Levy Up 5% Over 1982-83

Electors Okay $2,920,000 Levy for 1983-84 School Year

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

At Monday night's Annual Meeting of the Kewaskum School District, 160 residents were on hand to hear a presentation of the proposed 1983-84 budget of $5,240,000, and the resolution to approve a tax levy of $2,920,000, to provide local revenues for that budget.

On a 97 to 45 vote, the electors approved the resolution which will increase the levy by 5%, or $140,538, over the 1982-83 levy of $2,779,462. Based on a projected increase of 3% in the equalized valuation for the district, District Administrator John Long said the projected mill rate would be 10.124, up 1/5th of one mill, compared to .99261 in 1982-83.

Three areas specifically addressed by Long in his budget presentation were salaries, benefits, and travel. In discussing salaries, he told the meeting, no exact figures could be listed since the District has not completed negotiations with the teachers union on a 1983-84 contract. Therefore, figures are hidden in the budget to offset a final contract settlement. With regard to employee benefits, the District's current carrier indicated, however, there will be a 24% increase for next year, fourteen per cent higher than the District had anticipated. In the area of travel, the District has completed negotiations with Johnson Bus Company and the new contract calls for a 5% increase in the cost of student bus transportation over 1982-83.

Two accounts which have been reduced from the 1982-83 budget include purchased services and vehicle rental. Long noted, the amount set aside for lawyer's fees had been reduced. "We hope," said Long, "it will not be necessary to spend as much in this area as last year." There is also a cut in vehicle rental as the District is considering renting only one vehicle for the Driver Education course in 1983-84, rather than two, as in previous years.

Administrator Long was asked to explain why a 1982-83 budget surplus of approximately $100,000 was not carried over into the budget proposed for 1983-84, or used for computer purchases and roof repairs, two items which have been targeted for funding through a $400,000 State Trust Fund loan. Long explained that State Aids are based on 39% of a District's spent budget. If the District had not used the surplus, it would have lost approximately $32,000 in State Aids. If this procedure were to be followed through over a period of years, the loss to the district could run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

As for using the money for computers and repairs, Long noted the money could only be used to pay bills whose invoices were received in the 1982-83 fiscal period ending June 30th.

The electors also approved a resolution setting the annual salary of school board members at $700.00. A motion by resident Warren Schmidt to amend the amount to $800.00, was defeated by the electors on a 62 to 69 vote. Resident and former school board member Richard Theusch questioned Schmidt on how he could justify his motion which would have increased board members' salaries by 14%, when, during the entire budget hearing, Schmidt challenged the approximate 10% increase in the 1983-84 budget and asked the board to justify that.

Resolution #5 was concerned with prosecutions and legal proceedings by the school district. A motion by resident Clara Trapp to amend the resolution was defeated by an 84 to 27 vote.

Mrs. Trapp's amendment was intended to provide a guideline concerning illegal actions taken by a school board member which would result in any legal or court costs having to be paid by the District. Trapp's concern rose out of the

Dr. Nolting Still Practicing Dentistry Here After 55 Years

The following news item appeared in a July issue of the Statesman back in 1928:

"Dr. E. F. Nolting, who a week ago purchased the dental practice and equipment of the late Dr. Karl Hausmann, will be ready to open his office to the public on Thursday, July 5th. Dr. Nolting is a young man, a graduate of Marquette Dental School, Milwaukee, and comes here with the best of recommendations. He has been hard at work the past week making changes in the office. The doctor states that within a few months he expects to replace all units with first class modern dental equipment, including an X-ray machine. Dr. Nolting invites the general public to step into his office and become acquainted.

We welcome Dr. Nolting to our town and wish him success in his chosen profession."

After 55 years, Dr. Nolting is still practicing four days a week at 229 Main Street.

Local Woman Featured In National Magazine

LINDA SCHAUB of Kewaskum recently took time from her busy schedule on the farm to participate in a special feature in Farm Wife News.

Linda joined in on a "Farm Wife Makeover" in the magazine's July/August issue. She spent the day with Farm Wife News' staff learning the basics of colors, make-up and hairstyles most suitable for her.

More than 300,000 subscribers to the national magazine, published especially for rural women, follow Linda's makeover during the day through color photos and accompanying article.

"It was an unforgettable day," Linda says.

Looking good has to fit into a pretty hectic schedule for 30-year-old Linda Schaub. In addition to doing all the heifer chores on the farm she and her husband, Terry, operate, Linda is learning the ropes with the farm bookwork. She also works part-time at a local beauty shop. Linda and Terry have three children: Jennifer, 7; Nathan, 5; and Matthew, 11 months.

Regular features of Farm Wife News include human interest articles, recipe contests, crafts, and decorating ideas, household hints, fictional stories, gardening tips, poetry and a variety of other country-oriented material. The editors say that much of what appears in the magazine comes from its rural readers in a real "give-and-take" exchange of views and ideas.

Favorite features include the "Editor on the Farm" series (in which an editor spends a full day working beside a different farm or ranch wife for each issue and then writes a "diary"

Benefit to Be Held for Haney's With Six Bands

As you have read in this paper, a family in our town has had a very bad time recently. We knew the people of Kewaskum would help their neighbors, and you certainly have. Both Diane Buchel and Margaret McFadden would like to thank everyone on behalf of the Haney family. We asked for help and you certainly answered with clothes, food, money and childcare. Congratulations, Kewaskum!

One of your citizens had a great idea. Bob Kougl volunteered his family band, "Ta Nase Kapela Band," to play a benefit. When we brought the idea before the various service organizations, they responded by setting up a benefit at Amerahn Hall with no less than six (6) bands. Sunday afternoon, August 14, starting at 1:00 p.m., there will be a Cavalcade of Bands, including the Kougl's, Bob Breuer, Revival, Herb Buchel, Bill Thull and The George Leonard Eleven-Piece Orchestra.

Tickets go on sale August 1st from members of the Lions Club, Kiwanis, Firemen, Legion, and Jr. Woman's Club. Tickets are $1. Contact a member of these organizations and buy some help for a very deserving family.

dispute surrounding the handling of the District's spring school board election re-count.

After Trapp's amendment was defeated she stated, "as long as you're a school board member, you can go out and do anything." Resident Jerry Buchel asked, "if this situation occurs again, does this mean we have to pick up the tab again?" Board member Tom Brigham felt, should such a problem rise again, the board would have to make a decision at that time. Francis Charland, a Kewaskum High School teacher and resident, told Trapp and the meeting he felt the additional wording could work against the District as well as for it. "The electors do have other recourse and that is a re-call," he said. Trapp said she had been advised of the option, however, she was not about to take any action which would cost the District still more money.

After the close of the Annual Meeting, a special school board meeting was to have been held at the request of board member Ralph Horner. Approximately twenty electors were still in the room when Vice President Neal Weare, in the absence of President Jean Goeden, tried to call the meeting to order. Several people asked why the meeting had not been announced or posted as required. Administrator Long said he had contacted the West Bend radio station Sunday afternoon asking them to make the announcement and had posted the agenda throughout the schools and village Monday morning. The residents contended that neither they, or the media, had been given the proper 24-hour notice.

Long said he had been contacted by Horner and had gotten the announcement out as soon as possible and felt notification of the meeting had been properly given. Mrs. Gnacinski asked why Mrs. Goeden did not announce the special meeting at the close of the Annual Meeting.

Horner said he had requested the meeting on Friday, but President Goeden did not accept the request since it was not in writing as set by board policy. A written request was then submitted to Long over the week-end. Weare declared the meeting cancelled noting Horner knew what action was needed to request the meeting and the procedure had not been followed.

After the meeting disbanded, Horner submitted his written request to Long again, asking that a special meeting be held to discuss the resignation of the District's attorney, Gerald Kiefer, and the hiring of a replacement. Resident Ralph Trapp asked, "what the board was trying to pull," since none of the electors seemed to be aware of the fact that the special meeting had been scheduled.

When contacted at his office Tuesday afternoon, Kiefer declined to make a statement, saying any comments would not be proper at this time.

The Administrator's office also called this reporter to say another Special School Board meeting has been scheduled for 8:00 p.m. Wednesday evening.

After a hard day, the worn-out salesman learned from the hotel clerk that the only accommodation he could get was a cot in the ballroom. "But you'll have to be quiet," the clerk warned, "for there's a woman on a cot in the corner." After a few moments in the ballroom, the salesman dashed out, shouting: "That woman is dead." I know," said the clerk, "but how did you find out?"

Felix Family Reunion Held

The second Felix Family reunion was held July 9, 1983 at St. Kilian Hall, St. Kilian, Route 3, Campbellsport, Wis.

The family name Felix (a Latin word meaning "happy" or "lucky" or "fortunate" comes from a Christian "given" name. The local Felix families trace their ancestry to the lineage of Malonice. Malonice was a small village situated about one and one half kilometers from the town of Lsteni, in whose jurisdiction it belonged. It was in Southwestern Bohemia, part of the Austria, Hungary Empire. They called themselves Bohemians, or sometimes Austrians. After World War I, the Czechoslovakia Republic was created out of what had once been Bohemia. The people are now called Czechs.

One of the first ancestors, who has been quite certainly established as being of the direct line was Jan (John) Felix, born in 1748, died in 1808. Then came Vaclav (Wenzel) born in 1776, died in 1824, one of the sons of Jan. Of the seven children of Vaclav, Antonin was the ancestor of the local line Felix. It is this branch, the descendants of whom make up the nucleus of this reunion. Antonin (born in 1808, died in 1871) was a farmer in Malonice, Bohemia. In 1830, he married Marie (died 1857) Blaha. Antonin and Marie had 4 children, 2 sons and 2 daughters, Jacob and Joseph, Magdalene and Marie. Magdalene married Jan Willitzer (John Velicer). In about the year 1865 they immigrated to America with their family. They settled in Kewaunee County, Wisconsin. Marie, (born 1835 died 1872) was married to Thomas Hauser. She died in Bohemia and no record of this family has been found. The brothers Jacob and Joseph immigrated to America about 1880. They settled, with their families, on farms near St. Kilian, Route 3, Campbellsport, in Fond du Lac, Co. Wi. Jacob's family remained for a long time in the St. Kilian area. The farm they settled on was in the family for three generations. It was sold after the last of the family to own it, John Felix, grandson of Jacob, became severely injured in a farm accident. It was then sold to Claude and Frieda Stommel. The Joseph Felix family later moved to the Stanley, Wi. area. They sold their farm to Jacob Kral, brother of Mrs. Jos. Felix. The descendants of the Kral family lived on this farm many years, the longest being Art and Rose Weiland and family, who lived there over 50 years. One of the sons of Joseph, Wenzel, stayed in the Stanley, Wi. area. A daughter, Mary, married Louis Berner. They moved to the Janesville, Milton, Wi. area. Three sons, Joseph, John and Thomas moved to Western Canada, where they established other branches of the line.

The reunion was divided into three branches: The House of Magdalene, The House of Jacob and The House of Joseph. The first reunion was given by the House of Joseph. It was held 2 years ago at the home of the Robert Doyle family in Lampman, Sask., Canada. Arrangements were made by Mrs. Robert Doyle and Johanna (Felix) Kaminski. This second reunion was hosted by the House of Jacob. General chair-

Patrick and Michael Ruplinger of St. Kilian parish, and of the House of Jacob, also were mass servers. Leonard Peter, a relative, was reader. Sandi Amerling of St. Kilian's, played the organ.

LOUD NOISES

Because very loud sounds excessively vibrate and damage delicate structures in the inner ear, the noise of jack hammers, chain saws, tractors, or loud rock music - if listened to long enough - can permanently deafen us. To protect our hearing, we have a special muscle which reflexly tightens the eardrum when noises are loud. This dampens the eardrum's vibrations and spares the inner ear. Alcohol and sedatives relax this muscle and interfere with the reflex protection.

Washington County Mental Health Center Receives $9,987 Grant

The Washington County Mental Health Center has received a $9,987.00 grant to operate a comprehensive Elder Peer Counselling Program in Washington County. These funds were made available through the State Department of Social Services, Division of Community Services. Funds were granted to agencies in Wisconsin to expand Mental Health Services to Older Adults in the community. In Washington County, this is being done as a joint project of the Washington County Office on Aging and the Washington County Mental Health Center.

The Elder Peer Counselling Project is designed to provide mental health services to older adults within a setting which is familiar and acceptable. Trained volunteer counselors currently staff a call-in service at the Washington County Senior Center. This service is called the "Elderline," and is available by calling 338-4433 in the West Bend area, 644-5204 Ext. 4433 in the Hartford area, and 342-2929 Ext. 4433 in the Germantown area Mondays from 9 a.m. to Noon and Wednesdays from 1 to 4 p.m. These trained counselors will also be leading two support groups. One group will deal with the problems of care givers to older adults and the other will be for older adults themselves who may be feeling lonely or isolated and want to talk to other older people in the same situations.

All Elder Peer Counselors are volunteers living in Washington County. These volunteers go through an intensive twelve session training course that develops their skills in assessment, interviewing, listening, and a knowledge of the physical, psychological, and sociological aspects of aging. They are taught how to use community resources and to develop basic counselling skills. These volunteers receive ongoing consultation and supervision with an outpatient therapist at the Mental Health Center. Training for volunteers will be held at the Washington County Senior Center, West Bend, beginning August third. Persons who are interested in becoming volunteers should contact Kay Sweeney-Radke at 338-4600.

Trees and Shrubs Available From State Nurseries

Application forms to order trees and shrubs from state nurseries are now available, according to Albert Kubiske, State Forests, Nurseries and Wild River specialist in the DNR Bureau of Forestry.

The forms may be obtained from DNR field stations, U.W. County Extension offices and all DNR foresters.

Seedlings available include a variety of both hardwood and softwood trees and wild shrubs. In addition, wildlife packets and windbreak-shelterbelt packets are also available.

Over 18 million trees and shrubs were distributed in 1982 and about the same number are available for 1983. However, according to Kubiske, the demand for seedlings as in past years is expected to be great this year. It is recommended that landowners place their orders early in order to obtain the species they need. While the present inventory is excellent, supplies of some of the more highly desired species are expected to be exhausted early.

A reminder that these trees and shrubs purchased from state nurseries can be used only for conservation purposes. They cannot be used for landscaping or commercial Christmas tree production.

TREASURED TREAT FOR CHOCOLATE LOVERS

Chocolate lovers will readily agree that the cacao bean is precious enough to be used as currency. And, in fact, it was so used in Mexico before Columbus visited the New World. A rabbit could be purchased for ten beans, a pumpkin for four.

What a high price this delicious Hot Fudge Sundae Shortcake would have brought! It's not merely chocolate, but a double chocolate treat.

First, cocoa and chopped nuts are stirred into shortcake dough made with Bisquick baking mix. The dough is then topped with a sprinkling of brown sugar and cocoa. Hot water is poured on top, and as it bakes, a fudge sauce forms and sinks to the bottom of the pan.

Served warm and topped with ice cream, it's a dessert so delicious everyone will want more. But don't worry. This shortcake bakes in a 13x9-inch pan, so there is enough for seconds.

|---|------------------------------|
| 2 1/3 cups Bisquick baking mix | 1 cup chopped nuts |
| 3 tablespoons granulated sugar | 1 cup packed brown sugar |
| 2 tablespoons cocoa | 1/4 cup cocoa |
| 3 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted | 1 3/4 cups hottest tap water |
| 1/2 cup milk | Ice cream |

Heat oven to 350°. Mix baking mix, granulated sugar, cocoa, margarine, milk and nuts until soft dough forms. Spread in ungreased rectangular pan, 13x9x2 inches. Sprinkle with brown sugar and cocoa. Pour hot water over dough. Bake until shortcake begins to pull away from sides of pan and fudge mixture begins to bubble, 30 to 35 minutes. While warm, spoon into dessert dishes and top with ice cream. Spoon sauce from pan onto each serving. 12 servings.

High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Heat oven to 375°.

Refashion and Recycle Your Clothing

By Shelby Maier, Summer Extension Home Economist

Refashioning and recycling your clothes are two ways of stretching your clothing dollar. It can also be a creative and fun experience. A make-over article of clothing will cost you your time and as little time as one-tenth the cost of a new ready-made garment.

The University of Wisconsin-Extension is offering a 2-session workshop on refashioning and recycling clothing. The first session will be held on Wednesday, August 3, at 7:30 p.m. Session II will be held on Wednesday, August 11, at 7:30 p.m. Both sessions will be held at the Washington County Court House in the meeting room (Room 118).

Shelby Maier, the Summer Extension Home Economist will provide information on the Recycle/Refashion concept.

The first session will introduce the popular idea through a slide set, "Clothes: Second Time Around." Actual garments will be displayed that have been recycled or refashioned.

Session II will be an opportunity for participants to bring garments that they would like to refashion or recycle. Ideas will be discussed as to ways the garment may be recycled for further wear. Information will also be provided on clothing care, purchasing guidelines and wardrobe planning.

The sessions are free of charge.

So take a good look at the clothes in your closet, in your drawers or on your shelves. If you can find one garment that is not being worn for one reason or another, this workshop is for you.

For more information on the workshop, or for registrations, Shelby Maier, Washington County Summer Extension Home Economist at 338-4479.

25 Years Ago

July 25, 1958

A little two-year old boy was saved from probable drowning in the Kohlsville pond on Monday by the quick thinking and action of his older sister. The tot, David Gruber, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gruber. The Grubers were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Gutjahr of Kohlsville. The older girl, Diane Gruber, took the three younger children, ages 5, 2 and 1, for the walk over the bridge on the dam of the pond. While walking David slipped off of the bridge and fell into about four feet of water. Diane, who is unable to swim and has always been afraid of water, immediately slid down the bank after her little brother. When he came up she grabbed David and held him up. She was unable to get him out of the water alone, and using her wits, screamed for help and instructed the 5 year old to hold onto the one year old, lest he slip into the water. The mother heard the screams and rushed to help the children. She also had difficulty removing him because of the steepness of the bank. At the same time, Warren McElroy, a Kohlsville resident, who had heard the screams from across the pond, came over in his boat and lifted the children into it. Although very frightened, little David was unharmed, thanks to the hasty work and adult thinking of his sister.

Robert Sparks, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sparks, Kewaskum, a worker on the Hwy. 41 construction project, was injured Monday afternoon when he dismounted from the truck he was driving and stepped into the path of another approaching truck. Sparks sustained a badly lacerated left forearm, multiple lacerations about the head and multiple contusions and abrasions to the body.

Max Lund of Route 1, Kewaskum, was injured on Wednesday, when his motorcycle transmission locked and he was thrown off of the vehicle on County Trunk Hwy. D east of New Fane. Lund suffered a cut on his forehead and numerous contusions and abrasions. He was brought to the village by Ray Bales of Route 1, Kewaskum, and then taken to St. Joseph's Hospital by ambulance.

Unusual to say the least, this area had a stampede of cattle owned by the John Heisdorfs of Route 2, Kewaskum. Possibly scared by a dog, a herd of 11 heifers which had been on pasture on the Leroy Schultz farm a short distance west of the village, stampeded, jumped a fence and ran away while John was attempting to drive them along a road. The cattle kept on running and members of the Heisdorf family, joined by neighbors along the way, gave chase trying to round them up. The animals jumped fences, broke others, and escaped to neighboring farms, one of them straying all the way to the Nic Stoffel farm at the village outskirts. Neighbors who captured some of the heifers tied them in their barns until the Heisdorfs could pick them up. Passersby also joined in the roundup, with the older men doing the spotting and the younger ones doing the running through the fields. It took several days before all the cattle were retrieved.

New higher postage rates will become effective on August 1, and new stamps and postal cards will go on sale on that date. The new rates will be as follows: First class - 4 cents per ounce; post cards - 3 cents per card; drop letters - 3 cents which can be sealed for village; second class - 2 cents for first two ounces and 1 cent for each additional ounce.

T. W. Meilahn, Route 2, Kewaskum, is among 90 civil engineering students of the University of Wisconsin, who are "learning by doing" this summer in a surveying camp in the heart of the Chequamegon National Forest in Wisconsin's Bayfield County.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dillinger Jr., Kewaskum, on July 19.

50 Years Ago

July 28, 1933

Carl Bruessel, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bruessel Sr. of West Bend, was killed instantly last Saturday evening when the Ford truck in which he was riding, left the roadway east of West Bend, and went into the ditch. Drunk Driving Accidents Drop 26 Percent in 1982; New Law Credited

Alcohol-related traffic accidents dropped 26 percent in 1982, following enactment of Wisconsin's new tougher drunk driving law, according to a report from the Department of Transportation's Division of Motor Vehicles.

Russell Fleming, chief of accident data, said the total number of traffic crashes declined nine percent in 1982, from 118,873 in 1981 to 108,460.

However, accidents in which the investigating officer noted that one or more drivers had been drinking dropped 26 percent from 28,899 in 1981 to 21,483 in 1982. The number of drivers which officers noted were "impaired" by alcohol at the time of the crash dropped 26.5 percent from 11,483 to 8,433, Fleming added.

The drop in alcohol-related accidents is "relevant evidence" that the drunken driving provisions of Chapter 20 of the 1981-83 state budget bill is working, Fleming said. "The decline in drinking drivers involved in accidents, along with a drop from 55.7 percent to 48.3 percent of the fatally injured drivers who were legally intoxicated at the time of the crash, cannot be explained by any factor other than the new law," he added.

The new driver license law, which went into effect May 1, 1982, increased all penalties for operating while intoxicated (OWI) and refusing the chemical test for intoxication, including a forfeiture/surcharge totaling about $450 for a first conviction, and a mandatory license suspension of not less than three months. A second conviction within five years includes a minimum of five days in jail in addition to a higher fine and driver license revocation. All drivers convicted of OWI or related offense are required to go to the local alcohol assessment center for assessment of the drinking problem and development of a driver safety plan designed to alleviate the problem.

The meek husband finally decided to be boss. He shook his fist and growled at his wife, "From now on, you do as I say. I want supper right now, then get upstairs and lay out my clothes. And do you know who's going to dress me in my tuxedo?" "I sure do," she screamed. "The undertaker."

County Fair Now in Progress

This is County Fair week. The Washington County Fair opened at Slinger on Wednesday evening, July 27, with rides and carnival. Thursday is entry day, that's the day when most of the articles are brought in.

Thursday is also a judging day for most of the youth exhibits. The judges are there as the youth bring in their exhibits. The exhibitors bring their article to the judge. The judge talks to the exhibitor about their articles and then makes the final placing.

Each exhibitor should look at their opportunity to talk with the judge as an opportunity to learn. The judge is there to only evaluate how well you did, but to give you suggestions and comments on how to improve. If you had problems or difficulty doing some things, perhaps the judge can give you good suggestions. So don't forget to ask the judge for help, consider the fair as a real learning experience.

The County Fair continues through Sunday.

Campus Notes

Kenneth J. Scott, 3409 County Line Road, Route 1, Kewaskum, is among students who received sophomore honors in the College of Letters and Science at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

The honors are awarded to students who complete at least 20 credits of honors courses in their first 60 degree credits and maintain a 3.0 grade point average on a 4 point scale in the 20 credits and cumulatively. Of the 20 honors credits, three must be in humanities, three in social studies and three in natural science.

CAMPBELLSPORT CHURCH TO PRESENT FILM SUNDAY

The First Baptist Church of Campbellsport will be presenting the film "More Than a Champion," on Sunday, July 31, at 7:30 p.m.

The film is for the entire family. It is an action filled story about a 12-year-old boy who learns that it takes more than athletic ability to be a true champion. Billy is a future rodeo star and already is close to being named junior champion. Together with his Uncle Wilbur, a retired rodeo clown, he tours the rodeo circuit and learns that with Christ as his personal Savior, he can truly be more than a champion.

There is no charge for this event. However a free will offering will be taken.

A nursery will be provided and refreshments served. Everyone welcome.

Conservation Tillage: On the Grow In Washington County

Page 12, Kewaskum Statesman, Friday, July 29, 1983

Conservation tillage was applied to this oats stubble field on Walter and Roger Neumann's farm near Kewaskum.

By Marc Bethke
Washington County
Soil Conservationist

There is so much talk these days about the soil erosion control practice called conservation tillage. Now you may be wondering just what conservation tillage is? Well, the Soil Conservation Service defines it as any form of noninversion tillage that retains protective amounts of residue mulch on the soil surface throughout the year. In other words, not moldboard plowing, but rather only incorporating part of the crop residues into the soil.

Next you might ask, why use this method of tillage when we have strong modern moldboard plows to work up the land? What makes plowing so bad? The answer is basically simple. Erosion control! It is a fact that moldboard plowing of erodible soils exposes the entire land surface to the elements of rain and wind, and invites erosion of the loosened surface soil particles. Conservation tillage has been proven to reduce erosion by 60%-90% over plowing.

There are other benefits from using conservation tillage besides erosion control, including savings in labor, time and fuel spent. Double cropping can also be practiced when using the no-till method. And crop yields can be as good if adequate management measures are taken. The advantages of conservation tillage have been realized by thousands of farmers nationwide, including many farmers in Washington County who have adopted various forms of conservation tillage. Many have even gone so far as to sell their moldboard plows.

But what equipment is being used to replace the good old plow? Actually, there are several systems to choose from with conservation tillage.

The most popular methods are "disking" or "chisel plowing" crop residues. Disks are run 3-4 inches into the soil and incorporate approximately 30% of remaining crop residues with each pass. Chisel plows are run from 6-10 inches deep and incorporate between 25% - 60% of remaining crop residues, depending on the type of chisels used and the speed of operation.

The two lesser practiced systems are known as "till planting" and "no till planting." The till planting method combines tillage and planting in one operation. The seeds are planted on ridges formed by a previous year's cultivation. An 8-10 inch width of the ridge top residues are cut off and thrown into the area between the rows for erosion control, and the seed, fertilizer and pesticides are all applied in one pass on the ridge. One or more cultivations are necessary during the growing season to build the ridges for the next year's crop; plus it helps control weeds.

The no till method disturbs the soil the least of all methods. When no till planting into sod, a herbicide application to totally kill competing vegetation replaces the plow. The planting operation in either old crop residues or sod involves opening a 2 inch wide slot where the seed is placed. A fluted coultter usually opens this slot. Other than this, no other soil disturbance occurs.

How has the change in tillage methods affected farmers in Washington County? Well, many have tried it and have stayed with it as a regular method of preparing and planting their fields. The Washington County Soil Conservation Service Office has been working with over 59 county farmers on a regular basis each year, and there are many others who have been practicing conservation tillage on their own. Interest is steadily growing with seven new farmers planning on practicing chisel plowing or disking and four new farmers planning on practicing no till planting in the Spring of 1983. Farmers are always looking at new ideas as shown by the attendance of over 100 farmers at the October 1982 Conservation Tillage Field Demonstration Day at the Ralph & Leo Dornacker Farm. Implement dealers from around the county displayed the latest equipment available for doing conservation tillage, and demonstrated just how they work.

There is good reason for optimism about the success of conservation tillage in Washington County. Several farmers have been established in this practice for 10 or more years with excellent yields year after year, not to mention the benefit of soil protection. Also, test plots of chisel plowing, disking and no till planting on farms operated by John Brugger, Robert Melzer and Sunset Farms have proven out high yields can be produced on conservation tilled fields which are equal and many times better than yields on conventionally plowed fields on the same farms.

Yet, there are those who are skeptical of the practice. Some farmers express concerns over problems with weed control, insect and disease control, and reduced yields.

In reality though, conservation tilled fields should experience less problems than conventionally plowed fields in these areas of concern. For example, research has shown that the crop residue cover cuts water runoff by 72%, thereby reducing pesticide losses from runoff by 99% and nutrient losses by 76% when compared to plots that had no residue cover. Therefore, weed and insect control should be adequate, and yields kept at an optimum level.

Research has also shown that yield reductions can be eliminated by applying fertilizers properly to avoid the nutrient "tie-up" in crop residues on the surface of the ground. A comparison of no till corn yields from 50 demonstration fields indicated that side dressing of anhydrous ammonia (82% N) produced yields up to 25 bushels per acre more than other nitrogen application programs. And a split application program (pre-emerge plus side dress) produced the greatest yields. In addition, research has indicated that potassium (K) should also be row applied for better availability to the plants.

Research is constantly ongoing and coming up with new management techniques. If you would like to learn more about conservation tillage advances, you may be interested in attending the Southern Wisconsin Conservation Tillage Show in Madison, Wis. on February 23rd. Also the Washington County Land Conservation Dept. and UWEX along with various implement dealers in the county are sponsoring a conservation tillage workshop for local farmers on February 28th. For more information on either of these meetings, or about conservation tillage in general, contact the Soil Conservation Service in West Bend at 334-3706. Or contact the UWEX at 338-4477.

492 County Farms Enrolled in Acreage Reduction and PIK Programs

In Washington County, 492 farms were enrolled in the Acreage Reduction and PIK (Payment In Kind) Programs for 1983. The sign-up is necessary to determine producer benefits such as CCC loans, PIK, target price protection and grain reserve.

According to Donald E. Sampson, County Director, the county has 47,067 acres of corn base. 7,572 acres were enrolled in the Acreage Reduction and 6,666 acres enrolled in the entire base PIK Program. Also 2,605 acres of the wheat base were enrolled and 399 of the barley.

Producers enrolling in the Acreage Reduction Program only, may or may not stay in the program. If all those enrolled in the Acreage Reduction Program participated, 1,514 acres would be retired. Producers in the PIK Program are under contract and must comply. Thus, 6,666 acres enrolled under the entire base bid will be taken out of production for certain. Also mandatory reductions in the 10-30% PIK would be around 3,000 acres.

Presently the county office is preparing advance payments according to Sampson. These will be one-half of the diversion and deficiency payments if requested. Producers in the PIK Program will receive wheat Payment in Kind on August 15 and corn on November 1. In Washington County producers will earn 749,374 bushels of corn and 24,205 bushels of wheat through the PIK Program. Bushels earned may be removed with their PIK certificates, sold or left stored.

The effectiveness of the PIK Program is two-fold according to Sampson. Not only do we reduce acreage planted this year but also reduce surplus bushels in stock. For this reason the program has won wide approval and acceptance.

BEFORE YOU DIG, UNCOVER THE FACTS.

There's more underground than meets the eye, like power lines, gas lines and telephone cables; to only name a few.

The consequences of digging tree or post holes, foundations or other excavations without knowing where utilities are buried could be costly.

It could even be fatal.

Fortunately, you can avoid these consequences by following a simple ground rule:

CALL BEFORE YOU DIG.

Before starting any job that requires digging, call DIGGERS HOTLINE at 344-5111 in the Milwaukee metro area. Elsewhere in Wisconsin, call 1-800-242-8511. Call at least three working days before digging. There is no charge for these services.

Wisconsin Department of Transportation

New Rule Establishes 'Handicapped' Parking Traffic Signs

Wisconsin's handicapped parking law will be a little easier to obey, and a lot easier to enforce, under a Department of Transportation administrative rule which went into effect.

The new rule establishes the size, wording and location of an official traffic sign to mark parking spaces reserved for the disabled. Adoption of the rule enables local units of government to begin phasing in the signs in advance of Aug. 1 when the law requiring the standard signs becomes effective.

Harry O. Price, chief traffic engineer, said the new signs should help keep able-bodied motorists from using the reserved spaces. "There's nothing more frustrating than pulling into a parking space only to see faint traces of a pavement marking telling you that it is a handicapped space," he said. "The solution for many drivers was to go ahead and park anyway, even though it was illegal," he added.

Law enforcement officers found it difficult to enforce the law, since pavement markings frequently were hidden beneath parked cars or obscured by snow and ice in the wintertime. "Now they can see at a glance which spaces are reserved for disabled persons, and whether or not the car in the space is parked legally," Price said.

The administrative rule calls for a green on white rectangular sign, either 12x18 inches or 18x24 inches, depending on the location, with a blue international "disabled" symbol. The words "Reserved Parking" and "Vehicles with VET or DIS plates or state disabled card" or words with similar meaning will be included.

Price said that signs already in place which do not conform to the new standard will be "grandfathered in" for a period of five years, but pavement markings alone will no longer be considered sufficient marking.

The law applies to both public and private property, and is enforced by state, county or local law enforcement officers.

Parking at the spaces is reserved for vehicles with special "Disabled" or "Disabled Veteran" license plates, or holders of the official state "disabled parking" card issued by the Division of Motor Vehicles. The rule also permits parking by non-residents who hold official handicapped identification issued by their home states.

Drivers convicted of parking in the reserved spaces without the required license plates or identification card are required to forfeit up to $200.

CHILDREN ARE PEOPLE
By R. G. Edwards, M.D.

Children of alcoholics have long been neglected by all governing bodies. Mrs. Migs Woodside, executive consultant of the special research group on "Children of Alcoholics," told Hugh L. Carey, governor of the state of New York, "the children of alcoholics, both as youngsters and as adults, are a unique group, with special problems and needs."

Research shows that the children of alcoholics are four times as likely to become alcoholics as other youngsters. Some do poorly in school, have few friends, are frequently truant or delinquent. Others are super copers, highly successful in childhood and adolescence, but show signs of serious problems later on. As adults, grown children of alcoholics are often alcoholic, suicidal or become rigidly controlled over achievers who then become markedly depressed in mid-life.

Daughters of alcoholics are more likely to marry alcoholics, projecting similar problems on to new generations. Children of alcoholics rarely expose their family life to outsiders for fear of the consequences should their alcoholic parents discover their "indiscretion." Often they have learned to trust no one. The source of their emotional and sometimes physical problems can thus remain hidden for years, unless specifically pursued.

Each year between 3000 and 6000 babies are born in America with Fetal Alcohol Syndrome. This condition is observed first in the hospital nursery due to their smaller heads and facial abnormalities. The second most frequent symptom or sign of parental alcoholism is child abuse. If suspected, one need only to follow the child's further care at home to learn of further abuse by the parents. "Bedwetting" is more pronounced in the alcoholic home. Some children are hyperactive whereas others will be depressed.

Ms. Lerner and Barbara Naiditch, both family therapists, founded C.A.P. as a non-profit agency in 1977. This organization began as a simple support group for children of alcoholics in St. Paul, Minnesota, but has since expanded into numerous support groups that serve over 3000 children in the St. Paul and Minneapolis area. Just try to imagine how many children need help in all America.

The Children Are People (CAP) support group was designed to meet a number of specific goals.

- To educate about alcoholics as a family illness.
- To help children develop a healthier personal outlook and learn to recognize and deal with their feelings; especially shame and guilt.
- To teach children healthy ways of responding to life with an alcoholic parent.
- To build children's self-esteem and personal awareness.
- To provide a consistent adult role model that a child can trust.

Let us all try to be supportive to any child we find who needs this role model they can trust.

CESA Reorganization Underway

MADISON — The reorganization of the state's cooperative educational service agencies (CESA) to better serve the educational needs of Wisconsin's public elementary and secondary schools is now underway. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Herbert J. Grover Monday announced that Ludwig Petersen, administrator of CESA 3 in Gillett for the past 13 years, will head a project to reorganize Wisconsin's 19 intermediate educational agencies into 12 new CESAs.

The reorganization efforts are the result of recent state legislation that calls for:

- establishing boundaries for the 12 new CESAs based on geographical considerations;
- funding of administrative costs through the allocation of $50,000 for each CESA from the Department of Public Instruction's (DPI) budget and a matching $50,000, collectively, from the participating school districts (based on their student count) in the area served by each CESA;
- dividing among the new CESAs the assets and liabilities of the 19 existing CESA agencies;
- developing procedures for selecting qualified CESA administrators; and
- developing guidelines for establishing representation on the CESA boards of control.

The focus of the new CESA legislation is to improve curriculum in Wisconsin's public elementary and secondary schools and strengthen the link between local, regional, and state educational agencies, Grover said.

Petersen sees establishing the boundaries of the 12 new CESAs as one of his first priorities. "A committee made up of three CESA administrators, three school district administrators, and three school board members met in Madison on July 28 to begin the remapping process. The new map is to be presented to State Superintendent Grover by September 1," Petersen said. He added that regional data processing services now operating in four of the existing CESAs would not be affected by the boundaries reorganization.

Another priority for Petersen is to define the education service CESAs can provide to local school districts. "Curriculum and staff development, vocational education, and special education are some of the programs that CESAs could efficiently provide depending on the needs of the individual school districts," he said.

Petersen hopes to provide a "smooth transition" for the project which will end on July 1, 1984, when the new CESAs become operational.

While at CESA 3, Petersen developed special education programs for rural schools and economically disadvantaged student programs for each school system in CESA 3, organized career education and alcohol and other drug abuse programs, put in place the DPI school accounting system, and developed a bidding process for food and supplies.

Commenting on the importance of regional services in education, Grover said, "The Department of Public Instruction will never again be the size it was in the 1960s and 70s. We are down to 'ones': one science consultant, one math consultant, one reading consultant, and so on. In that sense, we have to share educational policy initiatives and services regionally as we assure educational equity and opportunity for all children, regardless of the school district in which they are enrolled."

CESAs were established in 1965 to provide services to school districts and to replace Wisconsin's system of county superintendents of schools. In 1981, because of legislative concerns about the need for an effectiveness of the CESA system, Grover appointed a citizen task force to address the legislative concerns. The task force reviewed what other states were doing, held public hearings, and surveyed school district staff during their year-long study. Based in large part on the task force recommendations, the DPI included a proposal in their 1983-85 budget request reorganizing the CESAs which resulted in the new legislation.

Wisconsin's Northwoods - Past, Present and Future to Be Explored in Upcoming Magazine

The past, present and future of Wisconsin's Northwoods region will be explored in the upcoming edition of the Wisconsin Natural Resources magazine.

The edition will contain 72 pages, the largest edition ever published by the magazine, which first appeared in December, 1976.

Magazine editor J. Wolfred Taylor said the magazine received story, picture and artwork contributions from a wide range of authors and other individuals concerned about the North.

"This is a special edition about a place many Wisconsinites hold special in their memories and everyday lives," Taylor said.

The edition begins by reflecting on how the North was settled, its ethnic and natural resources past. Authors will highlight regional customs and folklore.

Also, Northern residents share their perceptions of the North today. Any specialists in forestry, fish management, environmental protection, wildlife management, and government wrote on current conditions and daily changes taking place north of the "tension line."

Taylor said he was especially pleased so many contributions came from notable residents and authors in the North. For example: Herman Smith, retired recreation agent for the Northwoods region; Greta Swenson, folklorist, Northland College; former State Sen. Clifford "Tiny" Krueger; Rocky Barker, managing editor of the Rhinelander News; John Chapple, retired editor of the Ashland Press; Thomas Klein, director of the Sigurd Olson Environmental Institute, Northland college; Ced Vig, author and naturalist; Larry Van Goethem, author; Dan and Michele Geslin Small, Northern Wisconsin futurists.

Contribution also were made by DNR employees presently or formerly assigned to the three Department Districts serving the Region, Taylor said. And special contributions were made by Wisconsin folklorist Robert Gard and retired Milwaukee Journal statewide reporter Richard Kienitz.

Distribution of the July-August edition will begin in about two weeks, Taylor said. The bi-monthly publication can be ordered for $6.97 a year through the magazine, Box 7191, Madison, Wisconsin 53707.

RACING NEWS

PLYMOUTH — Grabbing the lead coming out of the second lap, Willie Goeden of Kewaskum maintained his edge throughout the 30-lap modified feature Saturday evening at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds Speedway to chalk up his second feature win of the summer.

Goeden, the mid-season championship feature winner three weeks ago, had West Bend's Frankie Heimerl on his rear throughout the race. "It was anybody's race," Goeden noted.

Goeden finished ahead of Heimerl, Dick Berth of Cedar Grove, Greg Hartlaub of Sheboygan and Ron Luedtke of Omira.

"The track was slick but the engine was working real well." Rookie driver, Steve Hoffman of Plymouth, took the lead in lap two of the 20-lap sportsman feature and did some nifty driving to maintain his lead for the win.

The first half of the race Hoffman had to contend with Bernie Jesson of Fredonia. "After the re-start on lap ten, I was worried about losing my lead," Hoffman said.

Throughout the second ten laps, Hoffman had to fight off two Sheboygan Falls veterans, Mark Melger and Scott Vollbrecht.

Hoffman was one of the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds Speedway infield assistants for the past seven years, prior to his giving the racing circuit a try this season. "It was real good," commenting on the win.

Kiel's Steve Schad dashed off to a first lap lead and went on to win the 10-lap hobbystock feature.

Butch Wondra of Campbellsport won the 15-lap A-semi-feature in the modified while Steve Bergdorf of Wayne won the 8-lap B-semi-feature. Indians Ousted by Cougars In WIAA Regional Here, 8-4

Good hitting and pitching provided the difference last Tuesday as Campbellsport defeated Kewaskum, 8-4, in WIAA Regional baseball play here. The victory earned the right for the Cougars to advance to the sectional.

Dan Salter recorded only six strikeouts but he limited the Indians to five hits, only two of which were hit hard. Only one of Kewaskum's runs were earned. Salter also had two hits in four trips, including a long triple off loser Jim Hanrahan.

The Indians got off to a bad start in the first inning when an error on a double play ball opened the gates for Campbellsport to score three runs. The Cougars added another run in the second.

Kewaskum scored in the next inning. Ken Heisdorf reached base on an error and Tim Leitheiser then singled. Catcher Tim Dettmann was hit by a pitch to load the bases. Dennis Butz came through with a single to score two runs.

Campbellsport got three hits in their half of the third, good for two more runs.

The score stayed at 6-2 until the sixth when the Indians scored two more. Brian Arndt and John Swanson both singled off Salter and moved to second and third on Dave Pesch's bunt. Both scored when the Cougar second baseman let Braun's roller get through his legs.

Campbellsport came right back with runs 7 and 8, all after two were out, on a single, triple and two more singles.

The Indians played quite well with Braun making two fine defensive plays which prevented hits. Hanrahan's error in the first inning was the turning point because the Indians had to play catchup ball the rest of the way. Hanrahan was the losing pitcher.

AC's Defeated By Grafton, 11-2

The Friday, July 22, game vs. Johnson Creek here was called off because the lights did not work.

Sunday, July 24, Kewaskum lost to Grafton, 11-2. Grafton had 14 hits, 11 runs and 3 errors, while Kewaskum had 11 hits, 2 runs and 8 errors.

Jeff Geidel pitched 5 innings, giving up 10 hits, 9 runs, with 6 strikeouts and 3 walks. Tim Heberer pitched the last 3 innings giving up 4 hits, 2 runs, with 2 strikeouts and 1 walk. Six of Grafton's 11 runs were unearned.

Andy Hoenecke had 4 hits, including a double for Kewaskum.
