Regal Ware, Inc. Observes 15th Anniversary of Founding

New 16,000 Sq. Ft. Building Addition Nearly Completed

ELEVENTH ADDITION TO THE FACTORY TO BE READY FOR OCCUPANCY SEPT. 1

Aug. 6, 1960 marked the fifteenth anniversary of the founding of Regal Ware, Inc., Kewaskum, manufacturers of aluminum and stainless steel cookware, giftware, electrical and industrial items.

This milestone in the firm's history was fittingly observed with a reception and open house for all employees. The founders and original executive group present at the reception included J. O. Reigle, president; L. N. Peterson, executive vice-president and general manager; C. E. Reigle, vice-president; Edna M. Oster, assistant to the president; and A. G. Hron, who recently retired after having been chief engineer and general superintendent.

Coincident with the anniversary, J. O. Reigle announced that a new 16,000 sq. ft. building—the eleventh addition to the factory in the 15 years—was nearing completion and would be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1. The new building will contain the shipping office, warehousing space and six docks for handling truck shipments. Made of modern concrete block, it includes an automatic sprinkler system as a fire safeguard.

The remarkable growth of Regal Ware is unique in the cookware industry. It has grown from a handful of workers to over 450 employees and from an original 18,000 square feet of floor space to nearly 200,000 square feet. The plant, machinery and equipment have been completely modernized and carloads of aluminum and stainless steel raw material come in on the company's 12-car siding to be made into the finished products.

The company makes its own tools, dies and fixtures and designs and builds much of its own machinery. Manufacturing is accomplished through a conveyor belt system by skilled craftsmen (Allied Industrial Workers AFL-CIO Union, Region 9).

Regal products are famous for their distinctive design and fine quality. While the principal output is aluminum and stainless steel cookware, the company also makes gift items, coffee urns, automatic percolators, and industrial items. The firm is also the official manufacturer of the Boy and Girl Scout cook kits and canteens.

The short history of Regal is replete with extraordinary achievements. A world's record was established in 1950 when Lever Brothers Company, New York, ordered 2,000,000 kitchen utensils. Up to that time it was the largest single order for premiums ever placed in the aluminum industry. Regal was among the first American industries to develop and successfully manufacture 105 mm. shell cases out of steel and produced over 3,000,000 for the U. S. Army during the Korean War. In 1962, a special committee of NATO, including military, government and industrial experts from 11 different countries visited Kewaskum to study Regal's methods and techniques.

Regal Ware maintains offices in New York City, Chicago and Los Angeles, and has field representatives throughout the United States as well as in Canada and Hawaii.

The Regal story has no end—because Regal is still growing—an outstanding example of success based on the founder's unswerving determination to develop, manufacture and sell only the finest quality ware perfectly adapted to fulfill the needs and desires of the American homemaker.

Rev. S. Haas New Pastor at Wayne

The Rev. Sherwood Haas, a recent graduate of Eden Theological Seminary, will take over as pastor of Salem E and R United Church of Christ at Wayne the week of Sept. 4 and will be installed at a later date.

The Rev. Donald Koehn, former pastor of Salem church, accepted a call to Calvary Memorial church, Milwaukee, in October of last year. Since then student pastors had served the congregation. Since June 12 of this year Student Melvin Vilhauer of Sheboygan had been serving and will continue in that capacity until Sept. 4.

Dick Pierce Writes of Experiences Fighting Forest Fire in Oregon

Mrs. Margaret Pierce of Kewaskum received a letter Friday from her son Dick in which he describes some of the experiences and dangers he encountered in fighting a huge forest fire at the Oregon-Idaho border recently. Dick was overcome from the smoke and heat in battling the blaze and also had a narrow escape from being trapped by the raging inferno.

The young man, who is a student at Iowa State college, is employed during the summer by the federal government at Hemlock Range Station, Carson, Wash. His entire crew was called to Oregon to fight the fire.

Dick's letter, which we believe will be of interest to our readers and his friends, follows:

August 2, 1960

Dear Mom:

Well, home from the wars! The whole darn northwest blew up, and it really went! I fought on the 7,000 acre Spring Creek fire in Hell's Canyon on the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon; and believe me, that place is appropriately named.

They flew us by plane from Portland, Oregon. From there we went by bus to Halfway, Oregon, and arrived there at 2:30 a. m. That night I slept in my leather jacket under a tree. The next morning we went by truck down into Hell's Canyon and across the river to the Idaho side. We took a boat down the river to the base camp and that afternoon we were assigned to Division II and walked 6 1/2 miles in and 1 mile up to Camp II. The roughest country I've ever seen—I thought I'd pass out from exhaustion along with the rest as we climbed the mountains. We got to Camp II and that night I slept in half a parachute in the muddy ashes (we were at a spring) under a bush with the rattlesnakes, the scorpions, and the duff fire that still burned.

In the morning we hiked out to the fire line on a ridge—2 1/2 hours to climb one mile. We widened the line and ordered borate dropped on a hot spot in the valley below, at 7 a. m. (we were in mixed grass and timber). It was never dropped. Borate is a chemical used to knock down fires—it's dropped from belly tanks in old bombers. At 2 p. m. the fire jumped into the grass and came toward us about 30 miles per hour. We tried to backfire the line to stop it, but the wind was too strong and coming from the wrong way. We had to run for it and we made it by a hair! I never ran so fast in my life as I did when I took off down the mountain—me and 7 others. I never thought we'd make that one. So we lost the fire that day and it went into the timber—huge ponderosa pine and hemlock. We got back to camp, got 4 hours sleep in paper sleeping bags that were finally dropped, in the most bitter cold. No food was dropped that day.

Hell's Canyon is extreme in all ways, and above all in temperature—100 degrees in day to about 30 degrees at night. I won't describe day by day 'cause I can't re-

Kiwanis Club Annual Turkey Shoot Sept. 18

The Kewaskum Kiwanis club will sponsor its eighth annual Live Turkey Shoot on Sunday, Sept. 18, at the Bar-N Dude Ranch, 6 miles northeast of Kewaskum on County Trunk GGG, the beautiful Kettle Moraine Drive.

The events of the day will include many additional activities such as trap shooting, deer target shooting, trout fishing, as well as an entertaining program of authentic Indian dances in full costume.

Watch the pages of this newspaper for the full particulars that will be published at a later date.

Attends College Young Republicans Session

APPOINT ALDWIN SEEFELDT
COORDINATOR AT MEETING IN MADISON SUNDAY

Aldwin Seefeldt of Kewaskum attended a summer planning session of the Wisconsin College Young Republicans at Madison on Sunday. The meeting, held at Republican headquarters, was in preparation for fall college activities.

College Director Ed Wiegner met with the three area coordinators he has appointed and the college program, membership and public relations directors to plan state level activities for next fall. The coordinators are southern, Roy Ustby of Whitewater; northwestern, Harlyn Larson of Eau Claire, and Fox River Valley, Aldwin Seefeldt of Lakeland college.

It appears that the total membership target for all college clubs will be over 1,000 for the first semester. The 1960 college membership total of almost 400 was a 250% increase over 1959.

Check artists have been active in Kewaskum. A woman, about 30 years old, poorly dressed and looking like a gypsy, passed a worthless check in the village. Don't cash checks for strangers.

Kewaskum Village 1st In County to Get 100% Cancer Crusade Return

The village of Kewaskum has become the first unit of Washington county's "Neighbor to Neighbor" cancer crusade to report a 100% return of its circulating pamphlets for cancer education and funds, it was announced by Richard C. Klein, county campaign chairman. The Kewaskum program was directed by Mrs. Henry Rosenheimer and Mrs. Howard Backhaus.

House to house envelopes circulating in West Bend and the village of Barton are about 80% reported, Klein said, with the balance of envelopes very nearly having completed their circuits. Returns from business and industries are more than 90% completed.

The cancer crusade message is directed to all residents of Washington county each year either by direct mail or the unique "Neighbor" program, chairman Klein said, however some residents will be missed due to vacations, changes of address or misdirected pamphlets. Those who wish to have their names listed with the thousands who have already participated are asked to mail their contributions directly to: "American Cancer Society, Washington County Unit, Security Building, West Bend, Wis." Direct contributions will be individually acknowledged.

CHIEF SCHAEFER ATTENDS GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE

Some 500 firemen attended the Governor's Conference on Fire Prevention and Protection in Milwaukee on Saturday, Aug. 6. The purpose of the conference, the second of its kind, is to promote efficient fire protection service in Wisconsin through consideration of current fire safety problems.

Among fire department officials from this area who attended the Milwaukee conference was Chief Harry J. Schaefer of Kewaskum. Others in the group included Chief Carl Peters and Asst. Chief Bill Oelhafen of West Bend, Chief Ken Vass of Barton and Chief Lawrence Staehler of Boltonville, among others.

Held at the Milwaukee Institute of Technology, a division of the Milwaukee Vocational and Adult Schools, the conference featured specialists from fire protection agencies and governmental organizations.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL

The Youth Fellowship of Salem church at Wayne is sponsoring a social at which various ice cream sundaes, banana splits, cake and ice cream, floats, and ice cream cones will be served. It will be held on Sunday, Aug. 21, from 2:00 - 5:00 p. m. Everyone is welcome to attend. 8-12-2

ATTENDS UW ORIENTATION, REGISTRATION PROGRAM

Taking advantage of the University of Wisconsin's summer advance registration-orientation program for new freshmen during the past week was Sue Sengpiel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Sengpiel, 292 Forest ave., Kewaskum.

This past week was the final week of the UW's summer advance registration-orientation program for this summer.

Under the program, the young men and women visit the campus for at least a day, often with either their mother or father or both parents, arrange for their housing if that is not already done, take some placement tests, meet some student leaders and faculty members, and register for their coming UW studies.

The new students will be returning to the UW campus next Sept. 7 to continue their orientation and complete their registration for studies. Their fall semester classes will begin on Monday, Sept. 12.

Local Ladies Attend Dinner Meeting of Democratic Women

MEGELLAS GUEST SPEAKER AT SESSION OF DISTRICT ORGANIZATIONS AT PORT

A dinner meeting of the Democratic women's organizations throughout the Sixth District was held at Smith Bros. Fish Shanty, Port Washington, on Tuesday, Aug. 9. This was the first time in state Democratic history that every county in the district was represented at a single meeting of women.

James Megellas, Sixth District Democratic candidate for Congress, was the guest speaker for the evening. Mrs. Marge Benson, vice-chairman of the Democratic party of the state of Wisconsin, also addressed the women later in the evening.

Mr. Megellas told the group that America faces a challenge in 1960 as great as any in our history. "It is absolutely essential and vital that every American participate in the great decisions that will be made at the polls this November," he said.

Megellas commended the women for their interest and activity in politics saying, "that by your participation in politics you are fulfilling your responsibility and obligation of citizenship. A democracy is a system of participation and requires constant attention and vigilance in order to be successful. A totalitarian state on the other hand is a system of manipulation. Manipulation by a few powerful men. All the decisions are made at the top without the people having a voice in their government. It is important that people vote and participate in politics for this determines the interest they have in their government."

Megellas said "the role of political parties is to provide leadership qualified to hold the reins of government, to educate the electorate so they can make an intelligent choice and finally to aid in the election of candidates subscribing to the philosophy of their party. Women can play a very effective role in all this.

"In this rapidly changing world," Megellas said, "the Democratic party is best qualified to run the affairs of state. The Democratic party is the party of men with courage and vision, unafraid to propose changes to meet the needs of a rapidly advancing scientific and technological age.

"In this crisis two ideologies of government Democracy and communism are vying for supremacy in scientific and technological advancements, in the race to outer space and the moon and for control of the minds of men. The outcome will be decided by which system of government can do more for its people and best solve the problems of hunger, illiteracy, poverty and disease that plague the masses in the world.

"To conquer these new frontiers," Megellas predicted, "the voters would turn to Senator Kennedy and the Democratic party this fall."

Attending the meeting from Kewaskum were Mrs. Norman Held, Mrs. Francis Gilboy and Miss Bernie Trapp.

SHUT-INS WILL MEET AT CEDAR LAKE HOME AUG. 17

The last in the series of days for shut-ins will be held at the Cedar Lake Home on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 17, from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m.

It is hoped that all who have been attending will be able to come to this session, and bring a friend along. A program for this day is being planned and the residents are eagerly looking forward to making all shut-ins feel welcome.

The home residents have surely enjoyed meeting so many new friends at these gatherings and hope to be able to do the same again next year.

The Cedar Lake Home is located about 2 miles west of West Bend on Highway 33 and then south on County Trunk Z about two and one-half miles.

To be without friends is a serious form of poverty.

An ounce of prevention will eliminate a carload of mechanical trouble on an auto trip. The Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company urges vacationists to have their cars thoroughly checked and tuned before starting. Essential safety checks include lights, tires, brakes, battery, windshield wipers and horn.

Times have changed to the extent that working for chicken feed actually may represent a substantial salary, figuratively.

Sure way to a family's heart

Serve them better meals easier, more economically from an Electric refrigerator-freezer combination

So many reasons for the whole family to appreciate a new and modern combination electric refrigerator-freezer. They all like the wonderful meals which originate there, and the kids, especially, like the snack-time opportunities — cold cuts from the refrigerator, ice cream from the freezer. Dad applauds the economy of better food buys through quantity purchasing — and Mom likes the way it makes meal planning and preparation easier . . . cuts down on shopping trips. Mom also likes the way automatic defrosting eliminates so much muss and fuss.

Be modern. Enjoy the convenience of a combination which includes both a modern refrigerator and a separate freezing unit. Live better . . . electrically. See your dealer now.

Forest Fire

 pember it all. We stole from each other (our crew were the best of thieves) to live 'cause the whole Northwest was in a state of emergency over the worst seige of fires in 30 years; so everything was disorganized.

We lost the fire 5 more times. I've never seen as awesome a sight as when hundreds of men would run for their lives when the fire roared into the crowns of the trees, and with the roar of a freight train, would jump our fire line. The fire could think — I swear that it could. We'd cool it down at night — we thought, but the fire would creep back down the draws to the Snake River and would inch its way along the broken cliffs in clumps of cheat grass a yard or more apart. When it reached another draw, it would creep along in the grass and brush ever so slowly until noon when conditions were best and then it would jump to the crowns of the trees and rush at us 'til we gave way and ran. Then it would start again. It was hell! Everyone was completely exhausted—I don't know how they kept going.

All this time things were being organized far above and behind us on the highest ridges. Here they could get "cats" in and they made "cat" lines all along this ridge. They had 300 men up there working while 200 of us below tried to tame that d--n thing. The last time the fire jumped before everyone moved to the top of the ridge, I got a little bit of it. I was on the line trying to get a line around a pile of punk when the whole d--n place blew up. I breathed some flame and the smoke and heat put me out. Someone dragged me out and they lifted me by helicopter to the main camp at the top of the ridge where we were making our last line with the "cats." I rested up there till the rest of my crew came up by foot—a whole day for 3 miles of hiking, and then they put our crew on night patrol—4 in the p. m. 'till 6 a. m. That line held.

Our fire was the last one to be brought under control so they hit it with everything. Bombers flying borate all day and helicopters bringing in mountain climbers and Indians. They flew our crew down to Halfway in an army helicopter on Sunday morning and we got back here last night. I rested today, didn't work! Tomorrow I'm back on my regular job. That's all on the fire except that I met my roommate, Duke (from school) and 6 other Iowa Staters on the fire."

E. Schowalter Tours State Institutions

Assemblyman E. J. Schowalter, a member of the Wisconsin Legislative Council Committee to Visit State Institutions, recently toured several major correction and welfare installations with members of this committee.

After a briefing meeting at Madison with Wilbur Schmidt, welfare department director, and Sanger Powers, director of corrections and parole, the committee traveled to the State School for Girls at Oregon, the Mendota state hospital and Central Colony at Madison and the Wisconsin Child Center at Sparta. The tour covered a three-day span and visits included a complete inspection of the various facilities. Assemblyman Schowalter reports he was most impressed with the devoted care being given the handicapped and retarded by institution staff members and with some of the recent improvement in buildings at these institutions. He noted, too, that some of the older buildings appear to be badly in need of replacement.

The committee will visit all state institutions during the course of this year to formulate a report and recommendations for the next session of the legislature. Its next tour, Aug. 18 and 19, will be to Central state hospital at Waupun and the Green Bay reformatory.

EXPRESSES THANKS

My most sincere thanks to all my friends and relatives who remembered me during my stay at the hospital and convalescence at home with cards, gifts and visits. These thoughtful deeds were greatly appreciated.

Corvaire's engineering came in for the first raves when the editors of Motor Trend magazine unanimously selected it Car of the Year. And then to top it off, the Industrial Designers Institute awarded Corvaire (through General Motors Vice President William L. Mitchell and his Styling Staff) a gold medal for styling excellence. But even these honors, impressive as they are, can't compare with the enthusiastic reception Corvaire is receiving from people like you. A short visit with your dealer will show you why.
