

Man is Killed in Long Lake Crash; 1 Other Accident

Neal P. Dunn, 31, a Milwaukee lawyer and member of the county board there, was fatally injured in a traffic accident on County Trunk G, about two miles north of Dundee at 9:15 p. m. Sunday. Dunn, who was alone in the car, had many friends in Kewaskum and vicinity whom he visited frequently. He was a former classmate at St. Francis of Carroll Haug of here.

The young man suffered head and chest injuries and had his left leg nearly severed when the 1954 model auto he was driving crashed into two trees after leaving the highway. Fond du Lac county traffic officers said that Dunn was returning to his Milwaukee home from a Long Lake cottage his parents and he occupied. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dunn, had left for home about one hour prior to the mishap.

The driver apparently dozed at the wheel, officers theorized, for there were tire marks showing a gradual diagonal path across the roadway. The entire front section of the vehicle was caved in, trapping Dunn. A tow truck was used to pry apart the wreckage so that Dunn could be extricated. He was rushed to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, in the county ambulance but was pronounced dead there. The head injury was the probable cause of death.

When the first motorist reached the accident scene, he found the car wheels spinning with the vehicle held by the trees. Ignition wires were pulled out to get the car to stop. The spinning resulted in one tire being torn to shreds.

Dunn was a prominent Milwaukee resident. At the time he was elected to the county board he was described as being the youngest man ever to hold a supervisorship.

A car driven by Carl Volm, 29, R. 3, Kewaskum, was involved in an accident on Hwy. 45 just north of the village Tuesday afternoon. Chief of Police Gerhard Guttman reported that Volm believed something went wrong with the steering mechanism causing him to lose control of the machine. The car left the highway, rolled over into a deep ditch and came to rest on the wheels again. Volm was traveling south at the time. He and other occupants of the auto, which included his wife, 28, and their children, were cut and bruised. They were treated at a local physician's office. The firemen's ambulance was called to the scene but was not needed. The car was badly damaged.

Chevs Get 1 Hit, Lose; Twin Bill Here Sunday

It was the usual story Sunday when the Kewaskum Chevs played at Saukville. The other team got more runs and the locals lost their fourth straight in this half, 6-1.

Hero for Saukville was pitcher Bob Helm, who just missed a no hitter. G. Wierman's single in the fifth inning was the only base hit off of Helm. The last time out Helm shut out the Chevs so he has allowed just one run in two outings against our team. Bob walked six and struck out 13 Kewaskum swingers. A pretty good day, we would say.

Glen Backhaus started on the mound for the losers and later was relieved by Killy Honeck. Together they dished out only five hits, passed three, and whiffed five.

Kewaskum's lone run was scored in the fifth on an error, Wierman's single, a walk and Bud Korth's sacrifice fly. Saukville pushed over two runs in the fourth and four more in the seventh. No Saukville batters got more than one safety.

This Sunday, Aug. 15, the big bargain event of the season will take place here and also the biggest attraction. A doubleheader will be played with the Kewaskum Rivers and Lakes teams meeting the West Bend Rivers and Lakes nines. The Rivers game will be played first starting at 12:30 and the Lakes affair will follow. The West Bend Rivers team is tied for second in the standings and the Lakes club is in first place with four straight wins. So Kewaskum's representatives have their work cut out for them. Don't miss 'em.

Rivers Team Clobbers Newburg By 8-1 Score

The Kewaskum Land o' Rivers gained a .500 rating in the standings with an easy 8-1 win over Newburg here Sunday in 7 innings. The club now has won 4 and lost 4 for the season.

Kewaskum scored their runs in 3 big frames, the first, in which they pushed over 3 runs, the third, when they tallied 2, and the fifth, when 3 more scored.

Dave Metzger was the winning pitcher, allowing just one hit in the five innings he worked on the hill. Dick Romaine finished the game and was nipped for two harmless singles as Newburg made only 3 hits. Metzger lost his shutout in the fifth as a result of poor fielding by his mates.

Kewaskum collected only five hits but they came at the right time and three of them were triples which helped shove over the eight runs. Metzger also was the batting star with two triples and the other was pounded out by Van Ilarcom. F. Casper went the route for the losers.

This Sunday both the Rivers and Lakes teams entertain West Bend in a twin bill.

Barn on Herriges Farm and 1953 Car Destroyed by Fire

The barn on the Jerome Herriges farm in the town of Kewaskum, the former Bremer property, about two miles east of this village, and just off Hwy. 28, was completely destroyed by fire early last Friday afternoon in a spectacular blaze. The Kewaskum fire department was called to the scene at 1:45 p. m.

Destroyed along with the barn was a 1953 Pontiac auto. The car belonged to one member of a well digging crew who were digging a well on the farm. He had parked the vehicle aside of the barn in the shade. One of the men had injured his hand and the crew was in Kewaskum to have his injury treated when the fire broke out. Unfortunately the men had taken a truck to town instead of the car.

The blaze is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the hay in the barn. Herriges reported that when he first noticed the fire the flames were shooting out of the east end of the barn with great fury and also destroyed the newly threshed strawstack. The fire spread like wild and in a matter of minutes the entire structure was ablaze.

Firemen could see the cloud of black smoke in the sky before they ever left the village. The smoke came from the burning new roof on the barn. When the firemen reached the farm the barn was completely enveloped in flames, the strawstack was burning and the roof of an adjoining pig pen was afire.

The firemen first went to work on the pig pen and succeeded in snuffing out this blaze. There was a number of old and young pigs in the building which were saved, although some of them were quite badly burned and cut from stampering in the pen. A few minutes later and the pigs would have died from the terrific heat. Herriges pulled out some of the smaller animals and set them free but they headed right back for the pen. Firemen used the hose to keep them away from running into the fire and some of the fire fighters helped round up the pigs. The pen was almost continuously soaked to cut down the heat so that the animals could survive.

Herriges reported that several heifers which were in the barn were also destroyed in the blaze. He and others present made a bold attempt to pull the car away from the side of the barn but the flames shot through the structure with such speed that they had to withdraw. The owner had removed the keys from the vehicle. An electric pole near the strawstack was badly charred. Firemen soaked the side of the farm home nearest the barn to prevent it from catching fire.

Most of the firemen remained at the scene nearly four hours waiting for the inferno to burn itself out. Since he purchased the farm, Herriges had added many improvements and modernized the barn, including the new roof, and the loss was a hard blow. It was partly covered by insurance.

The amount of hay, straw and grain destroyed in the blaze was not made known. Additional water was hauled to the farm from Kewaskum in milk trucks through the co-operation of John Wahnschaffe and Greg Heimermann.

Death For Spies In Peacetime?

A House Judiciary subcommittee recently approved a bill proposed by Attorney General Herbert Brownell which would permit the death sentence for spies in peacetime. Heretofore, the United States has imposed the death penalty on spies only in times of war.

There is, however, thought to be some opposition in the Senate Judiciary committee, and in the Senate itself. Although the bill only permits the death penalty—and does not make it mandatory—some members of the upper legislative body are believed to oppose the measure.

We point out, in this connection, that the upper legislative body is inclined to be perhaps more lenient in such matters, and this might be attributed to the greater age of most members of the upper body. No doubt many of the nation's elder statesmen cling to ideas and concepts of war which take into consideration the chivalrous attitude and the philosophy that wars should be fought in an honorable manner.

These concepts are out of date in 1954. They are out of date because of the nature of atomic warfare and the scientific angle which now has become dominant in military operations. The theft of the country's highest scientific secrets could well determine the outcome of a new war, and, therefore, the elective death penalty for spies, convicted of selling government secrets to the enemy, is a necessity in this country.

It may seem severe to many Christians, and the death penalty for spying in peace time may be thought unnecessary by some high-minded individuals, but the practical approach to survival and the preservation of our democratic civilization includes the realization that stern measures are necessary to preserve the nation's secrets in this atomic age.

Swimming Warnings Issued By Doctors

This is the season of water accidents and a bulletin has been issued on swimming as one of a series designed to promote summertime safety.

Today the doctors point out that the largest number of swimming deaths occur annually among boys from the ages 15 to 19. The reason is not chiefly because more teen age boys go swimming than other age groups. To a large extent the trouble lies in the fact that youngsters at these ages are likely to take more chances than other people.

Without adequate safety education they are likely to violate every rule for safe swimming on a casual dare, the bulletin says, and their skill and strength do not counter-balance the hazards of reckless behavior in the water.

Following are some basic rules for swimming safety as provided in the bulletin and they apply to everybody, including the teenagers, the doctors insist.

1. Learn to swim, preferably under guidance of the American Red Cross or the scout organizations, the YMCA or YWCA or other recognized youth organizations. The age to start, if possible, is six or seven.
2. Emphasize the pointlessness and downright danger of taking dares around water. Here the parents can help, the doctors believe.
3. Never dive anywhere without knowing the depth of water and condition of the beach. Shallow water, hidden rocks or piles can be, and often are, fatal.
4. Never swim any distance alone, no matter how strong a swimmer you are.
5. Never swim after you are chilled or exhausted.
6. Never allow young children even to wade without close watching and always pick supervised swimming areas, if possible.

Thoroughly Cook Food To Destroy Bacteria

This is the season for picnics, family reunions and other such celebrations. And of customary importance during such times is delicious food—types we possibly never buy on other occasions, and always a variety and plenty of everything.

And with picnics and hot weather, food-borne illness becomes a greater hazard. The abundance of food frequently overtaxes the refrigeration space, and the rush makes pre-cooked tidbits more than a temptation—almost a necessity. Unfortunately many of these deluxe dishes are just the type that furnish good conditions for bacteria to multiply. Thus increased attention must be paid to certain precautions.

Thoroughly cook all foods you serve that are supposed to be cooked. Include here the so-called pre-cooked foods. Sufficient heat will destroy the harmful organisms. Cook or prepare only enough to be eaten. And eat the food as soon as it is cooked; or if it must be stored prior to consumption, keep it in a cold refrigerator until just before eating time.

Speaking of refrigeration, it's a good idea to refrigerate all perishable foods, especially cream filled pastries, certain salad dressings, cooked meat and poultry. Bacteria will not grow and produce poisons in food which is properly refrigerated. Many outbreaks of food poisoning and food infection are caused simply by leaving food out of the ice box.

Naturally you'll want to protect food from flies, rats, mice, and other pests which may be carriers of disease-producing bacteria. Wash your hands with soap and hot water frequently while preparing and serving food. The germs on your hands cannot be seen but can be transferred to food. And always avoid handling other people's food if you have any sore on your hands or any infection on any of your fingers.

What's a picnic without plenty of food—food which is properly stored, properly prepared, properly refrigerated, and served by clean, healthy people. So here's to healthier, and more successful picnics—all summer long.

NOW THEY'LL "QUARRY" FOOD—Abandoned quarries at Turner, Kan., are being outfitted as giant cold-storage lockers. Seven acres of underground storage will be available when the $1.5 million project is completed. Aply named concern undertaking the huge task is the Inland Cold Storage Company.

OBEDIENT "MULE"—The Army's answer to nature's own invention, the mule, undergoes tests at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. Only 27 inches high, the gasoline-burner can either be ridden or "led" by its adjustable controls. It will climb grades up to 36 per cent, weighs 750 pounds, and is designed to accompany the foot soldier in the field, giving him supply transport and cover at the same time.

CAPT. DAVEY'S SALON EXPERT EPIDERMAL ADORNMENT

PLANTS SELF-WATERED

Do you have the problem of watering your house plants while you are away on vacation? Then follow this plan.

Cut lengths of 3/8" clothes line about 18 inches long. Use an old clothes line that has been through the washing machine several times and has all the dressing removed.

Fill a quart bottle with water and place one end of the clothes line in it, so that one end of the clothes line reaches the bottom.

Wet all the cord, and place the other end about one inch under the surface of the soil in the flower pot.

Put a block of some kind under the flower pot, so that the top of the pot is even with the top of the milk bottle. This reduces the amount of cord exposed to the air.

Wrap the part of the clothes line exposed to the air with Scotch tape. This is to prevent the water from evaporating before it reaches the flower pot.

One quart of water will keep the soil in two 6-inch flower pots reasonably damp for two weeks. For larger plants, use two clothes line wicks and a separate quart of water for each one.

If you want the water to last longer than two weeks, use a separate quart of water for each average size plant in a 6-inch pot.

If the pots are larger than six inches, it would be a good idea to use more than one quart of water. Always keep the water in a small mouthed container to reduce evaporation.

Sunburn Can Be Fatal

The death of a twenty-four-year-old man from sunburn is reported from another state and the tragedy should serve to warn all persons, and especially fair-skinned people, that it can be dangerous to expose one's self unduly to the rays of the sun.

It is not always the brightness of the sun that causes fatal burns. On slightly overcast days, the solar rays can filter through and be as powerful as the bright sunlight.

We do not know too much about the rays of the sun other than that they are extremely powerful. Some patients are exposed to the rays of the sun of treatment, especially tuberculosis victims, but it is safe to assume that if beneficial results can be secured, there is the possibility of harmful effects.

We do not go into the question of pigmentation, which explains why some people are easily sunburned and others are not. It is well for everybody to be temperate in exposure until well-tanned.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Industrial production went up 2 points on the FRB index in May, but was still 13 points below May, 1953. . . . The Commerce Department believes construction this year will top last year by 2 per cent. . . . Short term commercial loans in New York declined $54 million in May. . . . Business failures in the week ended June 10 were 206, Dun and Bradstreet reported.

Check Private Wells For Safe Water Supply

No sane person would think of drinking water from a poisoned well, yet many families obtain their water from faulty wells that are potentially just as dangerous. Rural and urban dwellers who depend on private wells for their water supply should give careful thought to the fact that most of the cases of dysentery and other intestinal disorders reported during the past year have a rural background.

"But," you ask, "how can I be certain that my drinking water is safe?" Luckily there are several precautions one can take.

Since most of our difficulties result from faulty construction of wells when they are first built, many of our water problems can be solved or eliminated at that time. Rather than attempt to install a water supply ourselves perhaps our best guarantee is to hire a registered well driller and pump installer.

Well drillers in Wisconsin have been required to register with the state board of health ever since 1936, and the past session of the legislature made it mandatory for pump installers to do likewise in order to obtain a permit to operate. This registration helps to assure the public that proper well drilling and correct pump installation procedures will be followed. Compliance with the code requirements offers the best protection against contamination in our drinking water.

At the present time there are approximately 400 registered well drillers and over 1170 registered pump installers from which Wisconsin well owners can select for work of this type. The owner, for his own protection, should insist that the work be done in strict conformance with the state code.

Existing water supplies should be tested from time to time, and the superstructure of wells carefully watched and kept in a safe condition throughout the year.

A properly constructed well, and a correctly installed pump is our best assurance of safe water.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Peach Ice Cream In Fruit Frame

Peach ice cream enjoys greatest use during July and August when the luscious peach season gets underway. Fresh of flavor and delicious by itself, this ice cream claims wonderful congeniality with other summer fruits in dessert array.

Melon and peaches are a natural in fruit cups; so trust their fruited harmony by serving a scoop of peach ice cream in a melon half. The famous Peach Melba dessert links a raspberry sauce to peaches and ice cream. For a delicious variation, use sweetened raspberries to top a peach ice cream sundae. Fresh peach slices themselves can accent the positive of a peach ice cream serving.

Many easy and attractive dessert combinations are possible with convenient pre-packaged peach ice cream. One can select a favorite fruit accompaniment when purchasing a pint or half-gallon of the ice cream. Always economical, pre-packaged ice cream is even more of a saving when purchased in the half-gallon carton containing 16 delicious portions.

The family will be at the table and waiting to eat, when you serve these recipes. They are very good and will help you with your menu problems.

Yak Facts!

PARROTS HAVE ACHIEVED IMMORTALITY BY THEIR ABILITY TO REPEAT WORDS AND SENTENCES. YET PARROTS IN THEIR WILD STATE ARE NEVER KNOWN TO IMITATE THE SOUNDS OF OTHER ANIMALS! SOME PARROTS HAVE VOCABULARIES OF MORE THAN A HUNDRED WORDS—AND SOME OF THESE VERSATILE BIRDS HAVE ACTUALLY BEEN KNOWN TO APPEAR AS WITNESSES IN COURT WITH LEGAL RECOGNITION GIVEN TO THEIR TESTIMONY!

HERE ARE SOME WORDS AMERICANS ARE LEARNING THE TRUE VALUE OF: "BUY U.S. SAVINGS BONDS! THEY REPRESENT VALUE AND SECURITY! AND REMEMBER—BONDS ARE BETTER THAN EVER!"

Where's America?

ALTHOUGH CHRISTOPHER COLUMBUS MADE FOUR TRIPS TO THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE, HE NEVER ACTUALLY LANDED ON, OR SIGHTED ANY OF THE TERRITORY WE NOW KNOW AS THE UNITED STATES! AMONG THE ISLANDS HE ACTUALLY VISITED WERE SAN SALVADOR, CUBA, JAMAICA, ST. LUCIA AND MANY OTHERS.

HAVE YOU DISCOVERED U.S. SAVINGS BONDS? THEY ARE YOUR BEST INVESTMENT. ENROLL TODAY IN THE PAYROLL SAVINGS PLAN WHERE YOU WORK.

MAINE IS THE ONLY STATE IN THE UNION THAT IS TOUCHED BY ONLY ONE OTHER STATE. TENNESSEE AND MISSOURI ARE BOUNDED BY THE MOST STATES—EIGHT!

"WADDLE WE DO TODAY?"—Paced by her mistress, Alice Olhausen, left, of Chicago, Ill., "Lillibeth" stops traffic on her daily walk. The duck doesn't want to cause any "quack-ups," so she follows her mistress carefully, and avoids fowl play under the wheels of traffic.

RIDE THAT "MULE"—More tractable than its hay-burning ancestor, the new Army mechanical "Mule" goes through its paces at Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md., with its driver "up." It "eats" a gallon of gas every 18 miles, has a top speed of 25 miles per hour, and is designed to carry supplies right along with the foot soldier in the field.

HE'S THE MAN TO BEAT—Chris Chataway, right, is the man to beat if you're in a hurry. He is shown here pushing hard on the heels of John Landy as the Australian ran the world's fastest mile in 3:58.0 at Turku, Finland. Chataway was also the hot-breath-of-pursuit when Roger Bannister first broke the four-minute mile in 3:59.4, at Oxford, last May.

Teacup Topics

By Betty Ann

Editor, The Milwaukee Journal
Woman's Pages

The most important beauty lesson a girl can learn is that of relaxation, says Betty Ann. A relaxed, attractive girl is always more appealing than her beautiful, but nervous and tense friend or sister.

So, whenever you have the opportunity, relax. "Let go" physically and mentally. And if you haven't the opportunity, make it. There are several instances during the career girl's working day when she can take advantage of a restful minute or second.

For example, what about the time you waste waiting for that elevator or phone call? Instead of fretting and creating more nervous tension, you should be relaxing. Just let the tense muscles go limp and allow pleasant thoughts to occupy your mind.

Try this several times and as your brief relaxation periods increase, you'll notice you won't have that exhausted feeling at the end of the day. Your job will seem more interesting, too.

As soon as you arrive home from the office, try this simple routine for rest and relaxation. Start by taking a lukewarm bath filled with rich, foamy soapsuds. Allow yourself 30 minutes to relax completely, letting soothing suds do the trick.

After you're completely dry and have put on a comfortable robe, pour some witch hazel over a deep dish of ice cubes and dip your washcloth into it. Then, seated in a soft chair (with footstool) lay the washcloth gently on your forehead and eyes. Instantly, you'll feel cooler and refreshed.

Treat yourself to a glass of ice-cold lemonade. Then gather all those letters you weren't in the mood to answer. Now that you're relaxed, cool and rested, handling your correspondence will be a delight instead of a chore.

Two kitchen aides will spare trouble for family cooks. A snap type clothes pin kept near the stove will be useful in pulling out hot stove racks to test food cooking in the oven. A bottle of lotion kept near the sink will help working hands stay smooth and soft despite many cleanup sessions with dishes.

The amateur seamstress, working with synthetic fabrics, should decide how to finish seams according to the synthetic, the weave, the weight and the fiber content.

Nylon tricot and nylon net do not ravel, so do not require any seam finishing. French seams are the best for sheer fabrics, since they do not leave any raw edges. On firmly woven, non-ravelling fabrics, it may be necessary to pink or edge stitch the seam edges. On deep napped fabrics, or those that do not press well, stitched fell or double top stitched seams should be used.

In decorating the nursery, parents should be sure to choose a restful color scheme of light pastels that will not overstimulate the child's emotions. The ceiling should be a soft, non-glaring color that won't reflect light in his eyes. A linoleum, vinyl tile or cork floor is ideal to soft pedal footsteps so baby won't awaken when his parents step into the room for a "quick look." It's free from splinters, dust cracks and easy to clean.

Painted hardwood or varnished floors can be made cozy with a small rug by the crib, but heavy, dust catching carpets should be avoided.

How-to: Magazine Rack

ILLUSTRATED here is a simply-made but practical magazine rack for the living room or porch. The only parts needed are two pieces of Masonite Tempered Duolux, a 1/4" hardboard which is smooth on both sides, and some lumber 1" square. Dimensions of the trough may be 30 inches long, with the front panel 4 inches wide and the back panel 14 inches wide.

As shown, the bottoms of the wood legs are angled so they'll stand flat on the floor. Flat-headed screws are used to fasten the hardboard to the legs. The heads should be countersunk and the holes then filled with wood putty. Screws are inserted through drilled holes in the hardboard and driven into the wood.

The legs, where they join, are fastened with screws.

Paint the ensemble in attractive colors, first using a primer.

Here's Chicken Loaf to Tempt Tired Palates

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

HERE'S a perfect summertime main dish: Diced chicken, celery, green pepper and pimento molded in clear gelatin.

Molded Chicken Loaf (12 servings)

Two envelopes unflavored gelatin, 3 1/2 cups cold chicken stock, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon lime juice, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco, 3 cups diced cooked chicken, 1 cup diced celery, 1/2 cup diced pimento, 1/2 cup chopped green pepper.

Sprinkle gelatin on 1 1/2 cup cold stock. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add to remaining 2 cups stock. Stir in salt, lime juice and Tabasco.

Chill until the mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Mix in chicken, celery, pimento and green pepper. Turn into an 8-cup loaf pan; chill until firm.

Unmold on platter; garnish top with toasted almonds, if desired.

Note: Four bouillon cubes dissolved in 3 1/2 cups hot water may be substituted for the chicken stock. Reduce salt to 1/2 teaspoon. Recipe may be reduced by one half and molded in 6 individual molds or small loaf pan.

Another molded main dish—this one using leftover baked ham or canned luncheon meat. The meat and cheese provide first-class protein and the gelatin adds some good protein also. Therefore, the recipe produces a good "meaty" main dish for hot-weather eating.

Molded Ham 'n Cheese Loaf (8-10 servings)

Two envelopes unflavored gelatin, 1 cup cold water, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco, 1 1/2 cups salad dressing, 1 tablespoon grated onion, 1 1/2 cups finely diced celery, 1/2 cup finely diced green pepper, 1 1/2 cups ground ham, 1/2 cup grated American cheese.

Sprinkle gelatin on cold water to soften. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add salt, lemon juice and Tabasco; cool. Gradually stir into salad dressing; mix in remaining ingredients.

Here's chicken loaf in a new, taste-tempting form that will delight you.

Turn into a 5-cup loaf pan; chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with spiced peach halves filled with pickle relish and salad greens. Note: Cut recipe in half to fill 4 to 5 individual molds.

Factual News About The Eyes

Careless re-use of the polarized glasses which are worn for viewing three-dimensional movies can carry germs from one person to another, according to the Better Vision Institute. Many theaters supply glasses with paper frames, and dispose of them after they have served a single patron. This is all right, but it's dangerous for the same pair of specs to be used by different people.

Everyone knows that articles of personal use can be the means of transmitting germs. Glasses are no exception, for vision specialists have found cases where conjunctivitis has been passed along through re-used 3-D spectacles. Before long they may be prohibited, along with such outmoded articles as the common drinking cup and the common towel.

Bible Comment:

Jesus Taught The People With True Authority

AT the conclusion of the Sermon on the Mount it is said that the people were "astonished at His doctrine; for He taught them as one having authority, and not as the scribes."

Among the amazing things concerning the teaching and ministry of Jesus none is more remarkable. The scribes were the official interpreters of the law, and were supposed to speak with authority.

Jesus, in fact, recognized their authority as those who "sat in Moses seat," though He warned the people that they should do as the scribes said, but not according to their works, for they said, and did not.

But even in what was said, those who heard Jesus realized a difference. They felt that He had an authority which those who claimed authority did not possess.

He had had the good education that was the heritage of every Jewish boy of that time in the schools associated with the synagogues.

But He possessed, apparently, none of the outward credentials of authority which both then, now and always have assumed so much importance in the eyes of men. He was neither a scribe nor a rabbi and it is certain that no school of the time would have given him an honorary D.D.

Yet to those who heard Him He spoke with an authority which none of the possessors of the outward credentials of authority could command.

The secret of the authority of Jesus was that it rested on truth. His authority was that of the great Revealer of God, speaking in harmony with the truth of God and the universe, the foundation upon which all authority must ultimately rest.

Specimens Taken of 10,000-Year-Old Mud

A new investigation into the history of the earth is being carried on by a Columbia University group, which has recently taken samples from the ocean floor at depths never before explored. The deepest recovery was effected at Puerto Rico Trench, in the Atlantic Ocean, where samples of the ocean floor were brought up five miles to the surface.

The specimens taken at Puerto Rico Trench are thought to be at least 10,000 years old and consist of various layers of sediment and material. Two large samples—one ten feet long and the other thirteen feet long—were taken from this depth. The top layer of sea bottom comprised about six inches of red clay and scientists believe it was deposited over the last 10,000-year period.

Below that layer, scientists have found layers of sand, and specks of an algae known as halimeda. This is apparent proof that the algae flowed into the ocean trench from a great distance away, where it was exposed to sunlight or brought to the trench by a sub-oceanic river.

We mention these explorations, not in an attempt to explain them, since we are not experts in the field, but in an effort to point out that a new concept of the history of the earth is being developed through such experimentation.

About Your Home

By FRANCES DELL

It is natural for young children to discriminate among foods and to like some better than others. Vegetables with strong odors and sharp flavors are high on the "don't like" list of children.

Many prejudices are only imaginary. Very often children will not eat the same foods their parents dislike. For this reason, it is wise to pretend at least to eat all foods around young children. In other words, set a good example.

Disliked food should never be forced on a child, but encourage him to taste it. If a certain food is pushed aside untasted, it would be a good idea to say, "Take one bite and if you don't like it, leave the rest and eat your dessert." One bite seems like such a little bit that most children will comply. Quite often after he has taken "just one bite" several times he will be over his prejudice and begin to enjoy this food.

When children are old enough to understand, explain the value of certain foods. Make sure they understand the relationship of health and well-balanced meals. Cooperate with them when they begin studying nutrition at school. Encourage them to help plan the "well-balanced" family meals.

Learn to cook a large variety of foods, so there will be no chance of mealtime monotony. If the children refuse, after much effort, to eat a certain food, experiment with new ways to cook it.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

When the men of the family take over the cooking, it's a good time for snapshots.

Eating Is So Much Fun

YES, one thing that most everyone agrees on is that eating is one of the more pleasant things in life. Whether it is strawberry shortcake that makes you drool, or an elegant filet mignon that brings a special light to the eye—we're all interested in food.

That seems to me a very good reason for including more snapshots built around the family's favorite eating spots and foods. This is the season at which outdoor cookery reaches its peak. Whether you broil hot dogs in the back yard, serve juicy steaks from an elaborate grill, or do your picnic cooking in a state park—the situation is filled with good picture possibilities.

In some families, outdoor cookery means a vacation for mother. This is one of the situations in which the man of the house feels definitely superior. They will turn chef, complete with apron and cap, at a moment's notice to produce their specialty for the pleasure and praise of family and guests.

If this is true in your case, picture taking on such an occasion is a must. Not just one picture, either. The ritual that can be made out of preparation of a special dish deserves a whole series of pictures to show how the culinary maestro performs.

When you snap such a picture story, don't stand in one spot. Move around a bit, vary the angle—up and down as well as sideways. Vary the distance, too. Take some shots that show the whole set up—then move in closer for some that show the steak sizzling on the grill under the watchful eye of the chef.

This is a picture situation well worthy of your color film. Food is interesting in black-and-white, but in color it can make the mouth water.

If your outdoor eating is a night-time affair, don't leave the camera in the house. Your flash attachment and bulbs will work just as well outdoors at night as they do in the house during the day.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

The skunk has the distinction of being the only four-footed American that can return the fire of hunters. His weapon has made him feared by all animals, including most of mankind. In an article in Sports Afield, outdoor writer George Heinold describes him as the Master of Chemical Warfare. But, despite the efficiency of his ordnance, the skunk is not militant, either in looks or disposition.

The average skunk—he would be of the striped species—is some 28 inches long and weighs about five pounds. But longevity and good hunting may increase his bulk to a hefty eight or more pounds.

He never fires without plenty of warning. First signal is stamping with the forefeet. Second, the tail is hoisted with the tip hanging down. If this ultimatum fails, the white tip rises, spreads out, and he fires. The skunk can fire fore, aft and sidewise. Skunk musk can be smelled for a mile. Golden yellow in color, it burns human skin on contact. It is reported to have blinded Indian trappers. However, I've seen it score in the eyes of men, boys and dogs without more than temporary ill effect.

The skunk has been cited by biologists as the carnivore that ranks highest as a destroyer of insects. In addition, he will eat mice, rats, leaves, buds, grass, carrion, grains, garbage, any kind of fruit and berry within reach, and, when he's able to catch it, small game. On occasion, he eats eggs and fledglings of ground-nesting birds. But he squares himself, repaying with compound interest: he digs out and dines upon the eggs of snapping turtles—ruthless predators of waterfowl and game fish.

Unlike his cousins the weasel and otter, the skunk has no wanderlust. Only during mating time will he muster enough energy to waddle more than 500 yards from home. Most of his hunting is done after dark, for nocturnal foraging suits his lack of cunning, his sluggishness and his tastes in diet.

Decidedly incautious and heavy-footed, the skunk not only travels where angels fear to tread but also burns his bridges behind him. As a result, he frequently tumbles into cellars, barrels, manholes—not to mention odder places. It is safe to say that fire departments move a million dollars' worth of equipment each year to rescue blundering skunks.

BACK IN FASHION—This is not a picture resurrected from the "flapper" era of the '20's—it's one of the latest creations among the fall fashions. Of black jersey, fashioned by Sportswirl, it features no waistline, a loose blade belt and a wide sailor collar. Even the beads are reminiscent of the flapper era.

HARVEST HIGHWAY—With bumper wheat crops spilling over elevator capacity at Branson, Kan., Bronson Grain Company employees rope off a block-long section of old U. S. Highway 54 and dump the golden treasure on the road. More than 5000 bushels, which will be placed in elevators as soon as carloadings permit, are on this stretch of highway alone.

Hint To Save Lives

It might be a good idea for parents, with small children, to be sure that window screens are firmly held in place and that the screen itself is strong. The warning is appropriate in view of a recent news story telling of a three-year-old boy who recently fell from a window, 20 feet above a concrete areaway. Luckily, the little fellow escaped serious injury, receiving only a fractured collar-bone.

This luck will not hold for all the children who happen to fall out of windows when they lean against window screens.

Summer Safety Program Urged

Constant supervision is the first requirement for summer fun and safety for the small fry according to a bulletin issued recently.

Accidents take a tragic toll of young children all year around, but especially in summer, the doctors point out in this bulletin and the cause, in too many cases, lies in the fact that adult attention wandered and the children strayed away, or fell into water, or got lost, or pried inquisitively into poisons or matches.

Advance planning for the youngsters and a definite understanding on a family basis are recommended in the bulletin to safeguard young children and keep them busy.

The responsible person should be drilled in a safety program before, not after, a mischance. Such a program should never permit running to the neighbors for a minute or leaving small children unattended for any purpose whatever, however legitimate the call may seem. Definite understanding by all concerned about the handling of all emergencies can make the difference between tragedy and a happy-summer.

Other provisions for a happy summer for the youngsters need not be either elaborate or expensive, the doctors add. Home-made play equipment is usually a bigger success with the small fry, especially if they are allowed a hand in making it, than the shiniest apparatus from a sports store. Paper, pencils, paints, blunt scissors should be kept on hand, too, for rainy days and the means for setting up fascinating play stores and play houses are usually to be found at home in kitchens, attics and store rooms, anywhere.

"Best of all," the doctors say, "is the occasional family picnic and get together. It is one of the finest gifts parents can give their children for their health and safety now and later on."

In a new method of packaging pre-stuffed, frozen poultry, the fowl is wrapped in a tightly fitting plastic bag. Housewife puts the bag into the oven for roasting.

NO BUBBLE GUM—F. Cadlo, of the famed Glasgow, Scotland, Rangers, really keeps after the ball during an exhibition soccer match with the Chelsea Club of London, at Triboro Stadium in New York City. Both sides won "goose eggs" nearly as big as the ball, as they fought the final game of their North American tour to a 0-0 tie.

Nutritious Diet Needed in Old Age

A good diet—important at all ages—is an especially powerful factor in keeping healthy and vigorous in later years. The need for good nutrition continues throughout life.

There is considerable evidence that many of the ailments of older people can be traced to poor nutrition. Through the years the right food helps the body to be at its best, and in event of illness, a well-nourished body responds better to treatment than one in a run-down condition.

Some older people make the mistake of cutting down on basic foods that are needed and resort to too many meals of toast and tea, watery soup and crackers, or rolls and coffee. However, for the best health and vigor, older persons should continue to live by the rules of good nutrition.

Older folks who are less active do not need to eat as large quantities of the heavier, energy-producing foods—fats, sweets, and starchy foods—as do more active persons. However, they still need generous amounts of the basic foods which provide protein, minerals, and vitamins. The less food eaten the better must be the selection.

These proteins, minerals and vitamins can be adequately obtained if the daily meals include two or more servings of such foods as lean meat, fish, eggs, and cheese; two or three glasses of fresh pasteurized milk or the equivalent of evaporated milk or dry skim milk; a serving of citrus fruits or tomatoes; a serving of green or yellow vegetables; and some whole grain or enriched cereal and bread. Amounts of other foods eaten, such as fats and sweets, should depend on a person's weight.

It has wisely been stated, "We are what we are today largely because of how we lived our yesterdays." Good eating habits developed in childhood, and continued through the early adult years, are the best preparation for healthy, vigorous living as senior citizens.

Behind The Scenes In American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—U. S. Government reporting of statistics on business is the world's best. But New York, the nation's business capital, is beginning to wish that the statisticians could be just a little more realistic. Here are three cases in point:

Rents: The official index of rents is up not quite 4 percent since mid-1953. But, say industrialists, whereas a year ago real estate agents were collecting extra charges, today they are advancing moving expenses, or knocking off a month's rent in lieu of redecorating. It doesn't jibe.

Metals: Official prices are up 2.5 percent on steel, stationary on other metals. But purchasing agents declare these are list prices, only, and that alert buyers are getting goods for less than list every day.

Automobiles and other durable goods: List prices have shown little softening in a year, though higher trade-ins and extravagant promotion offers have trimmed "real" auto prices at least 7.5 percent.

The reason business wants statistics to reflect real prices instead of list prices is simple: Wage scales are tied closely to living costs indexes. Profit margins would be more satisfactory if wages could be kept down.

ENCHANTMENT—It's no secret that one of the mainstays of the American economy for several decades has been our almost over-developed yen for better living through better things—largely "more convenient" things. Now, according to Paul B. Wishart, the American people are "in the third stage of enchantment" with this idea, and that stage holds great possibilities, too.

Wishart told the recent convention of the American Institute of Architects that the first stage was "when they learned they could get modern conveniences at all. The second was when they discovered they could get them cheap. Now the third is observable—the urge toward human variation."

Mr. Wishart forecast that this combination of the desire to have what everyone else has, but with the disinclination to have one's house look like everyone else's house, would within 10 years give new homes the same irresistible appeal that new automobiles have long exerted on the American buyer—and a correspondingly healthful effect on the economy.

THINGS TO COME—A magnetic dingbat slips a rubber sleeve over an electric cord and holds it against the appliance when it isn't connected. . . . If you have air-conditioning, you can get a slotted steel door to let air circulate between rooms, and eliminate some ductwork. . . . Viscose fiber dish towels are said to be free of lint, twice as absorbent as the cotton ones they offer to supersede. . . . An aluminum step stool has a bright red seat of fiber glass.

BRIGHT PICTURE—As 1954 goes into its second half, it is clear that the nation's economy, instead of slipping back, is pushing confidently ahead. Strongest indication that business is headed for new achievements comes from the construction industry; all its segments foresee all-time record expenditures this year.

Manufacturers of clay tile floor and wall surfacing material, for example, expect as much as a 10 percent dollar increase in their sales. Government experts concur; they forecast a new record of $36 billion worth of construction.

Buildings will be better as well as more numerous. In private housing, quality materials are being used as never before. The trend is toward floor-to-ceiling clay tile installations in bathrooms and kitchens. The use of such superior materials, as well as the addition of hosts of time-saving conveniences, make today's houses the best ever built in volume.

BIG CUSTOMERS—New York's National City Bank has just published its annual listing of the hundred largest manufacturing corporations in terms of total assets, ranging from $5.3-billion Standard Oil (New Jersey) to $215-million Colorado Fuel and Iron.

These companies took in $91.4 billion from their operations, paid out not quite $48 billion for goods and services purchased, $22.7 billion for wages, salaries and labor benefits, and paid $11 billion in taxes, state, federal and local. Net income of $5.7 billion represented 6.2 cents on the sales dollar. Stockholders got 3.3 cents of the sales dollar as dividends.

Preparing themselves to do an even bigger job of producing and selling in 1954, the companies spent $6.4 billion on plant expansion and modernization.
