New Position

Business Manager for School District Named

By TAMI EDGAR
Statesman Staff Writer

Robert Borch will fill the new Business Manager position for the Kewaskum School District. He is a native of Hinsdale, Illinois, and for the past five years he has been a social studies teacher at Hadley Junior High School in Glen Ellyn, Illinois.

At a special meeting on July 31, he was unanimously approved by the board, with Gessner and Ogi unable to attend.

The manager's salary will be $18,000 plus benefits which include 240 working days.

Borch is 33 years old and married. They have one child.

A special meeting on Wednesday, July 26, was held to clear up a motion on the social worker-elementary guidance counselor vote from a previous meeting.

To eliminate all misunderstandings, Jean Goeden stated that she wished her motion at the last meeting to eliminate the social worker to remain and it passed unanimously.

Jerry Secor still moved to affirm his motion of July 17, to create an additional elementary guidance position, which passed 5-0. Byron Gessner abstained. Dr. Ogi was absent.

At previous meetings contracts were approved for two elementary teachers, Shary Koth and Linda Gronholz and an additional $250 per year was approved for the secretary who calls and arranges for substitute teachers.

Construction Of Barton Ave. Bridge Begins

Road construction was expected to start this week on the reconstruction of Barton Avenue (S.T.H. 144) from River Drive to Commerce Street in the City of West Bend. The work will consist of removing the existing bridge over the Milwaukee River and replacing it with a single span prestressed girder structure. Also included in this project is the reconstruction of the approaches to the structure.

The work will be performed under a contract let to Lunda Construction Company of Black River Falls, WI, at an estimated cost of $529,561. Financing will be shared on approximately a 28 - 72 percentage by the Federal government and the City of West Bend, respectively. Raymond Feld of Oconomowoc will be the project engineer for the Wisconsin Division of Highways.

Barton Avenue will be closed to through traffic during construction operations, with access only to local property owners. It was anticipated that Barton Avenue will be closed during the week of July 31 and will be reopened in late October. A suitable detour will be provided by the City of West Bend. Commerce Street will be kept open to through traffic across Barton Avenue during construction operations.

Every possible effort will be made to provide continuous and safe ingress and egress to all business and residential properties during this reconstruction, but pedestrians and motorists are urged to use caution in the construction zone.

39th Annual Seefeldt Family Reunion Here Attended by 215

Members from five states and Canada attended the 39th annual Seefeldt family reunion Sunday, July 30, at the Kewaskum Village Park. The 215 persons in attendance represented six generations of descendants of Christian Friedrich Seefeldt and his wife Anna Sophia Kobs of Plantikow, Pomerania, Germany.

Preceding the 12:30 p.m. potluck dinner, Pastor Maurice Jones of Baraboo gave the invocation.

During the business meeting conducted by Carlton Seefeldt of Campbellsport, recognition was given to the two living members of The Ninety Club—Mrs. Fred Klein, Sr. of Kewaskum, age 98, and Mrs. John Weber of Fond du Lac, age 95, the latter being present. Senior man present was Louis Seefeldt, age 88, of Kewaskum.

The family historian recorded 11 births, 3 marriages, 3 deaths, and one member in military service in Germany during the year. A prayer was offered by Pastor Jones in memory of the deceased members.

Youngest member was Sarah Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fink, Fond du Lac. Most recently married were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morrissey of Butler. The longest married couple was Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanke of Campbellsport, 58 years. Traveling the farthest to attend was Harold Klug of Portland, Oregon.

The Seefeldt reunion was one of the 75 reunions mentioned in the August issue of Ladies Home Journal in the article, "How America Lives—Family Reunions." About 1,000 responses from family groups were received by the editor.

Officers re-elected for next year's 40th reunion on July 29 were: President, Carlton Seefeldt, Campbellsport; vice-presidents, Gerald Vigansky, Kenosha, and Philip Majerus, Fond du Lac; secretary, Miss Rosella Peisker, Fond du Lac; treasurer, Mrs. Reuben Schultz, Kewaskum; historian, Mrs. Ray Thornton, Fond du Lac; and genealogist, Alfred Seefeldt, Kewaskum.

Committees will be: Refreshments, Arvin Halle, Plymouth, Robert Hintz, Campbellsport, and Lloyd Keller, Kewaskum; kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seefeldt, Kewaskum; tickets, Mrs. Alvin Seefeldt, Campbellsport; and recreation, Mrs. Carlton Seefeldt, Campbellsport.

Games for youngsters, the Seefeldt Olympics, were conducted by Linda and Nina Wulff of Kewaskum.

The family record book and scrapbooks were viewed.

A men's quartet with David Drury of Milwaukee and friends entertained with vocal numbers during the afternoon.

Blow into mouth (and nose, if victim is a small child) until you see the chest lift. Remove your mouth; listen for air return from victim's lungs. Repeat about 12 times a minute for an adult, about 20 times a minute for a child.*

Sen. Nelson Urges Action on Postal Rate Relief for Small Publications

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 21 — Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) today urged speedy action on a bill that would give postal rate relief for small publications by providing them with mailing rate substantially equivalent to that paid by non-profit publications.

In a statement submitted to the Senate Subcommittee on Energy, Nuclear Proliferation and Federal Services, Nelson said two aspects of the bill (S.3229) are of particular importance to the preservation of a vigorous free press in this country.

Amendments Act of 1978, would continue the present practice of requiring each class, sub-class and type of mail to bear the costs that are attributable to each, but it would put a 60% "cap" on attributable costs which would be of considerable benefit to regular second-class and controlled circulation publications, whose rates now reflect a 65% cost attribution. At the same time, the bill would provide additional rate relief by requiring these classes to recover only the costs attributable to regular rate second class mail for the first 250,000 copies of such publications.

"Rate relief for small publications is urgently required," Nelson said. "Between the creation of the U.S. Postal Service in 1970 and July of 1979, the average second class postal rate will have risen by 400%."

Nelson cited the example of the New Republic publication whose rates have doubled. With a circulation of 78,000 its yearly postal costs rose from $82,000 in 1973 to $182,425 in 1977. By July 1979, its yearly rate will be a staggering $358,524 if the law is not altered.

"In my own state of Wisconsin, countless small publications are being forced to the wall by postal rate increases. To select two examples out of many: the Loyal, Wisconsin Tribune & Record-Gleaner, has seen its weekly postal cost increase from just over $1,000 in 1971 to over $4,000 in 1977 and the small Elroy, Wisconsin Tribune-Keystone, with an 1800 person circulation, absorbed a quadrupling of its mailing cost between 1971 to 1977, from $535 to $2,392 per year."

Nelson said that in the past seven years Congress and the Postal Service seemed to have forgotten why assistance to newspapers and periodicals is so important.

"From the earliest days of this country, our national leaders have recognized that the essential educational service of keeping the American people informed is best performed by the widest possible distribution of newspapers, periodicals and journals of opinion."

"From 1792 to 1971, the low postal rates which were set by Congress for distribution of printed publications through the mails were recognized as a form of national subsidy justified by their educational function and contribution to the self-governing aspect of citizenship," he continued.

Nelson has consistently been involved in legislation to limit the rates for second class mail. In 1972 and again in 1973, he introduced legislation to delay proposed postal rate increases, to limit the rates charged per piece surcharge. He approved the 1974 legislation which delayed and phased-in postal rate increases for second class and controlled circulation publications.

Nelson said that in the past seven years many religious and other non-profit publications have failed while many other magazines are struggling for survival.

"These publications are the lifeblood to the First Amendment," Nelson said. "Whether or not this legislation is enacted into law will do much to determine how well freedom of thought and expression flourish in this country."

55 MPH Speed Limit to Be 'Law of the Month' During Most Deadly Month

Because August is traditionally the most deadly month in terms of traffic deaths, the State Department of Transportation said the 55 mph speed limit has been selected as the "Law of the Month."

Over the past 10 years, an average of 120 people died in traffic crashes during the month of August, compared to an average of 113 per month in July, the second worst month for traffic deaths.

Captain Jack W. Jorgensen, Commanding District 2, of the Wisconsin State Patrol, said the State Patrol and 23 county sheriff's departments will be working overtime hours during August under the federally-funded CEASE program. An acronym for Concentrated Effort for Alcohol and Speed Enforcement, the CEASE program concentrates additional manpower during late-night weekend periods when drunk driving and speeding violations frequently contribute to fatal accidents.

He noted that since the 55 mph speed limit went into effect, the average monthly death toll for August had dropped to 103. However, during August, 1977, there were 111 traffic deaths, the highest in the post-55 years.

Both local and state law enforcement officers are better equipped for speed control this year, with the addition of a number of new radar units with anti-radar detection features.

Drivers were urged to do everything possible to increase their chances of returning home safely from office picnics, family reunions, ballgames and other summertime activities. "Limit your intake of alcohol, avoid getting too tired to drive safely, and observe the speed limit at all times," he said.

Jorgensen has urged all local law enforcement agencies to join the "Law of the Month" campaign which selects timely laws for emphasis each month.

Utility Bills Out of Sight? Here's How to Bring Them Down

With summer still simmering, it's hard to think about cold weather—and harder still to think about ever-rising utility bills.

But summer is an ideal time to devise ways of lowering the cost of heating, cooling, and lighting your home, according to the current (August) issue of National Wildlife magazine.

The magazine, published by the National Wildlife Federation, the country's largest conservation education group, cites the case of one Florida homeowner who has cut his power consumption by more than 50 per cent while continuing to use all major appliances.

"With a systematic approach," the magazine says, "homeowners can save considerable money before they invest in solar panels or other devices." As proof it cites a Princeton University study showing that "there can be a 50 per cent difference in utility bills between families living in identical townhouses."

The conservation magazine offers the following suggestions for saving energy and cutting utility bills:

1

Turn down the water heater thermostat. The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) estimated that you can save at least $20 a year by lowering the setting on your electric water heater from 150 to 130 degrees. (Savings will be less for natural gas heaters.) The higher the temperature inside a water heater, the more heat that's lost through the walls of the tank. Thus, you can save even more by dropping the temperature to 120 degrees. If you have a dishwasher, the thermostat probably should not be set below 140 degrees, but 120 should be more than satisfactory for most manual tasks. A $20 or more savings is a good return for the few minutes it takes to remove the two plates from the front of the heater (remember to cut off the circuit breakers), push back the insulation and move the thermostat pointers to a lower setting.

2

Insulate the hot water heater. By wrapping a piece of thick, aluminum-backed fiberglass insulation around your tank, you can reduce the amount of heat lost through its sides and save an additional $20 a year. The insulating materials should not cost more than $10 if you do the work yourself. With gas heaters, be careful not to cover the vent holes; if you don't know where they are, ask a service person.

3

Drain the heater tank. Studies have shown that sediment collecting at the bottom of a water heater reduces the system's efficiency, ultimately producing higher energy bills. Every few months, you can alleviate the problem by opening the plug at the bottom of the tank and letting the water flow out until it runs clear.

4

Insulate the pipes. In many homes, there can be 60 feet or more of three-quarter-inch piping between the hot water tank and a faucet. That length of pipe contains up to two gallons of water. When you turn on the faucet, you must run off that two gallons, plus an additional gallon of water, to warm up the pipes, before any really hot water comes out. If a hot water faucet is used ten times a day, this means that you may be wasting 900 gallons of hot water a month. The cost of insulating 60 feet of pipe would pay for itself in six months.

5

Hurry your showers. Contrary to popular belief, showers save more energy than baths only if they are relatively short. During a long, steamy shower with the faucet giving off eight gallons a minute, it doesn't take long before you have drained off more hot water than you would have used in a 30-gallon bathtub. You can determine how much water your showerhead gives off each minute by timing how long it takes to fill a one- or two-gallon bucket.

6

Use less water. If your family doesn't want to take shorter showers, you can conserve hot water by attaching a flow restrictor. These devices reduce the amount of water that comes out of the head without sacrificing a hard spray. In one test, a $16.95 device released an average flow of 2.1 gallons a minute, compared with a normal release of 8 to 10 gallons a minute. According to the DOE, such restrictors can save a family $24 a year in hot water costs.

7

Tune your furnace annually. Tests have shown that a one-fifteenth-inch layer of soot in a furnace can reduce efficiency by up to 50 percent. Just as an improperly tuned carburetor can waste gas in a car, an improper mixture of air and fuel can cause a furnace to use more oil or gas.

8

Insulate your basement. It's standard procedure to begin insulating a house with the attic, but it may be worth your time to consider insulating your basement, as well. If you have no basement, insulate the crawl space below your floors. Princeton University researchers found that 25 percent of the furnace heat in the houses they monitored stayed in the basement. If that area is not well insulated, you could be losing several hundred dollars worth of heat annually.

9

Close up those air leaks. Many people assume that most air leaks in a house occur around window and door frames. However, one Colorado researcher has found that the four major sources of air infiltration are the kitchen fan exhaust, the bathroom fan exhaust, the hole around the clothes dryer vent and the furnace flue. He also found that air flow could be reduced considerably by filling in the holes around each of these leaks. Not only is it a simple task, but it also enables a homeowner to learn where air is entering the house.

10

Look for heater helpers. You would be surprised how much lost heat can be recycled around a house. For instance, if you have an electric clothes dryer, you can pull the vent back into the house, put a stocking over the end to catch the lint, plug up the outside vent hole and let the dryer warm up the room while it is drying the clothes. Similarly, you might as well take advantage of any extra heat in your shower or bath water by letting it cool off in the tub before draining.

11

Consider a dishwasher. If you have a large family, a dishwasher is not the wasteful appliance many people believe it to be. To complete its cycle, it requires about 16 gallons of hot water, and you can usually do an entire day's dishes in one load. Conversely, if you wash your own dishes in a normal-sized sink, you probably use about 3½ gallons of water in the wash side and the same amount in the rinse side. If you eat three meals a day and use two sinkfuls of wash and rinse water after each meal, this means you may be using an average of 42 gallons daily just to wash dishes. At average electric rates today, this means a cost of about 35 cents per day to wash dishes manually—about twice as much as with one load of a dishwasher. Savings: $70 a year.

12

Eliminate the dry cycle. Many dishwasher brands include a drying element that speeds up the drying process. If you wash your dishes in the evening, electric drying is unnecessary. Your machine may have a switch that shuts off the drying cycle. If not, turn off your power after the rinse is completed and open the door to let air circulate around the dishes.

13

Wash clothes at a cooler setting. According to the DOE, eliminating the "warm rinse" cycle on washing machines saves 23 percent of the energy required to run the machine. The Texas Power and Light Company adds that "if clothes are washed in 140-degree hot water with two 110-degree warm-water rinses, approximately 40 gallons of hot water is needed per load. That would require 160 percent more energy than if a cold-water rinse is used."

14

Have your thermostat checked. The Princeton energy researchers found that half of the thermostats in the community they studied were inaccurate by one or more degrees. According to their report, a one-degree error can add four percent to a fuel bill.

15

Switch off the air conditioner sump heater. Most central air conditioners contain a sump or crankcase heater that evaporates the moisture that might get into the compressor. This heater stays in operation all year long, even when the air conditioner is not in use. Most of these heaters draw between 50 and 75 watts of power, which means an added electrical charge of about $20 for all of the months when the machine sits idle. To turn off the heater during the winter, merely switch off the air conditioner circuit breaker. Be certain, however, to switch the breaker back on at least 24 hours before you activate the air conditioner. Otherwise, the air conditioner will be damaged.

16

Keep your refrigerator clean. Dusting off most appliances won't make them work better, but with refrigerators, such a procedure can be important. The coils in the back should be cleaned every other month. Dirty coils greatly reduce the machine's cooling ability. You should also periodically check how airtight the appliance is by putting a dollar bill between the gasket and the door. If the bill can be pulled out easily when the door is closed, replace the gasket.

17

Unplug that old refrigerator. If it is used only occasionally, or to store marginal items, that old refrigerator relegated to the basement or garage may be costing you a bundle—up to $100 per year if its gasket is worn or the compressor is bad. If you have such an appliance, try unplugging it for a month and see if you notice any difference on your next bill.

18

Get rid of that large freezer. The high price of electricity these days is rapidly changing the cost-benefit calculations for large freezers. A group of energy consultants in Davis, California, found that freezers are so expensive to run that "the question should be raised as to whether the benefits of bulk food buying offset the costs of storage." A middle-sized freezer may cost up to $8 a month to operate, and the older it gets, the less efficient it becomes.

Douse those pilot lights. Federal studies have shown that the pilot lights on gas stoves may consume up to 30 percent of the fuel used by the stoves. Thus, if you don't cook often, you might be paying more for your pilot light fuel than you are for cooking. The pilots were originally put on stoves for convenience and safety, but if you're willing to relight a burner with a match each time you want to use it — and are very careful not to leave the gas on without a light — you can save substantial money. Some stoves have adjustments that will cut off the pilots, but you shouldn't attempt to turn them off until you talk with your gas appliance dealer. If you use an oven sparingly, you can also turn off that pilot. Or you can convert your gas stove to automatic electronic ignition. Conversion kits average about $40, but the payback should occur in less than three years.

20

Don't preheat the oven. In a project for the American Home Economics Association last year, researchers measured how much fuel it took to cook a hamburger in various ways. They found stovetop cooking to be the most economical. They also concluded that preheating an oven is more costly than cooking from a cold start. Therefore, avoid preheating whenever possible.

21

Eliminate the television "instant-on." Many tube-type television sets include a feature that enables the picture to appear instantaneously, the moment the set is switched on. While this avoids the 30-second warming up time, it also wastes electricity since the device remains on 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. This means an added cost of up to $25 a year in electricity for a family that uses its television six hours or less each day. If your set does not have a button to turn off the "instant-on," have a repairman do it.

22

Convert to fluorescent. For light fixtures that are in constant use, it makes good economic sense to convert to fluorescent bulbs. A double-bulb incandescent fixture that uses two 100-watt bulbs for ten hours a day, for example, costs about $36 in yearly electric bills. A fluorescent unit can provide a similar amount of light for $7.20. The $20 or so it costs to convert to fluorescent will be paid back in one year. Since constant switching on and off shortens the life of fluorescent bulbs, however, they should only be used in places where they will be left on for longer periods.

23

Cut your light wattage. Each time a bulb burns out, consider replacing it with one that has less wattage. You may be surprised how many bulbs in your house are too powerful. Every time you cut the wattage in half, you cut 50 percent off the utility bill for that particular fixture.

24

Use small appliances. The best way to decide whether or not to use one of those small cooking appliances you've stashed away in a cupboard is to compare its wattage label with that of your stove. It is not unusual, for instance, for a full-sized oven to draw about 3,500 watts of power, while a small electric toaster oven uses only half that amount. With gas, the savings may not be as great.

Landscape for energy. Some of the best energy-saving opportunities are found outside the house. In a test conducted on two identical houses in Nebraska, for example, researchers measured the amount of fuel needed to maintain an indoor temperature of 70 degrees. One of the houses was exposed to the wind, the other was protected by bushes. The results showed that the protected house used 23 percent less fuel than the unprotected house. In a similar Princeton study, a five-foot wooden fence, erected on the windward side of a house, reduced air infiltration by up to 30 percent. Other projects have demonstrated that the most effective place to set shrubs or a windbreak is upwind, at a distance from the house that equals 1½ to 2½ times the height of the building. ■

Cost Sharing Program to Reduce Water Pollution Offered to Farmers

The Washington County Soil and Water Conservation District announces a new program providing cost-sharing for farmers to install practices for reducing water pollution.

Farmers may apply at the district office, 2395 West Washington Street, West Bend, for a state cost-sharing grant to pay up to one half the cost of installing approved nonpoint source pollution abatement practices.

This new state program, established by the Wisconsin legislature in 1977, is funded from general purposes revenues.

Nonpoint source water pollution resulting from agricultural land uses is the target of this program. The most common water pollutant from agricultural lands is soil sediment, a result of soil erosion. Plant nutrients, especially phosphorus and nitrogen, are also carried into streams and lakes by surface runoff from fields, forests, pastures and barnyards or feedlots. Excessive amounts of these nutrients may result in low water quality by causing heavy growths of algae and other plant life in lakes and reservoirs.

The State Board of Soil and Water Conservation Districts has been assigned statewide responsibility for administering this cost-sharing program, and the Washington County Soil and Water Conservation District is helping to carry it out at the local level.

Snowmobilers raised $32,000 in SE for MS

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society, Southeastern Wisconsin Chapter, announced today that its 1977-78 "Snowmobilers for MS" program had officially ended. This program, which is similar to a walk-a-thon, has each driver solicit sponsors who pledge a certain amount of money per mile ridden.

This year the program involved 34 snowmobile clubs from throughout southeastern Wisconsin and was responsible for raising over $32,000 to help fight multiple sclerosis (MS).

Receiving special recognition from the area were the Allenton Sno Pacers. They raised over $1,000 and will be awarded a trophy for their efforts. Special honors went to two clubs, the Menomonee Falls Sno Falls and the Burlington Blizzard Bugs, each of whom raised over $3,000.

Army Worm Alert in Washington County

Army worms have been found in Washington County.

Army worms are caterpillar-like insects that have smooth skins. They vary in size, but can reach a length of 1½ to 2 inches and about the thickness of a pencil. Generally there color markings are with stripes running lengthwise on their body. The pattern of stripes is generally light stripes and dark stripes alternating, and a light stripe on the underside of the insect.

Army worms are most likely to be found and become a problem in corn, small grains such as oats, barley and wheat, or in grassy hay fields. The insects feed on the leaves of plants, consuming large quantities of plant material.

In corn fields, they generally feed on the lower leaves, leaving a ragged, tattered appearance, working their way up the stalks, many times completely eating the leaf except for the mid-rib section. If one-third or more of the plants show a moderate feeding, a control program is recommended.

On small grains, the insects will feed on the leaves of the grain plants, any new seeding in the field, and climb the grain plants removing the heads. Most often the heads will be found lying on the ground and not eaten. If populations are a 3 per square foot or greater, control should be considered.

The army worm is a larva of a moth that lays eggs in grassy areas. The eggs hatch into the larvae and begin feeding. The occurrence of army worms may be very scattered, due to the fact that the insects will be found where moths landed and eggs were deposited.

Growers should check their fields on a day to day basis for the next week and a half to two weeks and watch for increasing numbers of army worms. The insects can reach destructive levels in a very short period of time, so fields should be watched closely.

There are a number of different insecticides registered and recommended for control of army worms. Local pesticide applicators have information on their control, and may also help with application.

Persons having questions or needing more information about the insect problem can contact the Washington County UW-Extension Office.

CONGRESSMAN BOB KASTEN, candidate for Governor, announced his program to aid middle-income taxpayers in Wisconsin, calling for a permanent ten percent cut in the income tax rates and indexing the tax system to adjust for inflation.

Pointing to a chart depicting the growth of the state's budget surplus, Kasten said, "There is a clear pattern of taxing Wisconsin's citizens more than is necessary to pay for state spending. This must stop."

Kasten labeled state government spending as "reckless" and state income tax increases as "excessive." He charged that income tax rates had jumped 14 percent during the Lucey and Schreiber Administrations. "Wisconsin, like California, has a heavy tax load, a record state surplus, and ever-increasing state spending," Kasten said. "The voters here, like the voters in California, are recognizing that it's time to turn around the trend toward higher spending and higher taxes. They're saying 'Enough.'

The time for ducking the issue and referring tax problems to another commission has passed," Kasten said. "Wisconsin taxpayers deserve — and demand — action now. They are not getting it from the Schreiber Administration. They will get it from a Kasten Administration," Kasten concluded.

Three Meetings to Evaluate County Natural Resources

Washington County residents will have a chance to help appraise the natural resources of the county and develop a conservation program to improve them, according to Reuben Schmah, Chairman of the Washington County Soil and Water Conservation District (WCSWCD).

Three public meetings to record citizens' opinions of the problems, trends and needs for natural resources in the county will be held as follows: 1) Tuesday, August 8, 8:00 p.m. at the Richfield Town Hall, 4128 Hubertus Road, Hubertus; 2) Wednesday, August 9, 8:00 p.m. at the Hartford High School Student Union, 805 Cedar Street, Hartford; and 3) Thursday, August 10, 8:00 p.m. at the University of Wisconsin Center-Washington County Campus in the Library Building, Rooms 102 and 103, 400 University Drive, West Bend.

"What we learn at these meetings will help the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Washington County Project and the WCSWCD direct programs in the natural resource field," Schmah explained. "We can actually help set the needs and establish goals for our future programs."

The meetings are being sponsored by the WCSWCD, the USDA Soil Conservation Service and the Washington County Project (a non-point pollution study project). This opportunity to help evaluate present land use and water quality problems and plan future programs is a result of the need for citizen input into the Washington County Project and the Resources Conservation Act which was signed into law last November. The law calls for public participation and involvement in setting the needs and goals for soil and water conservation.

The Resources Conservation Act requires USDA to appraise the natural resources on all private land, develop a five-year program to meet the needs, and evaluate progress every year.

The co-sponsors of these meetings hope to obtain a determination of the quality and quantity of soil, water and related resources of the quality and habitat; the ability of these resources to meet current and future demands; changes in resource conditions because of past uses; and the costs and benefits of alternative soil and water conservation practices.

"At these meetings we will gather information, concerns and comments from resource-related groups, clubs, and individuals in Washington County," Schmah said.

More information on the meeting and the Resources Conservation Act is available at the WCSWCD office and the Soil Conservation Service office at 2395 W. Washington St., West Bend, (Phone 334-3706), or at the Washington County UW-Extension office, 515 E. Washington Street, West Bend, Wisconsin 53095, (Phone 334-3491).

528 Fans Desert Kewaskum to See The Braves Play

Kewaskum — population something over 1200 — was sort of a ghost town Monday night. About 528 or more of our citizens and other nearby fans vacated the village to see the Milwaukee Braves play those Bums, the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers at Milwaukee County Stadium.

Announcement was made over the air by Earl Gillespie and Blaine Walsh. Braves network announcers, that the Kewaskum delegation was in attendance. They added further color by ringing in some dope on Chief Kewaskum.

All in the group were handed out Indian headdresses with feathers at the drug store corner before leaving. They were given out by the Kiwanis club and contained the words Heine-mann's Kewaskum Dairy.

Looking down from the upper deck in the park, these head-dresses could be seen all around the lower deck seats, making it easy to locate the Kewaskum gang.

Yessir, Kewaskum night at the home of the Braves was a lot of fun and most of those who attended want to go again — soon. They hope someone will instigate another Kewaskum night.

Safe-Swimming

Tips Listed by Scout Executive

Summer's here and with it the swimming season.

"Swimming's fun," said Keith Newberry of Fond du Lac, District Executive of the Bay Lakes Council, Boy Scouts of America, "but every summer we read about swimming tragedies. Most of them need never have happened."

Newberry said the "buddy system" — always swimming in pairs, never alone — used universally in Scout camps, is the first big step toward safe swimming.

"The buddy system will make all outdoor activities — not just swimming — more fun and many times safer," Newberry added.

Some other safe-swimming tips:

-Swim in a safe, familiar, inspected area.

-If you can't swim, take lessons. If you swim a little, learn to swim better.

-Respect the water and know your limitations.

-Wait an hour after eating before swimming. Don't swim while overheated or overtired.

-Swim in a safe place in the presence of lifeguards or adult swimmers.

-Don't swim in front of the diving board.

-Be sure rescue equipment such as buoys, boats, and reaching poles are available at the swimming area.

-When a storm approaches, get out of the water — it conducts electricity.

County Courts Abolished; Now Circuit Courts

Procedures for implementing the Court Reorganization Act in Washington County were announced today by the Washington County Circuit Judges, J. Tom Merriam, James B. Schwalbach and Richard T. Becker. The new law took effect on August 1. The County Courts have been abolished and all Courts are now Circuit Courts.

Washington County has three Circuit Courts: Branch 1, in which J. Tom Merriam presides; Branch 2, in which James B. Schwalbach presides; and Branch 3, in which Richard T. Becker presides. As general rule there will be little change in the work load of each Court with Branch 1, handling civil cases, Branch 2, handling probate, juvenile and family law cases, and Branch 3, being the traffic, criminal and small claims court.

One section of the new law requires a night or Saturday Court session each month. The Judges have concluded that a session of Small Claims Court will best accomplish the purpose of the law which is to accommodate the public. Many litigants in small claims cases are not represented by attorneys and have to take off work to come to Court.

The night session will be held on the fourth Monday of each month, starting August 28 at 6:30 p.m. Small Claims summons will be returnable at that time. The regular return day for Small Claims is every Monday at 4:00 p.m. which will continue on the other Mondays of the month. A person starting a small claims action will have the option of using the night court session for the return day. Judge Becker, who presently handles small claims, did warn that the provisions of Chapter 299 of the Statutes which requires service of the summons not more than 17 days nor less than 8 before the return day still applies. Judges Merriam and Schwalbach will rotate with

Kewaskum Statesman
Friday, August 4, 1978

Judge Becker in hearing cases in the evening.

It is anticipated that other changes may take place in the future. Chapter 449 of the Laws of 1977, the Court Reorganization Act, was passed in mid-June and became Law on July 9, 1978. With such short lead time not all changes can be immediately made.

A reading and math test will be given in the morning to all students.

The afternoon of each day is devoted to program and academic advisory, programming and collection of fees and purchasing of books.

Parents and/or spouses are invited and will be given a tour of the facilities. A reception will be held in the student lounge in the afternoon.

Individuals interested in registering for the fall term should contact the Student Services Department as soon as possible. Vocational counseling and financial aids are available.

Results of Kasten Survey Released

Most Ninth District residents who responded to Congressman Bob Kasten's 1978 Legislative Questionnaire listed inflation, government spending, and high taxes as the most important problems facing the nation.

Kasten, who released the results of his survey this week in a newsletter to his constituents, said, "Government spending is the real culprit — it's the chief cause of high inflation and high taxes, and all three are of serious concern to Ninth District residents."

An overwhelming 93 percent of those responding to the survey said inflation was a "very serious" or "serious" threat to them and their families. But 60 percent said they opposed government-imposed, mandatory wage and price controls to curb inflation.

Instead, 93 percent favored a reduction in government spending, even if it meant cutting back on some programs they support.

"I've been working to reduce the threat of inflation by voting consistently to reduce wasteful spending, cut taxes, and balance the budget," Kasten said. "Unfortunately, the President and Congress have failed to recognize the real seriousness of the inflation threat by planning the nation's first half trillion dollar budget."

About 25,000 residents of the Ninth Congressional District completed Kasten's poll, which was sent in May to every household.

On the issue of welfare reform, 42 percent said the most serious problem with the system is that "it makes welfare a way of life," and 32 percent said "it doesn't encourage people to look for work."

Seventy-nine percent favored improving the present welfare system over creating a new one.

Only eight percent of the respondents assessed the work of Congress this year as "excellent" or "good," with 35 percent rating the value they get from their tax dollars as "fair" and 59 percent as "poor."

An overwhelming 95 percent rated Congress as "fair" or "poor" on dealing with national energy problems.

While only 31 percent said we have made "great" or "good" progress in improving the quality of the environment, 65 percent supported relaxing some environmental controls if necessary to ease the nation's economic and energy problems.

Sixty-six percent of the respondents opposed extending the time for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment by state legislatures.

In the area of crime control, 83 percent supported mandatory prison sentences for all crimes committed with a gun. Seventy-two percent favored the death penalty for persons convicted of murder. And 65 percent supported strict control and registration of handguns.

"I'm extremely pleased by the tremendous response to this year's questionnaire," the Thiensville congressman said. "The views of my constituents are important, and are of great value in directing my efforts on their behalf."

Pat Rusch, Candidate For State Assembly To Visit Kewaskum

Pat Rusch, candidate for State Assembly, started her effort of visiting every neighborhood by election day, so she can get to know the voters.

She has already visited several communities and will be going door-to-door in Kewaskum on Thursday, August 10.

Pat believes that the large time commitment needed to visit every neighborhood is necessary to be an effective state representative. She hopes that by going door-to-door, she will be able to learn first-hand which problems are important to constituents.

Indians Edged by Random Lake In Sectional Pitcher's Duel, 2-1

After West Bend West had disposed easily of Grafton, 8-0, in the opening game, Random Lake edged Kewaskum, 2-1, in a tight pitcher's duel in the second contest of the WIAA Sectional Baseball Tournament at Regner Park in West Bend Thursday evening.

Then in the Sectional final Friday night the West Spartans shut out Random Lake by a lopsided 12-0 margin to gain a berth in the State Tournament, also at West Bend, this week. In the game against Kewaskum the night before, the Rams played good defensive ball, while in the West tilt Friday they committed 10 errors. Too bad it wasn't the other way around. West went on to win their State Tourney opener Tuesday, defeating Brookfield Central.

The 2-1 score by which Random Lake shaded the Indians Thursday was the same margin Kewaskum beat Campbellsport in the Regional final here Monday evening, also 2-1.

Rams ace Wayne Rassel, who led them to the Central Lakeshore Conference championship this year, and the Indians' Mark Tessar hooked up in a real mound duel in the Sectional. Kewaskum finished last in the Scenic Moraine. Rassel gave up only two hits (by Steve Muench and John Bemis) and Tessar checked the Rams on three (two by Stuerwald and one by Rassel). But Tessar had nine strikeouts to Rassel's five. Rassel gave up just one walk to Tessar's four. The Indians were hitting the ball but into the ground and right at somebody.

The Rams' first run, which later provided the winning margin, should never have scored in the second inning. Brook White walked and after several near successful pickoff attempts by pitcher Tessar, the last one of which seemed to have him nailed (but the umpire called him safe), White stole second when the catcher's throw went into centerfield. White kept running and when the throw from the outfield was wide of the plate he scored.

Kewaskum's only run came in the top of the fourth. Bemis was safe on a Ram error and advanced to second on an infield out. With two out, Muench singled and when the throw from the outfield got past the catcher Bemis trotted home.

The Rams' last and winning run was scored in the fifth. There were two outs and Craig Bauer was on second base after a fielder's choice and a headlong dive stolen base. Rassel then hit a ground ball single right where the Kewaskum second baseman had been playing before he made a move to cover the runner on second. The throw from outfielder Tim Perkins was wide of the plate and Bauer limped across home plate after injuring himself running. After touching home he collapsed and a West Bend ambulance was summoned to take him to the hospital. It was believed he suffered a hip injury.

Tessar didn't allow a hit until the fourth inning and didn't allow a ball to be hit out of the infield until Rassel's single.

The Indians had an opportunity to tie the game in the seventh. Muench reached first on an error and then pinch runner Joel Herriges advanced to second and third on a wild pitch and passed ball. But Rassel got Ross Krautkramer on a strikeout and Mike Pettit grounded out on a close play at first to end the game.

Junior Tourney Held at Hon-E-Kor

A 54 hole medal junior tournament was held at Hon-E-Kor Country Club recently with over 30 boys participating. After 36 holes, the boys were placed in flights for the last day of golfing, which determined final standings.

Dave Lemler of West Bend won the championship division with a three-day total of 237. Kewaskum's Scott Rohlinger finished second with a 240 total, while third place went to Bill Kern with 244. Kern won in sudden death over Jeff Josten for third place.

In the second flight, Dan Dean was the winner with a 269. He was four strokes ahead of Jeff Wiczynski with 273, while Fred Kandel was third with 274.

The third flight was won by Scott Zettel with a 306, one shot better than Scott Nigh. Dave Whelan wound up third with a 310.

Plans are underway to make this tourney an annual event.

Eichstedt's 31 Ties Course Record

Clark Eichstedt of Kewaskum turned in a record-tying 31 on the front nine at Hon-E-Kor Country Club Saturday. He was playing in a foursome with Jerry Allen and Mike O'Connor, Jr. of West Bend and Chuck McClain of Kewaskum.

Although his driving wasn't his best, "Ike" had pinpoint iron play enroute to the low round. He started out with a birdie on No. 1, was even par after three holes and one under after six. Then he got hot with birdies on the last three holes. Eichstedt finished the 18 hole round at 67, having a one over par 36 on the back nine.

The course record was first set by Jeff Koth, former Kewaskum High standout and Valparaiso University graduate.

Clark starred in four sports while at Kewaskum High and graduated from St. Norbert College, where he captained the varsity basketball team his senior year. He is thinking about going back to England this year to promote a basketball clinic while serving as a player-coach for the National Panasonics in Plymouth, England.

First he will compete in the Hon-E-Kor club championship, Wisconsin State Open Golf

Meet, and the Washington County tournament here.

He and McClain recently qualified for the Open at the Brown County course in Green Bay. McClain shot a three over par 75 and was in second place after the second round of the State Amateur Golf Meet. "Ike" qualified with a 76. The cutoff was 79.

It was another heartbreaker for the Campbellsport II Senior girls. The game was tied at 5 after the regulation 7 innings. Kewaskum scored 2 runs in the top of the ninth to go 2 up. Campbellsport had a runner at first with one out when Jeanne Carpenter hit an apparent triple. The ball was relayed from the shortstop to the third baseman and went through her hands but in a tremendous defensive backup was caught by the left fielder, Cathy Schlice, who then tagged out Carpenter, who was heading for home, for the 2nd out.

There were other good defensive plays as Kewaskum held Campbellsport to 6 runs on 17 hits. Earlier in the season Campbellsport II lost to Boltonville 6 to 5, also in 9 innings.
