Village to Sound Alarm for All Washington County Tornado Warnings

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

In response to a letter from the Kewaskum Village Board directed Village Administrator Dan Schmidt to draw up a policy addressing the procedure of sounding tornado warnings for the village.

In response to a letter from the Washington County Emergency Government office, followed by several meetings attended by Schmidt, Police Chief Donald Hlavaty and Trustee Howard Laubenstein, the board okayed a plan to issue a sire warning for any alert issued in the county. The board had held off making a formal decision at its last meeting until it received further information from the last meeting held in West Bend.

Schmidt said after the policy is drawn up, it will be brought back to the board for formal approval.

In other action, the board approved the request of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wagner for rezoning the property at 1546 Fond du Lac Avenue from B-1 Limited Retail and Service, to R-3 two-family residence.

The board also approved a Class 'B' Malted Beverage and Liquor License for William Kulas, 215 Main Street, formerly Wes & Rosie's Tavern.

Police Chief Hlavaty was given approval to replace his squad on a 1985 replacement squad for the department. The board also approved the hiring of Steven Beck, Dennis Vif, and William Schleif as replacement part-time police officers.

On a Parks and Recreation Committee recommendation, the board approved the upgrading of one electric service unit, located near the museum in River Hill Park, at a cost of $712.00.

The board reviewed the proposed five-year capital improvements program for the village and unanimously voted to accept it as an official document. Schmidt said the plan was in no way binding, but rather created to be used as a guide for village improvements which should be considered over the next five years.

Schmidt informed the board that he and Board President Gerald Stollenwerk had been in Waukesha County Court in response to the Marilyn Reinhardt suit against the village and five other defendants.

The suit had been brought to stop a land re-zoning petition for the Ned Sengpiel property in the Town of Kewaskum.

Schmidt said Judge W. Zick had dismissed the suit against all six defendants, which included the Village, Town of Kewaskum, Washington County Board, Land Use and Parks Commission, McKenna & Kiefer Law Firm, and Schloemer, Schlaefler, Alderson, Seefeldt & Spella Law Firm.

The judge also ordered Reinhardt to pay all court and attorney fees for three of the six defendants, the Village of Kewaskum and the two law firms. In the initial suit, McKenna & Kiefer had been the village attorneys and the Schloemer firm represented the Town of Kewaskum. However, the suit was later amended and the two law firms were also named as defendants.

Judge Zick also ruled the case "not to be a class action suit."

KICK THE HABIT

If you want to kick the smoking habit, chew and enjoy sunflower seeds - the ideal substitute for smoking, because the seeds have a comparable effect on smokers as tobacco, without the metabolic unrest. Sunflower seeds provide brain energy, stimulate the various glands, and help ease allergic reactions. Their oils are calming to the nerves and their high quality B-complex vitamins are beneficial. Pop a handful of sunflower seeds when you feel the urge to smoke.

Junior Woman's Club To Participate in 'Walk for Mankind'

On Sunday, October 14, members of the Kewaskum Junior Woman's Club and their families will be participating in the Project Concern International "Walk for Mankind," at Sandy Knoll Park, near West Bend.

Project Concern is a life-saving organization known throughout the world for helping people help themselves toward better health. The program stresses disease prevention treating the causes of disease instead of just the symptoms. Their approach to self-help care involves training community workers in preventive health care, such as nutrition, immunizations, sanitation, curative care, and health education. After training, these workers provide the same services to members of their own community. When the program becomes self-sufficient, Project Concern can move on to other areas of need, leaving behind a functioning health care program.

The Walk for Mankind provides two-thirds of Project Concern's income. While this is the first Walk for Mankind held in Wisconsin, each year some 125,000 people participate in walks throughout the United States. These walkers sign up sponsors who agree to donate specific amounts of money for each kilometer walked. If you would like to contribute, contact any Junior member or call 626-2837 or 626-4808 for more information.

Search for State Residents Entitled To $3,412,726.14 in Unclaimed Funds

State Treasurer Charles P. Smith announced today that his office is searching for more than 7,000 Wisconsin residents who are entitled to $3,412,726.14 in unclaimed funds.

Included in Treasurer Smith's unclaimed money list to be published during the weeks of September 16th and September 23rd in newspapers throughout Wisconsin are seven lucky residents entitled to more than $20,000 each. Another 16 residents have amounts of more than $10,000 coming.

Treasurer Smith said, "All Wisconsin residents benefit from these funds because until the owner is located, the monies are used by the State's School Fund."

Wisconsin now has on hand another $4,725,302.73, which in prior years has also gone unclaimed. Included are lost or forgotten checking or savings accounts, unrepresented gift certificates, unclaimed utility deposits, and all other unclaimed funds held by businesses and financial institutions.

Treasurer Charles P. Smith expects unclaimed property returns to skyrocket in 1986 as a result of legislation he sponsored earlier this year. Smith's new law will reduce abandonment periods from ten to five years and tighten reporting requirements for businesses which have not been complying with existing law.

KEWASKUM'S FIRST PIECE OF FIRE FIGHTING EQUIPMENT — This year on July 8th, the Kewaskum Fire Department celebrated its Centennial. In keeping with the Firemen's celebration, the Kewaskum Historical Society followed along with the Centennial theme by having the first piece of fire fighting equipment of the department completely restored. The unveiling took place on Sept. 9 at their "Early Farm Days" annual event. The hand pumper was built in 1886 by the Rimmel Brothers, Nic and Math, and Company. Incidentally, Nic Rimmel was the department's first Fire Chief.

How to Deal With Teen Sibling Rivalry

By Joyce Albrecht
Extension Home Economist

If you are the parent of teenagers, you may be troubled by the amount of fighting, both verbal and physical, that goes on among your children.

This is a common problem in homes with adolescents, and one which many parents find particularly difficult and upsetting.

Siblings fight for a number of reasons. They may want a parent's attention, and the parent has only so much time, attention and patience to give. They may be jealous, if the other siblings got a new bicycle, for example. They may fight over ordinary, small teasing, which is a way of testing the effects of behavior and words on another person. Finally, they may fight because they are growing up in a competitive society which teaches them that to win is to be better.

Adolescents fight for the same kinds of reasons that younger children fight. But teens are bigger, louder and better equipped physically and intellectually to hurt and be hurt by words and actions. From a parent's point of view, teens ought to be old enough to stop that kind of behavior.

Teens are under pressure from many directions. They are experiencing physical and emotional changes and changes in thinking. Their relationships with friends, especially of the opposite sex, and parents are changing. They may be concerned about real or imagined problems between their parents. They feel pressure about the future as adults, and about learning to be an adult.

In many ways, they are in greater need than ever for parental love, attention and concern, and for a belief that they are as good as their siblings. Because teens may not recognize these needs, or be too embarrassed to express them verbally, fighting with siblings as a way to get parental attention may actually increase in adolescence.

Take some steps to help make the fighting stop.

Recognize the reasons for the fighting, and make up your mind that you will not tolerate it any longer. Sticking to that resolution is the most important thing you can do to restore peace in your home.

Teens are old enough to be told that you will no longer tolerate fighting among them. Tell them that while it's normal to have disagreements, their constant fighting is upsetting, you value peace at home, you will no longer judge their disputes and, most importantly, you will not stand for it. Then, stand by that resolution, and make sure your spouse does as well.

Another approach is to show them that the cost of fighting is higher than the reward. You may choose to walk away and not get involved in the fight, send your children out of the house to fight, deduct a fine from your children's allowances or ground them for a certain length of time.

Finally, you can reduce your adolescent's need to fight.

To help them feel better about themselves and more sure of your love and concern, set aside some time to be alone with each child. Praise them for what they are, not just for what they can do. Avoid initiating competition among your children, and don't insist on sharing. Talk to your teens about their fighting, help them understand why it happens and discuss what they can do to stop it. Chances are, they don't like it any more than you do.

For more information, contact the Extension Office at 338-4479; 644-5204 or 342-2929 and, request the publication "Living with your Teenager: Dealing with Sibling Rivalry."

Wisconsin Topographic Maps Available

Maps that are accurate, reliable and current are available for hunters, cross country skiers, trappers and others in pursuit of fall and winter outdoor activities.

United States Geological Survey topographic maps show in convenient readable form the physical characteristics of the land terrain by precise surveying.

These government maps show in full color the location and shape of hills, valleys and plains, the network of lakes, rivers and streams plus the principle works of man.

Topographic maps also reveal landmarks that otherwise would remain unknown. The nature of these maps allow the user to properly plan the journey in advance.

An index showing the over 1200 topographic maps for the State of Wisconsin can be obtained by sending a post card to: Topographic Map Index, P.O. Box 5096, Madison, WI 53705.

The complete English vocabulary is said to consist of over a million words but it's doubtful whether anyone knows more than one-fifth of these.

AG & DNR Secretaries To Answer Questions At Farm Progress Days

La Verne Ausman, secretary of the Wis. Dept. of Agriculture, Trade & Consumer Protection, and Carroll D. "Buzz" Besadny, secretary of the Wis. Dept. of Natural Resources, will be on hand to answer questions from farmers and the press at Wisconsin Farm Progress Days, Oct. 9-11, at the Bernard Walter farm near Watertown in Jefferson County.

The two secretaries will make 1:00 p.m. appearances Tuesday, Oct. 9, and Wednesday, Oct. 10, in the Booster Tent, located at the east end of 6th Street in Tent City. They will be available to answer questions on topics such as non-point source pollution, animal waste regulations and pesticide use.

According to Secretary Ausman, the informal question and answer periods will give farmers a unique opportunity to question the leadership of two major state agencies, which have programs impacting on all of agriculture.

This year's Farm Progress Days will feature field conservation practices, crop variety tests, a conservation "Tillage Village," farm machinery and equipment exhibits, as well as speakers and demonstrations in the Family Living Tent.

The DATCP will feature taste testing of cheese and sausage at its exhibit in the Farm Progress Pavilion Tent. Exhibits in the DNR Tent will include sludge management, animal waste management and non-point source pollution control.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs, and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the air operation field.

Pfc. Duane A. Klein, son of Donald and Ellen Klein of Rural Route 3, Campbellsport, has been awarded the Expert Infantryman Badge at Fort Bragg, N.C.

'Pro-Consumer' Proposal Could Raise Phone Rates

General Telephone on September 19 filed testimony with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin saying a CUB-supported, "pro-consumer" proposal before the Commission may actually cost GTE customers as much as $1.20 per month more for local telephone service.

Actively supported by CUB, the proposal would prevent telephone companies from disconnecting local service to customers who don't pay their long distance bills and would reverse a rule established by the PSC in July, which maintains a long-standing procedure.

The testimony opposes reversal and includes the Company's response to an earlier inquiry from Commission Chairman Ness Flores about the capability of telephone companies to disconnect toll service, but not local service.

"We advised the Commission there are many additional costs related to blocking toll calls only," explained Jim Blanchard, General Telephone vice president-general manager. "The telephone switching systems now in use and under development do not have that capability. Even if we could block persons from originating toll calls from their homes or business, they could still make collect or third-party calls from other locations which we cannot control without considerable additional expense."

The Company said a proposal to bar local telephone companies from disconnecting service to a delinquent long distance customer will benefit the non-payer at the expense of paying customers. "We seriously question why anyone would support such a proposal," Blanchard said.

Blanchard said the Company would lose some $4 million in revenue—from AT&T alone — if it were unable to disconnect a non-paying customer's phone service. That's because long distance carriers would have little incentive to use General Telephone to handle billing and collection for toll calls. This loss of revenue, plus any costs incurred to provide blocking capability, could force an increase in rates for local service — as much as $1.20 per month.

The Company currently provides billing and collection service for AT&T Communications of Wisconsin, as it did before divestiture, and is offering to provide similar services to all long distance carriers.

"We will strongly oppose any attempt by CUB or the Commission to change the current rules," Blanchard said. "Our paying customers should not suffer for those who don't pay their bills."

Canada Goose Permits Mailed

Canada Goose permits for the Horicon and Central zones were mailed to successful application beginning last Thursday and Friday and the last of them were sent out Monday, October 1. Unsuccessful applicants will not be notified.

There were approximately 36,800 applications for the 30,100 Canada goose permits available for the Horicon and Central zones. About 82 percent of those who applied will receive a permit.

Both the Horicon early and late hunting periods were oversubscribed, while the Central Zone was under-subscribed by 3,100 permits. However, there are no permits remaining as the left over Central Zone permits will be awarded to unsuccessful applicants for the Horicon early and late periods who listed the Central Zone as a second choice.

The numbers of permits available for each zone and the approximate number of applicants is as follows:

Horicon Zone - Period 1 - Permits Available, 9,700; Applicants (Approx.), 16,400.

Horicon Zone - Period 2 - Permits Available 3,600- Applicants (Approx.) 6,700.

Central Zone - Permits Available 16,800; Applicants (Approx.), 13,700.

If you were one of the successful applicants, you should have had your permit in the mail by Wednesday, October 3 or within a few days of that date.

Milk Production Continues to Fall

The Wisconsin Agriculture Reporting Service reports that milk production on Wisconsin farms totaled nearly two billion pounds during August, a decline of two percent from a year ago, and down 4% seasonally from July.

Marv Heiser, dairy statistician with the Wis. Dept. of Agriculture, Trade & Consumer Protection, says that milk production per cow averaged 1,085 pounds in August, 5 pounds less than a year earlier. Wisconsin's milk cow herd totaled 1,822,000 head during August, a reduction of 23,000 head from August 1983.

"During the first eight months of this year, Wisconsin's milk production totaled 16.1 billion pounds, one percent below that same period last year," Heiser says.

National milk production during August totaled 11.2 billion pounds, a decline of four percent from August 1983. "This was the third consecutive month that the nation's milk output was down four percent," Heiser points out. Production per cow in the U.S. averaged 1,038 pounds in August, 13 pounds under a year ago. Milk cow numbers averaged 10.8 million head during August, a decline of 296,000 head (3%) from a year earlier.

During the first 8 months of 1984, national milk production totaled 92.7 billion pounds, two percent below these months in 1983.

Construction of an education building to be used for Sunday school rooms, music room, a pastor's study and a multi-purpose room is being planned by Peace United Church of Christ of Kewaskum. Cost of the new building, which is to be erected adjacent to the church, is estimated to be about $80,000. Peace Church was organized on June 2, 1898, and five months later a newly erected church was dedicated. Cost of the new structure was the modest sum of $3,900. In 1901 a parsonage was purchased for the sum of $2,000, and two years later the lot adjoining the church was acquired. During the years that followed many improvements were made and the congregation continued to grow. In spring of this year the church acquired the Joe Eberle property to the west and south of the church. In 1957 through the merger with the Congregational Christian Churches, Peace Church became Peace United Church of Christ. The pastor is the Rev. Clarence Hammen. Membership totals 550 at the present time.

Wisconsin Students Score Well on ACT/SAT Tests

MADISON — Wisconsin students continue to score higher than other students in the Midwest and nation on the American College Test (ACT) and the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), reports Herbert J. Grover, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

"Among states in which 10 percent or more of the graduating seniors took the SAT," said Grover, "Wisconsin students scored first in the nation." Wisconsin students who took the ACT in the 1982-83 school year also placed first in the nation, according to a ranking of the states released by the U.S. Department of Education last January. The 1983-84 ranking of the states has not been released yet.

High school seniors taking these tests — designed to measure their readiness for college — scored higher than their counterparts in previous years. Scores earned by Wisconsin students on the SAT in 1983-84 increased by two points (to 475) on the verbal test and decreased by one point (to 532) on the mathematics test. Students are graded on a scale of 200 to 800. The Wisconsin ACT composite score was up by one-tenth of a point (to 20.4). Grading on the ACT is on a scale of 1 to 36.

"While the scores are not up as we would want them to be," Grover said, "we do well and ought to be proud of our performance. Wisconsin's continued high ranking among the other states in the nation is a great testament to the condition that we have in the elementary and secondary schools of this state."

The latest SAT scores indicate that the decline from 1963 to 1980 may be ended as a sustained trend. Wisconsin scores reflect the decline's end as well.

LEARNING CAREER SKILLS STARTS EARLY IN LIFE

Research indicates that people don't lose jobs because they don't know how to perform the necessary tasks, says Lynn Jones, 4-H Youth development specialist with the University of Wisconsin Cooperative Extension Service.

Jobs are usually lost because of attitude problems, and lack of interest and willingness to work — all the sorts of skills that aren't built into most education, says Jones, who is currently researching career education for a PhD.

In the past, career education efforts have focused on vocational education, says Jones. He suggests the real need lies elsewhere. "It's not a vacation we need to help kids with, it's the whole attitude towards careers in general."

Career skills aren't the kind of things that can be taught like science, or in 4-H's case, as a project like beef or cooking. That's why Wisconsin 4-H has no career project as such. Instead, 4-H's approach is to integrate career education into standard 4-H projects. "It's the same thing good reading teachers do," suggests Jones. "They try to hitchhike reading skills along with each student's particular interests."

When kids are in the 10- to 14-year age bracket, says Jones, they want to know about something, or maybe a few things, exhaustively. That's what a hobby is all about — whether it's stamps or hot rods.

Career education and other "affective" skill areas like international understanding, problem solving or decision making, can seem remote from these hobbies. Tell youngsters they're going to learn about such a thing, and they'll be bored to death, says Jones. But if you take advantage of these interests, and make the affective skill area important in terms of their hobbies, you can sneak in a lot of learning.

Jones emphasizes that there is still research to be done, because the field has only been studied relatively recently. "However, we do know people don't just jump into careers," he says. "Career interests and skills are built progressively from life's earliest stages."

What are the skills basic to successful careers? The U.S. Office of Education lists 10:

- 1) basic academic skills of math and communication
- 2) a meaningful set of work values
- 3) good work habits
- 4) understanding of an appreciation for private enterprise
- 5) understanding self in relationship to opportunities in the work world
- 6) career decision-making ability

7) ability to find, get and hold jobs

8) productive use of leisure time

9) recognition of sex equity in the world of work

10) ability to make work enjoyable and meaningful

"Not exactly the sort of things you can teach like the multiplication tables," says Jones. "It's all attitude, and it will affect someone's satisfaction with every aspect of his or her life."

That's why it's important for youth to ask themselves a lot of questions, exploring their own attitudes as they relate to future jobs. Like, "What kind of a person am I? Do I like to travel? Do I like people or prefer to be by myself a lot? Do I want to live in a rural or urban area? Do I enjoy hustle-bustle and noise, or do I need solitude? Do I want lots of material possessions, or would I rather have more leisure time and less pressure? How does work fit in with the total lifestyle I envision myself living?"

These are the kinds of questions career education should help people answer, says Jones — before they get slotted into career tracks they'll be dissatisfied with. He insists the job belongs to public educators, youth organizations, families and communities. "It will have to be a cooperative effort."

Light and Low Alcohol Beverages: No License to Drink More

Low alcohol and "light" beers and wine are gaining popularity, but their low alcohol content doesn't mean they cannot intoxicate.

Despite all the advertising selling these beers and wines as being less filling and having a low alcohol content, you can still become intoxicated with these beverages, reminds Washington County Sheriff Clarence Schwartz. Regular beer has about 4.3% alcohol by weight; light beers have an alcohol content of about 3.7%; and low alcohol beers have an alcoholic content of 1.7%. Regular wine has an alcoholic content of between 9% and 13% by weight, and light wine has about half that alcoholic content. Because of the lower alcoholic content, you may be tempted to drink more than you normally would.

Schwartz went on to say, it's important to remember that the delicate balance between an individual's weight and the number of drinks consumed is still affected by these new beverages products.

A .10% blood alcohol content is the legal definition of intoxication in Wisconsin and most other states; however, anyone found to have a .05% or greater blood alcohol content may be ticketed for driving while intoxicated.

Given Wisconsin's stiff penalties for driving while intoxicated, it simply isn't worth it to have one more light or low alcohol beer or glass of wine for the road. Driving and alcohol is always a lethal combination, and it doesn't matter how you get the alcohol in your system, be it a low alcohol or standard alcohol containing beverage, the Sheriff concluded.

Who has the ability to be a spokesman, provide continuity of policies and programs, has an objective point of view, able to attract financial and public resources, and has an expertise in a variety of technical areas? There are many of "you" out in the community who meet many or all of these qualifications. If you have a little extra time, talent, and expertise and want to get really involved in your community, become a board member of one of our agencies. Share your knowledge, your skills, and yourself with those who need you. Participate and share in the concern of our communities growth.

Be an advocate, a friend, to a mentally retarded man who recently returned to our community after living for some time in a state institution. He is making great strides in the transition back to the community. He needs a volunteer guardian who would get to know him and help him with decision making. You are provided with training, resources and support in your role as a legal guardian. The amount of time you share would be up to you and your only responsibility is to be concerned about his growth and positive environment. This can be a very rewarding volunteer opportunity.

One in Three Drunken Drivers Gets Work Permit

Wisconsin is still one of the shrinking number of states where a driver can be convicted of drunken driving and walk out of the courtroom with a permit to drive.

The judicial option of immediately issuing an occupational license was exercised for 8,429 drivers last year, about one-third of those convicted of operating while intoxicated (OWI).

Immediate issuance of work permits for OWI first offenders was authorized in 1982 as part of a major overhaul of the state's drunken driving laws, according to Maynard G. Stoehr, highway safety coordinator for the state Department of Transportation.

"The new law established a mandatory 90-day minimum driver license suspension for a first OWI offense, but at the same time offered immediate occupational license," Stoehr explained.

As a result, the number of occupationals nearly doubled from 4,450 in 1982 to 8,429 in 1983, and has risen another 50 percent through August, 1984.

Occupational licenses permit motorists to drive to and from work, attend church and alcohol assessment or rehabilitation programs during court-specified hours not to exceed 60 a week. Violation of the occupational license conditions results in a fine of up to $600 for a first offense, and up to $1,000 plus up to six months in jail for a second offense.

However, occupational licenses carry a hidden "penalty," in that the driver must post proof of financial responsibility in order to qualify for one, Stoehr said. "For a first offender, this means that he or she must confess the OWI conviction to the insurance agent, even though the insurance company would not normally be officially notified of a first offense. The result is substantially higher insurance premiums for at least three years," he added.

The immediate availability of occupational licenses, or work permits, is the major reason that Wisconsin cannot qualify for an additional $3.3 million in federal funds.

If Wisconsin is to qualify for the federal incentive funds, there would have to be at least a 30-day waiting period for an occupational license for first offenders, and Wisconsin would have to increase the revocation period to a year for repeat violations.

In addition to the issue of raising Wisconsin's drinking age of 21, as required by a federal mandate, the next session of the legislature will also consider the question of administrative revocations. The DOT was ordered to study and report back to the next session the effectiveness of an automatic revocation of any driver who refuses the chemical test for intoxication or who tests above the legal limit for alcohol.

Health Careers Day Scheduled at UWM

Career opportunities in the health field will be the topic of an all-day program designed for high school juniors and seniors Friday, Oct. 19, 1984, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee Student Union, 2200 E. Kenwood Blvd.

The third annual career day, sponsored by UWM School of Allied Health Professions, the College of Letters and Science, the School of Nursing and the School of Social Welfare, will feature workshops in areas including dentistry, pharmacy, speech pathology and nursing careers for minority students. Tours of health training facilities at the university will also be available. Approximately 600 students are expected to attend.

Director of Personnel Relations at St. Luke's Hospital, Lorelle Walsh, will be the keynote speaker.

High School students interested in attending should register in advance by Oct. 10. The conference is free and registration is limited. For additional information and registration, call Connie Horstman at 963-5004.

Property Tax Relief Needed for Rural Wisconsin States Jerominski

The so-called recovery in much of the economy simply hasn't reached into the agricultural sector, as most farmers know, Jerominski stated at a rural breakfast held recently in Rubicon. She went on to say that unfortunately, many farmers are saddled with the effects of ill-conceived federal farm policies, which makes the job of a rural state legislator particularly frustrating.

There are, however, actions that we can take at the state level to help farmers, she told the group who consisted of mostly farmers. There is a definite need for the state to encourage the development of new markets for our agricultural products and the Legislature can help farmers by reducing the property tax. The property tax is considered regressive because it is not tied to a person's ability to pay as other taxes are. But if the property tax is unfair to everybody, it is especially unfair to farmers who earn their living from their property and therefore are taxed even more heavily than most others. If farming is going to regain its economic vigor, then the burden of the property tax simply must be taken off the backs of the farmers, Jerominski said.

One of the more promising areas we must look at in the next legislative session is allowing farmland that is strictly used for farming to be taxed as farmland. Presently, if a neighbor sells his or her land for other uses than farming, the surrounding farmer's assessments go up accordingly. This system is not fair to farmers. After all, farmland that is used for farming should not be taxed as though a subdivision were going to be built on it.

Jerominski stated that as a legislative aide in the Assembly, she attended many of the Assembly Agriculture Committee meetings state wide to listen to the farmers in the last two years. One of the most common complaints that she heard was about property taxes being so high. Thus, Jerominski promised to work hard in the next session to make a major effort to lower those taxes and give our farmers a fighting chance at economic survival.

Terminally Ill Adults May Now Legally Withhold Life-Sustaining Medical Care

MADISON — Beginning October 1, Wisconsin adults may legally authorize the withholding or withdrawal of life-sustaining medical procedures should a terminal condition occur.

Any person of sound mind and age 18 years and older may voluntarily sign a "Declaration to Physicians" directing the desired level of medical care.

The declaration expires five years after the date of signing at which time a new one may be signed. It may, however, be revoked at any time by the signer.

As approved by the State Legislature, the declaration would be used if a person who has signed one has an illness of injury which two physicians determine will result in death within 30 days, regardless of whether or not life-sustaining procedures are used.

Copies of the "Declaration to Physicians" may be available locally from physicians, nursing homes, hospitals, county clerks or lawyers.

More information and single copies of the declaration are available by writing to Declaration to Physicians, Wisconsin Division of Health, P.O. Box 309, Madison, Wisconsin 53701. A request for the declaration must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Take Notice!

On October 16, 1984, and the next succeeding days, Fredric A. Seefeldt, Treasurer of Washington County, will at the courthouse at West Bend, Wisconsin, sell to Washington County so much as may be necessary of each tract of land upon which the taxes have been returned as delinquent and are on said date still unpaid, for the payment of the taxes and interest due thereon. This sale will include all real estate listed in the county treasurer's official records of delinquent taxes for the tax levy year 1983, except public lands held on contract and land mortgaged to the state. If you are in doubt as to whether the taxes on your land are paid, consult the county treasurer.

By so doing you will prevent sale of your property for taxes and you will stop the further addition of interest charges.

VOTING BY ABSENTEE BALLOT

Any qualified elector, unable to get to the polling place on election day for any reason, may ask to vote by absentee ballot. A qualified elector is a person who is a U.S. citizen, who will be 18 years of age or older on election day, who has resided in the ward or municipality where the person wishes to vote at least 10 days prior to the election. If the voter resides in a municipality which requires voter registration, then registration is also required for the voter to receive an absentee ballot.

To obtain an absentee ballot, the voter should contact the clerk of the city, village or town in which the voter resides. A written request must be made by the voter for the absentee ballot. If the voter contacts the clerk by telephone the clerk will send the application form to the voter. If the voter requests an absentee ballot by mail, the written request, signed by the voter which indicates that the voter resides within the municipality, will be honored. Written requests may be made beginning three months prior to the primary election. The deadline for receipt of the written request by mail is 5:00 p.m. on the Friday before the election. If the voter goes to the clerk's office to complete a written request, the request must be made no later than 5:00 p.m. on the day before the election.

With one exception, the voter who wants to cast an absentee ballot, must make a separate written request before each election. If a voter is indefinitely confined to their home or a care facility because of illness, age, or disability, the voter need not make a request before each election. There is a special statement on the application form which is provided by the municipal clerk which can be completed asking that an absentee ballot be automatically mailed to the voter before each election if they are indefinitely confined. If the indefinitely confined voter fails to vote and return the ballot sent to the voter, a separate written request for the next election must be made before the voter can get a ballot.

The municipal clerk will send the absentee ballot to the voter once the request is received and the ballots are prepared. Absentee ballots are available three weeks prior to the election. The municipal clerk keeps a record of all individuals requesting an absentee ballot, when the ballot is sent and returned to the municipal clerk.

Absentee ballots can be voted at home any time after they are received in the mail. Absentee ballots can also be voted in the clerk's office if the voter appears in person and fills out the written request. The voter should make sure that the affidavit-certificate is properly completed and witnessed by two persons. The voter and the witnesses must sign the certificate on the absentee ballot carrier envelope. If the absentee elector receives assistance in marking the ballot, the assistance must be provided by a person authorized to administer oaths such as a notary public, municipal clerk or deputy municipal clerk. The municipal clerk will make sure that the affidavit-certificate is properly completed by the voter when the absentee ballot is voted in the clerk's office.

The completed absentee ballot must be in the hands of the issuing municipal clerk no later than the close of the polls on election day. Voted absentee ballots may be delivered in person to the municipal clerk. Any absentee ballot received after the polls close or any ballots which are not properly completed cannot be counted.

National Ice Age Trail's Advisory Committee Meets at Dundee

DUNDEE, WI — The importance of making people more aware of the National Ice Age Trail in Wisconsin was one of the topics discussed recently at a meeting of the trail's Advisory Committee near here.

The 12-member committee, appointed by the Secretary of the Interior, met at the Ice Age Center in the Northern Unit of the Kettle Moraine State Forest. The group, which acts in an advisory capacity to the Secretary, discussed future trail publications and trail signs.

The 1,000 mile Ice Age Trail winds its way from Potawatomi State Park near Sturgeon Bay to Interstate Park near St. Croix Falls in northwestern Wisconsin. It closely follows the terminal moraine of the last continental glacier, and links the units of the Ice Age National Scientific Reserve.

The trail was established by the U.S. Congress in 1980 after having been begun more than 20 years ago by volunteers. In fact, the trail is still largely supported and maintained by the efforts of volunteers from the Ice Age Trail Council.

Hunter's Choice

Applications Due October 5

Applications for Hunter's Choice and antlerless deer permits must be postmarked no later than October 5.

There are a total of 216,025 permits this year. Of that number, 148,800 Hunter's Choice permits are available in many deer management units throughout the state. The other 67,225 permits are for antlerless deer only and are available in six deer management units in the southern portion of the state. The units where they are available are: 6TA, 70, 70A, 70B, 70E and 71.

Hunters who receive an antlerless permit in one of those units this year will have an opportunity to take a second antlerless deer. Under the incentive or second permit system in Units 6TA, 70, 70A, 70B, 70E and 71, a hunter who receives an antlerless permit for one of those units and registers an antlerless deer in that unit will be eligible for a second permit to take another antlerless deer in the same unit during the period Monday through Friday of the gun deer season. An antlerless deer is one with no antlers or antlers less than three inches in length.

About 22 percent of the 67,225 antlerless permits available in the six units will be set aside for bonus deer and will be awarded to successful hunters on a first-come, first-served basis.

A hunter who receives an antlerless permit is limited to taking an antlerless deer while hunting in the unit for which the permit is issued. However, any legal deer may be taken by the hunter while hunting outside that unit, in which case the opportunity to take a second deer is forfeited.

The first American newspapers appeared in Boston. One was the New England Courant, begun in 1721 by James Franklin, who employed his brother, Benjamin, in his shop.

Turnovers Hurt Indians In Loss to Plymouth

By John Harju

Kewaskum turned the ball over five times in handing Plymouth a 20-6 victory last Friday in Kewaskum.

The Indians (0-2 conference, 0-4 overall) played the Panthers (1-2 and 1-4) fairly even in the first half, with Plymouth taking a slim 7-6 advantage into the locker room.

Plymouth drew first blood at the 10:51 mark in the second quarter when QB Wade Holdridge (who completed only 2 out of 4 the entire night) hit Bob Low on a 49-yard scoring sprint. Gert Geisler added the PAT - which proved to be the halftime difference - and Plymouth led 7-0.

Kewaskum answered with a following 55-yard scoring drive, capped off when QB Mark Follmann lobbed a roll-out pass to Mike Steinhardt for a 7-yard TD pass. The two-point conversion failed when Steinhardt couldn't hang on to a Follmann pass; and at intermission Kewaskum trailed, 7-6.

On the first possession of the second half, Indian back Tim Dettmann fumbled a third down hand off at the Indian 38; it was recovered by Plymouth, and 9 plays later Panther HB Wally Joch slithered around the right side and went in for an 11-yard score. This made it 13-6, Plymouth, and things began to look bleak for coach Mike Fiffick and his Indians.

Dettmann returned the following kickoff to the Indian 47. Kewaskum then marched to the Plymouth 4.

A five-yard penalty drove them back to the 9, and on the next play, Follmann hit Rick Staehler with a screen pass; Staehler smelled the endzone too soon and coughed up the ball at the 3 where Plymouth took over.

This fumble brought on the beginning of the end for Kewaskum. In their final three possessions Kewaskum punted once and Follmann was intercepted twice.

Plymouth received some insurance with 4:57 remaining. After 11 successive running plays, fullback Steve Osieczanek blew into the endzone from 4 yards out to round out the scoring and give Plymouth its first win of the year, 20-6.

Follmann finished the night with respectable numbers including 14 out of 29 passing for 175 yards. He also was Kewaskum's leading ground gainer with 38 yards in 5 carries.

Tom Herriges caught 4 passes for 67 yards, Steinhardt - 4 for 56, and Tim Rohlinger - 4 for 40 to lead the Indian air attack.

Defensively, the Indians were led by linebacker Rick Staehler who totaled 18 defensive points on 16 tackles. Tim Geidel blocked an early first quarter FG try, as well.

Plymouth did their damage on the ground with Joch gaining 103 yards on 21 carries with Osieczanek adding 71 on 22 attempts.

In other E-W games, Kewaskum's Friday opponent, New Holstein, received a 30-8 beating from host Two Rivers. Raider Tony Amond carried 14 times for 112 yards and scored on runs of 6, 22, and 12 yards. New Holstein scored with one second remaining to avert a shutout.

Kiel polished off Chilton, 21-7, in a game which featured 4 Chilton turnovers as the deciding factor. David Meyer picked up a fumble and ran 31 yards for Kiel's second score. Chilton was led by Tim Hephner who totaled 60 yards in 16 carries.

Indian Girls Beat Chilton, Lose to Two Rivers in Volleyball

By John Harju

The Kewaskum High volleyball team fought their way to a 15-2, 5-15, 15-9 victory last Tuesday in Chilton and then dropped a 19-17, 11-15, 7-15 decision to host Two Rivers the following Thursday.

Coach Dave Rizzardi praised Sandy Secor, Laurie Blum, and Debbie Jepsen - all of whom "served well" - and the spiking of Lisa Fusek in Tuesday's win.

On Thursday, the "bubble burst" according to Rizzardi, noting that after winning the first game and coming back in the second to get to within two points at 11-13, his girls faltered because of poor hits and sets, although "we did block better."

The Indian varsity spikers now have a 2-5 record while the JV's, who won on Tuesday but lost Friday, are 3-4. The Fresh-(wo)men are currently 2-4.
