New Faces in Local Business Community

Carol and Don Sedgwick in the shoe repair area of their new business, "The Village Bootery."

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

After nearly a month of renovating and stocking their store, Carol and Don Sedgwick have opened the doors of their new business, "The Village Bootery."

The Sedgwicks have purchased the building which formerly housed "Just A Bit Crafty" and remodeled the store to handle their business, shoe sales and repair.

Before moving their business to Kewaskum, Carol and Don had a store, Wiskow Shoes, on 36th and Villard in Milwaukee. They were at the Villard location for 30 years.

Sedgwick said his store will handle a full line of name brand men's shoes, a basic line of ladies shoes and offer a complete shoe repair service.

The Sedgwicks are having a grand opening on Wednesday, June 15.

Second Vote Narrowly Passes Loan Resolution

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

On a 29 to 22 vote, electors of the Kewaskum School District again gave the Kewaskum School Board the okay to apply for a $400,000 State Trust Fund Loan.

The second meeting, held Monday night, became necessary when District Administrator John Long was informed the original resolution approved at the May 2nd meeting could not be accepted by the State Trust Fund officials because of a discrepancy regarding the length of the loan. The district's application showed a 20-year payback, while the electors had approved a resolution stating a 10-year payback.

During Monday night's meeting, discussion came up as to whether or not this was the best route for the district to take in getting the various projects accomplished. They include roof repairs, energy-saving steps, etc.

The new application will carry a 7 1/4% interest rate, whereas the original application approved on a 97 to 5 vote on May 2nd, would have had an 8 1/4% interest rate.

The school board will now re-submit the amended application for state approval.

J & J Station and Garage to Become Part Of Schaefer Operations

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

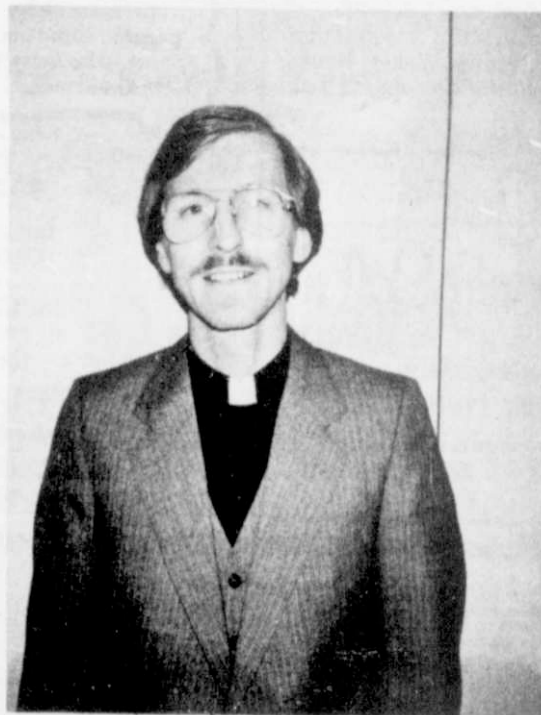

The property formerly occupied by J & J Filling Station and Garage at the corner of Main Street and Riverview Drive in Kewaskum will become part of the Schaefer Trucking Company operations which surround it.

Wally Ebert, from Schaefer Trucking, said present plans are to tear down the old part of the filling station and convert the new high garage area into a general repair garage for sandblasting, painting and cleaning of Schaefer's trailers.

We need the extra room, Ebert commented, even with the new garage we just built we don't have enough room for all of our equipment. The cleared area will be used for additional parking.

Unseasonable Weather Affects Kiwanis Pool Use

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

At Monday night's Village Board meeting, Trustee Richard Schmidt, Chairman of the Parks and Recreation Committee, said the unseasonable weather has proven a problem in opening the Kiwanis Park Pool.

Schmidt told the board his committee had decided the governing factor in deciding if the pool will be open or not will be water temperature. Other

Dear Friends

The members of our medical profession, be they doctors, dentists, nurses, bring a great deal of dedication as well as knowledge to their work. A conscientious concern for the patient is as necessary to healing as are the medical skills. When the need arises, they serve long and late, and they merit the high esteem that our community feels for the medical profession.

This 1934 photo was taken on the west side of the driveway at the former John Stellpflug, Sr. meat market on Main Street. John Stellpflug, Jr. [left] and Bruce Van Blarcom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Van Blarcom are shown in the photo. The boys are in front of the igloo they built. The dog, Jeff, belonged to the Van Blarcoms. The Stellpflugs are now owners of a supermarket in New Holstein. Bruce passed away at the age of seven years. (Photo submitted by Frances Van Blarcom) communities have set a minimum water temperature standard of 65 degrees before they open their pools said Schmidt. The committee felt Kewaskum should follow this same guideline. There have been a few warm days, but not enough to bring the water temperature up to at least 65 degrees.

Poor swimming weather has also affected the sale of swim passes. To date, 235 passes have been sold compared to 500 last year said Schmidt. Several passholders have asked if they will get a refund on the swim passes. Schmidt said there would be no refunds. "We're not God," said Schmidt, "we can't control the weather."

In other action, the board opened bids for fencing around the horseshoe pits in Kiwanis Park. Five companies bid on the job with Century Fence of Waukesha lowest at $2,775, followed by Packerland Fence, Manitowoc, $2,800; U.S. Steel, Menomonee Falls, $2,808; West Bend Fence, Kewaskum, $3,295, and Munson Fence, Milwaukee, $3,575. The Parks and Recreation Committee will review the bids and make a recommendation at the June 20th meeting.

Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo informed the board the new pump for well #1 had not arrived yet, but it was expected any time and the well should be back in operation by the end of the week.

Bilgo also said equipment was being moved in to begin work on the new well #3. He expected drilling to start this week.

Wastewater Superintendent Pete Albers informed the board, clarifier covers for the treatment plant had been ordered and would be installed around Labor Day.

A building permit to construct a drive-in window and canopy was approved for the A & W Drive-In.

Trustee Howard Laubenstein, board Plan Commission representative, informed the board the commission had reviewed the latest Timblin Condominium plans and a public hearing on the project has been scheduled for June 20th.

Laubenstein informed the board his Protection and Public Safety Committee had received three complaints on weeds not being cut. Village Administrator Dan Schmidt said registered letters giving the owners 15 days to correct the situation were being sent out. Schmidt said, if, after the 15 days, the problem has not been corrected, the village will have the weeds cut and the cost added to the owner's tax bill as a special assessment.

All Class A and B liquor applications were approved at this meeting.

ISABELLE STRAUB WILL SPEAK AT CLUB MEETING

The West Bend Town and Country Club's monthly meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Thursday, June 16, at the Trinity Church conference room.

WHICH POLIO VACCINE?

There are two polio vaccines, one given by mouth and one injected. The oral vaccine is a live polio virus which has merely been weakened to make it less dangerous than the wild polio virus. There have been rare cases of the oral vaccine causing polio [55 cases after 193,000,000 doses]. In contrast, there have been no cases of polio paralysis with the injectable vaccine, presumably because the virus is killed during processing. [Annals of Internal Medicine] letters to the editor ...

To the Editor:

We were at the special meeting called by the School Board Monday evening for the purpose of borrowing $400,000 from the State Trust Fund, and we wish more of you had been able to make it. The meeting was not at all fair; it was not logical; and we're not even certain it was legal.

The meeting wasn't fair because a request for paper balloting was refused. People around us felt that this insistence on a public vote was an attempt to intimidate those voters who were present. The results must be public, but the individual vote of a private citizen should remain secret. This is the American way.

The meeting wasn't logical because at the beginning of the meeting we were informed that we could not vote to cancel the $400,000 loan approved by a special meeting in May because it would be illegal. The idea of the Board ending up borrowing $800,000 bothered some of us. After the new request to borrow $400,000 was passed, all of a sudden it became legal to vote to cancel the previously approved loan. This doesn't make sense.

The legality of the meeting is also somewhat suspect. Yes, it was properly called, but it was not properly run. After a short period of questions from the audience (but no answers from the Board) Jerry Buchel called the question, thus cutting off debate. This was odd since Mr. Buchel has strongly complained in the past about the lack of citizen input. Anyway, the vote was taken immediately on calling the question. Debate was cut off on a vote of 29 to 22. Yes, cutting off debate had the majority of votes, but it did not have the two-thirds vote that a motion limiting debate requires. Furthermore, the closeness of the vote certainly indicated that other citizens had something to say. Madame President, Mrs. Goeden, must take responsibility for this illegal muffling of citizen comment.

Yes, the meeting was unfair and illogical, and citizen input was illegally limited. Mrs. Goeden asked the group of citizens if they did not trust the Board. After this meeting, Mrs. Goeden, why should we?

Sincerely,
Grandma & Clan

To the Editor:

We attended the special meeting called to approve a $400,000 loan from the State Trust Fund Monday evening, and we were quite upset about some of the things that transpired there. It seemed that the Board and the people in the audience were on different wave lengths. The questions from the audience and the infrequent responses from the Board seemed rarely to be related to each other, and telling people to attend Board meetings is not an adequate answer. There seemed to be a general misunderstanding with many questions and no answers.

No one in the audience approved of letting the buildings deteriorate, and all agreed that the maintenance should be done. The audience was really concerned with what steps the Board was taking to prevent our having to borrow another $400,000 next year. There was no clear answer from the Board. The audience also wanted some assurance that the money would be spent only on building repairs; again there was no clear answer, just a general indication that most of it would be.

What bothered us the most, however, was the way citizen comments and input were stifled. Calling the question is a legitimate parliamentary move.

It does, however, have specific rules governing its use. The most basic part of this motion is that it requires a two-thirds majority to pass; since there was not a two-thirds majority the debate should have been allowed to continue. Instead, the debate was cut off. Legitimate questions were ignored, and this was not fair.

Better preparation and knowledge of parliamentary procedure would have prevented having people leave this meeting feeling frustrated. The district needs greater citizen involvement in the schools. Meetings like this only frustrate it.

Sincerely,
Robert G. Serwe

75 Years Ago

June 6, 1908

The Village Board let the contract for furnishing iron stringers and another foot bridge for the Main Street bridge to the Milwaukee Bridge and Iron Company for $1,080.

While enroute to West Bend to get a load of cement Tuesday, S. Row and N. Weingartner of Boltonville met with quite an accident. While going down the hill between Barton and West Bend, the clevis pin which was worn came out frightening the horses to a run. They were finally run into the bank throwing both men from the wagon. Mr. Row had one rib broken and an arm and limb badly bruised. Mr. Weingartner was pretty well bruised and scratched but for his presence of mind in catching the horses, Mr. Row would probably have met his death as he was lodged between horses and wagon in such a way that he could not free himself. Both horses were also injured.

The Reilly farm near Boltonville was sold last Monday to Joseph M. Rodenkirch for $9,000 and Mr. Rodenkirch's livery property at West Bend.

The marriage of Miss Regina Mueller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mueller of the Town of Ashford, and John S. Schaeffer, son of Jacob Schaeffer of Auburn took place at Campbellsport last Tuesday.

Memorial Day Address

Due to rainy weather the Kewaskum Memorial Day Parade was cancelled and the program scheduled at the Robert G. Romaine Post 384 clubhouse was held at the high school.

The main speaker was Lieutenant Victor A. Edelmann, a native of New Jersey. After being graduated from Rumson-Fair Haven Regional High School, he attended Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. During his four years at Miami U., he was a midshipman in the campus' Navy ROTC program. He was graduated in 1978 with a BA in sociology, and was commissioned as an Ensign in the Navy soon thereafter. Lt. Edelmann has served aboard the USS Tacoma [PG-92] as the Weapons Officer and the USS Sterrett [CG-31] as the Navigator. He is presently serving as an officer recruiter with Navy Recruiting District, Milwaukee.

It was suggested that we publish Lt. Edelmann's eloquent address, which was as follows:

MEMORIAL DAY

I am indeed honored to join with the citizens of Kewaskum and Americans everywhere in observing this Memorial Day, a day set aside in remembrance of those who fought and died for our nation.

Today, we stand in the shadow of giants — men with great hearts, and great ideals — who marched away to face the enemy and never returned.

All too often amid the planned picnics, the double headers and the arrival of straw-hat season, the real meaning of Memorial Day is lost. In my remarks today, I intend to consider that meaning and the message it brings to each one of us.

Memorial Day grew out of the ceremonies that honored the fallen soldiers of the Union and Confederate armies. When the tragic war between the states ended in 1865, the Union had been saved. But the problems of peace seemed as complex and vast as those of war. The states were united in name only.

The cannons were still but their echos rumbled throughout the land. Everywhere there were bitter memories. In the south, where Atlanta lay smoldering... in the west, with Vicksburg still numb from siege and to the north, at Gettysburg, where Cemetery Ridge recalled the terrible Armageddon that took more than 43,000 lives in three days.

It was not easy to forget the losses suffered by both sides in that conflict which set brother against brother and father against son. Four years of violence had produced hatreds that could not be resolved at appomattox.

An inspiring symbol of unity and reconciliation was needed — a symbol from which people could draw strength as they strove to become a united nation. That symbol was supplied when a kind gesture by a small group of women in a little known community in south caught the imagination of the nation.

In 1867, the women of Columbus, Mississippi made a pilgrimage to the local cemetery to decorate the graves of the Confederate war dead. When they had finished decorating the graves of their soldiers, they saw nearby the bare graves of the northern dead, fallen on the same field. In contrast to the flowered Confederate graves, they looked cold, drab, and forgotten.

The women could not ignore the Union graves. Carefully they decorated them too, and when they had finished, there was nothing to distinguish the Union grave from the Confederate.

A correspondent of a northern newspaper observed this generous gesture, and saw in it evidence that the deep wounds of the war in both north and south could be healed. "These women," he had wrote to his paper, "have shown themselves impartial in their offerings made to the memory of the dead. They strewed flowers alike on the graves of the Confederate and National soldiers."

The story of the southern women was reprinted in papers throughout the country, and their heart-warming gesture was celebrated in sermons, speeches, poems, and songs.

Their deed appealed to the nation. In 1868, General John A. Logan, national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Union Veteran's organization, ordered its members to observe May 30th as a special day. It was a day, his order read, "for decorating the graves of the comrades who died in defense of their country and whose bodies now lie in almost every city, village, or hamlet churchyard in the land."

In 1882, Decoration Day became Memorial Day to describe more fully the sentiment of the occasion. And with the passing years, Memorial Day has become a salute to the military dead; not only the Civil War, but of all our wars.

Through the years, our soldiers have marched a torturous road. It has taken them to frozen months of Valley Forge, to heavy fighting around Jackson's cotton bales at New Orleans, and to slaughter at Gettysburg. The road has wound from Monterrey to Mexico City; it has leaped the waters to Cuba and to the Philippines. Through many of these years, there was constant frontier fighting with the Indians.

In the first World War, names previously unheard by the average American citizen took on new and terrible meanings; Argonne Forest, Chateau Thierry, the Mame River, Verdun — all became synonymous with the road of gunfire and the struggles of men.

Then World War Two came, and Americans fought on three continents — Europe, Africa and Asia. — and Worldwide in the air and on the seas. They gave up their lives at Normandy and at Okinawa; they fought in sunbaked deserts, steaming jungles, and frozen fields. There were bad times — the death march at Bataan, early reverses in North Africa, the Battle of the Bulge, — but the American fighting man and our allies proved equal to the task. They retook the Philippines, held at "The Bulge" and forced the enemy to lay down his arms in Africa.

The road led on to Korea, where Heartbreak Ridge, Pork Chop Hill, and many others became new landmarks on the soldier's map. Here again, they showed the fighting spirit that has made our nation so successful in battle.

The call went out again, this time for Viet Nam. It was a new land and a new geography lesson—the Mekong Delta, Khe Sanh, and Hue were made part of the lexicon of the soldier as well as the American TV viewer. Yet, a sacrifice was demanded and the price was valiantly paid.

Since our nation's beginning, a great many Americans have given their lives for our country. No class, no color, no religion sets them apart from another. These men were from all of America — from the mountains, the farms and the cities — from huge estates and tiny apartments — from every part of our land.

Today, as we place flowers on their graves and praise their deeds, we realize that we cannot discharge our solemn obligation to these men with mere words of homage. They did not die for wreaths and words. They died for the right of Americans to enjoy freedom. They died for future generations. They died for us.

These men believed in the "American Way." They believed in the rights of men to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. They were born with faith, and they kept that faith with their country and themselves. It is now our turn to keep the faith with them.

The future these men believed in, and to which they pledged their lives, is ours today. We enjoy the liberties they died to preserve. In return, we must fight as valiantly as they did for the principles and ideals which have made America the nation it is.

On this Memorial Day, we should remind ourselves that military obligations are an inseparable part of our heritage. America has always held to the principle that military service in time of need is a fundamental responsibility of citizenship. Even as we review the horrors of war, America continues to put her sons into uniform in an effort to keep these horrors from recurring. The terms are dictated by the times. We realize that military capability is required in this age where the threat of aggression is ever-present. In response to this threat, our armed forces are designed as a means of deterring war — or winning war should one be forced upon us.

Our country certainly has no aggressive designs on anyone. For us, the reason for having military might is to maintain peace — on honorable terms.

I cannot help thinking that if the free peoples of the world had — in the years before 1939 — confronted the Nazi tyrant with resolute and united strength, the second World War might not have occurred. How much agony and loss the world might have been spared had the aggressor been warned by the visible strength as well as the forthright determination of the community of free nations, that in the long run he could never prevail.

In the 1930s, however, the free world deluded itself by thinking that peace was worth the high price of a compromise with tyranny. In short, we retreated from responsibility. Today there can be no retreat. Those who seek some escape from the undeniable burdens of defense jeopardize everything for which so many have laid down their lives. This is a form of appeasement which could destroy us.

Certainly modern war is an appalling possibility. Nonetheless, in my opinion, the idea that there is nothing worse — that our only objective is survival — is outright defeatism. I say this because if we lack the courage to stand firm for our beliefs, or if we lack beliefs which we are determined to uphold, whatever the cost, then we are defeated already. But our whole history proves beyond any question that apathy and defeatism have no application to the American character.

It would be folly to deceive ourselves and think that everything will turn out to our complete satisfaction without extreme effort and sacrifice on our part. We must face up to the fact that for all the foreseeable future, defense will be a major social, economic, and political fact in the American way of life. But the price of this peace and world survival is high. It must be paid for day by day in the hard coin of determination, sacrifice, and perseverance.

America is ready to pay this price. This is indicated by the tremendous change in public attitude toward our armed forces over the last few years. For the first time in a period of peace, the American people are willing to support a military establishment and a national security policy geared to the harsh facts of the situation we face.

As always the true source of this strength is the individual: the individual soldier, sailor, airman, and marine who stand on the global frontiers of freedom; the individual citizens who support these men here on the homefront.

I sometimes feel we tend to lose sight of this fact in this age of automation. The thought that a war might be fought and won by technicians pushing buttons, instead of soldiers squeezing triggers, is an especially seductive one for Americans. Of all our national treasures, nothing is dearer to us than the lives of our men. We would gladly sacrifice many machines to protect one life. But the hard fact must be faced — war cannot be fought untouched by human hands. No machine yet imagined can replace man in this task of holding terrain or occupying a town. No machine can run itself. There must be human intelligence to guide the tank, to aim the missile, to plan the next move.

The strength we require will come from ships, planes, guns, and missiles, but above all, from men. Our strength is rooted in well trained, well educated and dedicated men and women of honor, faith, and loyalty, with physical stamina, determination and fortitude.

We must not be lulled into a false sense of security by belief that there is an easy way to safety. The safety of America, and American ideals today and through the years to come, depends upon the indomitable spirit of missions of Americans in and out of uniform — in every wall of life — willing to stand up and be counted — and willing to take the hard road, if necessary, for the sake of their country.

Lincoln at Gettysburg called upon the living to dedicate themselves to tasks yet unfinished. Lincoln's great challenge is more difficult today — for the unfinished tasks are global. Yet, we carry on.

Those we honor today died to keep the torch of liberty burning. On this Memorial Day, we must dedicate ourselves to the task of guarding this flame, and holding it high. It is our obligation to hand our great inheritance intact to future generations. We can do this by actively participating in the affairs of our community and country. By the examples of our lives, we can show the world that we cherish our freedoms, and are prepared to defend them in the face of any threat.

If we keep the faith — if we uphold the traditions for which our fighting men gave their lives, then we will have met Lincoln's challenge. By believing, living and serving the cause of freedom, we can justify the sacrifices made by the brave Americans who have fallen in battle. We can ensure that the generations which follow us will read in the time of greatest peril, we were not found wanting. Ensure that our children will have grateful reason to bless the memory of their fathers as we have reason to bless the memory of all those brave men and women whom we honor here today.

A Land Without Art?

By Alice Escobar

Once upon a time in a land called "Mean," There was no art that could be seen

There were no pictures only words, To learn about the bees and birds.

No shapes or colors, textile design, For furniture, toys or a fashion line, No decorative rugs on living room floors, Or sculptured work on special doors.

There were no paintings on the walls, Nor greeting cards, or shopping malls, No fancy cars for people's delight, Or beautiful houses in colors bright.

No Sesame Street, or photographs, To bring forth knowledge, frowns, or laughs,

No puppets, plays, or fashion shows, Nor textured clothes, or buttons and bows.

No Disneyland, or Disneyworld, Nor cartoons for stories to unfold, For no one knew, no one could say, This is the way! This is the way!

And then one day, it came to pass, An artists' ship arrived at last, With designers, sculptors, and much, much more, Craftsmen, photographers, experts galore!

They came to look, to help, to inspect, Discover, create, and start to correct, Those things they were told had saddened "Mean," Who wanted their land a living dream.

And so they began, and soon in sight, Was a land of beauty, a land so bright, That frowns became smiles, and folks were elated, At all the things the artists created.

And since things were different, No longer were people sad, They changed the land's name From "Mean" to "Glad!"

Today's Medicine

ELIMINATING DRUG ABUSE By David G. Ley B.S., R.Ph.

Drug abuse is a worldwide problem requiring multinational cooperation. Over 90% of the illicit drugs consumed in the United States are produced in foreign countries. The United States Government has instituted a border policy that will improve detection and interception of illegal drug imports. However, no border policy will totally eliminate the presence of illicit drugs in this country. In order to be effective, we must encourage parents, private industry, religious groups, private organizations and state agencies to work together implementing prevention and educational programs to reduce drug abuse to an acceptably low, insignificant level. Total elimination is neither attainable nor practical.

We must present accurate information about the harmful effects of drugs to the people who are most susceptible to peer pressure, those who are easily impressed by the "lure" of drugs and who can do the most to prevent drug abuse in future generations. This target group is of course young people. It is important to recognize that young people with drug problems usually have many other problems — bad health, unemployment, deterioration of the traditional family structure, and alienation from community authority.

The harmful effects of marijuana will be discussed because its use is so prevalent among the young and so much misinformation has been presented to the young that most believe that this "soft" drug is benign with no serious consequences. There should be no differentiation between "hard" and "soft" drugs. Marijuana, unlike alcohol, remains in the body for about 30 days. When a joint of marijuana is smoked once per week or even every other week, the body tissues are kept constantly under the influence of the active chemicals of the marijuana. The long range effects of marijuana include:

- 1) slows the thought process by widening and thickening the space between the brain cells that transmit information; coordination, attention, concentration, memory and orientation are altered.
- 2) changes are seen in personality and behavior; marijuana smokers lose their drive, their motivation; they rarely reach their achievement potential; some become suspicious, paranoid and tend to withdraw from their families and social groups to which they had belonged.
- 3) marijuana lowers testosterone levels which decreases sperm production and reduces aggressiveness in males and disturbs the menstrual cycle and increases the number of incomplete pregnancies in women.
4. pot smokers become more susceptible to infections due to impairment of their immune systems.
- 5) marijuana smoke contains about 50% more irritating and potentially cancer-producing chemicals than tobacco smoke.

Many of those who use drugs will stop using them when they understand the facts. If they stop soon enough, chances are very good that they will bounce back and regain their normal functioning lives. Therefore, the first step in helping America rid itself of the drug epidemic is the wide dissemination of the facts. Parents are the first line of defense. They should stay close to their children. Communicate with them and show them that they care and are interested in their lives and their extra-curricular activities. Then if the problem of drug abuse does appear in their lives, they can approach their parents comfortably for advice and information that is accurate and trustworthy and together will be able to come to the conclusion that drugs are not the answer to a healthy, productive and rewarding life.

Recent drug abuse trends show a significant reversal against drug use. Although use levels remain unacceptably high, the changing trends are significant and show that if we do indeed work together, our long-range goal of eliminating drug abuse in future generations is attainable.

County 4-H & Youth Agent

DISTRICT 4-H HORSE AND RABBIT DAY JUNE 21

Washington County is host to the District 4-H Horse and Rabbit Day June 21. It will be at the University of Wisconsin Washington County Campus, West Bend, from 9:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. All 4-H families from Southeast Wisconsin counties are invited. You get a chance to hear top specialists in Rabbits and Horses. You have a chance to meet and share ideas with people from other counties. Participants will be able to attend either the horse or the rabbit program. There is no charge.

In the rabbit program, John Skinner, UW Extension Small Animal specialist, will conduct sessions on breed identification, a general knowledge quiz, and a showmanship revue. There will be a lot of give and take questions and answers. Each 4-H member can bring a rabbit for identification if he wishes and can also use it in a showmanship presentation exercise.

There will be three parts to the horse program. They are the Horse Bowl, the Hippology Program and the Poster Exhibit.

Any county may enter a team in the horse bowl to compete against other counties. Even though you are not a member of the team you may watch the competition.

Anyone may enter a poster and exhibit it at the District Day. It must be on some subject related to the horse and pony project.

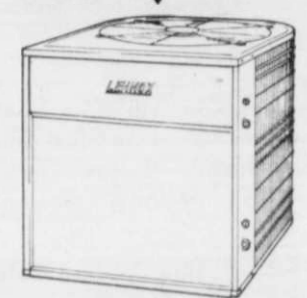

Everyone is invited to participate in the Hippology Program. Hippology means study of the horse. Each member goes to several stations. At each station he gives information about horses that he is asked about. Members are judged and prizes are awarded for the Hippology Program.

Although registration is not required to participate in District Day, it would help in the planning for facilities and lunch if those attending would register by calling the 4-H office.

Clarence A. Schwartz, Sheriff

C.A.R.E. and S.A.V.E. Traffic Programs Underway

In a move to reduce traffic crashes, the Washington County Sheriff's Department and law enforcement agencies in 25 other Wisconsin counties are taking part in two selective traffic enforcement programs designed to concentrate additional traffic officers on roads with high crash rates.

Sheriff Schwartz advised that Washington County and twenty-one other counties are participating in the 1983 Concentrated Accident Reduction Effort (C.A.R.E.) program which is operating on specified, high-traffic Washington County highways from Memorial Day to September 30, 1983, while five other counties have joined the Selective Alcohol Violation Enforcement (S.A.V.E.) program, which begins July 1st and ends October 30, 1983.

In addition, Sheriff Schwartz said that under the C.A.R.E. program traffic officers will work overtime hours along routes which have higher than average crash rates, to augment normal traffic patrols during the times of day and days of the week when crashes are most frequent. Special highway safety grants are making these extra efforts possible.

The counties participating in the S.A.V.E. program are those with a higher than average rate of alcohol-related crashes, and participating officers will be concentrating on drinking/driving violations.

Schwartz explained that the campaigns are not designed to produce impressive arrest figures or fines but to keep accidents from happening. The presence of an easily identified squad car is usually enough reminder to the average motorist, but for drivers that violate traffic laws the officers will issue citations.

C.A.R.E. and S.A.V.E. programs are both federally funded thru highway safety grants provided by the State Department of Transportation Office for Highway Safety, Sheriff Schwartz added. Motorists are urged to be aware of the C.A.R.E. and S.A.V.E. efforts. We want all drivers to take CARE with their driving habits, and SAVE themselves from the accidents and traffic violations.

Indians Outhit Sheboygan Falls But Errors Lose Game

The Kewaskum Indians were defeated by Sheboygan Falls here Wednesday, 7-3.

Jim Hanrahan, junior right-hander, pitched a fine three hitter at the Falcons but his performance wasn't enough to win.

Falls hit just one ball out of the infield but Hanrahan got very little defensive support. The Indians committed a whopping 13 errors, including seven passed balls.

The Falcons picked up two runs in the very first inning without a single hit, on a walk, steal, passed ball and three errors, two by shortstop Jim Braun.

The Indians came right back with three runs in their half of the same inning. Brad Dieringer led off with a triple and Hanrahan brought him home with a single. Braun's bunt moved Hanrahan to second and he scored on Dennis Butz triple. Butz scored on Dave Pesch's ground out.

That ended Kewaskum's scoring as winning pitcher Jeff Schomberg and reliever Steve Biederwolf allowed just four hits the rest of the way.

Falls took the lead in the third with three runs on just one infield hit. After the hit, an error and fielder's choice, a passed ball advanced two runners into scoring position. Both scored when catcher Brad Bartelt threw a dropped third strike into right field. Another passed ball allowed the third run to come home.

Both Hanrahan and Dieringer had two hits. Hanrahan kept the Falcons off balance by keeping his pitches low and changing speeds. Seven walks also hurt him.

Kewaskum is now 0-1 in the EW Conference and 0-2 overall.
