Leighton Peterson Wins Creativity Award

High School O/M Team Headed for World Finals

Two Kewaskum O/M Teams displayed their talents at the state O/M meet which took place at UW-Stevens Point on April 4, 1987.

The Middle School Team coached by Mr. Ron Beimborn had the problem "Chain Reaction."

The problem is to use standard mouse traps (approximately 2" x 4") to cause a chain reaction. The first mousetrap will be set off, it will then cause another and another until fifty mousetraps have been released. During the chain reaction, the energy from a single mousetrap's spring will trigger other mousetraps which will then achieve specific tasks such as breaking a balloon, ringing a bell, etc. The team will also estimate the competition time needed from setting off the mouse trap until the last task, the ringing of a bell, takes place. Unfortunately, Peter's Law is in effect - "The unexpected always happens." The players ran into some difficulty with their problem, but as super kids that they are, they gave it their best shot. Congratulations to coach Mr. Ron Beimborn, Ira Sison, James Dionne, Jenny Beimborn, Michael Kocher and Tish

Stradman for a job well done.

The Kewaskum High School O/M Team coached by Mrs. M.A. Peterson took a first place trophy back to Kewaskum and Leighton Peterson exercised a fountain of creativity to be a distinguished winner of the Ranatra Fusca Award. This award is presented to teams or individuals who exhibit exceptional creativity. It has become a very special award. Ranatra Fusca is a term for a classification of water striders. It is based upon a solution done by one of Dr. Micklus' students at Glassboro State College. The students were to design a flotation device which would take them across a small pond. They could not use motors and cost was kept below $10.00. The water strider solution was one of the solutions presented. However the design did not solve the problem. Although the student's solution did not work, it was exceptionally creative. Thus the Ranatra Fusca award for exceptional creativity. Success, however it is measured, is not a criterion for winning the award. It was also developed in the hopes that it

High School Robbed

By GERRY MUELLER

The Kewaskum High School was the target of a theft sometime Wednesday evening.

Kewaskum Police Chief Donald Hlavaty said evidence indicates the school was not broken into. It appears the person or persons involved sneaked back into the school while it was still open and hid until the janitorial staff left the building.

The intruders then kicked the grates out of doors and entered three different rooms in the building. Four balance beam scales were removed from the first room, nothing from the second, and a stereo recorder taken from the third room.

The individual or individuals then left the school. Hlavaty said there was no other damage to the building.

The Kewaskum Police Department is continuing its investigation of the incident.

Campbellsport Man Drowns In Kettle Moraine Lake

William C. Hodgeman, 39, of 1990 Highway F, Campbellsport, drowned in Kettle Moraine Lake about 3 p.m. Saturday. Hodgeman and his 13-year-old son, Bryce, were on the lake testing an outboard motor on their 17-foot canoe. Hodgeman had trouble starting the motor and stood up to pull the motor's cord, when he lost his balance and fell into the lake.

Bryce tried to reach his father with an oar and threw two flotation devices which failed to reach Hodgeman who was not wearing a life preserver.

After Hodgeman slipped under the surface, Bryce paddled to shore and contacted the sheriff's department from a nearby home.

The sheriff's department dive team began their search from a boat owned and operated by Donald Klein of 1016 Highway F, Campbellsport. The Department of Natural Resources also joined in the search which continued until dusk Saturday.

Ray Sulger of Kettle Moraine Lake also provided equipment to the rescue team.

Strong winds hampered search efforts Sunday as rescuers had difficulty anchoring their boats. Divers were in the water for four hours Sunday and also on Saturday afternoon, but the large amount of weed beds in the lake decreased visibility and hampered dragging efforts.

The Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Department and the Department of Natural Resources continued their search of the lake on Monday. The body was recovered on Tuesday at 5:30 p.m.

Semi-Transparent or Solid Color Stains

Which stain do you choose for your home? Here's some advice. Semi-transparent stains let the grain of wood show through so they work best on wood with a natural beauty that you don't want to hide. Solid color stain is good for low-grade wood, weather-stained wood and on houses built with a couple of different types of wood. Both stains are durable and come in a variety of colors. If you still can't decide, start with a coat of semi-transparent stain. If you don't like how it looks, a solid color stain will cover it nicely.

Village Receives Seven Bids on Sidewalk Project

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Village of Kewaskum received seven bids on its Capital Improvements Sidewalk Extension Program. The quotes ran from a low of $240,416 to a high of $299,296.

Village Administrator Dan Schmidt told the board Monday night, he was very pleased with the figures noting that even the high bid was well below the anticipated cost for the project.

The contract was awarded to low bidder Quality Concrete, Exc., of Manawa, whose combined bid for Projects One and Two, totalled $240,416.57. Quality's bid was followed by Ptashinski Construction, Inc., Beaver Dam, at $259,100.09, Lifetime Construction, Sussex, $261,364.68, USA Builders, Menomonee Falls, $277,596.67, A.R. Meliche, Grafton, $285,622.48, Barton Construction, West Bend, $299,295.88. Schultz Construction of Edgerton, only submitted a bid on Project #1, at a cost of $130,313.12, which was approximately $10,000 higher than Quality's bid.

Schmidt informed the trustees that the public hearing on the sidewalk program has been scheduled for Wednesday, April 15, at 7:00 p.m., in the Municipal Building Community Room.

In other action, the board opened six bids for the disposal of the village's retired 1985 squad car. The car went to Duane Fenrick of Campbellsport, for his high bid of $3,000. The five other bids were, Walter Theusch of Allenton, $2,400, William Cheek, Wauwatosa, $2,357.57, Woodside Motors of Woodside, New York, $2,101, Beltline Motors, Wausau $2,057, and Dennis Anderson, Kewaskum, $1,400. The number of bids received on the car was double that received when the village sold its squad last year.

Construction of the new ball diamond and resurfacing work of the existing diamonds at the Kiwanis Park was awarded to low bidder Rademann Stone Company of Fond du Lac, at a cost of $13,210. Mueller Excavating, Campbellsport, submitted a bid of $13,990, and ASC, Inc., Milwaukee, a bid of $23,234.25. Work is scheduled to begin as soon as possible.

The board also approved a contract with Surface Maintenance Systems, Inc. to do one spring sweeping of the village's streets at a cost of $760. The work which is on a trial basis, is scheduled to be done within the next two weeks.

In previous discussions, the board talked about the need to either replace the village's own aging sweeper or contract for the service. The trustees are looking into which would be more feasible costwise for the village, buying a new sweeper at a sizable investment, or contracting twice a year for the service.

Schmidt advised the board that the village had received a check in the amount of $3,945.98, as its franchise fee from Riverbend Cablevision of West Bend.

The board approved Schmidt's request to apply for three part-time summer employes through the Washington - Ozaukee - Waukesha Youth Employment Program. Two positions would be in the Public Works Department, and one in the Library.

Trustee Richard Schmidt informed the board that the village has issued 705 new library cards to date. He noted there will be a meeting of the Countywide Library Committee this week. One of the topics of discussion will be the usage of the service during the first quarter.

Trustee Mary Krueger told the board that the West Bend Incineration Committee meeting had been moved back to April 23rd.

Schmidt informed the trustees that a public hearing has been scheduled for April 20th, on the application of Wilmer Hilgendorf, Germantown, for a liquor license for the former Brigadoon Restaurant.

The board then adjourned to closed session.

Legionnaires To Meet Apr. 13

John Markus Receives Two Nominations

John Markus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Markus of rural Kewaskum, a senior at KHS, has recently received two prestigious nominations.

First, John has been nominated as a Wisconsin delegate to the 1987 West Virginia National Youth Science Camp which will be held from June 29 - July 20, 1987. The participant in this program will be the two most outstanding science students from each state.

The National Youth Science Camp originated in 1963 as part of West Virginia's centennial celebration. Designed specifically to honor academic achievement in a unique manner, the NYSC provides the opportunity for two promising science-oriented students from each state to be closely involved in a camp atmosphere, free from the distractions of the outside world, where there is ample opportunity to exchange ideas with each other and with today's leaders from the scientific community. John will be notified sometime in April if he has been selected as one of Wisconsin's two delegates to the NYSC.

The second nomination John has received is to the Wisconsin All-State Academic Scholars Program and Robert F. Byrd Honors Scholarships. The All-State Academic Scholars Program recognizes all nominees from Wisconsin's public and private high schools and provides Robert F. Byrd Honors Scholarships of $1500 to 90 of them during May, 1987, ten from each of Wisconsin's nine Congressional Districts. The 90 senior students from across the state will be selected from among the "best and brightest" graduating students in the public and private high schools. Criteria for selecting the 90 recipients will include grade point average and SAT or ACT scores.

Kewaskum High School is proud of John and wishes him the best in the selection of nominee hopefuls.

I would like to extend a thank you to the members of the group, Concerned Parents for Education. Their support, time and efforts throughout this campaign were needed and greatly appreciated.

To the people who let us use their lawns for our signs, I say: They looked great and thank you!!!

I feel I have gained some new friendships and have won the respect of many others that I have met through this campaign. This is what is more important to me, whether I win or lose the election.

And last of all... THANK YOU to the people of this district who will have voted for me. It shows there is continued support for a positive interest in our schools, the issues and the conditions.

Sincerely,
Jean E. Goeden

SECURE YOUR RETIREMENT

Despite the confusion over the effects of the Federal Income Tax Reform, you can still secure your retirement with an IRA at West Bend Savings and still enjoy tax advantages.

If you were a wage earner in 1986, you may open or add to your 1986 IRA until April 15, 1987 and take advantage of a tax deduction of up to $2,000.

There are changes in the law concerning 1987 IRA's; however, IRA deductions will still be available to many taxpayers. There is a good chance you may be one of these taxpayers since a large number of people are not affected by the new law or are only partially affected. To determine if you are still eligible for a tax deduction on your IRA contribution, consult your individual tax advisor. After all, IRA's are still a good investment for retirement planning.

For those not eligible to deduct 1987 IRA contributions, it can still be advantageous to contribute to a 1987 IRA. Taxes on any interest earned by your IRA will still be deferred until withdrawal. The tax-deferred status of any interest earned by your IRA provides a significant advantage over an investment whose interest is taxed every year.

Visit the nearest West Bend Savings office to open or add to your 1986 or 1987 IRA today.

If home equity loans are confusing to you, we can explain them in a nutshell.

There's more than one way to borrow money against your house.

Simply put, you can establish an equity loan in a lump sum amount if you have a one-time need for cash, or you can refinance your existing mortgage often resulting in a lower interest rate.

Whichever you choose, you can deduct the interest on your taxes.

When you free up cash with a home equity loan, you can purchase a boat, car or finance an education and still deduct the interest on your taxes for that purchase within the limit allowed by the new tax law.

But knowing which is the right option to exercise is where Valley can help you.

Home equity interest rates are often lower than other loan rates.

Let Valley Bank take the time to walk you through your options. It can save you money with a lower interest rate, and interest that's still tax deductible.

So if you're looking to borrow money, talk to your Valley Banker today.

We'll help you crack the nut about which home equity loan is right for you.

Announce CF Bike-A-Thon Chairperson

GET IN GEAR for the Wisconsin Cystic Fibrosis (CF) Foundation's annual spring Bike-A-Thon program! "The CF Foundation is the originator of Bike-A-Thons in our state. Each year over 225 Wisconsin communities organize Bike-A-Thons which raise in excess of $220,000 to fight cystic fibrosis," said Sue Bleckwenn, associate executive director of the Wisconsin CF Foundation. "Your community is an important part of that effort." Ms. Bleckwenn announced the appointment of the following chairperson: Steve Knickel, Campbellsport Jaycees, Campbellsport.

The principal goal of research is to find a cure of cystic fibrosis, the number one genetic killer of children and young adults in the United States. An abnormal amount of thick, sticky mucus caused by cystic fibrosis clogs the lungs and pancreas, interfering with breathing and digestion. The combination of repeated respiratory infections and the presence of this thick mucus leads to death due to lung complications. Only half of the victims of this disease will live past the age of twenty one. One in twenty Americans are symptomless carriers of the gene which causes CF.

Funds raised in the Bike-A-Thon program help support two Wisconsin cystic fibrosis care centers located at the University of Wisconsin - Madison Hospital and Children's Hospital of Wisconsin in Milwaukee. These CF Centers specialize in diagnosis, medical care for CF individuals and research.

"Cystic Fibrosis research has taken a very positive step in the past two years - and now, more than ever, money is vitally needed to fund available research grants. The proceeds from the Bike-A-Thon in your community will help fund important research and support patient care," said Bleckwenn. "Finding new treatments or a cure could give the thousands of individuals with cystic fibrosis the chance for longer and more productive lives. Your help is vitally needed through both donations and active participation. Together with the hundreds of volunteers working on similar fund-raising events throughout Wisconsin, we can make a strong impact on the fight to conquer cystic fibrosis. Please read this newspaper for more information about our Bike-A-Thon. With your community support, a child's tomorrow is just a breath away."

Announce Safety Belt Jingle Contest Winners

MADISON, (March 31, 1987)The winners of the first Wisconsin Safety Belt Coalition Jingle Contest were announced at the State Driver and Traffic Safety Education Conference on Friday. The Conference, which was sponsored by the Department of Public Instruction, was held in Stevens Point March 27th and 28th.

"With over 2,000 entries submitted from 75 schools, the judges had quite a challenge," said Alice O'Connor, Executive Director of the WSBC. "The judgements were so close, in fact, that there was a tie for third place so we have four winners!"

The first place winner of the contest was Blane Huppert, a senior at River Falls Senior High School in River Falls. His jingle was:

He soars through the air
With the greatest of ease
He's the unbuckled man
Into windshields and trees
Buckle Up.

The second place winner was Paul Jo Crary, a tenth grade student at Royall High School in Elroy, with the following jingle:
The car had rolled over twice
Boy those seat belts looked nice
Tucked away behind the seat
As is Jane, beneath our feet.
Buckle Up.

Paula's classmate, Dean J. Geier, also in grade ten at Royall High School was one of the two third place winners with this jingle:

This is true. It's no jive.
Buckle Up! You might survive.
Buckle Up! It's no trouble.
Your chances of living just might double.
Buckle Up!
Tying for third place was Merrill Beyer, a tenth grader at Merrill Senior High School in Merrill. Her jingle was:

I was Mommy's little baby
And Daddy's buttercup
But now I'm heaven's angel

Because I didn't buckle up.
The winning jingles will be used in the Wisconsin Safety Belt Coalition's on-going educational campaign.

The winning students will be awarded their cash prizes at the Governor's Highway Safety Conference in Madison June 25th.

The Wisconsin Safety Belt Coalition has fought for the last three years to decrease the number of needless deaths on Wisconsin highways that result from accidents where people were not wearing safety belts. There are currently over 20,000 individual members and over 200 organizational members.

The musicale has been put together by Cedar Lake Home Campus staff members.

Donation passes are $4.00 for Adults, $3.00 for those age 13-17; and $2.00 for those 12 and under, and will soon be available at the Cedar Lake Home Campus.

Panzer Supports Bill to Limit Personal Liability

Officers and directors of non-profit corporations will have their personal liability limited under a new bill co-authored by Representative Mary Panzer (R-West Bend).

Panzer stated that recently, both big and small corporations have had problems finding liability insurance at reasonable rates or in some cases, finding any insurance provider at all.

"It has become a growing problem across the state and right here in our own community," Panzer said. "Many local citizens are hesitant to serve as officers or are resigning from boards of directors because of the question of their liability."

Senate Bill 44, Panzer explained would grant immunity, with certain exceptions, to directors and officers of non-profit, non-stock corporations from personal liability for their actions because of their position with the corporation. The immunity would not apply in cases where the director or officer breached a duty to the corporation which involved generally self-dealing, intentional misconduct or knowing violation of criminal law.

Panzer said the bill also addresses the question of indemnification.

"Previous law required the corporation to compensate for the expenses incurred only if the officer or director was successful in defending against a legal action."

"This bill would require the corporation to compensate for expenses, including legal fees, even if they are not successful in the legal action taken," Panzer said.

According to Panzer, Senate Bill 44 received a public hearing in the Senate Committee on Labor, Business, Veterans Affairs and Insurance last week. The committee did not vote on the bill, but public support was strong at the hearing.

Dr. Saad to Teach Workshop On Identifying Mushrooms at UWWC

"Mushroom hunting is a dangerous sport — like playing Russian roulette," says Dr. Sami Saad, professor of biological sciences here at the UW Center — Washington County.

Saad, president of the Wisconsin Mycological (fungi) Society knows what he is talking about. For the past 15 years he has been conducting workshops and classes aimed at "teaching the amateur mushroom hunter how to identify edible from poisonous mushrooms."

This spring his annual education effort began with a Mar. 21 session for the Fond du Lac County Audubon Society. On April 15, he will teach a two-hour course here at UWWC from 7 to 9 p.m. The fee is $5.

Would-be mushroom hunters have a lot to learn. Saad said there are 2,000 varieties of mushrooms in the Great Lakes area — "most of them edible, a few that are poisonous and some inedible — tough and leathery."

Every year Saad is called upon by authorities or individuals to help out in poisoning cases. Often the case involves a small child who has eaten one of the mushroom specimens that grow on lawns. "The mothers call the hospitals," Saad said, "and the hospitals call me."

Knowing where the mushroom was growing provides a clue to what the child ate. Parents can help by keeping a specimen of what was eaten.

If a child becomes sick after eating a mushroom, Saad said, he or she should be made to vomit, and a physician should be consulted. "In severe cases, anti-toxins may have to be administered to neutralize the poison," he said.

Different mushrooms produce different toxins and different symptoms, Saad said.

The "death cap" or "destroying angel" is the most dangerous mushroom and can affect the kidneys and liver with fatal results, he said.

Some mushrooms, such as the hallucinogenic ones from Mexico and Latin America, affect the central nervous system.

Some toxins attack the autonomous nervous system. The "inky cap," for example, should not be consumed with alcohol by anyone with a heart problem, Saad said. Along with an altered heartbeat, symptoms include a rash, red face and swollen arms.

The most common type of mushroom poisoning affects the gastrointestinal tract, causing discomfort and diarrhea. This is caused by many varieties, Saad said, but usually is "not very serious."

The risks do not discourage people like Saad from harvesting the wild fungi in Wisconsin woods. Among his favorites are the morels, the sulfur shelf, hen of the wood, the oyster mushroom, puffballs and the velvet stem.

Saad said his favorite recipe is for puffballs. He said, "You slice them like eggplant, dip them in battered eggs, sprinkle with Italian breadcrumbs, saute in butter, add garlic, squeeze lemon on them and eat for breakfast, lunch or dinner."

For further information on the April 15 course at UWWC, call Jack Anderson at 338-5233. About a dozen courses on a variety of topics are being offered this spring by UWWC's continuing education program.

Baton Awards Given to Indian Princess Twirlettes

Parents, relatives, and friends filled the Kewaskum Middle School gym on Mar. 21st for the 7th Annual Baton Awards given to the Indian Princess Twirlettes.

The crowd was entertained by a variety of performances from each of five age groups, ranging from kindergarten to high school seniors. There were also special routines done by selected groups to please the viewers. Awards for attendance in last summer's parades were given after each of the first five performances.

Indian Princess Twirlettes was started in 1979 by Julie Dettman Wenzlaff and offered to students at Beechwood and Farmington Elementary Schools. The corp then progressed to include the Kewaskum and Wayne Schools. Through much time and dedication the group, holding classes at each of the Kewaskum District's schools, has grown from 26 in 1979 to 133 girls this year. The corp, this year, will see its first graduation of senior girls: Cindy Schuster - 8 year member, Connie McChain - 8 years and Annette Klahn - 7 years.

Over the years, Julie has been aided by her mother, Louella Dettman, and friends Terri Zimdars and Jill Etta. Instructors Julie and Jill, (Wayne School), are also accompanied by a staff of student instructors: Cindy Schuster, Jodi Zimdars, Joan Petermann, Paula Wilson, Traci Hoerig, Dawn Dieringer, Pamela Gauger and Patti Aupperle. Awards were also presented to these girls for their fine jobs.

To make their performances more professional, each group in the Indian Princess Twirlettes performs in its own uniform. Julie presented awards to the uniform committee consisting of: Terri Zimdars (Manager), Edith Frank, Sue Kohlwey, Patti Neumann, and Lou Dettman. This committee has been responsible for making almost 200 uniforms.

Last awards presented by Julie were awards of gratitude for loyal service. They were presented to Lou Dettmann and Terri Zimdars.

Carol Ayer Shares Vegetarian Life Style During Four-Week Course

Even the dogs share in the vegetarian life style in the Carol and Pete Ayer home.

Carol Ayer's recipe for vegetarian dog biscuits may not make it into her four-week course "Introduction to the Vegetarian Life Style," which runs from 7 to 8:30 p.m., Tuesdays, starting April 14. But participants in the continuing education course at the UW Center - Washington County will end up with a large collection of vegetarian recipes, a long list of new tastes and new insights on a variety of related topics.

Being a vegetarian involves more than "leaving meat off the table," Ayer said. "It's a whole approach to living."

The Ayer family is in its eleventh year of vegetarian living, following the "lacto-ovo" plan, which includes both milk and eggs in the diet. Carol said she finds the macrobiotic approach, which relies heavily on the use of brown rice, "so severe that I don't espouse it."

Her serious interest in vegetarianism began when the oldest of the Ayers' three sons went away to school. He and other students shared in maintenance tasks at the school including the slaughtering of animals. The experience triggered ethical questions that eventually led the Ayers to cut out all red meat from their meals.

How has the change of diet affected the family? "We're so much healthier I can't believe it," Ayer said. "We're not getting all the poisons that are fed into animals to make them grow faster."

Ayer advocates using proper nutrition to prevent heart attacks, strokes and other problems. Eliminating fats, salt and sugar and the including of proper exercise are key elements of prevention, she said.

She admits that vegetarian cooking "takes lots of planning ahead" to make sure meals are attractive and to allow enough shopping and preparation time. "But once you're organized, it's not bad," she said.

Shopping for vegetarian meals does not require trips to far-off natural food stores, and it does not require paying "exorbitant prices," Ayer said. Most beans, grains and herbal teas are available at regular grocery stores. So are a variety of noodles including those made of spinach.

She urges people to read the labels on cans, boxes and bottles they buy in a grocery store. "There's so much hidden in a can of soup," she said, "but not too many delve into what they eat and read the labels."

One serving of mushroom soup in a popular brand, she pointed out, can contain a person's entire daily need for sodium.

A flavor enhancer like monosodium glutamate, once commonly used in baby foods, can be dangerous, Ayer said. The enhancer is used often in Chinese foods and can cause the throat to close in a way that may mimic the symptoms of a heart attack — a phenomena referred to as "the Chinese-Restaurant syndrome."

Another peril lurking on food shelves, she said, is preservatives used "to prolong shelf life — the name of the game in the food business." And she encourages label readers to find out how much sugar is in what we eat. "Jello and Kool Aid and all those horrible things are 90 per cent sugar," she said.

Reading bread labels is important, too, according to Ayer. Unless the label says "whole wheat bread" or "100 percent wheat bread," you may have a product made of white flour and colored by molasses. She encourages people to bake their own bread. "It takes time, but it's worth it," she said.

"The finished product is so much better, and you're in control of what you're feeding your family."

Classes deal with a lot more than food. Among the related subjects up for discussion are things like exercise, the environment, recycling and face makeup.

On makeup, for example, Ayer said that manufacturers do not always list all of the ingredients used, which can cause problems for persons with allergies. She said she believes that political and business interests govern much of what happens in this field. "There is very little control that is in our (the consumers') favor," she said.

The vegetarian life style may require family and friends to make some adjustments in behavior and attitudes. Ayer said the most common reaction she gets from people is, "Oh, I could never do that." Here are some of the objections she hears and her answers:

—"Vegetarian dishes aren't tasty." Ayer: "Cook books are good now. You don't have to eat soy-beans anymore."

—"Eating 'out is difficult." Ayer: "You do have to pick and choose (from menus). Some places have wonderful steamed vegetable plates."

—"How do you entertain company?" Ayer: "You try to cook so that people just don't know the meat isn't there."

"What do you do at traditional times like Thanksgiving?" Ayer: "You make your own traditions."

—"What happens to other members of the family?" Ayer: "All of our boys know nutrition — what's good for them. They know when they're eating junk."

Ayer's students run in age from about 19 to 70 with most people in their mid-20s to mid-40s. "I've had quite a few men," she said, "and a lot of mothers concerned about young children and getting them off the bad diets some are on."

Class sessions are "give-and-take" discussions rather than lectures, she said. "You do not just say something, you have to defend it. I learn as much from the students. They have wonderful questions."

Every session provides new tastes of vegetarian dishes that Ayer brings from her kitchen. At the final session, she brings the main dish for a meal and students bring salads and desserts. When she taught in March at the annual Audubon Saturday at UWWC, she brought along 22 dishes that she had prepared in her kitchen the day before.

In college, she earned a degree in music with a major in the pipe organ. "I would have loved to be a home economist," she said, "but I wouldn't have missed music for anything."

She admits she would enjoy going back to school and getting a degree in nutrition. "If I have a choice of something to do," she said, "I spend time in the kitchen."

Is there a vegetarian cookbook in her future?

"I might do one some day," she said, adding with a laugh: "There are a lot of good ones. I'm not sure the world needs another one."

Ayer Presents Paper at Florida Teaching Seminar

"Too many vocal music teachers don't teach musical skills; they teach tunes," Pete F. Ayer of West Bend said.

Ayer, an associate professor of music at the UW Center - Washington County, calls that "an indictment" of much current singing instruction. He presented his views at Orlando, FL on an alternate approach to a national convention on teaching.

The 11th annual National Seminar on Successful College Teaching invited Ayer to present his paper on "Interdisciplinary Concepts in Teaching Music."

Ayer demonstrated how he has used his approach for the past 75-member Moraine Chorus. Tools from other disciplines include such concepts as absolute numbers from mathematics, vibrations from physics, rules of grammar from English and the color spectrum from art.

Ayer's concerns about a lack of musical skills centers in the ability of vocal students to read music. His suspicions about what was happening were verified by an experiment he conducted with his high school music students before coming to UWVC.

Despite the students' insistence that they could read music, he was sure they were learning it "by rote - memorizing as it was played or sung to them. He took a piece they had sung the year before, duplicated the notes but left off the words, and introduced it as a new piece of music.

"They couldn't sing it," he said. "They didn't know what the tune was. They didn't have any words. I am disturbed that we haven't taught kids to read music at all."

In contrast to music, Ayer said, students in most other disciplines use the English language as a way to master their subjects. If other teachers were forced to teach by rote, as many music teachers do, "teachers would have to read the entire textbook aloud to students," he said.

Why is music different? Emphasis on performing has undercut the learning process, Ayer believes. From the first grade up, he said, students have to "stand up and sing before the PTA or put on a good spring concert."

In other disciplines students are expected to study their craft before they perform, he said. "We don't expect students to write the great American novel in English classes or create life in biology courses or discover a new compound in chemistry or use mathematics in geometry to construct a new skyscraper while they are still in school. But in music they have to stand up and perform their craft before they are ready to do it."

The teaching seminar was sponsored by the University of Florida and ran from March 8 to 11.

Ayer's paper also will be published in "Teaching Forum," a semi-annual publication on issues in undergraduate teaching and education. It is published by the Undergraduate Teaching Improvement Council of the UW System.

DNR Updates Wisconsin's Fish Consumption Advisory

MADISON, WI — Wisconsin officials updated fish consumption advisories that affect about 90 inland lakes, several rivers and the Great Lakes.

The advice issued by state health and natural resources authorities is similar to precautions announced by neighboring states in the Great Lakes region that have identified similar contaminant problems in some sport fish.

Dr. John Olson, a Division of Health toxicologist, said the advice is directed at people who eat sport fish, especially children under 15, women of child-bearing age and women who are pregnant or breast-feeding their infants.

Fish that are new to the list include walleyes and northern pike over 22 inches in the Kickapoo River near Steuben, Crawford County; lake trout over 32 inches, Big Green Lake, Green Lake County; walleyes over 22 inches, Lake Monona, Dane County; and channel catfish over 23 inches in the Mississippi River from below the dam at Trempealeau to the dam at Genoa.

Also new to the list are walleyes over 18 inches, Tainter Lake, Dunn County; certain sizes of channel catfish, northern pike, smallmouth bass, walleye and black crappie, Lake Arbutus, Jackson County; walleye over 18 inches, Bullhead Lake, Manitowoc County; walleye over 10 inches, Devils Lake, Devils Lake State Park, Sauk County; walleye over 22 inches, Pike Lake, Pike Lake State Park, Washington County; largemouth bass over 18 inches, Columbia Lake, Waupaca County; and lake trout over 30 inches, Lake Superior.

Representative fish samples from various waters are tested for PCBs, mercury, and the pesticides DDT, chlordane, dioxin, toxaphene and dieldrin. Fish that do not meet U.S. Food and Drug Administration or Wisconsin Division of Health standards are placed on the advisory.

Dr. Olson noted that the advisory features two different sets of health advice — one for fish contaminated with PCBs or pesticides and another for fish that contain mercury.

"PCBs from fish that you eat stay stored in body fat, usually for years after exposure," he said. "On the other hand, adult men and women who aren't pregnant eliminate about half of their mercury burden in about two months. The advisory reflects the different ways these contaminants act within the body."

The mercury advisory is designed to limit a person's mercury intake to 1.5 milligrams, which provides a 10-fold safety margin. Symptoms of mercury-induced health problems usually do not occur until mercury totals 15 milligrams in the body, Olson said.

Research shows that human fetuses are four times more sensitive to mercury than average adults. Pregnant women are two times more sensitive to mercury than other adults because mercury takes longer to leave their bodies, Olson explained. The advisory takes these differences into account. The mercury can come from natural or man-made sources.

"Generally, people who eat sport fish infrequently or only over a short period of time are at less risk than people who regularly eat mercury-contaminated fish, such as lakeside property owners who fish a lot," he said.

James Addis, Department of Natural Resources fisheries director, emphasized that "the advisory should not dampen people's enthusiasm for fishing, especially the vacationer or visitor who fishes only a couple of weeks a summer."

"Wisconsin has been and will continue to be a great state for fishing," Addis said. "There are millions of fish and thousands of lakes that are not affected. And even if a lake is on the list there usually are plenty of fish that are not covered by the advisory."

Addis noted that the advisory was developed "to help people make conscious choices about eating the fish they catch. We want people to have the best information available before they go fishing."

Ninety waters in 32 counties are featured in this year's mercury advisory, compared with 63 lakes or river stretches in 23 counties last year. The DNR tested fish in 350 waters statewide over the last several years, said Lee Liebenstein, DNR toxic substances specialist.

He added that only a small fraction of certain sizes and species of sport fish in waters listed in the new advisory pose health concerns.

"Trophy-sized old predator fish, such as walleyes, northern pike, muskellunge, largemouth bass and lake trout show the highest contaminant levels," he said. "Fish this size usually make up a small percentage of the sport fish in a given lake, and represent an even lower percentage of fish that anglers catch and keep."

Large carp and catfish, which live near lake and river bottoms and are constantly exposed to sediment contaminants, also contain higher contaminant levels in some waters. Panfish, such as perch, bluegills and crappies, are generally low in contaminants, Liebenstein said.

The PCB portion of the new advisory fine-tunes previous advisories, especially for Lake Michigan, its tributaries and Green Bay. Large lake trout, chinook salmon, brown trout, carp and catfish contain the highest PCB levels in Lake Michigan.

"We used results from 1,000 new samples of fish collected and tested over the last year-and-a-half to more carefully define sizes and species of fish listed on the advisory," Liebenstein said. Most of the fish were donated by anglers and temporarily stored by bait and tackle shops and marinas in a cooperative sampling effort that DNR sponsored along the Lake Michigan shoreline last year.

Liebenstein also noted that walleyes in the Lower Fox River, which empties into Green Bay, are markedly higher in PCBs than walleyes of comparable size in the Bay. This is also true of most sport fish in the Sheboygan River, another place where contaminated sediments exist.

"Fish that live most of their lives in Lake Michigan tributaries generally show higher PCB levels than their counterparts out in the lake," he said. "Pollutants bound within sediments are often a frequent source of contamination."

The Lake Michigan and Superior advisories apply throughout each lake as provided under the Toxic Substances Control Agreement signed last year by governors of eight Great Lakes states. Anglers fishing anywhere in either lake will be able to rely on identical health advice.

Liebenstein noted that 32-inch lake trout from Big Green Lake were added to this year's advisory because they contain chlordane levels higher than the U.S. Food and Drug Administration standard.

"However, these fish make up less than 10 percent of the lake trout that anglers catch from Big Green Lake," he said. Chlordane was a widely-applied corn pesticide that has been banned for most uses.

Channel catfish over 23 inches from the Mississippi River between the dam at Trempealeau to the dam at Genoa (Pools 7 and 8) were also added to the new advisory due to PCB contamination.

In the past, advisories were issued annually but under a new arrangement they will be issued twice a year, about April 1 and October 1. Under the old practice, environmental groups and sport fish consumers urged that data and advice be issued more frequently. Others criticized the announcements and their potential impact on tourism.

After extensive discussions, health and natural resources officials agreed to update the consumption advisory twice year beginning this year, Liebenstein said.

The new advisory updates an April, 1985 advisory for sport fish contaminated with PCBs and pesticides and a July, 1986 advisory for fish contaminated with mercury.

People who wish to receive copies of the advisory may write or call their nearest DNR office.

DNR to Release 11 Barn Owls in Sheboygan County

A native species which is rarely seen in Wisconsin may become more common thanks to a cooperative effort between the Department of Natural Resources and other concerned citizens and organizations.

Twenty-one Barn Owls will be released at eight sites in Racine, Kenosha, Ozaukee and Sheboygan Counties over the next three weeks, according to Dale E. Katsma and Thomas Becker, DNR Wildlife Managers for the Southeast District.

"Once ranging over the southern one-third of the state, fewer than three nesting pair of Barn Owls have been reported in the last three years," said Katsma.

Eight adults and 13 juveniles were transferred from the Milwaukee County Zoo to cooperators who will spend several weeks acclimating the birds to the wild. The process is called hacking; the birds are taught to catch food and be less dependent on artificial feeding. Four birds will be released in both Racine and Kenosha Counties, two birds will be released in Ozaukee and 11 in Sheboygan.

"We hope the birds will return to the release sites to breed and re-establish themselves," said Becker.

Rock River Hall of Fame Candidates to Be Chosen at Meeting

When Oldtimer's Association members of the Rock River Baseball League gather for their annual meeting at Dodge Center, Horicon, on Saturday, April 11, they'll be faced with the same age-old problem that's been bothering athletes and fans for years.

It's "how do you choose worthy candidates for a Hall of Fame?"

Starting at 1:30 p.m., members present will nominate former players, umpires and team officials, then select six for the 1987 ballot who'll be added to the six carryovers unsuccessful in last year's mail vote.

Other business will be finalizing plans for the Oldtimers' 8th Hall of Fame Dinner scheduled for Mayville's Golf Club on Saturday, Oct. 10, selecting a site for the Oct. 8, 1988 banquet and election of officers for '87.

A new home under construction in Roseland Heights in the village was extensively damaged in an explosion and fire Monday morning. The blast in the basement of the new ranch type home shook the area and brought out the Kewaskum fire department to extinguish the resulting blaze. Owner of the home which was almost completed but unoccupied, is a Kewaskum High School teacher, Earl Buswell. It is located at 1220 Meadow Lane on the west side of the village. The explosion and fire occurred when an excavating contractor's backhoe hooked a temporary underground natural gas service line and tore it loose from the meter in the basement. The gas then ignited and the ensuing fire, believed to have been caused by the furnace, damaged the basement, floor and walls of the building.

Kewaskum's fourth annual Dairy Day event held Saturday at the high school was another outstanding success with crowds estimated at over 2,000 persons attending the afternoon and evening programs. The affairs was sponsored by the Kewaskum Business Association. Joan Hoepner was crowned Dairy Queen. Joan received the most pennies in the penny balloting used to determine the winner. Other princesses in the contest were Linda Mueller, Bernadine Fellenz, Claudia Oppermann, Jean Schuppel, Carol Yogerst, Carol Herriges, and Caroline Vollmer.

All three incumbent trustees of the Village of Kewaskum were re-elected at Tuesday's spring election. As was expected a light vote was cast, a total of only 210 ballots being marked. Incumbents re-elected are Harold Degner, John Geidel and Arvin Merwin. Robert Kroncke, who was unopposed for the office of justice of the peace was re-elected.

Miss Mariel Seefeldt, daughter of Alfred Seefeldt, Route 1, Kewaskum, has been selected to represent KHS at Badger Girls State in Madison, June 9 - 16.

Russell Breit, son of Arthur Breit, Route 3, West Bend, and Allen Koepke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Koepke, Route 2, Kewaskum, have been chosen to represent KHS at Badger Boys State which will be held at Ripon College from June 16 - 23.

Tom Larsen, Kewaskum Chevrolets center, has been named to the Land o' Lakes league all-star basketball "first team," it was announced this week. Tom, who played his prep ball in northern Wisconsin, also was third highest in individual scoring in the loop. An instructor in the Kewaskum public school, he has been a valuable addition to the Chev team in recent seasons. Don Meisenheimer, Kewaskum forward was second in scoring honors with 250 points. He was also high in free throws with 62. Other top scorers included Larsen who was third with 239 points.

Sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Keller, 1325 Fond du Lac Ave., Kewaskum, on March 31; to Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Nigh, Route 2, Kewaskum, on April 2; and to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Kudek, Tacoma, Washington, on April 1. Mrs. Kudek is the former Joyce Kempf of Barton. Mr. Kudek of the Town of Wayne is serving with the 32nd Red Arrow Division at Fort Lewis, Washington.

On April 2, the local forensic contests were held in the Kewaskum High School auditorium. In oratory the winners were Mona Mertes, first, and Marvin Koenig, second. Other pupils who competed were Vernon Liermann, Roland Koepke and Curtis Romaine. In extemporaneous reading Audrey Koch placed first and Alice Koepsel second. The other pupils in this contest were Violet Eberle, Pearl Hron and Claudia Beisbier. In the humorous declamations Dolores Backhaus was awarded first and Margaret Muenk second. The other contestants were Lucille Theisen and Beulah Westerman. In the non-humorous declamations Annabelle Grotenhuis placed first and Dorothy Becker second. Others competing were Ruth Janssen, Ruth Schleif, Evelyn Krautkramer and Patricia Buss.

A small vote was cast in the spring election Tuesday in the village due to a lack of opposition. None of the candidates were opposed. A total of only 94 votes were cast. Results were as follows: President - A.L. Rosenheimer, Jr., Trustees - Clarence Mertes, E.F. Nolting and Edward Weddig; Clerk - Carl F. Schaefer.

An order for the removal of all slot machines in Washington County was issued Tuesday by Dist. Atty. Milton L. Meister, West Bend, and placed in the hands of Sheriff Leo Burg following the hijacking of a privately owned machine from a West Bend tavern Monday night. The sheriff and his deputies swung into action immediately after noon Tuesday, and before nightfall every slot machine in the county had been either seized or hidden by owners before officers arrived.

Prosper Reindl, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Reindl, who was employed by Simon Strachota at St. Kilian for some time, has opened an electrical appliance shop at Wayne. Roman Kuehl of St. Michaels has taken his place at the Strachota store.

One of the saddest and most pitiful incidents that could occur in a family circle happened April 8 at St. Joseph's Hospital, West Bend, when Bernhard C. Backhaus, 54, better known as Ben, who resided in the Town of Kewaskum on a farm just southwest of the village, quietly passed away in eternal slumber after an illness of 2½ weeks with lobar pneumonia.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herriges of near St. Michaels on April 1. The infant was christened Sunday and received the name Eugene. On election day April 6, a 7-pound baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tessar in this village.

Governor Thompson Receives 53rd Edition of the Easter Seal

Easter Seal Poster Child Mitch Baldwin and Adult Ambassador Fayth Kail presented Governor Thompson with the 53rd edition of the Easter Seal. Proceeds from the distribution of the seals go to support Easter Seal programs for children, teens and adults with physical disabilities. Over 400,000 Wisconsin residents will receive Easter Seals this spring.

Mitch Baldwin, 1987 Easter Seal Poster Child and Fayth Kail, 1987 Easter Seal Adult Ambassador, recently presented Governor Tommy Thompson the 53rd edition of the Easter Seal to kick off the 1987 Easter Seal Spring Campaign which runs March 1 through April 19.

Mitch is a fourth-grader from Brodhead, WI who was born with cerebral palsy. Despite the inconvenience of hospital trips for surgery to lengthen the tendons behind his left heel and knee, Mitch has remained active in boy scouts, choir, baseball and other community events.

Fayth is a life-long Madison resident who is active in a variety of organizations. She was one of the co-founders of MOBIL (Madison Organization Behind Independent Living), the first organization formed to support people with physical disabilities and their issues in the greater Madison area. She is also active in the Madison post-polio planning committee and support group and ACCESS WISCONSIN, to name but a few of her endeavors.

In 1986 the Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin, Inc. provided service to over 6000 children, teens and adults with physical disabilities through direct service and program efforts. Services provided include: physical, occupational and speech therapy; camping and recreation; pre-school education; information and referral; vocational training; equipment loan; public education; accessibility and advocacy.

Funds are raised by special events held in communities throughout Wisconsin, direct mail solicitation, a neighborhood to neighborhood campaign, and the Easter Seal Telethon. For more information in regard to programs and services, contact the Easter Seal Society of Wisconsin, 1409 Emil Street, Madison, WI 53713 or call 608-257-3411.

KHS Boys Fall Short to Plymouth

By Lisa Schneider

Last week Tuesday, March 31, the K.H.S. boys track team had their only home indoor track meet of the year against Plymouth, in which the K.H.S. boys were defeated, 45-64.

Sophomore Kris Follmann took first in the high jump with 5'7" which surpassed his previous personal best by six inches.

Junior Miles Shaw vaulted 11'6" in the pole vaulting event taking second and also equalling his personal best from last year. Shaw also took second in the 600 meter run with a time of 5:19.5.

Sophomores Marty Schulteis and Ryan Degnitz did a very fine job for the Indians. Their efforts in the low hurdles and high hurdles almost broke the school records, yet they fell short by only a few tenths of a second. In low hurdles, both boys had a time of 7.2. In the high hurdles, they both had the same time again of 7.4.

Coach Dave Drexler is pleased with the teams sprinting section. He feels it is the teams strong point.

Set Conservation Rule Hearings

MADISON, WI — Wisconsin citizens are encouraged to attend the annual conservation rules hearings to be conducted by the Department of Natural Resources this year at 7:30 p.m., Monday, April 27th, in each of Wisconsin's 72 counties.

The hearings offer the public an opportunity to discuss and vote on fishing and hunting rules changes being considered by the department. Also, advisory questions from the department and the Wisconsin Conservation Congress will be discussed and voted on. In addition, persons attending the hearings may submit proposals for consideration relating to fishing and hunting regulations and natural resources management. DNR personnel will be on hand to answer questions.

The hearings also provide a forum for the election of delegates from each county to the Wisconsin Conservation Congress. The Congress, comprised of three delegates and two alternates from each county, serves as a citizen's advisory group to the Natural Resources Board. Eligible candidates include any adult resident of the county who is not employed by the Department of Natural Resources or a member of the Natural Resources Board.

The items proposed for rule changes are summarized as follows:

1. Prohibiting angling on Park Lake (Columbia County) during drawdown.

2. Closing the season on walleye, northern pike and largemouth bass for two years following chemical rehabilitation of Ripon Millpond and Beaver Dam Lake.

3. Establishing a slot length limit on largemouth bass that would prohibit the taking of bass that are 12 to 16 inches long in Wilson Lake (Iron County).

4. Closing the sturgeon season on the Nemadji and St. Louis rivers including Allowez Bay, Little Pokegama Bay, Pokegama Bay and Kimballs Bay.

5. Establishing a refuge on the North Fork Flambeau River from the Upper Park Falls Dam downstream to Highway 182.

6. Establishing a bag limit of 3 trout, a 10-inch minimum size limit on brook trout, a 13-inch minimum size limit on brown trout, and only the use of artificial flies and lures in a section of the South Branch Oconto River.

7. Establishing a year-round open fishing season on the Pecatonica River.

8. Deleting year-round fishing on Pine Lake (St. Croix County).

9. Establishing an 18-inch minimum length limit on largemouth bass on Day Lake (Ashland County).

10. Establish fisher harvest quotas by formula.

11. Place woodchucks in the unprotected category.

12. Liberalize handgun deer hunting rules.

13. Restrict the spring running of dogs north of State Highway 29.

14. Expand wild turkey hunting opportunities.

15. Close coyote hunting north of State Highway 29 during the gun deer season.

16. Modify overwinter deer goals in 23 deer management units.
