160 Runners in Kettle 20 Races

Lions Club Serves 1,000 at Chicken Bar-B-Que Sunday

The Kewaskum Lions Club tenth annual Chicken Bar-B-Que and Kettle 20 running race on Sunday was another fine success. Around 1,000 dinners were served which was about equal to last year. Carryouts during the late afternoon set a brisk pace before the rains came around 4:00 o'clock.

A total of 160 runners from throughout Wisconsin and several from Illinois competed in the races. Last year a total of 250 runners participated in the races. This year the Lions Club dropped the 6.5 mile race.

Clyde Moser, West Bend, set a new record in the 3.5 mile event at 17:48, with Pat Raymark of Milwaukee close behind at 18:54. The old record of 17:57, was set by Todd Hausman in 1981.

Judy Kacmarynski of Cedarburg won the women's 3.5 race at 25:35.

Haney to Forego Eye Operation

At his last appointment at the Eye Institute, R. L. (Bob) Haney was given a small chance that another operation would restore some vision to his right eye. If some vision was restored it would probably be less than the vision he has in his left eye which is 20/400. Haney is legally blind in the left eye.

Since there was also significant risk of losing the right eye completely in a very delicate operation, Haney has decided to forego the operation and wait for developments in eye surgery in the years to come. Perhaps someday the eyes can be restored better.

Haney next has an appointment with the Low Vision Clinic, also part of the Milwaukee County Hospital Complex. This clinic develops individual systems to aid the visually impaired to use what they have to their best ability.

Haney was brutally beaten in an assault on May 21 in his place of business in Kewaskum and suffered severe eye damage.

Dennis Raymark of Milwaukee was the first person to cross the finish line in the 20-kilometer race coming in with a time of 1:10:14.

Peggy Meyer, Milwaukee, won the women's K-20 race with a time of 1:35:16.

Dale Squier was chairman of the race and was pleased that the race ran smoothly.

Door prizes were won by Linda Theisen, R. 3, Kewaskum; Vernon Butz, Kewaskum; Josephine Roehrborn, Kewaskum; Brian Sengwick, R. 3, Campbellsport, and Esther Luckhardt, Horicon.

Results of the race and photos appear on other pages of this issue.

Grand Opening of Nature Trail

Jr. Woman's Club Plans 'Art in the Park' Festival

"Follow the Trail" is the theme for the GFWC Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club "Art in the Park" Festival, scheduled for Sunday, September 11th, from noon to 4:00 p.m. in the Kewaskum Kiwanis Park.

A ribbon cutting ceremony for the Grand Opening of the Junior's Nature Trail is planned for 12:00 with guests including Cal Stott, retired forester and Karl Rathmann, co-developers of the trail. Guided tours of the trail will be available. Richard Schmidt will also be on hand, representing the Kewaskum Village Board and Park Committee.

Chairwoman for the festival, Mrs. Nancy Malvick, has reported that artists and craftspeople from Wisconsin, Illinois and Iowa will be displaying a wide variety of exhibits, including stained glass, etchings, claywork, rosemaling, ceramics, salt-dough, wood working, watercolor, acrylic painting, folk flutes and gilded items.

Along with the exhibits, the Juniors will be offering a homemade pantry, plant booth, lunch and refreshments, clowns, music, a handmade quilt display and outdoor games. The importance of using child safety seats will also be presented at a Junior's display.

Decision to Come on School Board Actions

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Washington County District Attorney David Resheske said Tuesday, that he had met with the Kewaskum School Board regarding possible meeting violations which may have occurred during open and closed sessions of the board.

Although he would not make any comments regarding Monday night's closed meeting with the group, he indicated he would have a decision on the situation some time next week.

Contract to Bowmar for Town Of Kewaskum Reassessment

The contract for completing a reassessment of the Town of Kewaskum at a cost of $13,300 has been awarded to Bowmar Appraisals of Appleton. Bowmar has also done other reassessments in the area, one of the latest being for the Village of Kewaskum.

The Appleton-based firm submitted the lower of two bids received by the Town Board. The other bid was for $19,900.

Work on the reassessment will be starting this fall. Town Clerk Barbara Hinz said they should complete the work by the summer of 1984. Hinz said the project will undoubtedly move back the date for the annual Board of Review next year.

The last complete reassessment in the town was done in 1974, according to Hinz, who said that currently the board plans to levy a special assessment to pay for the project. Once the final assessment is determined, the cost will be divided equally among the property owners.

HANEYS EXTEND THANKS

The Haney Family wishes to thank all who have helped us during our series of misfortunes. It is said that bad things happen in series of three; we have had two more than our share lately.

At the same time our good fortunes have come in the thousands — all of the thousands of good people in the Kewaskum area and beyond who have helped us through our difficulties. We like those odds: thousands to five!

To try and name all of the individuals and groups who have been of help would surely result in some important oversights. Each one of you who have concerned yourself with our needs deserves our special thanks. And we deeply and sincerely give it.

Very special thanks goes to Margaret McFadden, Diane Buchel, and the Lion's and Kiwanis Clubs for their coordination of all of the activities on our behalf. We also owe Dale Stern extra thanks for taking over so efficiently at the pizza place.

Our sons have seen first hand the evil and hurt that people can inflict on other people. They also have seen first hand the tremendous good most people are capable of. We hope that the latter is deeply ingrained and the former is forgotten.

Thank you, many thousand times. Thank you.

Bob, Gina, David and Dennis Haney

The highest temperature ever recorded in the U.S. was 134° at Greenland Ranch in Death Valley.

Dear Friends

There are so many negative influences on our children in the magazines, movies, TV, and music of this dollar-conscious era. More than ever, we should honor and support our teachers, clergymen, scouting, 4-H leaders, and many others who work against heavy odds to teach and inspire our youth in creative living.

Memories...

This photo, taken 25 years ago, in 1958, shows Arnold Kumrow, veteran chairman of the pheasant raising program at the West Bend-Barton Sportsman's Club, holding two excellent examples of the pheasant hens which were released in the county to improve hunting conditions for sportsmen in the area. A total of 661 roosters were released at a later date during the mating season. The pheasants were part of a shipment of approximately 1,800 birds received by the West Bend-Barton Sportsman's Club from the state conservation department in its annual program of pheasant raising. The Kettle Moraine Sportsman's Association of Kewaskum, one of the few clubs in this area which still raises pheasants, will release this year's birds this Sunday, Aug. 28, from 8 to 11 a.m.

Kewaskum Night at Brewers Game a Long, Wet One

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Four hundred fans from the Kewaskum area were at last Tuesday's Brewer game to cheer the team on to an exciting 14-inning win.

The opening ceremony included the National Anthem sung by the Kewaskum High School Swing Choir and Kewaskum Village Board President Gerald Stollenwerk throwing out the first ball.

With a 3-3 tie at the end of the ninth, it took a sacrifice fly by Ted Simmons in the 14th inning to give the Brewers a 4-3 win over the Boston Red Sox.

What was supposed to have been a make-up game double header ended up a one-game pitcher's duel that ran from 6:00 to 10:00 p.m.

During the intermission to allow the grounds crew time to prepare the field for game number two, "Mother Nature" decided to put on a show which included rain, lightning and a little wind. After more than an hour's rain delay, the second game was cancelled.

Many of the Kewaskum Night fans who had driven their own cars down left before the "Great Downpour." However, those of us who went to the game on the four chartered busses were treated to a "Saturday Night Bath" on Tuesday, trying to make it from the stadium to the bus parking area.

To top off the evening, one of the bus drivers lost his keys. After several attempts to get the bus started by pushing it, it was left on the parking lot and its passengers were split up among the other three busses and we all headed for home. Even with all the unexpected events of the evening, it was an enjoyable community night out, for all who went.

The Kewaskum High School Swing Choir sang the National Anthem.

Village President Jerry Stollenwerk [in shorts] threw out the first ball.

The Brewers Jim Gantner, a native of Eden, Wisconsin.

Kewaskum Brewer fans. [Say, how did that Campbellsport baseball player get in there?]

Are those two girls in the second row old enough to be drinking? Second to their left we spot another Campbellsport fan, "Bups" Reese, who won two free tickets. There were quite a few from Campbellsport with the Kewaskum crowd.

More Brewer Night fans. There's Norman and Reenie Heberer and Roger Heberer in the center.

Family Reunion Held in Beechwood

Families representing the descendants of the Johann H. Klein, Frederick Schuppel, and Friedolin Baumgartner, gathered together at the Beechwood Firemen's Hall to observe their 14th annual family reunion Sunday, August 14. Ninety members were present.

After a delicious pot luck luncheon, prizes were awarded to the following members. The longest married couple prize went to Byron and Ruth Klein of rural Kewaskum. Traveling the greatest distance was won by William Klein, who came from Los Angeles, California. Byron Klein was also awarded the prize for being the oldest senior gentleman. The oldest senior lady present was Mrs. Marie Schuppel of rural Kohlsville. The youngest married couple prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Gary Krohn of Milwaukee. Andrew Krohn of Milwaukee won the prize for being the youngest child in attendance.

Genealogical listings of the Johann H. Klein family were passed out to all of the first cousins and to members of a deceased first cousin. The Frederick Schuppel branch had their genealogical listings completed several years ago. Next year work will be done on the Friedolin Baumgartner branch.

Free Handbook Gives Information On Job Training

Jobs and job training are two important topics in the work force today. One source of information about both is the 1983-84 edition of the Handbook of Trade and Technical Careers and Training, which is available free as a public service.

The Handbook lists over 600 accredited trade and technical schools nationwide which are designed to train students quickly for a job of their choice. It also provides information on choosing a career and a career school.

The Handbook lists each school by state and by career. There are 98 potential careers to choose from and complete descriptions for each career. Most programs enable students to complete their training in two years or less and information on financial aid is also available.

The Handbook also:
 * helps plan a career step-by-step

* discusses the value of accreditation

* gives schools' addresses and telephone numbers

* lists other free publications available through National Association of Trade and Technical Schools

* provides information about job placement

* lists the average time needed to complete training for particular skills

BOWEL TUMORS

Cancer of the colon or rectum can be cured in over 95% of cases if detected early - and this can be done by routinely testing your stool for blood, 3 days every year. Physicians and hospital clinics can usually provide the necessary test kits and instructions. Remember, taking bran [two tablespoons] with breakfast and a fresh salad with dinner should provide enough fiber to avoid bowel tumors.

Pharmacist Warns Of Diet Pill Dangers

Diet pills taken by millions of weight-watching Americans may cause psychological dependency and physical problems if overused, says a pharmacist at the University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics.

More and more people are using the appetite-suppressant pills, says UW pharmacist Donna Bond.

"Many are taking appetite suppressants in more than the recommended dosages, and for longer periods of time than suggested," says Bond. "In addition, the pills are used as a type of 'speed,' since they are often represented as an amphetamine."

Bond recommends that diet pills be used for short periods only, not exceeding four to six weeks. With longer use, people may develop a tolerance to the pills, so that more are needed to achieve the same results.

Large quantities can produce effects such as an increase in heart rate, high blood pressure, insomnia, nervousness and irritability, Bond warns.

Persons with heart disease, high blood pressure and diabetes should not use diet pills, she stresses. They can affect a diabetic's blood sugar levels and throw the body's sugar control mechanisms out of line temporarily. Persons with these conditions should consult a physician before following any type of weight-reducing diet, she says.

Diet pills can even be toxic or fatal if overused, depending on the pill's ingredients, how often they are taken, and a person's susceptibility.

However, Bond says diet pills are appropriate for some people trying to lose weight.

"A weight reduction food plan must be followed in order to lose weight," she says. "The pills are only a temporary crutch some people can use in conjunction with a diet. The pills alone won't make a person lose weight."

Page 8, Friday, Aug. 26, 1983

Bond suggests looking for diet pills without caffeine, a common ingredient that often causes insomnia. Pills should be taken on a short-term basis only for maximum safety.

ANOREXIA NERVOSA — WHAT IS IT?

CAN IT BE CURED? YES!

By R. G. Edwards, M.D.

This condition of ill health is known as the self-starvation disease. It affects mostly young girls between the ages of 13 to 25 years and, furthermore, all are members of an affluent family. Fatal results occur in 5 to 20% of all cases, hence, good treatment is vital.

Rita, age 15, was admitted to Dr. Gerald Bargman's special pediatric endocrinology clinic at Madison, Wisconsin, after she had planned to become a teacher at age 15, but at age 16, she had become a nervous malnourished recluse. Treatment produced great improvement and was continued for one and one-half years. Now at age 20, Rita is a happy vivacious college student studying to become a medical doctor.

Dr. Bargman stated that Rita is one of 300 patients he has treated since he started his special clinic six years ago, and over 90% have remained in a "cured" state of health. (Short term now but Dr. Bargman hopes for the long time cure — 20 to 25 years). He states further that the affliction has risen in recent years because the causes may be related to the increased demand for women to be successful socially, economically and politically. This is all hooked into being thin.

Dr. Bargman said the aim of his treatment is to treat the malnutrition before any psychological counseling is attempted. All the patients that have come to him for treatment, have lost at least 30 per cent or more of their normal body weight. Psychotherapy begins with the first meal when doctors and nurses urge all patients to eat well and not to worry about their weight or their appearance. Furthermore, all patients eat together which is group therapy, thereby quadrupling the good effect of the doctor's treatment.

Lastly, Dr. Bargman stated fanatic dieting and isolation are the early warning signs of anorexia, while advanced stages include forced vomiting (bulimia) or use of strong cathartics or laxatives after meals, depressing hyperactivity and excessive exercising even unto death.

FOOTNOTE: Personally, I ask all readers to be watchful for the above symptoms and do report to someone in authority. A few years ago, I treated such a case who was cured at Madison and now is a successful business woman for which I am proud and happy.

Telephone Co. Issues Tips to Protect Customers From Calling Card Fraud

There's a new wrinkle in telephone Calling Card fraud, according to Bob Fox, security manager for General Telephone Company of Wisconsin.

"It started on the west coast," Fox said. "An individual impersonating a telephone company service office employee calls a customer and, during the conversation, obtains his or her Calling Card number."

"This individual then informs the customer that the number is being re-issued, gives the customer a fictitious new number and proceeds to use the customer's valid number to place calls to points all over the world."

He noted one victim received a bill totaling over $18,000, after giving his Calling Card number to a "phony" caller.

"Calling Card numbers are the customer's private property," Fox pointed out, "and should not be shared with anyone they wouldn't trust with a signed blank check."

Telephone companies do contact customers from time to time, he added, but "there would practically never be a reason for us to ask for the customer's Calling Card number."

Individuals receiving calls requesting Calling Card numbers are advised to hang up and call the local telephone company business office, using the telephone number found in the phone book, not any number given them by the caller.

Fox also pointed out legitimate telephone company personnel carry identification cards from the phone company and customers should not hesitate to ask to see the card, if personnel from the phone company come to their homes or businesses.

Council Approves '84 Highway Safety Plan

The State Council of Highway Safety has approved spending $3.8 million on state and local traffic safety problems during 1984.

The federal highway safety funds are allocated for programs to combat abusive drinking and driving, encourage seat belt and child restraint usage, enforce traffic laws, especially the 55 mph speed limit, train emergency medical services personnel, implement traffic records systems and increase bicycle and pedestrian safety activities.

Maynard G. Stoehr, highway safety coordinator for the Department of Transportation, pointed out that Wisconsin Statutes require at least 50 percent of federal dollars be returned to local agencies for safety programs and equipment. He commented that with the cutback in federal monies available to states, "good planning is more important than ever to get the maximum return for every dollar spent."

The 15 members of the highway safety council are appointed by the Governor and include legislative, state agency and citizen members. Council members are: Sen. Lynn S. Adelman, New Berlin; Rep. William Kasten, Mosinee; Rep. Cletus Vanderperren, Green Bay; Sen. Richard Krueger, Fennimore; Rep. Patricia Smith, Rice Lake; Howard Bjorklund, Madison; Joe Sweda, Madison; J. Denis Moran, Madison; Carol Z. Hemersbach, Madison; Dr. Herbert Grover, Madison; LaVerne Hoerig, Sheboygan; Patricia Feins, Madison; Micky Sadoff, Milwaukee; Elmer Marx, Appleton; and Walter Knutson, Cumberland.

Stoehr said the Wisconsin Highway Safety Plan has been used as a model for all states for the past several years by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Short Course Scholarship Applications Due Sept. 1

September 1 is the application deadline for scholarships to the 1983-84 Farm and Industry Short Course at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Eighty scholarships, ranging from $100-500, are available to Wisconsin students enrolled in the certificate program, which is designed to prepare young people for a career in farming or agri-business, says Rick Daluge, short course director.

Prospective students should submit their scholarship applications, along with transcripts and letters of recommendation, as soon as possible.

According to Daluge, students who have not yet applied for admission to short course should do so now—especially if they need a dormitory room.

In short course, students can select from more than 50 courses offered during the annual 15-week session. Each session, which this year begins Nov. 14 and ends March 17, is divided into three 5-week terms. Students can enroll for one, two or all three terms. Thirty-six credits are required to earn a two-year certificate of graduation.

Courses are taught by faculty members in the UW-Madison College of Agricultural and Life Sciences.

For more information or a registration or scholarship application, contact Daluge at 116 Agriculture Hall, UW-Madison, Madison, WI 53706; telephone (608) 262-3127.

Distribution of Surplus Commodities to Needy in State to Begin in Late September

Distribution of federal surplus commodities to needy persons in Wisconsin will begin in late September.

Under the program, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has provided the State Department of Health and Social Services (DHSS), with more than 2.6 million pounds of commodities valued at $3.2 million to be distributed.

Tina Nye, food surplus commodities coordinator for the DHSS Division of Community Services, said that in addition to processed cheese and butter, surplus cheddar cheese, rice, honey, corn meal, and dry milk will also be available for the first time.

To qualify, applicants must file a self-declaration of income at distribution sites which will be located throughout the state.

Depending on income and family size, eligible persons can receive a minimum of 5 pounds of cheese, 2 pounds of butter, and other commodities.

Commodities distribution will be handled through local governmental agencies, voluntary organizations, and individual volunteers, she said.

Among those involved in the program this fall will be community action agencies, county social services departments, county offices on aging, emergency government agencies, migrant worker organizations, St. Vincent de Paul, the Menomonee Tribe and local food banks.

Participating volunteer groups will include senior citizen and labor organizations, fire departments, police agencies, and churches.

Nye said that the last surplus commodities distribution activity involved 510 sites and approximately 5,500 volunteers. In that effort, 233,000 Wisconsin households with 744,000 individuals received surplus commodities.

"Only the most conscientious efforts by public and private agencies and individual volunteers make it possible to reach the needy throughout Wisconsin and assure operation of the program at a minimal cost," she said. "We believe this continuing cooperation and support will be essential to all future distribution efforts."

Following is a list of local commodity distribution agencies in this area: Dodge—Dodge County Commission on Aging, Carol Huebel, 414-386-4411, ex. 391;

Fond du Lac—Fond du Lac County Dept. of Social Services, Stance Bergelin, 414-929-3408 or 414-929-3400; Sheboygan—St. Vincent de Paul Society, Russ Vandermus, 414-459-5311 or 414-467-6730; Washington—Washington County Department of Social Services, Donald Ryd, 414-338-4650.

100,000 Smiths On Selective Service Rolls

More than 100,000 Smiths have registered with Selective Service in the three years since Jimmy Carter ordered young men to register. All the Smiths on the Selective Service rolls are men born January 1, 1960 or later and at least 18 years old. The list also contains more than 75,000 men named Johnson, 60,000 named Williams, and 20,000 named Rodriguez. Although no one has been drafted since 1972, Selective Service has compiled a list of 10,500,000 young men for use should Congress ever order a return to a draft. General Thomas K. Turnage, Director of the Selective Service System, notes that the list must be as complete as possible so that a wartime draft would be fair.

Under present laws, all young men are required to register, including those who would be likely to qualify for conscientious objector status, or who would qualify for postponement or deferment by reason of being a veteran, a minister, physically disqualified, etc. The only men not required to register are lawful non-immigrant aliens, members of the armed forces on active duty, and cadets or midshipmen at the service academies.

If Congress ever ordered a return to a draft, 20 year olds would be the first inducted. To date, 98.6% of the young men in the potential draft eligible population (men born 1960-1963) are registered.

If there were an emergency and Congress authorized inductions, local Selective Service boards would be activated in every community to act on judgmental claims (conscientious objectors, ministers of religion, students studying for the ministry, registrants whose induction would cause a hardship to others). Wisconsin has 235 men and women serving on local boards. These boards are composed of citizen volunteers, representative of their communities, who have been selected and trained to insure equitable treatment of every registrant claim. If a registrant's claim were denied, the man would be given a written statement of the reasons for denial and he would be informed of his right to appeal the decision.

A young man registers by going to any U. S. Post Office and filling out a Registration Form that asks only for his name, address, telephone number, date of birth and Social Security Number.

REGISTRATION. IT'S QUICK...IT'S EASY...AND IT'S THE LAW.

10 Arrested in Food Stamp Investigation

Ten people were arrested in East St. Louis, Ill., for receiving nearly $188,000 in illegal food stamps and other welfare benefits, U.S. Department of Agriculture Inspector General John V. Graziano said today.

The arrest warrants were issued to St. Clair County State Attorney John Baricevic and served by the staff of Sheriff Merele Justus, based on investigations by USDA's Office of Inspector General. Warrants for the arrest of two other persons are outstanding.

All of those charged were identified by a computer match of persons receiving welfare benefits in Illinois, while working in Missouri. The computer match was part of the USDA Chicago Office of Inspector General's contribution to a President's Council on Integrity and Efficiency project for detecting fraud in government programs.

Graziano commended the St. Clair County state attorney's office and the St. Clair County sheriff's department for their roles in the investigations. "Those staffs have shown how the federal, state and local governments working together can attack fraud, waste and abuse in government programs," Graziano said.

Persons convicted of the charges face imprisonment for two to five years and fines up to $10,000.

Filing Deadline for Highway Use Tax Return Draws Near

Owners of most large trucks, truck-tractors, or buses must file an IRS Form 2290, "Federal Use Tax Return on Highway Motor Vehicles," by August 31, 1983, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The tax period for the highway use tax began July 1, 1983, and ends June 30, 1984. Taxpayers who will first use vehicles after July must file Form 2290 by the last day of the month following the month of first taxable use. The return must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service Center for the area in which the taxpayer's principal business, office or agency or legal residence is located. For Wisconsin truck owners the return must be filed in Kansas City, Missouri.

The highway use tax applies to highway motor vehicles, including single-unit trucks of 2 or 3 axles weighing 13,000 pounds or more; single-unit trucks with 4 or more axles, regardless of weight; 2-axled truck-tractors weighing 5,500 pounds or more; 3-or-more-axled truck-tractors, regardless of weight; 2-axle trucks of 9,000 pounds or more, equipped for use in combinations; 3-or-more-axled trucks equipped for use in combinations, regardless of weight and buses with a taxable gross weight of more than 26,000 pounds.

The tax is imposed on those vehicles using any public highways, which includes federal, state and city roads. Revenue from the tax helps states in financing the Interstate Highway System.

Form 2290 and IRS Publication 349, "Federal Highway Use Tax on Trucks, Truck-Tractors and Buses," can be ordered by writing the IRS or calling the IRS Tax Information number listed in the telephone directory.

USDA Increases Milk Deduction 50 Cents

Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block today announced the U.S. Department of Agriculture will increase the deduction from proceeds of sale of all milk sold commercially Sept. 1, 1983 through Sept. 30, 1984 by 50 cents to a total of $1 per hundredweight. Deductions will be remitted to USDA's Commodity Credit Corporation to help offset the cost of the milk support program, he said.

Producers who reduce their commercial milk marketings for Sept. 1, 1983 through Sept. 30, 1984 (the last month of the 1982-83 marketing year and the whole 1983-84 marketing year) by 8.4 percent from the average of the two marketing years that began Oct. 1, 1980 will receive refunds of the second 50 cent deduction.

Block also announced that the price support level for manufacturing grade milk (3.67 percent average fat content) will continue at $13.10 per hundredweight for the marketing year beginning Oct. 1, the minimum level of support authorized by law.

Both the deductions and the minimum support price level are authorized by last year's amendment to the Agriculture Act of 1949. These actions have been taken to reduce milk production and to reduce costs of the dairy price support program, according to Block.

CCC is authorized to deduct 50 cents if the government expects to purchase annually in excess of 5 billion pounds (milk equivalent) of dairy products. An additional 50-cent deduction is authorized if government dairy purchases annually are expected to exceed 7.5 billion pounds and there is a refund program in place. CCC expects to purchase more than 16 billion pounds of dairy products in the year ending Sept. 30 and more than 11 billion pounds during the 1983-84 marketing year.

4-H NEWS

By Bob Stodola
County 4-H & Youth Agent

LISTENING IS KEY TO DEALING WITH CHILDREN'S STRESS

Everybody gets it. But do you recognize the symptoms in yourself, and know how to handle them? If you don't, says Trisha Day, 4-H youth development health specialist for the University of Wisconsin-Extension, you're not going to be able to help your children deal with their own stress.

You may feel your children lead an idyllic life, but it's not stress-free. No more than yours is. They just get their stress from different sources, from problems that may seem insignificant to you. Like trying out for school cheerleader. Or taking exams. Or sitting next to "Henry" on the school bus.

Childhood stresses affect children in the same way adult stresses affect adults. They get butterflies and sweaty palms. They may bite their fingernails. They become irritable and moody.

Your children need to know that stress is a normal part of life. The danger is in not facing up to it. Too much stress lowers resistance to disease, and leaves people wide open to colds and infections. In addition, research is finding that stress can sometimes be a factor in some kinds of cancer and heart disease. People who suffer from too much stress are more likely to have accidents, or may commit suicide.

To help your children face their stress you must first face your own. Recognize the situations that stress you. List your favorite forms of relaxation. Once you have a stockpile of relaxation techniques such as reading, walking, writing, or just being alone for awhile, the big step is to allow yourself to do these things in spite of job or societal pressure to always be on the go. Poor health is too high a price to pay for getting ahead in the world.

Be sensitive to what's going on in your children's lives. The key word is "listen." If they show symptoms of stress, ask them what's the matter and lend them a sympathetic ear. If they aren't in the mood to talk, don't pry. That could just add to their stress.

Once you discover the problem, help your children think of various ways to deal with it. When first confronted with a problem, many children (and even adults) don't realize they have options. The realization in itself has a calming effect.

Ask your children, "What is the worst possible thing that could happen?" Then think of options for dealing with the worst-case situation. Role playing often helps. For instance, if your children are being teased by the school bus bully, discuss the options and act them out, taking turns in each role. The real life situation won't work as smoothly, but your children will be better prepared and more confident when they face the problem again.

No matter how good a listener you are, there may be times when your children need to see a professional counselor. This certainly doesn't mean that you're a failure as a parent, or that your children are unstable. You seek professional help for most problems that require specialized knowledge — for your car, finances, plumbing, your physical body and even your soul. It only makes sense to get professional help for your emotional health — and for your children's emotional health.

The 4-H Health Project "Taking Care" has information about coping with stress. Call the 4-H office for more details.

HAPPY-GO-LUCKY 4-H CLUB

The Happy-Go-Lucky 4-H Club held their monthly meeting on August 16, at the Farmington Town Hall. The meeting was brought to order by president Sandy Petsch at 7:15.

The Pledge of Allegiance was led by Tracy Bindrich and the 4-H Pledge by Vicki Bindrich. Birthday for the month of August was Andy Degnitz.

The secretary's report, read by Shelly Petsch, was accepted and the treasurer's report was given by Andy Degnitz and also accepted.

The pizza and cheese sales turned out to be a success. Our recent trip to the Brewers game, financed by those sales, was very enjoyable.

We talked about the County

Fair with everyone telling what award they received on their projects. Our 4-H booth received a second rating at the County Fair.

For new business we discussed fund raising for next year. A lady and gentleman from Ready Pop popcorn talked to us. It was decided that popcorn would be a good fund raiser for next year.

Record books are due by September 1st. They may be handed in to the project leaders or directly to Mrs. McKee.

The meeting was adjourned at eight and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Mushroom Picking And Guidelines Course Offered

Mushroom collecting has been called the most dangerous of outdoor sports. Foraging edible fungi in Wisconsin woods has become a popular autumn pastime.

Dr. Saad predicts that mushrooms in abundance will be available for picking this fall. But do you know which ones are safe to eat? Mushrooms lovers and mycophagists will learn how to minimize the dangers and maximize the delights of wild fungi. The University of Wisconsin-Washington County in West Bend is offering an eight-week course, "Collecting, Identifying and Growing Mushrooms," on Fridays from 11:00-11:50 a.m. in the Main building, room 214, starting September 9. Dr. Sami Saad, Associate Professor of Biological Sciences and a member of the board of directors of the Wisconsin Mycological Society will teach the one-credit course.

Dr. Saad has been teaching classes on mushroom identification for several years. He uses a beautiful slide collection to lavishly illustrate his lectures.

Two Saturday field trips will help the students apply their classroom information to actual mushroom hunting expeditions.

Poisonous mushrooms and their toxins will be carefully considered. Growing mushrooms and methods of cooking them will conclude the short course.

Preserving Tomatoes- Changes for 1983

By Shelby Maier
Summer Extension
Home Economist

It is the middle of summer and tomatoes are starting to ripen. If you have tomatoes in your garden and you are beginning to wonder what to do with them when they all turn red and plump, don't panic. There are many ways to preserve their summer freshness and flavor for year round use.

There have been some important changes in tomato canning procedures for 1983. The USDA food scientists are recommending longer processing times for home-canned tomatoes and tomato juice. The changes were prompted by increasing reports of spoilage. The USDA and UW-Extension food scientist recommend the following tomato canning procedures:

1. At least for this year, do not raw pack tomatoes. Adequate heat penetration takes much longer when raw, unheated tomatoes are used.
2. Process hot pack tomatoes 35 minutes for pints, or 45 minutes for quarts in a boiling water bath canner. In a pressure canner, process at 10 pounds pressure for 15 minutes.
3. Process pints and quarts of plain tomato juice 35 minutes in boiling water bath or at 10 pounds pressure for 10 minutes in a pressure canner.
4. Process tomato juice cocktail (made from a blend of tomatoes) and other vegetables in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for 15 minutes.
5. Do not use overripe or damaged tomatoes in any home canned product since these tomatoes tend to be lower in acid.

6. For added safety of tomatoes canned in a boiling water bath canner, add one-half teaspoon citric acid or 2 tablespoons of lemon juice to each quart of tomatoes.

Armchair Aerobics — A New Way to Exercise — From Your Chair —

Kewaskum Statesman, Friday, Aug. 26, 1983, Page 15

A new exercise program, Armchair Aerobics enables you to exercise while seated. Armchair Aerobics was developed by the aerobic fitness organization, Dance Slimnastics Ltd.

Now there's a way to exercise nearly anytime or anywhere. And, believe it or not, all you need is a chair. A new exercise program, Armchair Aerobics, allows you to exercise while you are seated.

Developed by Dance Slimnastics, Ltd., Port Washington, WI, the aerobic fitness organization, Armchair Aerobics is "especially for people with space or physical limitations," says Dance Slimnastics Executive Director Ruth Sovo. Sovo further explained that "Armchair Aerobics can be used by office workers, older adults, those recovering from surgery and even travelers." Sovo said that although Armchair Aerobics is of particular benefit to those with these limitations, the program can also be of benefit to anyone who wants the freedom to be able to exercise "wherever there's a chair."

All Armchair Aerobics movements are done with the hands and arms but Sovo recommends that if possible, the "exerciser should move his or her legs." And, even though the exercises are done in a chair, they will provide a complete aerobic workout when done according to instructions.

To assist persons in doing Armchair Aerobics, Dance Slimnastics has developed a kit which includes a cassette tape, which takes the exerciser through the program with lively music in the background, and a brochure which further explains the program. "Our Armchair Aerobics brochure emphasizes the best and safest ways to do Armchair Aerobics. We want to make sure that the exerciser will become physically fit by using medically reliable procedures, such as keeping track of pulse levels—all included in the kit."

If you or someone you know would like to learn more about Armchair Aerobics, write to Armchair Aerobics, P. O. Box 367, Port Washington, WI 53074.

Scab Defoliating Susceptible Crabapple Trees Statewide

By Dan Wilson
Horticulture/Resource Agent

If there were a complaint department for Washington County gardeners, the department's switchboard would be lit up with calls from perplexed crabapple tree owners. The fungus that causes scab disease in flowering crabs has been having a field day.

The disease has defoliated crabapple trees statewide. And the onslaught could continue if the weather brings a rainy period with cool nights in August.

The most common disease of flowering crabapples, scab, is characterized by dark, velvety, circular spots — ranging from the size of a pinhead to a half-inch in diameter — on either side of the leaves. During scab epidemics, entire leaves will turn brown and develop a fuzzy gray-green coating.

For trees that have not lost all their foliage and for those that show signs of developing new leaves, spray applications of a mixture of benomyl and mancozeb. The mixture should contain one tablespoon of benomyl and one tablespoon of mancozeb per gallon of water.

For season-long control, several well-timed applications are suggested. Spray just after blooming in spring and twice more at 14-day intervals. During wet summers, three additional applications may be necessary.

Raking and burning or otherwise destroying diseased crabapple leaves in fall is part of the overall control. These sanitation measures will help eliminate fungal spores, but there are no guarantees that windborne spores may not be blown in from other areas.

Many crabapple cultivars commonly grown in Wisconsin, including Hopa, Almey, Eleyi and Strathmore, are susceptible to scab. Do not plant Them! Several cultivars are resistant to the disease. Among the pink/red flowered cultivars that are fairly scab-resistant are Robinson, Centurian, Candied Apple, and Indian Summer. Disease resistant white flowered cultivars include Donald Wyman, Gibbs Golden Gage, White Cascade, and Sargent.

Store foods of the same type (such as cheeses) together in the refrigerator. Make a special corner for leftovers. That way, you'll be sure to use them before they spoil.

$8.00 per year [in state] $10.00 per year [out of state]

... about your Social Security

By David Becker, Social Security Branch Manager in West Bend
SOCIAL SECURITY FOR HOUSEHOLD EMPLOYEES

A person who pays a household employee at least $50 in cash during a 3-month calendar quarter is considered an employer for Social Security purposes. The person is required to deduct Social Security taxes and report the wages paid, including cash payments made to cover the cost of bus fare, meals, or a room.

So that the necessary reports may be made accurately and on time, employers should keep a record of the name, address, and Social Security number of each household worker, as well as the amount of wages paid. For 1983, both employer and employee are required to pay Social Security taxes of 6.70 percent on cash wages up to $35,700. Reporting forms and instructions on how to complete them can be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service Center.

There are a number of important exceptions to Social Security coverage for household employees. For example, payment for household work performed by a husband or wife or by a child under 21 is not covered under Social Security. However, wages paid a parent for similar work may be covered under certain circumstances. Information covering this rule may be obtained from any Social Security office.

Employees of a hotel or rooming house are not subject to the requirement that a household worker earn at least $50 during a calendar quarter; all wages paid these employees must be reported.

Household workers employed on a farm that is operated for profit comprise another special group. Wages paid these employees must be reported if they amount to $150 or more for the year. Wages must also be reported if the household employee works at least 20 days during the year on a time basis—by the hour, day, week, or month—even if total annual wages amount to less than $150.

Another session will be held at 5:30 p.m. for evening-only students and those unable to make the earlier session.

Wisconsin's Six Month Death Toll Declines From 1982

Wisconsin's traffic death toll for the first half of 1983 was down nine percent over 1982, itself the best in 30 years.

Through the end of June, 290 people had died in traffic crashes, compared to 318 the year before and 437 in the first six months of 1981.

Russell Fleming, chief of accident data for the Department of Transportation's Division of Motor Vehicles, said this year's death toll includes 38 pedestrians, compared to 44 in 1982; 37 motorcyclists, compared to 45 a year ago; 144 drivers and 62 passengers, compared to 150 and 70 in 1982.

Fleming said Wisconsin has now completed 22 months in which the death toll has not exceeded 100. The last triple-digit fatality count was 110 in August 1981.

"Wisconsin appears to be unique in the continuing downward trend in traffic deaths," Fleming said. Surrounding states are reporting increases this year, including Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota.

Fleming said the next two months will be crucial in traffic safety, since July and August are traditionally the months with the highest fatalities. Over the past decade, traffic fatalities have averaged 102 a month in July and 103 in August. Last year's death toll was 95 in July and 73 in August.

"The reasons for the upturn in highway safety are many and difficult to rate," Fleming said. Last year's death toll to 775 was 16 percent under the 927 deaths recorded in 1981. It was the greatest percentage decline since 1974, the first year of the 55 mile per hour speed limit, when traffic deaths declined 21 percent from 1,157 in 1973 to 912 in 1974.

Some people say it is unlucky to enter a house or room with the left foot foremost.

Slow for Construction Sign Means S-L-O-W

Speeding thru construction areas can be hazardous for both construction-maintenance workers, and motorists according to Sheriff Clarence Schwartz.

"In spite of bright orange warning signs, flashing lights and barricades, many drivers continue to speed through work zones. The result, in past years, has been death and injury for county highway workers and contractor employees," added Schwartz. The speeding through work areas has also caused accidents with property damage and injuries for the motorist.

Highway crews face many dangers, including being hit by out-of-control vehicles, the Sheriff went on to say. Motorists want roads kept in good repair. The lack of concern for highway employee safety is all too evident in many motorists' behavior.

In conclusion, if everybody would be a little more patient, watch for flaggers, and obey the slower speed laws, drivers (and passengers) would all be safer as a result.

NO TAX INCREASE!

Despite the reduction in the growth of federal spending during the Reagan Administration, we face the largest deficits in our history. Yet, unfortunately, too many Members of Congress consider their reelections dependent on continued high federal spending, and thus, we face even greater deficits.

Many people assert that the deficits are the result of too large an income tax reduction in 1981 and excessive defense spending. In fact, because of the increase of Social Security taxes, the 1982 Tax Act, and "bracket creep," the income tax bite has not been reduced.

However, spending for a variety of social programs has increased dramatically. Non-defense spending has grown from 11.4% of the GNP in 1969 to 17.3% in 1981. In the first four months of this fiscal year, less than one-quarter of the increase in the federal deficit was the result of defense spending increases while the remaining three-quarters was the result of increased social spending.

The House Democratic Study Committee has produced a list of money raising options, rather than proposing ways to reduce spending. These are only a few of their ideas:

- eliminate deductions for state and local sales tax
- tax 10% of the capital gains on all home sales
- restrict mortgage interest deductions
- tax employer paid health insurance
- tax employee fringe benefits
- increase the gasoline tax by 17c a gallon over three years
- eliminate the 1981 estate and gift tax reforms
- limit charitable contributions for non-itemizers

I intend to oppose each of these alternatives just as I opposed the 1982 tax increase (which included 10% withholding provisions). Instead, we must look for ways to reduce spending, because the working people of this nation already carry too much of the income tax burden.

Income Audits Find Misreporting On School Lunch Applications

Almost one-fifth of the sampled households in a U.S. Department of Agriculture pilot study received excess school meal benefits for their children, according to a USDA report.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarratt said misreporting household income by an average of $88 accounted for 93 percent of excess benefits awarded.

The study is the second report from the first year of the school lunch income verification pilot project, a two-year study mandated by Congress in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981.

The findings are based on in-home audits of 741 applicants for school meal benefits in 54 schools in nine school districts across the country during school year 1981-82. While this particular study was not nationally representative, the results held true for every school district examined. Jarratt said two other USDA studies, both nationally representative, show even greater evidence of understated income on meal applications.

"These findings of underreported income in order to qualify for higher benefits make a compelling case for the verification of reported income on a selected portion of the meal applications," Jarratt said.

"The study clearly shows the need for the mandatory minimum income verification requirement which is in effect for this fall," she added.

Starting in the 1983-84 school year, schools will be required to verify the income information on a small sample of applications submitted for free and reduced-price meals.

"The study gives schools an error-prone profile to use in this effort — a quick and effective screening device for choosing a sample likely to contain fraud-lent applications," Jarratt said.

School officials can use the profile to identify high-risk applicants by looking at information routinely submitted on the application. Applications selected by the profile are four times as likely to contain errors which would affect eligibility status as those selected randomly, the study showed.

The initial report on the school lunch income verification pilot project was issued in February. It showed that the USDA meal application form used since 1981, a form which requires social security numbers of adult household members, was successful in deterring some income misreporting.

The second phase of the income verification test ran during the 1982-83 school year in more than 120 school districts and tested a range of income documentation and verification techniques used in 60 sites. Results of the second phase now are being evaluated and will be reported to Congress in the fall of 1983.

The National School Lunch program is the largest of the federal school nutrition programs, serving more than 23 million children daily during the school year. About 10 million children receive free lunches and about 1.5 million get reduced-price lunches. Eligibility for free or reduced-price meals is based on Congressionally-mandated income guidelines.

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

CROP PRODUCERS SHOULD WATCH TAX PROBLEMS WITH PIK

The Payment In Kind (PIK) program offered many crop producers an alternative to growing crops in 1983. Producers should be aware of potential tax concerns relating to their participation in the PIK program.

Congress corrected one tax concern in the program when it allowed PIK payments to be taxed in the year the commodities are sold rather than when received. The 1983 PIK Tax Treatment Act says PIK grain received by farmers is treated as raised grain. It isn't taxable until it is sold. This applies only if PIK grain is received by the farmer.

Many equipment dealers, feed companies, and lending institutions are providing programs by which farmers can assign their PIK programs in exchange for credit. If a machinery dealer or lender receives the grain, the farmer can no longer treat the grain as if he raised it.

By assigning your PIK payment, you give up other benefits provided by the 1983 PIK Tax Act. Your PIK acres will not qualify as land that is actively used in a farm business. One effect of this is that you can't deduct expenses for land clearing and soil and water conservation for those acres from 1983 income. Such expenses must instead be added to the land's tax basis, thereby decreasing capital gains or increasing capital losses when you sell the land.

Growers may be more concerned about making an income tax estimate this year, as many farmers will experience less expenses due to not planting crop acres. This may require some income tax management strategies before the end of the year to reduce income tax liabilities.

The PIK program has offered farmers benefits and may help many farmers with their cash flow, but the tax consequences need to be evaluated.

Journal/Al's Run to Include Walkers

The romance that joggers and serious runners have had with The Milwaukee Journal/Al McGuire 5-Mile Run since 1978 has spread to walkers this year with the addition of an organized three-mile walk route for the September 24, downtown happening.

Sponsored by The Milwaukee Journal and held in cooperation with former Marquette University basketball coach and current NBC-TV broadcaster Al McGuire, The Journal/Al's Run has grown from a field of 4,000 in 1978 to 17,549, a year ago. Walkers have been allowed to participate each year, but organizers are promoting a large walking contingent this year.

Mrs. Pat McGuire, Al's wife, will lead the walkers this year from their starting point at 13th St. and Wisconsin Avenue, Milwaukee. The walkers will proceed east on Wisconsin to Prospect Avenue, turn right at Mason St. and cross the new War Memorial Center bridge. They will loop around behind the War Memorial Center and follow the paved footpath along Lake Michigan to Gate 1-A at the Summerfest grounds.

Both running and walking entrants in the Journal/Al's Run will receive a souvenir T-shirt and official entrant's number for their $6 entry fee.

"It's time to break out the T-shirts and sneakers," Al McGuire said, "for the kids of the intensive care unit at Milwaukee Children's Hospital." Since 1978, the Journal/Al's Run has raised nearly $400,000 for charity.

McGuire says persons interested in participating in the Journal/Al's Run for 1983 have several options:

*Runners or walkers may enter as individuals for $6 and receive a souvenir shirt and competitor's number. They also are eligible for the pledge contest grand prize trip to Hawaii, donated by Northwest Orient Airlines to the competitor raising the largest total pledge dollars.

*Run on a corporate team with co-workers. Corporate entries are $100 for each 10 runners or fraction thereof. A corporate team consists of a minimum of five runners who must be employees. The team's score is tabulated by adding the finishing times of the team's five fastest finishers.

*Join Al's VIP Club by donating $100. Each VIP will receive a distinctive green golf shirt with an embroidered Al's Run logo, plus a special gold imprinted runner's number.

Time schedule for Saturday, September 24, will include the start of the wheelchair division at 10:20 a.m., with the start of the run at 10:30 a.m. The walkers will begin as soon as the field of runners have passed 13th St. and Wisconsin Avenue.

In the 20-lap sportsman feature it was Pat Harshbarger of Mt. Calvary the first seven laps. Laack started fifth in the race but quickly powered himself to challenge Harshbarger by that lap.

Harshbarger eventually went to the pits and John Born of Cleveland went after the lead over Laack. "The car has been working really well the past few weeks," Laack said. "I just tried to stay out of trouble."

Born was on Laack's rear until Randy Markwardt of Sheboygan took over the second place position. But Laack could do no wrong as he maintained a safe and steady lead from the 10th lap on.

"It was the pit crew," Laack emphatically pointed out. "You can be a great driver, but if you don't have a good pit crew...you don't do well."

Steve Schad of Kiel had little trouble establishing himself as the leader of the pack in the 12-lap hobby stock feature. Schad grabbed the lead by lap four and was never seriously challenged. Dave Haag of Plymouth came on strong to move into the second place position, but he was never any threat to Schad.

Greg Hartlaub of Sheboygan grabbed the lead early to win the modified a semi-feature. Brian Titel of Sheboygan challenged Hartlaub most of the 15-lap race, but could never overtake him on the inside in the corners.

Mike Kuhfuss of Sheboygan won the 10-lap B semi-feature.

Howie Weiss of Glenbeulah won the 12-lap sportsman B semi-feature, leading throughout the entire race. Dave Becker of Greenbush won the 8-lap B semi-feature.

Randy Sippel, fifth in point standings in the modifieds took the fast time with his :14.78 clocking. Al Goetsch of Sheboygan took the sportsman fast time with his :16.74 time.

established by the Natural Resources Board later this month.

FWS has allotted a 15,000 quota of Canada geese to Wisconsin hunters in the Horicon and Central zones this year. Last year's quota in those areas was 9,000. The zones have been expanded for this season to include all of six counties, Dodge, Columbia, Marquette, Green Lake, Fond du Lac, and Winnebago. The Theresa Marsh in Washington County will also be included in the zone this year.

Wetzel said the increased quota for the Horicon and Central zones will enable the department to issue about 10,000 more permits for Canadas in those areas this season. No quota has been allocated elsewhere in the state, but the southern goose hunting zone cannot open before October 15. The duck zone line will separate the northern goose hunting season from the south, he said.

The deadline for submitting applications for those permits has been extended to September 15 from September 10th. The permits are now available at DNR stations, hunters should wait until the Natural Resources Board sets the Canada goose seasons before submitting an application for a permit.

The FWS also gave the department permission to schedule a December Canada goose season in Brown County to put pressure on the expanding breeding population in lower Green Bay. This population of giant Canada geese does not migrate and resides in the lower Green Bay area year round.

DNR wildlife personnel are meeting with members of the Wildlife Federation and the Wisconsin Conservation Congress to discuss the waterfowl seasons which will be submitted to the Natural Resources Board for approval August 24th at its meeting in Ashland.

Lake Sturgeon Tags Required

Sturgeon tags for the 1983 hook and line season in Wisconsin are available at several DNR locations around the state including the License Section in the Madison office.

The tags, which are free, are required this year for all lake sturgeon taken by hook and line on Wisconsin's inland and boundary waters. The fish also must be registered at designated registration stations located in many areas of the state.

The hook and line season for sturgeon began on Saturday, April 30th, and continues to October 31st on Wisconsin-Minnesota boundary waters with a season limit of one fish and a minimum length of 45 inches. The season on inland waters opens on Saturday, September 3rd, and runs to October 15th with the same bag limit and minimum length as in Wisconsin-Minnesota boundary waters. The season also opens this year on September 3rd in Wisconsin-Michigan boundary waters, but continues to November 1st in those waters. The bag limit in Wisconsin-Michigan boundary waters is two per season with a minimum length of 50 inches. There is a continuous hook and line season for sturgeon in Lake Superior.

The new requirement for tagging and registering lake sturgeon taken by hook and line is necessary to provide the Department with the harvest information necessary to protect and manage sturgeon populations.

Zoned Duck Season; Goose Quota Up

There will be two zones recommended for Wisconsin this year for the duck hunting season, the northern zone is the area generally north of Highway 10, and the southern zone the area south of that highway.

John Wetzel, waterfowl specialist in the Department of Natural Resources, said the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (FWS) had given the department permission for the zone concept this year for duck hunting. "This will give us an opportunity to have a continuous rather than a split season in the northern zone," Wetzel said, "something that duck hunters in the north have been seeking as it will provide them with five more hunting days earlier in the season when the hunting opportunities are better."

Wetzel noted that the duck hunting season in the southern zone would be recommended for a split season which has been statewide prior to this year. The season dates will be

RACING NEWS

By Tom Gross

For the second week in a row, Eastern Wisconsin Stock Car modified champion Ron Luedtke of Lomira wrapped up the 30-lap feature win before a 2,000-plus crowd at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds Speedway. The win jumped Luedtke past Gene Erdmann of Sussex and into the number two spot behind Budweiser point series leader, Frankie Heimerl of West Bend.

Terry Peik led the field for the first two laps. Butch Wondra of Campbellsport and Bill Johnson III of Slinger tangled going into the second corner as lap three began.

Both cars were towed off and a leaking oil pan delayed the race until the slicks could be dealt with. When the green flag was dropped once again, Peik was taken by Randy Tracy of Plymouth.

Tracy, Peik and Gene Erdmann of Sussex went at it for the lead until Luedtke charged up to join the chase. The defending champ zoomed past Erdmann on the outside, down the home stretch on lap 19 and then did the same to Tracy on the 24th circuit. "I just found my groove," Luedtke noted. "It was a super track tonight."

Luedtke, who had engine problems earlier in the season, had none Saturday as his #1 modified really hooked up for the win.

Indians Open Football Season at Horicon Fri.

School doesn't start until next Wednesday but the Kewaskum Indians will open a nine game (one more than last year) 1983 football schedule with a non-conference game at Horicon this Friday night, Aug. 26, at 7:45 p.m. The Marshmen are members of the Wisconsin Flyway Conference.

The Indians will play two additional non-conference games, both at home against Milwaukee Juneau Friday, Sept. 2, and Campbellsport Friday, Sept. 9, before opening the Eastern Wisconsin Conference season at Two Rivers Sept. 16.

Mike Ffifrick will start his fifth year as head coach of the Indians with 13 returning letter winners—including his entire offensive backfield.

Two other lettermen, Dean Kohn, 225 lb., 5' 11" senior tackle, and Tim Leitheiser, 135 lb., 5' 6" senior back, did not come out for football this year.

Returning lettermen include Brad Bartelt, 150 lb., 5' 8" guard; Jim Braun, 180 lb., 5' 10" back; Dennis Butz, 195 lb., 6' 4" end; Brad Dieringer, 150 lb., 5' 7" back; Mark Follmann, 155 lb., 6' 1" back; Rich Gaspardo, 160 lb., 5' 10" back; Chris Harlow, 185 lb., 5' 11" back; Rick Heberer, 140 lb., 5' 7" back; Doug Miller, 165 lb., 5' 10" center; Dave Pesch, 165 lb., 6' 0" tackle; Steve Seitz, 185 lb., 5' 10" guard; Jeff Squier, 170 lb., 6' 2" end; and John Swanson, 210 lb., 5' 9" tackle.

Seven players from last year's 3-5 team were lost to graduation, including first-team All-Eastern Wisconsin Conference linebacker Stuart Stautz, the Indians' MVP and most valuable defensive player last season, and Brian Johnson, voted the most improved player in 1982.

Quarterback Mark Follmann will hand off to fullback Chris Harlow and halfbacks Jim Braun and Brad Dieringer. All are seniors, with the exception of Follmann.

Follmann, a 6-1, 155-pound junior, was the only sophomore letter winner last year. He missed three games with an injury, but completed 20 of 46 passes for a total of 260 yards in his five starts and threw three touchdown passes in a 28-14 win over Sheboygan Falls, the Indians' only EWC victory.

Harlow was the sixth leading rusher in the EWC in 1982 with 400 yards in 87 attempts, scoring four touchdowns. He was also the fourth-ranked punter in the conference with a 32-yard average.

Braun ranked seventh in rushing with 331 yards in 71 attempts and returned a fumble for a touchdown in last year's 14-13 win over Campbellsport. He and Harlow were both second-team All-EWC selections.

Dieringer is smaller than the other two backs, but is a two-year letter winner who has gained 445 yards in 127 carries. His 19-yard average on kickoff returns was fourth best in the conference a year ago.

John Mertzig, a 5-6, 143-pound junior, is another "pocket back." Of Mertzig, Ffifrick said, "He could be our quickest player."

Among the receivers Follmann has to throw to are Dennis Butz, Rick Heberer and Jeff Squier. All are seniors.

Butz is a big target at 6-4. He led the team in receptions in 1982 with 12 for 93 yards and three touchdowns, and was a second-team all-conference pick. He also intercepted two passes defensively.

Heberer was a wingback and defensive back last season. "Defensively, Rick was involved in 29 tackles," noted Ffifrick. "This year, he will be moved to linebacker."

Squier averaged 23 yards on his five receptions in 1982. "Jeff was a leader of our defensive team from his safety position," Ffifrick said. A second-team all-conference choice at safety, Squier will be a co-captain this season.

Another end candidate is Tom Herryges, a 6-0, 150-pound junior, is "a dedicated offensive worker with good hands," according to Ffifrick, who noted that Herryges may also play defensive back.

New guards will have to be found for a line that returns senior starters in center Doug Miller and tackles John Swanson and Dave Pesch.

Miller, described by Ffifrick as "a hard worker in the weight room and an excellent team leader," was chosen as a co-captain by his teammates.

Swanson, a two-way starter at tackle, was named the Indians' most valuable lineman in 1982 and was a second-team all-conference selection on offense. Defensively, he averaged nine tackles a game.

Pesch was the second-leading tackler from his defensive end position last year, averaging 14 a game. He was an all-conference honorable mention choice at defensive end.

A junior, 6-0, 180-pound Gary Butzlaff "should bolster our lines," said Ffifrick. "He was a starting lineman on both his freshman and jayvee teams. He's a good weight trainer and has a good attitude."

Another senior letterman who should help offensively is Brad Bartelt, a possible starter at guard.

Defensively, the Indians will be strong at linebacker. Steve Seitz, who averaged 11 tackles a game a year ago, and Rich Gaspardo return.
