Annual Meeting Set for September 28th

Board Approves Fifth Revision Of 1987-88 School Budget

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum School Board voted Monday night, to present the fifth and latest revision of the proposed 1987-88 budget to electors at its Annual Meeting next month. This latest proposal represents total expenditures of $6,909,000, an increase of 5.66% over 1986-87. The levy of $3,221,500, represents a 5.80% decrease from 1986-87.

To the district's taxpayers these latest figures will mean a levy of $13.55 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, a drop of .89% from last year's rate of $13.67. In calculating these figures, Business Manager Cherna Gorder used an equalized valuation for the district of $237,680,519. Her report noted that the Department of Public Instruction has projected a 5% decrease in the equalized valuation for this next year.

Using a $70,000 home as an example, Gorder said taxes were $956.90 for 1986-87. For 1987-88, that figure will drop to $948.50, a decrease of $8.40, if the equalized value does not drop. "Should the equalized value of this home drop 5% (the new value: $66,500), the taxes for 87-88 would be $901.08. This is a decrease of $55.82, which is a 5.75% decrease."

In other budget related action the board voted to change the date of the Annual Meeting from September 30th, to September 28th. Gorder said the change was necessary to comply with state statutes.

In reviewing the proposed budget, board president Ralph Horner asked if there had been any money included for remediation programs such as math and reading. Julie Backus, Director of Instruction, said there was not. She did, however, indicate the district could look into developing a program for next summer and include its cost in the 1988-89 budget.

The idea was discussed as far as to what could be offered, how many teachers and classes would be needed, and how the district would determine the criteria to decide which students would be eligible for the program. Kewaskum Elementary School principal Richard Zarling said one big factor to consider was, would the program be based on academic need or an enrichment format. If summer school is offered on the academic basis at the elementary level, law requires classes be offered for

Area Valley Banks Announce Reorganization

The Board of Directors of Valley Bancorporation approved plans to reorganize the Banks in Kewaskum, Brownsville, Lomira and Allenton for added customer convenience, more complete service lines and higher quality service. The plans call for these banks to be combined to form a multi-office consolidated bank.

Gus. A. Zuehlke, Chairman of the Board of Valley Bancorporation, remarked that, "One of the biggest advantages will be the fact that customers will be able to do their full service banking at more locations."

Under the plan, the above banks will become a single operating bank, with each location offering a full range of financial services. A customer of one of the offices will be able to conduct all of the same business at another office of the same Valley Bank.

The consolidation is scheduled for September, 1987.

Gerald H. Zimmel, President of the new bank said, "This restructuring will help us operate in the new highly competitive financial environment. Our employees are excited about the restructuring because of their ability to offer more services to the customer. At the same time, our commitment to each community will continue."

Valley Bancorporation, the fourth largest Wisconsin-based bank holding company, currently serves Wisconsin through 77 banking offices with additional financial service companies in leasing, insurance, data processing, trust service, discount brokerage and credit card servicing. The company's stock is traded on the National Market System under the NASDAQ symbol VYBN.

Two Sharp Curves to Be Eliminated

Hwy. 28 Improvement Work Progressing

Governor Tommy Thompson, among others has approved two contracts to improve the safety of WIS-28 through Kewaskum to WIS-144 this summer.

The Washington County highway is the main thoroughfare in Kewaskum and leading road to Mauthe Lake State Park and Kettle Moraine State Forest.

The first $930,000 contract will resurface about five miles of the highway from the east side of Kewaskum to WIS 144. Two sharp curves that are recognized hazards will be eliminated, said Harvey Shebesta, director of the Department of Transportation's Waukesha district, which includes Washington County.

The second $135,000 contract will fix about a half-mile of WIS-28 from UW-45 to the east side of Kewaskum.

"These repairs will also increase vision and safety," said Shebesta.

Shoulder slopes at Oak Drive will be cut back to improve safety, said Shebesta. Other repairs include resurfacing the pavement and shoulder, he added.

Traffic will be detoured during the present July through October construction to US-45, County H and WIS-144. Part of the construction on WIS-28 in Kewaskum will be done under traffic, while the east-half will be open only to local traffic.

The contract was awarded to Payne & Dolan, Inc., Waukesha.

special education also. Mrs. Kathy Charland, told the board she has had parent requests for special ed summer school in the past. Before you institute a program, someone has to be the remedial qualifications, said Zarling.

Backus said she could look into the programs run this year by the Random Lake and Slinger School Districts and bring her findings back to the board.

In other business, the board approved the purchase of sixteen IBM computers and printers for the high school at a cost of $20,005. They will replace Apple computers which will be eventually phased out also and replaced with APBs.

Backus said the IBM machines will provide high school students with a greater opportunity to work with equipment similar to what they find when they enter the public workforce. She also noted moving the Apple computers to the elementary schools will upgrade their programs since the software available for the Commodores is very limited and of very poor program quality.

The board approved the purchase of a new sound system for use by the board during its meetings. The cost of the equipment is $1,457. The purchase of a dual train safety gas valve for KES at a cost of $1,050. was also approved.

The board turned down a request by Backus, to post a 50% Gifted and Talented position.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Kathy Charland as Special Ed TMR teacher, and Ms. Nothem as girls freshmen basketball coach. It accepted the appointment of Mr. Milt Dickinsen as KHS assistant football coach for one year, and the addition of Mr. Perry Kothe as KHS girls freshmen volleyball coach.

High school principal LeRoy Kopecky advised the board he still has not been able to fill the position for a 75% math/physics teaching position, however, he would continue to seek applicants. He noted two individuals had indicated they would accept the position, but then turned it down when they were able to secure full-time positions.

Finance Committee Chairman Ron Theusch advised the board his committee's next meeting has been scheduled for August 24th, at 7:30 p.m. Policy Committee Chairman Ruth Schmitt said her group's next meeting has been set for August 19th, at 7:00 p.m.

The board adjourned to closed session to discuss the bargaining agreement with the Kewaskum Education Association.

Kemp's Dairy Division of Marigold Foods, Inc., Kewaskum, has been issued a $314 citation by the Department of Natural Resources as the result of an August 1st, incident in which 3,600 gallons of raw milk was accidentally discharged into Kewaskum's treatment plant and the nearby Milwaukee River.

DNR Warden William Mitchell said the dairy was cited for water pollution when the milk escaped due to an end cap coming off in the dairy's pump room. The problem has been corrected so a similar situation should not occur again.

Most of the milk went into the natural system down to the treatment plant, however, some entered a storm sewer near the dairy and ran into the Milwaukee River near the dam. Mitchell said because of the recent heavy rains and slow rate with which the milk entered the river, there was no evidence of any fish kill. The spill did turn the river white for a time though. Spills into waterways are generally lethal to fish because the milk removes oxygen from the water. Because the milk entered so slowly and was quickly diluted the danger was drastically reduced.

Water Treatment Plant Superintendent Pete Albers notified the Village Board of the incident at its August 3rd, meeting. He had been notified by the dairy shortly after the accident occurred.

Village Administrator Dan Schmidt said the dairy and village have been working together on the situation and also efforts to correct Ph problems at the plant.

Wagner, Otten UWWC Delegates To Student Leadership Workshop

Judy Wagner of Slinger considers herself a non-traditional age college student.

Wagner, a 1980 graduate of Slinger High School, went back to school in 1985 at age 23 at the UW Center — Washington County. She said she still remembers "how frustrated" she felt at being in classes with younger students.

"I didn't feel I belonged in school," she said.

And her attitudes have changed. In July she was one of two UWWC delegates to the sixth annual student leadership workshop at UW Parkside in Kenosha. While there, she learned about new ideas for serving older students at UWWC.

Wagner and Linda Otten of Kewaskum, an elementary education major, were among 70 delegates representing the 13 freshman-sophomore UW centers.

Students chose from workshops on a number of topics including motivation, the UW System, ambassador programs, budgeting student funds, developing club strategies, fund-raising for student groups, programming ideas, making meetings short and productive and issues facing college students.

Wagner focused on setting up activities for adult students and came away from the conference with an idea for establishing "a support group for non-traditional age students."

Among the things she feels might work at UWWC are:

— Babysitting — a big-brother little-sister arrangement to allow parents to attend classes;

— A weekly column for older students in the school newspaper;

— Family outings so spouses and other family members won't feel left out.

"It's their school, too," Wagner said.

— Special ticket offerings for theatre events.

— Tutoring programs in little groups to help re-entering students.

Wagner liked the humorous approach that ran through the conference starting with a Friday night comedy act. "The whole group was just cracking up all the time," she said. "It broke the tension between us."

The value of the experience, she said, was starting "as strangers" and finding "every-one opening up and becoming friends."

For Wagner, the leadership conference is similar to what she has been discovering at UWWC. "You get to know everybody here," she said of the school.

"It's a small school. But you get the same education as at a four-year school. It's small enough to contact your advisor easily. By the time you get to a bigger school, you've straightened your head out and are on the right track of what you want."

Wagner's idea of what she wants has "changed quite a bit" during her first two years at UWWC, she admits. At this point she hopes to transfer to either UW-Milwaukee or UW-Whitewater and major in either vocational rehabilitation or education.

"I want to help people," she said.

Enroute to her goals, she is working her way through school with a campus job in the student services office. While working, she sees other non-traditional age students coming in and hears them voice the same fears she felt.

Wagner has an answer for them. "You're never too old to learn," she says.

Part-Time Graduate Student Carrie Staege Also Works Full-Time at KM Correctional Institution

Carrie Staege of Beechwood has spent the last three months dividing her work day between inmates in prison and students in college.

Since 1981, Staege has been one of 12 women among the 200 guards at the Kettle Moraine Correctional Institution, a medium-security prison for 450 men. In May, she began a summer internship with the student services office at the UW Center-Washington County.

Along with her full-time guard duties, Staege is a part-time graduate student in the counselor education program at UW-Oshkosh. She has been working on her masters degree for two years and has another year to go.

Her time at UWWC is the first of two practicums required for her degree. This fall she will work as an intern in the admissions office at Oshkosh.

"It makes for long days sometimes," she said. "But this is what I chose to do."

Easing Staege's task is the support of her husband Doug. She said, "He's behind me all the way." She sees his own job as adding to his understanding of her schedule; he, too, is a guard at Kettle Moraine.

About 10 married couples work as guards, she said. The Staeges met about five years ago and were married last October.

Staege's father is a police officer in Chilton, Wis., where she grew up. "He didn't want me to go into police work," she said. So she went to UW Stevens Point intending to major in forestry.

When she graduated with a psychology degree, she said she'd work anywhere but a prison. But she switched to a prison after working with juvenile delinquents when she found she could make twice as much money behind bars.

"I've been there ever since," she said.

Staege regularly is assigned to work weekend visits and also works as a utility person, filling in when others are sick or on vacation. "I'd rather do it that way than be stationed in one cottage, on one patrol or at one tower. It's kind of like UWWC where I did a little bit of everything."

Kettle Moraine does not look like the prisons depicted in movies of the Thirties and Forties. Staege said that up until recently men lived one-to-a-room and had keys to unlock their own doors. "We still have a double fence around the grounds and have seven towers, all manned."

For Staege, a major concern about prison is the amount of rehabilitation that takes place. A key to what happens, she said, is attitude: "A positive outlook is important to me. I like people who have a positive outlook."

Staege said she was attracted by that kind of outlook at UWWC. "That makes me feel good," she said and found that students had a similar reaction.

"It's an excellent way to start college," she said. "It's personal; the class size is smaller; those who want to stay at home can save a few bucks."

She termed her internship "an eye-opener" because student services staff on a small campus work at everything. She said, "At a larger university, there are separate offices for counseling, financial aids and student activities. This was an excellent way to start out — where you learn a little bit about everything."

At Kettle Moraine and in graduate school, Staege is learning how crucial an education can be to a person's chances of success. Many inmates, she said, are not able to read or write; many lack high school degrees.

"I believe in education," she said.

The years at prison have altered her perspective on students who come to college with a high school degree but a record of less-than-perfect grades. "Those students have already made it," she said. "They stuck it out in high school.

Ole Timer's Sunday At Wayne Church

Sunday, August 23, has been designated as "OLE TIMER'S SUNDAY" at Salem United Church of Christ in Wayne. This service of thanksgiving honors those "faithful pillars" who have supported the congregation through the years.

Salem UCC is observing the 130th anniversary of its founding through various special services during the year.

This particular service will include scripture read in German and a short meditation in German conducted by the Rev. A.A. Graf, a former minister of the congregation in 1930-1939. Our quartet consisting of Fritz Menger, Armond, Gerald and Roger Mertz will sing Lobe Den Herren. The choir will provide additional special music by singing "Rescue the Perishing," "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross," and "Blessed Assurance."

The Rev. Milton Staskal, Pastor, will deliver the sermon: "IN PRAISE OF PILLARS."

The public is invited and encouraged to attend. The festivities will conclude with a coffee hour hosted by Rollie and Edna Maul.

Salem United Church of Christ is located 6 miles west of Kewaskum, 9 miles south of Campbellsport, at the junction of Washington County Highway H and W.

Railroad Nostalgia

This Memories photo and article was submitted by Isabelle (Yeska) Muckerheide, Kewaskum, a former Neshkoro resident who was married to the late Al Muckerheide of Kewaskum.

I hear tell that the Northwestern railroad track in Neshkoro is being taken up. Alas, another page in the history book is being torn out. Having lived near the tracks all my childhood days, I can recall many vivid memories. The enclosed picture shows one group of men who were instrumental in laying out the tracks and maintaining them in the early 1900's. The man in the middle was Frank Plier, the Section Boss, who lived in Neshkoro at the time.

For us it was a shortcut to town walking down the tracks, sometimes balancing on the rails, or skipping from one railroad tie to another.

In spring, the first pussy willows and Johnny Jump Ups were to be found along the tracks. Then later in June those delectable wild strawberries were hiding in the deep grass, also wild asparagus, another delicious dish, was available to those who knew the particular place.

An occasional snake would scare the daylight out of me which came from the river on the south side of the tracks. Those days it didn't matter which side of the tracks you came from.

I recall earlier days when many loads of stone from the quarry in Redgranite used to travel through town. There was a railroad spur from Bannerman through Lohrville to Redgranite. Since the quarry closed, that part of the track was taken up too.

Speaking of Bannerman, that was a few miles up the track from the Depot. The trains would stop there near the huge wooden water tank and fill up with water to supply the steam locomotives in use at the time.

What excitement when we heard the first diesel train was going through town. We all stood outside and watched excitedly when it passed by. To us it could be likened to a later accomplishment when the U.S. landed on the moon. Occasionally a circus train would pass by, and of course, there was a big audience. I recall riding in a caboose with my Grandpa, Joe Paluka, to Princeton where a circus was held. Another time my younger brother and I walked aimlessly along the tracks looking for frogs. There was an abundance of them from the river. We found ourselves near Bannerman with a quarter gunny bag of frogs. They were kind of heavy by then, so we got a ride back home on a train that had stopped for water. My brother, Walter, (he's a grandfather now) didn't know what to do with the frogs when we got on board, so he stuck the bag behind the bib of his overalls. An official croak had people looking questionably in our direction.

The trainmen and engineers got to be old friends, as they went by almost daily. We would run out and wave, as they blew the whistle for the crossing coming up soon. Again in watermelon season, the freights would stop as my Dad, Anton Yeska, had his patch within sight of the tracks. With sufficient rainfall on our sandy soil it was common to produce 25 pound melons. And were they good.

Let's not forget the hobo, or tramp, as he was usually called. There were plenty of those walking the tracks or frequently seen hooking a ride in an open box car. They often stopped at the house, and Mother would give them a sandwich, or article of clothing.

They were allowed one night's lodging in the old fire house and a meal from Callahan's. Then they had to move on.

Everyone remembers Callahan's. They were two sisters who ran the local Hotel and boarding house, both are long since deceased. Often I helped Julia or Agnes take a basket lunch to the Depot for the train men. It was usually filled with their delectable fried chicken and Julia's homemade icebox cookies that would melt in your mouth. The train didn't always stop, but the engineer would hold out a curved hook of some sort and catch the basket's handle and proceed on his way. The next trip back he'd return it in the same method (empty of course).

The Depot — that's long gone too. How well I remember the old Depot agent, Jess Cook. His office was a buzz of excitement with the telegraph keys clicking almost continuously. There was a tall pot-bellied stove to keep the place warm. Sometimes my husband would send a telegram for me, and Jess would deliver it personally. That is when I expected him to come, and there was a last minute change of plans.

I recall on our wedding day we received 3 telegrams from friends who could not attend.

Potatoes for Dahlke's warehouse were delivered by train. Also grain for the feed mill where flour was made at that time.

It is sad when what used to be considered progress is no longer needed. They may tear out the tracks from my old familiar haunts, but the memories will long remain.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

August 5, 1987

Letter to the Editor
Kewaskum Statesman
250 Main St.
Kewaskum, WI 53040

Dear editor,

There appears to be some confusion regarding the Hwy. 28 road reconstruction east of Kewaskum, in particular the question of whether or not the State is modifying the S-curve near Oak road which is acknowledged to be a very dangerous area of the road.

When plans were first publicized about the reconstruction the Kewaskum Town Board, and in particular our Chairman George Allmann, made it known to the State that it would be very foolish to rebuild the road and not improve the S-curve in question. We had some meetings with the State and the D.N.R. which owns the land on both sides of the road and in December of 1985 we came to an agreement with the above parties, the results being that the road would be modified to the degree that safety would be improved by correcting some of the faults in the curve.

The curve is being corrected, and in the following manner: 1) it is being changed from a compound curve to a simple curve; this means that the curvature does not increase once you are into the curve, forcing one to turn more sharply after you have entered the curve; 2) the curve is being constructed so as to allow it to be driven at fifty five miles per hour under normal conditions; 3) the sharpest curve is being reduced from an 8 degree curve to a 5 degree curve, and 4) visibility is also being improved.

There will always be a curve on Hwy. 28. I feel, however that because of the town board's persistence, the State has redesigned it in such a manner that its safety will be greatly improved.

In closing, I would like to add that if anyone would like to see a drawing of the plan for the new curve, I will have one available for them to see, and will try to answer any questions that they might have.

Sincerely yours,
Daniel Stoffel,
Supervisor,
Town of Kewaskum

Century Farmers Honored at State Fair

Over 122 families from 49 Wisconsin counties were honored at the "Century Farm and Home Awards" program held at the State Fair on August 12. Each family received a certificate and metal plaque commemorating 100 years of continued ownership of the farm by the same family. The honorees were guests at the program and breakfast buffet sponsored by Hillshire Farm Company, New London, the nation's largest producer of Natural Casing Smoked Sausage. This year marks Hillshire Farm's 13th year of sponsoring the program which recognizes and supports family farm ownership and operation. In order to qualify for the award, a family must have owned the property for 100 years prior to December of 1986.

Alice in Dairyland, Kristine Gratz and Fairest of the Fair, Kim Nettesheim, along with Hillshire Farm executives, were on hand to meet and greet Century Farm guests.

The following area farmers were honored at the fair. The date the farm was acquired follows the owner's name.

Some UWWC Classes May Be Audited At No Charge

If you are 62 years of age or older, you can take a University of Wisconsin course free when fall classes begin September 8 at the UW Center-Washington County.

Older students have an option of auditing a course at no charge, provided space is available and with the consent of the instructor.

Auditing means that a course is taken for enrichment purposes rather than credit. Auditors usually take no exams and do not have their work evaluated by the instructor but often may do so if they choose.

Younger students may audit a course at half the current cost of $52 per credit. Audited courses may be taken along with for-credit courses but do not affect a student's grade-point average.

Last fall, 391 students audited courses at the 13 two-year UW Centers including 16 at UWWC.

Of these students, 152 were over age 62 or disabled including 7 at UWWC.

Special parking privileges are available at UWWC for students with disabilities that make walking difficult. An elevator in the Main building provides access to all campus classrooms.

Classrooms do not count toward full-time status for veterans or persons drawing educational social security benefits.

Students who enroll on an audit basis can shift to a for-credit status by September 21, the end of the first two weeks of the fall semester. Audited courses can be changed to credit until November 16, the end of the tenth week of the semester.

Fall semester registration is September 2, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Classes begin Tuesday, September 8.

For further information call the UWWC Student Services Office at 338-5201.

Vent Pressure Canners Ten Minutes Before Timing

By Lonna Pierce
Summer Home Economist

Your pressure canner needs to work up a head of steam before it can function properly. New research supports the need to vent all types of pressure canners for 10 minutes before beginning to process timing.

Venting will ensure that the canned products reach the higher-than-boiling temperatures needed to kill dangerous organisms. Such temperatures are reached when pure steam is under pressure in a pressure canner. If air remains in the canner, the steam/air mixture does not reach high enough temperatures to destroy the bacterial spores that cause botulism. Venting the canner for 10 minutes assures you that air is removed and that the jars of food will be surrounded by pure steam.

To vent your pressure canner, place the jars in the pressure canner and cover it, leaving the steam vent pipe or petcock open. Increase the heat to bring the water in the canner back to a full boil. The steam will drive the air out of the canner. Allow steam to flow freely from the steam vent tube or petcock for 10 minutes. Then place the weighted pressure control on the steam vent or close the petcock (on dial-gauge canners) and allow the pressure to reach the desired level before you begin to count the process time.

Before you use your canner this season, check the gaskets to be sure they are flexible and in good condition. If you have a dial-gauge canner, have the gauge checked for accuracy at the Washington County Extension Office. Gauges should be checked each year.

McCallum Urges Small Business Owners to Participate in Conferences

Over 100,000 brochures with registration forms have been sent to Wisconsin small businesses for the September regional meetings of the Governor's Conference on Small Business, Lt. Governor Scott McCallum announced Wednesday.

Seventeen regional conferences are slated across the state. The purpose of the regional conference is to assess a region's primary business concerns in an effort to bring into focus the topics of discussion for the statewide conference in Madison, November ninth and tenth.

Registration for the regional conference is $15. The registration deadline is August 15th. The conferences are expected to last the day's duration. Those registering will be given specific times for their conferences upon receipt of their registration forms.

Any business owners with less than 500 employees (U.S. Small Business Administration are invited to participate in the conferences. The goal of each region is to have a wide cross section of businesses involved, from farmers to manufacturers.

Conference registrants desiring to be considered as delegate to the state conference are asked to so indicate on their registration form. Delegates must be small business owners or operators. Delegate selection will take place at the end of each regional conference. Small business owners or operators may also attend the regional conferences as "participants" and anyone can attend as an "observer."

"It is essential for us to receive input from the state's small businesses so this administration can take that agenda and see that the goals are realized. The statewide conference is only the beginning of our continuing efforts to dramatize how vital small businesses are to Wisconsin," McCallum said. "Please register for your regional conference to have the input you deserve."

Anyone with questions about the conferences should call the toll-free Governor's Small Business Conference Hotline. 1-800-236-1102.

Free and Reduced Price School Meals Available to Eligible Households

The School District of Kewaskum today announced its policy for children unable to pay the full price of meals served under the National School Lunch Program. Each school office and the central office has a copy of the policy, which may be reviewed by an interested party.

The following household size and income criteria will be used for determining eligibility. Children from families whose annual income is at or below the levels shown may be eligible for free and reduced price meals.

Family (Household) Size	Annual Income (Free) Meals	Annual Income (Reduced) Price Meals
	Must be at or below	Must be at or between
1	$ 7,150	$ 7,151 and 10,175
2	9,620	9,621 and 13,690
3	12,090	12,091 and 17,205
4	14,560	14,561 and 20,720
5	17,030	17,031 and 24,235
6	19,500	19,501 and 27,750
7	21,970	21,971 and 31,265
8	24,440	24,441 and 34,780
For each additional family member, add	+2,470	+2,470 and +3,515

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a notice to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced price meals, households must fill out the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or other program officials. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

To obtain free or reduced price meals for children for whom households receive Food Stamps or Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), an adult household member needs only to list the names of the school children, give Food Stamp or AFDC number, print and sign his/her name and return the application to the school office. Households must inform the school authorities when they no longer receive Food Stamps or AFDC.

For the school officials to determine eligibility for free and reduced price meals for households not receiving Food Stamps or AFDC, the household must provide the following information requested on the application: Names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a notation that the household member does not possess one; total household income must be listed and the amount received by each household member receiving income and the type of income it is (such as wages, child support, etc.) and the printed name and signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

Under the provisions of the School Agency's policy for free and reduced price meal business manager will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis.

If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he/she may make a request either orally or in writing to: Penny Kleinhans, District Administrator, School District of Kewaskum, 1450 School Street, Kewaskum, WI 53040, (414) 626-8427, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the family should contact the school. Such changes may make the household eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals if the household income falls at or below the levels shown above and they may apply at that time.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a household had foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals for them, the household should complete an application for a family of one or contact the school for more information.

The information provided by the household on the application is confidential and will be used only for purposes of determining eligibility and verifying data.

In the operation of the child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Any questions regarding the application should be directed to the determining official. Please call 626-8427.

OK Contract for Electrical Maintenance In Washington, Other Southeastern Counties

Governor Tommy Thompson has approved a $250,000 contract to provide major electrical maintenance work on traffic lights and signals in the eight-county southeastern district of the Department of Transportation.

The work will be completed by early September, according to Harvey Shebesta, director of the Department of Transportation's Waukesha district, which includes Fond du Lac, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Racine, Walworth, Washington and Waukesha counties.

"To improve traffic safety, we'll be cleaning and repairing traffic signals and freeway lights throughout our district," said Shebesta. "Traffic signals are replaced every two years and freeway lighting is changed every four years. Drivers should be alert to workers performing electrical maintenance during the summer months and drive carefully when near the work zones." Most of the work will be done at night with minimal disruption to traffic, so there will be no detours.

The contractor is Darwin Electric, Oconto.

Wisconsin has 383 dairy plants manufacturing one or more dairy products.

Folk Harper to Appear at UWWC

Sylvia Woods is one of the leading folk harpers in the world. But she's not above shooting a rubber-tipped arrow at her audience from a harp string — or following up a concert with a round of gypsy music in a local pub.

At 7:30 p.m., Aug. 20, Woods will appear here in concert in the student union theatre at the UW Center — Washington County. Tickets cost $5 and are available only at the door.

Woods is available to tutor master classes on Aug. 19 and 20. For details, contact Doug Kleinhans, Box 139 Cedar Grove, Wis., 53013, or call him at 414-668-6238 from 5 to 10 p.m.

The California harper attained international prominence in 1980 when she became the first American to ever win the All-Ireland Harp Championship at Buncrana, County Donegal, Ireland. Later she surprised Irish fans by joining in pub celebrations and playing jigs, reels and hornpipes.

Among her credits are three appearances on "Prairie Home Companion" with Garrison Keillor.

Woods is a harper, the designation given those who play small folk harps. Harpists play the large concert or pedal harps that date back to Bach's time.

Her special passion is the Celtic folk harp. She plays the three basic types.

—The metal-strung harp with hardwood soundboard that dates back thousands of years;

—The nylon-strong or neo-Celtic harp with a soundboard made from spruce and ranging in size from small to floor-standing.

—The rare Welsh triple-strung harp, about 6' tall with 101 strings in three parallel rows, with the middle row accessible only by reaching through the other two.

In an article in the May 1983 issue of FRETTS magazine, Woods, was quoted as predicting that everyone in the U.S. will know about folk harps by the mid-1990s.

"As for now," she said, "this is a good time to be a harper because you're in demand. You're not one of 5,000 guitar players in a town of 6,000 people. And if you're the only harper around, you're automatically the best. That's a nice feeling."

GTE Issues Credits Based On Federal Tax Reform

Effective August 13, GTE-Wisconsin customers noticed - and benefited from - a new credit contained in monthly bills. According to State Vice President - General Manager James D. Blanchard, Sun Prairie, the firm on August 4 received Public Service Commission of Wisconsin authorization to provide its more than 340,000 customers savings granted the firm through passage of the federal "Tax Reform Act of 1986."

"GTE-Wisconsin takes this step to provide its customers the fullest, most equitable measure of savings resulting from this legislation," Blanchard noted. He added that the average monthly credit for one-party business customers would equal approximately 64 cents, while single-party residence customers could expect average monthly savings of some 33 cents.

Each individual's exact credit amount, to vary based upon services purchased, will be included on the bill next to the "2.155% credit on basic services" listing.

25 Years Ago

August 10, 1962

Much confusion and excitement was caused to say the least among our residents by the screaming of fire and police sirens on Wednesday afternoon. It started when the fire alarm sounded to summon the firemen to a threatening grass fire at the Town of Kewaskum dump off Kettle Moraine Drive southeast of the village. The blaze was a serious one and burned over several acres of grassland and wooded area on state owned land before the fire fighters got it under control. Fortunately the flames were stopped just feet short of a large woods. A crew of men from state forest headquarters at Mauthe Lake joined in the work and with Indian pumps and brooms helped contain the job and snuffed out flames that broke out anew. While the firemen were at the scene the local siren wailed again for another fire at the Ray Bales farm in the Town of Auburn north of the village, but firemen were unable to hear the siren. Chief of Police Roland Pledl then attempted to contact the radio equipped firemen's equipment truck but as all the firemen were busy at the time no one was in the truck for a few minutes and Chief Pledl couldn't get the call through. With his squad car siren screaming he did the only thing left to do, racing to the scene in person to inform the firemen of the second blaze. In the meantime when the firemen couldn't be reached and to save time, one fire department member who had remained in town called the Campbellsport department and asked them to answer the call to the Bales farm. As soon as Chief Pledl got word to the local firemen that they were needed at the second blaze, the men pulled out, leaving the state crew to finish. With sirens again sounding, they raced back to the village, stopping at the fire station to refill their truck tank with water and then sped to the Bales farm. When they arrived the Campbellsport firemen had the fire under control. The blaze started in a chopper box containing straw which was being blown into the barn. The floor of the chopper box caught fire under the straw. These flames were put out handily but it was feared that some of the burning straw might have been blown into the barn as there were reports that smoke was seen coming from inside the barn, but stayed at the scene to make sure there was no fire in the straw there.

Word was received here this week that a station wagon, house trailer and all its contents owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mitchell of Kewaskum were destroyed by fire in the Black Hills of South Dakota the forepart of this week while the couple and their two daughters, Patty and Pammy, were vacationing home from an extended vacation trip. The Mitchell family had been on a trip to California and other western states and were visiting the Black Hills enroute home when the fire occurred. It was reported by local residents who heard from one of the front wheels of the trailer, caused either by a blowout or a brake bearing tightening and the entire wagon, trailer and belongings were destroyed.

Charles Schultz, 29, of Kewaskum, suffered injuries when he accidentally fell 15 feet to the ground from the top of a concrete wall at the Kewaskum Frozen Foods plant on Wednesday morning. A new slaughter house addition is being built at the locker plant. The work is being done by Schultz Brothers, with whom Charles, a son of one of the them, is employed. He was walking along the top of the east wall when he tripped on one of the steel bars protruding from the cement, lost his balance and fell to the ground. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, West Bend.

Carl Marquardt, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Marquardt, Kewaskum, has recovered after suffering second degree burns to his face, neck and chest on Monday afternoon of last week when his shirt caught fire while he played with matches in his backyard on Riverview Drive. Leo suffered second degree burns to his left arm and hands.

Kewaskum's AFS exchange student, Georgia Malamaki of Volos, Greece, has arrived and the community extends her a hearty welcome. Georgia will spend the year with her American family, the Ralph Erdmanns, while attending our Kewaskum High School.

In a recent real estate transaction, Fairmont Foods Company purchased the Elroy Egerer apartment house on Fond du Lac Avenue. There are three apartments occupied in the building at the present time. The building will be torn down and the property will be used by Fairmont either as a parking lot or for future expansion of the plant.

Miss Jane Herman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Herman, Kewaskum florists, attended the Belows School of Floral Design at Lansing, Michigan from July 30 to August 3. She took a course in all phases of floral work.

Mrs. Helmut Prause, nee Fridel Arlt, 55, Kewaskum, died August 9 at her home.

Pvt. Loren Coulter, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Coulter, Route 3, Campbellsport, completed four weeks of individual combat training on July 6 with the Second Infantry Training Regiment at the Marine Corps base, Camp Pendleton, California.

Each year at the Washington County Fair, there are many excellent exhibits, many of which stand out. These are then selected as champions of their class. Among the winners at this year's fair, Paul Redig of Kewaskum, was the champion in the crafts class with his tooled leather purse. The tooling was outstanding and a very neat job of lacing was also done.

Miss Veronica Mary Sukawaty, 82, a lifelong resident of the Town of Wayne, passed away at her home August 6, following a lingering illness.

Fifty-six student nurses at Chicago Wesley Memorial Hospital School of Nursing received their school pins on August 10, symbolizing the successful completion of their program. Out-of-state girls among the 56 who received pins included Carol Ann Miller, 236 Main Street, Kewaskum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Normie Dogs, Route 1, Mayville, on August 2. Mrs. Dogs is the former Duane Etta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Etta, Route 1, Kewaskum. Daughters were also born to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Galabinske, Kewaskum, on August 2, and to Mr. and Mrs. Willard (Barney) Prost, Route 2, Kewaskum, on August 6. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Laatsch, Kewaskum, on August 5.

The Village of Kewaskum employed a group of men this last week building sidewalks on two village streets. At present the men are building a walk on the East side of the road, on West Water Street, from Wietor's Barber Shop for one block to the John Weddig property. There was no walk at that location up to this time. After finishing that project the workmen will move their equipment to Railroad Street where a walk will be built on the East side of the road from the S. N. Casper tavern for one block to Louis Bath's machine shop. The slab sidewalk now being used there will be torn up.

Motion was made by Trustee Van Blarcom at the regular monthly session of the Village Board on August 2, and seconded by Trustee Weddig, that Arnold Kutz be engaged to September 7, as supervisor at the bathing beach at the rate of $30 per month.

Sixteen young men have entered the tennis tournament to be held in this village, playing of which will begin some time next week, as soon as the caretaker, Mr. Bassil, gets the courts in good shape. Pairings for the first round of play were drawn up on Tuesday evening as follows: Clifford Rose vs. Curtis Romaine; Kilian Honeck Jr. vs. Bernard Hafemann; Henry Lay vs. Albert Hron Jr.; Howard Schmidt vs. Louis Bath Jr.; Walt Keller vs. Harold Bartelt; William Harbeck vs. Otto Weddig; Paul Kral vs. Lloyd Hron, and Paul Landmann vs. Lloyd Dreyer.

In a quiet summer wedding performed by Rev. Philip J. Vogt, in the Holy Trinity Church parsonage in this village on August 5th, Miss Dolores Andre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Andre of Kewaskum, and Henry Lemke of West Bend, became husband and wife.

William Albert Quandt, 63, well known merchant of many years in the village of New Fane, died suddenly of a heart stroke while helping to haul in grain on the Art Feuerhammer farm near that village on August 11.

Mrs. Wilhelmina Degnitz, nee Dautermann, 86, a lifelong resident of the Town of Wayne, passed away on the homestead in which she was born and raised on August 6. She had been suffering with illness for two years, caused by heart trouble and the complications of old

NEWS EXTRA

August Is Most Deadly Month On Wisconsin Highways

August — traditionally the month of beach parties, softball games and the State Fair — is also the most deadly month on Wisconsin highways.

During the past 10 years, a total of 980 people have been killed in August traffic crashes, ranging from a high of 133 fatalities in August 1980 to a low of 73 deaths in August 1982. Last year the August death toll was 83.

Maynard G. Stoehr, highway safety coordinator for the state Department of Transportation, said several factors may contribute to the high number of fatal accidents in August, which leads July only slightly as the most dangerous month (a total of 950 deaths over the past 10 years).

"Not only are those the months of heaviest travel, but they're also the months when people are driving to and from events where alcohol is served," Stoehr said. "Young people are eager to cram in as much fun as possible before school begins again, and alcohol has played a major role in their recreation," he added.

Wisconsin's 21 year old drinking age, which went into effect last year, may soon help reduce the traffic death toll. "With the grandfather clause that permitted people to continue to drink once they had attained the previous legal drinking age of 19, it will be Sept. 1, 1988 before no one under the age of 21 may drink legally," Stoehr said.

A mandatory seat belt law could also help reduce the traffic death toll in Wisconsin, Stoehr said. "It's a fact that seat belts have proven to be effective in reducing the severity of injuries suffered in the majority of traffic crashes."

"We know that seat belts will not prevent all traffic deaths from occurring, but they can make the difference between being fatally injured and surviving with lesser injuries," he added.

age. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Backus of Dundee are the parents of a son born on August 3 at their home. Mrs. Backus was formerly Leona Roehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Roehl.

3,000 Seats Sold During Fifth Repertory Season of UWWC's Theatre on the Hill

Nearly 3,000 seats were sold here during the fifth summer repertory season of the Theatre on the Hill at the UW Center - Washington County.

The season ended August 2 with a total of 2,984 tickets sold for the four-production 19-performance season that began July 11. An average of 157 persons attended each performance, up from 125 last summer. UWWC's student union theatre holds 290 persons.

Brad Ford, producer and artistic director of the theatre, proclaimed the 1987-season a financial as well as an on-stage success. "Being a self-supporting company," he said, "we will have enough to open next year, including an expanded children's theatre program."

Attendance climbed on each of the three weekends of the summer season. On the first full weekend of shows, July 16-19, the two matinees and four evening shows drew 848 persons. Total attendance climbed to 935 the second weekend; 1,088 the third.

Final figures for the summer musicals show that "H.M.S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan played to 975 people, Cole Porter's "Kiss Me, Kate" 931, the children's production of "How to Eat like a Child" 575 and "The Amorous Flea," a musical takeoff on Moliere's "School for Wives," 503.

"Kate" proved the box-office smash of the summer, averaging 233 persons at each performance and achieving a standing-room-only sellout on its closing Saturday night.

Saturday night productions were the most popular with area audiences drawing an average of 202 persons.

An average of 166 persons attended both the matinees and evening shows.

According to Ford, an assistant professor of communication and theatre arts at UWWC, the summer season was boosted by a tripling of season ticket sales over 1986. Sales, he said, were "booming." The 323 season tickets sold produced $2,878 in revenue.

An extra 65 people were admitted to all performances due to a $25 family season ticket that was good at Sunday performances and Saturday matinees. Along with 17 family tickets and 162 general admission season tickets, 162 senior citizens and 13 children purchased tickets for all four shows at half-price.

Of the 5,510 seats available for the summer season, more than half (54%) were occupied. About half (52%) of all seats sold were purchased by season ticket holders.

Ford plans to repeat the abbreviated three-weekend schedule of rotating plays in 1988. "I like the three weeks very much," he said.

He feels the alternating of plays is a good way to "accommodate summer vacationers." He said, "Some people who were not around during the first two weeks this year, saw all the plays on the last weekend."

State Residents to Pay 9% More for Tuition, Fees at UW

Fall semester tuition and fees will be 9 percent higher than last year for state residents attending the University of Wisconsin.

On Aug. 10, invoices of fall costs were scheduled to be mailed to students due to start classes on Sept. 8 at the UW Center - Washington County.

Ron Moss, UWWC business manager, said total bills for full-time Wisconsin residents carrying 12 or more credits will be $680.50, an increase of $56.

Part-time tuition and fees are $56.85 per credit.

Full-time costs for out-of-state students are $2,059.50 or $171.60 per credit.

The increases were set by the state legislature and are intended to help provide 340 new faculty positions and 700 additional class sections for the UW System over the next two years.

Community members can audit courses for half of the for-credit fee in classes where enrollments are not filled. Persons over the age of 65 can audit classes free.

Fees at the 13 two-year centers are lower than at the four-year campuses and range from $718 at UW Richland Center to $676 at UW Rock County.

Each center charges an identical instruction fee of $625.50. Variations in costs are due to other "segregated" fees that are assessed for a variety of services.

Three segregated fees are charged at every center: a new municipal services fee that reimburses the city for fire and police protection and other costs and variable athletics and a student activities fee that provide for extra-curricular activities.

Segregated fees are prorated to a student on a per-credit basis. In 1987-88, a full-time student at UWWC will pay $5 for municipal services, $7.75 for student activities, $12 for fine arts and $2.75 for "Ubiquitous," the student newspaper.

In addition, each student at every center is assessed a 50 cent fee for membership in the United Council of UW System Student Governments.

SENSENBRENNER ASKS JAPAN TO PAY ITS FAIR SHARE

(Washington, D.C.) — "While we are sacrificing our defense priorities and our young people in the military to fund the reflagging efforts in the Persian Gulf, Japan pays nothing. Yet, Japan is the main beneficiary of this operation," said REP. F. JAMES SENSENBRENNER, JR. (R-WI). Sensenbrenner has introduced a resolution which proposes that Japan financially support the U.S. naval forces in the Persian Gulf. It is currently costing the U.S. $17 million each day to maintain its fleets in the Gulf.

Sensenbrenner said, "Japan is using our protection to strengthen its economy, increase its exports, and compete with the United States costing Americans their jobs. Japan's economy flourishes and its young people are safe while we pay in dollars and lives. This is not fair."

On July 22, 1987, the U.S., at the request of the Kuwaiti government, initiated a precarious policy of reflagging and escorting commercial oil tankers through the Persian Gulf waters. Among the various reasons behind this policy is the desire to obstruct the expansion of Soviet influence in this destabilized region. However, the primary and immediate goal is to ensure an unimpeded flow of Gulf oil to the industrialized nations of the Free World.

Sensenbrenner said, "In light of the fact that Japan receives the majority of its oil through the Persian Gulf, it is only fair that Japan assist the U.S. reflagging policy by politically supporting and monetarily reimbursing our government for its services."

Receiving nearly 60% of its oil from the Gulf, Japan is the largest beneficiary of the U.S. reflagging and escort policy. The United States receives only 6% of its oil needs from this area.

Sensenbrenner concluded, "It is only appropriate that Japan devote more of its resources to those policies which defend their viability as an industrialized Free World nation."

staff and deans of various programs.

Murphy prefers to talk about transfer "rumors" rather than problems. In traveling the state to look at transfer troubles, he said he has discovered "there are a lot of rumors about transfer that just aren't true."

Part of his task, he said, has been "trying to clarify just what's going on so everybody will know."

Murphy said, "You can't change things until you identify them. There simply has not been the formal communication between institutions that there should be. A lot of it is sporadic, informal and gets lost — leading to band-aid-type approaches to problems."

After collecting additional information, Murphy said he will work with Portch to write articulation proposals which will go to four-year campuses for their approval.

"In some cases," he said, "this may involve the centers changing our curriculum — adding and deleting courses. In some cases, it may require having four year campuses look at which courses they require in certain semesters and altering some of their timing for transfer."

"We're asking everyone to review what it is we do with transfers, to make sure our reasons for procedures, policies and practices make educational sense."

Scotching transfer rumors and solving real problems, Murphy said, requires backing off and taking a broader look — "identifying core educational objectives and finding courses that fit in meeting them."

If successful, he said, this approach should "make it as easy as possible for students to take two years at a center without getting into any trouble at transfer time."

Up until now, Murphy contended, transfer discussions have been approached "on a course-for-course equivalency basis." However, he added, individual transfer snarls are usually approached with "a spirit of accommodation."

According to Murphy, articulation agreements would "formalize what we've been doing, so the student doesn't have to ask for it to happen."

An illustration, he said, would be a transfer program that normally requires a student to have taken a certain history course but accepts another specific course as a substitute upon request. "Why not list that in the school's publications?" Murphy asked.

He cited a successful UW-Milwaukee and UWWC effort to resolve transfer difficulties as an example of what can be done. "They instituted new general education requirements, which is very hard for an institution that size to do," he said. "But they never considered the consequences this would have on the two-year centers."

"After we pointed out the hardship, they went through our curriculum and identified those courses, which although not equivalent, would meet the same educational objectives. Within a year's time, they had made tremendous changes to accommodate our students."

How are the four-year campuses responding to the initiative by Chancellor Portch? During his initial campus visits, Murphy said he has found the schools "very receptive" to the articulation agreement.

In looking at the whole transfer scene, he said, "about 90 percent of our practices make sense, but the other 10 percent ought to be looked at in the spirit of accommodation."

An administrator at the UW Center — Washington County will continue to spearhead efforts to streamline transfer procedures between two-year centers and four-year campuses in the University of Wisconsin System.

Mike Murphy, director of student services at UWWC, has been re-assigned by UW Centers Chancellor Steven Portch of Madison to develop written articulation agreements, contracts that formalize the transfer process for each student.

From January through June, Murphy spent half of his time dealing with transfer issues. The new appointment, which runs from July through December, calls for him to split his time 75-25 between his duties for the Centers and UWWC.

By the end of the year, he will have made two visits to each four-year UW campus meeting with administrators, admissions

Superintendent Peter Albers of the Water Pollution Control Department was asked if any progress has been made with correcting the problems at the Dairy. Trustee Richard Schmidt, the County Library Board Representative, reviewed several items discussed at the County Library Board meeting of July 16, 1987.

A discussion was held on the Bids received for the Fire House Renovations and the recommendation of the Village Engineer. It was felt the bids were not responsive and to make it clearer and to answer questions yet unanswered it was felt the bids should all be rejected and a rebidding take place.

The Constitution...200 Years of Celebration

The celebration started in 1976, when America observed the 200th birthday of independence. Last year, we watched television and saw the festivities for the anniversary of the Statue of Liberty.

Constitutional Convention, 1787

A 14-cent postal card is the first of several stamp related items to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the Constitution.

There won't be a Tall Ships flotilla, or a Liberty Weekend with Lee Iacocca as host, but before the year is over, most Americans will be familiar with the Constitution.

The U.S. Postal Service is taking part in the celebration with several issues. The tribute started May 25 with a 14-cent Constitutional Convention post card, which is available at your local post office.

In 1787, the 55 delegates to the Convention had a basic issue of concern: What was the extent of powers to be granted to the national government? The major problem was the conflicting interests of small and large states. The representatives from Connecticut suggested the compromise solution that allowed every state an equal vote in the Senate, while representation in the House was based on population. This still exists today.

There were several sections of the Constitution that needed clarification and the Bill of Rights was born. These included how to limit national power over individual liberties. The nature and extent of the implied powers of Congress produced years of argument. Failure to clearly define aspects of sovereignty opened the door for the state's right movement that led to the Civil War.

Despite its faults, the Constitution was the boldest step toward government of, by and for the people to be undertaken in the Western world.

It is interesting to note that while we have been using the same Constitution for 200 years, this is not true in other countries. Bolivia, for example, has had 70 presidents and 11 constitutions since 1825. Imagine how many more stamps would have been printed if the number of US presidents were doubled and if we had several constitutions.

The postal card is the first of three U.S. Constitution anniversary issues planned for this year. The other two items will be a booklet of five stamps and a commemorative postage stamp. This column will tell you when they are at your local post office.

STAMPING AROUND

by Les Winick

- Our post office tried camels for mail delivery during the Civil War. They did not work out because the animals stampeded when they came into contact with horses or mules and bit their drivers. Today, letter carriers only have dog bites to worry about.

- The lowest post office in the world is located in Death Valley, 280 feet below sea level. It is also the hottest area served by the Postal Service.

- A yachtsman recently visited the Tuvalu Islands in the South Pacific. It's unconfirmed, but the manager of the local stamp bureau reported that the boat owner did not have a map of the islands, but was able to navigate through the shallows by using a Tuvalu postage stamp that pictured the islands in detail.

- Years ago, in Norway and Sweden, when a message was extremely urgent, a feather was attached to the envelope, indicating that postal officials should "fly like a bird" and deliver the message with all speed. These envelopes still exist today and are considered highly collectible items by stamp collectors.

- Post, as in "post office" comes from the Latin "Positiones," the inns where men and horses were housed at the end of a day's journey in ancient Rome. Today, restaurants that provide refreshments during or after a journey are named Post Houses.

- A 15-cent stamp issued in 1866 pictured Abraham Lincoln was printed in black as a sign of mourning for the president, although it was not originally designed to be one.

At the time, the post office had a black 15-cent stamp in the planning stage with another picture, but after Lincoln's assassination, it made a decision to put the president's portrait on the issue.

The first official mourning stamp issued by the U.S. was the 2-cent Harding memorial issue of 1923. The idea of mourning stamps originated in 1888 with the German post office, which issued black bordered stamps shortly after the death of William I.

Mourning covers seem to have also started in Germany. The envelopes with black bands around the border, were used as a method of letting the recipient know that there was bad news inside the letter. The practice of using these "mourning covers" quickly spread throughout the world and collectors try to find several examples for their collection.

- Stamp collecting is full of history, excitement and adventure. If you want to learn more about stamp collecting, write to: COPO, P.O. Box 1625, Homewood, IL 60430.

Cleaning tackle box can be as easy as one, two, three

Cleaning a moderately messy or gunky tackle box at season's end can be as easy as one, two, three. Here's how the people at Plano, one tackle-box manufacturer, suggest it be done:

1. Empty the box and sort the contents for tidy re-stowing in good order.
2. Using a mild dishwater detergent, sprinkle the box's interior liberally—especially dirty corners. Add a little water and let it set a while, scrubbing bad spots with an old toothbrush.
3. Rinse briskly with lawn hose and let dry in wind and sun. If time is short, use a hair dryer. Then put everything back where it really belongs.

Kewaskum's Jeff Miller On All-Conference Team

by: Ann-Marie Horner
Kewaskum outfielder, Jeff Miller, was selected on either the first team All Conference or the second team.

Miller hit at .407 and went 24 out of 59 times at bat. Plymouth and Chilton took eight of the twenty-two top places on the All Conference teams. The Tigers were 14-4 and had two people on the team, Kevin Mayers and Dean Criter. Criter has an infield position and Mayers is a pitcher. The Plymouth players include: pitcher Troy Petrie, catcher Todd Struve, infielder Jeff Pietsch and pitcher Joel Schumacher. Preston Amond, a senior from Two Rivers, won the batting title. Amond hit an enormous .537 and went 36 out of 67 times at bat. The standings for the Eastern Conference are as follows: Plymouth and Chilton, 14-4; New Holstein, 10-8; Sheboygan Falls, 8-10; Kiel, 7-11; Kewaskum, 6-12; Two Rivers, 4-14.

Loss to Grafton Leaves Athletics at 6-8 in Lakes

By Bob Pick II
The Kewaskum Athletics had some more rough going in Land o' Lakes baseball play last Sunday afternoon. The Athletics lost a 6-4 heartbreaker to Grafton and have now fallen to a 6-8 Northern Division record.

Grafton outhit the Athletics 11-7. Kewaskum rightfielder Jeff Geidel had two hits as one of two Athletic players to collect more than one hit. Third sacker Steve Muench had two singles during the contest.

Grafton took a 3-0 lead in the top of the first inning on three singles, a walk and three costly errors in the hosts infield. They made it 4-0 in the second on a double and a single.

Kewaskum's initial run crossed the plate in the fifth, when Bob Yahr's fielders choice drove in Geidel who had singled earlier, from third.

Dave Donath drove in the Athletics second run with a double to right center scoring Randy Heberer in the home eighth.

Grafton scored twice in the top of the ninth on two singles, a walk and error number four in the Kewaskum infield. Geidel belted a two run homer in the bottom of the ninth but it wasn't quite enough.

Manager Tom Bartelt was not pleased with the outcome. "This was a game we should have won. Those errors really killed us. If you make mistakes against a contending team like Grafton has been this summer, you're gonna pay. We can still finish above the .500 mark this season, but it's going to take better defense play than we've been showing lately."

The Athletics will play a road game on Sunday against the Port Washington Lakers beginning at 1:30 p.m.

Curzon, Born Claim Expo Wins As Records Fall

By: Dick Jepsen
Gregg Curzon of Bailey's Harbor and Jim Kroening of Milwaukee made it two feature wins out of three at the Manitowoc Expo half mile Wednesday night. John Born driving the Edgewood Pools and Spas Firebird took the lead just after the midpoint in the sportsmen feature to claim his first feature at the Expo. John Hoch set his second qualifying record in four days by lowering the qualifying mark of 22.586 to 22.118, and Jim Pitzen cranked out a 26.200 to break the record of 26.772.

Terry Chesak of Newburg paced the 19 car modified feature for the first two circuits before giving the lead to Tim Melis of Plymouth. Chesak dropped to fourth behind Chuck Melis and Gregg Curzon but moved into third on lap five as Chuck Melis stalled in the mainstretch bring out the first of two red flags. On the restart Curzon moved to the outside of Melis in turn two to take the lead. Curzon ran away from the field to win his second Expo feature beating out runner-up Hoch. Chesak putting on the best performance of his young career finished third followed by Mike Frost and Terry Marten of Sheboygan Falls.

The sportsmen feature got off to a bad start as a spin in the front of the pack sent the eighteen car field scrambling in the back stretch. Steve Goetsch of Sheboygan showed the power of his '73 Mustang as he walked away from the field on the restart. John Born moving from the fourteenth starting position took over the fifth spot on lap 3 and before the red flag came out on lap 7 took over the runner-up spot. The red was caused when Jeff Brendel lost a rear wheel, spun wildly, and was hit by Bernie Jessen and Mark Melger. Born overhauled Goetsch in turn four on the restart for the lead, and went onto win by three lengths over Geiger, Pitzen, Randy Markwardt and Keith Borth rounded out the top five. David Laabs led the opening lap in the hobby feature before Bob Mauk lost a wheel in the backstretch bringing out the red. Laabs held the lead for one lap after the restart before Milwaukee's Jim Kroening went inside of him in turn 4 for the lead, and went on for a six car length advantage over Laabs at the checkers. Dave Murre finished third with Dale Peters fourth.

The next appearance by Eastern Wisconsin Stock Cars at the Expo track is August 19th. Time trials start at 6:30 p.m. and races at 7:30 p.m. The final race at the Expo is slated for August 26th during the Manitowoc County Fair.
