Reha Wants to Return to Teaching

KMS Principal Submits Resignation

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

District Administrator Penny Kleinhans advised the Kewaskum School Board Monday evening, that she had received a letter of resignation from Dennis Reha, Middle School Principal, effective with the end of the 1986-87 school year.

Kleinhans said Reha's letter indicated he would resign as principal with the stipulation that he would be permitted to return to a sixth grade teaching position at the Middle

Board member Ralph Horner told Kleinhans, "If there is a resignation I think it should be on the agenda and if there is a position open, I think it should be posted." Horner expressed his objection to Reha's request indicating that if a position became available it should be posted for all interested applicants.

Kleinhans said it was part of the contract language that Reha could return to a teaching position without the job being posted. Some individuals, however, questioned whether that information was correct.

In replacing Reha, Kleinhans said, Julie Backus Director of Instruction, was willing to accept a dual position of Middle School Principal - Director of Instruction. In checking with the Department of Public Instruction, Kleinhans said Backus would be able to obtain the necessary accreditation to take the position of Middle School Principal.

Kleinhans said the change would require some re-alignment of administrative duties but that the situation could be worked out.

Jaycees to Sponsor DeYoung Magic Show

The all professional DeYoung and Co. Magic and Spook Revue stage show will perform at Rose Hall in the Kewaskum High School at 7:00 p.m. Saturday, April 4 and 1:00 p.m. Sunday, April 5.

This outstanding production was in Kewaskum four years ago. However, this show is entirely new from start to finish, with new acts and effects, plus new music, scenery and costumes. It is being sponsored by the Kewaskum Jaycees to raise money for various community activities. This show has received top ratings with outstanding notices wherever it has appeared.

The Kewaskum Jaycees are stressing the fact that this is a show for all ages, from kindergarten to grandparents. The show, which runs approximately two hours, is in three acts. DeYoung will be here in person with his troupe of wonderworkers, assistants and animals.

This show features illusions that are much more spectacular than simple magic such as rope or coin tricks. Effects that help to highlight these magical illusions include specially written music, sparkling lighting, and many changes of scenery. There are hypnotism, audience participation, thrills and chills with plenty of comedy sprinkled throughout.

Advanced tickets may be obtained from any Kewaskum Jaycee member, numerous local businesses, or at the door. Make your plans now to be amazed the first weekend in April by the DeYoung Magic Show!

In conjunction with the Magic Show, Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Magic Week Sale from Friday, March 27 thru Saturday, April 4. The sale ads will run in the March 27th issue. Advertisers are reminded to have their ads at the Statesman office by Monday, March 16.

Vote to Support Alcohol/Drug Abuse Training Program

Board Hears Programming, Staffing Needs for 1987-88

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum School Board Monday night, listened to programming and staffing recommendations for the 1987-88 school year from its administration and staff.

Among the proposals was the expansion of the Middle School 'Quest' program to include a nine-week course at the sixth grade level in addition to the present course offered to seventh grade students.

The program, sponsored and funded by the Kewaskum Lions Club, deals with teaching youngsters how to cope with peer and other pressures related to drug and alcohol abuse.

In approving the request, and acknowledging the Lions Club's generous backing of the program, board member Kim Peterson said, "we (the board) would be totally remiss if we did not support it 100%."

The administration also asked for a commitment in funding to provide core-group training for approximately 30 committee and staff members of the Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse Committee. The training teaches about chemical dependency, how it affects the family, sensitivity to students, and would encourage the participants to help students to take action to deal with their AODA problems.

Julie Backus, Director of Instruction, told the board the district would be applying for a grant which would fund 80% of the training costs, approximately $20,000. However, the committee was also seeking a firm commitment from the board that, should the district not receive the grant, it would still provide the $15,113 necessary to cover the cost of the core-group training, facilitator training, curriculum, parent classes and miscellaneous items.

Backus noted that should the district receive the grant, its cost for the program would be approximately $5,600, which could be provided in the form of staff time, facilities use, etc. Board member Perry Ankersen asked what the chances of receiving the grant were. "Has competition been fierce for this grant, yes it has been" said District Administrator Penny Kleinhans. Backus noted Kewaskum has been working with the New Holstein school district and it was hoped that the information gathered from it, along with grant writing seminars attended, would improve Kewaskum's chances of getting the grant.

On a 6-0 vote, the board approved funding the training program. Board member Clara Trapp was absent.

At the request of the Middle School music department, the board voted to drop the fifth grade band program. Speaking for the staff involved, Larry Ammel noted time has been the most important reason for dropping the program. The students are receiving minimal lesson and band time, and the four afternoons spent away from the middle school by instructors is affecting the time left for the sixth grade. Ammel also noted there was a lack of motivation on the fifth grade level.

The board approved the recommendation to drop the fifth grade program and return to starting students in the summer before sixth grade.

Dan Wangerin, Local Vocational Education Coordinator for Kewaskum, submitted six grant proposals for the coming school year. The first grant covers approximately 25% funding for the Business Education Co-op program approved at a previous school board meeting.

The second grant is for creation of a three-year plan to update the Home Economics curriculum. The grant would fund 60%, or $3,300 of the program's $5,450 cost.

The third grant would cover a project to improve the participation and leadership skills of students through workshops and programs in relation to holding offices, becoming part of organizations such as student government, FFA, FBLA, etc. Skills which are also necessary

DOES ANYONE CARE?

The Board of Kewaskum Area United Way will make a difficult decision this month, namely, whether to continue as an independent United Way Drive, constantly looking into every nook and cranny for volunteers, or to join the Washington County United Way, letting them run the Kewaskum Area Drive at a cost of 12 to 18%.

Perhaps there is a third alternative. The Board would love to hear from numerous community-minded citizens willing to help with the drive for one month in the fall.

Did you know that for the past nine years all work done for the Kewaskum Area United Way has been COMPLETELY VOLUNTEER with a materials cost of less than 2%.

Let us have your input on this subject. Contact any of the Board members below or write to Kewaskum Area United Way, Box 197, Kewaskum, WI 53040.

after students leave school. The grant would fund approximately 33% of the cost.

The fifth grant covers approximately 30% reimbursement of the Technical Education program expansion which includes the Pathways to A Career program and co-op work experience, as previously approved by the board.

The sixth grant covered funding for the LVEC and related administrative expenditures. This grant would fund 100% of the LVEC's 10 days extended contract and 20% reimbursement on miscellaneous costs such as mileage, postage, substitutes, conferences, etc.

These grant application requests were approved.

The only grant proposal not approved was a fourth covering a project to provide staff time to write a curriculum to update and include emphasis on new emerging occupations in the technology fields. This grant would have covered approximately 30% of the program's cost. The proposal died on a 3-3 tie vote.

Oddly enough, it was on this very subject that a district resident addressed the board during the 'audience to board' portion of the agenda earlier in the evening. Chuck Voge, Fredonia, told the board it should look into training students in other tech fields. "Here we keep training people for a surplus in that workforce already, the same thing with the agriculture industry" said Voge. We're teaching people to weld when in industry robots are doing that work, he noted.

Board president Tom Brigham indicated his reason for voting against the grant was because he felt the subject was being addressed by the Pathways To A Career program. When Kleinhans, who was somewhat surprised by the board's decision, asked Brigham what the administration could do to get the board to reconsider the grant, Brigham noted he felt no more discussion was necessary and moved on to the next agenda item.

High School Principal LeRoy Kopecky addressed the board on course additions and changes at the high school. Of the eight new courses, slated to begin in 1987, six are in compliance with new state mandated requirements.

Kopecky also reminded that board that with the start of the 1987-88 school year, all students would be required to earn 22 credits to be eligible for high school graduation.

The coming year will also mark the beginning of the new eight-period day which will provide students with time to take more elective courses than under the present seven-period day.

New state mandates will also require all students to remain in school for the entire day. All late arrival and early releases for seniors have been eliminated except for school-related projects.

Kleinhans advised the board that because of programming changes and needs, the district will be looking at an increase in Kewaskum's staff requirements equivalent to 4½ teaching positions. That figure would include slightly over one position at the high school level, 1½ positions at the middle school, one full time first grade teacher, and extension of the kindergarten position. Some of the staffing increase can be accomplished by extending part time contracts to full time, while the balance would mean the hiring of new personnel.

Board member Ralph Horner expressed his distress over Kleinhans' comments. He said he could see the tiers building, first are the new subjects, they're fine everyone is for them. Then comes the next tier, staffing to implement all these programs. Then the next tier is looking at the budget trying to decide where we're going to hold down costs.

Ankerson asked Business Manager Cherna Gorder, "what is the impact of this going to be on the budget?" "Our goal is to keep our increased expenditures to less than 5%" said Gorder, "even if we lost $100,000 in state aids because of drops, the levy shouldn't be over 5%." "Our first runthrough of the budget makes us feel very, very comfortable" said Kleinhans.

In other action the board reviewed new policy proposals and amendments from the Policy Committee. Several policies were returned to committee for further review, and the policy covering the Athletic Director job description was placed on next month's school board agenda for action.

The board approved the recommendations of the Finance - Transportation - Buildings and Grounds Committee to purchase a water softener for Kewaskum Elementary, ceiling tile for the KHS Home Ec room, and new light fixtures for the KHS halls.

The Negotiations Committee will hold a public hearing with the KEA on Wednesday, March 18th, at 7:30 p.m., as the result of a petition by citizens concerning wage negotiations.

The committee will also meet with the Support Staff union on April 20th, to present the district's wage proposal.

Because of a tie vote, a recommendation to give high school credit for high school equivalent subjects taken on the eighth grade level, died.

The board approved a recommendation to allow splitting of the Spanish III and IV classes into two separate sections for 1987-88.

The board also accepted a letter of resignation from Eugene LaMarche who will be retiring at the end of the school year after approximately 30 years with the district.

KES principal Richard Zarling informed the board that the enrollment count for the 1987-88 kindergarten classes is down by 20 students from the 1988-87 enrollment.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

Two Teachers Attend High Tech Workshops

Kewaskum High School Technology Education instructors David Drexler and Dan Wangerin, recently attended one of the Wisconsin Technology Education Association's High Tech Workshops held at the District One Technical Institute in Eau Claire. The workshop theme was Communication. Specific workshops included Graphic Communications, Advanced Communications, and Principals of Technology.

Workshop participants had the opportunity to hear exemplary teacher talk about implementing new technology in the schools. Time and facilities were also provided for the operation of new types of equipment. The workshop concluded with the development of activities that teachers could implement with students when they get home.

The purpose of the workshops is to provide teachers with information and hands-on experience that will help them change industrial arts programs to the new contemporary technology education. With the decline in the number of people involved in manufacturing and the expansion of technology, the changes have become important to assist students to understand and live with technological change and to gain knowledge of the skills and new and expanding technology as a basis for future employment.

Study Indicates More Space Is Needed at UWWC

A recently concluded University of Wisconsin study indicates the need for an additional 12,809 square feet of assignable space at the UW Center in Washington County.

The space utilization analysis was conducted by Douglas King, director of the UW Bureau of Technical Information Services in Madison, at the request of the UWWC Board of Commissioners. Results were reported on Feb. 25 to the board, a joint city-county group that oversees the physical plant at the two-year center.

UWWC Dean Robert Thompson was directed by the board to report back to them on March 28 with specifications on how the space needs might be met.

In presenting the study, Thompson endorsed the findings. He said, "There is no doubt in my mind that the needs identified are real needs." He noted that record-breaking enrollments last fall and this spring already have moved the student headcount to 10 higher than the 767 projected for the year 2000.

"We have continued to have unexpected growth on this campus," he said.

Preliminary indications in King's finding point to the probable need for additions to two buildings: 3,964 square feet on the library and 8,845 square feet on the student union.

New library space would provide for expanded book stacks and study space, a new computer laboratory, a large conference room for continuing education courses, and six additional faculty offices.

King noted that the laboratory would contain 25 microcomputers and 25 printers awarded UWWC under the UW System's Laboratory Modernization Program. He said, "The computers are for the creation of an open-computer lab for use by all university disciplines."

At the present time, Thompson told the commissioners, "We don't even have a store room to put the new computers in."

Union space needs are about equally divided between a deficit of space for student union areas and campus support and surface needs including shop and storage areas.

King said, he has "no doubt" of the need for 4,627 square feet for the food service, lounge, recreation and locker space. He said, "On an isolated commuter campus without dormitories it is reasonable to expect an even-higher-than-average demand for such facilities than elsewhere in the UW System. Yet even when compared against the average supply of such space, the center falls far short."

He said there is a "significant shortage" of physical plant and maintenance storage space and cited the need by the city and county to rent space-off campus for storage.

King's analysis found deficiencies on five of the nine UW space guidelines he studied. His findings were based on facilities inventories, room-scheduling data and on-site inspections.

The last UWWC expansion was completed in 1981 and added 20,996 assignable square feet to the campus based on an enrollment of 540 students. UWWC currently has about 61,038 assignable square feet of space and last fall reached a record enrollment of 777 students.

Milwaukee Priest Discusses AIDS During Wellness Week at UWWC

AIDS is not as far down the road from Washington County as many people think, a Milwaukee area priest said last week during a Wellness Week talk at the UW Center - Washington County.

Brother Benjamin Johnson, community health educator for the Milwaukee Aids Project, told students that 141 cases of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) have been diagnosed in Wisconsin as of Feb. 1.

More than half of the cases are in the six counties including Washington County that make up Southeastern Wisconsin; 44% of the state cases are in Milwaukee, Johnson said, adding "Do you know the commuting distance to Milwaukee?"

According to Johnson, the number of AIDS cases is doubling every six to eight months in Wisconsin, about twice as fast as in New York City. He said, "We have not been exposed to the virus."

Nationally, as of Feb. 1, 30,470 cases of AIDS had been reported in the U.S. since the disease first appeared here in 1981. More than half of the victims have already died.

"An estimated 2.5 million persons in the U.S. may have been exposed to the virus without knowing it," Johnson said.

Tests are available to detect antibodies in the blood. A positive test indicates a person has been infected and is a carrier of the disease. Up to five years may be required before signs and symptoms of the disease appear. In the final stages, the body's immune system is destroyed.

Other Wisconsin statistics provided by Johnson underscore the main ways the disease is transmitted; through the sharing of body fluids such as semen, blood, vaginal secretions, urine and feces. The virus is also present in tears and saliva but not in strong-enough concentrations to cause infection.

Of the 141 Wisconsin cases, Johnson said, 133 are men including 111 who are homosexual or bisexual. Among the eight women with AIDS, two are intravenous drug users. About 85% of the state victims are white compared to 65% nationally.

Those who have died in Wisconsin ranged in age from 18 to 75; most deaths were among the 30 to 39 age bracket.

Infection takes place most often through intimate sexual contact, Johnson told UWWC students. He emphasized that the virus can't be picked up from telephones, dishes, toilet seats, sneezing, hugs, handshakes, and "generally not by kissing - wet or dry."

The virus is also transmitted when drug users share a dirty needle with infected blood. Johnson pointed out that many kinds of drug use can suppress the immune system and make users susceptible to AIDS infection.

"West Bend and Fond du Lac make up one of the big drug areas in the state," he said. "Drugs are present in your community and around your schools. This is frightening. Our kids are our future."

Johnson referred to another emerging phenomena of AIDS: babies born with the disease. He said, "We have had 480 cases of pediatric AIDS in the U.S. and more are coming."

Johnson is a member of the Capuchin Order and has worked for 15 years as a nurse and ten years as a counselor to the gay community in Milwaukee. "AIDS," he said, "is a terrible way to die. Every element of people's lives is touched."

He stressed the fact that AIDS is a "preventable disease" and urged backing for good education programs that start with such things as proper hand-washing techniques for younger ages and sex education beginning about age 11. "Wisconsin has the highest teen pregnancy rate in the nation," he said.

Johnson said he opposes mandatory testing for AIDS. Despite state laws forbidding discrimination against AIDS victims, he said that persons seeking testing may end up with cancelled health insurance, higher premiums or lost jobs. The reasoning, even for those with negative test results, is: "If you want testing, you must feel you're in an at-risk group."

In his presentation, Johnson sounded a low-key non-alarmist note. He explained why Milwaukee AIDS victims were shunned when he began working with them, he said. No morticians would bury those who died, and only one dentist would work on those who tested positive for the virus.

Johnson said he sees a possible benefit emerging from the AIDS tragedy. "It's going to pull the gay and straight communities together in caring about people who are dying," he said.

"AIDS will force us to look at people, relationships and things that really matter."

GETTING FRANK ABOUT FUND RAISING UW Extension Course Starts March 19

"The biggest or most common mistake made in fund raising by nonprofit organizations is just going out and spending money on a big mailing list and going with that," notes national fund raising and grantsmanship consultant Boris Frank, Madison.

That approach too often results in too much wasted time and money — things nonprofits can't afford to waste. As he'll be in a new statewide University of Wisconsin - Extension course on fund raising, offered statewide and starting March 19, Boris Frank is "frank" about the do's and don'ts of fund raising.

He asks nonprofits to scrutinize their direct efforts, for example. "Are you using the wrong lists? Do you know where to find the right lists? Are you mailing at wrong time of the year? Are you offering the wrong services or things people don't want at the wrong price? Are your donation levels too low or too high? If your donation levels are too low they can be demeaning."

The new class, Direct Mail

Fund Raising for Nonprofits," will be held March 19, 26, and April 2 and 9 at 12-1:20 p.m. via UW-Extension's Educational Teleconference Network (ETN).

It is sponsored by UW-Madison Communication Programs.

In Washington County, ETN classes meet in the Public Library at Hartford and at the University Center in West Bend. For details, call Chuck Wise, Area Recreation/Small Business Agent for UW-Extension.

APPLE CIDER VINEGAR

Apple cider vinegar for cooking and salad dressing may promote healing of many ailments and give you a 'forever young' digestive system, states Dr. J. DeWitt Fox MD., head of Neurologic Center Inc. of L.A. "Apple cider vinegar cuts and emulsifies fat and cholesterol, helps wash it out of the system. After a heavy meal, finish with a one ounce dose of vinegar in a glass of water," says Dr. Fox. "You'll help keep fat and cholesterol from building up."

LETTER POLICY

The Statesman this week received various Letters to the Editor that were impossible to print as sent.

One had countless spelling and grammatical errors, one was terribly illegible and one was sent with half an address and no phone number for verification purposes.

PLEASE - we prefer type-written, grammatically correct (we cannot guess at what you mean) copy. We also prefer 300-400 words or less. Time and space does not permit us to run the extremely long versions.

Letters must be signed along with your address and phone number. We prefer to print your name with your opinions, but if this is impossible, upon your written request, we will withhold name, address, etc.

We reserve the right to reject publication of any letter that is full of errors, unsigned, illegible, too lengthy, libelous, malicious or primarily commercial. We also reserve the right to edit all letters.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I'm a 1986 graduate of Kewaskum High School, and now a student at UW-Madison. I hope people read this with an open mind given my situation.

First of all, I'm not a taxpayer! So in the eyes of many, that means I have absolutely no say in decisions made by the school board. Also let me clarify the fact that I'm not complaining about decisions made by the school board. God knows that by now everyone is sick and tired of hearing about Beechwood School closing.

Remember when the boys' football team went to state in '83 or when the girls' volleyball team went this year. The big talk of the town was sports. Now we are stuck listening to the school board fight over absolutely nothing. It's almost embarrassing to hear that the main topic of business is that one member missed a meeting or one is being petitioned for harrassment. Actually it's a disgrace; I'm not saying one is right or one is wrong, but if that's the most important thing they have to decide, why have a school board?

Instead of cutting people apart, why don't members ever offer congratulations. Shake Mr. Esser's hand for how many years of fine service, or congratulate Mr. Rizzardi for an excellent volleyball season, or maybe thank Mr. Gosa for heading an important organization like K.E.Y.S., the list goes on and on.

School board members are supposed to make decisions that enables the school to run efficiently and give students the best possible education. You all think you know what's best for the school. How in the world would you know if you never visit any of the schools when they're in operation. Through four years of school, the only member I've ever seen at school was Kim Peterson. And for that Mr. Peterson, I must commend you. Sure you might have jobs, but taking a school board position is also a job. It almost seems as if members know what is best for their own pocketbook and not for the school itself.

I'm not taking sides but I wish everyone would take a serious look at what Clara Trapp has done for this school. She has worked hard to try and keep Beechwood open. But that is over. Let it go. Also, she continuously is on Penny Kleinhans. What ever problem she has with Ms. Kleinhans is no matter of the school board. So Mrs. Trapp, why don't you discuss your problems some other time and work together when it comes to school issues. You were elected to the school board to work on school topics, not to harrass Ms. Kleinhans. Everyone is sick of you two fighting.

From now on, when school board members go to their monthly meeting, I wish they would leave their personal grudges at home. School board meetings are a joke. Everyone wants their own way and they won't give up until they get it. Quit being so selfish and compromise a little. A lot more will get done. By the way, to any one who ever has gone to a school board meeting with an open-mind, the next time they go they should take popcorn because it's the best comedy series you can see for free. Grown people fight like three-year-olds. Student Government could make a fortune selling popcorn at these meetings.

This letter wasn't an attempt to make fun of the school board. It has turned out many fine students from KHS, and I for one am proud of my high school education. I'm simply trying to get the school board to forget about fighting against one another and try to get something constructive done. Try to work together and compromise. I hope I haven't insulted anyone. That wasn't my intention. Also, I hope others agree with my stand and will comment on it.

Sincerely,
Ric Heller

To the Editor:

The School Board race seems to be getting a bit off track. It is starting to focus on personality rather than what the candidate can contribute to the Board.

The function of a School Board member is to be aware of the concerns of the electorate, and, based on these concerns, to make policy decisions regarding the education of the children of the district; to direct the administration to carry out these policies; and to create a budget for the district that the residents can afford without sacrificing educational quality.

If elected to the Kewaskum School Board, I will fulfill this obligation. Your vote on April 7 would be appreciated.

Sincerely,
John H. Spoerl

Letters to the Editor
The Kewaskum Statesman
P.O. Box 98

To: School District of Kewaskum Residents

Sincere appreciation to the residents in the Kewaskum School District who cared enough, or even just took the time to vote in the February 17th school board primary election. There were a large number of residents, though, who did not vote. This letter is directed mainly for your attention.

Your absence at the polls showed you are either satisfied with the conditions in the district, or you felt your vote would not count. If you are content with seeing the education of your children and grandchildren slip farther behind single issue warfare involving personal conflicts between the administration and the school board, then you were right not to vote.

If you did not vote thinking your vote would not count, you have my sympathy. Your vote is important. Your opinion does have a voice.

The Kewaskum School District, presently, could possibly rank as #1 in the following:

- Education has taken a back seat to back stabbing
 - Personal conflicts have replaced cooperation
 - Power struggles have made our schools battlefields
 - Law books are becoming more numerous than text books
- Why? Why are we quite possibly #1 in these areas? I believe it is because we have forgotten time and time again the basics - our children and their education.

We have every right to DEMAND a cooperative, unified governing system between administration and the school board, but this DEMAND for unity can only be activated by votes counted at the polls. You have another chance on April 7th to give your opinion a voice. Please use it!

Sincerely,
Neal D. Weare

To the People of the Kewaskum School District:

All the controversy the news media has carried concerning the administration and the majority of the present school board within the last year, in my opinion, is only a smoke screen to divert the scrutiny of the public from the real issues. Many concerns are being entrenched in our district by the way of the back door.

Why do we have a committee to study the possibility of initiating a certain curriculum within our district while this curriculum hasn't even been approved by the school board. Why is it being taught?

Why is it impossible for the candidates to receive the school board information packets (minus the confidential material) that has been "past policy" of our district? Why is it necessary to keep the candidates in the dark until they take office in May?

Whenever a question is asked, quickly the opposition returns with "all the answers." But are these truly the answers?

The problems in our school district won't go away by throwing money at them.

It is time for a change.

One school board candidate uses being on the "board" for ten years as a main qualification. The last ten years have been far from positive in our district. Remember that, please, at the ballot box.

Another candidate uses numerous awards, schoolings, and seminars for the sheriff's department as qualifications. I must admit that I was impressed; however, does this qualify a person as a school board member? It could even be considered a conflict of interest.

We've been going back and forth on the issue of over crowding at our middle school and Farmington Elementary School. We have been told there isn't any problem; yet, no one can deny that the illness among our students, teachers and staff at these schools has greatly increased this past year.

Remember when you vote April 7, that the children's education and welfare are the only priority that should be on the mind of a school board member. I feel money should be spent for educational materials and that we should keep or acquire the best quality of teachers.

I do feel, however, that the monies that have been spent for the "aid and comfort" of the administration is a disgrace that cannot be continued.

Qualified administration personnel are necessary. We

To: All Kewaskum School District Residents

I would like to assure Laneille Dieringer, mother and grand-mother from Farmington, that curriculum planning will indeed continue if I am elected to the school board. The curriculum planning will be directed by our superintendent. As a past board member, Mrs. Dieringer contained in the background information submitted by Ms. Kleinhans when she applied for her current position as superintendent.

Below is a portion of the background information given to the school board when Ms. Kleinhans applied for the job:

"Holding dual certification as both a district administrator and K-12 director of instruction has made it possible for me to be more directly involved in the evaluation and development of curriculum than most administrators. As stated in my initial thinking, I have been heavily involved in curriculum development and program changes the past several years. Until the current year here at Deerfield, we did not have anyone else in charge of curriculum. The full responsibility was mine. As we prepared for S.E.C. and North Central accreditation, I personally worked on a daily basis with teachers to rewrite academic curriculum, develop the formats, restructure the district organization charts, update the needs, assessment and many other activities?"

I see no need to have two directors of instruction. Our superintendent has a business manager, a building and grounds supervisor, 5 principals and numerous secretaries to support her in her job.

When the taxpayers turned down the budget two years ago at the Annual Meeting, they clearly told the school board not to add more fixed costs to the budget. When you don't listen Mrs. Dieringer, you don't get re-elected. It's as simple as that!

Please vote on April 7th. It is time for a change. See you at the polls!

To the Editor:

When are organized labor officials going to wake up and join the 1980's?

The unwillingness of UAW Local's 72 and 75 to renegotiate their contracts with American Motors has forced the auto-maker to move production of it's most successful model, the Jeep, to another state. In a day of intense worldwide market competition, this is indeed a tragedy for Wisconsin.

Everyone was willing to give in this situation except union officials. Governor Thompson and state legislators were willing to provide state subsidies, Chrysler was going to move compact car production to Kenosha, local leaders were willing to provide almost any resource to secure employment and spur the economy for their deserving citizens. However, union officials balked at renegotiating a contract.

I find it ironic that the very rights of workers, organized labor, has all but diminished the hopes of the unemployed to get a good paying job.

It is time that these officials join the rest of us in the 1980s and begin to cooperate with others who are concerned with the future of this state. It is time that those workers who pay a highly monthly union due be represented by progressive thinkers who understand the economy.

It better happen soon or there will be no jobs for the union to represent.

Respectfully,

Dean A. Zuleger

State DOT Expects Winter Maintenance Costs to Be Lowest In Seven Years

Unusually mild winter has paid off in reduced maintenance expense, and is permitting the state to get a jump on maintenance work which is usually done in the spring and summer months.

Ted Stephenson, state highway maintenance engineer for the Department of Transportation, said winter maintenance costs are projected to be about $20 million - some $3 to $4 million less than normal, and $10 million less than the previous winter.

County highway maintenance crews, who perform roadway maintenance for the state, have spent the winter months clearing brush and trees that have encroached on highway rights of way, or are obstructing vision at intersections. "This is the first year since 1981 that extensive work of this type has been possible," Stephenson said.

If the mild weather continues, Stephenson said Wisconsin roads will be in unusually good shape when the heavy travel season begins in May and June. "Crack-sealing maintenance work has been underway since the first of February, which is unprecedented. This means that when the real freeze/thaw cycles come in the spring, there should not be as much potholing as usually occurs," he added.

Highway crews which would normally be plowing snow are also being kept busy on the backlog of shoulder repairs on state roads. "We have not been able to do much of this type of maintenance for quite a long time, and hope to use idle equipment to grade and shape shoulders and eliminate some of the dangerous dropoffs," Stephenson said.

Stephenson said that the state spent $30.7 million on winter maintenance in 1985-86, which was the most expensive in several years. The winter of 1980-81 was least expensive, with cost totaling $17.1. He said the estimate for 1986-87 was based on cost reports submitted by counties through January, and anticipates normal costs for the remaining winter months.

Farm Credit Services Announces 'Blitz' Extension

Farm Credit Services of Saint Paul has announced that they will extend their Acquired Property Sales Blitz through March 15, 1987. Their advertising campaign states that the extension is due to the tremendous number of calls that have been received by FCS inquiring with regard to the purchase of property owned by the cooperative.

Farm Credit Services of East Central Wisconsin located in Fond du Lac reports that since January 1, 1987, they have received over 900 inquiries for their real estate owned in this area. As of Friday they reported that they have between 30 and 35 accepted Offers to Purchase, or offers that they are still negotiating on, that brings their total sales since the first of the year to nearly 2 1/4 million.

According to Jerry O'Connor, of the Acquired Property Department, the local FCS Association has been able to respond to all inquiries through the use of local realtors. The realtor involvement has been a great help and FCS has sincerely appreciated this realtor effort.

Local realtors are very pleased that Farm Credit has given them another 30 days in which to attempt to bring in further Offers to Purchase.

Since the local association does not expect to see all of the properties they have in inventory, they are making plans to lease this property out to interested parties.

This week Ken Dusso was appointed the Property Manager for Farm Credit Services of East Central Wisconsin. Dusso has been with the Association for several years and is very familiar with the local market area. He will head up the efforts to rent out the property that will remain unsold at the end of the Blitz period and specifically, is making certain that all grain bases are signed up with local ASCS offices in order that any renters would be eligible for the grain programs. Any interest in renting this property from Farm Credit Services should be addressed to Dusso at FCS in Fond du Lac, P.O. Box 387, phone 922-3940.

Free Legal Guide for Farmers Available

A new free guide to legal rights and responsibilities for Wisconsin farmers should be available just in time for spring planting, it was announced by a major statewide organization.

"This guide outlines a farmer's legal rights and responsibilities whenever they are in the position of borrowing or owing money," stated Attorney Cheryl Furstace Daniels, co-chair of the group of lawyers from the State Bar of Wisconsin developing the book.

"Too often, farmers and creditors don't talk the same language. The result is a misunderstanding of legal rights and responsibilities or, at worst, bad financial decisions being made," commented Daniels. "This easy to read book goes a long way toward fixing that problem for farmers."

Daniels is a voluntary co-chair of the Farm Crisis Committee of the Young Lawyers Division of the State Bar of Wisconsin. She is the legal services coordinator for farm mediation and farm credit in the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. Her co-chair is Charles Senn, an attorney in the Village of Thorp, Clark County, Wisconsin.

According to Daniels, the guide will explain the legal rights when taking out a loan and when negotiating with lenders; how to find and work with an attorney; the ins and outs of foreclosure, replevin, and bankruptcy; and post farming strategies.

"Our main concerns are that farmers more fully understand what they are signing before they sign any papers, and that they fully understand the consequences of what they are doing," Daniels stated.

The free legal guide is only one step in a newly year-long project being developed by the Farm Crisis Committee of the State Bar.

We also are working with the National Farmers Organization, the Farm Unity Alliance, University of Wisconsin - Extension, VTAE districts throughout Wisconsin, and the Department of Agriculture to present legal services workshops to farmers around the state," noted Charles Senn, committee co-chair.

"Sixteen workshops are being planned for early spring in conjunction with the VTAE districts," Senn stated.

"These workshops are for farmers with financial difficulties and for farmers not having problems at this time. We want to help them prevent future problems, as well as help those currently having difficulties," Senn said.

According to Senn, radio programs and newspaper columns are planned and the committee is investigating the possibility of a television program if funding is found.

Funding for other portions of the project is being provided by the State Bar of Wisconsin, the Young Lawyers Division of the State Bar of Wisconsin, the American Bar Association, and the Wisconsin Bankers Association.

For free, individual copies of the legal guide for farmers, call the State Bar of Wisconsin (800-362-8096) or the Department of Agriculture's Farm Crisis Information Line (800-362-3020). Copies should be available beginning mid-March 1987.

Pesticide Applicator Certification Program Being Offered Mar. 26

Washington County Cooperative Extension Service, in cooperation with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, will be offering a Pesticide Applicator Certification and Recertification Program. The session will be held on Thursday, March 26, at the Washington County Courthouse in West Bend. Registration will start at 8:30 p.m., with the program starting at 9:00 a.m. to about 4:00 p.m.

Changes in registration of many pesticides as "restricted use" will require users of these products to be trained and certified. Most of the corn rootworm insecticides and other products are now classified as "restricted use." Individuals that were certified in the past and have allowed their certification to expire will need to be recertified.

This program will be for private applicators, not commercial applicators. A private applicator is an individual that applies pesticides on land owned or rented by himself and on an agricultural crop.

Growers who do not become certified will not be able to use "restricted use" products, as dealers will be prohibited from selling "restricted use" products unless the certification card is shown. Growers are encouraged to participate in certification programs early in the year to allow adequate time to receive their certification before they need to purchase their products for the 1987 growing season.

Individuals that would like to register for the March 26 session should contact the Washington County Cooperative Extension Service no later than March 19, 1987.

Individuals having questions about the need to become certified or the Pesticide Certification Program can contact the Washington County UW-Extension Office.

Milk Production Drops In January

Wisconsin's January milk production, a 2 billion pounds, is continuing a monthly decline from a like period last year with a drop of 3% under January 1986, according to Carrol Spencer chief statistician with the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection.

Production per cow averaged 1,090 pounds for January, the same as a year earlier. However, there were 53,000 fewer milk cows for a total of 1,835,000 head on Wisconsin farms at the start of this year.

Wisconsin's 1986 milk production of 25.2 billion pounds was a record high and 2 percent above the 1985 production of 24.7 billion pounds. State production per cow averaged 13,534 pounds in 1986, an increase of 368 pounds from 1985. Milk cows on a farm in Wisconsin averaged 1,862,000 head for 1986, down 14,000 head from 1985.

United States milk production for 1986 was a record high 145 billion pounds, up 1% from 1985. The increase resulted from a rise in the average output per cow which more than offset a decline in average cow numbers during the year.

WFBF President Believes FmHA-Owned Farms Should Be Subject to Property Tax

Local governments in Wisconsin may be missing out on an additional source of property tax revenue because of state law, according to the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation. Wisconsin exempts property owned by the government from taxation - that includes property owned by the Farmers Home Administration.

"All farms held in inventory by FmHA should be subject to property taxes," Don Haldeman, WFBF president, believes. "Taking that land off the tax rolls erodes the tax base with the result that the rest of us make up the difference."

Federal law permits FmHA-owned farms to be taxed by state and local governments and several states already do so. In Wisconsin, property taxes are collected on that land only if it is leased to operators for "pecuniary profit." Farmland owned by banks and other lending institutions is subject to property taxes.

A change in the Wisconsin Statutes would be necessary to allow property taxes to be collected from the federal government on that land. Haldeman said he is hopeful that Governor Tommy Thompson will include such a change in his upcoming state budget or that legislation will be passed to accomplish this.

MARCH 18, 19, 20

The 28th annual "Electric Power and Farm Equipment Show" is set for March 18, 19, and 20, at the Dane County Exposition Center in Madison.

The theme for this year is "Plan Today for Tomorrow's Growth." More than 300 exhibitors will be displaying their products. The Farm Show includes 162,000 square feet of indoor space plus a large outside display area.

The Farm Show is sponsored by the Wisconsin Power and Light Company and the Wisconsin farm equipment dealers in cooperation with their Association, and is free to visitors from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, March 18, 19, and from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. on Friday, March 20.

First Aid for Poisoning Charts Available at Walgreen Drugstores

Very young children spend most of their time learning about the world around them. Unfortunately, that world contains harmful substances. Every year, more than a million children under five are accidentally poisoned by ordinary household items.

"The best cure for this grim statistic is prevention — to lock away anything that could be harmful," said Ann Gaines, a Chicago pharmacist who works for Walgreens, the nationwide drugstore chain.

In honor of National Poison Prevention Week, March 15-21, Walgreen pharmacies will distribute first aid charts listing some potentially harmful substances. The most obvious potential poisons are household cleaners, such as detergents, furniture polish and toilet bowl cleaners. But garage and garden products, cosmetics, medicines — even house plants — can menace toddlers who eat them.

"Just go under the sink and into your garage and look at what you've got," advised Gaines. "It's best to move these items up high so kids can't get at them. Throw out left-over medicines or household cleaners you haven't used in a while.

"And if children ever visit your home, keep medicines and cleaners in safety containers. Any parent knows that nothing is really 'child-proof,' but these special closures will slow children down. That can give you enough time to prevent a poisoning," Gaines said.

Even if you follow these guidelines and store items safely, you may have to deal with an accidental poisoning. Rule #1 is be prepared. Keep information on hand so you'll be able to react quickly in a crisis. Post a first aid chart and write in the phone number of your nearest poison control center or hospital emergency room.

Emergency supplies consist of syrup of ipecac (to induce vomiting), activated charcoal (to "bind" the poison), and epsom salts (which act as a laxative). Store these as directed, and check the expiration dates periodically to make sure your supplies are fresh. Each poison has a specific antidote, so don't use any of these substances unless instructed to do so by the poison center or your doctor.

If a poisoning occurs, follow rule #2: DON'T PANIC! Immediately call your poison control center and give the details of what happened. Usually, they'll ask you to read label information from the product your child took. Often, the label will recommend an antidote. The people on the phone will help you take the right action, and if necessary, they'll tell you to see a doctor. Take the poison container with you if you're going to a doctor's office or hospital.

If you're not alone with your child when the poisoning occurs, a second person can help while you're getting professional medical advice. For example, swallowing water may be recommended if the child is alert, able to swallow and not convulsing.

"The important thing, of course, is to act now to prevent a poisoning," concluded Gaines. "Knowing what to do in an emergency is great — preventing an emergency is the best way to protect your kids."

Doctors' Fees May Rise with Proposed Insurance Increase

Physicians' fees in Wisconsin will be forced to rise if a proposed 37% increase in their state-mandated insurance rates is passed, the State Medical Society of Wisconsin (SMS) said.

Under the increase proposed by the Wisconsin Patients Compensation Fund, physicians would pay annual insurance rates ranging from $6,800 for family practitioners to $55,300 for neurosurgeons. Wisconsin physicians are required to purchase insurance from the Fund as well as primary insurance from another carrier.

The proposed 37% hike is unfair to both physicians and patients, Thomas L. Adams, SMS Secretary-General Manager Designate, said. "Physicians cannot keep their costs to patients down when their patients compensation fund premiums set by the state continue to rise precipitously every year. Since 1985, Wisconsin physicians have experienced a 160% jump in the liability insurance premiums, and there is no end in sight," Adams said.

In addition, costs for primary insurance are also increasing annually. Unless the Legislature quickly implements strong tort reforms, physician and patient costs will continue their upward spiral, Adams said.

He said the Fund Board's proposed 37% increase is in direct violation of legislation passed in 1986, aimed at keeping physician insurance costs down. The Fund proposal is subject to legislative review. The new rates become effective July 1.

"The proposed increase underscores the fact that, despite recent efforts to stop the trend towards higher insurance costs, significant problems in liability tort system remain for physicians as well as professionals and business persons in many other industries," Adams said.

Air Force Receives Proxmire's Golden Fleece of the Month Award

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisc) Sunday awarded his Golden Fleece of the Month Award for March to the Department of the Air Force for "decking taxpayers about $59,000 over the last six years for the cost of playing cards that were given away as souvenirs to visitors aboard Air Force Two. Technically, the Air Force gets the Fleece because they spent the money, but the blame should be shared by the Executive Office of the President, which usually makes these requests.

"In this day and time of outrageous spending, we certainly don't need to have taxpayers subsidizing poker and gin rummy for guests who fly on the official Vice Presidential plane."

Senator Proxmire is the chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee and serves on both the Appropriations and Joint Economic Committees. He gives a Golden Fleece monthly to the most wasteful, ridiculous or ironic use of taxpayers' money for that period.

"It looks like the taxpayers have been dealt another bad hand. This is a classic case. We've got a Joker of a federal budget deficit that needs to be Aced soon, or we'll all go busted. But there we are throwing away tens of thousands of dollars in hard-earned tax money to buy playing cards for the Vice Presidential aircraft. It makes no sense. I think the Executive Office has drawn a bum card on this one.

"The Air Force explains this fanciful flight into financial frenzy by saying that these playing cards are for official use. Only the Vice President and his staff are authorized to distribute them. And these are not just any old playing cards. They are inscribed with the Vice Presidential seal and all sorts of other trim. These cards may make nice memorabilia, but their importance in terms of the national interest escapes me. The taxpayer may question who is playing with a full deck on this one.

"What's really ridiculous is that this has been going on for some time. According to the Air Force, taxpayer-financed playing cards for the Vice Presidential aircraft have been purchased for over 20 years. Because Air Force contract records only go back to 1981, we only know for certain the amount that taxpayers have been billed since then — $59,000. Since these fancy souvenir cards were bought with tax dollars, I wonder if somebody would consider setting up a high stakes poker game for the taxpayers? At least the public could realize some benefits from this misdeal.

"For now, this year's version of the 'Zap the Taxpayers' card game appears to be on hold. The contract solicitation was suddenly cancelled. According to the Air Force, the solicitation was pulled upon discovery that only one company was able to fulfill a special requirement to bronze the Vice Presidential seal. Now the more expensive bronzing requirement has been dropped, and the Air Force says another deal for the specially-made decks may still be in the cards. They just don't know when to hold them and when to fold them.

"When you take a look at the description the Air Force's Washington Area Contracting Center gave in seeking bids on this most unusual project, you'll know this was no ordinary set of playing cards: bronzed, playing deck, bronzed with current Vice Presidential seal, 'black on gold' on back of all cards...with 'Welcome Aboard Air Force Two' printed in gold on back of all cards. Jokers to include image of capitol building on face, deck in light blue velour case...Vice Presidential seal in gold...

"Without the earlier records, it's no telling how much of our tax dollars have been sunk into souvenirs and playing cards for Air Force Two. But at the rate of $10,000 a year since 1981 just for playing cards, we may well be looking at a wasteful project totalling more than $200,000 since the mid-60s, not to mention what we may have spent on Air Force One. It is easy to see why we have been buried under huge deficits, with spending way out of control, and taxpayers hurting in the pocketbook.

"I've seen a lot of card tricks, but this one beats them all. This is one case where somebody needs to play a trump card for the taxpayers."

OFFICIAL NOTICE

Indians Play Intense Ball In Losing Effort

The Kewaskum Indians hosted the boys subregional basketball tournament last Tuesday night. Slinger came into town heavy favorites with a 10-10 record compared to the 1-19 record of the host Indians. The game did not go as planned for the Owls however, as the Indians came out and played with an intensity not before seen this season. The Indians took a 19-10 lead at the end of the first quarter and upped the lead to 14 points two minutes into the second quarter.

The Indians were to keep the lead the entire first three quarters as the third quarter ended at 39-38 Indians.

The fourth quarter was as intense as the first three with neither team able to get more than a 3 to 4 point lead. Slinger was finally able to obtain a 6 point lead with about 1 1/2 minutes left in the fourth quarter and the Indians were not able to overcome it.

The five starters for Kewaskum were praised by coach Perry Koth for their fine effort. Dave Harju, Rob Baitinger, Joel Fleury, and seniors Mike Coulter and Ken Vogt played one of their finest games.

Kewaskum was again plagued by poor shooting, but dominated the boards by outboarding the Owls 40 to 25. Mike Coulter led the Indians in scoring with 17 while Joel Fleury and Ken Vogt contributed 14 and 10 respectively. Mike Coulter also had 13 rebounds while Joel Fleury had 10.

Port Washington - A long drought ended for the Kewaskum Land o' Lakes basketball team last Sunday. The dry spell which had left Kewaskum without a victory since January 18th was washed away with a come from behind 129-122 win at Port Washington.

"We played very well down the stretch. It was a good team effort for us," said Kewaskum coach Bill Backhaus. "We got to play all eight of our guys in both halves."

Kewaskum who had lost five straight games, jumped to a 35-32 lead after one quarter, but found themselves on the short end of a 78-68 score at halftime. Kewaskum scratched their way back into the contest by outscoring the hosts 32-24 in the third quarter.

Kewaskum's defensive pressure paid off in the fourth period, as Port committed 13 turnovers. Kewaskum scored 29 in the final quarter and Port managed only 20.

Leon Laatsch "lit it up" in the second half for Kewaskum scoring 26 points, and finishing with 40. Steve Albinger added 33 points, including 7 of 10 from the charity line. Tim Rondorf with 18, Tim Wagner with 14 and Bob Nigh with 10 were the other Kewaskum players in double figures. Port Washington was led by Shawn Keefe with 40 and Coach Rollie Kitt with 28.

The victory improved Kewaskum's lakes record to 3-8. Port fell to 0-11.

Backhaus praised the performance of Laatsch, who hit on nineteen of twenty-nine field-goal attempts in "probably his best all-around game of the season."

As a team, Kewaskum hit a respectable 59.7 percent from the field, making 55 of 92 shots, while Port Washington converted only 60 of 112 attempts, for 53.5 percent.

Kewaskum closes its regular season at Menomonee Falls Hebringer Hotel this Sunday night. A victory would enable Kewaskum to finish in a fifth place tie with the Thiensville-Mequon Twins (4-8). Tip-off at the former Menomonee Falls North High School is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. Coverage of that contest and some final statistics for the season will appear in next Friday's sports section.
