

Indians Lose First Tilt Under Lights; Dedication Held

LABOR UNION PRESENTS $1,000 CHECK FOR UNIFORMS; LARGE CROWD ATTENDS

A big, rugged, undefeated Brandon team spoiled the Kewaskum Indians first football game played under the new lighting system installed here. The first night game was played Friday with Brandon edging the Indians by a 13-6 score.

A steady drizzle of rain and fog also spoiled the evening's festivities and made the field very slippery. This held down the score. Despite the weather conditions, the largest crowd ever to see a football game here was on hand to inspect the lights and watch the first night encounter. Several hundred persons attended.

Between halves the lighting system was dedicated with ceremonies. Members of the school board, faculty, and others participated. As a part of the dedication, Henry Rosenheimer of the school board accepted a $1,000 check for team uniforms, presented by Francis Gilboy of the local labor union. Giles Wierman was at the microphone to announce the presentation.

The high school band started off the game with the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and also rendered selections during the contest and dedication. Principal C. M. Rose gave a play by play account of the game over the loud speaking system. Lunch and refreshments were sold.

Many of those in the crowd came from Campbellsport, Oakfield, Lomira, West Bend and other neighboring towns. The lights received much favorable comment and really light up the field and surrounding streets. They can be seen from a far distance outside of the village.

The victory was Brandon's second straight in conference play and the defeat was Kewaskum's first of the season, knocking them out of a first place tie. Coach Ernie Mitchell's Indians, all decked out in their new uniforms, scored their first touchdown in the first quarter. They completed two passes which took them to the five yard line and scored three plays later. The extra point was blocked.

Brandon came roaring back in the early minutes of the second period. Half-back John Mollien passed to End Arlyn Albrecht, covering 40 yards, for a TD. The attempt for the extra point was blocked and the score was knotted at 6-6.

Again in the second quarter, the veteran Mollien broke down the middle for 40 yards and scored the second Brandon touchdown. The extra point was booted by End Fred Mollien and that was the ball game. Both teams battled to a scoreless tie in the second half as the field grew more slippery. The Brandon defense tightened up and Kewaskum failed to register a first down in the third and fourth quarters.

Photographers were on hand to take pictures of the dedication and first night game action. The next game under the lights here will be played next Friday when the Indians tackle North Fond du Lac in their homecoming game at 8 o'clock. The homecoming program and festivities are listed in a separate article on this page.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, wearing a gown of chintilly lace and tulle with a fitted bodice and a yoke of illusion trimmed with pleated tulle and a lace collar. The skirt was fashioned with a lace panel down the front, which extended to form a bustle in the back and also formed the cathedral train. Her illusion veil was held by a pearl trimmed lace half hat. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and stephanotis centered about an orchid.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Lester Bonlender, as matron of honor. She was attired in a cherry net and velvet gown which was worn with a velvet stole. The bodice of her gown was a shirred ruffle crossing down the front to form trimming. A headpiece of net with pearl trimming completed her attire. She carried a cascade arrangement of white and gold mums tied with a white ribbon.

Mrs. Jerome C. Kandel, another sister of the bride, Miss Diane Mechenich, a friend, and Miss Sandra Zuern, the bride's cousin, attended as bridesmaids and junior bridesmaid. They wore moss green ensembles styled like that of the matron of honor. Bronze ribbons tied their bouquets of gold and bronze mums. The bridegroom's cousin, Miss Jeanette Imoehl, was the little flower girl in a taffeta nylon tulle dress with scallops edging the full taffeta skirt and the tulle neckline. She wore a headpiece like those of the other attendants and carried a miniature bouquet like that of the bride.

William Vorpahl, Jr. was his cousin's best man, while Jerome C. Kandel and Lester Bonlender served as groomsmen. Mr. Vorpahl and Mr. Kandel also ushered the guests to their places. Master Glenn Bonlender, the bride's nephew, was the ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a rose bde suit with avocado and black accessories. Mrs. Stahl was attired in a navy crepe gown with navy blue accessories. Both had a pink and white corsage.

The bride chose a floor length gown of ice blue nylon net with a full skirt, a lace brocaded, long sleeved bodice, and sequin centered flower trimming. With it she wore a shoulder length veil gathered to a tiara of beads. Her bouquet consisted of white pom poms, red roses and streamers centered about an orchid.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Eugene Faber as matron of honor, wearing a coral nylon strapless gown with a lace jacket and gauntlets. New Type Speed Control Device Displayed Here

In the first showing in Washington county, the "Speed Watch" system of patrolling speed zones was demonstrated in the village of Kewaskum last Friday afternoon. This electrically timed system of recording traffic speed was favorably received, according to Chief of Police Gerhard Guttman.

The system is different in many respects from radar patrolling. The "Speed Watch" is compact in a box and portable so that any enforcement officer can set it up at any desired location.

Placed 132 feet apart are two rubber hoses which start and stop the timing device. When a vehicle's front wheels pass over the first hose, a mercury switch sets off the timing instrument which is located about 250 feet beyond the total measuring distance. The pressure instantaneously stops the timer as the auto hits the second hose.

This time appears on the "Speed Watch" in miles per hour rather than seconds. As the actual recording device is placed some 250 feet beyond the last measuring point, adequate time is then available for the patrolman to step out and flag the motorist.

This system has not been accepted as readily as the radar method of patrolling but it is relatively new in this area. Wausau is the only city in Wisconsin that has so far adopted "Speed Watch." The system has proved popular in the East, however. Chief of Police Everett Gleason of Wausau reports that that city has had a great deal of success with this electrically timed device with 100 per cent convictions and no disputed cases.

TEACUP TOPICS

BY BETTY ANN
Editor The Milwaukee Journal Women's Page

Versatile salt, a miraculous mineral, has been working its wonders for mankind for thousands of years. Today, along with other household and kitchen uses, the product is being used as an aid to health and beauty, says Betty Ann.

Start the day with vim and vigor by adding a brisk salt rub to your morning bath. Rub plain white salt over the entire body until skin is pink and tingles. Your circulation steps up, your body is toned and you are ready to tackle the day's work. At the end of the day when you're tired and worn, when your nerves are frazzled and you can't relax, add a few handfuls of salt to a warm bath. Lie there and soak until the tired jumpy feeling gives way to an easy relaxed calm.

If hot pavements or too many steps are causing feet to burn and swell, try popping them alternately in a strong hot water solution and then in a cold bath until the burning and swelling are gone.

For the busy person, a dry shampoo between times is often a must. One of the most effective and easy to remove applications is a combination of one ounce of powdered orris root and one cup of salt. Spread well over the hair and scalp, rub in with the fingertips, then brush vigorously. The hair becomes fresh and glossy. As a treatment for dandruff, try a mixture of one cup of salt and five tablespoons of water packed on the hair. Allow to remain for 10 to 15 minutes and rinse well with warm water. The salt tones the scalp and loosens scaly particles.

If you're looking for an unusual gift for a bride, one that won't be duplicated by someone else, give her something you can make yourself.

One you can make yourself is a set of wastepaper baskets. Start with a couple of large popcorn or potato chip cans and cover with decorative wallpaper. If the rim of the can is to show, paint it one of the more prominent colors in the wallpaper, before pasting on the paper.

Shellac the outside of the cans and apply a coating of wax for double protection. If you want to make a companion piece for the baskets, cover a semicircular clothes hamper with the same wallpaper, shellac and wax.

Wallpaper designs that have no definite up and down or side to side design direction are ideal for use on ceilings as well as walls. You can "raise the roof"—make a room seem taller—by camouflaging the break between side wall and ceiling with a well selected pattern. Expansion attics with dormer windows will appear less cutup with the simple yet ingenious application of an over-all pattern.

There is a simple trick in sewing which prevents stretching of curved necklines, arm holes or any bias cut edge.

Set your sewing machine for a long stitch. Without stretching the material, run a row of stitching one-fourth of an inch in from the outer edge before basting sections of the garment together.

When sewing fabrics woven from animal fibers (such as silk and wool), use silk thread; vegetable fiber fabrics (cottons), use cotton thread; manmade fiber fabrics (nylon, rayon, orlon, dacron), use manmade fiber threads, such as nylon or dacron.

The sooner you write a bread and butter letter to the hostess who has entertained you as a house guest, the better. It's difficult to make your "I had a wonderful time" sound convincing if you put off writing as long as you can. A prompt letter carries enthusiasm by its promptness.

Lemon Chiffon Cake

Two and one-fourth cups cake flour; 1 1/2 cups sugar; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon baking powder; 1/2 cup oil; 6 eggs, separated; 3/4 cup cold water; 2 teaspoons lemon juice; 1 teaspoon lemon rind; 1/2 teaspoon cream of tartar.

Sift flour, salt, sugar and baking powder together. Make a well and add oil, egg yolks, water, lemon juice and rind. Beat until smooth. Add cream of tartar to egg whites and beat until very, very stiff. Pour egg yolk mixture over whipped egg whites folding with rubber scraper until blended. Do not stir. Pour into ungreased 10 by 4 inch tube pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 70 minutes.

Here Are Delicious Ways to Prepare Broilers and Fryers

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

THE Department of Agriculture reports that unusually large supplies of broiler-fryer chickens are now on the market. So let's take advantage of the lower prices. Here's a wonderful version of that world-famous taste treat, Hungarian chicken paprikas.

Chicken Paprikas (Serves 4)

One-quarter pound salt pork, diced; 1 broiler fryer (3 to 3 1/2-pound ready-to-cook weight), cut in serving pieces; flour, 1 tablespoon red (Hungarian) paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup Tokay wine or soup stock, 1 cup sour cream, 1 cup heavy cream, 3 medium onions.

Preheat electric skillet or heavy iron skillet. Place diced pork in skillet and fry for 10 minutes, turning frequently. Meanwhile, dredge chicken with flour. Blend seasonings into wine or stock and mix with cream. Shred onions.

When pork cubes are glazed and slightly brown, add chicken and brown well on all sides (about 10 to 15 minutes). Add onions, stir lightly; pour 3/4 of cream mixture over chicken and blend carefully. Cover skillet; turn heat low and cook for 20 minutes.

Add remaining cream mixture, cover and cook until chicken is tender (about 15 to 20 minutes). Sprinkle with paprika before serving. Serve with broad egg noodles.

If you enjoy the flavor of curry here's a good recipe for you

Curry Broiled Chicken (Serves 2 to 3)

Two and one-half to 3 1/2-pound broiling chicken, salt and pepper, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine melted, 1/2 to 3/4 teaspoon curry powder, paprika.

Have butcher split chickens in half. Remove neck and backbone. Season inside and out with salt and pepper. Combine butter and curry With a pastry brush, coat chicken pieces on both sides with butter. Sprinkle lightly with paprika.

Place in flat, shallow pan 6 inches from flame. Start chicken cooking skin side down. Broil 15 to 20 minutes, or until golden brown and tender. Continue brushing with the butter mixture. Turn and broil 10 minutes longer.

Health and Beauty

There are so many creams and lotions on the market today, with wondrous claims of what their regular use will do for your appearance, that one could quite easily be left bankrupt—if one believed even half of the glowing reports.

Anyone taking seriously the fact that youth and beauty can come from a bottle, is in for a sad let-down. Many of the new cosmetics can improve the complexion. The creams can prolong the youthful appearance of the skin.

However, the truth is that most of the descriptive passages are exaggerated. A good example of this is the reports of what the hormone creams were going to accomplish. Some cosmetic houses had women believing that, when used as directed, (this was quite often in conjunction with one or two of their other products) age lines and wrinkles would be greatly reduced or fade completely.

A short time ago, one of the outstanding testing laboratories in the country, with no axe to grind, came out in print with a different story. The report, a result of twelve years study, stated that hormone creams did help retard the aging of the skin. After six to twelve weeks of use, the results could clearly be seen under a microscope but not by the naked eye.

This may sound terribly discouraging to those women who had such high hopes for the costly hormone creams. However, the best way to look at the test results, is to be thankful you live in an age when even a slight retarding of the signs of age are possible.

The best advice in the world is to learn to grow old gracefully. Take sensible care of yourself but don't allow it to become an end in itself.

World Getting Better?

There are some people who wonder whether human beings are making progress, despite the many improvements of the modern age.

It is not possible to secure statistics to measure the progress of mankind in some lines but medical men assert that 2,000 years ago, the average length of life was twenty-five years. Today, they say it is sixty-six years. This looks as if progress has been made along medical lines.

We believe that it can be established beyond doubt, that the average standard of living has also moved upward throughout the world. Nor have we much doubt but that the same can be said for education, economic activities and the social relationships that exist between human beings.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Seen from the back, this young miss is taking the steps in strides. Here's a situation in which a back view tells a better story than one showing faces.

Sometimes It's a Good Idea To Take a Back View

The appealing picture above is proof that it is indeed a good idea to take a back view on occasion. While we certainly want most of the snapshots of our favorite people to show their faces, once in a while you can take one with their backs to the camera that is very expressive.

This picture of three young misses is just as expressive as though they were facing the camera, maybe more so. For the person who knows them, it would be possible to guess exactly what their faces were showing at the moment. You could see the pleased and somewhat determined look on the face of the young miss in the middle, whose short legs are achieving a victory over the steps.

Another thing to note about this picture is the camera angle. We've written before about how it pays to look up or down at your subject on occasion rather than to invariably shoot straight on. In this shot, the camera was definitely looking up. This helps give the feeling of motion, as well as giving the snapshot a wonderfully neutral sky background. The subjects stand out against it. There's nothing to attract the viewer's eye or attention from them.

All in all, it's a snapshot that proves it's a good idea to try something different once in awhile. Vary the pose, vary the angle for a change of pace in your pictures and to add interest to your snapshot books.

Two Icebreakers Force Way Thru Last Ice Barrier

The Navy has announced that two icebreakers have penetrated the last major ice barrier in the path of a northwest passage from the east coast to the west coast of Canada. Explorers have tried for centuries to find a northern route connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, but in vain.

The naval announcement does not mean that sea transportation between the eastern and western oceans will now be feasible. In fact, the Navy admitted that the icebreakers were favored by good luck, since melting conditions in late August were better than average and helped the expedition considerably.

What may be of major importance, however, is the fact that the Navy is opening up a route, having taken the first soundings ever recorded in the McClure Strait, for possible passage of submarines (under the ice) from east to west, or the reverse, in a region very close to the USSR.

The icebreakers forced their way through ice as thick as ten feet at some points to make the successful passage of McClure Strait. The strait leads into the Arctic Ocean, going east to west, not far from the North Pole. It is a good five hundred miles above the Arctic Circle.

The long-range planning of several of the world's navies has long taken into consideration that atomic-powered submarines would be able to slip quietly under thick ice on the surface of such straits and cross from western Canadian shores to eastern in a short period of time.

It is estimated that the U. S. Navy's first atomic-powered sub, Nautilus, might well be able to perform such a mission in the near future. This is the significance of the discovery of new routes at the top of the globe—in an area where experts say a possible war between this country and the Soviet Union may be decided.

In FASHION now

There was a statement in one of the leading woman's magazines not long ago to the effect that after a woman is thirty-five, she should no longer wear black. It was a flat statement and pointed out no exception to the rule.

Most women over thirty-five will strongly disagree. If your coloring is right, black may well be your most flattering color.

Whatever the case may be, this fall and winter will find most of us dressed in bright colors.

The right color, worn close to the face can do wonders for anyone. Experiment to find a color that gives a becoming light to your skin and colorful glow to your eyes.

Blue is a big favorite and will do a lot for anyone with mousey-type hair and skin tones. Pinks and rose tones are very soft and flattering to an aging skin.

Purple and lavender are worn by all ages today. In the past they were considered colors for elderly women only.

Beware of unusual mixtures, such as tangerine and chartreuse. Both of these colors require special makeup and even then are not becoming to many women.

Gray is a most satisfactory color. It is a basic color and can be combined with brilliant colors effectively. It is suitable for all age groups and flattering to almost all color types.

Dog Paratroopers In Alpine Region

Something new has been added in the paratrooping business. In Austria, where avalanches seem to kill people every year, Alpine rescue groups have begun training dogs for parachute rescue work.

Although such dogs have been used for many years in Austria's Alpine regions, in finding those lost in snow slides, the difficulty of putting the dogs within close range of those trapped has often foiled rescue missions.

To combat this, the Austrian Mountain Rescue Service has started training dogs in parachuting. The training utilize a special parachute for the dog, who follows his master out of the plane ten seconds after his master jumps.

Once on the ground, the dog's chute is removed by his master and he proceeds to use his superior tracking abilities to locate victims. Reports from Austria say the dogs are highly successful paratroopers. The dogs—German Shepherds—have advantages in parachuting, since they land on four legs and thus can better cushion themselves for shock.

The fact that dogs can be trained to jump out of airplanes and aid in rescue work is a remarkable feat and one which speaks well for the breed. These are the same dogs used largely by the Army, and the favorite of seeing-eye groups that furnish blind people with seeing-eye dogs. It is hard not to love animals when one sees the results of such faithful service and devotion as these animals are capable of performing.

Hurricanes Still A Bit Mysterious

Hurricane Carol, which recently struck New England and topped the Old North church in Boston, in addition to sweeping away hundreds of homes along the coast in that area, is still something of a mystery. Weather experts went to work on causes and reasons for the storm's sudden change in course immediately after it struck in the East.

But it is readily admitted that even the nation's top weather experts do not understand why hurricanes follow the various courses they unexpectedly take. In spite of the generally accepted belief that man knows most of what there is to know about the weather, weather bureau officials in the New York area recently admitted there are too many unknowns in the hurricane picture for them to accurately predict the path of hurricanes as yet.

Each storm brings with it clues, and provides a new source of material for weather experts to study, and the experts have been huddling on the cause of the recent change of course of the recent hurricane. The most generally accepted theory, of course, is that low pressure areas draw in turbulent weather and cause storms, but exactly what causes low pressure areas is not fully understood and just why a low pressure area developed west of New York and drew Hurricane Carol north, instead of northeast at the critical moment is yet not fully explained.

Another puzzle about hurricanes which is not yet fully understood is the question about high tides caused by them. It was formerly believed that hurricane tides resulted from lowered pressure at the center of an advancing storm. The lower pressure would cause water to rise, since the pressure would not be as great.

In a new authoritative work on weather, by the American Meteorological Society, it is suggested that the pressure effect could only amount to about four feet. Yet hurricane tidal waves are quite often much higher than this and this suggests there is another cause—as yet unknown.

All of which brings us around to the point that man is still a long way from solving the secrets of nature, and especially those concerning the weather.

About Your Home

You can grow your own camellias—no matter what section of the country you live in. If you think you are in a section that is too cold, you should see the plants being grown by a gardener in Maine.

He had three, twelve-inch whips shipped up from South Carolina and now has eight, good-sized plants. These plants blossom generously in midwinter in large pots in front of a southwest window. The room is kept somewhat cooler than the rest of the house.

During the summers the plants are placed in a half-shady spot in the yard. Their requirements are simple: an acid soil, good drainage, correct amounts of light and enough growing space. The best temperature seems to be between fifty and sixty degrees F.

It would be fun to try one camellia and if you have success and enjoy the small amount of labor involved, you may find a new hobby.

A small plant, balled and burlapped can be ordered through the mail. Plant it in acid, heavy soil made lighter with humus and sand. The pot should be slightly larger than the root-ball. Cover the vent hole with straw for drainage. Leave one inch above the soil for watering.

When potting, firm soil around root-ball, but don't bury its crown. Spray plant when potted and stand the pot in water until the ball is well soaked. The leaves should be washed with mild soap and water about once a month.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

For something that's supposed to be recreation, our field sports are hedged in with an awful lot of restrictions. It's all too easy to break a law wittingly or unwittingly each time you go afield.

The beef here is that the laws on the statute books are to complex and too many, are becoming more complex and more numerous each year, and are sometimes foolish to the point of absurdity.

Here's the situation: You buy a license and get a leaflet containing a summary of the laws. There is nothing wrong with this. The summary ordinarily tells you what is in season and when, outlines a few major restrictions on how game or fish can be taken, and that's all.

But now let's say you get curious about some point of law that puzzles you, and you ask for one of the larger booklets to "clarify" the laws. Man your just asking for confusion according to Bill Wolf, who recently undertook a study of game laws for Sports Afield magazine.

When these publications are complete reprints of statutes affecting wildlife, they make sense only to the legal mind and are useful only to officials who must deal with violators. When these publications are summaries of state statutes, they serve only to annoy because they outline carefully what you may not do and seldom give a summary of what you may do.

Now you can't convict a man of any crime unless the law states specifically what that crime is. So it is necessary to say in the laws themselves what "thou shalt not." But it is necessary to confound the average sportsman with this legalese?

If the legal method of taking fish and game is put forth clearly for public distribution, why enumerate all the illegal methods? It is just a waste of space; in fact, the "thou shalt not" sections of many codes are a complete course on taking game by non-sporting methods, many of which would not even occur to the average law-breaker.

The least that we hunters and fishermen with nonlegal minds can ask is that when we buy our licenses, our states will furnish us a booklet telling us—in simple English—only what is legal. We can just assume anything else is illegal.

When crossing streets, walk, never run, 'Cause if you don't you're all but done.

HERE'S HOW . . .

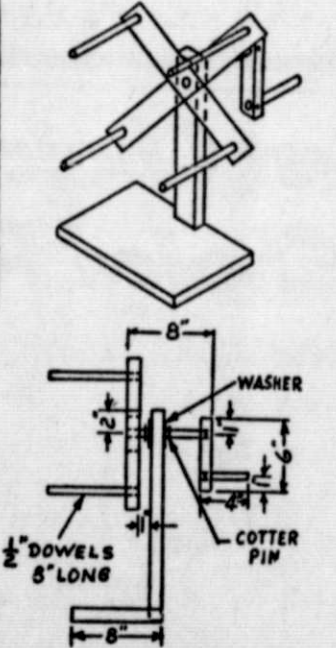

MAKE A FISHING LINE DRYER

Making a fishing line dryer is a good investment. A piece of lumber 1 by 8 by 12 inches forms the base, in which a slot is cut to fit a post 2 inches wide and 18 inches high. One inch from the top of the post a 3/4-inch hole is bored. The post is fastened to the base with two No. 9 wood screws.

The two crossed members are each 2 inches wide and 18 long, cross-lapped, and joined with four 3/4-inch No. 8 screws. Four dowel pieces, each 8 inches long are inserted in 1/2-inch holes, bored 1 inch from the ends of the cross pieces. A fifth dowel, in the center of the cross, serves as an axle. Each dowel is fastened with one No. 9 screw. Insert the axle in the post, mark the position of the cotter pins, then bore small holes through the dowel for the pins. Put one washer on the axle, behind the cross; insert the axle, add a second washer behind the post, and insert the pins.

The handle arm is 1 by 2 by 6 inches, with 1/2-inch holes bored 1 inch from each end—one to fit the axle, the other to fit the 4-inch handle.

AERIAL FARMHAND—Swooping low to show off its crop-dusting ability, the "Fletcher Utility" goes through its paces at Rosemond, Calif. It is said by its manufacturers to be the first plane specifically designed for farm work to be put into volume production. Of all-metal construction, and with a 42-foot wingspan, the aerial workhorse is designed to pick up a 1250-pound load from an 870-foot, unimproved flight strip.

Huge Break-Off At Niagara Tumbles Into Gorge Below

The collapse of much of famed Prospect Point on the American side of Niagara Falls marked another victory for nature in the battle of man versus the relentless forces of erosion. But engineers are already hard at work to cheat nature of future victories.

Even as the 185,000 tons of rock and earth toppled into the Niagara River gorge, a joint United States-Canadian project was taking shape to control and beautify the falls and develop hydroelectric power.

The huge break-off at Prospect Point, while spectacular, was only one of a long series that has made history at Niagara Falls, points out the National Geographic Society. Three recent crashes have been outstanding.

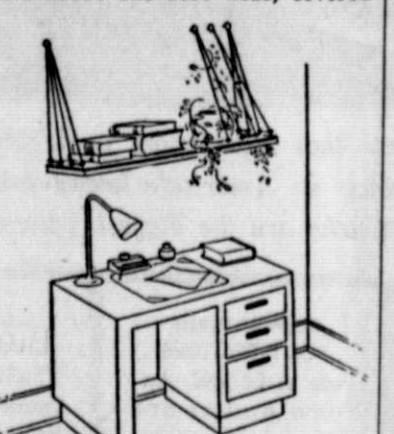

In 1931 a rock wedge, 300 feet across and 70 at its deepest, hurled to the river floor near the center of the American falls. The summer of 1934 saw another gigantic cave-in along the curve of Horseshoe Falls on the Canadian side. And later that same year, a smaller slide took a bite out of Canada's Table Rock at the far edge of the Horseshoe drop.

Such massive crumbling has gone on since the birth of awe-inspiring Niagara Falls, probably not more than 100,000 years ago. As the incessant pounding has gouged out the soft shale under a thick cap of hard limestone, the overhanging ledges have given way in big or little chunks.

Geologists figure the Canadian falls—with more than 90 per cent of the rushing waters—have retreated during the past century at the rate of two to four feet a year.

Factual News About The Eyes

Jonathan Swift, the Irish-born English satirist who lived from 1667 to 1745, sometimes read as much as 16 hours a day in his youth, according to the Better Vision Institute. Although his vision became poor at an early age, he vowed never to wear spectacles.

When he was 57, he wrote: "My eyes will not suffer me to read small prints; nor anything by candle-light." He also had trouble writing, and said: "I make nothing of mistaking untoward for Howard; wellpull for Walpole; knights of share for knights of shire; monster for minister; in writing speaker I put n for p; and a hundred such blunders which cannot be helped, while I have a hundred oceans rolling in my ears." Ten years later he had begun to depend almost entirely upon the eyes of others.

Maybe Swift's vision would have served him adequately throughout his lifetime if he had used eyeglasses, the Institute suggests. At least in this day and age regular professional eyesight care can almost always preserve one's vision to the end.

Bible Comment:

Paul Forged Spiritual Armor For Christians

THE Apostle Paul, who was a Christian in a Roman pagan world dominated by power and Roman conquering armies, did not hesitate to draw effective illustrations for Christian life and conduct from the details of happenings in that Roman world.

He compared the Christian life to a race, and he laid great stress upon running to win. In imperial Rome, with its dominance of the world, he saw the material realization of a similar dream of imperialism, but his dream was of a spiritual imperialism of a world completely conquered by Christ and His gospel.

In that sense Paul was an imperialist, and the dream enshrined in the Lord's Prayer, "Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven," is still the dream and prayer of Christians, though it is still far from fulfillment.

That Roman world was one of action, war, and conquest; and in his spiritual world Paul saw the Christian life and Christian duty, individual and collective, as demanding action, war, and conquest.

The Christian's warfare was against inward evils, temptations and weaknesses from which Paul, himself, was not immune.

But the foes of the Christian were not all inward. Against the forces of evil, within and without, Paul called for Christians, strong and well-prepared. What the Christian world of today lacks is the Pauline sense of the Christian warfare. We tend to think of Christianity too exclusively in terms of personal character and conduct. What we need is aroused and awakened Christians, following a Son of God, who goes forth to war, and fully equipped with all the available spiritual weapons for offense and defense.

Heat Beats Beacon

Kansas City—An electric beacon, atop an office building here, which indicates the weather forecasts by flashing colored lights, went berserk one night, after many days of 110 degree temperatures, and began flashing in quick succession the signs for fair weather, cloudy skies, rain and snow. Martin Kauffman, the man who sets the control dials, observed, "The thing must be suffering from heat stroke."

The greatest effort made by many workers is to look busy while doing nothing.

COUNTRY PLAYERS

LES CARROLL

MANY of the new country recordings are gay and nonsensical, and make for very pleasant listening.

Texas Jim Robertson has a new idea, an "Automatic Woman," and it makes a catchy song. And Billy Wills' "Out of Gas" is humorous, with a nice beat (MGM).

Red Foley and Ernest Tubbs have a rollicking novelty number in "Double-Datin'" and Tex Williams' version of "They Were Doing the Mambo" is exceptionally good (both Decca). "Female Hercules" is a fine rhythmic comedy number, sung with much enthusiasm by the Carlises (Mercury).

One of the top singers of sad love ballads, Marty Robbins, has two beautiful sides in "I'm Too Big to Cry" and "Call Me Up" (Columbia). Another pretty ballad is Sonny James' "Oceans of Tears," featuring choral backing (Capitol).

Lyricists are again using roses as the traditional symbol of love, and Roy Acuff sings a smooth love ballad, "I'm Planting a Rose," in his pleasing old-time style (Capitol). And Hawkshaw

Hawkins' "One White Rose" is one of his best releases (Victor). In the sacred vein, the Chuck Wagon Gang give a fine rendition of the currently popular "Tattler's Wagon," backed by a well-done old hymn, "Oh, Why Not Tonight?" (Columbia).

By trick recording, Betty Cody duets beautifully with herself in a melodic ballad, "Can You Live With Yourself?" (Victor). And Opal Jean sings both parts of a lively number, "Tennessee Courtin' Time" (Hickory).

OTHER GOOD RELEASES are "Very Seldom Frequently Ever" (Ferlin Huskey, Capitol); "Show Me" (Davis Sisters, Victor); "An Angel's Face" (Ted West, MGM); "The Good and the Bad" (Charline Arthur, Victor); "Little One" (Aurty Inman, Decca); "Whatcha Gonna Do Now?" (Tommy Collins, Capitol); "Itsy Bitsy Bity Me" (Jim and Maxine Brown, Faber); "Lonely Wind" (Ernie Chaffin, Hickory); "I Could Love You More" (Ray Price, Columbia); "Just Suppose" (Jim Eanes, Decca); "Poison Lies" (Stanley Bros., Mercury) and "That's All Right" (Smiley Maxedon, Columbia).

Behind The Scenes in American Business

By Reynolds Knight

NEW YORK—Millions of dwellers in mortgaged homes have a new protection against the high-pressure salesman of home improvements, who sometimes sells a job that doesn't live up to his promises. This is the provision in the new housing act for opening home mortgages.

What this phrase means is this: The home owner buys his home on mortgage. By the time he has paid, say, $1,000 on the principal, his home needs repair, or he thinks of a desirable improvement. Under the open-end arrangement, he can get the money from his mortgage lender, and add it back to the principal of the mortgage. Thus he need not shoulder a separate short-term loan.

Total cost will be no less, may even be more because the money is paid over a longer time. The money's worth protection will come from the closer supervision the mortgage lender is pretty sure to give to the added obligations. Commercial banks have neglected to police adequately some unwise FHA loans. First, it wasn't supposed to be their job; second, they don't have the facilities. But the mortgage lender generally does have men to check up—and he will have the incentive of keeping value behind his mortgage commitments.

THINGS TO COME—An attachment for your vacuum cleaner will brush off venetian blind slats with two little power brushes. Textile colors suspended in water are designed for home decoration of fabrics. A toy doctor's bag of plastic holds a toy stethoscope, thermometer, ear flashlight, medical scissors and hypodermic syringe. A new-type seal makes plastic bags for storing your summer things so tight you can stand on one filled with water, and not squeeze out a drop. A spun aluminum corn popper doubles as a fruit bowl when popcorn is out of season.

CORPORATION CONFIDENT—More and more economists and industrialists are saying that business and consumer confidence has led the country through the recession that began late in 1953, and that better times are at hand.

One confident corporation executive stated it is not an outgrowth of just the last few weeks. Early this year he told stockholders:

"Today there are more customers than ever before, wages are higher than ever before, national income is greater than ever before, and industry is being permitted to operate in a more favorable economic and political climate than in the last 20 years. All this presents to our industrial economy a wonderful and challenging opportunity."

Returning to the theme the other day, he said:

"Our company is building inventories in anticipation of the biggest Christmas season in our history. On the basis of sales to date and the fact that we're coming into our peak selling season, we appear headed for the greatest sales year in our history."

TURKEY EVERY SUNDAY—Time was when a turkey poul, if he survived the first few weeks in which young turkeys fall prey to a staggering number of ailments, had a life expectancy which stretched to the next Thanksgiving, or even Christmas.

That's a thing of the past. Smaller turkeys, larger families, greater family mobility which enables all the cousins to gang up on one bird—these are combining to make the turkey an any-Sunday bird beginning in August, or even earlier in the year.

Back in 1940, says the Bureau of Agricultural Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, 79 percent of all turkeys marketed were eaten in November and December. In 1953, this was down to 50 percent. So far this year, the first seven months have shown a 20 percent increase in turkey eating.

BITS O' BUSINESS—Drivers who tested a plastic truck body for parcel delivery found the vehicle more maneuverable and less noisy than comparable metal-bodied ones. Construction outlays in August were 8 percent above the year-ago figure. Retail inventories showed a greater-than-normal decline in July.

Help Overcome Childish Fears

Most children have fears, and most of their fears have easily traced beginnings and can be handled by patient re-education. But the childish fears that are the most puzzling are those that have no apparent basis, says child expert Irma Simonton Black in Redbook Magazine. There are, however, reasons for these seemingly irrational fears, she continues in the September issue, and ways that you can help your youngster overcome them:

"Some of your child's fears may have easily understandable origins. His fear of dogs may have started when a barking dog chased him; his fear of water, when a wave knocked him down. You can handle such fears easily by patiently re-educating your child. The child who is afraid of dogs may be led to approach a cuddly puppy. The child who was frightened at the beach may regain his courage after a few days spent at the water's edge. You must also be patient with your child and give him time to regain confidence.

"But the more puzzling fears are those which appear to have no basis at all. However, there are various reasons for these odd fears. Your child may literally 'catch' a fear, for instance. If you clutch him nervously during a thunderstorm, he'll be afraid, too. You can help him by recognizing your own fears and trying not to show them.

"Your child may become fearful as the result of careless threats. If an irresponsible grownup tells him that a policeman will come for him if he's naughty, he has reason to be apprehensive about policemen. Well-meant warnings may also frighten your child. If you remind him 'Watch out—you'll fall' every time he gets on a high place, he may become terrified of all high places. Keep warnings for moments of real danger, and make them positive. 'Hold on' is better than 'You'll fall.'

"If you expect too much of your child, or are too severe with him, you can put him in constant fear of doing something wrong. Let your child know that you don't expect perfection.

"Remember always to take your child's fears seriously. Never shame him for being afraid. Help him to build strength by showing him that you have confidence in him. Encourage him to assert himself—perhaps through independent play. And, most important—your acceptance of him—no matter what he fears, or how he works his fears out—will prove to him that you are on his side."

Intelligence Not Just A Big Joke

Let's not make the mistake of under-estimating intelligence.

Too many people take every opportunity to say smart things about the man of book-intelligence, suggesting that they believe that this is a big joke.

No problem of the world will be solved by emotion. No great benefit comes to the world except through change. Thousands of experiments would have been valueless without a trained mind to read their messages and apply them truthfully.

It is all right for a man to take pride in his experience, garnered through the years. He has something that is distinctly an asset to him. However, let him not under-estimate the value of so-called book-intelligence, if he has little of it.

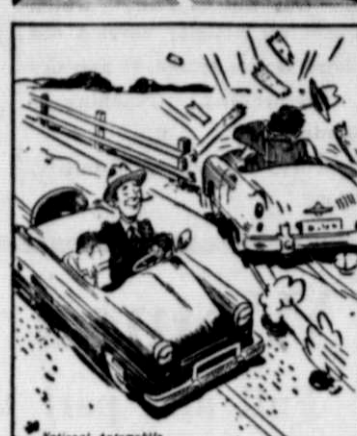

Experience and intelligence together will solve many problems that neither, alone, can handle.

SPORTS QUIZ

- 1. Who won the National Tennis singles title at Forest Hills recently?
2. As of late afternoon, on Labor Day, in what spot was Brooklyn in the National League standings?
3. In tennis, what does the word deuce mean?
4. Who is Bob Turley?
5. What was the date of the Notre Dame-Michigan State game this year?
THE ANSWERS:
1. Victor Seixas of Philadelphia.
2. Third place.
3. A tied score.
4. Baltimore Orioles pitcher.
5. October 16th.

The man without either is badly handicapped. He who pokes fun at intelligence is as foolish as the book-worm, who imagines he can understand all of life by reading between the covers of the printed word.

Good Flashing Job for "Built-On" Roof Vital

A good flashing job on the roof of that built-on addition to the house is important.

Different kinds of materials are used to seal the joint between the edge of a roof and the house. Sometimes only calking compound is used.

I have found sheet metal flashing to be the most satisfactory. Metal flashing should be kept painted. A good grade of 26 or 28 gauge galvanized iron is practical.

Sheet copper will last a lifetime, but is quite expensive.

Sheet aluminum also is more durable than galvanized iron.

When flashing a roof to wood siding, insert the metal under a siding board which is at least 4 inches from the surface.

When flashing a roof to brick, chisel out the mortar between bricks at least two rows above the roof. Chisel to a depth of about 2 inches.

Fill the groove with roofing cement or calking compound. Bend the flashing to fit in this groove, as illustrated.

When flashing a flat roof, a long strip of metal may be used, and the job is quite simple.

When flashing a shed or gable roof, short pieces of metal must be used, as illustrated.

Start at the edge of the roof and work toward the top. Overlap the pieces of metal, as illustrated, so rain water will run off. The flashing should be on top of the shingles.

Open cracks should be filled with roofing cement. Flashing should be well nailed to the roof, and to wood siding.

A tarpaper roof covered with roofing tar is the cheapest kind of roof. It will last for a long time if re-tarred every year. But it will not stand much walking.

People who wish to stand on this kind of roof to shake rugs, should build a platform where they can stand without damaging the roof.

A canvas roof will stand some traffic. It should be painted at least once each year with a good deck paint. The life of a canvas roof is about 10 years.

A good metal roof is more permanent than either tarpaper or canvas, but also more expensive. It should be kept painted unless made of copper. For a gable roof, however, where there is pitch enough to carry away the rainwater, use either wood or composition shingles.

A flat roof should slant at least 1/2-inch per foot. The greater the slant, the less water will stand on the roof, and the longer the roof will last.

The slant may be in one direction, away from the house. It also may be in three directions from the center.

Send 35c today to Ernie Gardner, 14189 Faust Ave., Detroit 23, Michigan, for your copy of MISTER FIXUM'S HANDY HINTS. This is a booklet made up of selected jobs from this column. Booklets No. 1, 2 and 3 available. 3 for $1.00.

The Common Cold

Syracuse University researchers recently announced they had found aspirin compounds to be as effective as penicillin in combating the common cold. The researchers, after two years of study, said penicillin treatments were "no better than an aspirin compound."

Researchers at Syracuse used some 3,000 students in their tests, and about one-third of them were treated with penicillin for colds, respiratory ailments and sore throats. Others were given other treatments, and results were closely observed.

Final results, according to the report, showed that penicillin cured students no more rapidly than did those receiving aspirin, although it was admitted penicillin showed high effectiveness against certain other diseases. It was definitely determined, however, that penicillin will "not harm" the cold virus.

It was also found that it would not cure sore throat, or non-specific upper respiratory infections. Thus, those who are visiting their doctor each time they encounter a cold, and perhaps paying a nice fee for a shot of penicillin, would do well to substitute an aspirin compound, which they can take with a glass of water, at much less inconvenience and expense.

New Form 1040 May Be A 'Lulu'

Enactment of a new tax bill, revising the tax laws for the first time in many years, means that most citizens will pay their taxes next year on a new form—perhaps Form 1040, for most of us.

The new tax bill, contrary to some opinion, does not provide general tax cuts, but gives relief to most businesses and many individuals in various forms. The new law becomes effective as of last January 1st, and in case of income from dividends, the first $50 of such money is excluded from taxes. There is an additional four per cent cut on dividend income received after July 31st.

We believe a revision of the tax laws has long been overdue, although it is not yet apparent—at this early date—what the strong points and weak points of the new tax bill are. Undoubtedly many inequities were cleared up in the bill and many of these revisions were long needed.

But the main meaning for the Americans will be the fact that the new tax form will have to be faced next April 15th (the date has been moved back a month). Instead of the old form, a new form will be required, and many lawyers expect it to be a "lulu." Some lawyers believe the new form will, of necessity, be more complicated than the former one, and, if this is so, we believe the result will be a boom for accountants and the like.

The time to save money is when you can scrape up some to save. Next year is never a good time.

Sarah Anne's COOKING CLASS

Tasty Treat—Low in Calories

If you have a cookie jar raiding "chubby" at your house, he will doubly thank you for setting out this tasty, refreshing low-calorie snack on these warm summer days.

A platter of these orange pecan cookies made with economic saccharin and accompanied by glasses of cold skim milk is just what the doctor ordered to take the edge off the pound-adding appetites of overweight youngsters. The non-calorie saccharin has another function: Dietitians say that we can help keep cool by keeping our body's fuel intake to a minimum.

Light and crisp, these cookies are easy to make and keep well in the refrigerator, ready for you to slice and bake in a jiffy for that unplanned visitor or quick dessert. Just 44 calories in each generous size cookie.

- Orange Pecan Cookies
- Dissolve 6 saccharin tablets (1/4 grain each) in 1/4 cup unweetened orange juice
 - 1 tsp. vanilla
 - 1/4 cup shortening
 - Sift together 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1/4 tsp. salt
 - 1/4 tsp. baking powder
- Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with orange juice mixture. Blend well into dough . . . 1 tsp. grated orange rind
- 2 Tbsp. pecans, finely chopped

Shape dough into a roll 2 inches thick and wrap in waxed paper. Chill in refrigerator until firm enough to slice, about 2 hours. Cut into 1/4-inch slices and place on ungreased cookie pan. Bake on rack slightly above center in 400 (moderately hot) oven for 12 minutes. Makes 18 cookies.

These recipes are printed by request.

- Creamed Tomatoes
- 2 cups creamed tomatoes
 - 1/2 cup thick cream
 - 4 tablespoons flour
 - 6 slices of toast
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 tablespoons crushed celery leaves
 - 1/4 cup grated cheese
- Mix cream and flour and stir until smooth. Add celery leaves to the tomatoes. Heat to boiling. Remove from heat and add cream, stirring constantly. Cook about 2 minutes. Add salt, pour over toast. Sprinkle with cheese.

- Chicken with Mushrooms
- 2 1/2 cups cooked chicken, cut in cubes
 - 1 cup mushrooms
 - 2 cups chicken gravy
 - 1 tablespoon shortening
 - 1/2 teaspoon onion juice
 - 1 tablespoon flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon cayenne
- Melt shortening in saucepan and add mushrooms. Cook a minute or two, (do not brown mushrooms) sift in flour. When well mixed with shortening, add chicken, salt, onion juice, and pepper. Serve between slices of hot cornbread.

- Fresh Spinach Salad
- 1/2 lb. uncooked, spinach finely shredded
 - 1 medium Bermuda onion, minced
 - 4 tablespoons minced celery
 - 4 hard boiled eggs, sliced
 - Salt to taste
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 3/4 cup salad dressing
- Chill salad ingredients and toss lightly. Add lemon juice to salad dressing and combine with salad ingredients just before serving.

- Chicken Croquettes
- 4 tablespoons flour
 - 1 tablespoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 1 cup milk
 - 2 tablespoons butter
 - 2 cups chopped cooked chicken
 - 2 eggs
- Bread crumbs
- Combine dry ingredients with milk. Add butter and cook until thick and creamy, stirring occasionally. Stir in chopped chicken. Cool, then mold into balls. Roll in cracker crumbs, dip in beaten egg and roll in crumbs again. Fry in fat at 390 degrees until golden brown.

- Succotash
- 2 cups cooked, whole kernel corn
 - 2 cups cooked green lima beans
 - Butter
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/2 cup cream or top milk
- Combine corn and beans in a greased casserole. Dot with butter. Add seasoning and over it the cream. Cover and bake in an oven 350 degrees for 25 minutes.

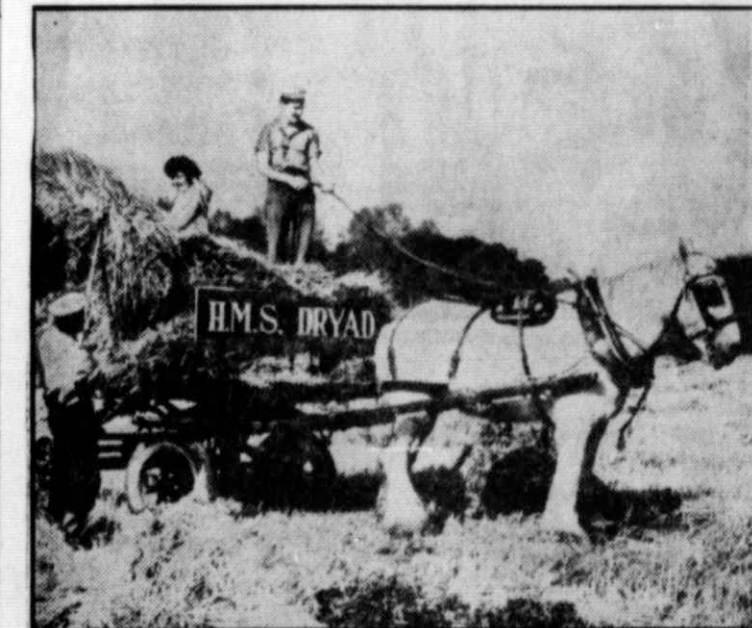

CATS O' "NEIN" TAILS—There's literally no end to this four-part, purrfectly unusual story. Mama, appropriately named "Tailless," was born that way, and so were the kittens. The short, economy-size cat family belongs to Barbara Malcom, of Bristol, Tenn.

FIGHT CANCER IN FARM ANIMALS—Wearing lead-lined gloves, a veterinarian-scientist at the University of California, at Davis, Calif., treats a cancerous condition in a Hereford bull's eye with a radioactive Strontium tube. Strontium 90, a byproduct of atomic energy production, has proved successful in treating cancer of the cornea, without destroying the lens, which often is an unwanted byproduct of treatment with X-rays.

TARS SAIL SEA OF OATS—Sailors from H.M.S. Dryad, docked at Portsmouth, England, come to the rescue of Mary Tosdevine, 21 (in cart), to help her with the oats harvest at Southwick. The horse, that usually pulls naval lorries at dockside, is also a recruit. Seaman Grahame Gooch, left, heaves cargo aboard while Petty Officer Leonard Ellis navigates from the "bridge."

CHAMPION IN TWO STATES FROM E. C. B. A. C. BREEDING

This purebred Holstein cow is named Waldholm Bluebell Burke Design. When shown by Pabst Farms of Oconomowoc this summer she was named Grand Champion at the Wisconsin State Fair. Going on to the Minnesota State Fair, she was likewise named Grand Champion there. She was also rated the Best Uddered Cow at the 1954 Minnesota Fair.

Noteworthy are her beautiful head, fine neck, deep body capacity, excellent udder, and her general dairy characteristics.

Back of this cow are two generations of E. C. B. A. C. breeding. She was sired by the former H-28 bull, Carnation Design, owned by E. C. B. A. C. (East Central Breeders Ass'n. Co-op. of Waupun). The farmer in whose herd this champion cow was bred is Carl N. Waldson, R. 1, Fond du Lac, who has been interested in good Holstein cattle for many years. The dam, or mother, of the champion cow was also in the herd of Mr. Waldson, and she too was sired by an E. C. B. A. C. bull, the former H-22, Kyland Forbes Burke.

Production-wise, the champion cow has shown herself above the average. While owned by Willard Nehls of Juneau, she made 15,279 lbs. milk and 555 lbs. fat at 4 years, 10 months of age in 305 days on two-time a day milking.

Now owned by Pabst Farms, it is expected that Waldholm Bluebell Burke Design will go on to the National Dairy Congress at Waterloo and later the International Dairy Show at Chicago.

E. C. B. A. C. offers services from its outstanding sires in this area thru Technicians Lloyd Backhaus, Charles Foley, Eugene Bingen, Cyril Westerman and John Guyant. The following call stations are available for the farmers' convenience: Phones: Kewaskum 92, Campbellsport 341, Allenton 30-F-12, West Bend 947, Waubesa 65.
