Barb Wilson Repeats As a State Champion

Barb Wilson

Only a sophomore, Kewaskum High School's ace runner, Barb Wilson, who won the Girls State Class B mile last year in 5:22.8, earned her second state championship in as many years Saturday when she ran 2:19.74 to win the 880-yard run in the WIAA State Track Meet at Madison. Participating in three events, Wilson also placed sixth in the mile run this year and her team placed sixth in the mile relay.

Barb's time was her best time ever, despite being plagued with a very sore throat. Her 2:19.74 was the first time she had been under 2:20 and it bettered her old mark by about three seconds. Barb had said her goal was for under 2:20 and she achieved it.

Wilson, who excelled, also helped the Indians to a sixth in the mile relay, but the four Kewaskum runners were disappointed with their performance, a 4:14.49. Several of the runners, including anchor Julian Zemlicka, were not 100% physically. The other two runners were leadoff Diane Bremser and No. 3 runner, Carrie Dreher. All these girls are underclassmen and will return next year.

Kewaskum also picked up a couple of points in the high jump where freshman Jill Yearling went 5-2, her personal best, and got a fifth. Jill was the only freshman in the Class B high jump.

As a team, Kewaskum tied for 13th place with Whitewater and Horicon, each with 14 points. Mosinee was the state winner with 34 points.

The Kewaskum girls again proved that they are among the best in the state at distance running.

Team and individual results appear on page 20.

Total of 80-100 Lots ANOTHER SUBDIVISION PROPOSED

By DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

Another proposed subdivision to the south of Kewaskum on Prospect Drive was the main topic of the May 29 meeting of the Village of Kewaskum Plan Commission. Another item discussed was a request of a resident to fill near her house on the Milwaukee River. The village's right to zone and plan outside its limits was discussed. A re-division of land and the proper payment for improvements at the south end of BelRic Drive was also considered.

David Hinze, a surveyor from Sheboygan, presented the preliminary plans for a subdivision on the northern half of land owned by Orval Behnke along the west side of Prospect Drive. The detailed plans showed 48 lots, most being 1/2 acre or a little more. Sometime in the future, the southern half of the property would be subdivided to create a total of 80-100 lots in all.

Street plans would call for Prospect to be dedicated to an 80 foot width. Another street would proceed west along the north edge of land owned by Ed Bunkelman on 40 feet owned by Behnke and another 40 feet owned by Ted Meilahn. At the west boundary of Bunkelman's property, the street would proceed south with one tier of lots bordering it on each side. Eventually, a street would run further along the Behnke-Meilahn line, and another street would loop around a seven acre pond and into land owned by Charles Schultz.

The Plan Commission had no major objections to the maps or engineering plans, but several problems do have to be resolved. Committee member Charles Miller complimented Hinze and Behnke on doing their homework but wanted to know about plans for storm sewers. Hinze said these would be forthcoming. Hinze also mentioned that for proper sanitary sewer service to the area, another lift station may eventually be required. Hinze also suggested that presently available water pressure may not be totally adequate. There should be enough for household water service, but the pressure required for fire protection was questionable.

Prior to any subdividing, Behnke wished to be annexed to the village, however, this is not possible until Meilahn's land is also annexed. Meilahn did not wish to subdivide, and therefore did not wish to pay for streets,

Village Board Meeting Centers Around Discussions on Disturbance of the Peace

By DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum Village Board meeting of Monday, June 4, centered around discussions of disturbance of the peace throughout the community. Also there was approval of 9 out of 10 liquor license applications and the adoption of an ambulance ordinance. A bid for asphalt paving of streets was also approved.

Mrs. Jerry Buchel spoke for a group of citizens from the Clinton Street area who complained of the noise and danger imposed by mini-bikes and dirt bikes used in a large vacant field to the south of Clinton Street. Jerry Buchel spoke of how the people in this area cannot enjoy their own backyards because of the intense whine of such recreational vehicles. An incident was also cited in which a gas tank ruptured on a bike driven by a child of 9 or 10. The police say that their hands are tied, because it is private property and the owner is somewhat reluctant to refuse persons the use of the field. Mrs. Buchel added, "Can the village board help us?" Police Chief Donald Hlavaty stated that an ordinance would be helpful. The board then moved to have Jerry Kiefer, Village Attorney, look into the possibility of an ordinance.

Another similar problem was mentioned by several citizens who live on the block between Bilgo Lane and Parkview Drive. An alleyway within the block is frequented by high school youth, particularly during school noon hours. John Schultz, Mark and Joyce Kral, and John Stephani complained of loitering, fires being set, profanity, graffiti, smoking (marijuana as well as cigarettes), and harassment of some of their young children. It was requested that "no loitering" signs be posted on the alley be water, and sewer either. He said, "I do want to play ball with Orv and the village as to planning that this works out in a reasonable manner..."

Richard Zarling, Zoning Administrator, also suggested that when the petition for annexation was presented, a request for specific rezoning, most likely from agricultural status to an R-1 (single family dwelling) status, should also be presented. This is to avoid two public hearings when one will suffice.

Aldwin Seefeldt, representing Kathryn and Bill Schaefer, presented his interpretation of how to deal with the problem of filling near the river for construction purposes. The Schaefer's wish to erect a garage which will be attached to their house. Village ordinances prohibit most uses of land lying within the urban floodplain regulatory area - the area which may be covered by a major flood occurring about every 100 years. Seefeldt had talked to Roland Tonn of the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission. They managed to agree that if fill was introduced at the river's edge for purposes of floodproofing an accessory structure as a garage, it would be permissible. The Schaefer's only wish to slow down the rate of seepage into their buildings. Seefeldt said that the Department of Natural Resources would be contacted. The DNR would have 30 days to review the plans and make any recommendations. The Plan Commission itself had no objection to the filling necessary for the garage.

The issue of whether or not the village should exercise its right to zone and plan for lands outside its limits was only discussed with no action being taken. The villages may have surveys and topographical maps etc. done within 1 1/2 miles of the village for planning purposes. Village President Bob Danielson and most of the Plan Commission were basically in favor of the planning of lands now lying in the Town of Kewaskum, as they may eventually be annexed to the village. An example of non-planning was mentioned by committee member Roger Strack who cited the problem of running into already existing houses with proposed streets. A map from 1959 showed the 1 1/2 mile area of jurisdiction as a dashed oval around the village. It was suggested that Roland Tonn of SEWRPC be invited to the next meeting to help specify the exact area lying within 1 1/2 miles of the village. Also, Town of Kewaskum Chairman, George Allmann, should be invited to help coordinate the zoning of the village and town.

Leroy Zipperer was represented by Ron Weis, a surveyor from West Bend, to discuss the payment for any improvements as sewer, water, curb and gutter, and paving on an extension of Bel-Ric Drive to the south. This street is already dedicated, but not constructed. As Weis stated, it may be described as a "ghost street." Weis wanted to know if there was an ordinance requiring subdividers to pay for improvements at the time of platting, if there is evidence of such payment by the original subdivider, and the extent of improvements already installed, if any. The Plan Commission agreed to research this matter to see exactly what Zipperer would have to provide.

Village Board

blocked off. Chief Hlavaty stated that charges of loitering were virtually useless in combating the problem but stressed the need for citizens to immediately and always report such disturbances to the police so that eventually some offenders can be caught in the act. One citizen did complain of being given the "third degree" over the phone, about not having proof, from the Washington County Sheriff's Department. Hlavaty also said that he would make an effort to patrol the area even more. The citizens particularly requested the board to take some action on this matter before the next school year.

Liquor licenses and bartender's licenses were not so routinely approved. At the public hearing which preceded the meeting, there were no stated objections to the granting of licenses, however, the board did raise some objections to approving one for "Apollo's Lyre" (formerly Jordans'), an establishment run by Ralph Scott. An incident was related in which Scott had his own "bouncers" present in addition to the required police at a dance. Chief Hlavaty said that Scott had agreed to control his "bouncers" more effectively. So far, there have been few complaints about excessive noise, but Village President Bob Danielson pointed out that if no complaints are filed with the police chief, it is hard to control any disorderly situation. Several board members also noted that "Apollo's Lyre" customers seemed to be mostly from communities other than Kewaskum. It was agreed that Scott would be invited to the board meeting on June 18. This liquor license application will be considered separately and was tabled.

One bartender's license was approved for Brenda Wagner without any objection from the police department or the board. The bartender's license for Randolph Scott was denied, due mainly to questionable past conduct. The board wished to have him "prove himself" for a time before taking further action.

An ambulance ordinance was adopted by the board. Mostly for liability and insurance purposes, this specifies that the Rescue Squad is an official adjunct to the Fire Department of the Village of Kewaskum. It also requires that a rescue squad record book be kept which lists every incident, times of incidents, and persons responding, etc. Fire and rescue equipment shall be for the sole purpose of fire fighting or rescue calls unless some other use shall be approved by the board.

A bid for asphalt paving of streets by Payne and Dolan of Waukesha for a total of $20,881.50 was accepted. The board stated how this firm had done quality work for the village in the past. The other bids were by Ram Construction of Byron for a total of $33,000, and by Reliance Construction of Sheboygan for $27,446.

The rezoning of the Henry Timblin property from a Density Controlled Single Family Residence District to a General Retail Business and Services District was approved. There were no objections from any citizens during the public hearing or from the board. This will allow the development of a small retail shopping center with several stores and 170 parking stalls south of the Highway 45 and 'H' intersection.

The traffic situation on the streets leading to the new park was discussed. The board adopted a second option for the placement of traffic signs presented by Hlavaty. This would allow for a direct route from Fond du Lac Avenue to the new park via Clinton and Brooklane except for stop signs before turning right onto Brooklane and before entering the park at Edgewood. Stop signs would be placed on all streets which lead into Clinton or Brooklane. Also approved was a traffic plan for the area to the northeast of the new park. This called for stop signs at the corner of Forest and Midland, Forest and Western, and Hillside and Forest. There would also be stop signs at Edgewood and Forest and North and Edgewood.

Ken Erickson registered a complaint with the board as to being charged $6,911.30 for improvements which he neither wanted nor needed on Werner Drive. He already has a septic system and buys water from a neighbor's well. This area was laid out piecemeal and was never really subdivided. Erickson wished to be a "good neighbor" but felt paying this amount for improvements used by other parties was unreasonable. The problem was referred to the Public Works Committee for a recommendation.

It was repeated by Trustee Dan Schmidt that an official opening of the "New Kewaskum Kiwanis Community Park" will be held on Saturday, June 16. There will be a ribbon cutting ceremony at 10 a.m., followed by special events at 10:30 a.m. At that time, there will be a free-throw contest between the Kiwanians and the Lions, a basketball game between the Jaycees and the Junior Woman's Club, and a volleyball contest pitting the Fire Department against the Village Employees. Raynor Herriges was unanimously elected captain of the Village Volleyball Team.

Committee Eyes Possible Cuts for School Budget

By DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

The theme of practical savings without having children's classroom education suffer was evident throughout the Kewaskum School District's Budget Committee meeting on Friday, June 1. Superintendent Floyd Brenholt, Business Manager Bob Borch, and committee members Jean Goeden and John Tessar pointed out areas of possible cuts and even increased revenues for the proposed $4.5 million dollar 1979-80 budget.

Tessar initially listed four areas of the budget that were definitely fixed: salaries - 42.5% of the budget, benefits - 9.9%, bussing - 8.3%, and utilities - 4.4%. These items are not subject to cuts. Later, Tessar pressed Brenholt as to what specific items were not needed. Brenholt replied, "I could name you four things that...we absolutely don't have to have." These are: lockers at the middle school - proposed cost of $16,250, a fence around the new track - $11,400, a storage shed behind the high school - $4,000, and a new school station wagon - $5,600. The possibility of these cuts of nearly $40,000 would be presented to the board at the next meeting. The committee did recognize that each of the above items would be nice to have, but there are some alternatives.

The proposed lockers at the middle school would be five feet high and not cost much more than three foot lockers as the cost involves mainly the mechanism. Tessar was upset about the non-existence of lockers and claimed they would make the school more presentable. Goeden said the only "complaint" she had received about the budget was from a parent concerned about having lockers. Brenholt admitted that the lockers were more essential than the fence around the track.

The proposed fence is intended to keep motorcycles and cars off the asphalt track. Tessar had already noticed bicyclers using it. Brenholt noted that the track was insured up to its cost of $20,000. He further asked, "Can we get at this in a cheaper manner...by putting posts on four spots on the track...and running cable across?" This would cost considerably less and prevent usage of the track for illicit non-school activities.

The proposed storage shed would be used for vehicles, tractors, or machines which cannot be stored in the limited space of the school garage. Borch did mention that the size of the proposed structure could possibly be reduced. As for the school station wagon with about 95,000 miles out, it was suggested that shop students and teachers could possibly overhaul it at greatly reduced cost.

Utilities were considered as fixed costs but are likely to rise dramatically in cost. For instance, the proposed budget allocates $19,500 for heating oil as compared to last year's $15,000. Electricity for other uses than heat would require $87,900 in the budget as compared to last year's $80,000. For gasoline, $87,000 is budgeted as compared to $50,000 for last year. Brenholt commented that "...in terms of the budget, these are guesses. I don't think we've gone overboard..." Tessar and Goeden both recognized the need to cut back on transportation for extracurricular activities. Tessar stated, "I don't want to see the kids all suffer, but I think something like a trip to Racine, which is quite far...we're going to have to cut that out." Goeden suggested that each class have a more localized "picnic."

The amount budgeted for supplies was up $40,000 and Tessar wished to know why. Brenholt replied that some of this year's supplies were purchased out of last year's budget, therefore to even things out, next year's allocations were higher. In an effort to pare off 1 or 2% of the budget, it was mentioned that supplies, equipment, and some repairs could possibly be eliminated. Brenholt indicated that supplies were more vital than equipment. Borch defined supplies as "consumable type things... things that are not permanent equipment pieces..." To cut more in this area would mean that the principals and teachers would all have to recheck their requests. Brenholt somewhat surprised the committee by noting that about $½ million had already been eliminated from the supply lists that were originally sent in from each school.

To get additional revenue, the idea of charging fees similar to the West Bend District was mentioned. Another $15,000 could be added in receipts. These possible fees may involve more rental charges for band instruments, particularly drums and French horns, etc., rental of athletic suits and uniforms, and a fee for certain extracurricular activities. Tessar noted that parents may not object to renting instruments as most students' families already pay totally for instruments. Another source of revenue may be an additional $38,000 of state aid if the present Joint Finance Committee's proposals make it through the state legislature.

It was agreed between Brenholt, Goeden and Tessar to present the budget to the board

YOUR ENTIRE FAMILY SHOULD READ THIS. JUST TO BE SAFE.

Safety begins at home.

When it comes to power lines, you can't be too careful.

Especially around the house.

Power lines do their job so quietly, you might overlook them. Last year, over 600 people in the United States overlooked them when they were putting up antennas.

A fatal mistake.

If you climb up on the roof to put up a TV, CB or ham radio antenna, make sure you keep your distance from power lines. And if the antenna should start to fall, don't hold on, even if you think you're clear of any lines.

Remember, you've got your life in your hands.

Steer clear of power lines.

No matter where you are, if you're not on the lookout for power lines, you're living dangerously.

If sailing is your hobby, scouting for power lines should be one of your habits.

Before raising the mast, check to see that the staging area is clear of power lines. And keep checking when you're trailering your boat, or sailing in small bodies of water.

If you're a balloonist, parachutist or glider pilot, be sure to look high and low for power lines. You'll have a good time, and live to tell about it.

Tell your children to play it safe.

Children get into lots of things. And that's to be expected.

But sometimes they get too close to power lines. And that's to be prevented.

Explain that you should never climb trees near power lines, or the poles that hold them.

Warn about kites and model airplanes and how you never fly them near any lines.

Tell them to stay away from lines that are down.

Every child should be given this course in self-defense:

When it comes to power lines, keep your distance.

Don't go hunting for trouble.

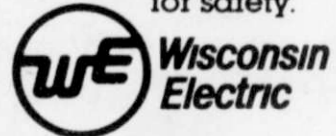

Most target shooters and hunters are very careful with their firearms. But, once in a while a misdirected bullet will cut a power line or destroy an insulator.

This is not only expensive and disruptive to a community, it's against the law. There are stiff fines and penalties.

But, more important, it's very dangerous.

The hunter, or an unsuspecting passer-by might be hit by or step on the downed power line.

Whenever you have a gun in your hand, don't lose sight of the need for safety.

Record 540 Area Fans Attend Kewaskum Night at Brewer Game

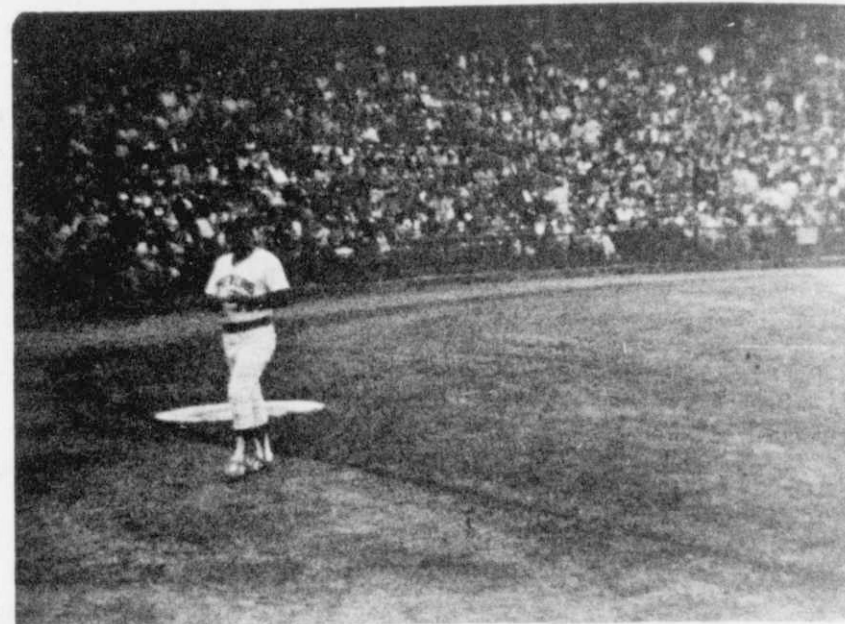

A record 540 Kewaskum area baseball fans were in attendance on "Kewaskum Night" at the Milwaukee Brewers game last Thursday night.

The Kewaskumites had good seats along the first base line, it was a beautiful night, the fans whooped it up, everyone had a good time and best of all the Brewers came from behind to defeat the world champion New York Yankees, 5-4, in an exciting game.

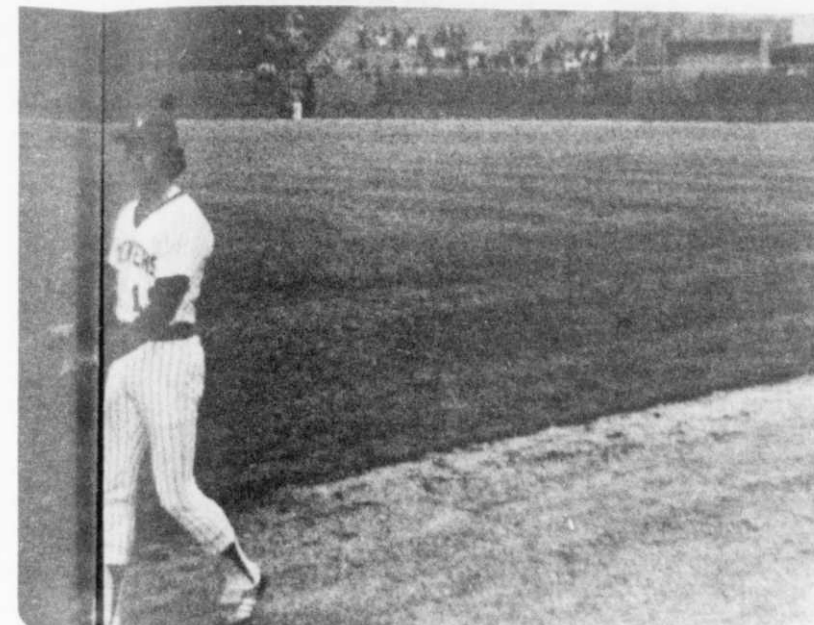

Co-chairman Dan Filzen, Chamber of Commerce president, said the 540 total was 170 more than attended Kewaskum Night last year, and it appears as if the community may be in for another attendance trophy. The total is about 29 percent of the entire population of Kewaskum.

Co-chairman Bob Danielsen, village president, threw out the first ball to catcher Charlie Moore. There were announcements before the game over the loud speaker about Kewaskum Night and the village's population and history. There were also announcements on the scoreboard "Fan-o-gram."

$62,093.03 for Payments in Lieu of Taxes on State-Owned Lands Disbursed to Counties

Friday, June 8, 1979, Page 11

A total of $62,093.03 for payments in lieu of taxes on state-owned lands has been disbursed to communities in seven counties in southeastern Wisconsin by the Department of Natural Resources, according to Robert F. Winnie, DNR southeast district director.

The payments were made under two categories, Winnie said. On lands purchased before July 1, 1969, the state pays local governments 50 cents an acre for lands classified for purposes of fish and game management, forests and parks, and central Wisconsin conservation areas. On lands purchased after that date, the amount paid in the first year is equal to the full property tax which would have been collected if the land were still on the tax rolls. The law directs that the payment shall decrease at the rate of 10 percent yearly after the first 100 percent payment. In the tenth year and every year following, the state will pay 10 percent of the first year's payment, but never less than 50 cents per acre.

Statewide, nearly $815,000 in payments was made to 740 communities this year.

Winnie noted that the payments exemplify the spirit of cooperatives between DNR and town and municipal governments in natural resources and environmental management concerns. "These payments emphasize how local and state government can work together to properly manage our Wisconsin environment for the benefit of ourselves and for future generations," he said.

Payments made to communities in the southeast district by county are:

A drug dependent is a person who takes a drug or medicine regularly, often out of habit. In time, his system becomes dependent upon it, with adverse bodily or psychological effects. Drug dependents include the user of over-the-counter remedies who admits openly that he or she "just lives on aspirin"; who takes a tablet or swig of antacid as a matter of course several times a day; or who uses a laxative daily "because I have to have it." Such habitual drugs should be discussed with a doctor or pharmacist to devise other methods of treatment.

June Law of the Month Emphasizes Trailer Requirements

Vacationers who pull boat, utility or camping trailers are reminded to make sure the towing vehicle and trailer are properly equipped and maintained to avoid trouble on the road.

In the "Law of the Month" for June, William A. Harvey, administrator of the division of enforcement and inspection, pointed out that the most frequent problem last year was tire failure. Many travelers were stranded on Wisconsin highways last year because they found it difficult to find a replacement tire for their trailers following a failure.

A spring check-up should include inspection of the wheel bearings for excessive wear, and repacking if necessary, Harvey said.

Wisconsin law requires tail lamps, stop lamps and directional signals, plus brakes on all trailers with a gross weight of 3,000 pounds or more. In addition to the hitch and coupling, trailers are required to have at least two separate lengths of safety chains, leveling bars or cables.

All travelers were reminded of the need to conserve gasoline. Engine tuneups, proper tire maintenance, traveling as light as possible, and observing the 55 mph speed limit, will help conserve fuel, Harvey said.

Trailers should be properly loaded in order to avoid swaying and fishtailing.

Local law enforcement agencies are urged to participate in the Law of the Month campaign, which selects timely laws for emphasis each month.

A Return to the Draft?

There has been much debate lately on whether the all-volunteer Army has been a success or whether a return to the draft may be necessary to assure our military preparedness.

Advocates of the all-volunteer force point to dramatically reduced desertion rates, fewer discipline problems, and higher average educational levels among enlistees. They say, too, that there has been no discernible increase in cost as compared to the mixed inducted-enlisted force we once had.

On the other hand, critics claim the volunteer Army does cost more, as wages must be higher than the subsistence wage paid to inductees. They also point to tests showing the reading ability of present soldiers to be less than that in the inducted Army. This raises concern as to whether they can operate complex military equipment. Concern has also been raised over the racial balance in the Army. Since the draft ended, the number of black enlisted personnel has increased by 110%, but the number of black officers has increased by only 2%.

Everyone agrees that our armed forces should be able to mobilize an efficient force if necessary. They also agree that there are now serious deficiencies in their present ability to do so. It is clear that more reserves are needed. For example, the Army says it now has less than one-third of the reservists it needs. Enlistment quotas have not been met by the other services in recent months, as well.

Congress is considering a gamut of legislation — from pre-draft registration to outright induction or alternative service. The House will soon be voting on a proposal for a registration system.

I am not convinced of the need for a return to the draft, so I will oppose both registration and induction. Those were never fair, and they created much bitterness that is best forgotten. We need a thorough study of what is needed to boost volunteer enlistments, followed by whatever action is necessary to implement those inducements.

Adrienne Thull Farmington Spelling Bee Champion

By DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

For some reason there was a complete and unusual hush over the gym at Farmington Elementary School. The word "assassin" was pronounced distinctly by Kathy West, a reading specialist, and broke the silence. Adrienne Thull proceeded to precisely name each consecutive letter in the word. After the final 'n' was stated, the 5th grade erupted in cheers. Adrienne returned to her classmates' midst to be congratulated with pats on the back and the knowledge that she had won first prize in the Farmington Spelling Bee on Friday, June 1.

The bee was a spelling project organized by 5th grade teacher, Diane Marschner. It included Mr. Potter's 4th and 5th grade, Mrs. Domasky's and Mr. Beske's 6th grades, as well as Marschner's group. Semifinals had narrowed the competition down to nine individuals: Julie Berres, Michelle Fowler and Darryl Landvatter represented the 4th grade; Adrienne Thull, Linda Jagler and Jan Eisenmann represented the 5th grade; Sharon Land, Mike Steinhardt and Sandy Petsch were the 6th grade representatives.

These nine were assembled last Friday to determine first, second and third place winners. The rules allowed the word to be initially stated to the participant. The speller must in turn repeat the word, spell it correctly, and restate the word. If the pronunciation is unclear or the exact spelling may be debatable (as in the case of homonyms), the contestant may ask to have the word used in a sentence and defined through a dictionary to clarify the word's identity and meaning. A speller cannot start over on a particular word unless he renames exactly those letters he has already stated. If one contestant spells a word incorrectly, he or she is eliminated from the competition. The next individual is given an entirely different word. This procedure continues until all but two contestants are eliminated. At this point, if the first person spells incorrectly, the second student gets a chance to re-spell it correctly. If this is accomplished, the second person is also given another word to spell. If the second contestant also misspells the word misspelled by the first student, another new word is pronounced for the first participant. At this point, rules can get rather complicated.

The two final contestants, Sharon Land and Adrienne Thull, battled in this manner over 22 words, including such sticklers as "campaign," "bankruptcy," "perennial," and "innocent." The word "carbohydrate" was corrected by Adrienne after which she proceeded to spell "assassin." The words used for the bee were taken from lists of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade level words used in the National Spelling Bee.

The final three contestants received ribbons and Top Cat Awards. First prize, of course, went to Adrienne Thull. Second prize was awarded to Sharon Land, and third prize was garnered by Sandy Petsch.
