Alone in his southbound auto, Andrew J. Medinger, Jr., 30, Campbellsport, R. 1, was crushed to death at midnight Saturday when the vehicle left County Trunk V, about five miles north of Kewaskum, and rolled over on him. He became Fond du Lac county's fourth traffic fatality of the year.

The accident occurred near where a town road intersects V. Marks showed that the car went out of control, veering to the far east of the road, then coursing back to the west where it left the route and overturned. The driver apparently was thrown out of the machine and was crushed by it as it rolled. The body was on the ground a short distance from the badly damaged vehicle.

Andrew Medinger was born Aug. 27, 1923 in the town of Holland. He was married to the former Geraldine Jaeger of Port Washington there on Mar. 2, 1946. The couple resided in the town of Ashford where Medinger was employed at the Old Ironsides Battery Works near Campbellsport.

Survivors are his parents, widow and two children, Barbara and James; a brother, Wilbur, Port Washington, and two sisters, Mrs. Helen Block and Mrs. Leon Jacky of Belgium.

Funeral services were held at St. Matthew's church, Campbellsport, at 9 a. m. Wednesday. Burial was in the church cemetery.

In an accident early Sunday, a new car driven by Vernon A. Firkis, 24, Kewaskum, went out of control at the intersection of Highways 14 and 23, this side of Boltonville, went into the ditch and rolled over. Firkis received a bruised knee. He told authorities that the car went out of control when it hit some loose sand while he was turning from Hwy. 14 onto 23. The car was quite badly damaged.

Robert Mielke, 26, Campbellsport, was severely cut when his auto left County Trunk G, three miles south of Dundee at 5:45 a. m. Saturday and rained into three trees. Fond du Lac county police said that Mielke was taken to Sheboygan for treatment. He was en route to work at Kewaskum when the mishap occurred.

Port Beats Chevs to Finish Season

LAND O' LAKES STANDINGS
(Second Half)

Team	Won	Lost
Port Washington	6	1
West Bend	5	1
Fond du Lac	5	2
Horicon	4	3
KEWASKUM	3	4
Rosendale	2	5
Mayville	1	6
Brandon	1	5

In their last game of the second half and the season in the Lakes league, the Kewaskum Chevrons were beaten by a very good, newly strengthened Port Washington five here Sunday night, 81-65, before a fine crowd. Counting the forfeited game to Rosendale, the Chevrons ended up in fifth place.

By taking Kewaskum, Port clinched a share of the second half title. This was Port's final contest but West Bend still had a game at Brandon this week. The Benders probably beat tail end Brandon and this would give them a tie with Port for the second half crown. The two will then play off for the second half title. If the Benders win they will cop the grand championship as they took the first half crown. If Port should win then another series will be necessitated for the grand title with West Bend.

The Port team has been considerably strengthened with the addition of another Monahan brother, Mike. He just got out of the service and has played only the last two games. Mike is big, played a very aggressive floor game, snared many rebounds, and with Doug Ritchie tied for high scoring honors with 25 against the Chevrons. Ritchie always the big gun in the Port attack but with the second Monahan back they now have a real one, two punch.

Although Monahan and Ritchie, former Wisconsin ace, and loop leading scorer, were top point men for the winners, they had to yield high honors for the evening to Kewaskum's star, John Tessar. Tessar, second highest scorer in the loop, made 31 points, even though he was guarded closely.

Port roared off to a sizable lead and then held off repeated Kewaskum threats to close the gap. Port was ahead at the quarter, 22-13, and never was headed. The half-time margin was 44-27, after which the Chevrons rallied but then ran out of gas.

Fillmore battled Kewaskum on even terms in the first quarter as Gordie Wierman led the attack. But the locals opened up in the second period with Don Meisenheimer and Ken Pierce paving the way, and went on to win easily.

Meisenheimer and Wierman led for scoring honors with 20 each. High scoring George Hanrahan was held to 12. Pierce took up the slack left by Hanrahan's low total with 17 points. Karl Fickler added

Rest and Diet Helps "Yellow Jaundice"

For most people there is rarely any reason to give much thought to the liver. It is normally a silent, symptomless organ which does its work without fuss or protest. Unfortunately, the liver can and sometimes does get out of order. Many different disease conditions and infections may cause damage to the liver, but an increasingly frequent culprit is a newly discovered virus—the virus of infectious hepatitis.

Infectious hepatitis is not a new disease; in fact, it is an old disease with a new name. It has been occurring in this country for more than a century under a variety of names, one of the most common being catarrhal or "yellow jaundice."

The disease is most common in children and young adults. Household contacts of a case are more likely to develop the disease than other persons of similar age. Epidemics have a tendency to occur most frequently during the fall and winter months.

There is no drug which appears to have any appreciable effect on the virus. Rest and diet are the chief forms of treatment. A proper diet lessens the degree of liver damage and shortens the course of the disease. All cases, therefore, should be under the supervision of a physician. Rest in bed is equally important. Getting out of bed too soon after the symptoms have subsided may bring about a relapse.

The disease spreads from person to person as a result of close contact, but the exact mode of transmission is not entirely clear. The virus may be spread by discharges from the nose and throat. Thus, while control methods thus far are not too satisfactory, it is believed that the spread of the infection may be limited through improved hygiene and sanitation practices.

Though the number of cases of hepatitis have increased tremendously during the past few years, the disease is rarely fatal. With proper care complete recovery usually occurs; and with a pure milk and water supply, wholesome food, and sanitary toilet habits the danger of "catching" this disease can be largely eliminated.

IRON ORE MAY HAVE REACHED PEAK

Federal Reserve Bank thinks Great Lakes ore activities may have reached the peak in 1953. New records were set in mining iron ore, in beneficiation of low grades of ore, and in shipping ores from the head of the Lakes. Lake vessels carried the vast total of 95,844,449 tons of ore to lower ports; previous record was something above 92 million tons in 1942; during intervening years the range was 59 to 89 million tons a season. That '53 may have been a peak season is hinted by lessened requirements for steel, increasing foreign ore supplies, and the development of taconite concentrates—which latter involves the use of more labor and equipment.

Smooth a Rough Cement Floor— For Asphalt Tile

SMOOTH CEMENT FOR FLOOR TILE

When you install asphalt tile on a cement floor, the surface must be reasonably smooth. This means there should be no bumps or uneven spots, no large pits or holes, and no paint. This often worries the home repairman who is about to install his own tile.

Lumps of cement mortar which have hardened on the surface of the floor, may often be removed with a cold chisel and a hammer. Be careful not to chip holes in the floor.

If this does not work, try using a carborundum polishing stone, see illustration, and water.

A portable electric disc sander is also a good thing to use for removing rough spots. Use a very hard grade of abrasive cloth or paper.

As a last resort you may hire the floor ground with a terrazzo floor grinding machine.

High seams or edges where cracks or holes have been repaired may be smoothed in the same manner.

For removing paint, a strong detergent is recommended. Add trisodium phosphate to a pail of hot water until it is strong enough to remove paint.

Paint remover may be used, but is apt to be dangerous. Some types are highly inflammable. Others give off a gas which is dangerous to breathe. The space where it is being used should be well ventilated.

The disc sander is about the best answer for removing paint which is too stubborn to come off with either of the above methods.

WHAT MAKES A SUCCESSFUL MARRIAGE?

Do Americans regard the marriage bond too lightly? Perhaps a glance at divorce statistics today will suffice for an answer. Out of every eight persons married, two become divorced.

Marriage is a sacred rite divinely instituted and should never be conceived of in a trivial light. It is far too serious an institution to be entered into without preparation through adequate courtship and through wise planning toward the erection of a stable home and a wholesome family life.

To enter your marriage impulsively, excitedly, unthinkingly or without recognizing the compatibility between would-be partners is not only unwise but also dangerous. Unsuccessful marriages are fraught with tension, stress and frustration for both the marriage partners and for the offspring within the home.

To the plastic minds of children an unwholesome home atmosphere proves a veritable hotbed of emotional instability, out of which grow many warped personalities tending toward maladjustments in general. In fact, to say that an unsuccessful marriage is frequently the cause of mental disorder is not an overstatement.

On the other hand, a happy marriage entered into aright can prove a most healthful core of family life as well as an effective device for combatting future emotional instabilities.

No more impregnable cornerstone upon which a nation should be built can be found than a wholesome marriage in which partners continue true to their sacred vows while striving to set up for themselves and their offspring a program of love, security, sympathetic understanding, adherence to the principles of right and a proper use of the sexual function.

The announcement that nine million Americans are suffering today because of emotional disorders (of both serious and mild types), and the statement that the appalling prevalence of such psychic disturbances is creating a problem attested to the fact that far too many homes and teaching agencies in the past have failed to stress adequately the importance of a good emotional climate within the home. Far too long also have parents failed to instruct their offspring in the proper uses and the costly abuses of sex.

Since the time when the divine injunction "Be fruitful and multiply," was issued to our first parents, one of the two most powerful instinctual urges of man has been the propagation of the human race; yet because many fail to understand the proper use of the sexual function as a beautiful expression of harmonious love, often the proper psychic element is entirely lacking; and, as a result, marriage partners experience difficulties which actually at times express themselves in either physical or emotional disturbances.

CORN MEAL HUSH PUPPIES SATISFY "Growling" TUMMIES

There is an exceptional taste treat in store for you any time the table fare calls for a flavorful bread to go along with a meal. Whether it's a party for friends or just an every day dinner for the family, you'll find Hush Puppies the corn meal food to delight hard-to-please appetites.

High in nutritive value yet low in cost, Hush Puppies make a delightful service when combined with vegetables, meat, fish or poultry. And they're extra good when served with fresh, boiled shrimp, too. You can serve them with every meal, any time of the day or night, and you'll have the family coming back for more.

Whatever the occasion, prepare Hush Puppies and you'll make meal-time so nice to come home to.

HUSH PUPPIES

- 2 cups corn meal
  - 2 teaspoons baking powder
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 cup finely chopped onions
  - 2 cups sweet milk
- (If self-rising corn meal is used, omit baking powder and salt.)

Combine dry ingredients and sift together. Add onion and milk and blend well. Preheat deep fat to 365°F., dip tablespoon into hot fat and then into dough, shaping the dough slightly to make fairly round. Drop into hot fat and cook until well browned.

When the man of the house is asked his preference concerning meat for the meal, he will invariably suggest steak or beef. Good beef should have a bright red color and a moist juicy surface when freshly cut; firm, fine grained muscle; dry crumbly suet, with white in color and thick solid edge of straw colored fat. Be sure your beef is bought right, cooked right and served right.

Meat Pie with Biscuit Topping

- 2 lbs. bottom round or rump beef 1 1/2 inches thick
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Pepper—celery salt
- 1/2 cup bacon fat
- 3 beef bouillon cubes
- 2 1/2 cups boiling water
- 1/2 teaspoon condiment sauce
- 3 large carrots scraped and cut in large pieces
- 1/2 small white onion peeled

Cut meat into 1 1/2 inch cubes and dredge with 1/4 cup of the flour to which the salt, pepper and celery salt have been added. Brown quickly in a large skillet in 4 tablespoons of the bacon fat. Melt remaining 4 tablespoons in deep-well cooker, large kettle or Dutch oven. Add 2 tablespoons flour and blend. Dissolve the bouillon cube in the boiling water and add gradually to the bacon fat and flour mixture. Stir until well blended, add condiment sauce. Add browned meat and drippings to gravy. Reduce heat to low and simmer, covered for 2 hours. Add vegetables and cook until vegetables and meat are tender. Thicken gravy with the 2 tablespoons of flour blended with 3 tablespoons of water. Turn meat mixture into a greased casserole, and top with baking powder biscuits cut with a doughnut cutter. Bake in an oven 450 degrees for 15 minutes or until biscuits are done.

Russian Beef

- 1 1/2 pounds of round steak thinly sliced, cut in half inch wide strips
  - 4 tablespoons hot drippings or shortening
  - 3 medium sized onions chopped
  - Salt and pepper
  - 2 1/2 cups water
  - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
  - 1 cup sour cream
  - Boiled noodles
- Dredge strips of beef with the flour. Brown in the drippings. Add the chopped onions. Season well with salt and pepper. Add water and dry mustard. Cover and simmer about an hour, until meat is tender. Just before removing from heat add sour cream. Serve with hot boiled noodles.

Planked Beef Moderne

- 2 pounds ground beef
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- Pepper
- 2 teaspoons grated onion
- 2 strips raw carrot
- 3 cups seasoned mashed potatoes
- Hot seasoned string beans
- Hot cubed carrots
- Lightly mix beef, salt, pepper and grated onion. Shape to resemble a T-bone steak about 1 inch thick. Press in strips of raw carrot to simulate bone. Place on shallow baking pan. Broil about 3 inches from heat, in preheated broiler, carrot side down, for about 7 minutes. Transfer meat, cooked side down to an oiled plank. Make a border of the mashed potatoes marking top with tines of fork. Brush potato with melted butter and broil about 5 minutes until steak is done, potatoes browned. Fill in space around steak with the string beans and carrots.

Belgian Meat Balls

- 1 pound ground beef
  - 2 tablespoons minced onion
  - 1/4 cup corn meal
  - 2 tablespoons green pepper, minced
  - 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
  - 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
  - 1 teaspoon salt
  - Pepper
  - 1 cup milk
  - 1 egg
  - 1 1/2 cups tomato soup
- Mix beef, minced onion, corn meal, green pepper, chili powder, dry mustard, salt and pepper, milk and egg. Form into 12 balls. Let balls stand for 1/2 hour, then roll in flour. Brown in 4 tablespoons hot fat. Take out meat balls, add to fat 1 tablespoon of flour and 1 1/2 cups tomato soup. Season well. Put balls into this mixture, cover and bake 35 to 45 minutes in an oven 400 degrees.

NEW BRUNSWICK—Getting ready for a visit of the Crusade for Freedom's motor-trailer display at their plant, workers at the Johnson and Johnson Co. sign the Freedom Scroll pledging their support to the Crusade's drive for Radio Free Europe. The display which features the now-famous home-made "Freedom Tank" in which eight Czechs escaped to freedom last July, will make a stop at the New Brunswick plant of the surgical dressing company during a tour of New Jersey from Feb. 1 to Feb. 12. Freedom Scrolls containing pledges of Johnson and Johnson workers will be added "short-snorter" fashion to a large telephone cable reel on the display capable of holding 100,000 scrolls. The three signers above (l. to r.) are: Mrs. Norma Ross, Miss Irene Sendrey, and Mrs. Olga Maley. On hand at the signing is Thomas Curran, Johnson and Johnson recreation manager who collected Truth Dollars from signers as their donation to the continued work of Radio Free Europe in broadcasting to the 70 million people behind the Iron Curtain.

GROWING BETTER CROPS

Tomato is still tops in canning crop value.

Outlook For Canning Crops In 1954

Growers of crops for processing will find most basic factors affecting their 1954 outlook as favorable as they were at this time last year.

With consumer income expected to remain high and income tax cuts benefiting many individuals, canning leaders predict that about as much purchasing power will be available for food as in 1953. Grocery wholesalers see the 1954 outlook as bright as last year's, biggest in grocery industry history. Any economic setbacks are expected to be mild, and in any case, canned foods, whose prices have risen much less than other food products, would remain the "best buy" on retail shelves.

Last year's harvested acreage of 11 major processing vegetables totaled 180 million acres, 3% under 1942-51 U.S.D.A. average. Crop value, however, was $274 million, 29% above the average.

Supply-Demand in Balance

As a whole, the supply-demand position for canned foods appears in good balance for 1954. Industry authorities predict a total supply about the same as in 1953.

The canned vegetables in greatest supply relative to demand include corn, tomatoes, carrots, pumpkin and squash, and tomato sauce. However, total canned vegetable supply until mid-1954 will be about equal to a year ago. Canned fruit supplies will not be greatly different, though this will vary considerably for individual items. A larger pack of apples, for example, appears certain if raw stocks permit.

Acreage plans, keyed to both national and area requirements, are being set now. Heavy snows have eased growers' concern in some sections over lack of subsoil moisture. No severe injury to fruit buds has developed to date, Michigan reports.

In Wisconsin, 1953's leading state in canning crop acreage, prospects are for some decrease in planted acreage of corn, peas and beans, but about the same as in 1953 for green and wax beans. Farther east, Dr. Paul E. Nystrom, University of Maryland, points out that slightly higher stocks of major canned vegetable reported in December may be offset by slightly smaller production of some crops. Stocks of tomatoes and snap beans are not burdensome in the Tri-State area of Maryland, New Jersey and Delaware. Nystrom notes, an about the same acreage may be called for in 1954. However, stock of canned sweet corn and peas are up somewhat and a slight downward adjustment of acreage may be in order, coupled with strong promotional program.

Room For Some Optimism

"All in all," Nystrom concludes, "there is room for some optimism about prospects for canning crop, based largely on expectation of continued strong demand from consumers for canned vegetables."

On the vital matter of farm prices, it might be pointed out that the increasing use of contracts between growers and processors is doing much to stabilize this category of cash crops, an early in the season, too. A grower's marketing problems, which can range up to 85% of production costs, are also eliminated when crops are sold to processors.

What Do You Think of Your Kewaskum?

This question will be answered to a good degree by the attendance we will see at the meeting to be held at the Kewaskum High school to discuss the plans for a Union Free High school district.
We in America are enjoying a privilege not enjoyed elsewhere in the world. Many of the things we enjoy in this, our beloved country, are taken for granted.
Our forefathers worked hard to acquire the liberties we possess. But to KEEP them we must also do our share of work, such as SACRIFICING time and showing interest in civic affairs. It is our duty to safeguard these liberties by being and showing interest also in such projects as will be discussed at this meeting on March 15 in the Kewaskum High school auditorium.
Every taxpaying citizen should be present because his pocketbook as well as the children's welfare will be involved. Your committee is urging everyone to attend.
One of your committeemen was very much pleased while attending a Kiwanis meeting in West Bend, where he witnessed the honoring and rewarding of two (2) high school pupils for safe and courteous operation of an automobile. These pupils were chosen by the student body, the faculty and police dept. of West Bend.

How about a similar action being sponsored in Kewaskum High school and community?

By Betty Ann

EDITOR
THE MILWAUKEE JOURNAL
WOMAN'S PAGES

Women from the age of 2, are charmed by things that bear the exclusively feminine stamp, says Betty Ann. You might keep this in mind if you would interest your feminine youngster in the use of soap and water.

Let her feel that she is acting like a grownup beauty.

Instead of offering her soap, face cloth and towel, give her her own body brush, bath mitt, nail and complexion brushes. A novelty toothbrush is also good insurance after meal brushing.

To add appeal to these items, you might make them into a package to present as a special gift. Wrap it in pretty paper and ribbon to complete the glamour touch.

Of course, as much as they love acting grownup, little girls can't resist fun with soapuds. If you show your youngster how to smooth the suds across her mouth and exhale gently to create bubbles, she'll have a wonderful time and get her face clean in the process.

You might also extend the adult atmosphere to shampoo time, though, of course, this will be your responsibility for some while. For instance, your daughter will love having her curls lathered above a plastic shield that will keep the soap out of her eyes.

Then she won't mind at all having her hair washed as often as once a week. And you will be starting her out right on the sound practice of the weekly shampoo.

Worn out blankets need not be tossed away. Just stitch the outer edges together and cover them with a comfort cover. You'll have a coverlet that will give you good service.

There's a popular notion that clean woollens are relatively safe from moths. This is untrue. Moths and carpet beetles will attack clean woollens. To be safe, make sure that your woolen clothing is treated with a moth preventive. Your dry cleaner can do this for you.

Men always shake hands when meeting another man. But when a man is introduced to a woman he waits to see if she is going to offer her hand. A woman may or may not offer her hand—unless she is greeting guests in her own home.

At home, she is supposed to emphasize her welcome with an outstretched hand to every guest she greets at the door.

A piping hot savory beef stew with rich brown gravy and meat cooked to delicious tenderness will make almost any family call for seconds. It's easier on the pocketbook now that medium and lower grade beef are in such good supply on markets, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

One secret of success with stews is long, slow cooking. Another is browning the cubes of lean beef on all sides in a little fat before adding water and cooking in a covered pan until the meat is tender enough to cut with a fork. A third secret is skillful seasoning with onions, tomato, celery tops, parsley or other favorite herbs and seasonings. If the stew is not thick enough by the time the meat is tender, mix a little flour to a smooth paste with an equal quantity of water, add a little of the stew to this paste, then stir the mixture slowly into the rest of the stew and cook until smooth and thick. This prevents lumpy gravy.

Once a stew is made, it may be served in many different ways for variety. Try it with a border of rice potatoes or flaky rice, or with dumplings. Or make it into a meat pie under a lid of biscuits, pastry or mashed potatoes. Scallop it with macaroni or spaghetti. Or use it as a filling for hot biscuits in beef shortcake.

Red ripe apples are a "standby" for the homemaker. There are many varieties of this plump red fruit. Some are suited better for eating out of hand and others for cooking. But the fact remains, they're good. Add finely chopped apples to muffins or coffee cakes for a flavorsome addition to fall meals. A streusel topping for coffee cakes can also take up the "apple theme." Generous amounts of finely chopped apples added to the topping makes a coffee cake something special.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

Floor coverings give warmth and character to a room. The style tendency today is toward wall-to-wall carpeting. Colors are clearer and lighter. Textures are interesting and rough. Cotton rugs of all sorts and a variety known as the string rug are being used in less formal rooms. These string or shaggy rugs are attractive and very much in style.

As good carpeting and good rugs are a major expense, it is best to know something about their construction. Here are the distinctions found in wool rugs. The first is in yarn made from wool called worsted; the second is woolen yarn.

In making worsted yarn, the fibers are combed repeatedly until the long fibres only are lying parallel; they are then slightly twisted. This produces a firm, long-wearing yarn with some lustre. About twenty to thirty more operations are required to make worsted the woolen yarn.

Woolen yarn is spun from staple wool in such a way that barbs of each fibre interlock, forming a soft and usable strand. The important thing to consider in both wool and worsted is the selection of live wool, which springs back.

Chenille is a weave of the best grade of rugs made by machine. It has a high, soft pile with a closely woven back. It comes in standard widths, and in the finest grades is sometimes woven to special sizes.

Wilton is a weave made with a Jacquard loom. It is a solid close weave.

Axminster is a weave which has come to the fore during the last few years because of wonderful advances in styling, coloring and construction. It is made in a wide range of prices and, in the better grades, will give excellent service.

Velvet and Tapestry are the same weaves. The only difference is that in Velvet, the tufts are formed from cup loops, as in Chenille, while in Tapestry the pile is made of loops of yarn that are left uncut.

American Orientals of good quality closely resemble rugs woven and knotted by hand. Their design is copied from original Oriental rugs and are woven in Wilton or Axminster weaves.

Orange Marmalade Glamorizes Bread Pudding

By DOROTHY MADDOX

HERE'S a new-fashioned way to make a better and quicker bread pudding than grandmother ever hummed a tune over. What's so good about it is that it's made with either sweet or bitter orange marmalade as the main sweetener.

It's easy to make, and doesn't require any extra shopping if you have bought and kept a few tumbled of either sweet or bitter marmalade on your pantry shelves. The other ingredients, such as day-old bread, eggs and milk, etc., are always with you. Topped with a frothy cloud of sweetened meringue, this pudding is handsome enough and special enough even for a party.

Orange Marmalade Bread Pudding

(Makes 6-8 servings)

Three eggs, separated; 4 cups milk, scalded; 2 tablespoons butter or margarine; ½ cup orange marmalade, sweet or bitter; ¼ cup sugar; ½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring; 5 slices day-old bread, cut in 1-inch squares; ¼ cup sugar.

In a large bowl, beat 3 egg yolks and 1 egg white. Reserve remaining 2 egg whites for meringue. Gradually stir in milk, blending well. Then stir in butter, ¼ cup of the orange marmalade, ¼ cup sugar, salt, vanilla and bread; mix lightly but thoroughly.

Pour mixture into a buttered, 1½-quart baking dish. Set baking dish in a pan of hot water. (The water should come within 1 inch of the top of baking dish.)

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 45 to 50 minutes, or until a knife inserted near one side of the pudding comes out clean.

Remove baking dish from the oven. Turn oven regulator to hot 425 degrees F. Spread top of pudding with the remaining ¼ cup of orange marmalade.

To make the meringue: In a bowl, whip two egg whites until they form soft peaks. Add ¼ cup sugar, a tablespoon at a time, whipping after each addition until the mixture is glossy and forms stiff peaks.

Spoon the meringue over the pudding in a circle or oval shape. Put baking dish in the pan of hot water and bake about 5 minutes, or until the meringue is lightly browned. Decorate meringue with additional orange marmalade. Serve warm.

ANTICS OF OUR ANIMAL FRIENDS

A deer wandered into Olivia, made friends along the business streets, and stayed several days, enjoying generous "handouts" all over town. A brief power interruption in the Twin Valley area was traced to an arctic owl with nearly 6-foot wingspread, pretty thoroughly cooked after short-circuiting 69,000 volts. Eight of 11 wild ducks hatched on an Austin farm tamed readily, the other three wander around sort of half and half, but they didn't go south with their wild brethren.

Nature's Way

The two crackmen had been toiling for hours at a tough safe. They were about to give up when one of them rose and moved toward the telephone.

"Watcha doin'?" asked his mate, alarmed.

"This is sure to work," said the first with a sigh. "I'll ask the wife to come over."

"Jack, dear," said the bride, "let's try to make the other people think we've been married a long time."

"All right, honey. But do you think you can carry both suitcases?"

WAR-DAMAGED BERLIN MAKING A COMEBACK

When the Big Four Foreign Ministers Council convened in Berlin in late January, diplomats found a city that is still only a sprawling skeleton of its former might. They also found surprising recovery from war's devastation.

In West Berlin industrial production has reached almost 70 percent of the 1936 level. Over 11,000 homes have been built and 16,000 repaired. Another 11,000 dwellings are going up. From the more than 70 million tons of rubble that clogged the streets, Berliners have constructed new office buildings, apartments, hotels, playgrounds and swimming pools.

Most heavily bombed of all German cities, Berlin was 40 percent destroyed during World War II, the National Geographic Society says. The city provided more strategic bombing targets than Munich, Leipzig, Cologne, Hanover and Mannheim combined. Heaps of shattered masonry, steel and glass were piled 30 feet high. Thousands of buildings were left burned-out shells.

City Divided

Berlin today is deep in the Soviet zone of Germany. The eastern half of the city is occupied by the Russians, the western half by American, British and French authorities. There have been frequent conflicts over the city's economical and political administration.

In 1948-49, a 322-day Russian blockade isolated West Berlin. The Western powers were forced to operate a gigantic airlift to supply food and fuel to the two million residents in the western sector.

Last summer disgruntled workmen rioted in East Berlin. Soviet tanks, troops and armored cars were called in to quell the uprisings. Martial law was declared. Some 1,500,000 people live in East Berlin.

In pre-war days the former German capital was the largest city on the European continent. Its 1940 population of 4,355,000 was surpassed only in London, New York and Tokyo. During the war almost two million residents abandoned their homes in this constantly attacked city.

At its wartime peak, nearly 200 of the leading factories of Germany, employing one-tenth of the nation's industrial workers, operated in Berlin. Huge plants turned out airplane engines, tables, ammunition, armaments and machine tools.

Electrical goods, clothing, optics and chemicals are today the leading products of West Berlin factories. Unemployment is at its lowest in eight years.

Vital Site

Modern Berlin spreads over 341 square miles of a flat, open plain on the Spree River, a hundred miles from the Baltic Sea. Its site has been a natural crossroads for both trade and conquest since medieval times.

In early days it was an outpost of the militant religious order of the Teutonic Knights in campaigns to subjugate and convert the Slavs. Later, as the capital of Brandenburg, Berlin was the nucleus of the expanding power of the Hohenzollern family.

Still later, Berlin became the capital of Prussia, and in 1871 it joined the front ranks of international cities as the government seat of the newly formed German Empire. It soon grew into the nation's industrial and commercial center, as well as the hub of transport lines by air, highway, rail, river and canal.

Statehood For Hawaii

Recent developments have indicated that statehood for Hawaii is only a short period of time in the future. Senator Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat, has indicated he would support a bill in both the Senate Interior Committee and on the floor of the Senate.

Since Senator Long is a member of the Interior Committee, which held up a vote on the Hawaiian Statehood bill at the last session, his announcement is an important one. He voted at the last session in favor of further argument before the bill was reported to the Senate.

The question of statehood for Hawaii raises basic issues which the Congress has never yet dissolved. There has never been a state detached from the mainland in the history of the country. There is also the question where the process will stop if the United States begins to incorporate states in faraway areas into the United States. Admittedly, those in favor of statehood of Hawaii have put up a strong case, although the measure is not likely to be passed in the Senate without bitter opposition.

It is our belief that while Senator Long's recent announcement is significant, it does not necessarily insure success for the bill—as proponents are proclaiming. No doubt, the bill now has its best chance for passage in the last session of the Eighty-Third Congress. It could well be that the forty-eight states will be forty-nine before the year 1954 is ended.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Have your best and most important pictures enlarged so that they will assume proper importance when placed in your album, and at the same time add interest to the appearance of the book.

Variety Will Add Spice to Your Album

VARIETY, so 'tis said, is the spice of life—and it is also the dash of spice that will add interest to your snapshot album. And we aren't talking about variety in the subject matter of your pictures. We are talking about varying the way you place them in your album so that, at first glance, every page won't look just like the one before.

Pick up an album that is filled with pictures mounted in neat rows on page after page. Every picture seems to have the same importance. But we're sure that isn't true. Some of our snapshots are bound to be more important to us than others.

After thinking how such album pages look, think for a minute of the way magazines put together their picture pages. If they did them in the same way most of us do our albums, we'd tire of them very quickly. They have to lay out their picture pages in a fashion appealing to the eye. They strive to have not just each picture, but the page as a whole be interesting in appearance.

Enlargements of your favorite and most important pictures are easily within the average picture-taking budget. Your photofinisher will do a nice job of enlarging your best negatives and you'll be surprised at how little it costs.

One of the tricks you can borrow from the magazine layout people is that of overlapping pictures, having one run into the other. You can easily do things like that in your own snapshot album—you don't even have to cut the prints. Just slip the corner of one under the corner of another.

You can trim your snapshots into odd shapes. You won't want to do too many of them that way, but just enough to add a dash of interest to the book. You can even feature the "star" of your family, or of a special occasion in a star-shaped picture.

When you are making up your album, remember that, as in looking at magazines, you always see two pages at one time. Keep that in mind and lay the two facing pages out at the same time so that you can be sure they'll look well together. —John Van Gulder

Bible Comment:

To Glorify God One Must Honor And Accept Him

WHAT does it mean to glorify God and live in His Glory? One dictionary says glory is "distinguished honor or ornamentation; exalted reputation; praise; splendor of state; the quality of being radiant; luster; the bliss of heaven; a halo."

These dictionary definitions seem to be derived from the Bible. In the glorifying of God almost all the dictionary meanings are present, but chief among them is the quality of honor.

To glorify God is to honor Him. And what does honoring God mean? It is quite possible that honor means very much in relation to God what it means in the lesser things of life.

In ordinary, mundane matters we speak of "honoring" a check, or a note. This implies that we accept full responsibility for it as ours.

To honor God is to accept Him, to take His love and His will into our lives, to become responsible to Him for our character and ways.

Honoring God is something more than reverence or obedience. It is a false notion that represents God as a great potentate, sitting on a throne in gorgeous garments.

It is false to represent God as being ready to wreak His vengeance and authority upon His subjects if they do not fall down and offer their abject devotion.

The likeness of God to earthly sovereigns has been overdone. It is a false and misleading conception.

To glorify God is to accept Him and what He offers, and to become like Him in creative life and acts of love and good will. "Here is My Father glorified," said Jesus, "that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be My disciples."

When you are planning a buffet menu, include those main course foods that can be served on a single plate. Unless you are going to have small tables at which guests can seat themselves, it's best to serve fork foods. Any bread, rolls, or biscuits served, should be buttered ahead of time.

Sweet potatoes in a hot oven will need from one-half hour to 45 minutes, depending on their size and shape. When their centers pierce easily with a fork, they're done. As soon as the potatoes come out of the oven break skins slightly so steam will escape.

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A STUDENT'S BOOKSHELF

Open-faced bookshelves place books within easy reach. The fewer the impediments, such as doors, the more likely that the student will reach for the books.

The sturdy bookshelves shown below are easy to construct. All joints are nailed, with long finishing nails, the head set into the wood, and the holes filled. For short shelves of 3 feet or so, the nails provide sufficient strength to support the normal book load. For longer spans, short blocks may be placed beneath the shelf ends.

Shelf space of 10 inches high and 9 inches deep will take care of most text books, but it is well to allow a 10-inch depth for periodicals and notebooks.

Dimensions on the drawing are based on 3/4-inch wood. Although this bookshelf is easily and inexpensively made, it can be an attractive addition to the student's room. Time spent in sanding the wood to a smooth surface will pay dividends in appearance. The wood may then be stained and varnished, or enameled or lacquered as the decorating scheme dictates.

The choice of the best wood for the job will depend upon the finish desired. The builder should study the surroundings in which the bookshelf will be placed, and then seek the guidance of his lumber dealer.

MAKE A STUDENT'S BOOKSHELF

Bookshelves, if easy to reach and handy to use, are an aid to the student. Placed near his study desk, a small bookshelf, unimpeded by doors, helps him maintain a neat and efficient working area. Books may be selected and replaced quickly. In designing the student's bookshelf, therefore, one must consider it as a working tool to better scholarship, and develop an attractive but usable piece of furniture.

Simplest construction for a sturdy set of bookshelves calls for 1-inch stock, which when planed is about 3/4-inch thick. A book case 36 inches long and about 35 inches high is generally ample for most student use.

NEW YORK—Student escapes from Kremlin tyranny sign Freedom Scrolls in the Crusade for Freedom. Those shown were among a group of 58 who joined the Crusade under the sponsorship of the Free Europe University in Exile—a U. S. Scholarship program through which the students attend 49 various American universities. The group contributed 58 Truth Dollars toward the support of Radio Free Europe whose broadcasts inspired many of them to escape.

First, make a plan drawing as shown in the accompanying sketches. This will assist in drawing up a bill of materials, and will be of help when you discuss with your local lumber dealer the kinds of woods suited to the job. The bookshelf should blend with the other furniture in the student's room; the selection of wood should, therefore, take into consideration the finish desired.

For short shelf spans, up to 36 inches, long finishing nails are sufficient to support the normal book load without additional supports. For longer spans, it is desirable to provide shelf supports in the form of small blocks beneath the shelf ends, or by the insertion of vertical separators.

Few textbooks are taller than 9 or 9 1/2 inches, so the shelves are placed 10 inches apart. If large books must be accommodated, the bottom shelf space may be made larger. This arrangement places the heavier books on the bottom where there is additional support; the "floor" of the bookcase is nailed on all four sides (see End View).

The heads of the long finishing nails are set into the wood, and the holes are filled with plastic wood or other filler, care being taken to see that the filler material is not spread over the adjacent wood surface, especially if the natural grain of the wood is to be displayed in the finished case. Sanding will remove any excess filler. In fact, the whole job should be sanded smoother before stain or varnish is applied. Stain is best applied by rubbing it in with a piece of cloth waste, rather than with a brush. Before applying any stain to the finished case, the stain should be tried on a piece of scrap wood, then darkened or lightened as necessary, until the desired tone is developed.

Tools? Hammer, saw, nail-set, sandpaper, & carpenter's square. A plane may be handy, but not necessary if surfaced lumber is used.

Dogs Lead Hectic Life in the Windy City

A dog's life in Chicago, Ill., recently was not a rosy one. It all started when two rabid dogs bit 19 persons in 16 hours. Strays were ordered picked up and inoculated against the disease. While some of the dogs weren't too appreciative of man's efforts to save them from rabies, others, like the one at left shown kissing veterinarian Erich R. Maschgan, refused to let their love for man be shaken by the momentary prick of an injection needle. And, while the Windy City warred on rabies, time was taken out by the Anti-Cruelty Society of Chicago and the Coast Guard to rescue a mongrel who wandered out onto the icy waters of the Chicago River—and couldn't get back. When coaxing failed to bring the dog ashore, three sailors hung from a Coast Guard cutter, lower left, and pulled the dog, arrow, from the water. Ben Maringer of the Anti-Cruelty Society is shown at lower right holding the frightened dog in a leather jacket after the rescue.

Rabies inoculation doesn't shake this pup's love of man.

Control of Lice On Cattle Needs Attention Now

Dairy and beef herd owners were advised today that measures should be started immediately to control lice if the pests are spotted on cattle.

The American Veterinary Medical Association said quick control measures could reduce the losses caused by these parasites and would protect the herds. Lice can cause serious anemia in cattle, sometimes terminating in death, if the parasite is not controlled.

"All cattle in the herd and their quarters should be sprayed with chlordane or lindane to destroy lice," the AVMA said. "If the weather is already too cold for spraying, a powdered chemical can be used."

Lice infestations are usually easy to spot in cattle. When animals start rubbing and scratching they should be checked for parasites. However, the AVMA added that such skin irritation may be a symptom of hyperkeratosis or of mange or other skin conditions, so a veterinarian's diagnosis is best obtained. He can also recommend sanitation and control measures to help head off serious losses the AVMA said.

EDEMA THREATENS PIGS FED FOR RAPID GAINS

Pigs fed heavily for rapid gains before spring marketing may become victims of edema disease, veterinary medical authorities warned this week.

Sudden changes in the swine feeding program can also help bring on the disease, even in the healthiest herds, these authorities point out. Edema symptoms include weakness, hard breathing, difficulty in standing, and swellings around the eyes and mouth, and nervous symptoms.

Hog raisers were advised to get an immediate diagnosis if such signs appear. They should also avoid handling affected pigs before the veterinarian arrives, to avoid any disturbance which might intensify the existing trouble.

ROGER B.: How much water is there in the human body?

ANSWER: The amount varies with age and sex. In the infant it is close to 80 per cent of body weight. In elderly men the amount is about 50 per cent. In women the percent is somewhat higher.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

New York—One outgrowth of the great increase in pre-school and school age children in the United States is a rising movement for communities predominantly made up of middle-aged couples—small municipalities where nearly all the homes will be occupied by moderately well-off couples whose children are past school age.

Some areas where it is impractical to chop a community loose from its present taxing unit are attempting to reach the same end by increasing minimum lot sizes to tracts of a size the young householder can't afford to buy.

The idea is to defend the 50-year-olds, in their $25,000 homes, against the 25-year-olds at the other end of town, in their $8,000 homes, who vote taxes to expand schools to meet the needs of the one-third increase in school enrollment expected during the current decade.

Advantages of such havens are presented to the oldesters in whispers, since their promoters think there's a slight air of skulduggery about this running out on a long-accepted obligation. Actually, educators and sociologists agree that it's a good deal. "The old-timers' dragging of their heels on community projects sometimes gums up the works as much as their taxpaying ability helps pay for the improvements."

FACTORS' DICTIONARY—Every business has its technical vocabulary, and sometimes a word picks up a special meaning quite strange to those who have met it only in its everyday guise. Such a word, among factors, is "notification."

The genuine old-line factor purchases the receivables of his clients, and assumes all the risks and costs involved in collecting from the client's customers—who thus become the factor's accounts. First step in this process is notification—the serving of notice by the factor's client, the seller, upon the buyer that his obligation is to the factor rather than the supplier of the goods.

While factoring has spread from its original stronghold in the textile industry into some 50 other industries in the last generation, many businesses still refuse to adopt this useful practice because they shy from notification. Actually the textile industry considers notification a stamp of merit, showing the factor's confidence in his client as well as in his accounts.

THINGS TO COME—Tinted windshields for everyone come in an aerosol container. A detergent will take it off when no longer needed. . . A new milking machine not only takes the fluid from the cow, but cools, aerates, weighs and stores it. . . A mumps indicator, injected in a patient's forearm, makes red spots on infected persons. . . New coated paper produces duplicate copies without the use of carbon paper.

YAMS TO THE FORE—Eight years ago South Carolina agricultural experts, seeking to reduce production costs and raise consumer interest in yams, interested A & P Food Stores in sponsoring an annual 4-H Club contest in which young farmers-to-be would grow and market an improved variety of sweet potato, using the latest and best methods.

Right from the start the boys proved the value of this efficiency. In their production and income records. Each year the figures have improved. In the 1943-54 contest, recently completed, per-acre production was 400 per cent and per-acre profit 300 per cent above the averages in the state for adult farmers. One boy netted $858.10 on his contest acres.

The boy's activities are attracting wide attention from commercial growers in the state. As the contest's originators had hoped, more and more adult farmers are coming to share the youngsters' conviction that the yam, one of the South's oldest farm crops, can be made better to eat and more profitable to grow.

REAL HUMAN, AREN'T THEY?—A Philadelphia market research firm has prepared a booklet called "Charge Account Behavior of the Human Female." It is solemnly set forth that the charge customer buys more than the cash customer. Eight thousand of both were questioned.

About 3.8 times as many charge customers show up in a given store as cash customers. Of 100 shoppers in each category, 57 charge account holders will buy something before they leave the store, whereas 57 of the others will march out with their money in their pocket.

The firm commissioning the research specializes in installing charge account systems for stores. Even though it has this obvious ax to grind, few husbands of women with charge accounts have disputed the findings.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

It is strange, but memories and estimates of the size of big game almost always err in the same direction—exaggeration. Not that sportsmen are chronic liars. It's simply that we all have a bit of the artistic urge that makes us want to add a touch of color here and there to make interesting things even more so.

This kind of artistic decoration, going on generation after generation, has made the job of sorting fact from fiction in big-game records nearly as tough as straining frog spit out of a frog pond.

Bigness in big game is generally listed in either of two ways: by live or dressed weight. Live weight really means dead weight, with entrails and other parts in place. And dressed weight means that the critter was undressed of such parts.

Various formulas have been devised for estimating the approximate live weights of dressed specimens or of figuring the dressed weights of undressed game. For deer, it has commonly been calculated that one-fifth of the live weight is lost in dressing. And conversely, you add about one-fourth of the dressed weight to get a rough idea of the beast's heft when alive and kicking.

Such schemes, however, are far from exact, even when adapted to particular species. For one thing, as pointed out by biologist Alexander D. Martin in an article in Sports Afield magazine, the amount of food in an animal's stomach varies a good deal from time to time, and this bars the way to any accurate method of translating one kind of weight expression into the other.

An interesting thing about deer is the way their size tapers off, as you go south from Canada. There are some 20 different kinds of deer in this country and most of them differ in stature and average weight. While northern whitetails average about 150 pounds (big bucks sometimes going as high as 400 pounds or higher), their relatives in the south generally run considerably smaller. The nearly extinct Key deer of Florida weigh from about 40 to 75 pounds. The Coues, or Sonora, deer of the southwest averages about 75 pounds, and in Mexico there are varieties that weigh less than 40 pounds. Going still farther south, down to the Andes Mountains in Chile, there's a mid-gut species only about a foot high, called the pudu. Makes one wonder—is big game still big game when it's that small?

MINNESOTA RICH IN LONG PERSPECTIVES

Four Zumbrotta nonegenarians get together occasionally to reminisce; Oliver Olson and Peter Opem, 92, came from Norway in 1878; Amos Scofield, 92, and S. O. Swenson, 91, were born near Zumbrotta. . . Seven employees of Eibner Bakery, New Ulm, were honored the first of the year for a total of 230 years of service. . . Hold Hammer Head Tight

There are various ways of fastening a hammer head securely to the handle, but the method illustrated, which was shown in American Builder, "bible" of the building trades industry, is unusually effective.

First drill a quarter-inch hole in the handle at C. Now saw a slot through the top of the handle—D. Shape the handle so it fits the hammer head snugly.

By driving home a No. 10 or No. 12 screw at E, the handle end spreads and holds the hammer head tightly. If the wood dries and becomes loose, simply remove the wood screw and replace it with a number 12 or 14 wood screw.

Service Scroll, $50 Cash Award Won by Kiwanis

The Support of Churches activities of the Kiwanis Club of Kewaskum, in conjunction with similar work done by other Kiwanis clubs across the continent, have been recognized by a Distinguished Service Scroll and a $50.00 cash award by the Freedoms Foundation Dr. R. G. Edwards, club president, announced this week.

This award was won by Kiwanis International in competition with hundreds of entries to the awards juried by the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa. The Freedoms Foundation award gives to Kiwanis the distinction of being recognized by this organization for the fourth year for its meritorious community services. The foundation is a non-profit, non-political, and non-sectarian organization that is actively working to promote more personal participation in citizenship functions and the furthering of the American way of life.

Kiwanians firmly believe that in the church lies the strength of the country, the community and the individual, and their Support of Churches program is dedicated to encouraging in every way possible the more active participation of all the citizens of all of the communities in the affairs of the churches of their own choosing. Kiwanians are striving to raise the moral standards in the country by stressing such themes as: "Regular attendance at church should be a lifetime habit." "The best investment of time and effort you can make is in the young people of your community," and "Don't wait until Easter—Start going to church now!" Some 225,000 Kiwanians are actively working to support these themes. To give impetus to their actions, they have made available radio transcripts containing spot announcements encouraging people to attend the church of their choice. The first of the series, The New Pilgrimage, has been broadcast many times by 735 radio stations.

Also cited for meritorious writing in The Kiwanis Magazine are two contributors who were awarded the foundation's George Washington honor medal and a check for $50.00 each. Past International President Ben Evans editorial in and its sequel, The Way Forward, is already being used by over 240 broadcasting stations.

In announcing the award, club President Dr. Edwards said, "The Kiwanis club of Kewaskum believes that the success of the Support of Churches activities attests to a spiritual reawakening of the people of our country and a strengthening of the moral standards across the country. Our citizens have an increasing awareness of the need for spiritual guidance in these troubled times."

Also cited for meritorious writing in The Kiwanis Magazine are two contributors who were awarded the foundation's George Washington honor medal and a check for $50.00 each. Past International President Ben Evans editorial in the October, 1953 issue of the magazine entitled "How Do You Rate as a Citizen?" and Lieutenant Philip F. Van Pelt's "A Letter from Korea" to his parents in the November issue, were selected by the awards jury for this signal honor.
