Kiwanis Recognizes Two Farm Families

Roy Esser, Robert Kirchner, Mrs. Howard Kirchner, Howard Kirchner

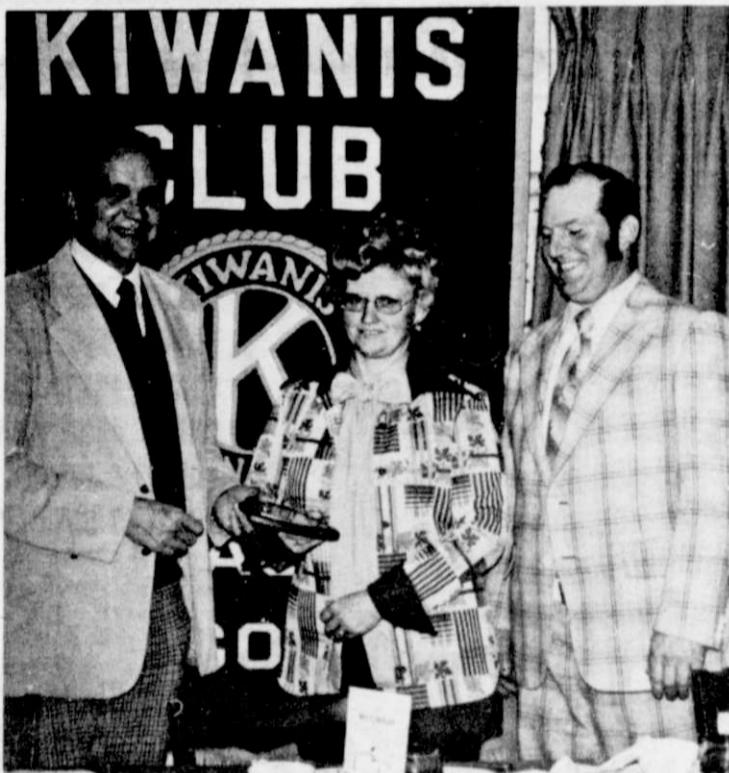

The Kewaskum Kiwanis Club recognized two farm families for their excellent job in conservation on their farms at their November 13 meeting at the Wigwam. The families honored were Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kirchner and their son Robert.

The Petersons have been involved and cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service since 1965. They have 191 acres in conservation cropping, 33 acres in contour strips, 21,114 feet of tile drains, 5 acres of wildlife and 29 acres of minimum tillage in 1978 plus other conservation practices. They are dairy farmers.

The Kirchners started in 1975 with 63 acres of field strip, 3,255 feet of grass waterways, and 17 acres of pasture management. They also are dairy farmers and have a complete program of conservation with the Soil Conservation Service.

The Kiwanis Club started this program of recognition as part of their Farm City Week program. The program began in 1958 through the cooperative effort of Orv Behnke, high school ag teacher, and Harold Ryan, soil conservation agent. The following farmers have been recognized over these 21 years:

1958 — Edmund Thull, Louis Oppenorth.
1959 — Edgar Miske, Roman Foerster.
1960 — Allen Reindl, Edward Hawig.
1961 — Lee Becker, Ray Schaefer.

1965 — Paul Pamperin, Leo Bodden.
1966 — Lee Fickler, Hilbert Scheunemann.
1967 — Bill Thull, Gilbert

Floyd Brenholt, Mrs. Leroy Peterson, Leroy Peterson

Stoffel.
1968 — Harold Westerman, Walter Neumann.
1969 — Leland Schaub, Carl Schultz.
1970 — Orin Kirchner, Leo Resciff.
1971 — Orv Reysen, Jerry and Al Stoffel.
1972 — Ed and Harvey Klumb, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Theusch.
1973 — Alvin Panzer, Bob Melzer.
1974 — Joe Matenaer, Howard Proeber.
1975 — Harry and Ken Ramthun, Art and Dennis Terlinden.
1976 — Art Pamperin, Roland Nickel.
1977 — Allen Schultz, Jim Degnitz.
1978 — Leroy Peterson, Howard and Robert Kirchner.
The program for the evening consisted of a slide presentation and talk by Vickie Vine, coordinator of the Local Watershed Problem Studies of Cesa 16. She talked of the need for communication and understanding between urban and rural people and the common problem of conservation of soil and the need for clear water. She is involved in a project of helping teachers of Washington and Waukesha counties develop curriculum for the study of local conservation problems.

Floyd Brenholt, president of the Kiwanis Club presented both families with a plaque in recognition of their fine efforts in conservation.

Dan Kurer of the Soil Conservation Service was a guest of the club and a member of the selection committee.

Math Curriculum Again Questioned At Monday's School Board Meeting

By TAMI EDGAR
Statesman Staff Writer

The math curriculum was again questioned at Monday night's School Board meeting. The board had been in a closed meeting prior to the regular meeting.

Connie Zemlicka was present as spokesperson to comment on the implementation of the math curriculum. She commented that the teacher is the best judge of the most appropriate methods for the class. The math methods of teaching have worked because math tests show that most Kewaskum students are above average. The scheduling of such a plan will have all other subjects revolving around the math schedule, making it the priority subject.

The plan previously adopted required all teachers to teach math at the same time each day. This wouldn't work here. This system leaves very little individual differences in students or in the staff. The plan would have math lasting 1½ hours at the expense of reading time on the first grade level. It was felt that at this grade level the priority should be for reading.

The board inquired on how this issue came up. Zemlicka replied that several elementary teachers expressed their concern to her on the math curriculum. The board wanted to

40 Heifers Lost In Barn Fire On Haack Farm

Fire destroyed over 40 head of dairy heifers early Monday morning, November 6, on the Karl Haack farm, located on Forest View Drive off of Hwy. D at the Sheboygan-Fond du lac county line.

The flames leveled the 36 by 78-foot barn in which the animals were housed. Also lost in the fire were 4,000 bales of hay, a mow full of straw and a hay wagon.

The Beechwood Fire Department responded to the call at 12:55 a.m. Batavia and Boltonville firemen were called in to assist. Damage was estimated at $30,000.

BOLTONVILLE FIREMEN CALLED OUT TWO TIMES

The Boltonville Fire Department had two early morning fire calls on Sunday, according to Washington County Sheriff's Department records.

One fire was at 2:36 a.m. at 9311 Windy Acres Road, Kewaskum, where a space above a garage was reported on fire. The second was at 3:52 a.m. to 1814 State 144 in the Town of Farmington, where there was a chimney fire.

find out why questions weren't raised before action was taken and now all the questions are brought up.

Problems on contract learning were also raised. Secor said the plan stated that contracts are strongly discouraged but no statements were made that contracts were out. The matter was tabled until the November 27 meeting.

The question on the sale of typewriters was that several persons have shown interest in the purchasing of these typewriters. The bids were already closed and the remaining four machines were to be held for dealer bids. The board felt these requests would be unfair to the people who had already bid on machines so they decided to go to dealer bids.

The board voted down reimbursing the teacher of arts and crafts program offered at Wayne after school, and for the paying of mileage for supervision for obtaining a speech certificate.

The purchasing of an amplifier for the High School Music Department for $389 was approved by the board. The board also approved the purchasing of a planer and milling machine for the high school shop department.

The planer would receive a $700 trade-in, therefore costing $2300, which is within the budget limits. The new machine would cut down on the current noise. Purchasing of the milling machine, used for shaping metals, was granted for when the department finds an appropriate machine.

Schoofs Completes

Evinrude Course

Tom S. Schoofs has just returned from Milwaukee, where he completed an intensified two-cycle training course at the Evinrude Motors Factory Service School. Schoofs, who lives at Kewaskum is Service Technician for Laubenstein Lawn and Garden Mart, the local Evinrude dealership.

Because of the many technical advances, modern outboard motors are sophisticated machines, employing the latest improvements, such as C.D. Ignition, Pressure Pulse Tuning, Loop Charging and Hydro-Electric Shifting.

With these advancements, the caliber of technician must also improve and it's no wonder that those who successfully complete the course receive a Service School Diploma and their I.D. cards list them as "Service Masters."

While attending the factory school, the master technician is taught a thorough understanding of two-cycle engine theory, and given classroom and practical workbench experience.

TO THE EDITOR:

In observance of American Education Week, I would like to urge each resident of your school district to take a moment to evaluate the direction and importance of our public schools.

I assure you that Wisconsin's 2800 school board members are well aware of the criticisms directed at elementary and secondary schools: declining test scores, lack of discipline, higher costs for fewer students. When the football team doesn't win, we hear about that, too.

We'd like to eliminate every complaint. But the plain truth is that we don't fully control some of the decisions that affect our schools.

Take costs, for instance. Your property tax payment is one of our main concerns. We know we owe it to you to hold the line. And we try to.

But we also have to comply with the state and federal mandates for programs and services that didn't exist a few years ago. We must constantly identify educational needs, and often take the initiative in meeting them or risk having additional rules imposed on us. We have to recognize contractual commitments to employees unions. There are court decisions, single issue pressures, inflation and other factors that sometimes sidetrack our aim to provide the best possible education at a reasonable cost.

What it comes down to is that in many areas we can do no more than vigilantly guard your right to a full dollar's value for every dollar spent.

We are committed to that, and to maintaining your input in local education. In a recent Gallup poll, the public expressed confidence in the local level decision making of school boards. We appreciated that.

It's part of community pride in education - yours and ours.

Sincerely,

Ruth C. Schmidt, President
Wis. Assn. of School Boards

Junior Women Say Thanks

Thank you was the main order of the evening at the Kewaskum Juniors meeting on November 9. Style show co-chairmen Carol Zimmer and Donna Danielsen and all of the Juniors wish to thank everyone from businesses to newspapers to models for the tremendous help that was given to make the past style show a success. Without the support of the community and surrounding area, the Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club would not be able to accomplish all that it does.

Dr. Jerold J. Beerends presented a very interesting program on "How TV Affects Our Children." Dr. Beerends' main concern was that television presents ideas before children are old enough to accept and to handle them. It gives many untrue ideas on nutritional values through its commercials and parents should be concerned by the amount of passivity an excess of TV watching creates. On the average, by the time a child graduated from high school, he will have spent 11,000 hours in school and 15,000 hours in front of the television.

As concerned parents, Dr. Beerends says we should be familiar with the programs that are on television. We should choose shows with our children and then view them together to answer any unforeseen questions. (Children under five should view no more than one hour of TV per day). We should write to local and national stations to let our feelings be known. We should all read the book "The Family Guide to Children's TV" by Evelyn Kaye.

The following ladies were installed as new members: Marilyn Brath, Sue Wessing, Kathy Wagner, Kathie Borch, Kathy Kannenberg, Debbie Lettow, Anne Riekkoff, Kris Korth and Chris Sohns.

The Kewaskum Juniors received a special thank you for helping with the United Way.

St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend also expressed their gratitude for the decorated pumpkins at Halloween for the Pediatrics Ward. They brightened the faces and day for several young patients.

WISCONSIN LEGENDARY HEROES — THIRD CLASS

Types of Folk Heroes

The American people have chosen their first-class heroes from the great events that created the Republic and sustained it (American Revolution, Constitution, Civil War) and the Westward Movement that seized and settled the continent. They include Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, possibly Teddy Roosevelt and the Dan Boones, Kit Carsons, and a host of others who fought for the land and occupied it.

States also have their heroes — usually politicians and generals. Wisconsin placed in the Congressional Hall of Fame the French explorer, Marquette, and its great reform governor, Robert LaFollette. They are second class heroes. Each has a legendary existence beyond the historical, and has gone into the memory bank of statehood as much from the oral tradition as from recorded history.

There is a third level of interesting characters about whom legends have arisen. They had regional reputations and in a few cases were known nationally.

They did not lead armies or hold political office, but they gained a following among their fellow citizens in other ways.

The five selected here belong mostly to Northern Wisconsin (and Minnesota in one case). All of them had special gifts that endeared them to the people of their region, making them legendary heroes — third class.

One of the first stories I heard when I came to Wisconsin many years ago was about Indian John, a man who could find drowned bodies when all other attempts failed. Sometimes he was called Fisherman John and sometimes John Jeremy, but the story was always the same. This man had a mysterious power or special talent that enabled him to find bodies in lakes and rivers, and he traveled all over the country pursuing this unusual occupation, for a fee.

In the Wisconsin-Minnesota borderland, the name of Indian John was well known. Described as a French-Canadian in appearance, he had a black beard, uncombed bushy coal-black hair, black piercing eyes, and stood six feet in his stocking feet. It is said that he drank often and heartily and entertained barroom idlers by biting off the stems of liquor glasses and dashing them to the floor.

The legend of Indian John has been many years in the making. It has its origin with John Jeremy, a commercial fisherman living in Stillwater, Minnesota, who once said he got his precious secret from the Sioux Indians. When the old man died in 1918, by his own hand, the secret passed to his son, John, Jr. When John Jr. died without a son, the Stillwater Gazette said that the secret had gone to the grave with him. But this was not the case, according to Jeremy's sister. She said that John Jr.

had called her son, George Thompson, to his bedside and "told him the secret." This 12-year-old nephew was known as Indian John III, and carried on the family business until 1951 when he made his last recovery at Gray's Lake, Iowa.

According to a member of the family, Indian John I "recovered more than 1,000 bodies of drowned persons, and his son recovered at least 500 bodies. I don't know of a case where he failed. He was called to Chicago, to the west coast, to New York, and to every part of the country. And the startling part is that he was never called until every known means of locating the body had been used."

Don Cuskey, a student at the University of Wisconsin-River Falls in 1953, remembered how Indian John made a recovery in Spooner. Two boys had been drowned when their boat turned over and after two days search the bodies had not been found. Someone remembered Indian John, so he was called to help. Local people made snide remarks about the secrecy demanded. Jeremy worked only at night and as he went to his boat, he wore a great coat and seemed to hide something inside. "Of course this was a big joke," says Cuskey, "until the Indian came up with the two bodies."

The Jeremys did nothing to enlighten those who asked what their secret might be, but allowed speculation to take its course. One reporter observed that Indian John was either "possessed" or that there was "some black magic somewhere." The editor of the Stillwater Gazette told this writer that after handling news about the Jeremys for three generations he still "had no workable theory that would explain this uncanny ability to locate drowned bodies."

What did people say about the secret? Some said that it was the method used by Tom Sawyer and Mike Fink of putting quicksilver in a loaf of bread and throwing it out on the water. It would come to rest over the body. Others said the Jeremys used the forked twig as water-witches did, and it would turn down over the body. Some believed that they had a trained muskrat that would locate the body for them. Or did they have a sense of smell which led them to the body?

When asked about their secret, Jeremy would either walk away or say that the gift came from a certain brand of whiskey. Indian John II merely said that if the reporters knew as much about body-finding as he did, they would never have to work again. The grandson, Thompson, once wrote that the secret had never been patented, and let the people speculate as to what it was. Ironic, it is, that the founder of the legend could not swim a stroke, though he spent his life on the water.

One resident of the St. Croix Valley claims that the legend does not rest on any secret, but on a set of dragging hooks which were carried in a gunny-sack and hidden from view as Indian John went to work.

Indian John—the body finder

Regardless, the legend rolls on. It is the most authentic piece of lore in the Upper Midwest. It has a documented record from beginning to end, but the central feature of the legend, the secret, remains as much a mystery as it was 100 years ago.

Dr. John Till, The Plaster Doctor

Back in 1905 the people of the little French-Canadian town of Somerset, Wisconsin, talked of little beyond the "miracle cure" of Mrs. Octave Cloutier. Her infected cheek had been treated by a lumberjack from near Turtle Lake, using his own mysterious medicine, and overnight he was launched on a new career as the "Wonder Healer" or the "Plaster Doctor of Somerset."

John Till had been born in Austria in 1870, and worked for a blacksmith where he learned about folk cures. He came to the lumbercamp via Canada at the age of 28, and was soon practicing medicine on the side. After treating Mrs. Cloutier, he set up shop in their farm home and forsook the work of ax and saw. All patients, regardless of ailment, were treated either with his secret ointment said to contain a mysterious ingredient called 4X or his burning plaster composed of croton oil and kerosene. Patients stood in rows, stripped to the waist, holding a rail while Dr. Till applied plaster from neck to bottom of spine. Cloutier then placed a cotton pad over the plaster and the patient dressed. This was repeated in a week or two.

Trains, buggies, and hacks brought thousands of patients from Minnesota and Wisconsin to Somerset or to the other towns where Till practiced. One patient wrote a song in Dr. Till's honor in 1907.

Picture postcards showing the great man circulated with this little rhyme attached:

John Till—to him we drink, for him we pray,
Our voices silent never;
For him we'll fight, come what may—
John Till and his plaster forever.

There were even tall stories about Till's cures. When a dog had his tail severed, Dr. Till's plaster was applied and soon the dog could wag his tail again.

However, another dog lost his tail and ran off. The piece of tail was taken to Dr. Till. He applied his famous plaster and grew a new dog.

Over the years the Plaster Doctor was plagued by patient's lawsuits and harrassed by the State Medical Board. A Milwaukee patient sued for loss of his right eye. The Stillwater Gazette said in 1907 there had been "so many cases of horrible suffering occasioned by visits to Till that we are ashamed to chronicle them."

Though Till never used the title "Dr." himself, his patients did. He never charged, but his patients dropped money in a bucket on leaving. For these and other activities, he was finally placed in Barron County jail, and given the choice of prosecution or going back to Europe. He chose the latter, departing in 1922. After World War II he quietly returned to the United States, and on July 24, 1947, died while visiting friends at Kiel, Wisconsin.

Did he have a "secret cure" that he had wrested from nature, one that was far beyond what the physicians of his day knew about? Some people still think this was the case, and blame the medical profession for harrying him out of the country. Students have told me that Dr. Till's "secret salve" is still sold from a farm home in Somerset. A St. Paul physician said in court that Till's patients became so absorbed with their aching, blistered backs that they forgot about their stomach disorders and sore joints which had sent them to Till in the first place.

The legends of both Indian John and the Plaster Doctor center on their "secrets," neither of which has ever been divulged. However, there are also legendary heroes in Wisconsin whose reputations rest on other things.

25 Years Ago

November 20, 1953

The first annual live turkey shoot sponsored by the Kewaskum Kiwanis Club at the Bar-N Ranch on Sunday, November 8, was attended by several thousand persons and was an outstanding success.

Mr. and Mrs. Christ Kober, Jr., Kewaskum, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on Sunday, November 15.

The 1953 Wisconsin deer hunting season has been postponed one week due to the dangerous forest fire conditions in northern Wisconsin.

Earl Herriges of Kewaskum was one of seven Washington County men inducted into the armed forces this month.

The new structure 80 feet long, 44 feet wide, has 32 feet of road bed and a sidewalk on each side. Though it required several months to construct, it was built in rapid time considering the delay Yoost and crew had to contend with in digging into the ground for the footings of the abutments and center pier, when they struck a number of springs which required steady pumping from four to five pumps to keep the trenches drained.

Pesticide Applicator Certification Continuing in Washington County

By Jack Trzebiatowski
Washington County
Agricultural Agent

The Pesticide Applicator Certification Program will be continuing in Washington County this fall. The program is scheduled to be held on Thursday, December 14, at the Addison Town Hall in Allenton. The day's activities will get underway with registration at 8:30 a.m., and the program beginning promptly at 9:00 a.m.

Federal law states that all users of restricted use pesticides must be certified to apply them. The Environmental Protection Agency is classifying all pesticide products either as general use or restricted use. Persons using general use products will not need to be certified, but those using restricted use products will.

At the present time there are just a few products on the restricted use list, but additional products will be added in the near future. It's difficult to assume which products may be on the list, but the products that many farmers use throughout the year may end up as restricted use pesticides. Prime candidates are the corn root worm insecticides.

Certification is one way to assure a person that they will always have access to chemicals they may find necessary for pest control. Certification for use of restricted use pesticides is necessary for private applicators, those that apply pesticide products on land owned by them, and for commercial applicators, those that apply pesticide products on property owned by others.

The Pesticide Training Program is also divided into two phases. Phase 1, the general aspects of pest control, will be the program scheduled for December 14. Those persons who will be applying pesticides as a private applicator will also be able to take the Phase 2 program on December 14.

Commercial applicators will have to take a Phase 2 program at a later date that specializes in the area of pesticide products which they intend to use. Phase 2 programs are presently being planned on an area basis around the state. Commercial applicators are encouraged to take their Phase 1 program as soon as possible so they can take advantage of the Phase 2 program that will be scheduled in the near future.

Persons who already have gone through the training session and completed the written evaluation need not take any additional training at this time.

Registration materials and information will be sent to a number of persons who have indicated an interest in the Pesticide Certification Program. At the present time we are not making a general mailing to all farmers in Washington County. If you are interested in attending the Pesticide Certification Program on December 14, please contact the Washington County UE-Extension Office located in Court House Annex No. 2, West Bend, or call 334-3491, 644-5204 or 342-2929, Extension 263 for information.

Registration for this program must be made in advance. Reservations should be made by Tuesday, December 5, 1978. This program will be limited to about 80 persons, and registrations will be taken on a first-come first-served basis.

Course Offered in Cold Weather Safety And Winter Survival

Wisconsin's frigid winter weather can pose problems for travelers and those who work or play outdoors.

"Cold Weather Safety and Winter Survival," a University of Wisconsin-Extension course will be offered over the Educational Telephone Network on Saturday, November 18, from 1:00-2:50 p.m. at the UWWC campus in West Bend.

Larry Monthey, UW-Extension Recreation Resources, will instruct the class.

The course will cover typical cold weather emergencies and injuries, basic survival skills and survival kits for car, backpack, or pocket.

MPTI Coordinators Visit High Schools To Introduce Careers Limited Series

Moraine Park Technical Institute program coordinators visited district high schools the past week to introduce a new CAREERS UNLIMITED SERIES, designed specifically for juniors and seniors to explore vocational/technical education. Ron Hall, Administrator-Community Services Division, announced the initial series would begin in the latter part of January and would consist of classes covering specific career fields offered at the three Moraine Park Campuses.

"We want high school students to be sure they are on the right track in choosing their life's work," said Hall. "Before they pay out any tuition money or invest any time or effort, we want them to experience some of the skills involved in the career field."

Most of the classes are 10 weeks in length, cost $6.50, and are scheduled from 4:00-5:50 p.m. at the Fond du Lac, Beaver Dam and West Bend Campuses.

"With MPTI campuses filled to capacity during the day and evening, only the 4:00-5:50 p.m. period was available," Hall said. "The time frame will also allow students to continue with evening jobs and study."

Hall stressed the CAREERS UNLIMITED SERIES will be taught by MPTI fulltime staff from specific programs covered in the series. "It is important that students have the opportunity to see and utilize MPTI equipment and facilities. The teacher contact and the hands-on instruction will give very good indication of what their training will involve."

The series will emphasize Child Care Assistant, Food Service, Auto Mechanics, Marketing, Auto Body Repair, Public Service Careers, Medical Record Technician, Machine Trades, Computer Programming and Operation, Electricity and Electronics, Food Processing, Agri-Business Careers, and Water and Wastewater Technology. MPTI's Women's Center will explore a few of the 30,000 types of jobs available for women in their three-week course. "Breaking New Ground."

Students can also select to develop job-finding skills with the help of two classes: "Getting Ready for the Job: A Self-Appraisal," and "Getting Ready for the Job: Selling Yourself."

Hall stated MPTI would grant Continuing Education Units (CEU's) for successful completion of any class.

"This week, students will receive a brochure describing the classes and also an advanced reservation card to register their intent to participate," Hall said. "They should mail the card to Moraine Park no later than December 8. Sometime in January, our coordinators will revisit the high schools to register interested students and to collect the necessary fees."

Moraine Park program staff is currently developing more career classes for students to explore. They are expected to be ready for fall, 1979.

If area juniors and seniors do not receive a brochure and card by the end of this week, they can see their high school principal or contact Kay Fett, Student Services, MPTI, 235 North National Avenue, Fond du Lac 54935, (414) 922-8611.

Life would be simpler if we didn't try to make people think we're what we're not.

SENATOR PETRI CAPITOL REPORTS

Farmland Staging a Vanishing Act

Many of us have been concerned for some time about the loss of productive farmland to urbanization. Now a new voice is being heard, one that may surprise you.

A ranking official of the federal Environmental Protection Agency — Douglas Costle, has ordered his employees to make certain that whenever possible, EPA programs and rules do not contribute to the loss of productive farmland. Over the past 10 years, about 31 million acres of farmland have been lost to development in this nation. Wisconsin, at last count, had 104,000 farms, 51,000 less than 20 years ago.

At times the EPA has been under fire because of rules which threatened the very existence of many farms. The new public pronouncement is encouraging.

Personnel in the agency have now been told to: support state farmland protection efforts; consider the impact of air and water pollution regulations on farmland; increase public awareness of the environmental value of agricultural land, and to consider in EPA actions, the local significance and economic value of farmlands to communities.

WORK TOGETHER

I hope this bureaucratic language means that federal EPA employees will work with Wisconsin farmers, rather than place obstacles in their path.

The EPA administrator points out that less farmland means a smaller base for food and fiber production. He added that the loss of farmland could also have an adverse environmental impact. Agricultural land filters snow and rainfall to maintain clean underground water supplies, serves as wildlife habitat and in some cases, preserves wetlands essential to the reproduction of certain fish.

In addition, more and more land is being purchased by individuals not connected with farming. In fact, two years ago, a state ag study revealed that half of the land being sold in southwestern Wisconsin was to people from outside the state. A substantial number of these people were not even associated with agriculture.

GOOD INVESTMENT

It also is a fact that foreign investors are finding Wisconsin farmland a great business investment. The average value per acre had increased 161%, from $225 in 1971 to $666 in 1977.

We need to know how many acres of productive land are being purchased by foreign investors and to determine if stricter controls are needed to preserve choice acreage. Foreign investors may well be able to pay inflated prices for farmland; many state families, however, are put at a serious disadvantage as costs rise.

Wisconsin currently operates a Farmland Preservation Program through the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. This program attempts to delegate the identification and preservation of threatened farmlands to officials at the county level. As the acreage of farmlands in Wisconsin continues to decrease, this might be an appropriate time to re-evaluate the effectiveness of our Farmland Preservation Program.

Alternatives are being examined by several eastern states. For example, New Jersey and Suffolk County, New York, are experimenting with public purchases of development rights from farmers. This method allows farmers to continue using the land for agriculture or other purposes, but not to sell or lease it for development. Massachusetts has already passed a law adopting this approach.

Agriculture is an important way of life in Wisconsin, important to our way of life — we must be alert to changes that will have an impact on its vitality.

The first Ford automobile had to wait over an hour for its first test run, since it was built in a shed, and was wider than the shed door.

Indians Open With Plymouth, St. Mary's, West Bend East

The Kewaskum Indians will open the 1978-79 basketball season with a busy non-conference schedule, hosting Plymouth of the Packerland Conference Friday evening, St. Mary's Springs of Fond du Lac for the first time ever Saturday night, and playing at West Bend East of the Little Ten Conference next Tuesday.

The Kewaskum girls will open their season at home on Tuesday when they entertain New Holstein, also of the Packerland Conference.

The complete boys and girls basketball schedules and boys wrestling schedule will be printed in next week's issue.

When the Indians open against Plymouth Friday, they will be fielding a very young and inexperienced team on the court. Coach Jim Westphal, beginning his fifth year as varsity coach, has only three lettermen and six seniors back. Only one of them was a starter last year.

Last year Kewaskum wound up in a tie for sixth place with Kettle Moraine with a 4-10 record but reached the finals of the Regional tournament.

Back from that team are Tom Kern, a 6-2 junior, Ray Dominguez, a small 5-5 guard, and Paul Bremser, a 5-8 guard. Kern moved up to the varsity while Mark Tessar was out with pneumonia, and he stayed in the lineup. This year Kern is expected to do more scoring and rebounding, another of the team's concerns.

The team is small. There are some six feet or better but no really big or heavy man. A lot of juniors will have to carry the load. They have some talent, finishing second among the

Pettit Rushing Leader; Herriges Second in Passing

Scenic Moraine Conference final football statistics (conference games only) show that Kewaskum's Mike Pettit was the rushing average leader with an average of 7.0 yards per carry. The Indians' Joel Herriges was second in passing completions with 49.5 per cent.

Scenic JV's last season. Much depends on how they develop.

The Indians played in a four-team scrimmage Saturday with some ragged play by all teams. On Tuesday they were slated to scrimmage against West Bend West, from which Westphal hoped to form a starting lineup for the Plymouth contest.

Four From Scenic On Sentinel's All-Area Second Team

The Milwaukee Sentinel last Friday released its all-Milwaukee area football team for 1978.

Four Scenic Moraine players were named to the all-area second team. They are: offense — quarterback Peter Opie, Pewaukee, 6-0 175 senior. Defense — End Dale Spars, Mayville, 6-0 200 senior; Line Greg Maternowski, Pewaukee, 5-10 185 senior; Back Reinhard Kindler, Germantown, 6-0 165 senior.

Hartford's talented fullback, Jay Robbe, who has won many honors this year, was honored as the Sentinel's player of the year. Unanimous all-conference, Robbe scored 17 touchdowns and 11 extra points and led the Little Ten Conference in rushing with 1,122 yards on 157 carries, a 7.1 average.

Hunters Reminded of Proper Procedures In Registering Deer

With the 1978 deer firearm's season opening this weekend, hunters are reminded about the proper procedures in registering their deer. Immediately after the deer is shot, the tag must be locked into the gambrel (upper part of the hind leg) of the deer. The deer tag and the registration tag must be left on the deer until the carcass is consumed.

Regular license deer must be registered in the season zone in which it was killed before it can be removed from that zone. The season zones can be found on page 23 of the 1978 hunting regulations. If it is a party permit kill, it must be registered in the quota areas in the state, this may be impossible. If this is the case, the deer may be transported to the nearest registration station in an adjacent quota area on federal or state highways only. All deer killed by a firearm must be registered by 5:00 p.m. of the day after the close of the season.

Below is a listing of the gun deer registration stations for this area:

Ozaukee County — Port Washington - Sheriff's Department.

Sheboygan County — Howards Grove - Ed's Bait Shop; Plymouth - Steiner's Standard Station; Sheboygan - J & L Archery Lanes.

Washington County — Friess Lake - Wally and Bee's; Highways 41 and 28 (East) - Denny's Arco; Jackson - Frank's Tavern; West Bend - Sheriff's Department.
