Peace U.C.C. Members Volunteer For Week of Labor in Nashville

Sixteen volunteer workers from Peace U.C.C. Church of Kewaskum were dedicated at the 9:30 a.m. service last Sunday for a week of labor in Nashville, Tennessee, for Habitat for Humanity, Inc. Habitat is an international ecumenical Christian organization founded by Millard Fuller in 1976 that now has projects in 37 states (including Wisconsin) and 16 foreign countries. Americus, Georgia is the international headquarters. Fuller spoke at Peace Church in November 1986 after a Milwaukee Habitation Service, sparking the present Kewaskum venture.

The Peace Church volunteers are Chris Charland, Marlene and David Domasky, Marion Erdmann, Jeffrey Kissinger, Karen Kletti, Shannon McFadden, Mitchell Ogi, Bret

Rauch, Stacey Schmitt, Joel Serwe, Rodney Stelter, Rodney Stelter, Jr., Richard Zarling, and Pastor James and Betty Bettin. The group will leave Peace Church at 5:00 a.m. Saturday, July 11 and will return July 17, after spending a week of labor with hammer, saw, and paint brush in Nashville. They primarily will be finishing two houses as part of the goal of 300 Habitat homes to be completed by August 1, a branch of a nationwide project climaxed in South Carolina the final week of July by a group of volunteers including ex-President Jimmy and Roslyn Carter. Carter is a member of the Habitat for Humanity, Inc. Board of Directors. Plumbing fixtures for this and the Nashville project were supplied by Howard Herman of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, who also attended Fuller's November speech in Kewaskum.

The Peace Church volunteers will be housed at Woodmont Christian Church during their stay in Nashville. All their transportation, food, and part of project material costs are furnished by members and friends of Peace Church. Volunteers from Nashville Habitat as well as families of recipients of the two homes will work with the local group. Hal Hassell is directing the Nashville program. The completed houses are made available to selected families on a 20 year no-interest mortgage contract. Proceeds go forth to build more houses with volunteer labor. Fuller calls this "The Economics of Jesus" and "The Theology of the Hammer."

County Sales Tax Idea Surfacing Again

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum Village Board was asked during its meeting Monday night what its feelings were on a 1/2% county sales tax. That question was asked by Washington County Board Supervisor Daniel Stoffel in an effort to gain input and reaction to the possibility of the county reconsidering the tax as an added source of revenue in the future.

Stoffel told the board the main objective of such a tax would be to help alleviate some of the property tax burden. He noted, however, the idea is still getting negative responses from most people, including himself.

Stoffel told the board he would like to see any money collected from such a tax targeted for one specific purpose. "I have my doubts about that happening" said Stoffel, "two or three years down the line I'm afraid it will just fade into the General Budget." He felt people would take that added revenue into account when they figured their future budgets adjusting them upward and the intent of the county sales tax would be lost.

Beginning next year we are all going to have tough budgeting, said Stoffel. In the past we've used money from the General Fund reserves to help ease the tax burden for county property owners, he noted. "Last year we used $1.5 million out of the General Fund to offset county taxes." If salaries go up 3% like some of the contracts have been settled, you can figure taxes will go up, plus

Annual Picnic Here This Weekend

Kewaskum's annual Firemen - Legion picnic will take place in River Hill Park on Saturday evening and Sunday, July 11 and 12.

Waterfights will christen the Saturday evening opening at 6:30 p.m. with many neighboring fire departments competing for the championship trophy. Live entertainment by "Ida Red" will be featured in the beer garden from 8 p.m. until midnight. Rides, refreshments and games can be enjoyed by young and old.

A spectacular parade begins the Sunday festivities at 12 noon, led this year by the Kewaskum High School Band. This legendary event features the Tripoli Motor Corp. with 35 motorized units, the Hartford City Band, Marquis Drum and Bugle Corps, and various other area bands and marching units.

The mammoth parade will again feature many beautiful floats, dance bands, baton twirlers, novelty and military units, drill teams, children's specialties, comic and clown entries, clubs and organizations, visiting fire departments, Legionnaires, antique cars, horses and riders, and much more.

This year's parade theme is: "Celebrating the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution." The parade will originate from the High School campus area and adjacent streets, and proceed from there to River Hill Park. All participants should be ready to line up no later than 11:30 a.m. Many great prizes will be awarded for the best floats and children's specialties.

Musicians will perform at two locations in the park immediately following the parade, and the music will continue throughout the evening.

Sunday afternoon entertainment features the "Stinky Waters Jazz Band" from 1:00 to 4:30 p.m. in the beer garden, courtesy of the Kewaskum Lions Club; and the "Buchels" with the "Joey Klass Orchestra" highlights the north bandstand from 1:00 to 5 p.m.

Evening music in the beer garden will be the "Billy Shears Band," 7:30 to 11:30 p.m., and the "Moutaineers" will be featured in the bandstand from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Purchase tickets for numerous cash and merchandise prizes and be a winner. They will be on sale in the park, at some area businesses, and through any Fire Department or Legion member.

Attend the Kewaskum picnic and enjoy a weekend of good food, games and rides, live entertainment, and lots of good family fun.

Arrest Warrant Issued In Farmington Burglary Case

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

James R. Allen, 45, who was convicted and sentenced for the 1986 burglary and vandalism of the Virgil Hackbarth residence, Town of Farmington, has failed to report to begin his prison sentence and remains at large.

Allen was sentenced to four years in prison for the incident. Circuit Court Judge J. Tom Merriam delayed the start of the sentence after Allen requested time to sell his semi-truck and get his personal affairs in order.

After two postponements, Allen of Canton Ohio, failed to show up July 2, to begin his prison term. In a June 17th letter Allen sought and received a delay because he said he had been unable to sell his truck and his wife had also suffered a miscarriage. In a June 23 letter, Allen's wife Beverly asked Merriam to delay sentencing for a third time because Allen had broken his hand and might lose it if he started the sentence. Merriam refused her request and issued a warrant after Allen failed to appear at the Washington County Jail last Thursday.

Allen had been ordered to make financial restitution along with the prison term.

DNR Establishes New Program to Monitor Waste Treatment Plants

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Water Pollution Control Superintendent Pete Albers informed the Kewaskum Village Board Monday night, that the Department of Natural Resources has enacted a new program to monitor the operations of state wastewater treatment plants.

The program includes an annual maintenance report which grades each plant on a point system basis. It covers everything from the plant's age and physical condition to its operating efficiency and ability to store sludge. The less points accumulated in the assessment, the better a plant's rating, noted Albers.

Albers told the board the two big problem areas for Kewaskum are its inability to store sludge for a long period of time and the high pH levels going through the plant. Both problems are related discharge from the local dairy.

The DNR expects at least a six months storage capacity, noted Albers, we have less than two months, about five to seven weeks. Because of the high butterfat and casein content in the sludge as a result of the dairy's discharge, its impossible to separate the sludge, said Albers. Due to the high pH levels passing through the plant, the bacteria in the treatment tanks is being killed so they don't break down the sludge. That necessitates pumping the tanks every few weeks so new bacteria can grow.

In order to meet the DNR's sludge holding requirements, the village would have to build a tank that would hold between 1/2 and 3/4 of a million gallons of sludge, said Albers.

Trustee Mary Krueger asked if there wasn't something that could be done at the source (the dairy). Albers said yes, the dairy could install equipment which would monitor and drastically lower pH levels, however, it has been reluctant to do so because of the cost. "Let me say we are not picking on the dairy" said Albers, "we don't want to chase them out of town but we would like some cooperation."

Albers said the village, along with its consultant Dr. Raymond Kipp, is, and had been working with the dairy for about a year to try and resolve the problem.

Another problem I see in the future, noted Albers, is the DNR prohibiting the spreading of sludge on fields during the winter months. This too means we will have to take a serious look at expanding our storage capacity even if the problem with the dairy is solved.

After Albers' explanation of the report, the board approved a resolution informing the DNR it will comply with the requirements.

In other action the board approved the transferring of one at least $1.5 million that's going to show up that we can't offset from the General Fund next year because the money isn't there.

Trustee Mary Krueger asked Stoffel just what the County Board's feeling was about the sales tax. "The County Board's feeling is negative, but I think that may change when they see the budget" stated Stoffel. "In our six or seven county area there has been talk about a county sales tax" said Stoffel, "but nobody seems to want to be the first to enact it and we don't want to start border-hopping."

Speaking as a business owner, Trustee Howard Laubenstein said he was against the county sales tax specifically because of the idea that if all the counties do not have the tax, people will shop in other counties to avoid the tax.

Presently there are about eleven Wisconsin counties, mostly in the northern portion of the state, who have established the 1/2% county sales tax. The state collects that money and receives 2% of the gross tax collected for its administration services and redistributing of the remaining 98% back to the county from which it came. Trustee Tom McElhatton told the meeting he was not enthusiastic about the state being involved with the county tax. He felt control should remain with the counties. This just gives the state another way to get their hands on more money he noted.

The trustees indicated they were not willing to support a county sales tax.

Stoffel also advised the board that the county libraries would be receiving their quarterly county library funds a month late. "The County is having trouble tabulating the numbers so payments will be deferred one month so they can get committee and board approval" said Stoffel.

Trustee Richard Schmidt, who serves on the Countywide Library System Committee, had told the village board earlier this year that there would probably be some adjustments made with the second quarter payments since there were no past records to refer to when first quarter payments were made. That payment had been based on estimated service provided by each library in the system. Now actual figures were being used.

Buchen also challenged the class to work for the preservation of this country as a sanctuary for diversity.

"The first and most important task at hand is your country," he continued, "because the United States needs your generation to engage it in developing a new advocacy. The country is drifting away and you need to make America yours."

The ceremony marked the end of the end of the school's 93rd academic year.

Rizzardi Attends North Dakota NVATA Regional Conference

Dave Rizzardi, vocational agriculture teacher in Kewaskum High school at Kewaskum, attended the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers' Association (NVATA) Regional Leadership Conference at Fargo, N.D. on June 22, 1987. He joined 120 vocational agriculture educators to discuss issues/concerns confronting the profession. Vocational agriculture teachers from 6 NVATA affiliated state associations participated in the 3 day conference.

Six conferences are scheduled in 1987. Their primary purposes are to develop professional leadership, acquaint state association leaders with responsibilities related to the national organization, discuss mutual problems facing agricultural education, give direction to the NVATA, and become more knowledgeable about programs of vocational education in agriculture. The conferences include guest speakers, round table discussions, workshops, committee work and business meetings. A two hour workshop, "involvement in State Legislation" was included in the conference program.

Dave was one of the 15 agricultural educators representing the Wisconsin VATA at the conference. He is currently serving as Vice-President for the state association. In addition to representing the SVATA, he also served as a member of the FFA Contest Committee, a special committee appointed to reviewing and updating current contest rules and procedures.

The North Dakota Vocational Agriculture Teachers' Association served as local hosts and arranged for meeting facilities, special functions and educational tours. The meeting was conducted by Richard Aide, NVATA Region Vice President. He teaches vocational agriculture at Waupun, WI.

Enrolled in UW- Green Bay Seminar

Gerald Gosa of the Kewaskum High School faculty and James Hanson of the Kewaskum Middle School faculty are enrolled in an intensive professional development program in science education at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay. They are among 74 instructors in biology, life sciences, chemistry and physics from all over Wisconsin who attended the summer seminar, in session through July 9.

All were selected last fall to take part in a National Science Foundation program to improve science education in the schools. Funded by a $300,000 NSF grant, the project is headed at UWGB by Thomas VanKoeveering of the science and environmental change and education faculties. It presents opportunities for teachers to learn of recent developments in their respective fields as well as local examples and applications that can be integrated into the high school science curriculum.

The three-week summer seminar includes general sessions on subjects including controversial issues in the classroom, acid rain, pseudoscience, and AIDS. Other courses, laboratory sessions and field trips present information on such topics as nuclear weapons, microwave experiments, population growth and reproductive strategies, endangered species, RNA mutations, flood, seismic and volcanic hazards, and radioactive waste storage.

Circus Coming to West Bend

Friday, July 10, 1987, Kewaskum Statesman, Page 5

TWO MOST FAMOUS elephants in the world are Isla and Lilly, who ran away from Carson and Barnes Circus winterquarters in Hugo, Ok., four years ago and eluded hundreds of elephant hunters for more than two weeks. They're big girls now, and appear with Traci in one of the five rings at each performance of the world's largest tent circus.

From the bleak Siberian steppes to the deepest jungles of Africa, wild animals convene to form a veritable United Nations in the menagerie compound of the great Carson & Barnes 5-Ring Circus, which comes to West Bend for one day only with performances at 2 and 8 p.m. on July 16, sponsored by Clowns and United Orchestra Leaders.

Each day, as soon as the mammoth wagons carrying Carson & Barnes' more than 200 beasts arrive on the showgrounds, a conference begins. The lions roar the meeting to order and the other animals respond in chorus. Elephants trumpet messages sent by Hindu potentates; tigers snarl and hiss the warlike attitude of their native Siberian wilds; while the "Hee-haw" of a domestic donkey suggests that it is not greatly concerned.

The shaggy Bactrian camels, too lazy to enter into the discussion, merely stand by and chew their cud. The Peruvian llamas often express their feelings with well-placed vocalizations. The giraffe probably feels a bit left out, since it doesn't have vocal cords.

All told, there are some 25 species of animals with Carson & Barnes. Most of them have their say during the day, but evidently nothing is settled at this United Nations meeting. The discussion goes on in city after city as the big show finds its way across the United States.

Children of all ages will have an opportunity to view the big zoo without additional charge when attending either circus performance. The animals also will be exhibited free to everyone in the morning during preparations for the day's activities.

Many of the animals join top-flight human performers from 17 nations in the glamorous 50th Anniversary performance of "The Biggest Big Top on Earth."

Tickets purchased in advance afford a saving of $1.00 each from the showday price. They are on sale locally at: Kohn's Amoco Food Shop, Sentry Foods, Amerahn and Buffy's Village Inn.

Local Children Have Parts In UWWC Production

WEST BEND — "Brooke, you're being too cute up there. I want to see that face snarl up," Lauren Jo Polenske said.

Brooke is one of 40 children, ages 6 to 14, who are members of the Children's Summer Theatre Production and Workshop at the UW Center — Washington County.

Polenske launched the workshop last week with 30 children who participated in the summer repertory season of UWWC Theatre on the Hill. Starting mid-July this year, workshop members will alternate on stage in "How to Eat like a Child," one of four musicals in the 1987 repertory season.

The request for the snarl came during one of the rehearsals that have taken place every Monday - through - Thursday morning since summer vacation began. Saturday rehearsals started earlier — on May 2.

Polenske graduated from high school in West Bend and received her B.A. degree in theatre from UW-Oshkosh.

"How to Eat Like a Child" is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday matinees on July 18, 25 and August 1.

Brad Ford, an assistant professor of theatre and communications arts at UWWC and head of the year-round Theatre on the Hill program, said, "Everybody will have a part in the show and a chance to participate."

He described the workshop as "part acting class and part rehearsal."

A Polenske rehearsal is a show in itself as she moves from auditorium to stage and back, dishing out discipline and advice.

"Stop snoring, guys," she ordered the 17 children feigning sleep on the stage.

A moment later she was supervising a change of scenery. "One to the right; one to the left," she told the actors-turned-stagehands. "Slide those babies across the stage."

Ford describes "How to Eat Like a Child" as "a fascinating new musical that is getting rave reviews." He said its 23 scenes are really lessons on such subjects as "How to Act Being Sent to Your Room," "How to Laugh Hysterically" and "How to Torture Your Sister."

At a recent rehearsal, Polenske snapped her fingers insistently and then clapped her hands to urge a quickening of the tempo during a fast-paced Broadway-style song-and-dance number entitled "How to Beg for a Dog."

"Right?" one boy asked another. "Right," the second replied. "Polenske wasn't satisfied. 'Right?' she rasped, demonstrating what she wanted in a gravelly voice. "Growl it."

TV Guide called the Broadway show a celebration of "the spirit of youth" and praised it for its "razzle-dazzle staging. The magazine said, "The pace is fast, the tone is subversive and the recognition is instant."

Tickets are now on sale and cost $15 for general admission and $3.50 for children and senior citizens. A special season rate — for shows for the price of two — is also available.

For more information or to reserve tickets, call UWWC, 338-5208.

Members of the 1987 workshop are:

Cast Announced For UWWC Musical

Four men and three women have been picked for roles in "The Amorous Flea," one of four musicals making up the summer repertory season at the UW Center - Washington County.

UWWC's Theatre on the Hill opens its fifth round of summer productions on July 16 and rings down the curtain on Aug. 2. "Flea" is scheduled for performances at 7:30 p.m. on July 18, 24 and 26, and 2:30 p.m. on Aug. 2.

Directing the musical adaptation of Moliere's "School for Wives" is Brad Ford, an associate professor of theatre and communication arts at UWWC and director of the year round Theatre on the Hill program.

Ford has picked Michele Lukovich of 527 Scenic Drive, E., West Bend, to play Agnes, a girl who is about to be married to Arnolphe, an old man portrayed by Jim Nelson of 419 Jefferson, West Bend.

Arnolphe has raised Agnes from the age of four to become his perfect wife and is keeping her in solitary confinement as their marriage approaches.

Enter Horace, a young son of one of Arnolphe's friends, who is played by Tim Dondlinger of 5613 Scenic Drive, West Bend.

Judith Crist, a New York Herald Tribune critic, wrote about what happens next:

"Horace turns the screw by making Arnolphe his confidant, giving him a double cross to bear; conniving servants, Agnes's triumph of instinct over ignorance, false names and false friends, tripling confusion and tripping feet all add to the general madness and lead to the triumph of love."

Rounding out the cast are Roger Retzlaff of 1418 Fond du Lac, West Bend, as Chrysalde; Kelie Dullinger of W140 N13951 Country Aire Road, Germantown, as Elaina; Dachia Arritola of 1191 S. Highway 83, Hartford, as Georgette; and Mark Wolf of 221 Creek Drive, West Bend, as Enrique.

Ford admits that this production is "the obscure musical" of the summer when compared to the other musicals: "H.M.S. Pinafore," "Kiss Me Kate" and "How to Eat like a Child." "But," he said, "it was a great success off-Broadway where it was an award-winning musical of the 1960s."

Crist calls it "nonsense in the classic vein and stylish as all getout - and as funny, lively and gay as a first-rate little musical should be."

Tickets cost $5 for general admission and $3.50 for children and senior citizens. "Flea" tickets also are available at a special season rate of four shows for the price of two. For more information or to reserve tickets, call UWWC, 338-5208.

Goetsch, Hed Win Wreck-Marred Stock Car Championships

By: Dick Jepsen

It was Sheboygan Falls night Saturday at the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth as a pair of Falls drivers Wayne Goetsch and Richard Hed claimed victories in the extended Ed Foy Memorial mid-season championship features. Both drivers eluded crashes in their respective features to claim their wins. A total of four modified flips (including a double flip in the semi) plus several multi-car pile-ups took the racing program to the 11 p.m. curfew with two events remaining.

The sportsmen feature had a surprise ending with the two leaders colliding with only two laps remaining throwing the event up for grabs.

Inheriting the lead with only two laps remaining was Richard Hed with Gary Laack second. The two rivals fought fender to fender on the restart with Hed finishing less than a car length ahead of Laack at the checkers.

The hobby feature, known for it's many red flags ran green, flag to flag with 51 year old Don Grootemaat of Brookfield coming home the winner. Grootemaat took the lead from Wally Becker on lap two and never surrendered it. Becker finished second with Eddie Gerlach third.

The modified semi turned into a demo derby as half the field was eliminated by the time the checkers fell. The race got off to a bad start as Jerry Priesgen and Erv Waala tangled in turn two with less than a half lap complete, both continued. Chuck Tuschl was eliminated on the restart as he hit the wall at the drop of the green. Jeff Fritz of Kewaskum led the first two circuits before the first of two major accidents.

Ken Blaine returning to racing after a 5 year layoff led for three laps before the eventual winner Ken Bierterz took over in the RZ modified. The second serious accident of the race occurred on the white flag lap when Terry Chesak and Erv Waala tangled in turn one causing both to flip. Neither driver was injured. The sportsmen and hobby semi had to be cancelled because of the curfew.

Trophies for these races will be given out next week. The new Miss EWSCA is Roxanne Anderson of Sheboygan, first runner-up was Candi Goeden of Kewaskum and second runner-up was Becky Luedtke of West Bend.

Wednesday night EWSCA will race on the half mile track at the Manitowoc Expo grounds with time trials at 6:30 p.m. racing at 7:30 p.m.

Next Saturday night at Plymouth will be Wisconsin Fans for Auto Racing night with a demolition derby following the regular racing program.

Have Your Pressure Canner Checked at UW-Extension Office

Summer is here and Washington County gardeners are busy, busy, busy. BUT as busy as you are, do not wait until you have vegetables coming out your ears to check your pressure canner used for processing. Test and replace parts well before the canning season starts.

In canners with rubber or composition gasket seals, drying and shrinkage of gaskets can cause an incomplete seal. Have them replaced if worn. A metal-to-metal seal should be kept free of rust and corrosion. Polish with a non-abrasive cleanser and coat with a thin film of petroleum jelly. A pipe cleaner and vinegar will remove lime deposits from around safety valves. Keep these areas as clean and dry as possible.

Panzer Pleased with Budget Proposal

After many long nights and a lot of coffee, the 1987-89 budget has passed both Houses of the Legislature and will be sent to the Governor's desk for final approval.

State Representative Mary Panzer (R-West Bend) is extremely pleased with the final budget proposal. "This is a major victory for the people of Wisconsin."

Panzer, a member of the Joint Finance Committee, stated that the budget not only lowers taxes but helps to provide a much needed incentive for businesses in the state. The budget calls for a $19.1 million economic development package, while retaining the 60% Capital Gains exclusion for assets held over five years.

The Assembly passed the budget 78-19, while the Senate had overwhelming support with only 1 of the 33 members voting against the budget. "The bipartisanship drastically improved the quality and speed of the budget process," Panzer said.

"Even though we had our differences, in think we came out with a very solid budget."

Both years of the budget are subject to changes by the Governor through his veto power.

Wisconsin Farm Progress Days In Barron County July 14-16

FARM PROGRESS DAYS 1987

BARRON, WI — Forage production is the main focus of the 1987 Wisconsin Farm Progress Days, which is slated for July 14 through 16 in Barron County (WI). The show marks the first time in twenty years the three-day farm show will be held in northwestern Wisconsin, and 125,000 people from throughout Wisconsin, Minnesota and other midwestern states are expected to attend.

Jon and Cindy Becker and Fred Jr. "Butch" and Valerie Sutherland, whose farms are located five miles southeast of Cumberland, are hosts for the event.

Wisconsin Farm Progress Days is the largest volunteer-run agricultural exposition of its kind in the nation. Over 500 companies and organizations will exhibit their products and services in 858 lots and 166 booths. The show involves close to 350 acres of farmland, which will be used for farm management and field demonstrations, parking and a 50-acre "Tent City" of exhibits.

"Farm Progress Days provides producers the opportunity to see all the major innovations in agriculture," says Don Drost, Barron County agricultural Extension agent and executive secretary of the Farm Progress Days show. "It's a chance to see everything that's new and to see it in one area."

The show features the largest ever slate of educational exhibits and research plots at a Wisconsin Farm Progress Days show. Exhibits will range from beef production and groundwater quality to forage production and management. Forage demonstrations include seeding of alfalfa under direct conservation tillage practices, the effect of storage practices on the nutritional quality of large round bales, the effect of quantity and yield when alfalfa is cut four versus three times a year, and a soil pit showing the growth and development of alfalfa roots.

Field demonstrations will showcase over 60 pieces of forage equipment. Mower-conditioners, rakes and tedders, balers, forage harvesters, forage wagons and blowers will be used to harvest 140 acres of dry hay and haylage.

For the first time at a Wisconsin Farm Progress Days show, youth are in the spotlight, notes Severt Olson, Barron County 4-H and youth Extension agent and youth chairman for the show. Over 800 youth from throughout the state will present action demonstrations, participate in the state Horse and Dairy Bowl competitions, as well as give music, speaking and drama performances, fitting and showing demonstrations. Juniors members of state Guernsey, Holstein and Jersey breed associations may register for one of three registered calves to be given away.

"Patterns for Living" is the theme of programs in the Family Living Tent. An inspirational fashion show, an historical talk by Vonda Van Dyke, a former Miss America, and a humorous presentation by Barry ZeVan, weatherman from Channel 11 of Minneapolis, are among the highlights of the program. In addition to entertainment by music and dance groups, speakers will focus on the topics of children and sex, fitness and health, family farms and food.

Farm Progress Days visitors may tour the Sutherlands' new energy-efficient ranch-style home. The 1400-square foot, three-bedroom home utilizes off-peak electrical power, and heat is radiated during the day through deep-heat and thermal storage heating systems. In addition, the home features foam-core wood panel walls both in the basement and on the main floor and an air-to-air exchanger.

The Wisconsin Farm Progress Days is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. There is no charge to attend or park at the show, and both farm and non-farm folks are welcome.

Stir paint well before using it. With a paint paddle, literally stir the paint, not just around in a circle. Work it from the bottom of the can with an upward motion until smooth and uniform. Don't thin the paint unless the label recommends it. In most cases, thinning does more harm than good. Washington County First in State to Accept Regulation for Private Wells

Washington County this week becomes the first county of the state to accept new delegated responsibilities for regulating private wells.

The county's Land Use and Park Department began issuing well location permits July 6 and becomes responsible also for the proper abandonment of old unused wells within county boundaries.

These functions transferred from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources to Washington County under a voluntary delegation program adopted by the Natural Resources Board last October. The board opted to let counties share regulatory duties with the states if county governments so wished. Washington County's Board of Supervisors agreed to participate in May, 1987.

A well location permit, issued to a property owner or to a well driller on behalf of the owner, authorizes the drilling of a well and assures a county inspection to make sure that the well is properly located.

The delegation program was adopted by an increasing demand for well inspections and a limited DNR staff available to do them.

Herb Wolf, assistant administrator of Land Use and Parks in Washington County, said he expects to have three inspectors trained and certified by the DNR to do well location inspections.

"We expect to do a field inspection on all applications and also to review them in our office," he said. Possibly 50 to 60 applications a month might be received for permits during the summer season, he estimated.

Application forms for well location permits are available in the Land Use and Park office, Room 150, Washington County Courthouse, 432 E. Washington Street, West Bend. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. The completed application form and a $50 permit fee can be returned to the same office.

Contractors will be given multiple application forms that they can distribute to homeowners or their well drillers, Wolf reported.

The inspectors will be available to answer questions at the same office from 8 to 9 a.m. and from 1 to 2 p.m. weekdays, he said.

Two other counties in southeastern Wisconsin are considering joining the delegation program, according to the Southeast District water supply section of the DNR.

After 18 months of the present delegation program, participating counties can take on additional functions: permits for pump installations, inspections of existing water systems, and well construction. Washington County reported no plans, however, to expand its authority to these levels.

Youth Participate In State 4-H Ambassador Training

A team of Washington County 4-H'ers received training as "4-H Ambassadors" during State 4-H Congress June 8-11 at University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Ambassadors help the county Extension office promote 4-H and the Cooperative Extension Service at the club and county levels.

The team included Holly Prochnow, West Bend; Becky Schrow, West Bend; and Alison Witz, Hartford.

About 30 counties currently have active Ambassador programs to tell the 4-H story. Their roles and responsibilities vary from county to county. In Washington County the Ambassadors roles promote 4-H by talking to classes in schools, talking to civic groups, and helping with the County Action Center.

During the 1987 4-H Congress, Ambassadors could attend training sessions in radio techniques, presentation skills, effective visuals, news writing and news photography.

"These are promotional and presentation skills that they can use in Washington County and perhaps teach to others," according to Kandi Veal, county 4-H and Youth Agent.

The area Ambassador team also shared ideas with Ambassadors from other counties, discussed how to involve more members and leaders in 4-H, and developed a promotional plan for the county.

One county Ambassador group, for example, places 4-H bookmarks in libraries and distributes brochures at community events, while another group helps generate a special 4-H newspaper tabloid for National 4-H Week in October.

A third county focuses on recruiting 4-H members through schools, emphasizing the variety of projects and activities in today's 4-H program.

And a fourth county tries to retain more 4-H members by meeting with 4-H clubs to point out the fun, education and opportunities members have when they stay in 4-H.

The area Ambassador team with Chris Blosser plans to visit schools throughout the county in September and October conducting a fun educational learning experience.

4-H Ambassador training started at Congress last year. About 70 Wisconsin 4-H members from 40 counties attended this year's program.

BIG CHERRY CROP FORECAST

Red Tart Cherry production in Wisconsin for 1987 was forecast at 11 million pounds, almost three times last year's crop by the Wisconsin Agricultural Statistics Service.

"An unusual spring frost adversely affected the 1986 crop," says Paul T. Orton, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection Statistician.

According to Orton, an exceptionally mild winter combined with a near ideal spring benefited cherries this year. During the past ten years, cherry production in Wisconsin varied from 3.7 million pounds last year to 14.6 million pounds in 1979.

National tart cherry production for 1987 was forecast at 354 million pounds, up 58 percent from last year and 24 percent more than 1985. Michigan with about 80 percent of the national crop expects production of 280 million pounds, up 65 percent from a year earlier.

Reach for the Bottle When Canning Tomatoes

U. of W. Extension
Summer Home Economist

A little lemon juice can make the difference between safe home-canned tomatoes and those that can cause food poisoning.

"New U.S. Department of Agriculture research shows that the acidity level of fresh tomatoes drops after canning," says Mary Mennes, UW-Madison extension food management specialist. "Acidity is also affected by growing conditions, degree of ripeness, the variety of tomato and bruised or damaged fruit."

To be safe, she recommends adding 1 tablespoon of bottled lemon juice per pint or 2 tablespoons per quart before processing the tomatoes in a boiling-water bath canner or pressure canner. Measure this amount into the clean jar before filling with tomatoes.

"Bottled lemon juice is recommended because it has a uniform acid content," Mennes says. "Frozen or fresh lemon juice should not be used because it doesn't have consistent acidity."

The only recipes that don't need lemon juice to assure the proper acidity are those with substantial amounts of vinegar (such as catsup, chili sauce, salsa) or recipes that contain large amounts of low-acid vegetables that must be canned in a pressure canner for a relatively long period to destroy botulism - producing bacteria (such as tomato-vegetable soup mixtures).

The greatest risk of food poisoning from home-canned foods is the result of toxin produced by the heat-resistant spores of the botulism - producing bacteria. Foods that have a pH of 4.6 or lower are acidic enough to prevent the toxin from growing when processed according to directions.

Foods with a pH above 4.6, such as vegetables and meats, must be processed in a pressure canner to reach a temperature of at least 240 degrees F to destroy the botulism spores.

However, the acidity of fresh tomatoes raised and ripened under adverse conditions can sometimes be 4.6 or higher. That's why it's prudent to add acid before canning them.

Mennes offers the following recipe, based on the new research, for safely canning hot-packed, quartered tomatoes:

1. Wash high-quality, firm, ripe tomatoes. Discard overripe tomatoes or those with soft spots, broken skins or signs of decay.

2. Dip in boiling water for 30 to 60 seconds or until skin splits. Then dip in cold water, slip off skin, and remove cores.

3. Crush some of the quartered tomatoes in a large kettle while heating rapidly. After all tomatoes are added, boil gently for 5 minutes.

4. Add 2 tablespoons of bottled lemon juice to each clean quart jar or 1 tablespoon to each pint. Fill jars with hot tomatoes, leaving 1/2 inch head space. Add 1 teaspoon salt per quart, if desired. Adjust lids and process using one of the three methods below:

Boiling Water Canner: 37 minutes for pints; 42 minutes for quarts.

Dial-Gauge Canner: (for both pints quarts) 20 minutes at 6 lbs. 15 minutes at 11 lbs.

Weighted Gauge Canner: (for both pints and quarts) 20 mins. at 10 lbs. 15 mins. at 15 lbs.

For more information on canning tomatoes, contact the Washington County Extension Office, Room 235, County Courthouse for a copy of B2605, "Tomatoes Tart & Tasty," which includes an insert that explains the new research in detail.

Mr. and Mrs. Desmond Smith of Kewaskum will hold the opening of their new Bonne Belle Motel, located just south of the village on Highway 45, this Sunday, July 8. Open house will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. and the public is invited to inspect the beautiful motel building. Kewaskum's latest business addition is a modern, six-unit, one story motel with accompanying office and residence, situated on the west side of Highway 45, immediately south of the Kewaskum hill. Des and Valeria Smith and their family will occupy the residence portion of the motel, having moved there from their home in the village. The motel was built on property purchased by the Smiths which has 475 feet of frontage and runs 150 feet in depth.

It's annual Kewaskum firemen's picnic time again and this year's event will be held in the village park on Saturday evening and Sunday, July 7 and 8. The picnic and parade will be among the best ever held and everyone is urged to take in the affair.

Washington and Ozaukee 4-H members enjoyed their annual 3-day camp held at Camp Awana on Lake Twelve in the Town of Farmington last week. Kewaskum boys attending were Dean and George Martin, Mark and Stevie Schaefer, Charles Bunkelman, Danny Schaefer and Dennis Backhaus. Mariel Seefeldt served as a counselor at the camp.

Army Pfc. Norman S. Hirsig, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hirsig, 1223 Roseland Dr., Kewaskum, participated in Exercise Mesa Drive, a two-week joint Army-Air Force training maneuver recently conducted at the Yakima (Washington) Firing Center. Hirsig is assigned to Combat Support Company of the 32nd Division's 127th Infantry, an Army National Guard unit which was recalled to active duty and assigned at Fort Lewis, Washington.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Matenaer, Route 1, Kewaskum, on July 3.

50 Years Ago

July 9, 1917

Since July 1, two well known taverns in this village are being operated by new proprietors. Casper's Tavern, operated for many years here by S. N. Casper, has been taken over by his son-in-law, Willard Dreyer of West Milwaukee, who is well acquainted in that line of business having worked as a barkeeper in Milwaukee. He has also helped out at various times in the place he is now running here and has made many friends in this vicinity. The other tavern taken over is that owned by Mrs. Anna Brunner, whose husband, the late John Brunner, also was in business here for many years. Since his death some time ago Mrs. Brunner has been running the place being assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Edna O'Malley. The building was now taken over by Ed. Bartelt of Mayville. Mr. Bartelt was also in that line of business at Mayville and is experienced in the trade. He, too, is a popular gentleman, having made the acquaintance of many Kewaskum residents since his arrival here. He is a brother of Emil Bartelt of the village and did a prominent business at Mayville.

Pirmen Kohler of this village, who is registered at the West Bend Cannery, Inc. plant, along with two fellow workers, Jerome Winn and Paul Guth, escaped with minor injuries on Tuesday of this week while working in a box car on the North Western road siding along the canning factory. The three were unloading a shipment of cans for the factory when two cars from a switching freight engine at the top of the incline, rammed with considerable force into the cars in which the young men were working. They were knocked down, bruised and cut from cans falling on them, but recovered themselves in time to leap from the car they were occupying just before the car went off the deadend of the sidetrack and broke loose from its truck.

The Farmington Turner Society is making preliminary arrangements for the gala observance of its diamond jubilee — the seventy-fifth anniversary of its existence — on August 22, in Fillmore. This society was for many years known as the Fillmore Turn-Verein, but some years ago changed its name to Farmington Turner Society.

Burial services for Ferdinand Raether, venerable and widely known resident of the village of Kewaskum, were held last Sunday. Mr. Raether, who had attained the age of 81 years, passed away at his home on East Water Street on July 1, following a week's illness with phlebitis.

Residents of Kewaskum and a vast community were greatly shocked and grieved this week when confronted with the unwanted news that Marc David Rosenheimer, 28, one of this village's most popular young men had passed away. His death occurred on July 7, at the Madison General Hospital, of uremic poisoning.

The annual Homecoming for Kewaskum is drawing near, being only three weeks off. This will be the biggest event ever held in this village. On every side it is the subject for conversation and in every direction there is activity and preparations for the many entertainments which are to abound during these days. During the past few days a subscription has been circulated and signed by a good number of citizens and businessmen of the village to decorate the village and provide for different amusements.

Charles F. Doms of this city and Miss Lena Schleicher of Wayne were married at Waukegan, Illinois on June 22.

DMV ISSUES NEW LICENSE PLATES FOR PHYSICALLY DISABLED DRIVERS

The Wisconsin Division of Motor Vehicles will begin issuing new license plates for disabled individuals and disabled veterans in July. For the first time, the International Symbol of Access will be displayed on both types of plates.

In 1983, Congress recommended that all states adopt the symbol on plates to identify vehicles eligible for special privileges. More than 39 states have now made arrangements to include the special symbol on eligible plates.

The new plates will use the same design as the new Wisconsin automobile plates. The prefixes DIS and VET, the number, and the symbol are red. The words "Disabled" or "Disabled Veteran" appear in blue at the bottom of the plates.

Since 1980, the division has issued Special Identification Cards displaying the symbol for use inside vehicles, allowing special parking privileges to be extended to any vehicle transporting the disabled person.

"We believe the display of the symbol on plates issued to the disabled or disabled veteran will be of benefit to our residents as they travel outside the state of Wisconsin," said Norbert K. Anderson, administrator of the Department of Transportation's Division of Motor Vehicles.

In order to be eligible for the special license plates, the vehicle must be registered by, or be used to transport persons certified as being unable to get around without great difficulty, according to Anderson. As of January approximately 9,800 vehicles registered in Wisconsin displayed the special plates, Anderson said.

Governor Proclaims County Fair Opening Week

Governor Tommy G. Thompson has proclaimed July 5-12 "County Fair Opening Week." The announcement honors Wisconsin County and District Fair season that starts July 7.

The Washington County Fair held annually in Slinger runs from July 22 to July 26.

In proclaiming County Fair Week, Thompson pointed out that Wisconsin's county fairs date back to 1842, when people brought their livestock, crops and other farm products as well as their crafts together to share their bounty and to learn from one another.

Today, Wisconsin's 76 county and district fairs provide opportunities to learn about agriculture, conservation, industry, marketing, scouting, home economics and many other interests.

Over three million people attend county fairs in the state each year, with a mixture of rural and urban exhibitors working together to produce these area educational events.

Kim Nettesheim of Walworth County, who is the 1987 Fairest of the Fairs, serves as spokesperson and promoter for the county and district fairs. She also acts as hostess for the Wisconsin State Fair which will be held in West Allis August 6-16. For more information on fairs or to schedule Ms. Nettesheim's appearance at an event, contact her at State Fair Park, West Allis, WI, telephone, 414/257-8925.

To receive a free 1987 fair schedule, please send a stamped, self-addressed business envelope to Bob Williams, Fairs, Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, P.O. Box 8911, Madison, WI 53708.

THANK YOU

I would like to say thank you to my family and friends, for the visits, flowers and cards, while I was a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital.

A special thank you to Doctors Sison and Castro, and to Pastor Jim for his special prayers and visits. Also "Thanks A Lot" to my good friend Don Nowak, along with Larry Morenzen, Ted Bannenberg for the great job they did on painting my garage while I was in the hospital.

Your thoughtfulness was greatly appreciated and a very nice surprise when I came home.

Though 10 years may seem like a long time, the sorrow still felt in our hearts makes it seem like only yesterday, that we lost our wife, mother and grandmother, Marie Ramthun, on July 9th, 1977.

Look Out Georgia — Here Comes Kewaskum

A select group of fourteen girls are thinking Georgia after Sunday, June 28. It was then that this expertly coached group won the State Junior USSSA title. The victory, a 5-2 win over Howards Grove, gave them the title and an automatic berth in the nationals which will be held in Marietta, Georgia, August 6 through the 9th. The girls came away with victories over two Sheboygan teams, two Milwaukee teams and then the championship game with Howards Grove. It was an exciting climax to some well played games with all girls contributing excellent efforts and good base coaching by Joanne Hintz and Dave (Chick) Flynn. The team is trying to raise money to pay for transportation expenses, as they plan to travel by bus.

Bickle Jr. and May Cop Slinger Speedway Mains

Rich Bickle Jr. capitalized on his outside front row starting position and led every lap enroute to his victory in the 30 lap late model feature race at Slinger Speedway on July 5th. The win also guarantees the Edgerton pilot a starting spot in the July 19th Midwest Challenge of Champions race to be held at the Milwaukee Mile.

Bickle Jr. wasted no time at the drop of flagman Dick Witt's go flag shooting out to an immediate five-car length advantage over pole sitter Jim Weber.

The strongest machine in the field early belonged to the Dennis Lampman as the "Gentle Giant" charged from his seventh starting slot to fourth by lap 3. Four circuits later, he grabbed third place from Jerry Wood.

The fast pace of the race did in Bart Reinen's mount as he retired to the pits on lap 9. Joel Laufer, also an early charger, dropped Wood to fifth on lap 11 and began to apply pressure to the rear bumper of Lampman one circuit later.

Bickle Jr., who extended his head to 10 car lengths over Weber by lap 14, began encountering lapped traffic on the 17th circuit. Laufer also used his lap to drop Lampman to fourth. Current point leader Al Schill passed a fading Lampman on lap 20 as he started his charge to the front after working up through traffic from his 11th starting position.

The relentless pressure from Laufer got to the second-running Werber as he looped his car in turn two on lap 22. In the scramble to avoid Weber's stalled mount, Rich Somer's Thunderbird got rearended by "Greasy" Keith Nelson's Monte Carlo. Both drivers continued to race their crumpled machines, but the ensuing yellow flag erased Bickle Jr.'s healthy lead margin.

On the restart, Bickle Jr. regained the front spot and never looked back. Fast qualifier Conrad Morgan powered around Schill for third on the final circuit, but fell short of snatching the runner-up slot from Laufer under the checkered flag. Somers and Lampman rounded out the top six.

Eddie May of Crystal Lake, Ill. captured his first 25 lap sportsman main event of the season and forced fast qualifier Bob Brownell, who has dominated the Slinger Speedway sportsman ranks thus far, to settle for second place.

Early leader and rookie driver Jimmy Lynch held the top slot for three laps before Tom Dekeuster of Racing overhauled him. By the 9th circuit, attrition claimed the machines of Doug Duncan and T.J. Graff. On the following lap, the fifth-running mount of Jim Wagner spun in turn two necessitating a caution period.

When racing resumed, May charged past Lynch just as the engine in leader Dekeuster's car erupted in smoke going down the front straight. No caution was thrown and May inherited the lead on lap 11 followed by Brownell and a charging Steve McCarthy.

May used traffic for the remainder of the race to thwart the passing attempts of Brownell who was followed under the checkered flag by McCarthy, Lynch and Eddie's father, Gordon May.

Ron Ragan of Milwaukee won the amateur race and Jerry Bohmer of Hartford survived to win the figure 8 event.

Sunday night, July 12th, some lucky lady will win $150 first prize in the hot pants and halter contest.

Indians Win 2, Lose 2

By Ann-Marie Horner

In last week Monday's game the Indians pulled a win from the Kiel Raiders with a score of 6-4. The scoring of the runs were divided up evenly, but the highlight of the game was the double by Troy Zimdars in the sixth inning.

The Indians had a game at home on Tuesday, June 30, in which they scrapped a win from the Sheboygan Falls Falcons with a score of 6-5. Mark Schlosser was hot on Tuesday night, with a double, triple, and a single which contributed to the win of the game. In the last inning of the game the score was tied until Joseph Hynst hit a double which brought home the winning run.

On last Wednesday's game the Indians lost to the Random Lake Rams by a score of 5-7. The Indians were leading in the third inning, 3-1, with hits from Dennis Aupperle, Mark Hartmann, and Bill Boyd. The Rams came back in the fifth with a few singles to bring in six runs. The Indians tried coming back in the seventh with a hit from Steve Johnson. Following Johnson's hit Troy Zimdars came through with a triple to score Johnson. Mike Morrell then hit a single to score Zimdars, but it wasn't enough to win the game.

In last Thursday's game the Indians lost to the Plymouth Panthers by a score of 3-6. The Indians were never winning; the Panthers controlled the whole game.

The game started off with the Panthers' Trevor Kulow, who was walked by Kewaskum's pitcher Mike Heberer, and scored by Marty Will's double. The Indians Troy Zimdars hit a single and Eric Pearson advanced Zimdars. Mike Heberer brought Zimdars home with a single; Jeff Miller brought Heberer home, also with a single. From that point it was all downhill. The Panthers came back with two runs in the third, two in the fourth, and two in the sixth. The Indians tried rallying in the fourth, but Pearson was the only one to score.

Athletics Lose To WB Lithias, Beat Barton

By Bob Pick II

The Kewaskum Athletics bombed Barton Saturday afternoon in the Land O' Lakes Northern Division 11-4. Ron Theusch went 3 for 5 including a two-run homer in the first and a bases loaded double in the seventh. Scott Muench had a two-run single in the fourth. Tim Heberer went the distance on the mound to pick up the win for Kewaskum. Bob Liebetrau took the loss. The victory was the second Lakes win over Barton this season and the team is currently in fifth place with a 4-4 record.

Last Wednesday evening, Kewaskum lost its fifth Tri-County Nite League game of the season when they were whipped 13-2 by the West Bend Lithias in seven innings. Rick Staehler went 2 for 4 and scored Kewaskum's run in the first inning. Don Menzel started on the mound and took a 1-0 lead into the bottom of the third, but ran into some control problems and walked in the tying run which was followed immediately by Todd Tennes' grand slam home run. Tim Heberer relieved Menzel in the bottom of the fifth. The third batter he pitched to was John Hemauer who hit a three-run shot. The Lithias final runs crossed the plate on Jay Munding's three-run homer with two out in the bottom of the seventh.

The two village goofs had a tough time telling their horses apart. They cut the mane off one as a distinguishing mark, but it grew back. They cut off the tail — same result. A flash of inspiration told them to measure the horses. This solved the problem, for the white horse was four inches taller than the black one.
