Back row — Mitch Gebheim, Sherry Becker, Jason Boegel, Jenny Schuster, Eric Pearson, Tina Spartz, Noel Stollenwerk, Kim Kassekert, Joel Fleury.

The theme song for this year's Junior Prom, to be held April 25th from 8:00 to 11:30 p.m., is "Never Say Good-Bye" by Bon Jovi.

Chosen by a considerable margin of the junior voters, the song relates the very well to the high school teen life and lends itself nicely to a wide range of debate possibilities. After much thought and the collaboration of many fruitful minds, Rose Hall will transform into an exotic land of palm trees and grass huts.

The court members and their dates: King - Dave Harju and Queen - Ellen Kuphal, Keith Bartelt and Carrie Grahl, Noel Stollenwerk and Kim Kassekert, Jason Boegel and Jenny Schuster, Eric Pearson and Tina Spartz, Jeff Miller and Lisa Steiner, Mitch Gebheim and Sherry Becker, Mike Lubahn and Kristin Vogt, David Nigh and Jean Klahn and MC's Joel Fleury and Jeanine McElhatton, will participate with elegance and pride in the Grand March promptly at 10:00 p.m.

SGT. Friday, the band that will perform at this special occasion, will add to the mysticism and enchantment of the atmosphere.

Yes, Juniors, this is your prom! We hope you will be able to share in adding this event to the repertoire of wonderful, fun-filled memories at Kewaskum High. All students and alumni are invited to join in this memory making event.

Ticket cost will be $4.00 per person and $7.00 a couple in advance and $5.00 per person and $8.00 a couple at the door.

So ask your girl and bring your guy because you're never going to say good-bye.

'To Bag Or Not to Bag'

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

At its meeting Monday night, the Kewaskum Village Board again discussed that inevitable pending problem of grass clipping disposal. Trustee Richard Howard Laubenstein said he had heard grumblings about some of the proposals the board was considering last year. Trustee Mary Krueger said people are expecting us to make some kind of decision and I think we should before the problem is here.

Several alternatives were discussed from refusing to pick up the clippings with the regular garbage, to placing a dumpster at the Municipal Building where village residents could dump their clippings.

Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo told the board his department would go along with whatever the board decides to do. "If you want to pay my men $15 an hour on Saturday to oversee a dumpster to take people's clippings, that's fine with me," said Bilgo. He told the board, if they went ahead with the dumpster idea people would have to realize they would be required to empty their own bags into the dumpster. By the time some people get done filling those bags they weigh over 80 pounds and that could mean one of my workers injuring his back. You have to lift those bags at least three feet off the ground to empty them. We also would not accept anything except clippings because we have to haul them to our landfill. That means they have to take the bags home after they're emptied. Trustee Richard Schmidt said the fact that residents would have to lift them into their trunks might discourage them from filling the bags so full.

Bilgo said the best solution was to get people to realize that leaving the clippings is good for their lawns. "People fail to realize Mother Nature wants that on the lawn" said Bilgo. Cutting your grass two or three times a week would eliminate the need to bag clippings, he noted.

The people who are creating the problem are those who are spending a lot of money fertilizing it (the grass) to make it grow. If it cost them money to have those clippings hauled away they shouldn't complain about how much money the village is spending for garbage collection, commented Bilgo.

It was noted last year that the City of West Bend no longer picks up grass clippings and property owners who bag their clippings must haul them to a landfill or find an alternate solution to disposing of the clippings.

The board turned the Public Services Committee and Public Works Department to come up with recommendations for the board's consideration.

Village Audit Shows Sound Fund Management

By GERRY MUELLER
STATESMAN STAFF WRITER

The Kewaskum Village Board held a pleasant news Monday night as representatives of the village's auditing firm gave their report on Kewaskum's financial status for the year ending December, 1986.

Nicholas Quartaro, of the accounting firm Conley, McDonald and Sprague, told the trustees his company's audit shows, in almost every department, Kewaskum's expenditures have been less than anticipated. He stated that indicates sound management of the village's finances.

Quartaro said that both the Sewer and Water Departments, however, showed deficits. He noted that anticipated rate hikes for the two departments would improve their financial pictures and hopefully get them running in the black.

Village Administrator Dan

Schmidt indicated he has received some data concerning a proposed increase for the Sewer Department. Schmidt said a rate increase application for the Water Department was filed with the Public Service Commission in January. He said public hearings would be held before any hikes were initiated. Even after approval, Schmidt said he did not anticipate any increase would go into

Badger Boys and Girls Selections Announced at Kewaskum High School

This year some 2,000 junior boys and girls throughout Wisconsin are selected to represent their schools and community at a state gathering of Wisconsin School students. This year the KHS delegates, sponsored by both the local American Legion Post and Kiwanis organization, will be participating in the girls' forty-fourth and boys' forty-sixth annual workshop.

This year Sherry Becker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Becker, Kewaskum, Deb Felix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Felix, rural West Bend, and Ann-Marie Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Horner, Kewaskum, were the three junior students who applied and were selected from the top third of junior class girls.

Mitch Gebheim, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitch Gebheim, Kewaskum, Craig Hubbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hubbell, Kewaskum and Joel Fleury, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fleury, rural West Bend, were the three junior boys who applied and were selected from the top third of their class.

The selection of delegates is based on the students' scholastic standing, their participation in extra-curricular activities such as athletics, music, speech, journalism, clubs or other school organizations and their adaptability to the Badger State program.

Alternate girls and boys delegates selected were Pam Oelhafen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Oelhafen, Patricia Padden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Heberer, David Harju, son of Mrs. Barbara Harju and Dennis Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Johnson.

The girls will start their week of activities on June 7th at Madison while the boys begin their week of activities in Ripon, on Saturday, June 13th.

Through this Badger State program, those high school leaders of the future should develop a sense of individual obligations to their community, state and nation.

Junior Women To Have Spring Story Hour in May

Preschool children ages 3-5 may register by calling 626-4687 in the evening.

We would like to have the assistance of a few parents during the spring sessions. If you are able to assist for one morning or an evening, please indicate so at the time of registration. The class size is limited and enrollment is based on a first-come basis.

effect before the third quarter of this year.

Quartaro also noted that Kewaskum's debt margin was also very sound. "The village's debt margin is 49% of the allowable 5% of equalized value figures, leaving a borrowing margin balance of 51% which is very good."

In other business Trustee Richard Schmidt, who represents the village in the Countywide Library System, reported on its April 9th meeting. He said there was discussion on proposed budgets, grants, aids, and the possibility of cross service with Ozaukee and Waukesha Counties.

Schmidt said the village had received its first quarterly payment which amounted to $2,000, however, his Library Committee calculated it should have received only about $1,000. We may end up not getting any money or paying some back next quarter, said Schmidt.

Schmidt said he had gathered some statistics which could indicate possible reasons for the library's lower than anticipated use. "A lot of people think West Bend has a better library than Kewaskum. People haven't come to see our new library." Trustee Mary Krueger said other factors may be that many people are used to going to West Bend from the time when anyone could get a card for $5.00. Also, many area residents still do not realize that they can obtain the exact same books and services from Kewaskum as West Bend. "That's what the countywide system is all about," said Krueger.

Schmidt said a recent survey showed West Bend was issuing more cards and providing more service to area township residents than Kewaskum. For the Town of Barton, West Bend issued 101 cards, Kewaskum issued 0, for the Town of Farmington, West Bend issued 225 cards, Kewaskum issued 31, Town of Kewaskum, West Bend Library 51, Kewaskum Library 138, Town of Wayne, 69 from the West Bend Library, 77 from Kewaskum Library, Village of Kewaskum 444, none from the West Bend Library. Out of county, Kewaskum issued 228 cards, that shows people around the Campbell-sport area know we have a good library, said Schmidt.

"Kewaskum doesn't have anything to be ashamed of, said Schmidt, it has a very good library. In fact, it now has prints on display that are available to all area residents through the countywide system."

Since county funding is based on a usage calculation, Kewaskum could see a drop in county money if use of its services does not increase. Board President David Nigh noted that the system has only been in effect four months and those statistics could change. Schmidt agreed, noting that it may just be a matter of everyone checking out the libraries to see what they have.

reviewed plans for the proposed DNR canoe launch site on the Milwaukee River. Originally the DNR had indicated they would provide approximately $21,000 to fund the project (Kewaskum's portion of a fish-kill fine levied against the dairy a couple of years ago). However, since initial discussions between the village and DNR began, that amount has dwindled to approximately $7,000, $5,700 for toilet facility construction and $1,300 for some blacktop and gravel. Administrator Schmidt said that meant the village would have to pick up the remaining tab of about $7,300 for the restroom building's construction. The DNR would provide the concrete slabs for the canoe launches.

The trustees indicated they had hoped to see more DNR funding, however, anticipated use of the facilities by people who use the west side of River Hill Park for fishing, picnicing, etc., made them feel the village should consider going ahead with the project. Schmidt noted the village, in the past, has rented metro toilets for use in that area during the summer months.

Schmidt said he would work up plans and a proposal for further discussion at next month's meeting.

In other action the board approved liquor license application to Wilmer Hilgendorf for the former Brigadoon property, a bartender license for Thomas Piwoni, a building permit to Kim Peterson for a screened-in porch, and the spending of $1,890 for the 1987 fireworks display.

In closing the meeting retiring board president David Nigh thanked those who had worked with him during his twelve years on the Village Board as a trustee and later as president.

KHS Students Participate in County Youth Government Day

The Washington County American Legion sponsored their 30th County Youth Government Day on Wednesday, April 15. Kewaskum High School, one of the area schools involved, sent a delegation of thirteen students to the county courthouse to learn first-hand about county government.

The day began with Arthur Degnitz, county clerk, giving the oath of office to each elected high school student. The students then observed a traffic court in action and were given the opportunity to ask questions of Judge Becker. The county Legionnaires then conducted a tour of the court house with each county official explaining their respective departments' functions and responsibilities to all the students. Following this, each elected high school official met with his or her respective county official to observe and discuss at length the operations of county government.

A noon luncheon was served at the county Legion rooms. A brief program which included an introduction of Washington County Legion Representatives and area foreign exchange students was given.

The entire program was well received by students, who came away with an enlightened perspective of county government.

UW Finds New Uses for Milk

You may insulate your walls with milk by-products someday. In fact, the walls may be made with them. As Wisconsin's dairy industry struggles with surpluses, low prices and a declining market, University of Wisconsin - Madison food scientists are developing novel ways to increase milk consumption and put milk by-products to work.

In the future, milk by-products may show up in polyurethane insulation, glue for particle boards, laundry detergents and food emulsifiers. Cheese will find new uses too, according to Norm Olson, director of the Center for Dairy Research at UW-Madison.

Cheesemaking produces milk sugar, or lactose, as a by-product. UW-Madison food scientists have tested polyurethane foams and adhesives made with lactose. Researchers Clyde Amundson and Charles Hill are working on incorporation of lactose into surfactants, which are used in detergents; and emulsifiers, which are used in processed foods.

Some of these new developments substitute milk by-products for products made from cheap petrochemicals. But Olson points out that as oil prices rise, so will the value of milk by-products as substitutes.

"We're working with underutilized by-products of cheesemaking which would otherwise wind up in sewage treatment plants, or be fed to animals or spread on fields as fertilizer," Olson says. "We're giving the dairy industry more options in enhancing the value of milk and increasing its utilization."

The dairy industry is trying to capitalize on consumer trends, such as high demand for carbonated beverages, by developing and marketing novel products. "Fizzy milk," a carbonated and flavored milk beverage, is one example.

UW food scientists don't develop finished products like fuzzy milk, Olson explains. Instead, they gather information about milk processing and the properties of milk so that industry can develop new products.

Calories and sodium keep some people away from cheese. Food scientists Mark Johnson and Brian Reisterer have developed processes for making cheeses with half the fat of regular cheese, and are working on improving and intensifying flavor. Researcher Robert Lindsay is developing a process for low-salt cheese.

People who don't drink milk because they cannot digest lactose make up another potential market. Lactose-intolerant people can usually eat yogurt because bacteria in the yogurt help digest the lactose. Olson says UW researchers are looking for similar bacteria that can be added to milk.

Also underway are projects to adapt European style cheeses, such as Havarti and Jarlesberg, to American cheesemaking technology.

Taste-testing is a necessary part of the researchers' programs. Food scientist John Norbach has students taste new cheese sauces. He is looking for combinations of flavors and textures that will put cheese sauces atop more people's vegetables.

Annual Easter Egg Hunt Held Here

The Easter Bunny visited Kewaskum Saturday afternoon and many, many area children searched for his brightly colored eggs in River Hill Park. The weather was ideal, with temperatures in the 80's.

The youngsters were treated to candy marshmallow eggs after the egg hunt.

The Kewaskum American Legion, Robert G. Romaine Post 384, sponsors the yearly event.

SEXUALLY ABUSED CHILDREN

Each year in the U.S., an estimated 100,000 children suffer some form of sexual abuse. Most of them are girls, but boys can also be victims. Teaching "stranger rules" is smart, but not enough—in the majority of cases, the child sexual molester is known to the child and the child's family. That's why only a minority of cases is reported. The abuser is often a parent, "good old Uncle Bill," a babysitter, or a close family friend.

Children may give in to adults' sexual advances because they fear losing their love, or fear their punishment, so they're especially vulnerable to abuse by someone they know. Children are trusting and defenseless, and they'll often feel guilty, as if they caused an assault.

Children may not recognize sexual abuse when it happens or even know it's wrong, although they often instinctively know what "proper distance" should be kept between them and other persons. They must learn what appropriate "touching" is, and, if they're ever uncertain about someone's intentions, they should know it's O.K. to respond in a way that makes them feel safer and more comfortable. While it is always difficult to talk about sexual abuse, the only way to do something about the problem is to have the child tell someone.

Adults should remember that, while children often make up stories, they rarely lie about being the victims of sexual abuse. If a child tells you about being touched or assaulted, take it seriously. Your response is very important. It will greatly influence how the child reacts to and recovers from the abuse.

Sometimes, a child may be too frightened or confused to talk directly about abuse. Be alert for any change in behavior that might indicate that the child has suffered a disturbing experience:

- Is the child suddenly more withdrawn than usual, refusing to go to school or afraid to be alone?
- Is the child having trouble sleeping, waking up with nightmares, or wetting the bed?
- Is the child complaining of irritation of the genital area?
- Are there signs of increased anxiety or immature behavior?
- Has the child's attitude changed toward a relative, neighbor or babysitter? Make sure you check carefully the references of babysitters, recreation leaders, and day care centers.

Abusers will continue until they're stopped. Abused children can be abusive—to themselves or others—when they become adults. It's a vicious circle that can be broken.

Sen. Stitt Co-Sponsors Legislation to Ease Farmers' Tax Burden

"Wisconsin farmers have been burdened far too long," Senator Donald Stitt (R-Port Washington) said in announcing that he is cosponsoring legislation to ease the tax burden on farmers.

One of the bills cosponsored by Senator Stitt would change the way farmland is assessed for taxation. Currently, agricultural land is assessed according to its highest and best use - not according to its current use. Under the proposed legislation, agricultural land would be assessed according to its current use provided that it fulfilled the gross farm profit requirements of the farmland preservation credit.

The farmland preservation credit would be increased for some farmers under a second bill cosponsored by Senator Stitt. Farmers covered by county agricultural zoning ordinances currently are eligible for 100% of their potential credit, while farmers covered only by town agricultural zoning ordinances are eligible for only 90% of this potential credit. The bill cosponsored by Senator Stitt would eliminate this disparity by increasing the credit for farmers covered by town zoning to the full 100%.

The third bill Senator Stitt is cosponsoring would make it easier for farmers in 18 urban counties, including Fond du Lac, Ozaukee, Sheboygan, and Washington counties, to apply for farmland preservation agreements.

Under the current law, an owner of land located in a county with a population density of 100 or more people per square mile may apply for a farmland preservation agreement only if the county has adopted a certified exclusive agricultural use zoning ordinance and the town in which the land is located has approved the ordinance. This bill would eliminate the requirement that the town must approve the ordinance.

"Wisconsin takes pride in being America's Dairyland," Senator Stitt said. "That fine reputation was earned by generations of hard-working Wisconsin farmers. The legislation I am cosponsoring will provide tax relief for today's farmers to help them maintain their family farms for future generations."

"How long you in for?" asked a prisoner of his new cellmate.

"Ninety-nine years, how long you in for?"

"Seventy-five years," was the reply.

"Then you take the bed near the door, you're getting out first."

Activities With Relatives Can Boost Children's Grades

By Joyce Albrecht
Extension Home Economist

When children help a relative cook dinner or wash the car, they're doing more than chores. These activities can help children do better in school.

When relatives include children in adult tasks, such as cooking, they're helping children learn important developmental lessons. Lessons like how to plan and complete jobs can help children become successful students.

The number of relatives including children in these kind of activities is particularly important. The more interaction a child has, the greater the effect on his or her school performance.

Recently, a study of 162 first grade boys and girls living in white, one and two parent families was done in the Syracuse, NY metropolitan area.

In the study, teachers reported that children who participated in regular activities with relatives, had higher spring-semester report card grades, longer attention spans, and greater enthusiasm and motivation than children who did not. Activities in which the child assisted the relative in adult tasks, such as gardening or shopping, and outings such as attending sporting events, were linked to better performance in school.

Activities with male relatives had a particularly powerful impact on boys in single-parent households. Single-parent boys whose male relatives regularly included them in outings had class rankings one-third higher than those who did not.

Interacting with adult relatives affected single-parent girls and children in two-parent households differently. For these groups, outings with relatives was not linked with improved school performance, while doing chores with relatives was.

Outings with same-sex relatives more important for boys than girls in mother-only households. Other studies support the idea that young, single-parent boys are more likely to have academic and personal problems than their female counterparts.

My study confirms a lot of relatives' hunches. After a separation or divorce, many relatives will consciously increase their involvement with single-parent families. This additional involvement can add a lot of stability to both the parents and the children's lives. Findings indicate the impact of this involvement can extend much further.

More than 50% of today's children will live in single-parent households at some point in their lives. Because 90% of these children will live with their mothers, more boys than girls will lose regular contact with a same-sex adult in the household.

Fathers (who don't have custody), grandfathers, uncles and older brothers can make a difference. Male relatives can teach these boys important things by taking them on outings or including them in chores.

Friendships with unrelated males may have less of an affect because the boys see these friendships as less permanent than their friendships with relatives.

But, if the friendship between the child and adult has existed for some time, unrelated males and organizations like Big Brothers and Big Sisters Inc. can have the same effect on school performance. Big Brothers and Big Sisters introduce single-parent children to unrelated adults of the same sex, who interact with the children on a regular basis.

There never has been a society in which parents were expected to raise children without the help of others. Children have always been partially raised by people who surrounded the family and support its child-rearing efforts.

The family is far from dead. On the contrary, as the number of single-parent families keeps increasing, extended families are more important than ever in the social and academic lives of our children.

Wisconsin Traffic at New Record, Will Top 50 Billion Mile Mark in 2000

If you think you're seeing more cars on the road today, it's not your imagination.

The state Department of Transportation said Wisconsin drivers covered 38.4 billion miles last year, setting a new all-time record. However, traffic will top the 50-billion mark by the year 2000 if current projections hold up.

"That means that wherever there are three cars and trucks today, in a mere 13 years there will be four," according to Ronald R. Fiedler, DOT Secretary.

A problem facing transportation planners is the fact that traffic isn't spread evenly over the state's 108,000 miles of highway. Instead, many roads accommodate bumper-to-bumper traffic while other miles serve only a few cars a day. "Unfortunately, our traffic predictions foresee no basic change in travel habits," Fiedler said. "The roads that are heavily traveled now will be even worse when the 21st century arrives."

How to accommodate the additional traffic safely and efficiently is a concern facing every level of government, Fiedler said.

The state transportation budget proposes to increase funding during the next biennium to step up improvement programs for the basic non-Interstate state highway network, which accommodates about half of the state's traffic. It also proposes a new program to help county and municipalities improve their most important local arterial and collector highways.

"It's rather hard to get people excited about the idea of paying more money for transportation programs, but it's absolutely essential that we try to make some gains now instead of just trying to catch up with problems that are always a step ahead of us," Fiedler added.

The 1988-89 transportation budget would increase the state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel by 2c a gallon, and add $10 to the auto registration fee.

The additional revenues would be directed toward the new local arterial and collector program, and a 15 percent increase in the number of miles of the 3R (reconstruction, reconditioning and resurfacing) program on state highways.

"Over the biennium, the new local program would earmark an additional $45 million specifically for modernization on these heavily traveled local routes that would not only meet today's traffic but projected travel in years ahead," Fiedler said. "The state 3R program, which included upgrading the basic state trunk highways, would be increased to about 450 miles a year from the current level of about 390 miles," he said.

Fiedler said one of the concerns with traffic projections is that they have become remarkably accurate in the past few years. "In the mid-60s, we estimated that traffic would double in 20 years. It did. Highway traffic has increased 38 percent since 1972, and will increase another 34 percent to about 51.6 billion miles in the year 2000.

"We can't just sit back and hope that something nice happens between now and then, some new technological breakthrough that will solve our future transportation problems," Fiedler said. "Our best bet is a realistic willingness to pay a little more now, so that we can avoid huge costs to catch up with traffic growth later," he concluded.

'Diggers Hotline' For GTE Customers

You've just begun a long-distance conversation with your parents in Florida. At the same time, your neighbor begins to roto-till his garden. Suddenly, the telephone line goes dead. Your neighbor's fault?

It very well could be. According to GTE-Wisconsin, when telephone cables are accidentally cut by someone beautifying a lawn, a contractor beginning a job or for variety of other reasons, it can disrupt service to hundreds of customers.

"Anyone planning a project that involves digging — even if it's just to place a fence post or plant a tree — should call the "Digger's Hotline," a toll-free cable-locating service assisting GTE-Wisconsin and other state utilities, at 1-800-242-8511," said Robert G. Burger, Southeastern Division manager, Sun Prairie. "The company can dispatch qualified people to locate buried cable on request. The free service in 1984 was expanded to include all Wisconsin, and GTE that year began utilizing the service to help prevent damage to its utility lines."

The toll-free telephone number should be called by contractors and the general public at least three working days before starting digging projects where utilities' facilities may be buried.

GTE-Wisconsin serves more than 340,000 customers in 192 exchanges throughout the state.

Three things never return: the past, the neglected opportunity, and the spoken word.

Brigham Ends School Board Service With a Look Back at Last Six Years

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

In closing last Monday's school board meeting retiring President Tom Brigham reflected back on the board and its actions over the past six years. "Contrary to what one or two board members may feel, this is not a parting shot time or am I going to criticize anybody or anything. My main comments are to give an overview of what I have observed, perceived, over the past six, and primarily, the last three years. I want to address five areas, maintenance, business management, curriculum, staffing and administration, and lastly boardmanship."

In relating to maintenance Brigham reviewed a variety of projects undertaken by the district, from the new roofs to elimination of a majority of overtime and reduced energy consumption.

In business management, Brigham noted the most important areas is how the board managed the district's money. "Four years ago we had a double digit increase in the budget, almost 14%. In the last three years that has decreased 9.8%. The point I am making is this board has been very concerned about the budget." He noted another point of concern was the district's operating cash balance. "In 1984, we had approximately $585,000. We have now increased this close to $1,222,000, an increase of $637,000. What does this actually mean, the state recommends that a district have approximately an 18.5% operating budget. In 1984, we had 8.4%, this year we're close to 18%, we're right on target. I certainly think this is fiscal responsibility."

"Of the seven eastern Wisconsin school districts, Kewaskum is third in net school cost per student. The state school average is $200 more per child than we spend. This school district is in a sound fiscal state."

In curriculum, Brigham reflected that when he first came on the board there was no continuity from elementary, to middle school, to high school. We brought in a director of curriculum and we turned that situation around. We have added new programs at all the school levels. "This board has been responsive to the curriculum needs of the area."

In staffing and administration Brigham said he disagreed with those who say the district is top-heavy with administration. "We are not overstaffed with faculty and administration." "I feel we have a very dedicated faculty and administrators." We have laid off personnel when it was necessary and we have hired when it was necessary, he noted.

"As for salaries, we are paying salaries that are average, and in some cases below average."

The last segment of his comments were directed to the new incoming board members. He told them, "it is not one issue factors in making decisions." You will have to have some understanding of state regulations, federal regulations special education, vocational education, curriculum. "Collective bargaining, that's going to be an eye-opener for you." He told them when they make a decision they're going to find out it's not based on just one facet of an issue.

Brigham referred to a Milwaukee newspaper's articles covering the recent election. They summed up the election theme as the bickering on the board, he said. "It's not hard to understand the perception of the outside world to Kewaskum on this topic when you have a board member who has been on open line what seems like plus 50 times, or numerous letters to the editors talking about various problems in the district. If you think Kewaskum is the only district that has problems, you are mis-informed. Every district has its problems, but I would perhaps say that there's not too many school districts out there who have a direct line to the local radio station and to the local newspapers. This has no place on boardmanship."

Brigham also stated that in no time in two years have any of the issues that were brought to this board been taken care of beforehand over the phone. "The cards were not shuffled and laid out before the board members walked into this room. That was not my policy and every single board member that is sitting here can attest to that."

"Everybody receives the same packet of information and everybody has to be able to digest it and come to the meeting and try and make a decision. With the amount of information brought to this board there may be some arguments and discussions. There is certainly a difference of philosophy on this board. Perhaps that's an indication that nothing was, in fact, settled beforehand and it shouldn't be." "One of the things all of us, all of you, have to learn is that we can disagree on items but we don't have to be disagreeable. There doesn't have to be animosities after the fact. There should never be a position taken that I'm not going to talk to that administrator or I'm not going to talk to that board member, come hell or high water."

The other issue, said Brigham, is if you have an opinion, state it. Say you don't agree, let me and the people know how you feel on an issue and why, don't argue, but don't just vote yes or no. "So, when you're on this board, whoever you are, give your reasons of why, you don't have to agree, Heavens no, but give them so we can weigh all the facts." Brigham said comments or opinions of another board member might provide information which could make another member change his mind and vote.

"I really feel that perhaps the bickering and arguing is going to cease. I think we're going to see a board perhaps, that has the same education philosophies that will be somewhat compatible with some of the ideas expressed. If it's compatible, I don't think you're going to have the bickering, I don't think you're going to have the phone calls to the open line, and the letters to the editor. I hope you don't because that is not the place for boardmanship. You do not see any board in any corporate operation dealing the way some people have dealt and I am probably as much at fault as anybody else. Every person in this room is here for the same thing, for the betterment of the kids, to try to provide the best education possible. How we do that is the democratic way. But it is all for the same purpose."

Brigham told the meeting, "the Journal indicated we have a new tomorrow, we do, and with this new tomorrow I guess I will challenge the new board, individually and collectively, to continue to be progressive, to continue to provide an education that is going to enable our children to be competitive, and thirdly, to provide an education that is going to meet the needs of all our children."

In closing Brigham said, "I want to thank the administration, but more so, I want to thank my colleagues on the board for the opportunity to be able to work with them and also to be able to work for the children."

UP WITH AGRICULTURE
By David Garst

If you think all the thoughts about American agriculture these days are doom and gloom, you're listening to the wrong people.

We recently completed judging entries in our annual "Up With Agriculture" Writing Contest among FFA members, and I can't help but feel confident about the future of American agriculture.

To be sure, FFA members certainly aren't lacking when it comes to creativity. We received everything from short stories to anecdotes and poems. But more importantly, these young people know there is both a lot of challenge and opportunity in agriculture today.

An excellent example of this optimism is expressed in a poem by Jeff Conner of Taylor, Nebraska. His entry was named the overall winner from the estimated 7,000 entries in this year's contest.

Jeff's winning entry reads:
My mom's just like my dad in ways;

Cause she's a farmer too.
She drives a tractor, hauls the grain,
Just like my dad can do.
In spring, as the ground warms up,
She plants and hoes the weeds.
It's surprising what my mom can do
With a little pack of seeds.
The shelves down in our basement
Are neatly lined with rows,
And rows of fruits and vegetables,
Just another way she shows,
When times are tough, she'll do her best
To help us make it through.
That's why I'm proud to say my mom's
Involved in agriculture, too!

Jeff's proud of his mother's role in American agriculture. And rightly so. There's never been a better, more efficient team in American labor than a husband and his wife farming together. They've made American agriculture the envy of the world.

The pride and optimism of bright, young people like Jeff in his family and profession are contagious. The way people like him leading the way, great things are ahead for American agriculture.

FRIEND/VISITOR - Volunteers are needed by the Wash. Co. Dept. of Soc. Services to act as visitors, telephone contacts, volunteer driver, etc. One-to-one contact, own car is needed for driving. Flexible days and hours.

CHILD CARE — Volunteers are needed for child care while mothers attend a parenting class. Children range from infants to 3 yrs. old. Volunteers must be 18 years of age or older. Dates needed: every Thursday morning, 9:30 a.m. to noon, from October 9th through December 18th.

FOOD SERVICE ASSISTANT — Two volunteers are needed to assist in preparing and serving lunches at St. Frances Cabrini School, 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Mon., Tues., Wed. Contact the Voluntary Action Center for more information.

FRIEND/BROTHER — There is a serious need for men to get involved as Big Brothers and friends to several young boys in our community. The waiting list is long and hopes are difficult to sustain. If you have a few hours a week to give — consider this important role in both your life, and the life of a young boy. Call the Voluntary Action Center for more information as to how you can help.

EARLY INTERVENTION ASS'T — Volunteers are needed to assist with child care, 2nd Friday each month from 12 p.m. - 2 p.m.

ART ENTHUSIAST — The West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts is looking for volunteers to prepare information about varied artists and their work and then present this information to children at Elementary Schools. Time and hours vary. Subjects vary. This is a wonderful way to introduce children to, give exposure to, artists and their work. This volunteer opportunity can be split up — do you have a friend who would like to do the research, etc. so all you do is the presentation?

MALE SUPPORTIVE CARE WORKER — Men — get involved! Here's an opportunity where volunteers are matched with one person who needs a friend to do social activities in the community (museums, movies, ball games). Flexible time commitment. Skills: the ability to be caring and understanding. Note: There is reimbursement provided for mileage and expenses. Call the Voluntary Action Center to see how you can get involved.

DRIVERS — CARING PEOPLE — Our community is always in need of people who are able to volunteer their time and ability as drivers ... taking people to medical appointments, helping others with their driving skills, etc. Personal vehicle necessary. Gas reimbursement provided.

Local Sheriff Offers Children Biking Safety Tips

"Children are riding their bicycles to and from school," comments Washington County Sheriff Clarence A. Schwartz. "All too often, children — like adults — become creatures of habit and overlook simple safety precautions. I would like to ask all school children who ride their bicycles to remember a few safety tips:

— Only one person belongs on your bike. Never let a second person ride with you.

— Allow plenty of room for a safe stop. Never follow bikes or cars too closely.

— Keep both hands on the handle bars for safe steering.

— Always give proper signals. Keep a firm grip on the handle bars with your right hand and use your left arm and hand to signal turns and stops. Arm straight out is a "left" turn; arm bent up at the elbow is a "right" turn; and arm bent down at the elbow is a "stop."

— Avoid riding your bike at night. If you must ride at night, equip your bike with a good headlight and rear reflectors. Wear light colored or reflective clothing so others can see you easily.

— Make sure you obey all traffic signals. Stop completely at stop signs, and always look both ways before starting out again.

The Sheriff explains that it's easy for children to get into a routine in traveling back and forth to school. However, he stresses that children should remind themselves — and be reminded by their parents — that practicing safety every day can save them from serious injury.

"Remember that a bicyclist is like a motorist," Sheriff Schwartz concludes. "He must be skilled like an automobile driver in handling his vehicle and should always be cautious when traveling the roads."

 1 1/2 cups sliced fresh or frozen strawberries

Remove any unmelted ice. Fold in strawberries. Spoon half the gelatin mixture into 5 or 6 parfait glasses. Chill parfaits 10 minutes. Add layer of pineapple-sour cream mixture. Repeat procedure ending with gelatin layer. Chill until set, about 30 minutes. Garnish with whipped cream and chopped pecans. Makes approximately 5-6 servings.

CA Holds Annual Business Meeting

President Lynn Camin presided over Citizen Advocacy's business meeting during its annual dinner held in March. A unique feature of Citizen Advocacy (CA) is the provision in its incorporation that members of CA (which includes all advocates, proteges, self-advocates and consumers of CA's services) have a vote in the structure of the organization. This procedure insures that the membership's interests are reflected in the decisions that are made.

The membership voted unanimously to elect two new members to the Board of Directors, Georgette Raab and Rev. Ken Merchx. Their terms will run from 1987 to 1989.

Nominees for returning members of the Board of Directors were Lynn Camin, Dale Tietz, Constantine Hall, Joan Pick, Jane Reigle and Marge Schloemer. All were unanimously re-elected.

Thanks were given to departing Board members John Nighbor and Dave Neu.

Members of the Board of Directors who will continue to serve their terms are Bob Deters, Frank DeRaimo, Luella Marquardt, Kathy Ramsthal, Susan Sauer and David Trembley.

The membership also unanimously passed by laws and articles of incorporation changes which reflect the continuing flexibility in CA's service to the community.

The financial report was given by Dale Tietz, Treasurer. He reported that the budget for 1986 was in fine shape, and with a projected budget of $36,000.00 for 1987, the coming year will be another challenge for fund-raising. CA receives 28% of its funding from United Way organizations, but it is necessary to make up the remaining 72% from individual donations and fund raising activities. Local community support is crucial to Citizen Advocacy.

'Francis' Is Now Popular In Rock River

It took a few years - seven in fact - to get a pair of 'Francis's' in a position to be reunited in the Rock River League's Hall of Fame just as they were, as the battery on Slinger's grand championship Rock River teams of the 1960's.

Francis "Corky" Neu, broad shouldered backstop then, has been nominated for a spot on the league's 1987 Hall of Fame ballot, thus giving him a chance to join batterymate Francis "Fran" Hofmaier who was inducted in 1980.

Five other Fame candidates - two with a name link - were nominated at the Rock Oldtimers' association annual meeting on Saturday at Dodge Center, Horicon.

Another nicknamed Francis, former commissioner "Bud" Bellon of Horicon, and Fran Hofmaier's brother and Slinger teammate, Jerry, got on the '87 ballot.

A trio of pitchers also made it: Bernard "Nunie" Hauser (Rubicon team), perhaps better remembered as an infielder, Clarence "Smokey" Paul (Randolph) and Gary Schlieve (Ashippun).

Rounding out the mail election by members next month are the six standby candidates unsuccessful last year but outstanding during their Rock years: Al Buchta (Mayville), Bud Hembrook and Fritz Lautenschlager (Theresa), Roy Maass (Lebanon), Claude McCormick (Randolph) and Ray Messer (Burnett).

Members present voted the late Dr. Mike Ries, long-time Brownsville player, manager and promoter, to the Posthumous Hall of Fame for induction at the Oldtimers' 8th Annual Fame Dinner on Oct. 10 at the Mayville Gold Club.

The scenic clubhouse also was chosen for the 1988 banquet on Oct. 8.

All officers were reelected: President Carl Heimerl, Jackson; Vice President Rube Schuster, Theresa, and Secretary-Treasurer Bellon.

Mertzig Inducted Into Hall of Fame

Kewaskum's Ray Mertzig, former player/manager for the Barton Land o' Lakes baseball team, was one of five players inducted into the Old Timers' Hall of Fame at its 29th annual banquet on Wednesday, April 22.

Mertzig was joined by other inductees Bob Groth, Pewaukee, a player, manager and the commissioner of the western division the past 17 years; Glenn Moerschel, a pitcher from Waukesha; and outfielder Allen Ley of Rome.

The banquet was held at Marchese's Danceland in Sussex, and Waukesha County Sheriff Ray Klink, a former Land o' Lakes pitcher and himself a member of the Hall of Fame, was the main speaker.

The Land o' Lakes is Wisconsin oldest and at one time, its largest amateur baseball league, which was founded in 1922 by the late Martin Weber Sr.

Parnell Tower To Be Closed

A popular feature of Kettle Moraine State Forest's northern unit - Parnell Tower - is closing this week because of the infirmities of age.

Superintendent Walt Adams said that the 50-foot tower, built in 1940 by the depression-era WPA, will be torn down on engineers' advice because of deterioration caused by age of wear.

An estimated 12,000 to 15,000 people scale the tower each year to view the wooded hills and rolling countryside of the glacier-carved recreational forest. The tower was built on another high spot, Parnell Esker, a ridge laid down by a glacial stream, Adams said.

Forest personnel say that on a clear day, it is possible to see Lake Michigan from the tower. It is located near Kettle Moraine Scenic Drive off High way U.

The Northern Unit plans to ask for funds to replace the tower, but early rebuilding is unlikely because of a funds crunch in the Department of Natural Resources which administers the Kettle Moraine, said Adams.

Alternatives for PIK Certificates

Farmers participating in the feed grain program will be receiving part of their payments in cash and part of their payments in certificates. These certificates are sometimes called PIK certificates or sometimes called generic certificates. These certificates have value and that value can change depending upon how the certificates are used.

Some alternatives for using PIK certificates include 1) Taking the certificate to your ASCS office and redeeming it for cash. This may seem like the easiest way to utilize the certificate but usually results in the lowest return. 2) Certificates can be sold to others, usually at a value somewhat greater than face value. There is an interest in purchasing certificates by other grain producers, warehouses, feed dealer and people interested in buying and selling certificates hopefully to make a profit. The value of these certificates may vary with the supply and demand and at this point in time maybe one hundred and ten percent of face value. This alternative would certainly present a better return then certificate to redeem grain put under loan. Under this option sometimes known as the PIK and roll. The growers take out a commodity loan on grain that he has eligible for loan. This loan is made at county loan rate about $1.82 per bushel. When the loan proceeds are received, the producer can then pay off the loan using his certificates. The amount of grain a certificate can redeem will vary depending upon the posted county price. However, this price has been significantly under the loan rate and this has allowed individuals to increase the value of their certificate. This process is somewhat complex and cannot be discussed thoroughly in this article. Producers should contact their ASCS office or County Extension office for information about this process. Certificates have been and will probably continue to be a part of federal programs. Individuals receiving these certificates need to carefully consider the option available to them in order to use the certificates to their best advantage.

Individuals having questions about use of certificates should contact their ASCS office or County Extension office for further information.
