Sport Shop Opens Here

Jerry and Patricia Geidel of Kewaskum have purchased the former Village Store and living quarters from Karl and Ann Fee, owners, and are opening a sport shop in the building.

Jerry and his partner, Roger Groeschel, are opening the Village Sport Shop at 334 Main Street on Friday evening, September 29.

The store will handle primarily hunting and fishing equipment. Guns, ammunition, bows and some camping and fishing supplies will be available this fall. In the spring, the store will have a complete line of fishing equipment as well as tennis rackets, baseball and softball supplies, etc.

Roger, an experienced gunsmith, will do service work at the store. He has 15 years experience in that field, having done service work at his home. Jerry is a custom rod builder.

He has built all his own rods and others for friends the past several years.

Tentative hours will be Monday and Friday, 9-9; Wednesday and Thursday, 9-6, and Saturday, 8-5. Closed Tuesday and Sunday.

Jerry and Roger hope to supply the community's sporting goods needs and will be open to suggestions from the public.

Karl and Ann Fee, former owners of the Village Store, have moved to New Fane on Mill Road where they will continue their antique business in their home. The Fees purchased the store in 1975 from Charles Miller, who conducted an electric and photography business for many years until his retirement.

The new owners invite the public to stop in and visit them in their new business venture.

School Board Accepts Gasoline Bid

By TAMI EDGAR
Statesman Staff Writer

Monday night's meeting had the School Board looking at the bids for gasoline again. The question was whether the motion had been to accept the Strobel bid, or a motion which indicated the low bid. This motion resulted from a change made at the September 19 meeting at which time the Shefond bid was rescinded because of a misunderstanding on what the bid included.

A motion was then made to rescind the motion of September 19 to accept the low bid and to accept the bid of Strobel Oil Co. gasoline for 1978-79. The vote went with five members in favor and Gessner and Theusch voting "no."

The bus committee will assess the problem and report to the board involving the pick up at a babysitter's home.

The board also discussed the question of cheerleaders participation in a sport during the same season. No action was taken on the matter.

The board approved having all complaints of violations of training rules in the athletic code be submitted in writing, signed, time and place of violation being reported. Also approved was the fall auditing of student enrollment.

The first reading of Policy # 5113.2 - Attendance - Full-time Students was defined as follows: 1. High school students must be scheduled for at least three and one-half units per year. College credits being taken and school supervised work experience programs may be used toward fulfillment of the minimum program. 2. Middle School students must be scheduled for at least 4-1/2 units per year. 3. Elementary schools must be scheduled for the full day program, kindergarten students for 1/2 day. 4. EEN students may have less than a minimum program if M-Team prescribed.

The CETA project application for the continuation of a custodial and library aide position was approved by the board.

The long term disability program was discussed but no action was taken. A letter is requested from companies making proposals indicating coverage and will be retroactive to October 1, 1978. The board will review this issue at the October 16 meeting.

Policy # 3326.1 on check signatures was read and approved by the board. It indicates who is authorized to sign specific checks.

Parents planning to move to the district have asked to have their children enroll in Kewaskum schools now. The board accepted the requests based on tuition requirements as stated in the Wisconsin Statute, understanding that tuition will be charged if residence is not established as required by the statute.

NOT JUST FOR WEDDINGS

Rice is one of our most versatile foods. It is served for all dishes from soup through dessert. Besides being so versatile, it is economical and convenient. There are several types of rice available on your supermarket's shelf. White rice is either long grain or short grain. The long grain is most often used in salads, with meat combinations such as curry or with Chinese dishes. The short grain white rice is used best for casseroles and puddings. It cooks to a moist, less flaky texture. Brown rice is not polished and only the hull or husk has been removed. It has a firmer texture and a nutty flavor.

Instant, minute, or pre-cooked rice is cooked and then dehydrated. It is ready to serve in a few minutes after the kernels have been rehydrated.

The converted or parboiled rice is long grain rice processed to retain natural vitamins and minerals.

Wild rice isn't a rice at all. It is the seed of a shallow water grass that grows in the Marshes of Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Rice can be cooked in liquids other than water. Some possibilities are chicken broth, beef broth, orange juice, tomato juice and milk.

An old fashioned rice pudding recipe calls for baking the rice in milk.

- 1 cup white rice uncooked
- 1 quart milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 3 Tablespoons butter
- 1-1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/3 cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in baking dish. Preheat oven to 350° for two hours or until set. It is desirable to stir the rice once or twice during the baking period. Serves six.

Stress is a normal, even healthy part of living. But we may get so keyed up by work or worry that we can't relax and let down. We then may need to work off our tensions with enjoyable physical activity, or talk out our troubles with a sympathetic friend, doctor, or religious adviser. To avoid tension-producing worry, be involved in more than one activity--this avoids deep disappointment in any one area. Being involved in worthwhile activities with other people helps to defeat feelings of depression or isolation with our own problems.

50 Years Ago

September 29, 1928

The village board last week took an option on a strip of land upon which the water tower for the city waterworks will be erected. The strip of land, 100 x 260 feet in dimension, will be purchased from August Bilgo, Jr., and is located east of the Kewaskum Aluminum factory and a little ways north of the high school building.

Glenway Wescott, well known author, formerly of Kewaskum, has completed his latest story, "Good Bye Wisconsin." The book is a collection of remarkably fine short stories by a young American writer whose promise indicates that he has scarcely scratched the surface of his potentialities.

By special order of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission, the hunting season on rabbits in 16 counties of Wisconsin, including Washington County, will not open until the first of November.

Mrs. Herman Schaefer, nee Malinda Guth, died on Wednesday, September 26, of peritonitis following a Caesarian operation.

The marriage of Miss Golda

Seefeld, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seefeld of Beechwood, and Charles Schemmel, son of Mrs. Augusta Schemmel of Batavia, took place on Saturday evening in Beechwood.

Ray Krahn of Beechwood had a silo filling bee on Friday. Henry Fick of New Fane is filling his silo the modern way—with a 5 H.P. electric motor on a 16-inch Gehl cutter and has plenty of power.

The Kewaskum Hardware and Electric Company has revised the barn of Charles Garbisch with galvanized conduit and new wire and is installing a hot water heating system, complete plumbing system with automatic pumps and also a Pascoe oil burner for Charles Garbisch's new heating system.

Bend.

Animals will be brought from the society's shelter, located at 3650 Hwy. 60 in Slinger to the mall for display. The animals displayed will be changed at intervals.

Members of the Holy Hill Dog Club will be present throughout the fair, not only to demonstrate how quickly these animals will respond to basic training, when properly taught, but to answer any training problems you may have with your pet.

Free literature will be available on request, as well as applications and information for interested parties about joining the dog club or humane society.

Spectators may register at the pet fair for door prizes. There will be 10 door prizes given at the completion of the event: 5 cases of Mighty Dog beef and 5 cases of Friskies Buffet. Winner need not be present at the time of the drawing.

The fair will be in progress on Friday, September 29, from 2:00 p.m. until closing and from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, September 30.

MYTHICAL CREATURES OF WISCONSIN

Among the best known mythical animals in Wisconsin were those reported by the lumberjacks, miners, and their romantic followers. Bed-cats were descendants of the original bed-bugs that once infested the miners' cabins in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. When the mines were deserted, they attached themselves to bob-cats, grew fur to stay alive in the wintertime, and learned to run the woods with their hosts. Trappers occasionally caught them, noticed that they looked like bob-cats except they had more legs. There was a lively market for their pelts in Superior and Hurley where women, intrigued by both the name of Bed-cat and the warmth of the fur, used the pelts to trim their nightgowns.

The most famous mythical creature in Wisconsin is the Hodag, a prehistoric creature resembling a dinosaur with the body of an ox and the tail of an alligator. Along its back were sharply pointed spines. Gene Shepard of Rhinelander captured one at the turn of the century, using white bulldogs as bait, and exhibited it at county fairs. The Milwaukee Journal reported on this amazing news event and it is said that the Smithsonian Institution was interested in this creature.

Unfortunately, a fire destroyed the creature so the scientific world was not able to prove the Hodag's authenticity. Hodags were reported in Minnesota logging camps in the same period, but these may have been a sub-species. A replica of the Hodag may be purchased in Rhinelander today (made in Japan!) and a statue to this noble creature stands in front of the Rhinelander Museum. One question remains: If the Hodag was a hoax, then why are there not more white bulldogs in northern Wisconsin today?

In a number of bars in northern Wisconsin hangs the Jackalope, a cross between the antelope and the jackrabbit, and many a fight has occurred over the issue of its authenticity. This creature was first reported in 1829 in Wyoming, but it has moved eastward as well as westward over the years. A statue stands in its memory in Douglas, Wyoming. Mounted Jackalopes are available in both Tioga, Pennsylvania, and Hong Kong. The Douglas Chamber of Commerce issues a non-resident hunting license for Jackalope hunting which authorizes shooting between midnight and 2 a.m. on June 31. The taking of two-tailed Jackalopes is prohibited. Jackalope milk is also sold, claiming to be richer "in Vitamin P than beer or watermelon," and is to be kept away from office girls and waitresses.

The Splinter cat that once frequented the pineries looked like a porcupine "with its spines running the wrong way." Its head was shaped like a maul; it had the hind legs of a jackrabbit that enabled it to jump over logs and streams, and a body the size of a six-week old calf. But it had one great weakness—it had a sweet tooth that caused it to seek honey wherever it could be found.

If the bees had hidden their honey inside a tree—out of reach of the Splinter Cat—it went raving mad, climbed into a nearby tree and then sprang against the tree with all its might. Its head was a battering ram that often shattered the tree into a million pieces. Then the animal ate its fill. Since it roamed only during thunderstorms, lumberjacks often said as they listened to the thunder, "The Splinter Cats are sure out tonight." Why did they disappear? It is believed that the honey bees migrated out of the pineries into the hardwood forests, and that the Splinter Cats simply dashed their brains out against these large trees. Is that why there are so many fallen and shattered trees in the Wisconsin forests today?

Among the Chippewa Indians there is a legend about a giant cannibal, the Windigo, that once roamed the forest sending out thunderbolts from its twisted jaws and hungering for human flesh. It is believed that some Indians who had to eat human flesh to survive the long winters also became Windigos. Mothers quieted their children by saying, "Hush, or the Windigo will get you." Trappers and fishermen in the Great Lakes still say, when they see strange tracks in remote areas, "the Windigo has been here."

Mermaids and Sirens

These lovely creatures have been reported ever since lonely men first went out to sea. They have the bust and facial features of beautiful women and the lower body of a fish, and usually inhabit rocky islands where they lure men into the great unknown. Columbus saw one in the West Indies. Henry

"The Dingbat" reputedly snatches bullets from the air in deer season and drinks gasoline out of parked cars.

with the black race. He ran for his gun but was prevented from shooting by the Indian woman who was in the party. She called the creature, "God of the Water and Lakes."

Sasquatch and Other Ape-like Creatures

Throughout history there have been reports of ape-like creatures that seemed to be a missing link in the evolution of man or apes. The most convincing evidence that has been found are the numerous footprints scattered all the way from British Columbia to Northern California. Wisconsin has also had its own ape-man. Deer hunters near Fremont reported such a sighting in 1969. Residents of the Weyerhaeuser area in northern Wisconsin hear from time to time the "whistling screams" of a nocturnal creature whom they affectionately call "The Screecher."

Summary

These examples of American mythical creatures are quite different from many of the dragons and werewolf types that frequented Europe. Most of the American creatures are lovable; a few are ferocious but never hurt anybody. Most of them have been born of the need to explain something, and in so doing, make a tall tale of it.

The Sasquatch is in a different category than the Hodag and the Goofus Bird, for its identity is believed by many people who constantly seek evidence of its existence, while the Hodag will always be a good tall tale about the "lumberwoods."

burg.

For 10 years of leadership the gold clover award was presented to Delbert Boehlke of Cedarburg, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Desterhofs of Germantown, Mrs. Laverne Doll and Mrs.

Darlene Rauh of West Bend, Bonnie Schmidt, Lois Schmidt and Eldon Wulff of Kewaskum.

A 5 year Silver Clover pin was presented to Mrs. Sandy Depies, Ewan Glass, Cheryl Grosso, David Hein, Mrs. Hilbert Kertscher, Kathleen Kohlwey, Robert Kurth, Norvin Lehman, Mrs. Nathan Nigh, Mrs. Allen Schulz, Mrs. Sandy Semler, Mrs. Barbara Shaw, Stanley Shaw, Betty Vollrath, Mrs. Joseph Werner, Mrs. Jerome Wertz, Mrs. Edward Wolf, Mrs. Bonnie Yahr and Gordon Wilhelm.

At their annual meeting and banquet, new directors were elected for 2 year terms. One adult and one youth leader is elected from each area. Those elected from the Kewaskum/Wayne area were Joyce Harvancik and Billie Jo Clark; from the West Bend area, Mrs. Jerry Prochnow and Lori Willkomm; the Hartford/Slinger area, Sue Schmidt and Laurie Krantz, and from the Germantown/Jackson area, Mary Lynn Prost and Tim Indermuehle. The Board of Directors will elect officers and appoint committees for conducting 4-H activities for the coming year.

Dixie Hesler, State Youth Development Specialist, addressed the group with the theme "Family + 4-H = Fun and Learning." She pointed out many ways in which parents and others in the family can work together with 4-H members on many of their 4-H activities right at home. Although there are many opportunities for 4-H activities away from the home, there should also be many opportunities provided by the family for 4-H activities in the home.

Carol, 5036 Hwy. D, West Bend, is a member of the Good Luck 4-H club.

Former U.S. Olympic star Jesse Owens will address the 175 delegates and 30 leaders on opening night for the second year in a row.

Crawford County 4-H agent Ken Johnson and 4-H leaders Mr. and Mrs. Joie Skarda will represent Wisconsin 4-H leaders at the conference.

Delegates are selected to attend the conference for their activities in 4-H dairy projects and are awarded expense paid trips to the conference by state dairy industry and breed organizations.

During the conference delegates will meet with dairy and breed scientists and industry representatives to discuss dairy management and marketing and learn about careers in the dairy industry.

KEWASKUM'S AFS STUDENTS

Jorge Cazal

Jorge Cazal, AFS exchange student from Paraguay, South America, is staying with the Richard Schilter family, Midland Drive, Allenton. He is attending Kewaskum High School with his American brother, Henry, who is currently a junior. He likes to be called by his nickname "Koki."

Jorge is from Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay. Asuncion has about 500,000 people and he says the buildings are not as large as Milwaukee's. Temperatures range from 35 degrees F to 100 degrees F. They get very little snow. Paraguay shares borders with Brazil, Argentine and Bolivia.

Jorge is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Cazal and has one brother, Francisco. His father works in a soap factory and his mother is a housewife.

In Paraguay, Jorge attends the Colegion Nacional de la Capital, an all boys school with 3,600 students. School starts in March and runs until November which is their winter. The school day starts at 7:00 a.m. and ends at 11:30 a.m. Jorge said the difference in schools was a big surprise. Here the students go from classroom to classroom but in his country the teachers change rooms.

The majority of the people are mestizo. The government is Democratic with their President being General Alfredo Stroesner. They must be 18 to vote and to acquire a driver's license. The official language is Spanish and people also speak English and Guarani, an Indian language. The money unit is Guarani; (126 guarani = $1.00).

Asuncion manufactures shoes textiles, and has a Coca-Cola plant. In rural areas they raise cows, horses, pigs, and grow watermelon, oranges, mandarins and bananas.

Paraguay has professional basketball, soccer and volleyball teams. Jorge enjoys basketball and volleyball the most.

For recreational pleasure he likes fishing a large fish called the Surubi. He likes to read best sellers and go to movies, which include many American films. He collects stamps and likes to listen to music. His favorite American groups are Kansas and Boston, also a famous Paraguayan group called "Aftermad's" which have appeared in concerts and TV in the United States.

Two favorite dances in their country are the Paraguay Polka, which is similar to our polka, and the Guarania, a slow dance.

Discotheques are popular with the young people. He likes playing his guitar and Paraguayan harp.

Hamburgers and pizza are his favorite American foods. His native food favorites are chipagazu (corn pudding) and sopa paraguaya.

On his return to Paraguay, he will attend college to study civil engineering.

AFS student, Edgardo Carranzo from El Salvador, is staying with his American family, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Dettmann of Bolton Drive, Kewaskum. Edgardo is attending Kewaskum High School with host brother John, a senior, and Julie, a freshman.

El Salvador, Central America, borders with Honduras, Guatemala, and the Pacific Ocean temperature ranges from 77 degrees F to 90 degrees F. It has many lakes and mountains but due to the temperature Edgardo has never seen snow. The population of El Salvador is larger than Milwaukee.

Edgardo's home town is San Vicente where he lives with his mother, Juana, and sisters Elsa and Griselda. His mother owns a store in which she sells food, vegetables, clothes and medicine.

Edgardo attends a Technical Institute in San Salvador (the capital) at which time he lives with his aunt and uncle. Schools consist of six years of elementary education and three years of high school. After Edgardo returns to El Salvador, he will attend a college to study electrical engineering. Their winter from February to October is also their school year. The day starts at 7:00 a.m. and ends at 3:00 p.m. He said the school's are similar except that in his country there aren't any study halls.

President Romero leads the Democratic government of El Salvador. The monetary unit of the country is a colon; (2.50 colons = $1.00). The majority of the people are mestizo. The United States and Japan have built industries in El Salvador. Textiles, shoes and Coca-Cola are manufactured.

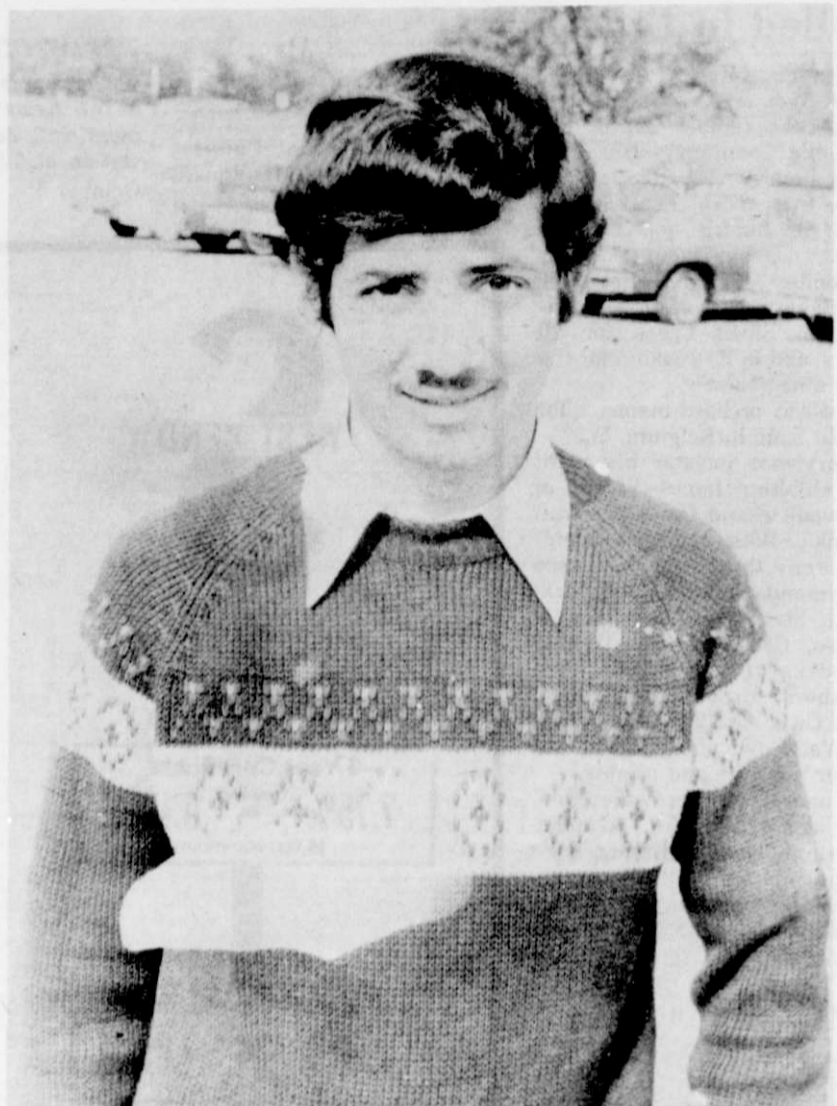

The rural areas raise cows, cucumbers, watermelon, pumpkin, fruit trees, balsum, coconut and medicinal trees. Pine trees are grown only in large cities in the wealthy areas. He said you can start driving at any age, but there isn't much need for a car.

El Salvador has basketball and futbol (soccer) as the countries professional sports. Edgardo enjoys soccer, swimming, baseball, track and running.

In his spare time he likes to collect stamps, read science fiction, fish, hunt, camp and enjoys music. The Country's famous musical group is Hermanos Flores. (Flower Brothers). He speaks Spanish, English and Japanese.

He said that every house in San Salvador has cats and dogs but his favorite is the horse.

Edgardo would like to go to Japan and study electrical engineering. He also wishes to return to the United States some day.

Indians Jump Off to 14-0 Lead Over Grafton's Champs But Lose

The way the schedule was set up, Kewaskum had to face probably the two best teams in the conference in their first two games and after losing to Germantown the week before, the Indians were defeated again by Grafton here Friday night, 26-14.

However, the surprising Indians stunned Grafton with two quick scores in the first quarter to take a 14-0 lead over the Blackhawks, defending Scenic Moraine champions, and runnerup in last year's Class A state playoffs. Grafton and Germantown, both undefeated, will clash this Saturday afternoon at Grafton in a game that could very well decide the conference championship.

Kewaskum's 14-0 lead was fun while it lasted, the only problem was it didn't last long. It took the Indians just two possessions to score the game's first two touchdowns, but the Blackhawks then scored the final four touchdowns for the win.

Rod Schultz got the Indians started right off when he returned the opening kickoff from his own 15-yard line almost to midfield for good position. After three plays, an offside penalty gave Kewaskum a first down. Two plays later quarterback Joe Herriges broke loose on a 30-yard option play to give the Indians a first down on Grafton's five. A two-yard loss, penalty and incomplete pass left Kewaskum with fourth down and 12. On a flea-flicker play Herriges handed off to Paul Bremser, who in turn handed off to Schultz, who found Scott Brendemuhl in the end zone for the TD. A catch by Schultz was good for the two point conversion, 8-0.

Kewaskum's defense held Grafton for two downs and then the offense got going again. Fullback Mike Pettit went off tackle, broke two or three tackles, and got into the clear on a 60-yard run for the second score, 14-0.

Grafton finally got their wishbone started for their first touchdown in the second quarter on a 60-yard drive with fullback John Brewster going in for the score. The defense held the Indians and later in the same quarter the Blackhawks got their second touchdown, again on a Brewster run. Both kicks for extra points failed and it was 14-12 Kewaskum at halftime.

The Indians lost a key player at halftime. Guard and linebacker John Bemis was suffering from double vision and attendants of the local rescue squad suggested he discontinue playing for the night. Bemis, who had an outstanding first half, was sorely missed as Grafton's two platooning began to wear the Indians down.

In the third quarter Grafton began a long 84-yard, 17-play scoring drive which consumed much time and on the second play of the last quarter, quarterback Greg Merchen scored from the four-yard line. Then he hit Paul Schlect for the two-point conversion to give the Hawks the lead for the first time, 20-14.

Kewaskum went to a shotgun offense the rest of the way but it backfired. One of the snaps went over quarterback Herriges' head and Jeff Kotes recovered for Grafton on the Indians' 22. Following a 15-yard penalty, three plays later John Lieven got free for a 26-yard score around end.

This Friday the Indians hit the road to Kettle Moraine for a contest between two winless teams.

Indian Girls Beat Owls, Cardinals in Volleyball; Now 5-0

The Kewaskum girls' volleyball team was still unbeaten after winning over Slinger here last Tuesday, 15-6, 15-2, 12-15.

After winning the first two games, Coach Mary Lawson took the starters out for the third one, the only game the Indian girls lost.

The coach had three seniors and three juniors in the starting lineup: Denise Menzel, Pam Kempf, Tami Edgar, Diane Bremser, Tracey Schleit and Janet Matenaer. Bremser played very well.

Kewaskum's JV's won all three games but Slinger's freshmen took two games to KHS' one.

Playing at Mayville Thursday the Kewaskum varsity won again, 15-0, 15-0, 15-5.

The Cardinals had trouble returning serves against KHS. The first two games went fast and reserves finished the third.

The win gives the Indian girls a 3-0 Scenic record and 5-0 overall.

The JV's also won all three games.

On Monday Kewaskum traveled to North Fond du Lac and Tuesday they hosted Kettle Moraine for Parents' Night.

Kewaskum Girls, Fond du Lac Boys Win Hartford Cross Country Invite

In the Hartford Invitational cross country meet held last Tuesday afternoon at Hartford Country Club, the Kewaskum girls and the Fond du Lac boys won the championship trophies.

Slinger's Cathy Branta took top individual honors among about 90 girls. Her 13:44 time for two miles was far out in front. Barb Wilson led the Kewaskum girls with a third place and Laurie Wilson's 7th place also was a strong factor, followed by Julann Zemlicka's 10th, Mary Kougl 13th, Sherry Squier 14th and Laura Asch 29th.

In the boys' meet Kewaskum placed 10th. Dick Kleinmann's 36th was best for the Indian.

Medals were awarded to the top 10 and area schools were well represented there.

Girl Golfers Beat Brookfield Central's State Champions and West Bend West

In a triangular meet held at Hon-E-Kor here Thursday under wet conditions, the Kewaskum High School girls' golf team came in with a fine 212 winning total.

West Bend West came in second with 227, largely as a result of Linda Schuetz' 50, and steady scoring by their other three golfers. Brookfield Central, last year's state champions in golf, were third with 243.
