Three Candidates File for School Board Positions

The deadline for filing candidacy papers for the Kewaskum School Board election was Tuesday, January 2, at 5:00 p.m. Three candidates filed with Clerk James Oelhafen for the two vacant posts to be elected.

Candidates include the two incumbents, Byron W. Gessner, dairy farmer from the Town of Scott, 2062 Maple Tree Rd., Route 1, Kewaskum, and Gerald Secor, 1856 Scenic Drive, Route 1, Kewaskum. A new candidate seeking election to the school board is Margaret McFadden, 821 Memorial Drive, Route 2, Kewaskum.

As there are only three candidates, no primary election will be necessary.

Gessner is completing his second three-year term, seeking his third, and Secor is completing his third three-year term, seeking his fourth.

On Wednesday evening, January 3, a drawing for positions on the ballot was held at the administrative offices.

First Much Snow, Then Bitter Cold

After snowing every day last week, adding to the amount already on the ground, the peak was reached when 14-20 inches fell over the weekend in the area. The worst of the storm came on New Year's Eve which kept people at home and forced numerous cancellations by partygoers and of other events. Fortunately there were nine football games on television for entertainment over the weekend.

Village crews worked early New Year's Eve and started again at midnight on New Year's night to keep the streets open to traffic. Then on Tuesday they started hauling away the snow piles from the streets.

The snow was followed by bitter cold weather with the thermometer dropping to 18-20 degrees below zero Tuesday morning. It was still 13 below in the afternoon and below zero again all day Wednesday, with the cold predicted to remain the rest of the week.

Coldest spot in the state was at Glidden, Wis. in Ashland County where the temperature dropped to 38 degrees below zero.

Junior Women to Discuss Alcoholism

The Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club invites all ladies in the area to an interesting evening of discussion on alcoholism. A film, "I'll Quit Tomorrow," will be presented by Les Miscki of the Washington County Council of Alcoholism. The meeting will be held Thursday, January 11, at the Valley Bank. The meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. due to the length of the film.

Any person who would like a ride can call Mary at 626-4672 or any other member. Questions are gladly answered at all times. Feel free to come.

Volm Promoted

The Entwistle Company in Hudson, MA recently announced several promotions within its Recreational Vehicle Group.

Among them is Ed Volm of Route 2, Kewaskum, who has been promoted to group vice president for manufacturing and engineering at Mallard-West Bend and Red Dale/Mallard located in Longmont, Colo.

Man Killed in Collision With Semi Near Here

A Beloit man was killed Tuesday afternoon when the station wagon he was driving collided with a semi-truck on State Highway 28, one-half mile east of Lake Bernice Road, about three miles west of Kewaskum. The accident occurred shortly after 12:30 p.m., according to the Washington County Sheriff's report.

Fatally injured was Mark T. Linville, 52, of Beloit. The truck driver, James R. Lallemond, 34, of Sheboygan, reportedly suffered a cut hand and possible sprained back in the accident.

Lallemond, who was eastbound on 28, reportedly told authorities that Linville, who was westbound, attempted to turn left in front of the truck and then appeared to change his mind. The head-on collision was in the eastbound lane, according to the report.

Linville reportedly died of massive head injuries. He was alone in the car.

Linville and the injured truck driver were transported to St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend, by Kewaskum Rescue Squad.

Police Contract Approved

Two Candidates for Village President; Three for Trustees

By TAMI EDGAR
Statesman Staff Writer

The Village Board approved the Police Association Contract at Tuesday's Village Board meeting.

The contract calls for a 40 hour week. The vote was unanimous in accepting the contract.

Individuals running for election to the Village Board as of the deadline at 5 p.m. Tuesday, January 2, are as follows: Daniel Schmidt and Robert Daniels, running for the Board Presidency, Dave Nigh, running for reelection as Trustee; and two new candidates running for trustee offices on the Board are Gerald Stollenwerk and Paul Blumer.

In his absence, Raynor Herges, Chairman of the Equipment Committee, had asked to table discussion on the boiler bids until he would be able to attend.

The board then voted to reject the currently standing bids. This came about to get a more complete comparison between the boiler bids. The board next voted to readvertise for two separate bids, one for the installation of one boiler and the other for the installation of two boilers. It was stated that the two boilers would save a considerable amount of fuel.

The Washington County Board Chairman has notified the village of their joint action emergency government ordinance opportunity which would help to cope with emergencies from enemy action and with emergencies from man-made or natural disasters.

The board must now contact the County Chairman to advise him that the Village of Kewaskum had already adopted this ordinance on September 5, 1978.

WEEKLY Health TIP

John
Boray, R.P.H.

When you see a drug advertised and wish to use it for self-medication, a pharmacist can give you the pros and cons on your use of the drug product. For example, a patient taking a prescription tranquilizer would be cautioned against using a non-prescription antihistamine that could bring on extreme drowsiness. An ulcer patient would be directed away from aspirin, as it could aggravate the ulcer. Pharmacists are trained to detect situations that, unknown to the patron, may require a physician's attention.

County Open Door Seeking Volunteer Hotline Operators

The Open Door of Washington County, Inc. is now accepting applications for volunteer Hotline operators. The Hotline is a twenty-four hour phone service that serves Washington, Ozaukee, Milwaukee and Waukesha counties. The training program will begin on January 17, 1979 at 7:00 p.m. at the Open Door in West Bend. Volunteers make a four month commitment and work only eight hours per month on two shifts of their choosing. Most often, the shifts run from 6:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. In addition, a monthly in-service meeting is required.

Specifically, the program offers drug education, personal growth workshops, crisis intervention training and suicide prevention techniques. Volunteers will also have an opportunity to learn more about community services and to exchange thoughts and ideas with other individuals who are likely to have common concerns about current social issues.

The Open Door has found that some persons volunteer in order to gain worthwhile experience that can enhance a personal resume or aid college studies. Others volunteer because they have heard that the experience is both unique and challenging. And still others volunteer because they simply want to help people.

Whatever the reason, the Open Door needs volunteers who can do the job, so if you have the ability to listen and a sincere desire to help people, contact Ann Stoffel by calling 334-4636, 644-6016, 933-7300 or 675-2354.

Snow, Ice, Sun, Rodents Injure Trees and Shrubs

By Dan A. Wilson
County Resource Agent
UW-Extension, West Bend

When winter unleashes one of its unpredictable ice storms or dumps a load of wet, heavy snow, landscape trees and shrubs are usually the first to suffer the damaging effects.

Conifers have greater surface area because they have winter foliage. That's why more snow and ice accumulates on them. Upright-growing junipers and arbovitae with multiple stems are most prone to damage.

Tie these multiple stems to each other with soft cord or old nylon stockings to reduce the chance of branches being broken or deformed.

For all conifers, gently brush the snow off of all branches with a broom as soon as possible after the storm and before the temperature drops. Snow is easier to remove before colder temperatures move in. More importantly, when plant tissues freeze, they damage easily.

Be particularly aware of conifers located near buildings. Snow accumulation tends to be concentrated in this area because of the movement of air currents.

There is little you can do to protect deciduous trees and shrubs from snow and ice damage. However, if damage does occur, remove broken branches as soon as possible. The longer the damaged branches remain on the plant, the greater the chance that the branches will strip bark from the plant.

Young trees and shrubs are susceptible to injury from winter sun scald. This usually affects the south and southwest facing portions of the trunk where the injured bark appears shriveled and sunken.

You can still prevent sun scald injury by wrapping the trunks of young plants with tree wrap paper. The paper shades the smooth, thin bark of young trees and minimizes the extreme change in temperature between sunny days and sub-zero nights. It's this change which causes the death of the cambial tissue.

Young plants, especially those in exposed areas or in locations where there is intense reflected light and heat, will be vulnerable to sun scald next winter, too. The paper doesn't interfere with growth and it eventually deteriorates. Tree wrap paper also protects against boring insects and bark chewing rodents.

Broad-leaved evergreens, such as rhododendron, winter-creep, euonymus and boxwood, also can suffer injury from exposure to winter wind and sun. One way to reduce the danger of injury is to place discarded Christmas trees on the south and west sides of the susceptible plants.

Though it's too late to take extensive measures against damage from mice, tramping down snow around the base of plants makes a barrier to tunneling rodents.

Larson Named to Savings Committee

Finding new ways to help young people buy their first home may be one of the major home financing issues before Congress in 1979, a West Bend financial leader said today.

This prediction was made by Richard A. Larson, Chairman of the Board and President of West Bend Savings and Loan, who was named to the U.S. League of Savings Associations' Legislative Committee. The League's 4,400 members provide the bulk of home mortgages in the U.S.

Larson said the Legislative Committee will meet in Washington in February to decide which home finance issues should be made "priority matters" and receive S&L support in 1979. Larson's list included:

--A possible tax incentive for savings to aid young persons save funds to buy a home.

--New ways to cut down federal paperwork.

--A possible law to increase the federal deposit insurance limits on savings accounts (the ceiling is now $40,000 per account).

--Statutory changes to facilitate use of new types of mortgage options for homebuyers. This might be done through changes in the Internal Revenue Code.

Larson plans to talk over these and other home financing issues with the state's Congressional delegation while in Washington for the League's Legislative Committee meeting in February.

Active in many civic and professional groups, Larson is a former President of the West Bend Chamber of Commerce. He is a member of the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation Advisory Committee, Chairman of the Savings League of Wisconsin Housing Liaison Committee and former Legislative Chairman for the League.

STEVENS POINT — Men and women of world and national renown have spoken at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point during its 85-year history. But a simple ceremony on New Year's Day outside Old Main may be the single most important event ever to take place on campus. Lee Sherman Dreyfus, who had served as chancellor of the institution since 1967, took the oath as Wisconsin's 40th governor in front of the building in which his office was located. Circuit Judge James Levi of Stevens Point administered the oath and the Rev. Leo Krynski, pastor of Newman University Parish, read a prayer. A formal inaugural was scheduled in the Capitol Rotunda in Madison on January 3. Dreyfus first announced his interest in running for governor in March of 1977 in an interview with a reporter from The Pointer, the student newspaper at UW-SP.

The Washington County Humane Society has announced that the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) will present a segment on its magazine show, "20/20" concerning the plight of wild horses. The show, which will be shown nationwide, will air on Monday, January 8.

It was filmed in several states and illustrates a multitude of problems and abuses currently facing wild horses in this country. Included in the program will be an in-depth investigative report on the government's adopt-a-horse program, and the various ways unscrupulous adopters are legally routing these animals into slaughtering plants. Shocking abuses being inflicted upon wild horses, in spite of a federal law that was designed to protect them, will be disclosed.

REDUCING LIGHTING COSTS

(Second in a series on energy saving)

Signs, displays and lights are an important but expensive part of any small business. According to energy specialists running a small business energy project at the University of Wisconsin-Extension, inside and outside lighting can eat up almost half of the total energy budget of the average Wisconsin retail business.

To reduce lighting costs, says project coordinator Wes Mott, consider the following changes in your lighting scheme.

EXTERIOR

Don't turn on outside signs, displays and lights until dusk, and shut them off after closing or when major traffic periods end. Besides wasting energy, all-night signs can irritate energy-conscious consumers.

Remove unneeded lamps and use lower wattage bulbs where feasible. Use metal halide lights, not incandescents or fluorescents, Mott suggests, for exterior signs and displays. Even if it means replacing complete fixtures, Mott says, make the switch. Metal halides are 3-4 times more efficient than fluorescents, and 8-10 times more efficient than incandescents.

For security and parking-lot lights, where color rendition is not important, a switch from incandescent or fluorescent lamps to yellow high-pressure sodium lights can cut lighting costs by as much as 75 per cent.

INTERIOR

You want customers to see your merchandise and feel welcome, but you want to save energy and money, too. The answer? Switch from even, general lighting to "task display" lighting, says Mott.

Concentrate light on merchandise and in employee work areas, but reduce illumination in aisles, halls, storage areas and other nonessential areas to 30 foot-candles or less unless there is a safety factor.

For further savings, use low-energy lamps and bulbs, reduce bulb wattage wherever possible, and remove unneeded lights.

For restrooms, storage and other infrequently used spaces, consider timers that switch off lights automatically. You can buy units with 30-second to 24-hour preset controls for about $10.

Above all, says the Extension specialist, turn off lights when you don't need them. As a rule of thumb, turn off fluorescents if you'll be out of a room more than 15 minutes, incandescents if you'll be gone more than three minutes.

LIGHTING EFFICIENCY

Lighting efficiency is the amount of light produced per watt of electricity consumed. Heading the efficiency list is the high-pressure sodium light, which can be used indoors or out.

Metal halide lamps run a close second, but there use is more restricted. They can't be used inside unless ceilings are at least 10 feet high (like in storage or warehouse areas.)

Flourescents rank third. They are only half as efficient as high-pressure sodium lights, but give four times more light per watt than incandescents (bottom of the list).

Mercury vapor lamps fall about halfway between flourescents and incandescents on the efficiency scale.

Depending on lamp size and hours of use, says Mott, changing to more efficient lamps can trim lighting costs as much as 50 percent. He offers the following specific tips:

*Use flourescents instead of incandescents if you need to light an area for 2500 hours or more per year.

*For interior security lights, high-pressure sodium lamps use only half the energy as flourescents.

*Low-energy bulbs in mercury-vapor fixtures give two to four times more light per watt than standard 400-or 1000-watt mercury vapor lamps.

Dirt and dust can rob you of 30 percent of the light you paid for, says Mott, so keep all fixtures and lamps clean. Wash the walls and ceiling around lights at least once a year, too, and consider repainting with white, light-colored or reflective paint to make the most of the light output.

Nation's 21st Census of Agriculture Begins This Week

The 1978 Census of Agriculture gets underway this week with the mailing of report forms to all farms and ranches in the 50 States, the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce announced.

Farmers and ranchers are being asked to report on their agricultural operations during 1978. This 1978 census, the Nation's 21st farm census in a series that started in 1840, will update data most recently obtained in 1975 for 1974 operations. Information will be sought on all agricultural operations.

With report forms for the 1978 census drastically reduced from the 22 pages of the last census, most agricultural operators will receive a four-page form in the mail, and about 20 percent will receive five-page version. The overall time required by farmers to complete the form has been reduced by more than one-third.

The census will continue to monitor trends in domestic ownership and control of land. The last census showed a five-year gain in the number of U.S. corporate farms from 22,000 to 29,000; the amount of acreage they farmed rose from 80 to 97 million acres, and the value of their farm products rose from $6 billion to $14 billion.

The census asks whether the farm is operated by a family or individual, a partnership, a family-held corporation, an investor-owned corporation with more than 10 stockholders, or some other legal entity such as cooperative, estate or trust, grazing association, etc.

The apparent increase in foreign ownership of land has raised questions in the Congress and with business and agricultural groups. In 1974 a Department Of Commerce survey showed about 5 million acres of farm land were owned by foreign interests, or less than one-half of one percent of the total. The new farm census will measure the increase.

As in earlier censuses, information obtained about farming operations will be published for each of more than 3,000 counties with agricultural operations, for each State and for the entire Nation.

Each report form will have a control number printed on the address label. Because response is required by law (Title 13, U.S. Code), each control number must be accounted for by the Bureau of the Census. Followup letters will be sent to non-respondents. Everyone who receives the agriculture census report form should answer the first four items and as much more of the report as applies, and return it, so that it will not be necessary to spend more tax money on obtaining a response.

Despise careful screening of the mailing lists used, some persons not engaged in agricultural activities will receive report forms. Those persons should return the form with that fact noted in order to stop additional mailings.

The 1978 Census of Agriculture will be conducted as follows:
--All respondents will be asked to report either from their records or by estimate, the following information: amount of farm acreage by type of ownership; land use; acreage, production, and sales of crops; inventory, number sold, and sales value of livestock and poultry; and selected characteristics of farm operators and farm management.

--About 20 percent will receive an additional page seeking answers to: value of land and buildings; selected production expenses; selected farm equipment; hired farm labor; fertilizer and pesticide use; and petroleum fuel usage and storage capacity.

Congress and Federal agencies, as well as agricultural and business organizations, universities and other groups rely on this information to develop and revise farm programs. Individual farmers may benefit from a railroad allocating storage cars during grain harvest, or from farm machinery or bulk fertilizer dealerships being located in new areas of farm development.

Stressing that publication of its data will be accomplished more speedily in this census, Bureau officials are setting October 1979 as the beginning data issuance deadline for more than 3,000 individual counties. They expect to publish the additional volumes of statistical information for the State and Nation within the following two years.

Census officials also point to these features of the 1978 census:

--A second copy of the report form which the respondent can complete and keep for his own records.

--The option of receiving major county data merely by checking a box on the form.

--A time extension which will be granted farmers who request it.

--An improved mailing list, and a "Were you Counted," campaign for any farmer inadvertently omitted.

The law which requires farmers to answer the census items also protects the privacy of answers. Since 1900, census report forms have been confidential by law. They may be seen only by sworn Census employees and may be used only for statistical totals. Even other government agencies cannot obtain or use the reports made by any farm operator. Neither can anyone use legal means to obtain a copy of the report retained by the operator in his files.

File operators who do not receive a form during the first week of January should request one from the Bureau of the Census, 1201 East 10th Street, Jeffersonville, Indiana 47132.

Some cicadas live underground for 17 years, then emerge for a few weeks of sunshine before dying.

Town of Wayne Exclusive Agricultural Zoning

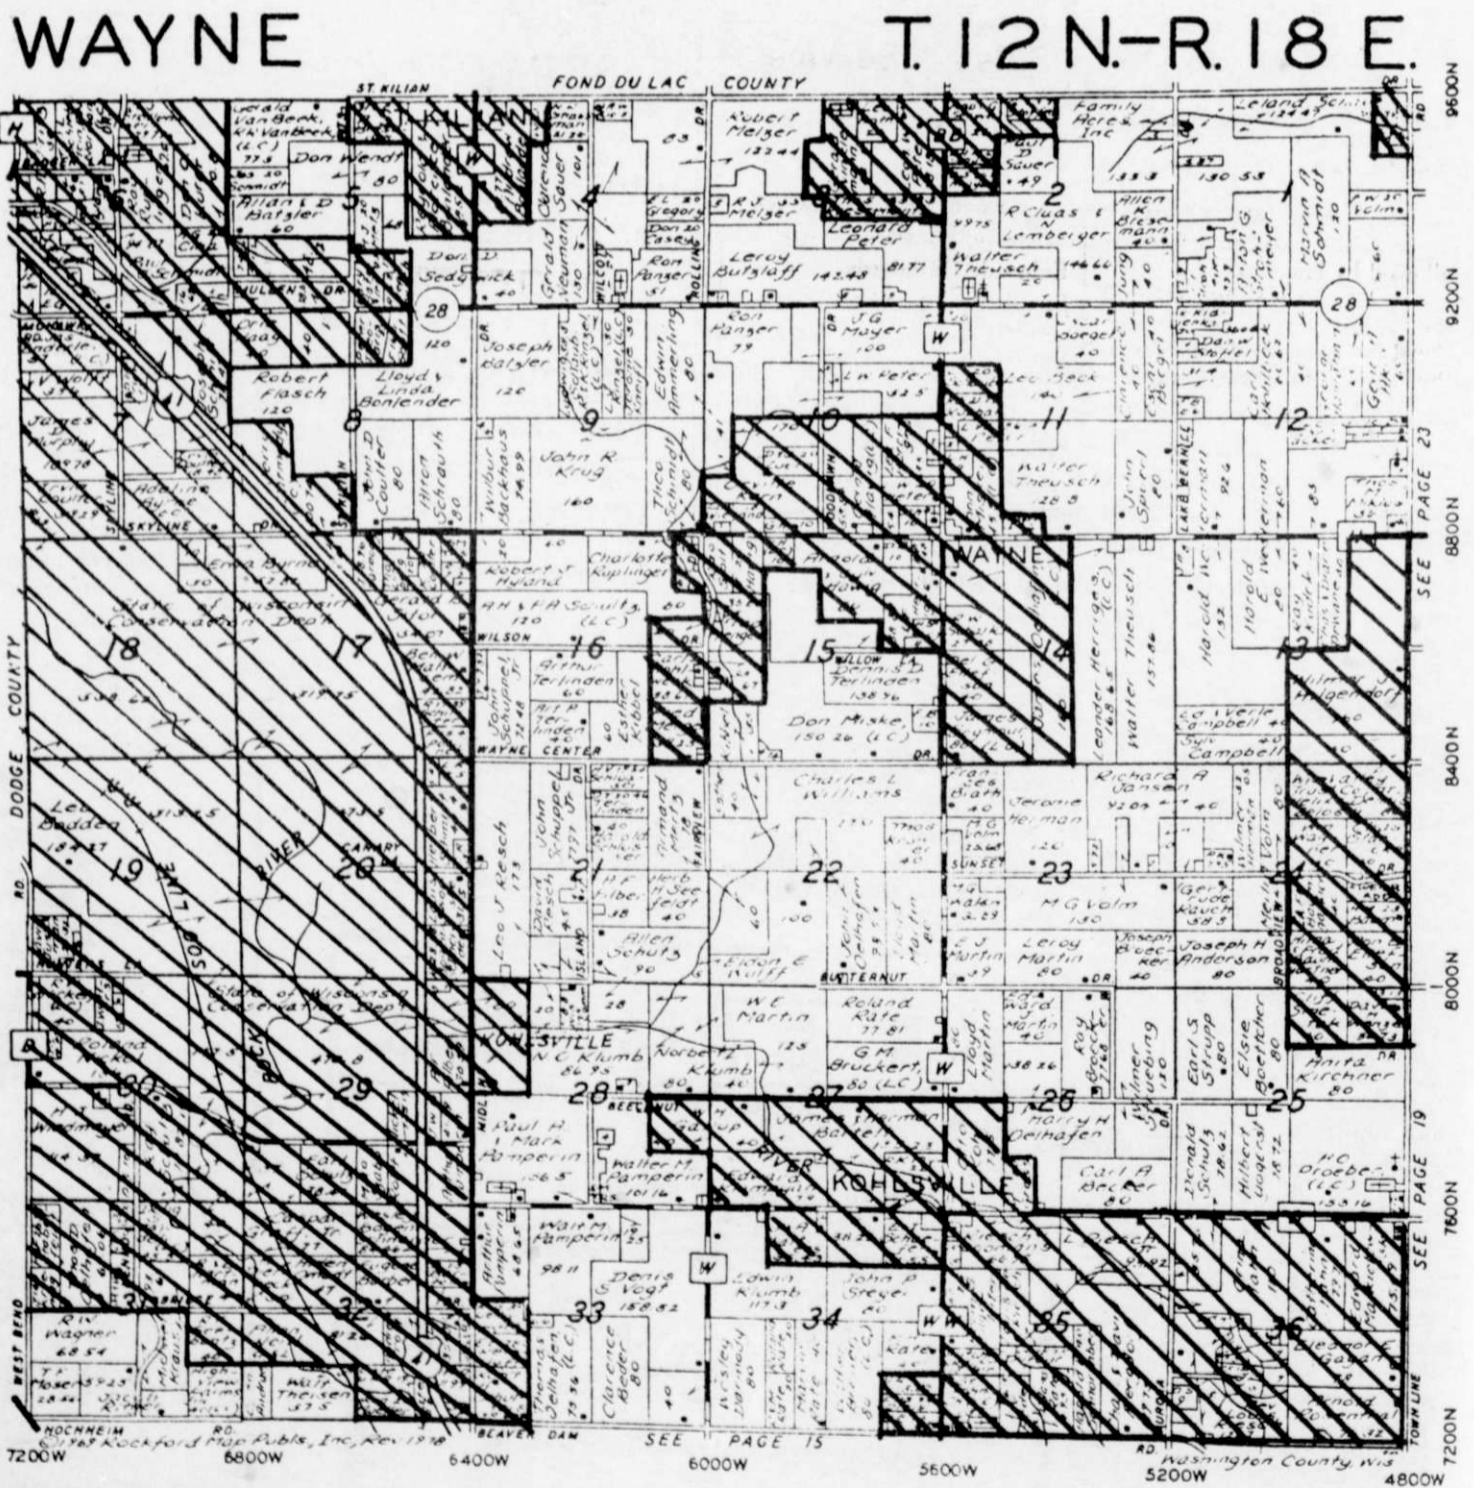

A public hearing will be held at the Kohlsville Fire Department at 8:00 P.M., Tuesday, January 16, 1979, for the purpose of reviewing and discussing the proposed exclusive agricultural zoning district for the Town of Wayne. The intended use of this zoning district is to preserve agricultural land. Land in this district could only be used for agricultural related purposes. The sale of small lots for residences would no longer be allowed. Anyone wishing to participate in the Farm Preservation Act, in order to get credit for Property Tax, would have to have his property in an exclusive agricultural zone. If you have an opinion or objection to any or all of the proposed changes, please come to the hearing and express yourself.

Orville, Kern, Clerk
Town of Wayne

Zoning is recommended to remain as it presently is in these areas.

The remainder of the area is recommended for exclusive agriculture.

Nomination Papers

State Senator Thomas E. Petri (R-Fond du Lac) Friday filed nomination papers to put his name on the ballot for the Sixth Congressional District seat vacated by the death of William Steiger.

Officials at the State Election Board said that Petri's papers were among the first to be received. Petri filed 2,000 signatures, the maximum number allowed by law.

"I am greatly appreciative of the support and encouragement that I have received thus far in the campaign," the congressional candidate noted. "I look forward to waging a clean, aggressive campaign."

The Fond du Lac native commented that the crowded Republican primary should provide Sixth District voters with a clear choice in electing their congressman. "Bill Steiger has left a legacy of good government and solid representation," Petri pointed out. "I hope to carry on that tradition to the best of my ability."

Named Catholic Fund Drive Head

MILWAUKEE — Archbishop Rembert G. Weakland has named Margi Flanagan of Milwaukee as general chairperson of the 1979 Catholic Stewardship Appeal, formerly known as the Archbishop's Fund Appeal.

The Catholic Stewardship Appeal will be conducted next March 4 to April 15 in the ten-county Archdiocese of Milwaukee.

Flanagan has been involved in church and community groups on the local and national levels. She is on the boards of the Milwaukee Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, Project Equality of Wisconsin, Villa Clement, Horizon House, Inc., and the Benedict Justice Center.

She has served on national boards including the National Council of Catholic Women and Women in Community Service. In 1977 she received the B'nai B'rith Human Rights Award.

Mrs. Flanagan said, "Last year roughly one out of very two families gave to the appeal. We're hoping to increase the number of contributors this year as a way of meeting the increasing financial needs of the archdiocese."

The 1978 Fund Appeal, which began last February, reached a record amount. It totaled $3,752,132 from 113,393 donors.

Mrs. Flanagan has been married for 32 years to Joseph F. Flanagan. They live at 4837 N. Ardmore Ave., Whitefish Bay. They are parents of four sons, Tom, Den, Terry, and Jeff, and are members of Holy Family parish.

Mrs. Flanagan received a B.A. degree from Siena Heights College, Adrian, Michigan, with a major in political science. She was a family caseworker for the Rockford, Illinois, Catholic Charities.

The name of the Fund Appeal was changed to the Catholic Stewardship Appeal by Archbishop Weakland. He hopes the new, more biblical name, will stress the Christian duty to share and use properly the goods over which persons are stewards.

He feels that the word "stewardship" is a broader concept, including accountability for time, talent, and the responsible use of monies and buildings. It can be applied not only to the giving, but also to the disbursement of appeal funds.

Lower Temperatures Preferred for Health

Those of us who are responding to energy conservation pleas by keeping home temperatures somewhat lower this winter are likely to stay somewhat healthier than those who continue to overheat their dwellings.

The American Medical Association reminds that temperatures in the mid-60s are healthier than temperatures in the mid-70s.

Heating the interior of homes and offices during the winter removes moisture from the air. The higher the temperature, the dryer the air. Air with little moisture aggravates bronchial and other respiratory problems. It contributes to dry throat and nose, coughs, and dry, itchy skin.

The respiratory system doesn't cope well with sudden changes in temperature. Moving from an overly heated room into outside cold affects the body adversely, causing coughs and respiratory problems. The body adjusts to temperature changes gradually.

There are no major health advantages inherent in keeping inside temperature somewhat lower, but there are minor advantages that will add to comfort and well being during the winter.

If the air inside your home is very dry even with reduced temperature levels, you might consider using a humidifier to add moisture.

Frostbite Season and Its Dangers

By Victor S. Falk, Jr., M.D.

Now that winter is here, it is important to consider a few facts on the effects of the colder weather. One of winter's most common ailments is frostbite; it can happen before you know and it isn't necessary for the temperature to be excessively low. The wind plays an important role; the chilling effect of air at 20 degrees moving at 45 miles per hour is the same as 40 degrees below zero on a still day. (This is known as a "Wind Chill Factor").

Frostbite occurs when the skin tissues become frozen; crystals of ice form between the cells--nerves, muscles and blood vessel tissues are the most susceptible to this problem.

As was mentioned above, one of the genuine dangers of frostbite is that one often doesn't feel it. While freezing skin tissue is usually not painful initially, it gradually becomes numb and hard to the touch.

The symptoms of frostbite are a bright pink skin that changes to greenish-yellow or white as the freezing sets in. The nose, ears, feet, and hands are the most susceptible areas in below freezing temperatures.

To prevent frostbite, it is essential to be properly dressed for the particular temperature. It is also wise to avoid any amount of over-exertion or excessive perspiration while outside in this freezing condition.

The basic first aid treatment for frostbite should be aimed at getting the frozen parts of the body thawed out, thereby allowing circulation to re-establish itself naturally. The affected area should be immersed in lukewarm water. This may be achieved by applying warm, wet towels to the particular area. If lukewarm water is not available or is impractical to use, gently wrap the affected parts in blankets.

When the skin shows a pinkish color, the warm water treatment may be discontinued. The pinkish skin is an indication of the return of normal blood circulation through the affected area. The victim should be encouraged to exercise any part of the body that has been affected. An example of this is through the movement of fingers and toes if they are involved. The victim should also drink a warm, non-alcoholic beverage.

Some don'ts for frostbite include:

-Don't rub frostbitten parts with snow or ice.

-Don't use hot water, hot water bottles or heat lamps over the frostbitten area.

-Don't use the affected part at all initially - or until pinkish color returns.

-Don't smoke, as this further narrows the blood vessels which means even less blood gets to the affected area.

-Don't apply any dressings too tightly. Cover it with a light, dry dressing only.

As the frostbitten area warms up, there will be some swelling and burning sensation. Depending on the severity of the frostbite, blisters may develop. The throbbing and discomfort can last for several weeks; these areas will subsequently be more sensitive to any cold.

Your physician should be notified about any case of frostbite. Have fun in the winter months - but remember some of its hazards.

Winless Indians Downed by Hot-Shooting Cougars, 87-63

The holiday rest apparently didn't do anything to help the Kewaskum Indians, who went down to their eighth straight defeat against no wins in a non-conference contest at Campbellsport Tuesday night, 87-63.

The Cougars not only were hot from the field, especially in the second quarter, in which they far outdistanced the Indians, 28-12, but hit on 27 of 34 free throws. The first quarter was pretty even at 19-16, but then all the Campbellsport players started to hit. They came good on 11 of 15 shots in the second period to lead at the intermission, 47-28.

The Cougars also played well defensively, out-rebounding the Indians by far. Their press worked successfully as they out-hustled Kewaskum. Coach Jim Westphal said it was one of his team's poorest performances while the winners played very well.

A big factor in the loss was Kewaskum's free throw shooting. The Indians hit on only 5 of 17 while the Cougars made 27, a difference of 22 points.

Campbellsport coach Larry Hilgendorf was well pleased with his team's good, all-around performance which he said was probably their strongest of the year.

One bright spot for the Indians was the play of junior Bob Nigh, who was the game's top scorer with 20 points. Tom Kern added 14 and Henry Schilter 11. Five Cougars scored in double figures and one other had nine. Senior Dan One led Campbellsport with 19 and pulled in 15 rebounds. Bob Hatch added 18.

The Indians return to Scenic Conference action this Friday night when they host Pewaukee, which is also winless to date. The winner will get out of

Theft or Vandalism of Snowmobile Trail Signs Could Be Matter of Life or Death

Theft or vandalism of snowmobile trail signs may seem like an insignificant problem to most people, but according to Tom Blotz, Community Services Specialist for the Southeast District, it could be a matter of life or death.

"It's a problem that is increasing each year at a dangerous rate," noted Blotz. "A trail stop sign that has been vandalized or is missing could cause the snowmobiler to shoot through a highway intersection and wind up in the path of some automobile. Scenes like this could be avoided if trail signs are left alone."

The Governor's Council on Snowmobiling and the Association of Wisconsin Snowmobile Clubs have discussed the problem. Most snowmobilers would like it to be illegal to possess trail signs for any purpose other than for marking trails.

"We've seen many accident reports involving injury to snowmobilers on trail curves," said Blotz. "In many instances those injured stated that the cause of the mishaps were lack of signs."

Most snowmobile clubs are starting to resign their trails. The reflectorized information signs are expensive to produce. "The signs are placed at certain points along the trail to help in the traffic flow and to inform the riders on trail conditions. They are not meant to be souvenirs or targets for some bored vandals."

The DNR and snowmobile clubs urge people to leave the trail signs alone. They not only have the important function of providing information to the snowmobiler, but they could possibly prevent a serious accident or even a fatality.
