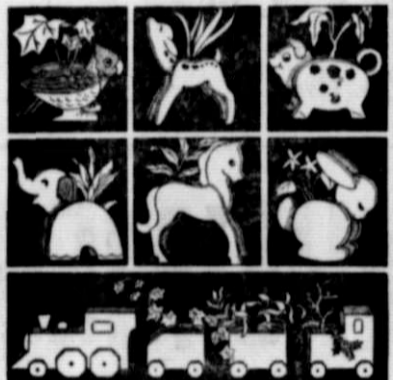

Chinese witchhazels develop into spreading shrubs or small trees, depending on the way you train and prune them. Concentrating the growth on a single trunk produces a tree-like growth. When plants are allowed to grow naturally, they develop into a large bush-type shrub reaching twelve to fifteen feet in height.

The foliage is as unusual as the blooms. The leaves are roundish and felted with a thick coat of hairs. Buds and shoots are also covered with this tiny hairy growth.

Witchhazels are not particular about soil but they will make their best growth in heavy loam. Holes for planting should be deep. The subsoil is best discarded and replaced with compost. Spring is the best season for planting.

Japanese and American witchhazels are confusing and often hard to tell apart. There is no trouble identifying the Chinese member of the family due to the velvety hairness which envelops leaves, shoots and buds.

Canned Meat Ideal for Quick Meal on Cold Nights

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

FOR cold nights when there is not much time to get dinner, use canned meat. Or serve canned beans, either New England style or packed in tomato sauce. Give them distinctive flavor by adding a little molasses.

Here are three combination recipes that save you time yet give the family good hot food when the winds blow cold.

Savory Baked Beans (4 generous servings)

One quarter cup unsulphured molasses, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce, 2 1-pound cans baked beans, 1 onion, sliced.

Combine unsulphured molasses, vinegar, mustard and Tabasco; mix well. Empty beans into skillet or casserole; stir in molasses mixture. Arrange onion slices on top of beans or layer with beans.

Simmer in skillet on top of range 10 to 15 minutes, or bake in casserole in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 30 minutes.

Luncheon Meat—Sweet Potato Puff (4 servings)

Two pounds sweet potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup raisins, 1 can luncheon meat, 1 orange, peeled and sliced; 1 tablespoon brown sugar.

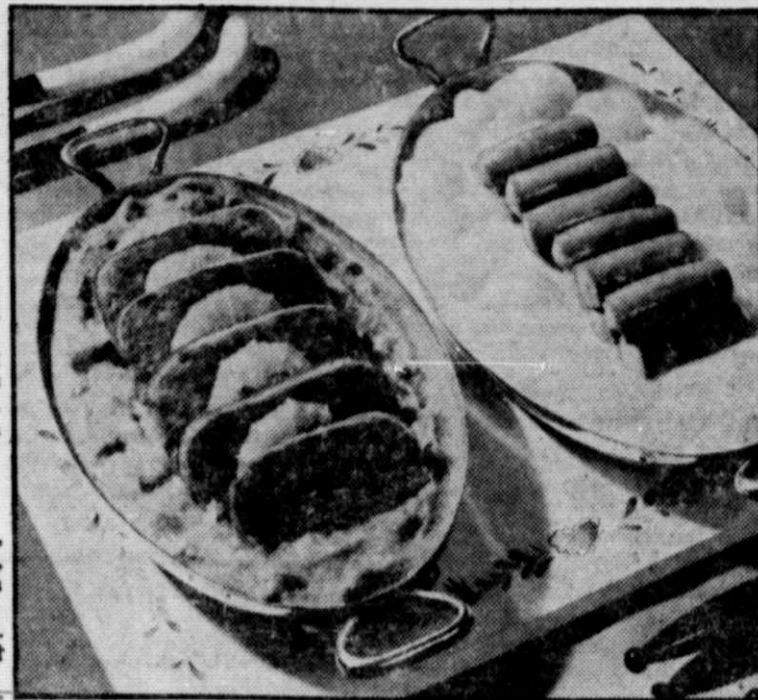

Cook potatoes in boiling water until tender. Drain and peel. Mash potatoes. Add butter, molasses and salt; beat until light and fluffy. Stir in raisins. Place potatoes in a shallow casserole.

Cut luncheon meat into 6 slices; arrange meat on top of potatoes with halved orange slices. Sprinkle meat with brown sugar. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes.

Vienna Sausage Dinner (4 servings)

Four and one half tablespoons dry skim milk, 1½ cups water, 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 1½ pounds small white onions, cooked; 2 cans Vienna sausage.

Sprinkle dry skim milk on top of water. Beat slowly with rotary beater until dissolved; reserve. Melt butter. Add flour, salt and pepper; stir to a smooth paste.

Add reserved liquid and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Add onions; heat. Heat Vienna sausage in own liquid. Turn creamed onions into serving dish; top with Vienna sausage.

New Map of Great Lakes Region Shows Land and Water Development

North America's five Great Lakes—a third of the earth's sweet-water area—are spotlighted on a new map that the National Geographic Society is distributing this month to its more than two million members.

The 10-color map, "The Great Lakes Region of the United States and Canada," shows all or part of 22 states and three provinces, from Minnesota to New Brunswick, Ontario to Kentucky.

Nearly one third of the American people—48,000,000—live in only five of the lake-bordering states, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. Three of the nation's seven largest cities, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland, stand beside the Lakes. Montreal, Canada's leading metropolis, overlooks the St. Lawrence River outlet.

Closely packed place names (11,959 of them), plus a tight mesh of travel routes, hint in cartographers' shorthand at the fact that the area covered is the most populous of the continent.

Visible From Moon

The Great Lakes are of incalculable economic value both to the United States and Canada. So big they could be seen from the moon with the naked eye, they have provided such assorted benefits as transportation, rich fisheries, and scenic playgrounds.

Ships that ply the vast inland waterway with such cargoes as iron ore, grains, and automobiles carry more tonnage annually than does the entire oceangoing merchant fleet of the United States.

Map notes printed in blue on the face of each of the Great Lakes point to the canals, locks, and dredged river channels that have opened a continuous passage from western Lake Superior to the mouth of the St. Lawrence River.

Three large-scale insets hold the magnifying glass to these links. The fourth, in the Chicago area, shows the start of the Illinois Waterway on its winding course that joins the lake system to the mid-continent traffic artery, the Mississippi.

Indian Names and Atoms

Melodious Indian names scattered over the Geographic's map recall early exploration and settlement days.

Lake Huron, Michigan, Erie and Ontario all have names with Indian associations. Only Lake Superior, from the French phrase for "upper lake" is without the Indian touch.

A few primeval spots remain in the highly developed Great Lakes region. Two where wilderness conditions have been deliberately preserved are Ontario's Quetico Provincial Park, and the adjoining Superior National Park of the United States.

The atomic era is also noted in the Canadian nuclear research station of Chalk River; the U. S. study center at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago, and New York's Brookhaven National Laboratory.

There's No Pill-Path To Weight Reduction

For the people who made New Year's resolutions about reducing the Minnesota State Medical association today issued a bulletin about the special; foods, pills, pellets, cathartics and vitamin preparations that are sold these days to the tune of millions of dollars.

Fortunately, most patent preparations promoted to exploit the yearning of the overweight for some way to reduce and still go on eating, are not very dangerous to health, the bulletin says.

The trouble is that most of the pill-paths to slimmness are only by-paths, a waste of time and money. The dieter who means business has to abandon them sooner or later and go back to the hard facts of weight reduction. No food or pill, no advertised "medical miracle," no matter how imposing the name, will burn up food by itself, or permit anybody to take in more calories than his own metabolic processes can dispose of, and still reduce.

Furthermore, cathartics used for reducing can lead to trouble. By hurrying food through the digestive process they may cut pounds temporarily but they can cause digestive troubles later on. Also pills made of non-caloric, indigestible materials, though designed to satisfy appetite without adding calories, may lead to intestinal obstruction in some people.

Most of the pills marketed today add calories to the diet instead of taking them away. Usually they are made only of such items as skim milk powder, flour, fruit extracts with a catch-as-catch-can vitamin addition and they can do nothing whatever either to reduce pounds or aid nutrition.

The amphetamine drugs have been found useful for depressing appetite while a reducing program is getting underway. These drugs are also relatively safe, the doctors say, but only under a physician's supervision and only while new eating habits are being established.

TIE SCORE—Switching the St. Louis Browns' baseball franchise to Baltimore caught one St. Louis store with some 75 "Brownie" ties on hand. The situation was remedied by reducing the price of the ties to nine cents. Above, Miss Aeo Ballard, a saleslady, packs the remaining ties for shipment to a newspaper editor for his friends who still bemoan the late Browns.

Bible Comment:

Sincerity Needed To Worship God In Proper Way

THE history of religious worship among all peoples provides an array of strange, amazing, incongruous and even tragic facts.

It has been marked by all manner of superstitions and correspondingly devious practices, even among cultured peoples.

It has been accompanied by cruel human sacrifices, obscene practices and animal sacrifice.

But the highest form of true worship found expression in experiences of which the 139th Psalm is typical:

"Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts; and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting."

Such a spirit in worship, wherever it is manifest, transcends all rituals and forms. Rituals and forms have reality only when they are the symbols and accompaniments of an earnest quest of God and the way of truth and right.

It is obvious that worship with many in all branches of religions is a formal matter, little related to righteousness and zeal in daily life.

Vast numbers today do not attend religious services, or practice worship. But does anyone imagine that the forces of gambling, political corruption and debauchery have been, or are, confined to the churchless and irreligious?

Often, the worst people in a community are to be found using the cloak of religious formalism to cover up their evil.

Worship is meaningless unless we remember that "God is a Spirit, and they that worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth."

That is the everlasting word against all pretense and formalism.

BURIED WRONG MAN

Texarkana, Tex. — Relatives, who just three weeks before had "buried" Van Iber Sellman, 46, were shocked to find that they had buried a man, who looked exactly like Sellman, who had been killed by a freight train. Sellman was in Longview, Texas, when told of his "death" and although hale and hearty at the time, he collapsed from shock. Who the man was who had been buried is still a mystery.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Not long ago a neighbor of Henry P. Davis, sporting dog editor of Sports Afield magazine, called and said that his dog had worms and asked about the best worm medicine. Davis asked what made him so sure the dog was suffering from worms. It had no appetite and was sluggish, so naturally worms were the cause. Just as simple as that.

Now loss of appetite is often caused by worm infestation. But other things can cause loss of appetite too. Among them are foreign bodies in the mouth or the throat, insect stings, lead poisoning, mouth infection, loose teeth, burned or cut tongue, tonsillitis, ulcers, tumors or swelling in the mouth and fever diseases. Yet worms are so common among dogs that this man was willing to accept that as the trouble without further investigation.

Loss of appetite is not the only symptom of worm infestation. Usually, if the dog needs treatment for worms, he will show one or more of the following symptoms: watery eyes, pus inside corners of eyes (this indicates tape or whipworm infestation), loose bowel movements, anemia (hookworms), unthrifty coat and loss of appetite.

Some amateurs immediately treat their dogs for worms when they develop a cough, but coughs of various types and degrees may indicate a number of troubles. Among them are asthma, upper respiratory infections, distemper (dry cough), housedog disease (gagging cough), eating grass (gagging cough), sore throat, tonsillitis, pneumonia and heartworm. If the dog coughs only when pulling against the leash, and then frequently, heartworm is most likely indicated.

There are a number of good dog remedies on the market that are quite effective when administered properly. But, please, be sure you know what you're doing. I do not mean that dog owners should run to the veterinarian every time the dog seems sluggish or turns up his nose at a good meal. Dogs are prone to "go off feed" once in awhile and missing a few meals will do them no harm.

But when it is obvious that something is wrong and you are not absolutely sure what the trouble is, then heed Davis' advice and take no chances. Hustle the dog off to a competent vet.

FIXIN-UP TIPS

New Face for Garage

THERE is no good excuse for allowing an old shed or garage to look like the shack shown in the illustration. Just think of the replacement value, and then decide to give the building a face-lifting. This may be done readily by covering the old siding with the all-around farm panel, Masonite quarter-inch Tempered Presdwood, which may be obtained in most lumber yards. If the building sags, of course, prop it up first; the new panels will hold it firm and true.

Since Masonite Tempered Presdwood comes in large sheets, four feet wide and up to 12 long, it may be quickly applied with nails. These panels certainly put a new face on an old building! Of course, the panels should be painted. When the project is completed, everyone will think you have a new building.

Incidentally, straighten out that sagging door and apply this weather-resistant panel over it. The door will stay true and will be better than new.

COVER-UP—Carolyn Brown of St. Petersburg, Fla., seems to be in a precarious state, with either too long a torso or too short a towel. But we'll conclude that there is a bathing suit concealed 'neath the towel, unless we're told otherwise.

U. S. Army Breaks Into Prints; Public Offered Painting Series

Washington—You now can "frame" the Army—with the Army's blessing.

In short, you can put a picture frame around one—or all—of the full-color reproductions of a series of paintings known officially as the "U.S. Army in Action" and originally distributed to Army units.

The 20 by 24-inch prints now are available to the public through the Government Printing Office. Suggested decorative uses include family recreation rooms and studies as well as schools and clubs.

The story of the paintings began in 1948 when the Army commissioned the first eight paintings of the series. Artists chosen were Stanley Dersh, H. Charles McBarron, Hal Stone and Mel Thompson. In 1951, the Office of the Chief of Information, impressed with the morale value of the first eight paintings, commissioned the five additional ones to complete the history of the Army's major campaigns.

Reproductions of the first eight paintings are available from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D.C., and sell for $1.25 a set. These depict the following military achievements:

General Washington's victory at Trenton, Dec. 26, 1776; the Battle on the road to Fallen Timbers, Indian Wars, Aug. 1794; the triumph of Winfield Scott's brigade at Chippewa, Upper Canada, War of 1812, July 5, 1814; Captain Charles May's famed battle order in May of 1846, Mexican War, "Remember your officers!"; the Thirtieth Infantry's assault on Vicksburg May 19, 1863; the "Rock of the Marne"—the 38th Infantry Regiment of the 3rd Division—repulsing the Germans' last attack in World War I; Bataan defensive action in the Philippines, World War II; Remagen Bridgehead at the Rhine, Ninth Armored Division, March 7, 1945.

The remainder of the series, available at 15 cents each, commemorate the decisive stand against the Sioux at Fort Phil Kearney, Wyo., Indian Wars, Aug. 2, 1867; the Battle of San Juan Hill, Spanish-American War, July 1, 1898; American troops scaling the Chinese City Wall in the Boxer Rebellion, 1900; Captain John J. Pershing's units knocking out the Moros, Philippine Insurrection, June, 1913; and the breakthrough at Chipyong-ni by the 23rd Infantry Regimental Combat Team of the Second Infantry Division, Korea.

SAN JUAN HILL—This action, illustrated in the new "U.S. Army in Action" painting series, took place at Santiago de Cuba July 1, 1898, and marked the first time in U.S. military history that the Gatling machinegun was used for close support during an infantry attack.

WAGON BOX FIGHT—This print from the "U.S. Army in Action" painting series commemorates the heroic stand of 30 men from the Ninth Infantry Aug. 2, 1867, near Fort Phil Kearney, Wyo. They held off 2,000 Sioux Indians from behind a barricade of wagon boxes.

LAST GERMAN ASSAULT—This print from the new "U.S. Army in Action" painting series depicts the 30th and 38th Infantry Regiments of the Third Division resisting the last great German attack of World War I. Firing in three directions, the regiments held and forced the enemy back across the Marne.

HERE'S HOW ...

MAKE A MITER BOARD OR BOX

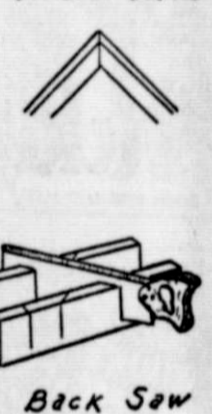

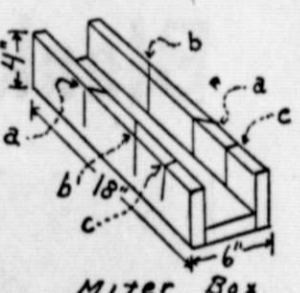

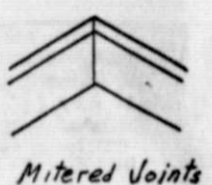

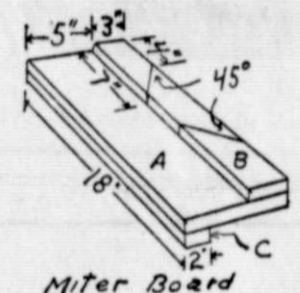

Miter joints are neater and stronger for many purposes such as for picture frames, drawers, etc., than are the ordinary lap joints.

The miter board is made of 1-inch lumber. Piece A is 8 by 18 inches. Piece B, 3 by 18, is fastened flush with one side of A. A line drawn from a point 4 inches from the outer corner of B to another point 7 inches from the opposite inner corner produces a 45 degree angle. A slot is sawed through this line. A similar slot, made from the other end gives the workman a 45 degree angle in both directions. Piece C, 2 by 18, fasted to the under side of the board, serves as a brace against the work bench.

When using the board, the wood to be angled is placed on A and held firmly against B. Sawing is done with a backsaw or ordinary crosscut.

In the miter box, the two slots form a 45 degree angle; as do also the two slots b. Slots c provide a 90 degree angle. In making the miter box, a square should be used to mark the angle cuts.

National Lumber Manufacturers Association

MAKE A MITER BOARD OR BOX

Sooner or later, the home craftsman will want to make picture frames or furniture pieces that call for mitered joints. A neat miter joint is attractive, is a sign of skilled workmanship, and for many purposes is stronger than the ordinary lap joint commonly used.

A miter board provides the guides for cutting 45 degree angles on large flat pieces of lumber, while the miter box is generally used for smaller stock. Both are easy to construct; but the workman must be careful to obtain exact 45 degree angles; otherwise his mitered joints will not fit snugly.

The miter board is made of 1-inch lumber. Piece A is 8 by 18 inches. This forms the "table" on which work is placed for sawing. Piece B is 3 by 18 and is fastened flush with one edge of A. The pieces should be held together with wood screws, counter-sunk. Since B will be cut through after it is in place, the screws should be placed so that least 2 and preferably 3 will hold each of the segments of B in place. A line from a point 4 inches from one corner of the outer edge of B to another 7 inches from the corner of the opposite inner edge produces a 45 degree angle. With a backsaw, this line should be cut through to, but not into, A. This will form the slot, or guide for future 45 degree angle cuts. A similar slot, made in the opposite direction, 4 inches from the other outer corner to 7 inches from the other inner corner gives the workman a 45 degree angle in both left and right directions. Piece C, 2 by 18, fastened to the under side of the board, serves as a brace or stop against the work bench.

When using the board, the board, the wood to be angled is placed on A and held firmly against B. Often it will be desirable to use clamps to hold the wood in place when sawing. The angle cuts may be made with a backsaw or ordinary crosscut.

able to use clamps to hold the wood in place when sawing. The angle cuts may be made with a backsaw or ordinary crosscut.

The miter box calls for a bit more construction than does the miter board. Here, the two slots a form a 45 degree angle; as do the two slots b. Slots c provide a right angle or 90 degrees. The miter box is also constructed of 1-inch material. If the angles are to be drawn from measurements, the outside width of the box is used as the basic measurement. If the box measures exactly 6 inches in width, a line drawn from a point 3 inches in on one upright piece to a point 9 inches in on the other will form the 45 degree angle. However, because of the difficulty of making these exact measurements, the workman will do better if he uses a square to determine the angles. The slot lines, down through the upright pieces must be exactly perpendicular to the base. Here again, the use of a square is recommended.

With a well-made miter box, a number of projects may be undertaken that otherwise would require many measurements. The miter box is both a time saver and a tool of accuracy.

HONOR GUEST OVERLOOKED

Romulus, N. Y. — Everybody was working so hard to make the birthday party being planned for the Rev. C. F. Ban Marter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, a success that they overlooked one important detail. They forgot to invite him to his own party.

No Answer

A candidate, in the course of a long speech, dramatically asked the audience:
"My friends, do you ever stop to think—"
And a weary voice from the audience interrupted:
"My friend, do you ever think to stop?"

SURVIVES 4,000 VOLTS

San Leandro, Cal.—While fighting a grass fire, William Wolter, 49, chief of the Alameda county fire patrol, brushed against a 4,000 volt power line. The shock threw the chief into the air. He fell and rolled down a hill. After treatment for shock, he took the rest of the day off.

Too Much Faith

An elderly gentleman was walking past a drug store when, without warning, a young man dashed out of the shop, took a flying leap in the air with his legs astride and fell in a heap in the gutter. The older man hurried over to him.
"Dear, dear," he said sympathetically, "are you hurt?"
"No," was the sharp reply, "but I'd like to meet the villain who moved my bike!"

Most Important Reason

Old Charley, the owner of a little old scrubby farm on which oil had been discovered, was talking to a banker of a western Missouri town. "I gotta get out of this part of the country," he said.
"I can understand that," the banker replied. "Now that you have plenty of money and you don't have to live in that old shack with all those coon dogs of yours."
"Tain't that," said Charley. "I like it fine here. It's the dogs—the smell from all them oil wells is ruinin' this scent. I gotta get out of here or they won't be any good for trackin' coons."

Pretty Good Guess

"Junior hasn't written for almost two weeks," sighed the college boy's mother. "What do you suppose happened to him?"
"Off hand," replied Papa, "I say Aunt Martha has sent him another check."

STRICTLY BUSINESS

by McFeatters

"One thing I like about you, Argyle, is you're not a clock-watcher!"

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

New York—One of the most important factors in such an economic readjustment as the one we are experiencing is the change in inventory levels. For the first time in a year inventories, seasonally adjusted, declined last October, and by some $400 million. In November there was another decline of $500 million. Later figures are not available, but the softness of prices in December and January indicate that the decline is not yet over.

When business is booming, inventories build up, and some persons are employed in making goods which do not pass immediately to consumers. When business slackens, employment and production fall faster than consumption.

For this reason, a downward inventory curve, several months long, is one of the sometimes painful symptoms that must come and pass before a downturn can reverse itself. The inventory dip we are in now appears to be a fairly steep one. The steeper the descent, the sooner the bottom is reached, in most such cases. Remember 1920-21!

If this reasoning is sound, we are fast approaching the end of the lull. This year is unlikely to challenge 1953's place as the most prosperous in history for most Americans. But just about the time the walls about how badly things are going are loudest, we shall find ourselves on the upgrade again.

TIME TO SELL AGAIN—Who holds the key to continuing industrial prosperity in this country? One prominent Eastern executive nominates the salesman. Maintaining the nation's high living standards rests on mass selling as much as on mass production. J. A. Gollin, vice president of Schenley Distributors, Inc., told a group of top sales executives in Milwaukee recently. He said:

"This prosperous economy can continue only so long as it is dynamic and expanding, and only salesmen make an economy dynamic and expanding."

Schenley, in 1953, made its salesmen's task easier by the first bottling of a volume blended whiskey in a decanter for Christmas giving, a packaging enticement heretofore reserved for the most expensive bonded and straight whiskeys.

THINGS TO COME—Grownups get a break—a card table that hangs on the back of the automobile's front seat in the manner of the baby-carrier. . . . A neon sign lights up on a new six-way fuse to tell the householder which one has blown. . . . A new shoe repair machine makes its own nails from wire as it works. . . . New York's Motor Boat Show displays a boat bailer run off the engine shaft. . . . Adjustable casters promise to keep furniture from warping on uneven floors.

REACHING FOR THE MOON—Last year American aviation set an unofficial speed record of 1600 miles an hour and an unofficial altitude record of 83,235 feet. A jet engine of 10,000 pounds thrust went into production, as did several types of guided missiles.

Tremendous progress in the industry's fifty years, but progress is far from finished. Minneapolis-Honeywell, home-heating controls pioneer which turned to aviation controls in World War II, has developed an intricate electronic brain for planes. Using a punched tape to monitor the plane's complicated control equipment, this device makes fully automatic flight feasible.

The same principle could be used to control the maze of instruments in a space ship on a 15,000-mile-an-hour flight to the moon. This company is now working on a new kind of control system to make possible automatically controlled landings on carriers—even compensating for pitch and roll of the flight deck.

COFFEE HEADACHE—Coffee importers and roasters are back in the middle as the rise in the price of raw coffee seems to have reached a peak. Big roasters' policy is to base retail prices on the cost of stocks, not of replacements. Hence, when the price of raw coffee went from 54 cents to 74 cents on bad growing weather in Brazil, roasted coffee followed the rise at a respectful distance.

Now, even with the green beans falling off in price around five or six cents a pound, increases in retail prices must still be expected. Markups at retail, and restaurateurs' talking of 15-cent cups of coffee, have alerted the consumer. What he will see is raw coffee going down and coffee in the cup still going up.

Radio commentators, columnists and congressmen tell the drinker he gets the worst of it.

Here's the Answer

What Do You Think of Your Kewaskum?

You high school boys are no different than your dads when they were your age. We all liked to show off. But your dads did not have such dangerous things to show off with as you have, like the automobile for instance.

It is fine to drive a car especially when you can attract the girls attention therewith. Yet when you thereby jeopardize the safety of others and cause property damage, it ceases to be fun.

Last Wednesday a few minutes before 12 noon a party was waiting at the southwest corner of the intersection at the entrance to Regal Ware for a worker at the plant when a car occupied by several students and driven by a student coming from the school turned south toward the railroad station. The driver tried to attract the attention of 2 girls that had crossed the intersection just ahead of him.

With his mind on the girls he used more room than needed to make the turn and just missed the waiting cars. Then he stepped on the gas, spinning his drive wheels, which threw sand and stones from the pavement for a distance of 40 to 50 ft. If any person or car could have been in line of those flying stones, someone may have been hurt or windshields broken. This has happened numerous times this winter, that windshields were damaged, even a picture window in a residence on the west side of town was broken, causing inconvenience and great cost to replace. One of the writers of this article one morning in front of the post office was showered by sand and stones some of which also hit the post office windows. This was done by a teenager, pulling away from the curb and spinning his wheels.

These young drivers certainly did not realize what they were doing, for if they had, they would not have acted as they did. It is just these acts which cause the complaints against the teenage drivers.

What say, fellows, let's improve that condition.

By the way, don't forget to use the school buses to go to the school basketball games, especially when the tournament games are playing. Register NOW and boost Kewaskum.

Set strawberry plants as early as possible in spring, says George Klingbeil, University of Wisconsin horticulturist. Mix the soil well before planting and add two quarts of garden fertilizer for each 50 feet of row. Make rows two feet apart with plants one foot apart.

List of Korean Vets of County is Sought

Because no authentic roster of veterans of the Korean crisis from Washington county is available, George A. Kolb, veterans service officer, has asked the press to publish an appeal to all veterans, who have been discharged since June 25, 1950, and who have not already done so to either send in his Separation Report Form DD 214 to the register of deeds for recording, or to send the following information to the Veterans Service Officer, Court House, West Bend, Wisconsin: Name, date of enlistment, date of discharge, rank, home address at time of enlistment, present address, the military organization in which he served and the name of his next of kin.

Kolb is also interested in securing the names of all Washington county men and women who are still in the service and the date of their entrance and is urging all parties who have someone in service to send him as much of the information mentioned above as is possible.

Kolb also advises that it is very imperative that all Form DD 214 Separation Reports be recorded with the register of deeds. There is no cost for this service, and by so doing, the veteran can prevent embarrassment on the part of his family in cases where they will be required to prove eligibility for benefits to which he or his family may be entitled.

If the discharge is not recorded and the document becomes lost, much time is lost in securing a certificate in lieu of lost discharge. For your future welfare, will you please assist in compiling this list.

Family household records started now will save a lot of trouble at tax time next year.

4-H Club News

KETTLE MORAIN 4-H CLUB
The February meeting of the Kettle Moraine 4-H club was held at Gage school. Opening song was Star Spangled Banner and roll call topic was "My Favorite Soft Drink."

At this meeting we also observed "Parents Night" and had a nice gathering. Mrs. H. Odekirk gave a talk to acquaint parents and new members what 4-H is about and what club members did this last year.

We got 8 new members this year, so that gives us an enrollment of 25 members.

Our new officers were installed: Pres., David Smith; vice-pres., Norman Heberer; treas., Joanne Ferber; sec., Eleanor Odekirk; reporter, Rachel Petermann, and sergeant-at-arms, Ronald Petermann.

We are putting up two window displays for National 4-H Club Week, March 6-13; one at Campbellsport whose committee is Alice Odekirk, Norman Heberer, Karl Haack and Maynard Bartelt, and one at Kewaskum and its committee is David Smith, Ronald Petermann, Leroy Gross and Rachel Petermann.

Demonstrations were given by Joanne Ferber on "How to Use a Telephone" and Alice Odekirk on "How to Make a Place Mat and Napkins."

The officers attended the Officers Training course, at Fond du Lac Vocational school on Jan. 30 and reported it has helped them very much. Our older members planned to attend a program at Fond du Lac to hear I. F. Y. E. delegate, Roger Wenzel, Feb. 11, who was the delegate to Greece for three months last summer. He also showed colored slides.

Leroy Gross entertained us with a few accordion selections. Recreation was in charge of David Smith, Ronald and Rachel Petermann.

Refreshments were served by Joanne and Edw. Ferber, Edw. Kirsch, Mrs. H. Odekirk and Mrs. Art Petermann.

Our next meeting will be held at Gage school on March 3.

MEETING OF KETTLE MORAIN HOMEMAKERS

At the January meeting of the Kettle Moraine Homemakers, members were instructed in baking a variety of yeast breads. Mrs. Wm. Schmidt and Mrs. Orville Petermann demonstrated four types of bread. Hostess for the meeting was Mrs. John Heberer.

On February 10, Miss Margaret Stone, home agent of Fond du Lac county, instructed the leaders from the Elmore Center in home repairs. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Wm. Schmidt. Those attending were Mrs. Henry Petermann and Mrs. Delbert Petermann of the Kettle Moraine club, Mrs. Clyde Smith of the Mauthe Lake club, Mrs. Leo Ketter and Mrs. Ray Hendricks of the North Ashford club, and Mrs. Henry Sauder, center chairman.
