Prizes Offered for Best Christmas Decorations

To help give our little city a real Christmas appearance that will compare favorably with other towns, the village board again is offering the incentive of cash prizes for the best decorated homes and commercial buildings during the approaching holiday season.

Cash prizes of $15.00, $10.00 and $5.00 will be awarded to the places selected by the judges as the best decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. The judge's committee will be appointed by D. K. Edwards.

Sometime during the holidays, at a time not announced by the Committee, the judges will make their winning selections. Whether trying for a prize or not, all homes and business places are urged to decorate for Christmas, even though it is but a small effort.

Kewaskum has taken on a Christmas appearance the past week when the annual holiday lights and decorations were put up. Strands of red and green lights are suspended across the main streets and the municipal building has been appropriately draped with colored lights and a lighted Christmas tree. Instead of "planting" the Christmas tree in front of the municipal building this year it has been mounted on top of it, where it can be seen for long distances, its bright colors glittering at night.

Many of our homes and business establishments, too, have already been decorated.

$5,000 Fire at Bowling Alleys

Fire caused an estimated $5,000 damage to the tavern section of Jack and Joe's bowling alleys on West Bend's Main street early Thursday. The flames were discovered by a passer-by at 5:30 a. m.

The West Bend fire department kept the fire from spreading throughout the building, which is adjacent to a filling station, according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Lemke. There was considerable smoke and water damage in addition to the fire which ruined booths and furnishings in the tavern. Authorities said that the fire began in a booth.

Indians Tip Bells, Lose to Brandon in Loop Play

Kewaskum High school's basketball team opened Tri-County conference play the past week with two games. They won a big one in their opening contest, defeating the rival Campbellsport Bells on the home court last Friday night by a good margin, 53-57. At Brandon Tuesday night the result was the other way around, the Indians being downed by a 69-45 score.

Kewaskum had a rough start in the schedule, bumping up against two of the conference's stronger teams. Right off the bat they had to face Campbellsport, last year's defending champions. The two schools usually look forward to this meeting but there wasn't much time for that this year. The win over the Bells was especially sweet because the Indians had not won very often over Campbellsport's championship teams of recent years.

At Brandon, Kewaskum faced what probably is the biggest and best team in the league, Brandon, with its two giant brothers, J. Mollen and F. Mollin, in their veteran lineup, shapes up as the team to beat. They won their first two games by comfortable margins over strong opponents.

The Indians had no trouble in downing Campbellsport by a sizable 53-57 margin. Eight players on the winning team participated in the scoring for Coach Mitchell. Kewaskum led the Bells, 20-16, at the end of the first quarter, 43-27, at halftime, and 67-38 going into the final period. Harry Klein led the Indians with 17 points while Mark Rosenheimer and Don Bradke contributed 15 each. A. Thelen led the Bell scoring with 15 tallies and R. Jaeger hooped 11.

In downing Kewaskum Tuesday night, Brandon took over sole possession of first place with two straight. Guard Tom Johnson was the top scorer for Brandon with 17 points, followed by Center Fred Mollin with 16. Center Bradke was high man for Kewaskum and the night with 25 points. Klein and Tom Peterson were next in line with 6 apiece. Brandon led, 16-13, 38-28, and 47-36 at the end of the first three quarters.

On Friday night of this week another contender, the strong Rosendale quint played here. So the Indians met three of the top's best in their first three encounters.

Lakes Cagers Defeat Cedarburg in Opener

The Kewaskum Chevrolets opened play in the Land o' Lakes league with a 69-51 victory over Cedarburg in the home gym Sunday night. In other opening encounters West Bend shaded Rosendale, 56-51, and Campbellsport downed Mayville, 67-57. Horicon drew a bye Sunday.

The game with Cedarburg was not as one sided as the score might indicate. Kewaskum was trailing by one point at the end of the third quarter, 41-43. But a heavy, 25-point barrage in the final period gave the team an easy win. Cedarburg was held to a mere 7 points in the last quarter. The Chevys were on top at the end of the first stanza, 21-17, but also trailed the visitors at the intermission, 26-25.

Center George Hanrahan, up from last year's Rivers squad, paced his team to the win with 14 points. But high scoring honors for the night went to Oberheu of Cedarburg who swished 29 points through the nets. Ellie Ramthun and Don Meisenheimer contributed 14 points apiece to the winners cause and Schultz was second best scorer for the losers with 11 markers.

The Chevrolets played without John Tessar, he is expected to join the squad but did not play Sunday for lack of practice. Cedarburg outscored the winners from the free throw line 15 to 11.

Kewaskum has a bye in the schedule this Sunday and at last reports was trying to arrange a practice game. Scheduled contests are Mayville at West Bend, Horicon at Cedarburg, and Rosendale at Campbellsport.

RIVERS FIVE LOSES FIRST GAME TO CEDARBURG, 45-37

Kewaskum's Land o' Rivers team was not as successful as the Lakes quint in their opener. They lost to the Cedarburg Rivers five in a close contest, 45-37.

This game was pretty tight all the way with the halftime score being 25-23 in favor of the visitors. Cedarburg slowly pulled away to an 8-point margin of victory in the second half.

High point man for the winners was Forward Krause with 19. Little Danny Rodenkirk, the smallest man on the floor, paced Kewaskum with 13 points. Cedarburg made 19 free throws and the Corvettes 11. In the only other game reported Slinger trimmed Fillmore, 76-56.

Enjoy Christmas Assembly Programs at High School

On Tuesday afternoon the Colemans presented the famed Charles Dickens "A Christmas Carol" to an interested and appreciated Kewaskum High school audience. This was one of several assembly programs to be provided the school during the year by the University of Wisconsin Extension Division.

On Wednesday afternoon the mixed chorus of the Oostburg High school presented their program of Christmas music before the high school student body in the auditorium. This chorus of 50 voices did a splendid job in bringing to the listeners the Christmas carols of many lands. A madrigal group of eight young men and women from the chorus presented several selections and did well with them. Students and teachers were loud in their praise of the fine program presented by this youthful group of singers from our neighboring school at Oostburg. Don Brantz, their conductor, is to be congratulated for the fine work that he is doing.

The school wants to take this opportunity to thank parents and other town and rural folk who contributed so generously to the clothing drive recently concluded. In all, fifteen large shipping bags of clothing have been collected and will be sent to the SAVE THE CHILDREN FEDERATION which will, in turn, distribute these articles of wearing apparel to the needy children wherever they are most needed.

By BETTY ANN
Editor The Milwaukee Journal Women's Page

The mature woman often suppresses a great deal of her own personal charm by regarding herself as "too old" to wear perfume and toilet water, says Betty Ann. Or, she may feel that spraying herself with a crisp scent or flowery fragrance is ridiculous if she's only going to the market or out on the lawn to chat with her next door neighbor.

Wearing her own particular fragrance gives a woman, no matter what age, a sense of poise and femininity. It's a good morale lifter. So it should be worn every day, the final touch to good grooming. During the day you can wear a light cologne, saving the heavier scent for evening. If you've just come across that small precious bottle you received for a gift, you might have trouble opening it after months of being stored away.

First, hold the bottle in your one hand, and with another stopper or small wooden mallet tap the stopper on the side, at the same time turning the bottle slowly so the tapping is evenly distributed. Be patient, and tap the stopper firmly, but gently.

After you've opened the bottle, apply it at the pulse spots where the heat of the skin enhances the fragrance.

Spray it about you when you've finished dressing, but never directly on a fabric. Put a few drops of perfume on a handkerchief and place it in your purse, so that each time you open it you'll get a refreshing whiff.

Baby will become interested in other children long before he is able to walk or talk. You'll notice that he reaches out to touch other babies. Apparently he recognizes them as being more like him than grownups are.

You can prepare him for entering into friendships later on by seeing to it that he has a chance to be with other babies. It's true that during his first two years he will play alone, but he enjoys having other children around him.

Being in their company, he will learn more quickly how to play with them. It's best that the children be close in age and that they be allowed to play with as little interference from adults as possible.

Fabrics that must be dry cleaned are not a good bet for the teen age wardrobe. Paste and chemistry experiments do sad things to wool. A corduroy suit is wonderful for the young teen who craves femininity, and it is cheaper than flannel or tweed.

Mohn Kuchen
One cake yeast; 2 cups lukewarm milk; 1 cup butter; 1 cup sugar; 4 eggs, well beaten; grated rind of 1/2 lemon; 8 cups sifted flour; 1 teaspoon salt.

Crumble yeast. Add lukewarm milk and one cup flour. Set aside to rise for 20 minutes. Cream butter, add sugar and well beaten eggs. Add grated lemon rind. Add remaining flour and salt alternately with the yeast sponge. Add only enough flour to knead. Knead until dough is smooth and elastic to the touch. Set aside to rise until double in bulk. Roll dough to one-half inch thickness. Spread with softened butter and poppy seed filling. Roll as for jelly roll. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until double in bulk. Bake in a preheated oven at 350 degrees for 30 to 45 minutes. Frost, when cold, with confectioners' sugar and water icing.

Frozen Prune Maple Cream
One and one-half cups cooked prunes; 1/2 cup maple flavored syrup; 1/2 cup double strength coffee; 4 eggs; few grains salt; 1 cup whipping cream.

Cut prunes from pits into small pieces. Combine syrup and coffee and heat to boiling over hot water. Beat egg yolks and salt. Slowly add to hot mixture, stirring constantly. Cook a few minutes but do not allow to boil. Remove from heat and fold in prunes and stiffly beaten egg whites. Cool. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into refrigerator tray, place in freezing compartment with control set at lowest temperature and freeze. When firm, reset temperature control to normal. Serves 10 to 12.

There are a number of ways you can use your pastry tube set. It not only does a festive job of frosting for cakes and cookies, but it will make delightful mashed potato borders for casseroles, fancy toppings for canape spreads and whipped cream decorations for chiffon and other pies.

Don't overbake chocolate brownies if you want a fudge-like cookie. The brownies should look uncooked when you take them from the oven.

Serve These Nut-Filled Cakes During Coming Holidays

BY DOROTHY MADDOX

WE have just baked two unusually good cakes, festive and surprisingly easy to make. Each uses jumbo Brazil nuts. The fruitcake can be made in about 11 minutes. In addition to the nuts, the recipe calls for dates and maraschino cherries. This holiday loaf can be eaten immediately or kept for months. The nut chocolate cake has delicate crumb texture and is rich in color and flavor. It's the kind of cake everyone in the family will enjoy.

Nut Tropical Cake (Yield: One 3-pound cake)

Three cups Brazil nuts (2 pounds unshelled, 1 pound shelled), 1 pound pitted dates, 1 cup (one 8-ounce jar) drained maraschino cherries, 3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 3/4 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put Brazil nuts, dates and cherries into large bowl. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt over nuts and fruit; mix with hands until nuts and fruits are coated. Beat eggs until foamy; add vanilla. Stir into nut-fruit mixture until well mixed.

Turn into greased and waxed paper-lined pan 9 1/4 x 5 1/4 x 2 1/4 inches. Spread evenly in pan. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1 hour and 45 minutes. Cake must be cooled before slicing.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

When your subjects have a center of interest, they won't be tempted to stare into the camera, and you'll get a good natural shot.

Group Pictures Needn't Be Dull

With two holidays drawing near—Thanksgiving and Christmas—plans for family gatherings and other group activities are very much in the limelight. So today we want to talk about your throwing the light from your flash attachment on these groups to take some pictures that will make many people happy—not just for now, but in the years to come.

With amateur equipment, you shouldn't try to picture a large group—five or six people is about as many as you should put in one shot. If the group is larger, take two pictures. The family group pictures of Victorian days were stiff as could be, with everyone staring straight into the camera, looking a bit as though they were facing a firing squad. That, of course, is something you want to avoid. And here's the easiest way to do it.

Be sure your group has a center of interest. Chances are good that in these family gatherings your pictures will practically set themselves up with little or no effort on your part. The conversational groups that form naturally offer topnotch subject material. Three or four adults, admiring the youngest of the family is another perfectly natural grouping. A household pet... the newest engagement ring in the family... a picture of the boys away in service—any number of things can serve as a center of interest for the people you'd like to picture together.

When taking your indoor pictures with flash, try to make certain that the people in your group are all about the same distance from the camera. You don't have to measure it down to the last inch. But if you have one person close to the camera, one at medium distance, and a third in the background—your lighting on the people will be just that uneven. The person in the foreground is likely to come out too light, the one in the middle about right, and the one in the back too dark. In picturing a group of people, your best bet is to have them all more or less at the middle distance.

Ilha Formosa Keeps Watch In China Sea

For centuries geography has shaped history on the big island of Formosa, now the Chinese Nationalist stronghold backed by United States military and economic aid.

Rugged, fish-shaped Formosa—240 miles by 85 at its widest—is the largest island off the China coast, says the National Geographic Society. It has a highly strategic position, roughly midway between the Philippines, Indochina and Indonesia on the south, and Korea, Japan and Soviet Siberia on the north.

Formosa is less than 90 miles from the nearest point on the bulging China mainland. Since the 15th century this proximity has brought it Chinese settlers and refugees. Yet broad, wind-swept Formosa Strait also has isolated Formosans from developments and influences on the continent, a factor that has played its own part in the region's long and adventurous history.

Portuguese Name Struck
In the early days of European exploration, Formosa (Taiwan to the Chinese) was a key landfall on the Far East sea lanes leading to trade and wealth.

Portuguese visitors of the late 16th century so admired the island's purple hills and lush green vegetation that they called it Ilha Formosa (Beautiful Isle). The charming scenery, however, was destined as backdrop for an involved colonial conflict.

In 1624 the Dutch became the first Europeans to plant a permanent Formosa colony. Shortly their troubles with the hostile, head-hunting aborigines and the established Chinese and Japanese settlers were further complicated by a struggle with a rival Spanish community.

The Japanese soon withdrew. The Dutch drove the Spanish traders away, only to be forced out themselves in 1662 by a colorful pirate leader and adventurer known as Koxinga.

Koxinga, of Chinese-Japanese parentage, was an ardent supporter of the heirs of the deposed Ming dynasty. Under his rule Formosa was an offshore Ming retreat that faced the Manchu-dominated mainland, just as today's Nationalist Island looks toward the Communist shore.

Japanese Military Base
The Manchu empire eventually absorbed Formosa (1683), and the island remained China's until it was lost to Japan by the Sino-Japanese war of 1895.

The Japanese made Formosa a "model" colony. Although they governed with dictator ruthlessness, they built railroads, irrigation and hydroelectric works. They modernized the capital at Taipei and developed thriving industries based on such resources as sugar, tea, rice, coal and camphor.

More than ever Formosa's geographic position guided Japanese policy in the years that led to the attack on Pearl Harbor. As a powerful naval and air base, the island was the springboard for Japan's first air assault on the Philippines.

The current phase of the Formosa story began at war's end with the island's return to China. In the hands of the Nationalist government that found shelter there in 1949, the Beautiful Isle has been transformed into what some call an "anchored aircraft carrier."

It is a carrier with a sharply expanded population, now estimated at close to ten million people. On it, with American assis-

Health & Beauty

Vigorous, outdoor, exercise is good for a healthy body. It flushes the lungs and fills them with fresh, clean, air, stimulates the circulation and rests the mind. A brisk walk around the block costs nothing, yet can do more for your general health than costly medicine.

All of us, who are physically able to, should indulge in some form of outdoor exercise each day. This will help all parts of your body to function better. The ladies will be interested to know that regular exercise in the fresh air will keep you younger and more vital-looking longer.

Proper exercise will greatly help the problem of elimination some older people suffer from. Nervous tensions and insomnia can be relieved by exercise. Figure-conscious people say that exercise is important to keep the proper distribution of weight over the body frame, even when you carefully watch your diet.

Even with a busy schedule, you can, if you really want to, work in a brisk walk each day. Harry Truman, when he was President, made it a point to walk to his office each morning.

If you have a real figure problem, you may want to take one or two special exercises to correct it. From time to time exercise patterns are printed in magazines and newspapers. These tell you how to deal with bulging hips, too fat waistlines, etc. These exercises, if followed as directed, will not make you into a dream overnight but they will improve your figure and keep it from going downhill.

Modern Hunters Help Maintain Wildlife Balance

Occasionally somebody comes up with the general assertion that a person who hunts is short of being an ideal citizen because hunting is a murderous business and that under the tenets of a high civilization wildlife should go its way without human molestation. Such claims focus on some animals and never take in the wildlife community. There are no proposals that mice be protected for the sake of the hawk and it is difficult to convince that the hawk contributes to mouse welfare. It takes an Aldo Leopold to point to the functions of an unloved creature.

On the basis of modern human appraisal man didn't deserve emerging from his caves and brush piles. A writer on the history of the human diet speculates as to why man rather than apes came to dominate the world. The ape with his vegetative diet was a clean, appealing individual while early man, wallowing in the rotting carcasses he fed upon, was revolting by modern standards.

At any rate man with his meat came to dominate the world. About three fourths of what the Indian ate was meat, when he could get it, and it all came from wild animals. Had the Indian population increased greatly something would have had to give. Certainly neither the present nor any past wild meat production could sustain the three and a half million people who now live here. Domestication is the key to a flourishing society.

We can now live without the meat of wild animals. The modern hunter is simply a tool of outdoor management and it is possible to use him in that capacity because he happens to enjoy hunting. Many of the once existing outdoor balances are now out of gear and the hunter, at least in part, takes the place of the predators that people will no longer tolerate. He is regulated as such. Hard facts may be less appealing than poetic licenses but they mean more.

Bible Comment:

Our Supreme Task Is to Work With God

"WE are laborers together with God," wrote Paul to the Christians at Corinth. The idea of working for God is commonly and easily acceptable. It is natural to think of every good and gracious deed as something done for God. Since He is the source of all goodness, to live and act according to His love and grace is to live and work for Him.

But to work with God is something more. To share His purpose and do His will; to be creators, as God is creator—this, surely is man's highest privilege and destiny.

A first condition of working with God is to believe in Him. Jesus expressed this when He said, "This is the work of God, that ye believe on Him, whom He hath sent." In Jesus also we see the nature and meaning of "works" in a Christian sense. Jesus said: "The works that I do shall he (the Christian believer) do also."

The work of Jesus was in giving life, healing, help and salvation. If we raise the question of miracles and gifts of healing, it might be pointed out that the benign influences wherever Christianity has spread, have made possible "greater works" on a vast scale.

Hospitals everywhere, multitudes of nurses and doctors, organizations of men and of women for help and service; whether or not they serve in the name of Christ, all are evidences of Christian work and influence.

To work with God in making His salvation powerful among men, to work for God in promoting human welfare; this is man's greatest task, unfinished in a world still languishing in sin, suffering and oppression.

With all that has been accomplished, many great works still remain undone. May we all enlist as workers with God and for God!

HERE'S HOW...

... MAKE A BASKETBALL BACKBOARD

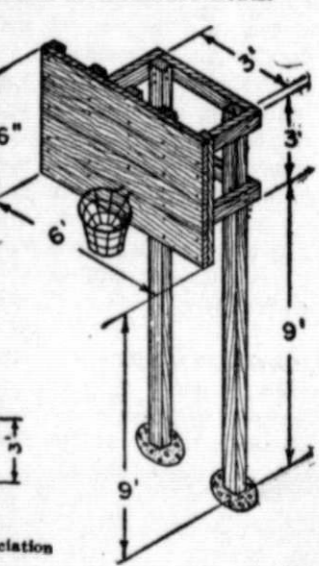

A sturdy basketball backboard provides outdoor fun and develops skill in the school child.

The posts are 4 by 4-inch lumber, each 16 feet long, set 4 feet deep in holes 29 inches apart at centers and from 8 to 12 inches in diameter. The lower 6 feet of the posts should receive a dip treatment or repeated brush applications of a wood preservative before being set. Overhead bracing is of 2 by 4's. Fasten the brace braces to the posts first. Plumb the posts with a carpenter's level, and secure them in place with tamped gravel, rock, or concrete.

The backboard may be of 46" 1-inch or 2-inch lumber, four 1 1/2-inch boards held together with 2 by 4 cleats. Use 3/4-inch, round-headed, carriage bolts, 3 inches long for 1-inch boards, and 4 inches long for 2-inch boards. With a No. 16 auger bit bore holes 3/8-inch deep so the bolt heads will be beneath the surface. Bore holes

3/4-inch in diameter for the body of the bolts. Add the basketball hoop so that the rim is 1 foot from the bottom of the backboard.

In fastening the backboard, be sure the bottom of the board is level with the bottom of the lower support—9 feet from the ground. Use bolts, 3/4-inch in diameter—6-inch bolts to fasten the 2 by 4's to the posts, and 4-inch bolts to fasten frame to backboard cleats.

SPORTS AFIELD

By Ted Kesting

Lots of people, particularly women, do not like meat from any of the deer tribe. They complain that its gamey taste is too strong and they try to make it more edible by horribly overcooking it.

When people feast this way to venison, you can bet the animal was not butchered properly at the right time or the meat was not cared for in the right way afterward.

Sometimes a buck or bull shot at the height of the rutting season is not fit to eat. Also a gut-shot animal that has run a long distance before falling will not make good venison. But otherwise, given proper and timely butchering and care, all venison should taste good to even the most critical.

Usually venison does not taste like our domestic meats. Moose meat may taste a little like beef. Mountain sheep always tastes somewhat like lamb, and mountain goat like mutton. But deer and caribou have a delicious taste of their own; there is nothing strong or gamey about it.

When you shoot a large animal, it is useless to rush in and "cut its throat" or stick it in the chest to "bleed" it. Col. Townsend Whelen explains that a modern bullet so disrupts the chest or abdominal cavities that they fill with blood almost immediately, and little or none of this blood will come out if the throat is cut. However, the blood should be drained out as soon as possible. If the animal has been gut-shot, it is important to remove all trace of intestinal juices.

The best meat is always from an animal that has been killed by a chest shot, and if you want the best venison, practice marksmanship. Putting your bullet well into the chest cavity is no more difficult than hitting a bucket, and with modern high-velocity expanding bullets, it always means a quick kill with the animal dropping within 100 yards.

For venison as venison should be, tell your chef to cook it just as he or she would domestic meat, but preferably on the rare side. The tougher portions, neck, and lower hams, can be used for stews. The ribs are best broiled very quickly over charcoal or a wood fire so you almost burn the outside, but leave the inside almost raw. Do not use salt until the very end.

Housewives And Business Trend

President Don R. Grimes, of the Independent Grocer's Alliance, says women shoppers sometimes have what he calls a "sixth sense" about coming business conditions. He attributes it to something like women's intuition, and says there is definitely something to it.

Grimes maintains that those studying economic conditions, and probable future trends, would do well to watch the habits of housewives in the nation's stores. The food purchases of housewives in particular, he says, reflect what is happening in the average American family, and that attitude of tightening up or enjoying good times.

One way this can be detected, according to Grimes, is by watching what types of food women buy. If they begin to switch to starchy foods, and less expensive cuts of meat, then hard times are being experienced, or expected. When the trend is in the other direction, times seem to be good or the outlook optimistic.

Speaking of the last depression as an "era of the bread and potatoes," Grimes says that at that time housewives bought very little of the choice cuts of meat and more expensive items. In recent years Americans have been eating better than ever before and this reflects the relative prosperity enjoyed by most Americans.

In answer to the $64 question, whether the buying habits of housewives are now indicating a trend for the future, Grimes replied that the housewife's habits today indicate a period of prosperity. The current outlook is optimistic, according to Grimes, who bases his opinion on the current attitude of food purchasers in the nation's independent grocery stores.

In Fashion Now

The basic red dress came into vogue three years ago. It has become almost as firmly established as a fall and winter "must" as the "little black dress" or basic black suit.

At least the red dress was designed for younger women only. However, this is far from the case today. Designers realize that a soft glowing red does wonders for the mature silver or gray-haired lady. This is true today because modern woman past forty quite often have a slender figure and a pleasingly youthful face.

A large department store recently held a fashion showing at which the highlight was twelve lovely, gray-haired ladies dressed in cocktail dresses of various shades of red. The effect was dramatic and proved beyond a shadow of doubt that red is flattering to women of almost any age.

Rope beads are being seen everywhere this fall. Gold and silver chains strung with an occasional colored bead seem to be the most popular new costume jewelry piece. These beads are versatile and need not be expensive to be attractive. They are being worn with anything from evening gowns to tweed suits.

There seems to be some elemental desire in women to ornament themselves. With this in mind don't overdo the amount of jewelry you wear this season. Remember, it takes a large woman to wear, becomingly, large pieces of jewelry.

The "pleated" look is being featured by many designers of both ready-made clothes and pattern designers. Unpressed pleats in small groupings look good on a slender figure. Flat box pleats are better for the full figure. Pleats, paired with tuck and accordion pleats, are lovely in the soft wool jersey.

Much attention is being given to making eyeglasses as attractive and flattering as possible. If you wear glasses you will be interested in the new design that have clip-on frame covers in colors to go with your different outfits. A soft smooth hairdo and rather simple hats are best worn with glasses.

Copter Service Begins Soon From London

British European Airways announced recently helicopter flights between London Airport and a landing site in the middle of the world's largest city would begin soon. The landing site will be located next to Waterloo Station, in central London.

The Ministry of Civil Aviation altered its safety requirements on flights over London to permit British-European Airways to begin the helicopter service.

The purpose of the helicopter service is to cut down the time required for transportation between London airport and downtown London. The helicopter flight will take passengers from the airport to the center of London in about twenty minutes. Although its cost will be some six times as much as the cost of a bus trip, the time required will be only about a third that of the bus trip.

The inauguration of helicopter passenger service in London follows the beginning of a helicopter passenger service in Holland by only a year. The fact that the helicopters on the London airport-London run will land in the middle of downtown London is a significant fact which probably fore-shadows helicopter passenger service in most of the world's largest cities in the future.

It is another step toward the eventual goal of vertical flight, by both private and commercial aircraft, carrying workers and passengers to their destinations in metropolitan areas.

Behind The Scenes in American Business

NEW YORK — The factor that most often throws forecasts on the U. S. economy out of line is the vast size of the pipeline of goods from factory to consumers.

Inventories rise for a few months after sales decline; it takes awhile to adjust them. Last February inventories reached their peak, months after a decline in business began. Since then they have been falling.

There are indications we have been buying more than is produced. This is always a condition that cures itself. But retail stocks are still substantial; when the turn will come is a vital question, because manufacture for inventory makes jobs.

Those hard-boiled judges of the trend of supply and price, members of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, cast a cautious vote that the turnaround is at hand. At October's end, 46 per cent of them reported they were increasing forward orders, only 11 per cent that they were still edging closer to a hand-to-mouth basis.

BREAK FOR CONSUMER — Benefits for the consumer were placed first by a president of a popular pen company in welcoming the United States Supreme Court's recent decision upholding the validity of state fair trade laws.

Cutters of prices on branded products can make only a momentary appeal, he said, because they sell an article stripped of the service, guarantees, delivery, credit and reliability which have long been the keystones of American retailing. These durable values, he said, must be preserved and with them the traditional retailing system.

"It is the manufacturer who takes a chance," he stated further. "If the price he sets on his wares is above their value, his customer can always buy a different brand. What the Supreme Court has done is to uphold the manufacturer's freedom to take this risk."

The company's 1954 sales seem to prove that a national brand maker's sales won't suffer if he offers merchandise the public wants, prices it fairly and distributes it only to retailers who observe fair trade prices, he said. In the last nine months the company's sales have been up 16 per cent from the like period last year, and in that time an aggressive campaign has practically denied all its merchandise to price cutters.

THINGS TO COME — Dramatized groups without stages may be fitted with portable ones by a Minnesota company. Any multiple of four feet wide is supplied. A swivel seat for duck-hunters has a built-in carrier for eight boxes of shells. Do-it-yourselfers can get a kit of motor and controls to open and close the garage door from any point in the driveway. A poker chip rack counts out one's chips, if any, as one bets.

WHAT PRICE AUTOMATION? — Not since the early days of the Industrial Revolution has a major change in factory operations caused as much controversy and confusion as the spread of automatic control equipment. The optimist sees automation as the ope of abundance. The pessimist sees it as the devourer of jobs.

One clearheaded expert in the field told a group of financial analysts that automation, from the income-account viewpoint, produced profit "almost by definition." Simply examining a plant or process for automation possibilities, he pointed out, points out the places where automation will help and where it won't. More profits from better methods, he added, are not the forerunners of fewer jobs.

Top management could be faster about taking cognizance of the many places in which automation could improve product and reduce scrap, the expert said. He urged more study at highest management levels to make sure automation is used wherever it makes sense.

IRANIAN OIL RETURNS — After 40 months in which no oil, crude or refined, came from Iran's rich fields, half a dozen tankers loaded at Avadan last week. This item of news probably makes most ordinary Americans' couldn't-care-less list, but it may make a considerable difference to their pocketbooks nevertheless.

Iran itself, which has been kept afloat largely by American grants, will now have a steady income, and can begin to meet its own national expenses. Next door to Iran is Saudi Arabia. There Aramco, principal U. S. concession holder, will find its life made easier by the availability of Iranian crude.

Last and largest factor: Iranian oil is added to a full supply. Prices of crude, hence of gasoline, must fall.

About Your Home

Evergreen shrubs, which hold their rich summer-green all during the winter, are very valuable plants. Families with picture windows or glass walls really appreciate evergreen shrubs.

There is a way to hold back the browning effect of winter. Experiments show that lawns can be kept green all year as far north as Philadelphia and mid-Ohio.

To do this you must feed your lawn generously and regularly every second month throughout the entire year. Most people do not use enough plant food on their lawns. One spring application is not enough. The result of under-feeding and cold is an unsightly lawn until spring.

Two fall feedings will usually keep a lawn in good shape. Make one immediately another in six weeks. Then adopt the every second-month program.

The amount of plant food you use depends on the brand you buy. Follow the directions on the bag. Organic plant food can be used during the summer but you will need a chemical plant food during the fall. This is because when the soil is cold the nitrogen in organic matter is not released. To insure even distribution of plant food use a cart made for this purpose. This way you will avoid streaks of uneven growth and color. The lawn should always be watered after a seeding to wash the plant food off the leaves.

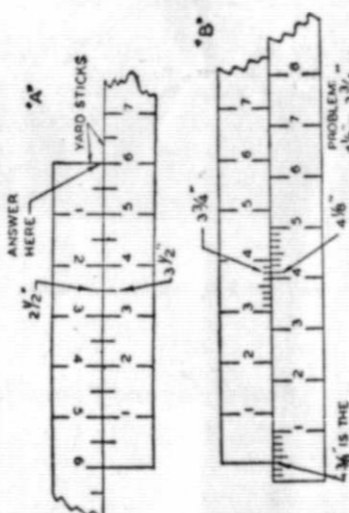

Don't fertilize your trees during the fall, however. Fertilizing will cause new growth, then a sudden drop in temperature will kill it. You want the growth on trees to harden, the better to stand the cold winds.

Evergreens, however, should go into the winter with a full supply of plant food and a moist soil. Feed and water your evergreens in October and November. This will help prevent winter injury and will keep your plants green and lovely looking as long as possible.

Factual News About The Eyes

Superstition Won't Help Your Vision

Superstitions about eyes and vision have always been prevalent, the Better Vision Institute points out. They are just as useless as knocking on wood or walking around ladders, but some of them persist even to this day.

The ancient Egyptians worshipped the eye and made sacred amulets to represent it, believing that they brought health and good vision. The Greeks, knowing how keen-sighted eagles are, concocted an ointment from eagles' gall and put it on eyes with failing vision, in the hope of working a cure. The East Indian natives ate the eyes of owls so that they might see better at night. And the Chinese thought spectacles had magic powers and could extend the wearer's life.

Another old idea was that a moustache was good for one's eyesight. And some people still believe the eyes can be taken out, scraped, and put back in place—as though this would do any good, even if it were possible! Among the "cures" for visual troubles

WATCH THE CHILD WHO HAS BAD FALLS

Negligence in checking children following severe falls is the cause of more children's disorders than any other thing. And winter time finds children meeting with more accidents than any other time of the year.

Numerous case histories of patients show a high percentage who trace the onset of their illness to a fall, as far back as childhood. If you think back yourself, you may find that if you are now suffering with some bodily ailment, you can trace the beginning of that trouble to the time of a fall or several weeks or months after that.

Keep your spine free from nerve interference and you will enjoy good health. But most important of all, at this time of the year, see that your children receive chiropractic attention immediately following a severe fall.

The exciting new idea behind the motoramic Chevrolet

The Bel Air 4-Door Sedan—one of 14 new Fisher Body beauties in three new series

Maybe once in a car-buying lifetime, you come across something that breaks all the old patterns and establishes new ones. This is that kind of car. This is the true story of how Chevrolet and General Motors shaped a new idea in steel.

Like most good ideas, this one is pretty simple. Chevrolet and General Motors set out to build the first low-priced car that would:

- bring you the very freshest and finest styling to be had.
bring you the most advanced engine design and engineering features.
bring you the kind of performance and the kind of ride that have never been available before in a low-priced car.
bring you the highest quality of manufacture and materials.

All this in Chevrolet's price field? That did take some doing! And isn't it logical that only Chevrolet and General Motors have the people, skills, resources and facilities, to carry out this exciting new idea? Here is how this new Chevrolet changes all your ideas about cars!

Real Show-Car Styling!

Your eye tells you the Motoramic Chevrolet is no styling "patch-up" job. A rakish, low profile... soft swiftness from its sleek rear fenders to its wide-eyed Sweep-Sight windshield... a new outlook for motoring. And that outlook doesn't change when you slip inside... exciting fabrics and trim are harmonized with the whole car.

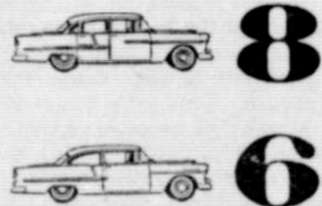

A Sensational Ride!

You live the new idea instantly... you glide... actually glide because spherical joints "roll with the punch" of the road in Chevrolet's new Glide-Ride front suspension. And outrigger rear springs mean new balance in turns... turns made so effortless by new ball-race steering. And when you stop suddenly, new Anti-Dive braking control checks that nosing down in front... you get "heads up" stopping. Tubeless tires mean much greater protection against blowouts. And with new high-level ventilation there's fresher air.

Drive with care... EVERYWHERE! Make December 15 and every day SAFE-DRIVING DAY!

Power Beyond Compare!

You also feel the new idea quickly... quick power like a panther's paw with the new "Turbo-Fire V8" (162 h.p.) and two new "Blue-Flame" 6's. And sparking this performance is a 12-volt electrical system giving you better ignition, faster starting, greater electrical reserve for any of the power assists you might desire. You have a transmission choice of economical Overdrive and improved, automatic Powerglide (optional at extra cost) or standard shift.

Even Air Conditioning!

And if you desire the convenience of power assists (optional at extra cost)... you'll find new power-steering and improved power brakes on all models. Power-controlled windows and powershift seat are available on the Bel Air and "Two-Ten" models, while air conditioning may be added on V8 models.

Won't You Try It?

Here, we can only tell you how successfully the Motoramic Chevrolet expresses the new idea behind it. But the car itself can quickly show you. Come in for a demonstration drive, won't you, first chance you get.

HEADIN' FOR THEIR FIRST ROUNDUP—Girl Scout Poster Girl Kathy Iverson, right, and Mrs. George S. Dunham, chairman of the Girl Scout National Camp Committee, discuss the poster which heralds the first large-scale camping event ever sponsored by the Girl Scouts. More than 4000 teen-agers are expected to attend the national encampment near Detroit, Mich., June 29-July 11, 1956. Scout executives, who are conducting a recruiting drive for at least 200 new officials, point out that this event highlights the need for more women to make careers of scouting. By 1960 some 3000 new, full-time paid executives and field directors will be needed to direct the Girl Scout movement, even now a million and a half strong.

GARDEN STATE PARKWAY

New Jersey, concludes the touring motorist after breezing over the new Garden State Parkway, was never like this. There's just no traffic congestion to fight. Not a single traffic light from Newark, in heavily populated North Jersey, to the end of the completed section near Ocean City, far down the seashore. And no intersections either.

Motoring, to sum it up, is no chore on this expressway. It is more like fun, and a pleasant way of getting from one place to another.

Most of the Garden State Parkway's 165 miles is now completed. All that remains to be finished of that distance are 30 miles to Cape May at the southern tip of the State, and 20 miles to Paramus, almost at Jersey's northern border. These are due to be completed by next year.

The Parkway is good driving and a worthy new route for several reasons, each of which has its own appeal to a large number of motorists. The only drawback is the toll charge, $2.25 for the full distance, or about 1.4 cents a mile, but that seems far outweighed by the advantages. It is, for one thing, a great time saver, reducing the average travel time by almost an hour and a half below the old routes from one end of Jersey to another. This means a great deal not only to Jerseyites but to New Yorkers, New Englanders and even mid-westerners who come to enjoy the Jersey shore. It has more than 200 entrances and exits along its course.

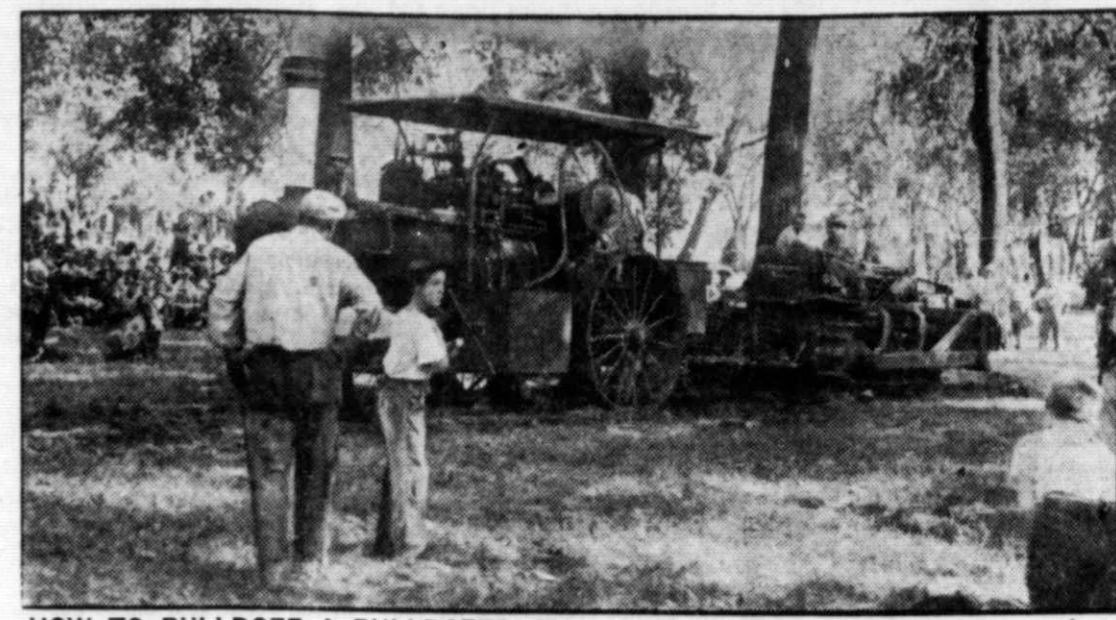

More than just a through route, the Parkway has two separated roadways, one handling northbound vehicles only and the other handling southbound only. Between them is a center island that must be one of the widest—if not the widest—of its kind in the world. In some places it is 600 feet across and frequently traffic heading the opposite direction is beyond the range of vision. The roadside and the center island are well landscaped with trees, shrubs, plants and grass native to the area—including pines, dogwood, azalea and holly—all tending to prevent highway hypnosis.

The builders of the Parkway, the New Jersey Highway Authority, have had a strong eye on safety. Besides the widely divided roadways, they have incorporated features that sound safe in their very titles—singing shoulders, pre-stressed concrete bridges, reflecting curbs and headlight glare interceptors. They mean safety, too. A singing shoulder, for instance, yields a strong hum when touched by a car's tire. Reflecting curbs reflect back to the driver his own headlight glow, making the roadside more visible. Headlight glare interceptors include shrubs, trees and glass plastic boards set in the center island that block the glare from the opposing lane. The Parkway represents an enormous and admirable project in design and construction.

The Parkway now links with the New Jersey Turnpike at Woodbridge, near Perth Amboy, and will connect with the New York Thruway at the New Jersey-New York line, thus joining the modern highway network of the Northeast.

Six sweetest phrases in the language, according to a survey, are "I love you," "Dinner is served," "All is forgiven," "Sleep till noon," "Keep the change," and "Here's that five."

"Mister Fixum's Handy Hints"

HAVE A FIRE-SAFE CHRISTMAS
The joy of the Christmas holidays is sometimes changed to sorrow by fire caused by careless wiring or handling of Christmas decorations.

Use fireproof decorations as much as possible. Trees may be made partly fireproof by spraying. But never think of an evergreen tree as being absolutely fireproof. They can be made fire resistant, and safe enough to use in the home if ordinary care is used.

There are several solutions commonly used for making the tree fire resistant by absorption. 1. Calcium Chloride is the chemical I have used for many years. Weigh the tree. Then buy enough chemical at your local hardware dealer to equal one-fourth the weight of the tree. Dissolve the chemical in water, equal to 1 1/2 pints to the pound. Set the tree in this solution for four or five days before bringing it into the house. The tree will absorb much of the chemical. Keep the tree out doors.

Do Not Choose Child's Friends

Children need friends every bit as much as adults do. And they should be allowed to pick their own companions, for the most part, without criticism from their parents, says child expert Irma Simonton Black. Writing in Redbook, she points out that playmates give your child important advantages which he can get in no other way.

"Friends about the same age as your child offer him advantages that you cannot give. They share his enthusiasms and his problems. They offer him the chance to test himself in varying roles — leading in play one time, following the next. And they help him to acquire the flexibility that comes with knowing and liking different personalities.

"While you will want to check your child's violations of family rules, don't do it by depriving him of his friends. That will keep him a dependent baby who must look to you even for his social life.

"When your child and his friends act up, treat them as mutually responsible (which they are) and talk to them together. If they continue to transgress the rules, send the friends home — but see that they come back another time. And don't be touchy when your own darling is sent home.

"There are times when it is wise to check some particular friendship temporarily. But for the most part, let your child pick his own friends."

Men Dislike The Flat Look

This year — as is the case every year — there is something new in women's fashions and it happens to be the flat look. Those going according to this Paris edict will dress so that their appearance will resemble that of a flat board.

This was the fashion back in the 'Twenties and was definitely frowned upon by health and medical authorities, who found that it was definitely bad for young girls to wear clothes designed to give them a flat, unnatural look.

We do not believe the flat look has a ghost of a chance of being accepted by the majority of American women, but unfortunately, there are some who follow the fashion edicts from Paris so closely they will follow this latest fashion-designer's whim. We hope the number will not be large, and that this editorial will serve as encouragement to young ladies, and elderly ones as well, to resist this latest dress-selling line.

American males are not interested in the Paris designer's idea about flat looks. We hope America's females are more interested in looking normal, and healthy than they are in playing the sucker for fashion designers, who annually reap windfall profits from their ability to lead female sheep into a never-ending circle of fashion purchases, necessitated by the idea they must have the latest thing, or be dressed in the latest style.

Food Sense—Not Nonsense

Food Processing in a Nut Shell
Man has no corner on processing food. Look at the squirrels and look at the birds. They always have shelled nuts and hulled seeds to find food to their liking and which they could digest.

Few foods, as they are grown by nature, appeal to man. Eggs must be shelled, the shell discarded, although its calcium could be used to build teeth and bones. Grains as harvested, must be ground and cooked. The rough coat of bran which protects the wheat kernel, is not to man's taste and the germ causes flour to become rancid, so they are removed in milling. This is despite the fact that nature stocked these parts with many necessary vitamins. It is not as wasteful as it might seem, for this processing of wheat makes available the endosperm—that tremendous part of the wheat which is a veritable mine of protein, energy, minerals and vitamins in a form which can be used in an endless array of good foods.

The miller and the baker take care of the loss of B vitamins—thiamine, niacin and riboflavin—and the important mineral iron by returning them to the flour or bread. This is known as the enrichment program. In a recent report, "Role of Wheat and Wheat Products in Human Nutrition" from the Harvard Medical School, Drs. D. M. Hegsted, Martha F. Trulsson and Fredrick J. Stare, indicate that in some respects the use of enriched flour products may contribute more to the nutrition of man than that of whole wheat products.

The report points out that by removing the bran and the germ, a substance known as phytic acid is eliminated from the diet. This substance holds calcium and iron so tightly that these minerals are not absorbed by the digestive system of man. Furthermore, by removing the bran, the indigestible cellulose is removed. It is because of its bulk that cellulose — bran — interferes with the absorption of part of the food we eat. Although the processing of wheat, thru refining, may cause a loss of its total nutrient content, in reality, this processing increases its nutritive value. It makes its nutrients more available as well as those of other foods eaten.
