Thaws and Rain Swell River to Overflowing, Create Flood Danger

BASEMENTS FLOODED, OTHER DAMAGE IS NOTED; WATER THREAT WORST IN YEARS

The spring thaws of the great amount of snow the past week and rain on Wednesday have created flood dangers, hazards and inconveniences to persons residing in lowlands or river areas. A number of basements in the village are flooded at present.

Rivers and creeks are overflowing their banks and entire fields adjoining them are under water. Locally the area above the old dam site appears like a large lake as the entire land north of the village along the Milwaukee river is under water. It was reported Wednesday that some of the dam gates in the new dam would be removed to help lower the water level. The ice had left much of the river in the village Thursday and was jammed up at the dam in the village park.

The threat was more serious south of Kewaskum at Barton and Young America where some basements were flooded with a foot or two of water, roadways were covered with water which was the deepest in many years, one family had to evacuate their home which was inundated and the foundation was wrecked, trenching machines were called in to relieve the flood situation and other damage was reported.

Motorists in the county reported many places where highways were under water and some roads were closed. Many vehicles became stuck in mud on soft roads as the situation was reported as the worst in at least 10 years. Miss Clara Jaehning, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, said the Red Cross was "standing by" ready to give assistance to families needing help because of the flood danger.

In Ozaukee county the worst flooding in 15 years along the Milwaukee river forced at least 30 families to evacuate their homes. Worst was in the Mequon area. Many homes were surrounded by several feet of water on Wednesday and boats were being used to evacuate residents. Hwy. 57 near Saukville was under several feet of water since Tuesday and traffic was re-routed. A picture in the Milwaukee Sentinel Thursday showed one car at Thiensville under water with only the top protruding.

The rains abated Wednesday evening and it was hoped that the water would rise no higher.

Spring Election Tuesday, Apr. 7

RACE FOR THREE TRUSTEE OFFICES PROVIDE ONLY VILLAGE OPPOSITION

Tuesday, Apr. 7, will be spring election day and the polls in Kewaskum will be open at the municipal building from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. Town of Kewaskum voting will be done at the Labor Center in the village.

Contests in most of the county's 13 townships and five villages are expected to bring out good turnouts to the polls. In the village the only contest will be for the three trustee offices, with four candidates in the running. They are incumbents Joe Eberle and Wayland Tessar, Carl F. Schaefer, a former trustee, and Cyril N. Wietor.

James D. Reigle, president; Elwyn M. Romaine, supervisor, and Ralph J. Rimmel, assessor, will be unopposed for re-election. The justice of the peace office has no candidates. All of the above officials will be elected for two-year terms. Three other trustees hold over in office for another year.

In addition to local election interest, voters will go to the polls to select a member of the state supreme court to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Roland Steinle, who quit to run for U. S. Senator but was beaten by William Proxmire. Candidates for the high court are incumbent Harold E. Hallows, who was appointed to succeed Steinle, and Stewart G. Honneck, former attorney general. These two were high vote getters in the primary election.

An interesting election will take place in the town of Wayne where there is hot opposition for three offices. Three candidates are seeking the office of town chairman, namely William Coulter, Mike Dardomy and Earl Schulz. Six candidates are in the running for the two offices of supervisor. They include Elmer Boettcher, Arnold Hawig, Sr., George E. Krieser, John Oelhafen, Frederick D. Spangenberg and Leo Zehren. Arnold Hawig, Jr. and Willard J. Meyer will oppose each other for the assessor's office. Other officials who are unopposed include Paul C. Moritz, clerk; Raymond Kudek, treasurer; Bernard Strobel, justice of the peace, and Adam Wiesner, constable.

The town of Kewaskum has opposition for two offices. Supervisor No. 1 Arnold Amerling will be opposed by Edward Dorn, a write-in candidate at the town caucus. Earl Etta and John Muckerhelde will oppose each other for the office of assessor, formerly held by John Etta. Unopposed officials include Ed. J. Campbell, chairman; William Becker, Supervisor No. 2; Alfred H. Seefeldt, clerk; and Lloyd Schmidt, treasurer. There is no candidate for justice of the peace.

Donors Sought For Blood Bank Here April 24

The mobile blood bank unit will be in Kewaskum on Friday, Apr. 24, and the Community Blood Donor club, through its local chairmen, is making an all out campaign to enlist donors so that the goal will be reached. The mobile unit will be held between 1 and 6 p. m. at the new high school.

Kewaskum and Area belong to the West Bend Blood Bank, one of the most active in the state. Donors are needed to keep the club active and replenish the supply of blood in the "bank" for the requirements of the area's patients. Your pints of blood will make the difference between success and falling short of the quota for the critical one-day mobile blood unit's visit here.

The "bank" is so active and requires such a large amount of blood just to keep it going that two clinics are held in West Bend each year (both two-day ones), one is held in Kewaskum and one in Germantown.

In Kewaskum one of the problems is that so many do not have telephones and it is difficult to contact new donors. Older members, who have given not pints but many quarts and even gallons of blood, have kept the "bank" going. New donors will be essential in getting the quota needed at this time.

Volunteers can register with Henry Rosenheimer, chairman, phone 29, or Mrs. E. E. Miller, co-chairman, phone 209. Locally a telephone campaign will also be conducted starting on Apr. 6, which is carried on by members of the Woman's club. Industries and civic groups will be contacted.

Every resident in the area served by the Community Blood Donor club is automatically a member and entitled to receive blood when it is needed, completely free of charge. This area covers all of Washington county except the townships of Hartford, Erin, Polk and Richfield. The blood bank sees to it that blood of any common type is immediately available in emergencies. Savings to county residents who have required blood transfusions, during the eight-year span of the club's service here have amounted to well over $185,000, based on an average regular cost of $35 per pint of blood.

Register now and let's go "over the top" in this clinic.

Forty Hours Adoration at Holy Trinity Church

Annual Forty Hours Adoration will begin Sunday at Holy Trinity church. The mass of exposition will be 8 a. m., following which there will be Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament by the faithful of the parish at assigned hours throughout the day. L. J. Brust, chancellor of the archdiocese, will preach the closing sermon and neighboring priests will assist in the services.

Second in Series of Immunization Clinics In County Begin Apr. 6

KEWASKUM CLINIC TO BE HELD ON WEDNESDAY MORNING, APR. 15

The second series of immunization clinics for Washington county school children will begin next week. This health program has been approved by the County Medical society and the Washington County Health committee.

Clinics will be conducted at convenient centers throughout the county. West Bend grade school children will be offered protection at offices of the West Bend physicians.

The schedule for the second clinic in Kewaskum is April 15 from 9:30 to 10:30 a. m. at the Municipal Building.

Smallpox vaccinations will be offered at the April clinics only. Every child should have at least one vaccination which left a scar. Medical authorities also advise that the vaccination be repeated every 5 to 7 years.

Children may still begin the series of injections or have boosters for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus if they are age 5 through 7 years; or diphtheria and tetanus if they are 8 through 14 years. No child may receive an injection or vaccination without a request card signed by the parent or guardian.

The clinics will be conducted by local physicians with the assistance of volunteer nurses and lay people. The cost of the immunization will again be 50c per injection both at the West Bend physicians' offices and the county clinics. This health program is arranged by the county nurse and the West Bend city nurse.

This second clinic will be conducted in the offices of West Bend physicians during the week of April 13 through 18. Parents are responsible for making an appointment with their physician.

For further information contact

KIWANIS KORNER

An open forum was the program at Monday's meeting. Committee chairmen announced present and future plans to the club. A few of the projects scheduled for the near future are: warm up hut for ice skaters, brochure of Kewaskum to advertise our town to summer visitors and travelers, a movie to help provide funds for Little League baseball, a promise from the highway commission to keep the road north of town open for as long as possible during the summer's construction. Several additional projects were proposed and discussed although definite plans were not completed.

The club received an invitation from the Manitowoc club for their annual inter-club fish fry on April 21, also an invitation from New Holstein for an inter-club fund raising bowling tournament to be held on April 19-20. Paul Landmann, Dotz Hron, Bob Schmidt, Killy Honeck, Hank Rosenheimer and Dick Edwards will journey to Milwaukee on April 11-12 to bowl in the state Kiwanis bowling tournament.

With us for the evening were visiting Rotarian Ellis Dana, as Reverend Hammen's guest, and J. B. Busse of the West Bend club.

When Wisconsin Farmers Saved a U.S. Fleet

It's the spring of 1864, and a big Union fleet is stuck in a Louisiana river. A general is about to have the gunboats destroyed to keep them out of "Reb" hands.

"I'll get your boats off the rocks," says a confident Wisconsin colonel. Eight days later, 3,000 Wisconsin farmer-soldiers have built a log dam.

The water rises, the boats float free, a chute is opened, and the $2,000,000 fleet plunges down the boiling channel to safety.

Today we can't help float a fleet, but we may be able to help float a bond issue to establish or expand a business or industry.

Local business and industry thrive on friendship and understanding. At times they may need active community help, through zoning, utility systems or even investment in land or buildings.

The industrial and commercial payroll in our area is a priceless asset. All of us can help to keep it "afloat."

Published by this newspaper as a public service, in co-operation with the Wisconsin Press Association and the Wisconsin Division of Industrial and Port Development.

One of the dangers of looking ahead is that we see things that never happen.

Last Sunday's Picture Journal section of The Milwaukee Journal carried three full pages of pictures showing snow scenes taken in this area from the air by a Journal photographer after the recent howling blizzard which arrived only a few days before spring's calendar arrival. The snowstorm buried roads in impassable drifts that trapped even the snowplows and many persons were marooned for days.

The series of pictures was captioned "Swamped by Snow." Two of them were taken near Kewaskum and several others showed scenes in the Campbellsport, West Bend, Fond du Lac and Cedarburg areas, hardest hit by the storm.

The first Kewaskum photo taken northwest of the village showed an abandoned car completely buried by drifts at the side of a road. Shown on the highway beside the car was a heavy tow truck which went to work with a crane to free the vehicle after three men dug to uncover part of the auto so the tow truck could attach the crane to it. The second local picture taken northwest of Kewaskum showed a farmer traveling with horses and sled across fields which were covered with less snow than the highways. The other pictures showed stalled and buried snowplows and other scenes of huge drifts.

ATTENTION YOUNG BASEBALL PLAYERS

Any boys interested in playing Legion baseball this summer, who were born after Sept. 1, 1941, are asked to report to the Kewaskum elementary school gym at 8 p. m. on Monday, April 6. 3-20-3
