

Many Pay Tribute to Miss Browne on 25th Anniversary

On Sunday afternoon, May 16, the Kewaskum High school auditorium was the scene of a program honoring Miss Margaret E. Browne, high school commercial teacher, on the occasion of her 25th year of teaching in Kewaskum. Alumni, former teachers, former members of the Board of Education and friends filled the auditorium. The Board of Education in conjunction with local civic organizations sponsored the gathering.

Clifford Rose, superintendent of schools and master of ceremonies for the program, was introduced by Henry Rosenheimer, chairman of the Board of Education. Charles Miller, as president of the village, presented Miss Browne with a proclamation declaring May 16, 1954 Margaret Browne Day in Kewaskum.

The program included timely and interesting remarks by E. E. Skalasky of West Bend, a former principal of Kewaskum High school; Miss Mona Mertes, '38, physical education instructor at South Milwaukee High school; Ralph Kramer, '41, agricultural instructor at Kiel High school, and Miss Viola Daley of Hartford, a former Kewaskum teacher.

Vocal solos were presented by Charlotte Romaine Faulkner, '33, who proved that she is still the "Song Bird of Kewaskum", "Mark and Three Misses," a popular young quartet, consisting of Mark Rosenheimer, '55, Thelma Rosenheimer, '54, Judy Kanties, '54, and Elaine Kluever, '53, sang "When Irish Eyes are Smiling," a favorite of Miss Browne's.

Clifford Stautz and Paul Landmann of the Board of Education presented Miss Browne with a typewritten copy of flowers in behalf of the Board of Education. They also presented the gifts of luggage, savings bonds and a portable radio in behalf of the alumni, former teachers, former members of the Board of Education and friends. The camera with flash attachment was the gift of the present faculty and the presentation was made by Ernest Mitchell, president of the local teachers' organization. The climax of the afternoon was when Miss Browne expressed her heartfelt thanks and appreciation for this wonderful day which will be a cherished memory through the years.

The high school gymnasium with the lovely prom decorations was the scene for the reception honoring Miss Browne. Anniversary cake and coffee were served as alumni, former teachers and friends renewed acquaintances.

This was a thrilling occasion for everyone in the Kewaskum community. It gave each one an opportunity to say "thank you" to one teacher for all she has done. "If you think your school's the best, Tell 'em so!"

If you'd have it lead the rest, Help it grow! When there's anything to do, Let the others count on you!"

Chevs Thumped by Port Sunday, 15-2

Kewaskum lost its second game in Land o' Lakes play Sunday being thrashed by the hard-hitting Port Washington nine, 15-2, at Port.

Port had one big inning, the fourth, in which they scored nine runs. Without that big frame, it would have been a respectable score. Kewaskum tallied its two markers in the third and sixth stanzas.

Mike Monahan started on the hill for Port and pitched five innings, giving up four hits and striking out seven. Dick Russart relieved him and allowed only one hit and struck out six in the last four frames. Don Meisenheimer was starting pitcher for the Chevs but was relieved in the fourth by "Hefty" Backhaus. Killy Honeck came in in the seventh and finished the contest. The two Port twirlers held Kewaskum to six safeties, while the victors coined 12 off of the three local hurlers.

Dick Russart continued his amazing hitting by banging out three hits in four trips, giving him a total of seven bingles in nine trips in the first two games. Doug Ritchie and Les Streff also got three hits. Bob Dreher was the only Kewaskum batter with two hits. He now has five hits in nine trips to the plate.

Monahan and Russart each walked two, Meisy passed five and Backhaus four. Meisenheimer whiffed two, Backhaus one and Honeck two.

This Sunday Kewaskum returns to the home field and entertains Saukville. The boys hope to notch their first victory but will be up against tough pitching in Saukville's ace, Bobby Helm.

Hartford Edges Indians, 10-9, in District Meet

The Kewaskum Indians of the Tri-County conference came close to pulling a major upset in the WIAA district tournament at West Bend Saturday when they forced Hartford into extra innings to gain a 10-9 victory.

Hartford was heavily favored to win over the Indians, who finished a so-so season last week. The Orioles jumped to a 5-0 lead in the first inning. But the scrappy Indians fought back gradually until they went ahead in the fifth, 7-6 and tied it up again in the seventh at 9-5.

In the seventh Heberer sent the game into extra innings when he poled a home run with Kosbeck on base.

In the first game of the tournament Shorewood trimmed Grafton, 16-2. In the semi-finals Monday West Bend shaded Shorewood, 7-6. The Badgers faced Hartford for the meet championship on Wednesday.

JIMMY BUSS, 3, INJURED WHEN RUN OVER BY TRACTOR

Jimmy Buss, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Buss, Kewaskum, suffered a skull fracture when he was run over by a tractor Saturday on the Wallace Geidel farm here. The little boy was confined at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, from Saturday until Friday of this week and will have to return to the hospital to undergo an operation.

Jimmy's father and John Geidel, driver of the tractor, were working on the farm. Unnoticed, the boy got in the path of the tractor, was accidentally struck by the vehicle and fell under a spring tooth which the tractor was pulling.

Boltonville Club Meets, Uses Centennial Theme

About 150 children and adults alike enjoyed a centennial trip on a magic carpet seeing historical landmarks in and about Washington county as guests of the Boltonville Busy Beavers 4-H club, Wednesday evening, at the Modern Woodmen hall.

Harold Gilford, club president, presided, welcomed the guests, and presented Elmer Plaum, member of the Boltonville Centennial committee and Mrs. B. C. Ziegler, president of the Washington County Historical society.

"It is good for every community to stop and meditate on its rich heritage. These early settlers, our forefathers, obviously pioneered energetically with a feeling of adventure to establish themselves firmly. The landmark of home, church, and community enterprises certainly confirms their convictions," Mr. Plaum stated with admiration.

Mrs. B. C. Ziegler remarked how pleased the Historical society was to have a part in the Boltonville Centennial. The society in existence 75 years is one of the 55 such societies in the state of Wisconsin that tries to foster and maintain interest wherever it appears. She proudly presented Miss Edith Heider and Mrs. Ethel Gill, members of the society, who through their effort and interest have become authorities on Washington county history.

Among the 150 colored slides that were discussed by Miss Heider and projected by Mrs. Gill were: First site of the West Bend Aluminum company, Barton howler stone convent and house of Father Rehl, the outdoor bake oven, smoke house, and cauldron on the former Atrig farm, the Ernest Kiessig residence and the vaulted brewery cellar in hillside in a west field, the St. John of God church with the Gothic architecture—pointed steeple and windows, the Bolton home and the first grist mill with mill and race operated by Earlon Bolton, and the St. John's church used for worship by two congregations.

Other interesting landmarks throughout this area included the Wade House in Greenbush, the Covered Bridge and Old Stony School in Ozaukee County, the pipe organ factory of the Schaefer family at Slinger, Holy Hill, and the Charles Stewart home at Lake Lake.

In keeping with the early American and centennial theme, the refreshment table, with homespun red tablecloth, was adorned with early wick lamps, old fashioned baskets that held the soda, antique trays for the cookies, and rustic potted geraniums.

Assisting the 4-H club in this centennial meeting were the members of the Boltonville Homemakers club and the 4-H mothers, to whom President Gilford expressed words of appreciation.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Mrs. Lucille Hansen, Kewaskum, submitted to an operation at St. Joseph's hospital, West Bend, Wednesday, May 12. She returned home Wednesday, May 19, and is now recuperating there.

Freight Car is Derailed South of Town Sunday

One car of a three engine, 1466 car freight train was derailed about a mile south of Kewaskum Sunday morning. The derailment tied up traffic on both the North Western railroad and Highway 45 which runs parallel to the rails. The derailed car clipped off the ends of ties for a distance of about a mile along the right of way.

It was reported that the freight car, carrying a load of bulk cement, got a "hot box" and the car lost a wheel, causing the derailment. In addition to the damaged roadbed, the derailed train damaged a bridge south of Highway H which crosses the tracks there, and tore up the road crossing. Traffic was tied up on Hwy. 45 by inquisitive motorists.

A dispatcher for the railroad, called to the scene, used the Washington county sheriff's department short wave radio in Sheriff George Brugger's car to summon aid from Milwaukee. A wrecker and auxiliary engine arrived to help clear the right of way. The tracks were cleared in time for the passage of the 12:30 p. m. southbound train. The southbound train's trip was cleared via the police radio from the scene of the accident.

No one was injured in the accident. Railroad crews were at work this week repairing the damaged roadbed.

What Do You Think of Your Kewaskum?

We are proud of our Kewaskum, and believe you are also. Yet we are sad to say it, some are not. The reason—some of our youths thought it fun to smear up a car with writing and some of it was obscene. Some of the material used for writing was hard enough to cut through the finish, making it necessary to paint to prevent rusting.

Complaints have also been registered that some of our youngsters have been going into public places and writing on the walls of lavatories and some of that also being obscene. All this writing no doubt is performed by the same group. Delinquency, invariably gets its start in the home during early years of childhood. Delinquency is a product of extremes. Parents have a lot to do with the delinquency of their children. Today's youngsters though are no worse than those of yesterday.

Every child has certain basic desires or cravings which must be let out or expressed in some way or another. Everyone, young or old, "wants to be." Everyone young and old seeks security, recognition, a place in society. These cravings are satisfied in many ways. Some in "antelching, stealing, vandalism or telling off a stranger, even a cop, etc.; others in joining 4-H, FFA, FHA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, CYO, Young People's societies, etc. We have a number of the latter in our community but those outside of the church have no place to meet. It is hard and discouraging to the leaders of these various groups to try and keep their brood together and well organized without a proper meeting place, say nothing about trying to increase membership. Even the Wman's club must meet in the library reading room and the Community Service committee next Monday must meet in the fire house.

It would be nice if the village board would decide to finish the municipal building. They had originally figured on such a meeting room. The plans were drawn accordingly. Much of the material for it is stored on village property and some of the money is also on hand. At that time the board was skeptical about going ahead with it, but we feel the time is ripe now and we need the room for the benefit of our youth and other civic minded groups. What is your opinion dear reader? Mail your thoughts to Community Service Committee, % Gen. Del., Kewaskum.

Let's make Kewaskum a good place to live.

GUIDING LIGHT—The eight-foot neon cross atop the steeple of a Pittsburgh, Pa., church is not only a symbol of faith. The congregation of the Union Church erected the structure to warn low-flying planes approaching nearby Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

HANDY FOR SUNDAY DINNER—Next time, Mrs. Pierce Jodun, of Lock Haven, Pa., will be less trusting of friendly fowl. Biddy insisted on living in the house rather than in the barnyard. The result—first of all, a clutch of eggs in the parlor, and now—nine chicks and a peckish mama undertoot.

KEEPING WARM—At chicken farms throughout Europe, incubators are at a premium, so scenes like the above are not uncommon. These six-hour-old chicks seem quite content in the arms of a young Hamburg, Germany, lass. And she seems quite content, too.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—With cans of coffee rivaling gems in value, Fort Worth, Tex., jeweler and loan shop operator Nathan Rosenberg treats them as any other pawnable assets. Sign reads: "We will loan 70 cents per pound on standard brand coffees."

MAN-OF-WAR BIRD OR FRIGATE BIRD

MAN-O-WAR BIRD
© 1953 National Wildlife Federation

Imagine a bird with a wing-spread of 8 feet and a weight of just under 4 pounds! It has a length of about 3½ feet including a 6-inch bill and a 19-inch tail that is forked more than half its length. The wings are conspicuously bent backward at the "elbow" (which isn't the elbow really) and while many of the birds appear at a distance to be solid black beneath, others show conspicuously white underparts. The bird that would fit into this picture may be seen flying endlessly over the ocean and near tropical shores and is the Frigate Bird or Man-of-War Bird.

There are 5 species of Man-of-War Birds recognized. They range from Nova Scotia to Venezuela on the Atlantic Coast and from Humboldt Bay in California south to the Galapagos Islands with one species widespread in the Indian Ocean and other species extending the range over most of the warm seas. In spite of their uncanny ability to fly there is relatively little seasonal migration. Sometimes the birds are found inland in North America as far as Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio.

The birds never sleep on the water and because of their strong homing instinct have been used to carry messages for man. Since any group of half a dozen birds would be likely to seek land with the advent of sundown and since individuals probably do not range, at least during nesting season, farther than 75 miles off shore, the movements of a number of birds in a given direction at dusk is often taken to mean that land lies within 75 miles of the point the birds were observed and in direction they are flying, to a man lost in a boat this may often have considerable significance.

During the breeding season the male distends an enormous balloon like sac beneath its throat, sits on the nest and makes cackling noise when a female approaches. From 1 to 3 eggs measuring about 2 by 3 inches and white are incubated by both parents. The young are soon covered with a white down and hold their juvenile plumage for a year. The adults are most pugnacious and do not hesitate to attack birds larger than they.

The food is picked up from the surface of the ocean while the bird is in flight or is secured by attacking slower flying Boobies and Pelicans, forcing them to give up their catches to the Man-of-War Birds. The birds are practically helpless on land and the only element of which they are acknowledged masters is the air.

Even rabid beach combers seeking shells have been observed bending their heads back and watching the flight of Man-of-War Birds with intense admiration. This may distribute the sun-burn a bit. More than this these birds must appeal to the imagination of anyone who recognizes supremacy in any field of endeavor. These birds just about reach that pinnacle if we consider flight. The National Wildlife Federation welcomes the opportunity to defend this bird.

Child Who Grabs And Scuffles Should Be Taught, Not Punished

When your child fights, grabs, pushes, or shoves his playmates, don't despair. These are all part of the difficult process of learning how to get along with people, says child expert Irma Simonton Black in Redbook Magazine. He needs teaching rather than punishment and your confidence in his goodness, she continues in a recent issue:

"It's always a jolt for parents to see their child swing into action with fists flailing and teeth bared. Unquestionably, your child has to learn milder ways of getting along with people. But before suggesting ways of teaching him that lesson, let's consider why he acts uncivilized in the first place.

"Your child is learning every minute of the day. He is learning how to manage words, how to get a cup to his mouth without spilling, how to fit a cover on a box. In all of these tasks he fumbles, makes mistakes, and has to try over and over. In the same way, your child is also learning how to live with other people. Here, too, he will be a fumbling, inept beginner for years.

"He needs time, and considerable patience. Most of all he needs your confidence that he will eventually be a satisfactory human being. Don't act as if he's hopeless. Don't jump on him every time he flexes his muscles.

"Too-sudden, severe punishment for the first mistakes may force him to give up all attempts to stand up for his rights. The other result of such forceful punishment as biting back, hitting hard to 'show how it feels' will be to make your child more, not less, aggressive.

"Your child needs teaching rather than punishment. Tell him directly, 'Johnny doesn't like that,' or 'You'll have to wait.' And remember to tell him over and over again. If he persists in his hit-and-run method, remove him from his friends temporarily. Children who are guided in a firm, friendly way will learn to use their aggressive impulses constructively."

Europe supports more people to the square mile than any other continent, says the National Geographic Society. Europe—excepting Soviet Russia—has an average 207 per acre, compared with Asia's 122 (excluding Russia), North America's 23; Africa's 18, South America's 16, and Oceania's 5.

By Betty Ann

Editor, The Milwaukee Journal
Woman's Pages

New seasons have a way of finding new places for pins and brooches, and this year fashion suggests the waistline, says Betty Ann. Whether the midriff is softly wrapped, smoothly fitted, beltless or casually dropped, it can be beautifully dramatized with an exquisite pin. And exquisite they are, reflecting the trend toward fragile, flowerlike delicacy.

Flowers are, in fact, the source of inspiration for many jewelry designs — graceful, asymmetric sprays with tiny mobile droops. Colored gems bring contrasting color to shining flowers, wreaths, bow knots and scrolls.

In costume jewelry pins, blossoms add pale color, spilling from miniature golden cornucopia. Shock white enamel in bright gold finish settings sparks springtime's popular navy blue. For the traditional elegance of pearl jewelry, there are leaf design pins decorated with simulated pearls that can be teamed with matching necklace and other pieces.

Sleeves and gloves are shorter, and the space between should display the bracelet collection that spring demands. Simple gold chains invite charms large and small, and rigid bangles, in clamorous numbers, mix well with linked bracelets and are available in sterling silver as well as karat gold.

Many gold filled link bracelets dangle with their own charms, often large disks, squares or hearts, and gold plated bracelets have smartly filigreed ornaments.

There are, too, multistrand beaded or stone set costume bracelets to harmonize with colorful necklaces, spotlighted in bright profusion as important assets to the lovely picture you will make this spring.

When finishing a line of stitching on your sewing machine, never sew beyond the edge of the material. The thread may become caught in the bobbin case and tangle. To stop the stitch at a definite point, slow down the balance wheel before reaching the end of the seam.

With the last stitch, turn the wheel to bring the take up lever to its highest point. At this point the tension is released, and the thread can be pulled easily from the spool and bobbin as you withdraw the material from under the presser foot.

Occasional self-indulgence is a help to character building. The woman who habitually deprives herself of all but essentials is bound to wind up with a pretty low morale eventually.

So she'd be doing herself and her family a favor if occasionally she'd splurge on an investment in her own satisfaction.

Beauty salons thrive on this fact. It's wonderful for the morale of a woman to spend a few hours being thoroughly pampered.

Right now would be a good time to act. Whatever form your action takes, it's likely to be just the spark you need to meet the challenge of spring.

Should you agree that you could use a little extravagance, don't act rashly. Think of all your long held wishes. Take time to select the one that will please you most.

Before doing any painting, cover your hands with baby oil. You will find that dripped paint will be much easier to remove.

Butter Sponge Cake

Two and one-fourth cups sifted enriched flour; 2 teaspoons double acting baking powder; 1 teaspoon salt; 11 egg yolks; 2 cups sugar; 1 cup scalded milk; 1 teaspoon vanilla; 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract; 1/2 cup melted butter. Sift together sifted enriched flour, baking powder and salt. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add sugar gradually, beating thoroughly. Combine scalded milk, vanilla, lemon extract and add gradually to beaten egg yolks, beating well after each addition. Fold in sifted dry ingredients gradually. Add melted butter, blending well. Pour into ungreased 10 inch tube pan. Cut through batter with spatula to break large air pockets. Bake in moderate oven 330 degrees 50 to 60 minutes. Cool in inverted pan about one hour.

Use a fine silver polish to clean the nickel and chromium parts of your refrigerator to prevent scratches.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

The latest theory is that you don't need to follow a nutrition chart to serve well-balanced meals. All you need to do is include plenty of color in your every-day diet. To quote one outstanding home economist, "Color not only adds glamour to every-day meals, but also guarantees extra food value."

This theory makes sense. The homemaker who watches color won't serve rice and Irish potatoes at the same time. Also, it is a fact that the bright-colored fruits and vegetables contain an abundance of vitamins and minerals.

An example of this is that carrots, squash, kale, cabbage and all bright colored green and yellow vegetables have been found to contain plenty of vitamin A and D. Deep brown meat, such as liver, is full of vitamin B. Bright red, yellow or orange fruits are rich in vitamin C.

It is said that colorful meals are more stimulating to jaded appetites. An eye-appealing and appetite-stimulating menu would be: baked chicken or fish, golden stuffed yams and emerald green broccoli or peas.

Do not over-cook vegetables or fruits. Heat destroys vitamin A and has an effect on almost all other vitamins. Again the color can be a guide. Broccoli, peas and cabbage, to name a few vegetables, tend to lose their clear, bright coloring if cooked over-long. When this color fades, the vitamin content goes down.

Serve vegetables and fruits raw whenever possible. A tossed green salad containing bits of fresh spinach, bell pepper and parsley in addition to the more conventional greens is an excellent source of vitamin A, D and C. It will also furnish important bulk to a diet. Because this salad provides low-caloried bulk, it is a must in reducing diets.

Exercise Best For Painful Shoulder

Among the common agonies which afflict a great many people without much warning, painful shoulder ranks right up with toothache and it can be worse and last longer.

For relief of this agonizing disability the doctors have two suggestions, one of which involves use of the new drug cortisone. They are presented in a recent bulletin because victims of painful shoulder tend to stop moving the afflicted arm. They acquire what the doctors call a "frozen shoulder" which becomes chronic, as well as painful. Unlike most comparable difficulties, motion is what is needed in this case, instead of rest, for relief from pain.

Usually the trouble comes from a hard-working little muscle called the supraspinatus which is hooked up between the shoulder blade and the top of the big arm bone. If man walked on all fours the little muscle would never bother him, according to the doctors. It gets what might be called a dirty deal only because of man's persistent preference for standing upright. It has to help raise the arm and keep it in its shallow socket. Often it gets pinched and inflamed in the process, especially if its owner is required to hold out his arm against the pull of gravity for long periods. The muscle may protest at first with uncomfortable grumbling. Then the grumbling may burst into a red-hot pain in the muscle and tendon, with calcium deposits at the spot to increase the pressure.

Physicians have found that exercise is the way to relief and they advise bending over, at the first symptom, and swinging the arm back and forth and in circles, no matter how painful. A shot of some pain-killer such as procaine in the shoulder may help to start the exercises and may be all that is needed. If not, use of cortisone by injection into the muscle has recently been found to help dramatically to move the arm and relieve the inflammation. A few cases will require surgery, anyway, to get rid of calcium deposits and bring relief.

Sour Cream Salad Dressing

1 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon flour
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1/3 cup hot vinegar
1 1/2 teaspoons butter
1/2 cup sour cream
Combine dry ingredients thoroughly in top of double boiler. Beat egg, add milk and stir into dry ingredients gradually. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon. Do not let water boil in bottom of double boiler. Add hot vinegar and butter. Cool. Add sour cream.

Work To Start Soon On Mackinac Bridge

One of man's largest structures, a five-mile bridge, will soon start taking form over an historic American waterway, the Straits of Mackinac.

The bridge will cross the channel linking Lakes Michigan and Huron where several hundred years ago hardy French frontiersmen explored promising parts of the New World.

The new span will serve modern travelers bent on exploring one of the Nation's major recreational frontiers, says the National Geographic Society. By late 1957 thousands of motorists, campers and hunters are expected to have easy access over the bridge to the still rugged Upper Peninsula of Michigan, rich in game, scenery and pleasure opportunities.

Long a Dream

For 70 years residents of the straits area have dreamed of a Mackinac bridge. At present the only means of transportation from Mackinaw City on the north shore to St. Ignace on the south side is time-consuming ferryboat service. Operating only during the ice-free months, the ferries make the run in 53 minutes. Often during peak traffic periods autos pile up at both terminals and wait hours for their turns on the boats.

The bridge will cut the crossing to ten minutes. This saving of minutes and sometimes hours will be accomplished because nearly $100,000,000 is to be spent to fit 70,000 tons of steel together in one of the world's ranking bridges. Only the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco will exceed its central suspension span of 3,800 feet. Supporting two cables each made up of 12,376 wires, its towers—almost as high as the Washington Monument—will rise 552 feet above the surface.

Minimum clearance for ships, many of them carriers feeding iron ore to the furnaces of South Chicago, will be 148 feet.

The white man's advance into the Mackinac region was spearheaded by Jean Nicolet in the 1630's. In 1671 Father Jacques Marquette established a mission at St. Ignace, and La Salle threaded the four-mile-wide straits a few years later. They were followed by more of their audacious countrymen who built forts on both shores. These forts soon became strategic points in the development of the Old Northwest's fur trade and in the conquest of a continent.

Table Radio Offers Console Quality To Families in Small Living Quarters

By EDNA MILES

IF yours is a small apartment, chances are you'd like to own a small radio with the resonant and wide-range tone quality usually associated with console receivers.

Such a radio is now on the market. This table radio cancels out a great deal of distortion and hum normally found in radios of this size.

But it's through the method of mounting the six-inch speaker that a completely new sound has been achieved in this new radio. The speaker is fronted only by an open-mesh grille, allowing free passage of sound (without bounce) back into the cabinet. In addition, the speaker has lower than usual resonance to bolster the bass frequency output which is lacking in many small radios.

The radio also has been equipped with a tuned radio frequency amplifier, an improvement most often found in larger and more expensive sets. This amplifier increases selectivity and sensitivity, cuts down on noise and interference.

And to take full advantage of the improved tone, the set has a phono-jack to which a record player may be attached.

This teen-ager is taking advantage of the phono-jack on a new table-model radio to play her favorite records.

Nursing Homes A Solution For Aged

The rapidly growing percentage of old folks in our population is no cause for alarm—they had to be healthy to live so long, and most of them remain healthy. We are proud of them.

But their increasing numbers deserves more than a passing thought. The great majority of them will live out their lives in the independence that their own roof affords, and they will be well and strong enough to keep a hand in the daily work at home and about town.

For those who are healthy, but for one reason or another have no home of their own, other housing must be made available. Nursing homes and homes for the aged, within their financial means, will do much to meet this need. But these homes should afford more than a roof and a bed.

Sanitary living conditions, good food service, proper ventilation, fire safety precautions, adequate toilet facilities and space for beds are but a few of the services they have the right to expect. Most nursing homes readily provide these and many other facilities. The state board of health attempts to see that reasonable standards are constantly maintained through its program of education, inspection, and licensing of these homes.

The health problems which confront elderly people call for special and continuous attention.

Cooking in Liquid—An Easy Guide

STEPS TO FOLLOW

1. Brown meat on all sides in own fat or lard, when desirable.
2. Season with salt and pepper.
3. Cover with liquid, cover kettle, cook below boiling point until tender.
4. Add vegetables just long enough before serving to be cooked.

CUTS TO USE

- BEEF: Neck, Shank, Heel of Round, Plate, Brisket, Short Ribs, Corned Beef, Stew Meat.
VEAL: Neck, Breast, Shoulder, Stew Meat.
SMOKED PORK: Ham, Picnic, Shoulder Butt.
LAMB: Shanks, Stew Meat.
VARIETY MEATS: Heart, Kidney, Tongue, Brains, Sweetbreads.

Bible Comment:

Man's Inhumanity Has Not Destroyed Our Religious Faith

IT is a miracle that religious faith has survived despite the cruellest and bitterest persecution by pagan groups.

We know what Roman Catholic prelates and priests have suffered in Communist-dominated European and Balkan countries. The newspapers tell daily of what Roman Catholic missionaries are suffering in China.

The persecutions and massacres of Jews under Hitler have made our twentieth century rife with terrorism and destruction unequalled in history. Present-day horrors recall and emphasize the tragedy of man's inhumanity to man.

It is a devastating and terrifying record, yet not altogether terrifying. For that record has supplied evidence of the persistence of truth and the power of religious faith.

But persecution is not to be thought of only in its more dire and terrible forms.

There is a persecuting spirit prevalent in our own and other countries which does not take on forms of physical cruelty, but which seeks to besmirch and destroy those against whom it directs its intolerance.

Such persecution often attacks even the noble and high-minded, by tactics of smearing and lying, in the hope that many will believe lies if they are loudly and persistently told. This method, unfortunately, has often proven successful.

The fact that religion persists against all the efforts to destroy it, and that truth crushed to earth does rise again, does not lessen the reality of the suffering, however.

It is gratifying to know that there are some things that can stand up against man's inhumanity to man.

It would be well for us to search our own hearts and lives to see if there is in us any of that intolerance from which persecution springs.

Zeal is not good when it is not dominated by love.

Descriptions of sunfish can't be exact because they crossbred and the hybrids puzzle even ichthyologists.—Sports Afield

Most pan fish are caught on bait.—Sports Afield

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Many volumes have been written about the major game fish, but the pan fish (except possibly, bluegills and crappies) go unmentioned and unsung despite the fact that they furnish the bulk of fishing in the United States.

Pan fish are especially useful if you're learning fly casting or spinning because there are plenty of them around to give you frequent practice. Hooking and landing one is not greatly different from catching a so-called "game" fish except for size, and some pan fish run a respectable pound or pound and a half.

Few of them have the usual savage strike of a bass, trout or pike. But, according to sportsman-writer Bill Wolf, that only makes them more interesting to catch, and gives the novice caster the delicate touch he needs on the rod.

Most pan fish are caught on bait but that is only because fishermen have never learned the greater pleasure they can get from casting for them. Pan fish are very obliging when it comes to bait, since they will taste almost anything. Just be careful not to use too large a bait, and thus get short strikes. For instance, the common anglerworm works well but the big night crawlers or dew worms won't.

Bait fishing is simply a matter of experimenting with different depths until you catch fish. Where there is one, there will be others. Fly fishing with a wet fly or streamer is a matter of casting to a rise, or to a likely spot, and then retrieving the lure with a twitching motion, a sort of start-and-stop action. Most pan fish and especially crappies have a curious habit of following a moving lure, stopping when it stops, and hitting only after thinking it over. Move the lure, but give them time to decide, if they do not strike the moment it hits the water.

Descriptions cannot be exact because sunfish crossbreed, and the resulting hybrids can puzzle even an ichthyologist. But the best-known sunfish other than the crappies and bluegills is the common sunfish, otherwise the sunnie, pumpkinseed, kiver, kivy, red perch, sun perch, or yellowbelly, among various aliases. A bright red spot on the gill cover and, usually, light and bright blue stripes on its cheeks are the distinguishing characteristics.

Fencing Forbears' Fancy Steps Eliminated By Bayonet Fighters

Washington — The flashing glint of hundreds of bayonets is a familiar sight in the U.S. Army's training camps. Bayonet drill is an integral part of basic training—but it's a far cry from the stylized fencing of old from which it derives.

The olive drab helmets and heavy combat boots of today's bayonet wielder are in sharp contrast to the plumed hats and cavalier getup romantic fiction tells us those long-ago duelist wore.

The word bayonet itself is a derivation of Bayonne, the name of a French town where, it is said, the forerunners of this weapon first were used in 1647. The Grenadier Guards in 1693 are said to have been the first regiment equipped with bayonets.

These early bayonets consisted of a dagger which the musketeer stuck by means of its handle into the muzzle of his weapon to shield him from cavalry charges.

The Army's first bayonet fencing manual was printed more than a century ago. In 1852, Captain George McClellan translated a French work on bayonet instruction into English. The system this book outlined was used, with minor changes, until World War I.

This early system, which closely followed fencing practice with the foil or saber, was defensive in nature. Soldiers were taught four main parries, with thirty "radical movements"—all in 12 long lessons.

Today's soldier learns offensive bayonet fighting. The two parries now in use are offensive and defensive movements, intended to knock aside the enemy's bayonet and force an opening.

The bayonet is to be used in instances where the soldier cannot fire a shot—in conditions of low visibility or at close quarters, for instance—or when his ammunition is exhausted. The modern bayonet fighter's attack is a continuous succession of movement in which he uses his rifle butt, the bayonet itself, the feet and the knees.

Confidence in ability to fight skillfully with this weapon is a strong, repeatedly emphasized factor in bayonet training. Trainees are exhorted to get the "spirit of the bayonet." Their practice parries, thrusts and other movements are done in unison to shouted commands. The trainee also must accompany each movement with the most ferocious shout or roar he can muster.

The soldier must learn to handle his rifle and bayonet while scaling a wall, crawling through wire obstacles and balancing a log "bridge" over a gully.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK — Most discussion of how to reverse the decline in business activity since last summer has assumed that the root of the difficulty is less consumer spending. The Department of Commerce comes forth now and says that isn't so.

Reporting on the January-March quarter just ended, the Department says the consumer spent his money at an annual rate of $230 billion. That's only $1 billion a year below the rate of 1953's busy third quarter, and $2.3 billion a year above the rate for the first-quarter 1953.

Personal income, too, has remained high. Reductions in working hours have been offset by the income tax cut which has already gone into effect. Thus disposable income—at a $249 billion annual rate—about matched third-quarter 1953.

Another way in which expenditures can be influenced—in theory—is by lower interest rates, supposed to make businessmen borrow and expand. Short-term Treasury notes—one way of pumping money into banks—commanded 2.35 per cent interest last May, only 1 per cent today. Loans have gone down half a billion dollars meanwhile. Last year the rate was rising, and loans were increasing too.

Perhaps we shall have to rediscover that there is no common purse for the public or business—that each of 161 million consumers and 2.5 million corporations has his or its own problems.

THINGS TO COME — The Fairchild electronic photo-engraver, which has become familiar to publishers of small newspapers over the last few years, has been improved to make engravings smaller or larger than the copy. Heretofore it could only copy in exact "same size"

A Funnyface toothbrush holder, made of nylon, attaching to the bathroom wall by a suction cup, is supposed to teach children to hang up toothbrushes. Toilet tank liners of foamed styrene keep the tanks from sweating in hot weather. They are for do-it-yourself installation.

A motor oil can conceals a loud speaker which delivers a sales talk for the product while the gas station attendant is filling the tank. The attendant turns it on and puts it in the motorist's hand when he drives up.

MORE GAS FOR ALL — Gas appliance manufacturers welcomed added sales opportunities this week with the release of an annual pipeline survey reporting an increase of 2,670,700,000 cubic feet daily in natural gas pumped to new and existing markets.

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association reports that additional amount of the popular fuel will be delivered when 55 projects, costing an estimated $689,267,000, are completed. Most have been built, according to the Federal Power Commission, which authorized them during 1953. They call for 6,806 miles of pipeline, and compressor stations producing 542,200 horsepower.

GAMA's sixth survey of natural gas construction data adds that an additional 51 projects, costing $648,636,000 and delivering another 2,833,800,000 cubic feet a day, await FPC approval. Manufacturers believe this huge new supply will not only bring conversion of thousands of existing houses to gas for home heating, but also will open up many new markets for such modern appliances as gas clothes dryers, incinerators and individual room heaters.

MINORITY REPORT — The comprehensive tax revision law, first in 73 years, which the Eisenhower administration has been framing for a year, has been vigorously attacked as favoring the rich at the expense of the poor. So it was something of a surprise when the American Institute of Accountants—most of whose clients are quite solvent—attacked the measure before the Senate Finance Committee.

The accountants proposed 213 specific changes in the law. They say that while it does close some loopholes, it opens one for nearly every one it closes. Especially, the accountants want to ease their own lot by having the law become effective at a year-end, so they won't have to audit a corporation's affairs under two sets of rules.

"After all," said a spokesman, "we have waited 73 years; it won't hurt to wait another six or seven months."

HERE'S HOW . . .

MAKE A SANDBOX

A sandbox for the small child is easily made with a few hand tools. First make a frame as shown in (A). The floor is nailed across the frame and the sides and seats are added as shown in (B). All exposed edges of the seat and sides should be beveled with a plane or rounded with a wood rasp. An awning frame is made as shown in (D). The dowels are inserted in 3/4-inch holes bored clear through the frame pieces and held in place with finishing nails.

Beneath the center dowel in each piece a 3/16-inch hole is bored for insertion of a bolt to pivot the frame.

The slots in the upright posts (C) are made by first boring holes in the centerline and then sawing out with a keyhole saw. A wing nut on the bolts will control the placement of the frame.

Use round headed bolts to fasten the uprights, with the round head inside the box. The awning is tacked to the frame with broad-headed tacks.

Chute for Case Goods

THE farmer's most precious commodity is time. Anything he can do to save his time and labor will pay him real dividends.

For example, much time and effort can be wasted by carrying egg cases, boxes, bales and other items from one floor to another. By a small expenditure of money and effort, a chute can be built that will pay for itself quickly in the time it saves.

Goods of this type ride nicely on a chute bottomed with Masonite Tempered Freshwood, a tough, unusually smooth panel which has no splinters and actually outwears steel.

Illustrated is one method of constructing a chute for case goods—resting it on a stairway. Other similar methods will occur to any thoughtful farmer.

Indonesia leads the world in coconut production, says the National Geographic Society. The Philippines, India, Ceylon and the islands of the Southwest Pacific follow. There are about a million acres of coconut palms in the American tropics, with some plantation culture in Brazil, Mexico, and the West Indies. The United States is the chief consumer, with Europe second.

COUNTRY PLAYERS

LES CARROLL

COUNTRY recordings are getting fancy these days, with choral backgrounds, echo chamber and multiple recording effects.

Using multiple recording, Zeke Clements (MGM) gives a beautiful rendition of "Thank You, Lord," in which he sings all the parts and plays all the instruments, and composed it, too.

Echo effects are nicely featured in Jim Reeves' "Echo Bonito," backed by a smooth ballad, "Then I'll Stop Loving You" (Abbott).

Two excellent releases with choral backgrounds are Red Foley's "Robe of Calvary" (Decca), and Tex Ritter's "Brave Man" (Capitol).

Some new artists have exceptionally fine first recordings. These are Jack Turner's "Walkin' a Chalk Line" and Ruby Wright's "Why Fall So Slowly?" on Victor. Also, "I Can Hear the Harbor Bells" by Mollie Anne & Slim (Columbia), and Al Terry's "Good Deal, Lucille" (Hickory). Carl Smith's "Back Up Buddy" is a good, peppy number, done in Carl's usual fine style. Flip side is a nice ballad, "If You Tried as Hard to Love Me" (Columbia).

Some outstanding ballads are "Chapel of Memories" (Corky Carpenter, Starday); "Breakin' the Rules" (Hank Thompson, Capitol); "My Everything" (Eddie Arnold, Victor); "Falling Star Waltz" (Billy Dee, Faber); and "What a Pleasure" (Jimmie Skinner, Decca).

OTHER GOOD RELEASES are "House of Gold" (Hank Williams, MGM); "New World to Come" (Masters Family, Columbia); "Gumbo Ya-Ya" (Link Davis, Okeh); "I Get So Lonely" (Arthur Smith, MGM); "Cold Grey Dawn" (Chester Smith, Capitol); "A Place for Girls Like You" (Sonny Burns, Starday); "Beautiful Bouquet" (Rose Maddox, Columbia); "Somebody Lied" (Ferlin Huskey, Capitol); "Wagon Wheels" (Kenny Roberts, Dot), and "Fallen Angel" (Bob Wills, MGM).

New driver comfort!
New driving ease!

New Chevrolet Trucks... do more work per day... more work per dollar!

You save time in traffic. New truck Hydra-Matic transmission gets you off to smooth, time-saving starts without shifting or clutching. Imagine how easy this makes driving in traffic and on delivery routes! It's optional at extra cost on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models.

You save time on the highway. New high-compression power gets you up to highway speeds from a standing start in less time, and saves you time on hills, too. You make trips faster—and the new Comfortmaster cab makes them seem shorter. It's got everything!

You save extra trips, too. That's because of the extra load space you get in the new Advance-Design bodies. New pickup bodies are deeper... new stake and platform bodies are wider and longer. Also, they're set lower to the ground for easier loading.

You save on operating costs. High-compression power saves you money! The "Thriftmaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235," and the "Jobmaster 261" (optional on 2-ton models at extra cost), deliver greater horsepower plus increased operating economy.

You save with lower upkeep. New Chevrolet trucks are built stronger to last longer and save you money on maintenance. There are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models... bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models... stronger frames in all models.

And your savings start the day you buy. In fact, they start with the low price you pay—and they never stop. Chevrolet, you know, is America's lowest-priced line of trucks. And it's also the truck that has a traditionally high trade-in value.

Come in and see how much you're ahead with America's number one truck. You'll like the way we're talking business!
