'Alabama' Lead Singer Wears Kewaskum Jersey at State Fair Show

ALABAMA, country music's "Entertainers of the Year," took to the main stage at the Wisconsin State Fair Friday and Saturday, August 3rd and 4th. Friday's show was a near sell-out and Saturday's show became a sell-out with 15,579 attending. Fair officials have stated that Saturday's total crowd for both the day and night has set a new State Fair record of 106,806.

For the Saturday night show, lead singer, Randy Owen, wore a Kewaskum Indians jersey given to him by Debbie Nigh, Kewaskum area resident and friend of Owen. Debbie had her first song published by ALABAMA'S publishing company (Maypop Music in Nashville) and has continued to pursue a career in writing country music.

The photo submitted was a color photo and when reduced to black and white the Kewaskum Indians logo did not print well due to the fact that it was gold print on a green shirt.

Owen's "special number" 23 did, however print because it was white.

Local residents who were at the show commented to Owen in the autograph line about the shirt. Being that ALABAMA also has their roots in a small town, (Fort Payne, AL) Owen said it was great to see a large turnout from our small town. We, in turn, were proud to have Kewaskum represented at the State Fair in this way.

Kewaskum's Brad Kidd State Grand Prize Winner in CF Bike-A-Thon

Brad Kidd of Kewaskum is the state-wide grand prize winner in the 1984 Cystic Fibrosis Foundation Bike-A-Thon program. Brad, who is a member of the Kewaskum Jaycees, raised over $1000 to help fight cystic fibrosis. The grand prize was a Milwaukee Brewer package.

Brad, who is very dedicated to cystic fibrosis cause, has participated in the bike-a-thon for the past four years. In total Brad has raised over $4000 for the Foundation. In 1983 Brad injured his leg while riding but continued to ride 46 miles. Many of those miles were ridden with the power of only one leg.

Cystic fibrosis (CF) is a genetic disease that affects the lungs and digestive system of its victims. It is the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in this country. Currently there is no test to detect the over 10 million Americans who are symptom-free carriers of the defective gene.

Village Board Rejects Lawn Tractor Bids

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

On the recommendation of the Public Works Committee, the Kewaskum Village Board voted to reject two bids received for furnishing a diesel lawn tractor and mower at Monday night's meeting.

Chairman Don Mlodzik said his committee made the recommendation after a review and discussion of the bids. He said his group felt that because the grass cutting season was near the end, the village should consider getting bids on a tractor equipped with a cab and snowblower. Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo told the board the unit could then be used this winter to clear bridges and sidewalks as well as clear the skating pond at the park.

Trustee Tom McElhatton asked if the new bid requests would also include the mower. Mlodzik said no, money would be included in next year's budget for the mower and advertisements for bids would be placed then. On a 6-0-1 absent vote, the board voted to reject the bids and advertise for new bids on the revised equipment specifications.

In other action Board President Jerry Stollenwerk opened bids for the purchase of a new rescue unit by the Fire Department. Four companies submitted bids. Life Line Limited submitted low bid and quotes on two separate units. They were a Type III Demo for $37,445, and a Type II 1984 Demo for $30,000. WOS Safety of Green Bay bid $40,641 for their unit, Marion Body Works of Marion $42,362 and Carl Groth Sales, West Bend, $46,332. The bids were turned over to the Fire Department Equipment Committee for their review.

Trustee Dave Nigh told the board he had been approached by some individuals regarding what they felt was an overzealous effort by the Police Department to nab speeders on Highway 45 at the south end of town. He admitted drivers have

The Kewaskum Lions Club was blest with a beautiful day for their eleventh annual Chicken Bar-B-Que and Kettle 20 running race on Sunday.

Around 973 dinners were served with carryouts available. About 300 hamburgers were also served as well as soda, beer and ice cream bars. The Ralph Buchel orchestra provided the entertainment. A flea market was also held at the park in conjunction with the bar-b-que and run.

A total of 165 runners from Wisconsin and several from out of state competed in the races.

Clyde Moser, West Bend, who set a new record in the 3.5-mile event at 17:48 in last year's race, moved up to the 12.4-mile race, taking first place with a time of 1:09:01. Dennis Raymark of Milwaukee was close behind with 1:09:12.

Peg Meyer of Milwaukee, who won the women's race in the Kettle 20 last year with a time of 1:35:16, defended her title successfully with a time of 1:26:40. Leanne Grogan of Milwaukee finished second in 1:34:40.

Winners of the men's 3.5-mile races were first, Ron Schackerl of Fredonia, with a time of 18:32 and second, Brian Moser of Fond du Lac, Clyde's brother, with 19:33. Todd Rodenkirch, Kewaskum, was third with a time of 19:37.

Lynn Schnorenberg, Hartford, took first place in the women's 3.5-mile race with a time of 24:34. Kathy Mueller, Milwaukee was second with a time of 25:00.

$40,000 Raised, Prizes Drawn In Mill Pond Clean Up Project

John Stommel of Campbellsport is the winner of the 1984 Chevette in the Campbellsport Mill Pond clean up prize drawing which was held Saturday, Aug. 18. The drawing raised approximately $20,000.

Other winners included Wilbur Whitty of Campbellsport, color TV; Colleen Theisen of Fond du Lac, microwave; and Joe Vorpahl of Campbellsport, 12-gauge shotgun. All of the prizes were donated.

The mill pond clean up project began in 1979 and is headed by the Campbellsport Lions Club. The mill pond has been drained down and will be dredged next summer. Various other organizations and individuals in the community also have made donations or commitments to the project.

Regal Ware of Kewaskum is donating $10,000 toward the project, which represents 50 cents of every dollar in the prize drawing. Approximately 20,000 tickets were sold at $1 each.

With donations from the Jaycees and others coming in, the total is expected to amount to over $40,000.

This fall, five or six engineering firms will be contacted for bids on the job specifications. They will be asked to define what has to be done. The engineering method for cleaning up the mill pond has not yet been determined.

It is hoped a contract can be awarded by next spring, with work on the clean up project starting in the summer of 1985. Target date for completion is the summer of 1986.

A minimum of 80,000 cubic yards of sediment, which is equal to one acre of land 50 feet high, will have to be dredged from the pond. At $1.50 to $2 per cubic yard, estimated cost of the complete project is $120,000 to $160,000.

State or federal money may be available. They are hoping to get at least 60 percent of the funding from the state.

Local Men Attend Historic Meeting Of U.S. Jaycees

(Tulsa, OK) — Phil Fellenz and Richard Thiemer, of Kewaskum, have returned from Tulsa, Oklahoma, where they took part in a historic, one-day Special Meeting of The United States Jaycees. Fellenz and Thiemer attended the meeting to vote on a proposed change in the Jaycees' membership bylaws to include both men and women between the ages of 18 and 36 as full members of the organization. The Special Meeting was called by The U.S. Jaycees' Executive Committee in response to a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that stated The U.S. Jaycees were a public accommodation under Minnesota State Law.

Jaycee leaders from across the nation attended the meeting and voted to change the membership bylaws nationwide to admit women. The new bylaws will go into effect immediately.

Tommy Todd, the 65th President of the leadership training organization, said "I strongly believe that our 7,000 chapters in communities across the country will accept this change and will look forward to accepting the challenge to have an even greater impact in their communities. I encourage all of America's young people to become part of the Jaycee movement."

The U.S. Jaycees has 270,000 members in 7,000 local chapters across the country. The organization's headquarters is in Tulsa.

a tendency in that area to pick up a little speed before they hit the 45 mil-per-hour zone near the motel.

Village Administrator Dan Schmidt told Nigh that he was not trying to defend the police department, however, if there was any question regarding the speeds on tickets, they could be checked at the department. Schmidt said the officers were not issuing citations for going a few miles over the limit. He said if the individual received a ticket he was going well over the 30 mph limit.

Mlodzik agreed with Schmidt that he had been contacted by some citizens also. Mlodzik told the board that after checking the records, he found many more warnings than tickets had been issued. He said when this information was passed on to the citizens there were no further complaints. Trustee Howard Laubenstein went along with the warning tickets but he also stated if a driver is going 40 in a 30 zone, they should be ticketed. McElhatton said some residents had told him they felt the police should be patrolling the village more, rather than sitting and watching for speeders. Mlodzik said, on the other hand, he had received a complaint where the citizen felt the police should stay parked in one place to nab noisy cyclists. Nigh said, what it comes down to is when you've got one squad you can't please everyone.

Schmidt told the board if they compared the village's police records with surrounding communities they would find Kewaskum is the most lax and lenient around as far as issuing citations. Trustee Mary Krueger said it was not so much the tickets that the people objected to as the feeling the police were sitting behind trees waiting for you. Schmidt said if motorists aren't speeding they don't have to worry about being caught.

Due to the Labor Day holiday, the board voted to change the first meeting date in September to Tuesday, September 4th.

Very honorable mentions:

These individuals turned their money in after the deadline for prizes, but were very successful.

Gene Miller, of the Sun Prairie/Stoughton area, collected $642.60. Dean Lazore, of the Saukville/Port Washington area, collected $598.00.

Prizes for chairperson were awarded on the basis of the most participants recruited.

Chairperson winners are:

First place: Esther Yaworski and Imogene McGrath of Lake Nebagamon, recruited 96 bikers.

Second place: Jeanne Koslovsky and Beverly Yant-Burke of the Delavan/Darien area, recruited 78 bikers.

Every participant raising $25 or more was awarded an official CF Bike-A-Thon t-shirt. In addition to the above-listed prizes, many prizes were awarded locally.

To date over $132,000 has been raised in the 1984 Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon program, with some events yet to be held. This program is the largest fund raising event conducted by the Wisconsin Cystic Fibrosis Foundation each year. The funds raised help to support research and treatment programs of the CF Foundation.

The principle goal of research is to find a cure for cystic fibrosis. Every day, every five hours, a child is born with CF and every day, every eight hours, someone dies from CF. One in twenty Americans carry the CF gene. Half of those afflicted with CF die before they reach the age of twenty.

Funds raised in the Bike-A-Thon program help to support our two CF Clinics at Milwaukee Children's Hospital and the University Hospital in Madison. There are also two state based research grants funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. There is no cure or long-term control for cystic fibrosis.

America saw its first popular newspapers when the "Penny Press" made its appearance in the 1830's. The first successful penny paper was the New York Sun.

Balloon Given Out at Area Picnic Recovered in Michigan

Sarah Mugg of Holland, Michigan, is ten years old and typical of that age group because she likes balloons. She was very pleased to find a stray balloon on the beach near her home recently. Imagine her surprise when she found that the balloon had crossed Lake Michigan all the way from Wisconsin! Sarah also found some lettering on the balloon which stated: "YORK G.O.P. ASSEMBLY. Paid for by York for Assembly, Mary Muehlius, Treasurer, Brownsville, Wisconsin."

Apparently Sarah is interested in politics and a sharp little girl because she addressed a letter to "Candidate York, Brownsville, Wisconsin." Mary Muehlius received the letter and then forwarded it to Dwight York of Lomira, who is a candidate for the 59th Assembly District. Sarah also did not want to offend the candidate because she used the greeting "Dear Mr. or Mrs. York." Sarah had balloons sketched throughout her letter, and she told that her parents, the Wallace Muggs, are also G.O.P. members. She concluded her letter by wishing York good luck in the campaign for Assembly, and she also requested that she be informed if he won the election.

The balloons have been used in York's campaign in various area parades and picnics. Some of the towns and cities where they have been given out are Campbellsport, Knowles, Hartford, Horicon, Slinger, Kewaskum, Brownsville, Ashippun, Theresa, Iron Ridge, and Allenton. York stated that the balloons have been attention-getters and that the children lining the parade routes have been so happy to receive balloons from York helpers passing them out. Just as Sarah had been surprised to find a balloon from Wisconsin, so was York surprised to receive a letter from Michigan that told of the amazing journey that one of his balloons had taken. He estimated that the distance was about 120 miles, much of it over Lake Michigan.

When the Circus Came to Town

A big drink of water, then time for a nap before the big show. These large pachyderms had put in a busy morning's work. Up with the sun helping circus crews raise tents and move equipment. Life in the circus is not all glamour and glitter.

Work for the elephants was not over, however, like all the other circus members, once the tent was up and equipment in place they still had a night of performing under the huge Carson and Barnes Big Top. The circus was in West Bend for two performances last Thursday.

A big drink after a busy morning's work.

In the morning it was the set-up crews who performed under the big top as they got equipment ready for showtime.

Electric Co. Requests Approval To Lower Base Electric Rates

Wisconsin Electric Power Co. on Aug. 1 requested approval from the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin to lower base electric rates by $8.1 million in 1985. If approved by the commission, the action would mark the second consecutive year that the company has reduced electric rates in Wisconsin.

Together with the $20.5 million decrease for 1984, the current rate request would mean the company supported decreases of $28.6 million since 1983.

"We've worked very hard to reduce our costs and rates for our customers in each of these two years," WE Chairman Charles McNeer said. "This reduction is noteworthy because it comes at a time when utilities in other parts of the country are seeking higher rates and several companies are in financial difficulty."

Major factors in the reduction include successful cost-control measures, the repurchase of some of the company's common stock, revised tax accounting procedures, reductions in the amount earned on funds borrowed for construction and a delay in the startup of Pleasant Prairie Power Plant Unit 2.

In addition, McNeer said, effective control of the growth in peak demand for electricity has allowed the company to reduce the number of power plants that will be needed in the near future, curtailing construction expenditures.

"It's as important as ever that our customers continue to use energy wisely, switching to off-peak use whenever possible," he emphasized. "That will keep our need for expensive new power plants at a minimum, which will in turn allow us to keep rates low."

Easing of inflationary pressures and general economic recovery also were contributors to the request for a rate reduction. The decrease would be effective Jan. 1, 1985, if approved by the Public Service Commission.

"Consumers are paying more today than they were in 1983 for most other items and services they use. The cost of the electricity they buy is a major exception to that," McNeer said.

Wisconsin Electric is the only major electric utility in the nation to seek a rate reduction in each of the past two years.

Music for Youth Fall Auditions

MUSIC FOR YOUTH (MFY), the greater Milwaukee area youth symphony orchestra program, is holding a series of auditions for membership in the orchestras for the 1984-85 season.

This year the Music For Youth program will include three full orchestras and three sections of a training string orchestra. There are openings in all sections of all the orchestras and the auditions are open to young area musicians ages 8 through 19 years.

The auditions will be held from 5:00 to 9:00 p.m. on Friday, September 7, and from noon to 5:00 p.m. on Saturday, September 8, and Sunday, September 9. They will be held on the 4th floor of the Performing Arts Center. The musicians should use the 123 E. State St. entrance.

Prospective new members should attend the September 7 auditions, if possible. Returning members should attend the Saturday or Sunday sessions. No appointment is needed and no accompanist is necessary.

The three full orchestras rehearse at the Performing Arts Center on Monday afternoons and evenings. MFY Symphony Orchestra I, rehearses from 6:30-9:00 p.m. Symphony Orchestra II and Orchestra III rehearse from 4:30-6:00 p.m. String Orchestra IV, a training orchestra that offers orchestral opportunities to the less experienced string player, has three rehearsal sections. These sections have separate locations in Greendale, Elm Grove and River Hills. The north and west sections rehearse on Mondays from 4:30-5:45 p.m. and the south section meets on Mondays from 6:30-7:45 p.m.

The first rehearsals will be Monday, September 24, and the season runs through the final Spring Concert on May 19, 1985.

John Downey, professor of Music at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, will teach an introductory and an intermediate class in music theory on Thursday evenings at the Performing Arts Center. The classes are open to all young musicians, as well as to members of MFY. Registration will be at the fall auditions or by calling the MFY office.

Realty World-West Grove Realty, Inc. Moves to New Quarters in West Bend

Don Kuechler, president of Realty World-West Grove Realty, Inc., announced the relocation of his company's office headquarters to the new 'West Grove Building' located at 2395 West Washington Street in West Bend. Effective Thursday, August 23, the entire real estate sales operations are expected to be in place and operating.

The new office building (formerly the Schulz Building) was purchased in June by West Bend Savings' Financial Resource Group and underwent extensive remodeling during July and early August. It was at this time that the real estate sales operations of Realty World-Schulz Realty Corp. were combined with those of Realty World-West Grove Realty, Inc.

"The need for additional space was overwhelming," Kuechler said, "especially after the real estate companies were combined."

According to Kuechler the move represented an almost doubling of office space to approximately 4,000 square feet. "We are now able to better accommodate needed work areas for our 30 sales associates and staff members," Kuechler said, "plus, we have additional space for displaying Real Scope Boards (color photos of homes) and current construction projects, and, we now have conference and closing rooms."

The need for additional work space was only one of the factors involved with the decision to relocate. Kuechler indicated room for growth, easy access, ample parking and a west side location as also being important elements involved with the decision. "We believe that much of the future growth of West Bend will be on the west side of the city," Kuechler said, "we're already seeing the results of the construction of the shopping center and the Hwy. 45 By-Pass. In our opinion, West Washington Street was by far the best location available."

In addition to Realty World-West Grove Realty, Inc. the new 'West Grove Building' will house Citizen's Financial Service Corporation's real estate co-ordinating office, the mortgage financing specialists representing RW Mortgage Corporation of Wisconsin and West Bend Savings and, a number of small independent businesses.

Realty World-West Grove Realty, Inc., a member of West Bend Savings, Financial Resource Group, is the largest real estate sales company based in Washington County.

'Ye Olde School' on Cedar Lake Home Campus Innovative

The Cedar Lake Home Campus, West Bend, has been selected as one of the top ten finalists for the "Innovation of the Year" award to be presented by the American Association of Homes for the Aging for the Campus' "Ye Olde School" program.

The one room school, built in 1917, holds classes for first through eighth graders from schools in West Bend, Slinger, and Kewaskum. Each day 16 different students, 2 from each grade, come to "Ye Olde School" to experience what school was like in the early 20th century and participate in actual subjects, stories and games that were common in country schools.

Residents of the Cedar Lake Home Campus serve as teacher aides and help the students with assignments and share stories of their experiences when growing up in the early 1900's.

Representatives from area industries also come to the school to give a presentation on how their company affected and still affects Washington County.

The school is filled with memories of the era from the old school desks through all authentic appointments.

The American Association of Homes for the Aging, a national organization of non-profit homes and facilities for the elderly, will make the "Innovation of the Year" award at their 23rd annual convention in San Antonio, Texas, this October.

Construction crews are working almost round-the-clock shifts to complete work on the new Highway 45 by-pass.

Grading and bridges over the highway should be completed this year. Paving will be done next year to complete the first phase of the bypass to Paradise Drive on the southern side of West Bend.

When the bypass is finally completed it will run from the Highway 41-45 junction west, around West Bend and re-join the present Highway 45 roadway north of the city near County Highway D.

Giant earthmovers and graders prepare the road bed for the new Highway 45 bypass. The view looks north toward West Bend.

Crews and cranes lift a concrete bridge support span into place. The new bridge will eventually carry Western Avenue traffic over the Highway 45 bypass. Western Avenue is located between the 41-45 junction and Jackson. Staff photos by Gerry Mueller

Letters to the Editor

To all taxpayers:

First of all I want to thank Norbert Dettmann in behalf of all the people who were at the annual meeting on July 23rd, for doing a wonderful job of chairing that meeting.

Next my thanks to Kris Heise for finally bringing to light how Beechwood school was always figured different then other elementary schools. Beechwood has always been the scape-goat for a few people who do not look at quality and equal education. In my opinion and a lot of other people think the same way, to close Beechwood was only to satisfy the "ego" of our administrator and some members of the school board. But to have to sacrifice the education of kids, sure is a rotten shame. Beechwood will be around ninety percent of capacity, not sixty-two per cent, the way the people were always told.

Thanks to Mr. Tom Brigham for being honest enough to admit there was a mistake made. Why was the D.P.I. report not all made public? It told of other means besides closing Beechwood school how this district could operate. I hope this board will put their act together and start operating on a more honest basis.

Taxpayers, look into why good teachers resign! Five the past week.

What did it cost to move back into the portable offices? I can tell you one figure, $2,200.00 just for new carpeting - only one bid.

Part of Beechwood roof was fixed last spring. We have a maintenance manager. Why did he O.K. the roof on such a sloppy job and it was paid for but the flashing in front of that building is terrible. I did a better job on my barn. I can do a better job of inspection with one eye shut.

This is only a few things I know, how many more are there? I forgot, one stove and refrigerator was bought out of money that was borrowed to fix roofs. Taxpayers, let's start demanding a dollar's worth for our tax dollar.

Thanks to Mr. Hohlweck and Mr. Peter for standing up for Wayne school. Honesty always rules in the end.

Thank you for the space.

Clara Trapp

Dear Editor:

The week of August 19-26 has been proclaimed as Citizen Advocacy Week by Reuben Schmahl, Washington County Board Chairman. This week is being recognized in an effort to publicize the efforts of Citizen Advocacy to involve people who are disabled and to increase the acceptance and integration of persons with disabilities in our communities. It is also a time to encourage the involvement and support of community members in Citizen Advocacy.

We have seen great strides in the involvement and equal participation of people with disabilities in our communities. People in Washington County have been very supportive of including people who happen to be disabled in their churches, families and activities.

There are many more opportunities for people with and without disabilities to learn from each other and gain a respect for each other's needs. We encourage members of our communities to take an active part in making everyone feel a part of the community - and to remember that people who happen to be disabled are people first... and happen to be disabled second.

West Bend is proudly boasting about the latest project designed to draw shoppers into its downtown business area, the newly completed Riverwalk which runs along both sides of the Milwaukee River.

The unsightly banks of the river, which once displayed little more than flotsam and jetsam from dead trees to chunks of concrete and cans, and back doors to Main Street businesses, are now dressed in ribbons of cobblestone walks landscaped with trees, shrubs and flowers. Not only is the new walk slowly drawing people back to stroll along the river, stopping to rest at one of the benches or picnic tables, but the birds which once lived and fed off the river are also returning.

Several Main Street businesses have now begun to remodel their back entrances to blend in with the newly created beauty of the riverwalk whose bridges connect their stores on the west side of the river, to the West Bend Outlet Mall on the east side.

Citizen Advocacy of County Wants to Tell Its Story

By Susan Snyder

Unfortunately, one of the best kept secrets in Washington County might well be the Citizen Advocacy program.

Started in 1978 by the Retarded Citizens of Washington County, the Citizen Advocacy (CA) program works to develop one-to-one relationships between a volunteer advocate and a person with a disability. Today, with a strong working core of 30 long term matches and 5 short term advocates guided by a trained professional staff of a director, assistant and office manager, a board of directors, the CA program remains largely unknown and untapped in many vital areas.

But for those involved in the program, CA is far from being a mystery. Just ask Dorothy Seramur of West Bend, whose daughter Jayne, 19, has been matched with advocate Barb Wolf almost from the creation of the program, what the CA program means to her.

"It's a super program," she said. "Just the greatest. I wish I could give Barb a big tribute. I just can't say enough about the program."

Barb, whose own sister also has Down's Syndrome, asked to be Jayne's advocate almost six years ago, said Mrs. Seramur. As the youngest of 12 children, Jayne needed the companionship of people her own age and many times she was home alone with her mother.

"I would come home from work and simply have no energy left some days to do something with Jayne," said Mrs. Seramur. "Just when I thought I would climb the walls, the phone would ring and it was Barb, asking Jayne to go to a movie."

Jayne and Barb do all those things that young people like to do - go out to eat, go to movies and ball games, or to just sit around and listen to music, eat pizza and talk. Their time together has also been a learning experience for Jayne. Her match with Barb has helped her to become more outgoing and self-confident, said her mother.

Advocates can also help their match by being a guide in areas such as behavior, economics or personal appearance. They can act as a friend, spokesperson, negotiator, link to community affairs or monitor of services, as well, according to CA director Sue Moser. With offices at St. Joseph's Community Hospital and in the Executive Square Building in Germantown, CA is supported through local donations from the 4 United Ways in Washington County, local organizations and foundations and from individual contributions.

Getting better acquainted with CA, its functions and its goals is the reason for designating the week of August 19-26 as Citizen Advocacy Week in the county.

"We've been here almost six and a half years, but Citizen Advocacy is still a new idea to people," said Moser. "We want to use this week to publicize CA and what we do. We want to familiarize people with the fact that we're here and they can get involved."

Moser hopes that CA week will not only make county residents aware of Citizen Advocacy, but encourage them to get involved, either as an advocate, serving on a committee, or the board of directors of the program. She hopes that people would take advantage of some of the other services that CA provides, such as the "Educational Advocacy" program. Last fall, CA trained four parent volunteers who will act as advocates for other parents in the county who have children with special educational needs. The trained volunteers will offer support, information and guidance to parents to assist them in getting the proper educational services for their children, said Moser. The program can tell parents where services are located, how to get services through the schools or what their rights are in obtaining such services. Parents can get more information about this program and the other services that CA provides by calling the office nearest them.

The CA office also provides training and resources in Self Advocacy, a program through which people with disabilities can learn about their rights and responsibilities and advocating for themselves. The 12-week Self Advocacy course will be given through MPTI for the fifth time this fall.

The highlights of CA week (Aug. 19-26) will include the Annual Picnic and a Bake Sale this week and a new fundraising Rummage Sale slated for Sept. 8.

The annual Citizen Advocacy picnic will be held Sunday, Aug. 26, at Ridge Run Park as a wrap-up to the week's activities. The picnic celebrates a time for everyone to get together in the program to get involved, from 2-7 p.m. for good food and fun. Advocates, Self Advocates, matches and their friends, as well as board members, staff and families are invited to attend.

On Saturday, August 25, CA will sponsor a bake sale at Westfair Mall from 10 to 3:30 p.m. to benefit Citizen Advocacy.

In conjunction with the weekly flea market at Washington Mall each 2nd Saturday of the month, CA will hold a rummage sale on Sept. 8th. Board member Joan Pick is coordinating this event and asks that anyone who wishes to donate items for the sale to drop them off on the morning of the sale or contact the Citizen Advocacy Office (334-3384). The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the mall parking lot.

Citizen Advocacy Benefit Bake Sale

Citizen Advocacy of Washington County will be holding a benefit bake sale on Saturday, August 25, from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Westfair Mall in West Bend. This event is co-sponsored by Friends for Battered Women, and the funds raised through the sale will support the work of both agencies. Citizen Advocacy protects and advocates for the rights of people with disabilities through 1-to-1 volunteer matches, educational advocacy and training and resources in Self Advocacy. Friends for Battered Women offers services to women in domestic violence relationships and aid to victims of sexual assault. Services include information, counseling and referral for clients as well as shelter, advocacy and support groups.

State Legislators Receive Outlook on Natural Gas Supplies and Prices on Eden Tour

EDEN, WI — Three state legislators recently toured the facilities of Wisconsin's principal natural gas supplier, ANR Pipeline Company, to obtain a first-hand report on how natural gas is imported and distributed within the state. The lawmakers also received the Company's outlook on natural gas supplies and prices for the coming winter.

Senator Scott McCallum and State Representative Earl McEssy of Fond du Lac and Gordon Bradley of Oshkosh heard from ANR Pipeline's Wisconsin Area Manager, Merv Maxson, that Wisconsin's natural gas supply was not only ample, but that the wholesale price of gas has stabilized during the past two years.

"The stabilization of wholesale gas rates is primarily due to our Company's successful efforts to obtain lower cost gas from our domestic and Canadian gas suppliers," said Maxson.

Regarding the outlook for future gas prices and supply, Maxson told the lawmakers that in ANR Pipeline's case, the supply was more than adequate to meet the needs of Wisconsin's consumers and future prices would generally track with the rate of inflation.

"Clearly, the days of major increases in natural gas prices are over. That fact, along with our ample supply outlook, should be viewed as good news by both existing and prospective gas consumers," Maxson concluded.

ANR Pipeline (formerly Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company) has 19 employees in Eden and over 100 people employed throughout the state. Eden employees operate and maintain facilities along three branches of the pipeline reaching south to Menomonie Falls, east to Two Rivers and north to Appleton. Natural gas from Canada enters this pipeline network at a large, computerized compressor station near Kewaskum.

During the tour, the three lawmakers visited with the Company's managers and employees and spoke briefly about their legislative work in Madison and described the assistance and services available to their constituents through their offices. The legislators also indicated their interest in improving Wisconsin's economy and creating opportunities within the state.

Senator McCallum has been in the State Senate for eight years and currently represents the cities of Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and West Bend, along with many other towns and communities in the area.

Representative McEssy has served in the Wisconsin Assembly for twenty-eight years, representing his constituents in Fond du Lac.

Representative Bradley's district is located in Winnebago and Fond du Lac and has been in the state Legislature for the past sixteen years.

ANR Pipeline is the major natural gas pipeline subsidiary of the Detroit-based American Natural Resources Company. The pipeline provides approximately ninety percent of Wisconsin's annual natural gas requirements through eight utility customers. Those utilities are: Wisconsin Gas Company, Wisconsin Natural Gas Company, Wisconsin Public Service Company, Wisconsin Power & Light Company, Wisconsin Fuel & Light Company, Wisconsin Southern Gas Company, Madison Gas and Electric Company and City Gas Company.

Greendale Woman Wins Wisconsin 'Escape' Promotion Grand Prize

By Don Johanning

MADISON — A Greendale, WI, woman, Helen Kohler, 6255 Thorncrest Drive, is ready for an autumn of fun now that she has won a new AMC Jeep and fishing rig, just part of the grand prize offered in the "Escape to Wisconsin" promotion sponsored by the state Coca-Cola Bottlers Association, Wisconsin Department of Development's Division of Tourism and Wisconsin Tourism Industry businesses.

Ms. Kohler's entry in the "Escape" sweepstakes was drawn at the State Fair August 6 by Heidi Scadden, "Fairest of the Fair," from among more than 40,000 entries stuffed into the Jeep. Lieutenant Governor James T. Flynn, also Secretary of DOD, presided over the event.

In addition to the Jeep donated by American Motors Corporation of Kenosha, Ms. Kohler won a 14-foot Smoker Craft Big Fisherman Deluxe boat donated by Geneva Lake Boat Company, Fontana; a 25-horsepower Mercury outboard motor from Mercury Marine Corp., Fond du Lac; a K-Dee boat launching trailer from Alp Supply Company, Lake Mills; an 8-horsepower John Deere R-70 riding mower from John Deere, Horicon Works, and 25 cases (a one-year supply) of Coca-Cola from the Wisconsin Coca-Cola Bottlers Association.

Said Mrs. Kohler, "This is just what we've been looking for — a smaller boat to use at our summer home. We're all just thrilled." Mrs. Kohler's husband, Ernest, and children are the fishers in the family. "I just go along for the ride," she said.

Mrs. Kohler entered the sweepstakes in early July and did not win any of the weekly vacation packages given away since Memorial Day weekend in the promotion. About 120 vacation packages consisting of a one-week or weekend stay at a campground, resort or hotel were donated by Wisconsin tourism businesses.

In addition, another 120 tourist-related meals, lodging, admissions and entertainment to persons holding "Escape to Wisconsin" cards obtainable where Coca-Cola products are sold. Card holders will be able to obtain the discounts through December 31, 1984.

Flynn had praise for Wisconsin Coca-Cola bottlers, the grand prize and vacation package donors and 19 Wisconsin radio stations which helped promote the campaign with additional prizes and discounts in their local areas. "It is the participation of the private sector in promotion of our great state that permits us to get extremely high mileage from our official state promotion budget which, in comparison to adjacent states, is somewhat limited," he said. "This spirit of cooperation between the private and public sectors should indicate to all that Wisconsin is a great place in which to live, work and play."

Farmers Union Reports 1/3 of Nation's Farmers in Deep Financial Trouble

Chippewa Falls - The farm debt situation has reached such crisis proportions that the federal government must intervene with dramatic new programs if the third of the nation's farmers who are in deep financial trouble are to be saved from imminent foreclosure and bankruptcy, a Wisconsin farm leader said today.

Leland Mulder, president of the Wisconsin Farmers Union, said that just as the Roosevelt administration permitted "thousands upon thousands" of debt-stricken farmers to remain on the land in the 1930s through the instrument of low interest loans from Federal Land Banks and other lending agencies, so too must government now prevent wholesale exodus of farmers from the land.

"The recently released results of a survey by the Wisconsin Agriculture Reporting Service, which indicate that 36% of the state's farmers feel that they couldn't remain in farming beyond five years if current economic trends continue, closely approximate the figures we have seen for the portion of the nation's farmers who are in dire financial straits," Mulder said.

"Total farm debt now stands at over $215 billion compared to only slightly more than $91 billion eight years ago. Clearly, if farm debt remains over 10 times as large as net farm income, many farmers are not going to generate enough cash flow for debt repayment," Mulder observed.

Mulder said it is in the interest of not only the farmers, themselves, but also in the interest of lenders and rural communities for government to fashion programs rescheduling current farm loans over longer periods of time and guaranteeing repayment. "Close monitoring of the debt restructuring would be necessary," Mulder said, "to prevent the kind of over extension of farm credit that occurred in the past decade."

Farmers and lenders must look to Congress and not the Reagan administration for debt restructuring, Mulder added. "Farm lending programs under this administration have been repeatedly characterized by mismanagement and ineptness," he charged.

"The latest example of the Farmers Home Administration's indifference to the economic plight of small farmers is the revelation that the FmHA made a $400,000 emergency low-interest loan to Agriculture Secretary Block's main business partner in Illinois, John W. Curry, whose farm-investment activities were described as 'adventurism' by Block himself," Mulder declared.

"This loan is symptomatic of what is wrong with this administration - $400,000 for a land speculator with 13 farms in three states and roadblocks and red tape for the family farmer seeking a FmHA loan."

Mulder warned that if government failed to come to the assistance of heavily indebted farmers, more schemes, such as advanced by Consolidated Family Farms, to buy up farms and lease them back to farmers would come into existence.

The Chicago-based firm recently announced plans to offer over-the-counter shares in farmland it purchased to the public. It is seeking to acquire 300,000 acres of farmland in 14 states, including Wisconsin.

"Many of our ancestors who settled and cleared the land in Wisconsin fled from systems of landless peasantry in the old country. Are we about to return their hard fought gains to this latest version of landlords and tenants?" Mulder asked.

Black Willow Tree a Champion

A 76-foot tall black willow, located on private land in Fond du Lac, is the largest known tree of its kind in the state. Ted Pyrek, Department of Natural Resources Forester, who measured the tree, said it has a 22-foot trunk circumference and a 94-foot crown spread.

Jerry Lapidakis, DNR Private Forestry Specialist from Madison, confirmed the tree as a state champion according to the American Forestry Association's point system. The point value is based on tree height, trunk circumference and crown spread diameter. The total of 364 points for the Fond du Lac tree tops and old black willow record of 291 points recorded for a tree located in Tomah.

The old Wisconsin Conservation Department began recording the state's big trees in 1941. Today, the DNR and the University of Wisconsin's Department of Horticulture update the list. The DNR's Wisconsin Champion Tree Program focuses on informing the public of large native trees and promoting and encouraging the public interest in our state's trees.

Wisconsin lists 77 native tree species as the state's largest. Two Wisconsin trees are included in the National Register of champion trees. An Eastern white pine in the Brule River State Forest measures 18 feet 9 inches in trunk circumference, is 160 feet tall and 55 feet in crown spread. The other national champion is a white cottonwood in the Town of Taycheedah. It measures 20 feet 11 inches around the trunk, is 96 feet tall and has a 79-foot crown spread.

If you find a large tree that might be a record, take what measurements you can, note the exact species, the tree's precise location, along with the owner's name and address and submit the information to your local DNR office.

Groundwater Series Starts Sept. 5 on ETN

Groundwater issues have been splashing the headlines as steadily as water bubbling from an artesian well. If you have questions on anything from the basic mechanics of groundwater to the complexities of new laws, you may want to attend a University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension Service series on groundwater management issues (EO45).

The first of the free programs is scheduled for 2:00 to 3:50 p.m., September 5 at the UW-Extension Office, 515 E. Washington, West Bend. It will be broadcast over the UW-Extension's Educational Teleconference Network (ETN) which provides two-way voice communication between participants and speaker Ron Hennings and program moderator Jim Peterson, Extension groundwater specialists.

The first of seven ETN programs will explain where groundwater comes from, how it moves, and how you can tell if it's contaminated. There will be time for you to ask questions about the basics of groundwater.

Later programs will cover Wisconsin's new groundwater protection law, safeguarding private and public wells, and other topics. The remaining programs will be at the same time on October 3, November 7, December 12, January 2, February 6, and March 6. You can earn continuing education credits through the UW-Extension if you attend each of the seven programs.

Register for the series by contacting the Washington County Extension Office at 338-4480.

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

NEW LAW REDUCES LANDOWNER LIABILITY

The skier who asks to use your land and then breaks his leg on your pasture can no longer hold you liable, thanks to changes in Wisconsin's new recreational use law.

No matter what kind of recreational activity a land user is engaged in, the landowner is protected. Protection is no longer limited to a specified list of activities.

The law doesn't protect you if you're out to get someone, however. You can still be held liable for injuries that result from malicious actions, or from your malicious failure to warn of hazards.

You're still liable for injuries to social guests who come on your property at your express invitation, if the injury occurs on platted land or residential property. If you invite "Bob Jones" onto your residential property to go swimming and he cracks his head on the diving board, you lose the statute's protection. However, Jones must still prove you caused him damages in order to collect from you.

The statute protects you from the claims of people you've allowed on your land without charge for their own recreational purposes. If they're paying you, things may be different.

It used to be that the statute didn't protect landowners if the land users paid more than $500 per year in cash or goods as users' fees. Now that $500 no longer includes the "fruits of the recreational activity." So if a hunter gives you a hind-quarter of venison, it no longer counts toward the total. If you charge people to hunt on your land, stay under $500 to keep the statute's protection.

Under the new statute you can also charge the user up to $5 a day to gather wood, without it counting toward the $500 annual total, say legal specialists.

On the other hand, you're not protected if you invite people onto your property to watch a spectator sport and you charge them admission. This includes anything from softball games or hill climbs to rock concerts and tractor pulls, and it doesn't matter if you charge $10 or ten cents. However, if a promoter pays you $500 or less to use your land the promoter sells tickets to an event, you have the statute's protection; the promoter doesn't. Just watch the annual total.

Warning! Watch for Potato Leaf Hoppers

As the warm summer weather has arrived, Dairyland Seed's alfalfa research staff says that farmers in this area should be concerned about the potato leaf hopper infestation. The Dairyland plant breeding staff has recently noticed a build-up of leaf hoppers at its Clinton, Wisconsin research station.

According to Dairyland alfalfa plant breeder, Dr. Steven Yen, "high potato leaf hopper infestation can cause serious economic loss to this year's alfalfa hay crop. Potato leaf hoppers are the most serious alfalfa insect problem we have in the Midwest."

The time to stop the potato leaf hopper is before the damage shows. Farmers should walk their alfalfa fields regularly with a sweep net. If you average one or more potato leaf hoppers per sweep, it is time to spray. If you wait until the plant shows the symptoms of potato leaf hopper damage, it is too late to spray as the economic damage has already been done.

Information on what you can do about potato leaf hoppers is available in Dairyland's new "Management 2000" alfalfa guide. For more information on how to control potato leaf hopper as well as other alfalfa pests, contact Dairyland Seed at P.O. Box 958, West Bend, Wisconsin 53095.

4-H NEWS

By Bob Stodola
4-H and Youth Agent

GOING TO COLLEGE NEED NOT MEAN LEAVING 4-H

If you're a recent high school graduate, packing the bags for college, you don't have to leave 4-H behind.

4-H is for college students too.

The style is definitely more grown up, but the theme, "to make the best better," is the same.

Collegiate 4-H is a service-oriented organization for past and present 4-H members. You don't have to have ever been a 4-H member to participate, says Joann Gruber Hagen, 4-H program coordinator with the University of Wisconsin-Madison Cooperative Extension Service.

"Anyone can belong," she says. "Maybe an individual always wanted to get involved in 4-H and didn't have the opportunity, or maybe the activities of a Collegiate 4-H group just appeal to his or her interests now."

Although Collegiate 4-H activities and projects vary tremendously from campus to campus, the older groups basically do service programs that are compatible with 4-H, but may not be so closely related to the traditional projects.

"At the college level," says Gruber-Hagen, "they branch out and carry the ball themselves. They're not so closely backed up by volunteer leaders or agents, so it's a great chance to use the leadership skills that were gained in high school and improve them."

Groups generally develop a program or two during a year that they can offer to 4-H or community groups. In some cases they work with regular 4-H members, other times they work with volunteer leaders and agents.

"The tables are turned from the days when they did all the learning," says Gruber-Hagen. "Now they get to experience the boost of confidence that comes from being in the teacher's role."

For example, one Collegiate 4-H group annually presents a workshop for 15-16 counties at the Western District 4-H leader's meeting. Another group has recently developed a program on giving demonstrations, taking it on the road to work directly with local clubs.

If there isn't already a Collegiate 4-H club at your campus, it's easy to start one. It takes several students who are interested in planning and doing service-type projects related to 4-H. All they need is some enthusiasm and a faculty member who can serve as a sponsor. Then they should contact the Wisconsin 4-H office for more information on how to establish themselves as a full-fledged group.

Right now, there are about 5 active groups on Wisconsin campuses, according to Gruber-Hagen.

Terri Brunner, an 18-year-old nursing student from Shawno County, is president of the Madison campus group. After being a 4-H member for nine years, she joined Collegiate 4-H because, she says, "if you've really been involved, you find you miss it a lot."

Moraine Orchestra Seeks New Members

This September the Moraine Symphony Orchestra begins its 16th year with renewed vigor from last year's excellent musical season. The orchestra is comprised of approximately fifty musicians from Mequon, Grafton, Cedarburg, Port Washington, Slinger, Hartford, Kewaskum, West Bend, and Milwaukee, all of whom share a love of symphonic music.

The Moraine Orchestra, which experienced excellent growth last season, seeks additional members this year to allow the performance of an expanded repertoire and a richer ensemble sound. The greatest need is for additional string players, although openings also exist in the brass, woodwind, and percussion sections. Violin, viola, cello, and string bass players are especially urged to join the orchestra this Fall. Here is an opportunity for accomplished musicians to join an established group, and for those who haven't played for years to begin again.

Professor Albert Asch from the University of Wisconsin Washington County Campus in West Bend will again direct the Moraine Symphony Orchestra which rehearses on Thursday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in the University's rehearsal hall. The orchestra performs symphonic works ranging from the Baroque Period through contemporary compositions. Four concerts are planned for the coming season; three of serious music, and one of popular and light symphonic music.

New and old members are asked to come to the first rehearsal of the season in the rehearsal hall of the UWWC on Thursday, September 6th, at 7:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. The first performance of the season will be Sunday, October 21st, featuring soloists from the UWWC faculty.

Anyone with a question about the orchestra is asked to call either 626-4638 or 377-0653.

Slow Moving Farm Vehicles

The fluorescent orange emblem known as a "slow moving vehicle" emblem or "SMV" emblem seen on farm vehicles should act as a warning to county motorists, says Sheriff Clarence Schwartz; and the fluorescent orange emblems mean that the vehicle is moving at less than 25 miles per hour.

It is important, Schwartz said, that drivers anticipate the probability that slow moving farm vehicles may be on the road, and be prepared to slow down or stop.

A car traveling at 55 miles per hour will cover 80.7 feet per second while a tractor moving at 15 miles per hour will only travel 22 feet. It is very difficult for a driver to judge how swiftly the gap is closed at highway speeds when the overtaken vehicle is moving at 10 to 15 miles per hour. Unless the driver is prepared to encounter a slow moving vehicle over the crest of the hill, he (or she) may be unable to react in time to prevent a rear end crash. Drivers should use extra caution in the early morning or late evening hours when the farmers are moving to and from the fields.

Wisconsin Dental Helpline Identifies Dentists Who Will Treat Patients With Special Needs

Washington County residents who do not seek regular dental care because of a physical or mental disability, or because of a language barrier, can find a dentist to treat them through a service offered by the Wisconsin Dental Association (WDA).

Dental Helpline is a state-wide referral service which identifies dentists who treat patients with special needs such as those with heart problems, diabetes, or those confined to their home.

Anyone with a special need seeking dental care should contact the Community Health Nursing Service of Washington County, Ms. D. Paulene Harder, R.N. at 414/338-4462. In WDA, the agency will contact the WDA toll-free for a referral.

The computerized referral service also maintains lists of area dentists who offer reduced fees for the unemployed or uninsured, offer reduced fees for the elderly, know sign language, take emergency calls and treat Title XIX patients.

Arrangements for fees are made between the dentist and patient.

"Our goal is to make dental care accessible to as many Wisconsin residents as possible," said Dr. Glenn A. Wergin, Chairman of the Association's Council on Access.

The Wisconsin Dental Association is a professional association of nearly 3,000 dentists, and is headquartered in Milwaukee.

New Group Deer Hunting Law Now Legal in State

Group hunting of deer is now legal in the state of Wisconsin. On May 24, 1984 the Wisconsin Legislature created a new law — effective June 8, 1984 — which legalizes any member of a group deer hunting party to kill a deer for another member of the party as long as they are in visual or hearing contact at the time of the kill, and the member of the party for whom the deer is killed has a current, unused deer carcass tag.

Specific to this new law, according to Dave Gjestson, DNR wildlife specialist, are two definitions. One is that of "contract" which means visual or voice contact without the aid of any mechanical or electronic amplifying device other than a hearing aid. The other is "group deer hunting party," defined as 2 or more hunters hunting in a group all using firearms, each of whom holds an individual license to hunt deer.

"It is also important than the person who kills the deer makes sure the member of the party attaches a validated deer carcass tag to the antler or ear of the deer without delay. It is unlawful to leave the deer unattended at any time until it has been properly tagged," says Gjestson.

This new law also incorporates the deer carcass tag, validated by slitting the appropriate information on the tag must be immediately attached to the antler or ear of the deer. It should be noted that the tag can no longer be attached to the gambrel of the deer.

The tag may be removed from a gutted carcass at the time of butchering but the person who kills or obtains the deer must retain all tags until the venison has been eaten. Also, the person who retains the deer tag may give a gift of deer meat to another person; the recipient is not required to have a deer tag.

Sturgeon Tags Available for Hook & Line Season

Anglers planning to participate in the hook and line season for lake sturgeon that opens September 1st should first obtain a sturgeon registration tag from the Department of Natural Resources.

Each legal-sized lake sturgeon caught with a hook and line in Wisconsin waters must be immediately tagged, then registered at DNR-authorized stations in the county where the fish was caught before 6 p.m. the following day. Tags are free and available at any DNR office.

Anglers intending to catch sturgeon in Wisconsin's inland waters and in Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters may receive one tag only. Two tags will be issued to anglers going after sturgeon in Michigan-Wisconsin boundary waters. It is illegal to use a tag issued to another angler.

The tag should be attached at the base of the sturgeon's tail behind the dorsal fin. A second tag will be attached at sturgeon registration stations. Both tags must remain attached to the fish until it has been eaten.

The sturgeon tagging and registration system began last season. John Klingbiel, a fish manager at DNR headquarters in Madison, said the program helps DNR gather harvest information and enforce sturgeon bag limits.

"Despite the great size that lake sturgeon attain, the population is fragile," Klingbiel said. "Sturgeon need more protection and management than some other types of fish because they do not reproduce until they are about 25 years old."

Last year anglers registered 185 lake sturgeon with DNR. The largest was 71 inches long, weighed 86 pounds, and was caught from the Wisconsin River in Sauk County. Anglers landed 45 legal-sized sturgeon from Lake Wisconsin in Columbia County.

Over 8,000 Pheasants to Be Stocked In Bong Recreation Area, DNR Reports

Is your shotgun ready? The Department of Natural Resources at Bong Recreation Area is preparing for the youth year of managed hunting. This year's hunt will see big changes in the rules, and a big increase in the number of pheasants stocked. Plans call for stocking more than 8,000 pheasants.

The Department of Natural Resources has worked closely with the public to come up with a set of new rules. According to Bruce Chevis, Superintendent of Bong, "All of our efforts are aimed at improving the quality of the hunt while providing a better than average chance to bag a pheasant."

Changes for this year include:
1. A longer statewide pheasant hunting season: Noon, October 20, through December 12. The bag limit will be one per day for the first two weeks and two per day thereafter.

Hunting for all game except waterfowl and deer will start at 8:00 a.m. CENTRAL STANDARD TIME from October 21 through November 2. Thereafter normal starting hours will be in effect.

3. All hunting will stop daily at 2:00 p.m. from October 21 through December 12.

4. A maximum of 300 hunters will be allowed on Bong per day for the first 14 days of the pheasant season. Thereafter, 300 will be allowed up to 10:00 a.m. daily. After 10:00 a.m., there is no maximum on registered hunter numbers.

5. The daily hunting fees are $3 per person for pheasant hunting and $1 for all other types of hunting.

6. Permits for hunting permits are free. However, each hunter can receive only five pheasant and five waterfowl reservations per year. Hunters are encouraged to make reservations due to the reduced number of permits available daily.

7. Reservations can be made in person, through the mail or by telephone. A drawing will be held September 1st for all reservation applications received during August. Thereafter, reservations must be made at least 2 days prior to hunting, and will be processed in the order in which they are received at Bong until all permits are reserved.

Chevis added that, "Because these new rules can be confusing, we held an informational meeting on August 7th, at 7:00 p.m. at Bong Recreation Area's Visitor Center. We explained the new rules and had DNR staff on hand to answer any hunting questions."

Further information is available at Bong or by calling (414) 878-4416 or (414) 652-0377.

New Wisconsin Conservation Patron Licenses Go on Sale

The Department of Natural Resources will issue the new Wisconsin Conservation Patron Card for the first time this fall. Available September 1, the Wisconsin Conservation Patron Card entitles the licensee to exercise the privileges of small game, deer, bear and archery hunting, fishing, sturgeon spearing and trapping.

Anglers and hunters tired of foraging through wallets for licenses and making numerous trips to licensing outlets to purchase stamps, licenses and permits can now make one purchase do for all. For an annual fee of $100.00, the license also entitles the bearer the privileges of the waterfowl, inland trout and Great Lakes salmon and trout stamps. Because purchase of these stamps is unnecessary with the Patron License, collectors who want actual stamps will have to purchase them separately.

In addition to the multi-use license, the patron will receive a carrier for special permits such as those required for sturgeon, bobcat, otter and pheasant. Also included with the Patron License are a Wisconsin State Parks and Forests admission sticker, entrance to Heritage Hill State Park, use of State trails, applications for Hunter's Choice and Goose hunting permits, as well as registration stubs for deer gun and deer bow and a year's subscription to the Wisconsin Natural Resources Magazine.

The Wisconsin Conservation Patron License will be valid from September 1 through August 31. It will save time, trouble and will show that the bearer is committed to the conservation of our state's rich natural resources.

To purchase a Wisconsin Conservation Patron License, apply in person or complete an application form and send to DNR License Section, P. O. Box 7924, Madison, WI 53707.

Applications are being accepted now and can be obtained at County Clerk offices, DNR field stations or sport shops. Be among the first to receive the new Wisconsin Conservation Patron License.

For more information contact: Douglas Poole, License Section Chief (608) 266-8173.

New Experimental Canada Goose Hunt Around Theresa Marsh Wildlife Area This Fall

TERESA MARSH CANADA GOOSE MANAGEMENT ZONE

All hunters who do not receive a 1984 Horicon/Central Zone Permit are eligible to participate in an experimental Canada goose hunt around the Theresa Marsh Wildlife Area in northwestern Washington and western Dodge counties this fall.

This new hunt will test the feasibility of controlling the goose harvest in Wisconsin by requiring geese to be registered on the day of kill as is now done in southern Illinois. The rules allow the Wisconsin goose hunter the opportunity to take more than one goose per season.

The experimental hunt will provide the Department with information concerning the acceptance of a registration system and its applicability to other areas in Wisconsin. It will also provide an opportunity for the committed Canada goose hunter to harvest more than one goose per season while maintaining harvest control.

A 1:00 p.m. daily closing will allow geese to establish undisturbed afternoon feeding flights. The two goose bag limit is being tested as an incentive for hunters willing to locate feeding areas, obtain hunting permission, set decoys and prepare blinds to once again enjoy a typical "Canadian Prairie" goose hunt.

The season will open on October 13th and will close when 800 geese have been registered or a 25-day season length is reached (November 11). The season limit is 4 geese with 2 tags issued at a time. The daily bag limit is 2 geese.

All participants must pick up their permits in person from the registration station located on Theresa Marsh. Permits may be picked up between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on October 8-12. Permits will also be available at the registration station during the season starting on opening day between 5:30 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. each day.

Individuals planning to participate in the Theresa Zone hunt may choose not to apply for a 1984 Horicon/Central Zone tag to assure their eligibility for Theresa. An information hand-out describing the rule including a zone map is available at most DNR offices.

For more information, contact: John Wetzel, Migratory Bird Specialist, Bureau of Wildlife Management, (608) 266-8841.
