The Kewaskum Fire Department's annual banquet for active and retired members and their wives or lady friends was held in the large meeting room at the fire station Saturday night. A cocktail hour preceded the dinner, which was followed by dancing, card playing and socializing.

After the dinner the 1979 Fire Fighter of the Year Award was presented to Dave Zehren by the department [top photo]. Two firemen who retired from active service with the department during the past year were awarded plaques. They are Joe Miller [center photo], who retired after 42 years with the department, and Dave Nigh [bottom photo], who retired after 15 years. The awards were presented by Assistant Chief Don Ehnert [left] and Chief Augie Bilgo.

William Schaub, who is 86 years old, was the oldest retired member at the banquet.

Village President Danielsen to Leave; Resigns Bank Position

by DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

Kewaskum Village President Robert Danielsen confirmed that he will be leaving Kewaskum and resigning his present positions with Valley Bank of Kewaskum and the Village of Kewaskum.

His formal resignation will be announced at Monday's regular village board meeting. He had informed the board members last Monday during a bid opening session.

Danielsen has been village president for 10 months since last April's election. He also served as a trustee for three years prior to that.

Danielsen was offered a position as vice president and director of the Polk County Bank in Balsam Lake, Wisconsin last Tuesday and will start

there on March 17. He has been a loan officer for seven years and an assistant vice president for one year at Valley Bank in Kewaskum. The Polk County Bank is not associated with the Valley Bank Corporation.

Danielsen said that it was "hard leaving, but it was something I couldn't pass up." Danielsen said he has enjoyed his association with Valley Bank and the village board members. Danielsen and his wife, Donna, regret leaving the Kewaskum area and their friends, but he is very enthused about his new position.

One alternative for the village board now is to appoint a new president. A special election is ruled out. This could only happen if the resignation had been at least 90 days before the usual April election date. Most likely, all board members would have to decline before anyone from outside the ranks of the board could be appointed as the new village president.

Annual Indian Awards Banquet Set for May 21

The Kewaskum High School Indian Booster Club held their first of four meetings last Tuesday, February 19.

The members have set the date of Wednesday, May 21, at 7:00 p.m. for the annual activity banquet. The Awards Banquet is to honor all students, mostly juniors and seniors, who participate in extra-curricular activities.

Rod Luck has tentatively accepted to be guest speaker. The Channel 12 sportscaster has the show "Sports Today," which has all the areas of sports for all ages.

The price of the meal will remain at $3.00 for adults and $2.00 for students. The menu will include chicken, dressing, corn, potatoes, gravy, cole slaw, buns, dessert and beverage. It will be served cafeteria style.

About 240 students receive a free banquet ticket, so this year the members have decided to try a new project to raise the money. It's called "Sponsor a Student" booster tickets. They will cost $1.00 each and will be sold in the community. All sponsors will receive recognition in the school district news letter and the local paper.

If we can cover the cost of the students tickets, the money which is left will be used to assist or promote some students with scholarships or music and art camps, etc.

Any parent or parents wishing to join the club and to help with this program, please come to the next meeting which will be held on Tuesday, March 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Damage in Thousands

Vandalism at Middle School Ends in Arrests

By DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

Early last Friday morning, the Kewaskum Middle School was vandalized by 2 youths who attend the school. They were apprehended by police along County Highway 'S' the same morning.

The damage was at least $1,000 and may total as much as $4,000. Several pre-finished wall panels in the middle school's all purpose area were slashed with razor blades. Windows within 6 classroom doors were also smashed. A mixture of tempera paint, several dozen eggs, molasses, barbeque sauce, and jelly garnished with pimento, which had been taken from the home ec. area, was distributed on the floor and walls. Hydrochloric acid was spilled on the tile floor in the science area and also dumped into the science teacher's file.

While on routine patrol around 5:10 a.m., Kewaskum police officer Bob Buddenhagen observed the two boys pouring paint on the school floor. Buddenhagen could only gain access to the building after notifying a school janitor and other police officers. The youths fled out the school's north door but were easily tracked in the fresh snow. Kewaskum police and the Washington County Sheriff's Department assisted in arresting them along County 'S' northeast of the village.

Apparently the 2 boys had remained in the school building overnight. On Thursday night, a recreation program and a teachers' negotiations meeting were being held. The boys had been told to leave several times, but eventually just mixed in and stayed. They most likely slept under the bleachers in the gym.

The youths were released from jail and put in the custody of their legal guardians. Circuit Judge J. Tom Merriam ordered them to avoid each others company and to observe a curfew of 9 p.m. on weeknights and 11 p.m. on weekends. There will be further legal proceedings before Circuit Judge James B. Schwalbach.

According to Middle School Principal Ken Erickson, the 2 students have been given 3 day suspensions. Further action by

Goal Meetings Planned For Kewaskum Schools

All residents of the Kewaskum School District are invited to attend one of two evening meetings planned to assist the district in setting goals for all schools as well as evaluating current district programs. The meetings will be held on March 5 and 6, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the high school library.

Residents who attend the meetings will be given an opportunity to review 20 goals adapted from the Phi Delta Kappa plan. The goals will then be rated and a final tabulation will be made. In addition to the goal setting, residents will be given an opportunity to grade the school system by filling out a report card on how the district is presently doing in the 20 goal areas.

The goal setting plan is part of the Kewaskum Schools new evaluation plan developed to perceive the effectiveness of school programs. This goal setting instrument will be used periodically to determine any change that is occurring in the effectiveness of the district's educational efforts.

Survey results from these meetings as well as other meetings held with civic groups, faculty members, and students will be submitted to the district's evaluation policy committee for review. Members of this committee include Floyd Brenholt and George Allmann of the administrative staff; Jan Rosenthal, Mary Ann Koss, James Borusky, Denise Leong, and John Stephani of the faculty; Byron Gessner, representing the school board; and Ken Ramthun and Margaret Mc Fadden, representing the community.

RESPIRE CARE

Cliff & Alice Kleinke Offer Vacations To Parents of Handicapped Children

Cliff Kleinke, a UW - Eau Claire physical education major, and his wife Alice, who teaches sixth and seventh grade at Chippewa Falls Middle School, find some of their weekends fully occupied with more than most student husband and wife teams.

They are a Respite Care family. On weekends and during vacations they take handicapped children into their home to care for them while the children's parents are on vacation.

Respite Care is a service to parents whose children are severely handicapped made available by Eau Claire County Department of Human Services and the United Cerebral Palsy Foundation of West Central Wisconsin. It is a service designed to provide relief time for parents of children requiring constant physical care and attention. Its aim is to provide severely handicapped children with appropriate care in a home atmosphere with people offering special love.

Cliff is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kleinke of Kewaskum.

Cliff and Alice are licensed to care for two children at a time. "Some parents have never left their child for several years and they are hesitant to have someone care for their child because they have so many special needs," Alice said. Parents of these children can take a minimum of two days and a maximum of 15 days vacation and know that their children are being well-cared for.

Families taking advantage of the Respite Care for their severely handicapped children are charged $15 per day, but a sliding scale is used so families can pay according to their incomes. Subsidies are available so respite families are paid the full fee. All fee collecting is done through the Department of Human Services.

The Kleinkes were given Red Cross instruction and medical training and also received training by a therapist in feeding and positioning. These techniques enable the child to be as comfortable as possible and enable him or her to eat and swallow their food properly.

Cliff and Alice live at 3207 Gutherie Rd., Eau Claire.

Tractor Safety

Certification

Course for Youth

If you're under 16, plan to be hired to work on a farm this summer and think you'll be driving a tractor and using tractor attachments, you should be certified, according to University of Wisconsin-Extension farm safety specialist Don Jensen.

Working with tractors is classified as a "hazardous occupation" by the U.S. Department of Labor, and according to the rules, you have to be certified before you can be hired.

From now until mid-June, most Wisconsin counties will be offering a tractor certification course through U.W. Extension. The course teaches safety and skill in handling tractors and attachments.

A minimum of 10 hours of study about tractors and tractor safety is required for certification. Time spent in the 4-H tractor project or in high school vocational agriculture courses can be applied to this requirement.

After completing study of tractor safety and handling, applicants must pass a written test and a practical tractor skills test.

A course will be offered by Washington County Vo-Ag instructors and University Extension at Slinger starting Saturday, March 15. For information, contact your Vo-Ag instructor or the University Extension 4-H Agent, Phone 338-4478, 644-5204, or 342-2929.

Vandals

the school will most likely be taken and expulsion is not ruled out. Before any final action that the school board might take, the total cost of replacing damaged items must be determined. This would include bids on the damaged wall panels.

Erickson was justifiably lavish in his praise of the Kewaskum Police Department's efficient and prompt response to the incident. By the time he arrived at the school, the police and the janitors had the situation under control, with the vandals arrested and the mess being cleaned up. He said, "I would like to thank the Kewaskum Police Department, the Kewaskum Fire Department, and the Washington County Sheriff's Department for the fine job they did, and janitors and teachers for pitching in and cleaning up."

The entire janitorial force under Eugene Muench was transferred from other buildings. Although Friday was an in-service day, teachers also assisted and the school's functions, such as the forensics meet, could continue. Erickson said that Friday went off beautifully and that without people like that on the staff, the school wouldn't have been able to do it.

Police Chief Don Hlavaty observed that this was the most serious vandalism within the village in a long time. He said that Kewaskum was actually pretty lucky compared to other areas.

When asked about possible causes of vandalism, Erickson could not pinpoint a reason, but said the kids themselves were the only ones who really knew. His wife, Marlene, who teaches at the Kewaskum elementary school, said the reason depends solely on the individual, whether it is to get back or to gain attention or whatever.

School Board OK's Additional Fees, Plans Drug Presentation

by DAN MEILAHN
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum Board of Education on Monday approved some additional fees for the 1980-81 school year.

New fees which students would pay are: $6.00 per semester for kindergarten milk and crackers; $10.00 per year for middle school and high school band instrument rental; $20.00 for behind-the-wheel drivers' education (up from $5.00); $5.00 for beginning Foods, Advanced Foods, Single Living, and Graphic Arts classes at the high school. All other fees remain the same, and a general instructional fee had been previously ruled out.

Athletic prices will be: $1.50 for adults per game; $1.00 for students per game; $.50 for students grade 6 and under; $15.00 for an adult season ticket. It will be optional for students to purchase a $10.00 season ticket.

The fees will help to allay some excess cost for certain courses involving expensive supplies. The fees will raise about $3700 annually.

The board approved this on a 4 - 2 vote after a motion to eliminate any new fees except for drivers' ed. was defeated.

Kewaskum Education Association President Bob Getter reminded the board prior to the vote that fees may philosophically violate the concept of free public education and that a student may be steered away from vocational courses and thereby limit his potential employment. Other questions were raised as to the cost of extra bookkeeping, of possible non-payment of fees, and the possibility of rebates.

Staffing for next year was considered. Supt. of Schools Floyd Brenholt said middle school enrollment will remain about the same, so no additional staff will be required there. He may recommend that the elementary school staff be reduced by one position, but since one teacher has recently resigned, a transfer between schools would solve the problem.

High School Principal Clark Pearson summarized next year's staffing as requiring 1/2 extra position in English and a one semester art intern. Most high school areas will require the same staff. The present

1/2-time foreign language teacher will become full-time next year. However, a drop in enrollment in agriculture courses will mean 1/2 position less there.

Board member Charles Ogi attempted to clarify his request for more information on any drug situation within the schools. He wished to know the possible extent of any drug problems. The principals present responded this would be difficult to determine.

It was agreed that Jack Theusch of the Washington County Sheriff's Dept. would give a presentation on drugs at the March 10 school board meeting. Student questionnaires may be another possible means of gathering information. Further parental and school involvement was encouraged by Dr. Ogi.

Charles DeWane was present to register a complaint about bus transportation of his daughter. He said he had transported her to school about eight times because the bus did not pick her up. Presently there is pick-up in the morning, but the bus drops her off nearly 1/2 mile from the residence in the evening.

A problem arises because County Highway "H" is under construction and has been closed for the winter. The returning bus route does not go into this area according to the board's bussing policy and to maintain a more expeditious bus route. DeWane claimed it was a driver's decision not to come in. He had called the bus company but said there were no satisfactory results.

The board voted to retain the present policy and bus route. An additional meeting will be held between the bus company, the board transportation committee, and DeWane.

Two teacher resignations were accepted. Janet Sanders, an elementary learning disabilities teacher, and Donna Johanson, a third grade teacher at Wayne Elementary, will both be moving out of the area.

Munich Players to Present Play at West Bend Church

The Ernst Jurina Theatre Group of Munich, Germany, will present the 17th century medieval play, "The Mystery of the Holy Mass," at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 4, in St. Frances Cabrini Catholic Church, 1025 S. 7th Avenue, West Bend.

The mystery play has a cast of characters including Christ, Adam, Moses, Saul-Paul, John the Evangelist, Disbelief, Ignorance and Wisdom. It portrays the mystery of human salvation, its cause, promise, fulfillment, its testimony and transcendence in the light of revealed truth.

"The play," according to Ernst Jurina, director, "places in clear perspective the covenant relationship between God and humanity, as outlined in the old and new testaments." Its content and thrust are "religious and catechetical, bringing people closer to the meaning of the Mass and the unchanged essence of the Mass, despite the liturgical changes of recent years."

Tickets may be purchased at the door of St. Frances Cabrini Church next Tuesday evening. The play is open to the public and the admission is $4.00. Curtain time is at 7:30 p.m.

February Kiwanis Students of the Month

Barbara Schulz

Barbara Schulz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Schulz, and Tom Kern, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Kern, both of rural Allenton, have been chosen as Kiwanis students for the month of February.

Barb has been actively involved in the Future Farmers of America for the past three years. She served as secretary in her junior year and this year was elected president. She is also active in the Future Homemakers of America, and for two years assumed the responsibilities of Historian-Reporter for that club. Barb is a four-year member of the German club. She has played in the Concert band and Symphonic band for two years each, and the Pep band and Marching band for four years. She played in the Pit band for "The Sound of Music," "My Fair Lady" and "Fiddler on the Roof." Barb is a member of the annual staff and AFS club. She is listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students" 1979-80. Tom was inducted into the National Honor Society in his junior year. This year, he is president of NHS. Tom has been very active in sports, having participated in football, basketball and track for four years. He served on both the prom court and homecoming court. Tom was Kewaskum's representative to Badger Boy's State in his junior year. He is a member of the FFA club. He is also listed in "Who's Who Among American High School Students."

Donna Lehmann Sno-Chiefs Queen

Donna Lehmann

On Saturday, February 16, the Kewaskum Sno-Chiefs held their annual Sno-Ball at Amerahn.

Bob Kuether provided the music and from 8:30 - 10:30 p.m. a live broadcast on WTKM radio, Hartford, was featured.

The dance was a big success, thanks to the club members who sold the tickets. There were a few outstanding "sellers" who should be mentioned. They are Betty Bonlender, and Norman and Helen Zuehlke.

Last year some of the club's members asked Wendi Goeden to be the club's representative to the AWSC Work Shop at Oshkosh where a queen for AWSC was chosen. This year the club decided to have a queen contest.

Receiving the honor this year to represent the club at all the functions and the Fall AWSC Workshop will be Donna Lehmann, daughter of William and Clare Lehmann of Hwy. H, Kewaskum.

Donna is 16 years of age and her goal is to become a cosmologist. She enjoys choir, art, snowmobiling, ice skating and was on the make-up crew for all the school plays.

Donna is a very happy "bubbly" and friendly girl and is well liked in school by students and teachers. She is the Sno-Chiefs first queen and a good person to be representing the club for the year 1980.

Next year Donna will have the honor of crowning a queen at the Sno-Ball on February 21, 1981. The applications will be available at Wes & Rosie's Tavern and The Glacier Inn.

Any girl who is 16-21 years of age, a member of the club, single, and interested in entering, is welcome. The deadline will be two weeks before the dance and the judging will be done the week of the dance.

Good luck and success to Donna in her year of reigning as the Kewaskum Sno-Chiefs Queen.

Senior Citizens Using State Parks

Over 28,000 Senior Citizen Cards were sold in Wisconsin during the first year they were available, according to Department of Natural Resources' officials.

In noting that 28,325 of the cards had been purchased through December 31 of last year, David Weizenicker, deputy director of state parks, pointed out that the number of senior citizens served by the recreation cards is substantially greater than the number of cards sold.

"Our discussions with Senior Citizens indicated that free admission to state parks is the main reason they purchase the card," Weizenicker said. "In the case of a husband and wife, both over 65, often only one of the two purchases a card, because if the card holder is an occupant of a vehicle then that vehicle and all its occupants are admitted to state parks and forests free of charge," he continued.

Senior Citizen Recreation Cards are available for sale to Wisconsin residents age 65 or older. Cards may be obtained at state parks and forests as well as at offices of the county clerks. A one time fee of $7.50 is required and the card is valid as long as the holder is a resident of Wisconsin.

Since the Annual Resident Vehicle Admission Sticker is now $10, the Senior Citizen Recreation Card is even more of a bargain according to Weizenicker.

Holders of the recreation card are also provided free fishing and small game hunting privileges.

Travelling out of the country? Don't buy nonprescription drugs in a foreign country, warns the Medical Letter. Many countries don't require that over-the-counter drugs be proven safe or effective. Even prescription drugs may vary in strength and quality from country to country. They advise travellers to carry a full supply of prescription or nonprescription drugs needed for the duration of the trip--and have them properly labeled to avoid problems with customs officers.

Recycling Industries Announce Contest for School-Aged Children

By Bob Stodola
County 4-H & Youth Agent

Recycling is becoming a popular word lately. Recycling saves natural resources, fights pollution, conserves energy, reduces foreign imports, cuts down on landfill space, and can even save money. To help promote recycling and an understanding of recycling, the second annual recycling contest is being co-sponsored by Wisconsin recycling companies that are members of the National Association of Recycling Industries (NARI) of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel (ISIS). The contest is also co-sponsored by UW-Extension and supported by the Wisconsin Solid Waste Recycling Authority, the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, the Wisconsin Citizens Environmental Council and the Wisconsin Association for Environmental Education.

NARI (National Association of Recycling Industries) includes recyclers of nonferrous metals, such as aluminum, copper, lead, and zinc, along with recyclers processing paper, textiles, and rubber. There are about 800 members firms nationally.

ISIS (Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel) is a trade association predominantly of processors and brokers of iron, steel and non-ferrous metal scrap. Nationally, ISIS has 1,300 members firms.

The contest is open to children in grades seven to twelve, but entries can be through 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts or other youth organizations as well as through schools.

Contest entries are in four categories. Category one is an essay on recycling and is open for children grades seven through nine. The second category is for posters from children in grades seven through nine. Categories three and four are essays and posters respectively from children in grades ten through twelve. Prizes will include a plaque presented to the winner in his or her home town. Last year over 100 entries were received. Winners were Kay Morkrid of Viola, Steve Ulrich of North Freedom and Marvin Flick of Milladore.

The deadline for application is April 18; for more information and an application form, contact your County Extension 4-H Agent, Robert A. Stodola, at 338-4478, your junior or senior high school science teacher, a local recycling firm, or your district office of the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

'All About Letters'
Booklet Available
To School Students

As part of its nationwide National Letter Writing Week observance (February 24-March 1), the U.S. Postal Service, in cooperation with the National Council of Teachers of English, is offering a booklet on letter writing for school youngsters according to Kewaskum Postmaster Frank Beesten.

"All About Letters" is a 64-page publication designed for students in grades six through 12. The NCTE, an organization of some 100,000 teachers of English, has been licensed by the Postal Service to print, accept orders for and distribute copies to public, private and parochial schools and the general public.

The booklet's three sections offer guidance and instruction for all types of letters. The first section, for example, includes letters from personalities such as composer-performer Stevie Wonder, the former New England Patriot star Darryl Stingley and noted columnists Abigail Van Buren (Dear Abby) and Joyce Lain Kennedy. Students will learn how to write job application letters, resumes, fan letters pen pal letters, letters to editors, consumer complaints and how to avoid being cheated by mail fraud swindlers.

Other portions of the booklet list addresses for organizations offering publications by mail on hundreds of subjects of interest to students, from "archeological digs" to "zoo populations."

A third section instructs students on proper ways to address their mail, why ZIP Codes are important and provides a list of various postal services available to the public.

Postmaster Beesten said teachers, parents and students can obtain copies of the booklet by writing to the National Council of Teachers of English, Department A, 1111 Kenyon Road, Urbana IL 61801 and enclosing a check or money order for $1.50 for a single copy, or 75 cents per copy when ordered in classroom sets of 20 or more copies.

"All About Letters" cannot be purchased from the Postal Service; only through the NCTE which has been licensed by the Postal Service to handle orders.

County Sheriff's Department Warns Against 'Government Surplus Ads'

A bulletin entitled "Consumer-Trade News" was received by the Washington County Sheriff's Department warning consumers "Don't be misled by Government surplus ads."

Persons interested in buying government surplus vehicles are warned about a current sales gimmick being promoted by "Government Information Services" of Elgin, Illinois.

Government Information Services, which is not a government agency, has been placing advertisements in local newspapers and shopper guides offering government surplus jeeps at $40, cars at $55 and trucks for $60.

An investigation by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture Consumer Protection Division disclosed that the firm does not have any government surplus vehicles to sell. The gimmick is that persons responding to the ads receive an order form for government surplus directories which the firm sells at two for $16. All the directories do is list government agencies which will provide free information to anyone interested in buying surplus equipment. Since this information is available to consumers from the government free of charge, complaints have been received objecting to this type of promotion.

In view of the fact that the directories are not a bona fide offer to sell the vehicles at the advertised prices, it appears that the ads are in violation of Wisconsin's advertising law. U.S. Postal authorities and the Illinois Attorney General's Office have been alerted and apparently are checking in to the promotion.

Federal authorities have reported that very few, if any, jeeps are currently available since the U.S. Department of Transportation has found that the M151 jeep is unsafe for general highway use. These jeeps are usually cut up and sold for scrap.

Consumers wishing to purchase government surplus material may obtain free information by writing Regional Office, General Services Administration, 230 S. Dearborn Street, Chicago, IL 60604; DPDO, Building 2184, Fort McCoy, Sparta, WI 54656; or DOD Surplus Sales, PO Box 1370, Battle Creek, MI 49016.

Sheriff Clarence Schwartz would like to caution the citizens of Washington County against being "ripped off" by this type of Government Surplus scheme. It is suggested that these types of offers be questioned before money is invested to determine just what is received for your advanced money.

IS YOUR HOBBY A MONEYMAKER? IF SO, TAXES ARE IMPORTANT

[Third in a series of articles]

Many people operate a part-time business after putting in a regular workweek at a salaried job. Although these "moonlight" businesses provide extra income, they are often outgrowths of hobbies or talents which provide a great deal of personal satisfaction. Sometimes these people hope to one day give up regular jobs and earn a living doing what they love most.

A computer analyst liked to relax after his commute from the city by building a sailboat in his suburban garage. His boat was much admired on the water, and a fellow sailor asked him to build a boat for him. Now, our computer analyst was being paid for his "hobby." As his reputation as a craftsman grew, more and more orders for sailboats came in, his garage had become exclusively a "shop," and his hobby was making a profit. He eventually hired an assistant to help run what had grown from a hobby to a cottage — or garage — industry and then into a very busy and profitable small business.

These same circumstances can apply to the antique collector who is now a dealer; the homemaker who operates a babysitting service; the bus driver who is developing a peach farm; and the magazine editor who runs an editorial service from his home. There is sometimes no clear distinction between freelancers, hobbyists who sell their work, and full-fledged small business operators — and the various stages in between.

Many people fail to realize substantial tax savings, says the Wisconsin Institute of Certified Public Accountants, because they don't realize their hobby or sideline is actually a business. If the IRS decides that you are more interested in pleasure than profit, they may want to consider your activity a hobby. In that case they will tax the income from your hobby, but will consider any losses purely personal and therefore, not deductible as business expenses.

A business that is as much hobby as anything else, the CPA Society advises, will be allowed to deduct operating expenses, but only up to the amount of taxable income the operation produces. Operating losses, which an established company can write off against taxable income, even applying any excess to previous or future years, have no tax effect for the hobbyist; he must absorb them.

If your business spends more than it earns, you must be able to show that the activity is engaged in for the specific purpose of making a profit in order to claim deductions. What's more, you must have some justification for your hope of making a profit; your qualifications and experience must be such that the expectation is realistic. And finally, you must conduct the business as a hard-headed, profit-motivated person would — advertising, promoting, doing what you can to maximize sales and minimize costs.

A good starting point in establishing that a true business exists — and it is just a starting point, the CPAs tell us — is to actually show a profit. The rule is that there must be taxable income in any two or more out of five consecutive years. Then it will be presumed you are engaged in an activity for profit. The importance of adequate books and records cannot be over emphasized.

An editor who adds to his income with freelance editing work is simply moonlighting. However, if he operates an editorial service, it may qualify as a business, but it would be difficult to show where his regular professional work ends and his part-time business begins. His professional library, association dues, and subscriptions could be necessities for either job. An electric typewriter, purchased exclusively for use in the editorial service, could be considered depreciable business equipment. However, it would be difficult to show that the editor never used the typewriter for his regular job, or simply for a freelance assignment.

Your business "premises" is another sensitive issue. The deduction for a home office was abused for so long that a few years ago Congress cracked down. To qualify as a business expense, an office at home must be used exclusively and on a regular basis as the taxpayer's principal place of business. If the antique dealer runs his service from the family basement — then he must show that the family does not use the basement at all. The dealer must be able to prove that customers visit the basement office to do business on a regular basis, and he must keep careful records of the dates of those visits.

A small business can also get investment credit for tools and equipment, new or used, purchased during the year. To qualify, items purchased must be useable over an extended period and they cannot include inventory or real estate, although certain building improvements do meet the requirements. The investment credit is a sort of rebate by the government of up to 10 percent of the purchase price.

The rate at which a company depreciates or amortizes its fixed assets will affect its after-tax income. There alternative ways of depreciating, with still newer ones now being considered by Congress.

The owners of a business can enjoy certain tax-favored benefits — pension and profit sharing, company-paid Individual Retirement Accounts, and sick-pay plans, for example — usually allowable only if the same benefits are extended to other employees.

It's a rare company, however small, that prepares its own tax returns with no professional assistance. Individuals whose income is all from one source and who have no sizable deductions often can and do fill out their own Form 1040 — their tax obligations are quite simple. For businesses, say the CPAs, taxes are never simple.

(A fourth article in this series, about short and long tax forms will appear in our next issue).

of productive agricultural land each year to urbanization, he said, in addition to the equivalent loss of another 3 million acres through erosion of irreplaceable topsoil.

"American people have been spoiled," Bauer said. "We have always had more agricultural land and produced more food than we have needed. We could allow waste without paying a serious price. We could let serious erosion rob the soil of its productivity. We could convert prime farmlands to roads, business and industrial sites, airfields, houses and other uses, without fully realizing that these practices would lead to a time when the demand on agricultural land would exceed the available supply."

USDA studies indicate that if the present rate of agricultural land loss continues, Bauer said, the U.S. will not be able to produce enough food by the year 2030 to both meet the needs of its own expanding population, and continue to supply food for export abroad.

Dettmanns Attend NACD Convention In Houston, Texas

"Unless the people of this nation change their attitude toward farmland loss and the conservation of our soil, water and related natural resources the time is rapidly approaching when both agricultural land and water may become a limited, scarce resource," said Lyle Bauer, President of the National Assn. of Conservation Districts (NACD).

Bauer, a wheat farmer from Harper, Kansas, spoke at the 34th Annual Convention of the National Association of Conservation Districts which was conducted recently at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel in Houston, Texas. (Feb. 10-14, 1980). More than 2,000 conservation district officials from throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands attended the convention which had as its theme "1980: Year of Decision." Norbert Dettman, Boltonville, Washington County Soil and Water Conservation District Supervisor, attended with his wife Louella. Louella is on the National Board of Directors of NACD and president of the North Central Women's Auxiliary.

The NACD president described the increasing urbanization of rural areas by metropolitan and urban centers as a major factor in the continuing loss of agricultural land. The nation is losing more than 3 million acres

Another Scandal

The House Ethics Committee, on which I serve, is undertaking an investigation of bribery and influence-peddling among Members of Congress, as a result of an FBI probe and "sting" operation. It is a serious responsibility, and one that I wish were not necessary.

After the "Watergate" political scandals, everyone hoped we had seen the last of government officials being corrupted. But last week's revelations of the FBI probe ruined that dream.

That is sad, but at least now there is a tougher attitude in Washington about ending corruption and punishing the guilty. Ironically, the "Watergate" scandals did result in several reforms that better enable us to prevent, detect, and deal with such violations of public trust. Let's examine some of the changes.

First, both the House and Senate have cleaned up the way individual offices of their Members operate. That was needed to prevent political uses of taxpayer dollars and salary kick-backs and the like to Congressmen.

Second, Congress enacted the "Ethics in Government" Act to clearly define unethical behavior by public officials and set up clear procedures for Congress and the Justice Department to deal with corruption, including "Watergate"-style Special Prosecutors independent of congressional or Presidential influence.

Third, Congress placed limits on campaign contributions and enacted tougher disclosure and reporting requirements for Congressional and Presidential election campaigns. The intent was to remove undue influence by groups or individuals in the election process and disclose to everyone how campaigns raise and spend money.

Fourth, both houses toughened their codes of ethics, enacting such things as limits on outside income, restrictions on staff political activities, and tougher requirements for disclosing and reporting of personal and official financial activities of Members of Congress.

I am happy to report that both houses, too, now have aggressive Ethics Committees to police and discipline Members of Congress.

There is still a need, however, for stronger penalties for errant Members — such as automatic expulsion for those convicted of felonies — and stronger power for Congress to police its Members. Hopefully the latest scandal, as distasteful and sad as it is, will finally convince Congress of that need.

Bicycle Fatalities

At 11-Year Low

Wisconsin ended 1979 with fewer bicycle fatalities than in any year since 1968, the state department of transportation reported recently.

James O. Peterson, highway safety coordinator, said 19 bicycle riders were killed in 1979, compared to 24 in 1978 and 26 in 1977, the previous low was 15 in 1968, while the highest number killed was 40 in 1973.

Peterson said six of the 1979 bicycle fatalities occurred in urban areas, and 13 on rural roads.

Pedestrian fatalities remained at 118, the same as in 1978, while motorcycle deaths rose from 112 in 1978 to a record 123 in 1979.

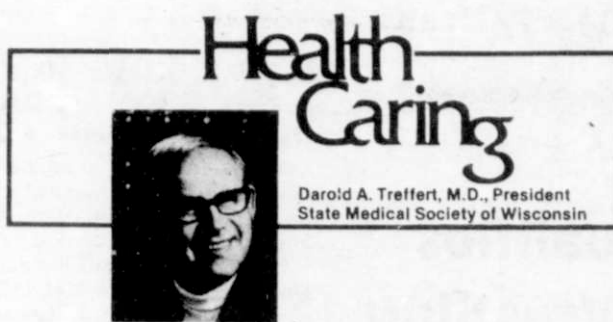

Wisconsin ended the year with a preliminary total of 994 fatalities, compared to 998 in 1978. However, Peterson said, the fatality records are kept open for three months, so the 1979 total will probably increase.

Ski Safety Rules

Skiing is one of Wisconsin's most popular winter sports. While some of us dread that first snowfall each winter, ski enthusiasts eagerly await it.

With the widespread interest in skiing, there has come an increase in ski injuries. While most skiers enjoy their sport without serious mishap, statistics show us that three of every 1,000 skiers on the slopes each day will get hurt. On days when skiing conditions are poor the ratio sometimes mounts to as high as 13 injuries for each 1,000 participants.

Doctors who have studied ski injuries report that most accidents involve inexperienced skiers who attempt ski runs too difficult for their ability. Loss of control, which means going too fast to be able to stop in an emergency, is the single leading cause of ski accidents.

Loss of control stems from poor physical condition, inexperience, faulty technique, fatigue and excessive speed. Many accidents occur near the end of a long morning or afternoon on the slopes.

Well-run ski resorts maintain a constant campaign for safe skiing. Ski instructors and ski patrols remind skiers of the elements of ski safety and urge avoidance of fatigue. Trails should be well marked and slopes closed when conditions become too icy or otherwise dangerous.

Most ski accidents can be prevented through good physical conditioning, good equipment and learning to ski under control. It's important that individuals engage in a pre-season exercising program to strengthen the legs — particularly the knees and ankles.

Ski equipment, moreover, should include release bindings and safety straps on skis. Learn to ski under the guidance of an instructor and always be sure to check the conditions of the slope before taking the lift up for the first run.

Appoint Panzer to Assembly Committee

Newly-elected State Representative Mary Panzer (R-Brownsville) has been appointed to the Assembly Committee on Financial Institutions. Panzer was recommended for the position by Assembly Republican Floor Leader John C. Shabaz.

The Committee reviews all legislation dealing with banks, savings and loans and insurance companies. The Committee is also charged with overseeing any consumer legislation affecting costs of financial institutions.

Panzer was appointed to the Committee because of her background in banking. She has been a credit analyst for United Banks of Madison for two years and earlier served as administrative assistant to former Senator Walter Hollander and the Legislature's Joint Finance Committee.

"Working in the financial world is not new to me," said Panzer. "My past experiences in banking will be put to use when the time comes for me to make decisions affecting the fiscal integrity of the state of Wisconsin."

Wisconsin Outdoors Report

Southeast District

Because of a lack of snow cover, snowmobiling in Sheboygan and northern Washington Counties is restricted to the frozen lakes and rivers. Ice fishing conditions are good on most of the district waters. Some northern pike are being caught from Eagle Lake and Browns Lake in Racine County, Okauchee Lake in Waukesha County and Big Cedar Lake in Washington County.

Ice fishermen are reminded that the game fish season closes on most waters on March 1 and that ice fishing shanties must be removed from the ice by March 5th on inland waters south of Highway "64". Some walleyes are being caught in Pike Lake in Washington County and Oconomowoc Lake in Waukesha County. Crappies, perch and bluegills are biting well on most waters. Rabbit hunting conditions are still generally good.

Fond du Lac County—Snowmobiling on Lake Winnebago is excellent. Fishing has been spotty with a few nice catches of walleyes.

Dodge County—Panfish are being taken on Fox Lake. Very few walleyes and northerns are being taken on Beaver Dam Lake. Catches are tapering off.

Winnebago County—Walleye fishing on Lake Winnebago was slow over the weekend due to the cold weather. Anglers are still catching sauger and walleyes but fishing is sporadic. Anglers are concentrated in the area near Pipe on the east shore where they are catching walleyes. Fishing for walleyes is also fair to good in the Point Comfort area south of Oshkosh. Perch are also biting south of the river mouth at Oshkosh.
