Mill Rate Drops Slightly District's '87-88 Budget Approved

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

Electors attending Monday night's Annual Meeting of the Kewaskum School District were presented with a proposed 1987-88 budget of $6,909,000, up 5.66% or $369,940 over the 1986-87 budget of $6,539,060. However, while the budget itself has gone up, the levy approved by the voters has gone down .89% from last year.

The levy, approved on a 57-2 vote, covers $3,159,500 for the General Fund and $62,000 for long term debt service, for a total levy of $3,221,500, $198,452 lower than the 86-87 levy of $3,419,952. To taxpayers, this .89% drop means the mill rate will go down from $13.67 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to $13.55.

The Department of Public Instruction has also projected a 5% decrease in the equalized valuation for this next year. According to Business Manager Cherna Gorder's report, school taxes on a $70,000 house were $956.90 in 1986-87. Should the value of the house drop 5% (new value $66,500), the taxes for 1987-88 would be $901.08, a decrease of $55.82, or 5.75%.

For the $6,909,000 budget, $6,750,000 of the revenue will come from taxes, interest, and other local revenues, and the remaining $150,000 coming from the district's Fund Equity.

The written report presented at the meeting also provided a vast and varied amount of information for the electors. One point that Gorder brought to their attention is the fact that 59.45% of the budget goes for employee salaries and 17.49% for benefits, accounting for 77% or $5,316,250 of the total budget. The remaining 23% or $1,592,750, covers Purchased Services 13.89%, Non-Capital Objects (furniture, vocational tools, athletic equipment) 5.79%, Equipment .97%, Debt Retirement .90%, Insurance and Judgements 1.19%, and other objects .32%.

The 1986 tax levy comparison, broken down by townships, showed the Town of Farmington paid the highest percentage at 26.49%, followed by the Village of Kewaskum 22.52%, Town of Wayne 15.90%, Town of Kewaskum 13.02%, Town of Scott 8.92%, Town of Auburn 7.04%, Town of Barton 5.91%, Town of Mitchell .13%, and Town of Ashford .07%. (The towns of Scott, Auburn, Barton, Mitchell and Ashford also pay taxes to other school districts).

As for the district's debt status, Gorder stated that, based on the March balance of the State Trust Fund loan, there was $75.00 of debt on a home valued at $70,000, which is considered very good. She considered the district's financial status to be in good shape.

In her welcoming address District Administrator Penny Kleinhans told the audience this year has been designated the "Year of the Family in Education." She noted the theme for October is, "Communication, A Two-way Street," which represents communication between the home, school, and the community. Kleinhans told the audience that if she had to leave them with one word it would be to communicate. "When we communicate we share our feelings and there is an exchange of information which can open minds on both sides of an issue or question. I believe the home and school working together are probably the two most powerful sources on earth in helping to seek remedies, solutions and a common ground that will eventually allow our schools and our children to be the best they are capable of becoming. We, you and I, the people in the community can communicate, and I think I've found that out in the last couple of years here. We can work together, we can understand the problems, concerns, and I think also the frustrations we feel with, and for one another at times. But I also believe if we can continue to communicate we can come to new understandings and appreciations that will serve one purpose and only one purpose for which we are here, the growth and development of our children."

In discussing the physical aspect of the district, Kleinhans noted student enrollment has steadily declined for the last

United Way Gives Boost to Friends of Abused Families

Members of the junior class at Kewaskum High School took time from their busy schedules to stuff Kewaskum Area United Way flyers, pledge cards and letters that were sent to all residents of the Kewaskum School District last week.

This month has marked another milestone in a decade-long struggle by the Friends of Abused Families, Inc., to provide Washington County women and their children with alternatives to living in abusive situations.

On September 19, with the help of the United Way of Washington County, the Friends of Abused Families opened the doors to a new housing facility in West Bend.

Friends of Abused Families is being funded in part by the Kewaskum Area United Way, which is currently conducting its 1987 fund drive. Goal of the 1987 campaign is $32,000, and checks can be made payable to Kewaskum Area United Way,

P.O. Box 197, Kewaskum, WI 53040.

Executive Director Joan Michaud said that Friends of Abused Families currently has three fulltime counselors, one part-time counselor, and three previously trained volunteers who are now working on a part-time paid basis.

One of those on part-time paid status is Kathy Cesarec of Kewaskum, who started her work as a volunteer about a year ago. As is the case with most volunteers, Kathy first was trained on the 24-hour crisis line, and still staffs the crisis line in her home one night a month. In addition to her volunteer work, Kathy also is on

JC's to Hold Open House

Kewaskum JC's will be holding an open house on Oct. 5th with Washington County Social Services Access Supervisor, Ruth Reines, to speak on Child Abuse.

We would all like to think this occurs in big metropolitan areas, but the truth is, it is here, in Washington County, which Kewaskum is a part of.

Please join us. The JC's will watch some facts, and signs to learn for, in coping with parent stress of raising our children and protecting the young of our community.

Open house will be held on the lower level, Savings and Loan Building. Use the back

St. Kilian Church Entered by Intruder

An intruder who entered St. Kilian's Church, Town of Ashford, took $1,140 in cash and a $100 check from the rectory.

The Rev. Victor Kemmer, assistant pastor, reported to police Saturday that the unlock rectory at 188 County Trunk W South was entered between 7:40 and 8:50 p.m. Saturday, according to a report released by the Fond du Lac County Sheriff's Department.

The missing cash includes $590 which was taken from a safe that had a broken lock and $550 which was removed from a desk. The intruder also went through most of the house, but no damage was reported. Police have no suspects in the theft.

Area Girl Scouts Go to Hawaii

After selling pizzas and candy bars for two and one-half years, 29 Senior Girl Scouts and their leaders from Kewaskum, West Bend, Slinger and Jackson went to Hawaii this summer. They spent two weeks with the islands of Hawaii and Oahu. The girls spent time with Girl Scout Troops from both of these islands, learning the culture of the Hawaiian people. THANK YOU to all who bought pizzas and candy bars to help make this trip possible. A special THANK YOU to Audrey Zell for the many long hours she spent planning and organizing this trip.

seven years. The total enrollment has dropped from 2,092 pupils in 1980-81, to 1,749 for the first count of 1987-88. Kindergarten figures show a drop from 151 students in 1986-87, to 136 for 1987-88.

Of eleven neighboring school districts, Kewaskum ranks fourth in per student costs at $3,527, exceeded only by West Bend #1, Kiel #2, and Random Lake #3. Of that $3,527 per student cost, noted Kleinhans, $2,500 is for direct instruction. Over a four-year average, Kewaskum's spending was just $289 less than the state average.

Kleinhans noted that as enrollments decline the district loses funding, approximately $1,800 per student in state aids. She told the audience there was much more information in the report which could not be addressed in the short span of the meeting. She asked the electors to look over the information at their leisure and feel free to call the Administration Office with any questions or concerns they might have.

In other discussion, Tom Brigham, Town of Wayne, asked for clarification of a matter regarding tax money checks which were sent to Treasurer Clara Trapp and for some reason delayed in their deposit.

Trapp read a prepared statement in which she noted she had been on vacation. She indicated she did not open her mail immediately upon return and did not realize she had received the checks totalling over $1 million.

Mrs. Mary Ann Peterson, Village of Kewaskum, told the board that she was very concerned with the situation and it suggested the board tighten its procedures so checks are picked up and deposited.

Brigham noted the board had members who line veto $50-100 items and here the district lost an opportunity to earn $1,500 in interest.

Trapp said she was sorry it had happened but she did not understand why the checks had been sent to her. She wondered why no one had questioned the checks' whereabouts until a week had passed. Gorder indicated it was thought there had been a delay in getting the money from the townships and that might have been the reason for the checks coming late.

As part of the Annual Meeting's business, the electors approved resolutions which are necessary for the yearly operation of the district. They included setting the levy, next annual meeting date, sale of unused equipment, transportation contracts procurement and board members' salaries.

After some discussion it was decided to keep board members salaries at $800 per year.

Perry Ankerson, who had been elected Temporary Chairman of the meeting, thanked the audience for their decorum and allowing the meeting to be run in a business like and orderly manner.

paid status for 10 hours a week, doing such chores as work-reporting clients and office work.

Kathy is attending Moraine Park Technical Institute, and hopes to attain her human associate degree in 1989. With that degree, her goal is to become a counselor/social worker at Friends of Abused Families or a similar organization.

Because she was once mentally and physically abused, Kathy says that she can relate to the women because "I've been through some of the same experiences."

She noted that her reward is that "I know that my knowledge and experiences can help people through a crisis."

The Friends of Abused Families offers seven basic services:

 Housing and food for women and their children.

 A 24-hour crisis line, which is the first line of intervention.

 Transportation to the shelter and other needs.

 Counseling and legal advocacy.

 Referrals to other community services.

 Educational arrangements for children.

 Community education.

Michaud said that 10 or 15 years ago, family violence was kept in the closet, and there were little more than grassroots programs where women would meet in their living rooms to discuss the program. This was the case when the Washington County group, then called Friends for Battered Women, was started in 1977.

Today, public awareness is such that organized groups have flourished throughout the country. Michaud noted that the national media has called attention to the problem, and that major actors and actresses are taking roles in television programs addressing family violence.

As awareness has grown, so has the response to the programs offered by the Friends of Abused Families of Washington County.

In 1984, when the 24-hour crisis line was put into operation, about 36 calls a month were received. Through the first eight months of 1987, the service recorded an average of 87 calls per month.

While working with abused women, encouraging them to realize their full potential and self-worth as human beings, continues to be the primary goal of the organization, efforts are being made to reach the entire family.

Friends of Abused Families is currently developing a grant application with The Threshold to develop a counseling program for children.

In addition, the group also offers indirect services and referrals to appropriate counseling or other community-based organizations to older male children and adult males affected by volatile family situations.

"Because each family member faces a unique crisis, the agency recently changed its name to Friends of Abused Families to reflect the reality that all members of a family are affected by family violence," Michaud stressed.

If you are in need of the services of the Friends of Abused Families, call the 24-hour crisis line at 334-7298.

If you wish to volunteer your services, please write to the Friends of Abused Families, P.O. Box 117, West Bend, WI 53095.

Clown Ministry Team to Lead Worship Service at Salem UCC

Salem United Church of Christ at Wayne, Route 4, Campbellsport is celebrating their 130th anniversary this year. On October 11 at the 9:00 LIVING HOPE will lead the worship service.

LIVING HOPE is a traveling clown ministry team from Carthage College at Kenosha. The group has been conducting services throughout the midwest for the past 5 years. The group has also taken two spring tours to Texas and Florida.

The worship service is dramatically done by clowns through mime and usually one speaker. The clowns with makeup on have a vow of silence. All of the material is scripturally based and written by members of the group. They also perform for Church school programs, retreats and workshops.

The community is invited to attend this special and unique worship experience led by 6 to 10 college students. Following the service, a coffee hour will be held for fellowship and mingling with the clowns.

While this program centers upon young people, all people "young at heart" at whatever age should find the service interesting and thought provoking.

Salem United Church of Christ at Wayne is located at the junction of Washington County Highway H and W about 2 miles east of Highway 41. Worship time is 9:00 a.m.

Laity Sunday At Salem UCC

October 18 Salem United Church of Christ at Wayne will observe Laity Sunday as part of a national celebration of the role lay persons play in the United Church of Christ.

The 9:00 worship will be conducted by various members of the congregation - men, women, and youth - under the chairmanship of Dan Coulter. The play, AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A CHURCH PEW, will be presented. The service will also contain a considerable amount of special music - instrumental and vocal.

The public is invited to attend the 9:00 worship service. Salem United Church of Christ is located at the junction of Washington County Highways H and W.

SWALLOWING PILLS

When capsules or tablets are hard to swallow, tip the head forward [rather than backward] with a mouthful of water, then swallow. By leaning forward, the capsule in the mouth floats backward, up over the base of the tongue, toward the throat where it is readily swallowed and propelled to the stomach.

Six Members of Asch Family To Perform Recital at UWWC

Albert Asch, an associate professor of music at the UW Center — Washington County, calls it "a please-come-and-get-us-nervous recital."

The 7:30 p.m., Oct. 2 recital at UWWC is free and will put six members of the Asch family on stage. But the real star of the evening will be Asch's son Glenn, 31, a violinist with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra.

The recital audience will hear the first public run throughs of two of Glenn's compositions:

— "Jazz Violin Concerto," scheduled for its formal debut on Nov. 6 with the 40-member Denver Chamber Orchestra directed by JoAnn Falletta, assistant conductor of the Milwaukee Symphony.

— "Sonata for Oboe and Piano," which officially premieres on Nov. 5 at Denver with Glenn's Parents performing: Albert on oboe and Anna on piano.

Glenn was commissioned by Falletta to write the concerto after she heard him play jazz violin on "The Pink Panther" with the orchestra last year during the Channel 10 telethon. She watched on a monitor backstage while the Milwaukee County sheriff, a celebrity director, conducted the orchestra.

"She liked the solo and asked me to write the concerto," Glenn said. "It's an unusual way to be commissioned to write a piece."

Coming up with a rough draft of the three-movement score took four months of musical sketching on the piano. This was followed by his scoring and copying of 18 parts, which he describes as "a big chore" that began last December and was completed in August.

"If I didn't know I had the Denver performance scheduled," he said, "the composing and scoring and writing of all the parts would be agonizing."

The sonata was created over a two-month period last summer for Denver's American Composers Week which will feature Asch and two other persons.

Like the concerto, it is a three-movement jazz work. "Almost all my work has a jazz influence in it," he said. Educated ears will hear traces of sax players Miles Davis, John Coltrane and Sonny Rollins, pianist Bill Evans, blue grass music and 20th Century composers like Bela Bartok and Igor Stravinsky.

Glenn said he sees music as being stirred into the mix in America's melting pot. "I like being a part of that," he said. "I don't draw a line between contemporary, classical, bluegrass, jazz anything."

He wrote the sonata, he said, "without worrying about my parents," explaining: "They can play whatever I write."

He admits that his mother wondered a bit about how she would do. "She's never played jazz on the piano before," he said. "But now she is." His father, he added, understands and handles "some pretty complex Miles-Davis-type licks."

Glenn reinforced his father's emphasis on the importance of the nervousness a performance can bring. "You're confronted by people who want to hear what you have to say," he said. "That can take you to new levels."

"You can sense what works with an audience. It's not in the notes. Maybe it's the phrasing or dynamics or tempo. Music communicates. In the practice room, you only imagine how you will communicate."

Glenn has a lot to say about communication. It's the reason he chooses not to write atonal music. "It's like nonsense poetry," he said.

Being original in tonal music means he has to find new melodies, he said. To keep fresh, he studies between compositions. What he discovers, he said, "opens whole new worlds of music and will have an influence on everything else I write."

For Glenn, the entire process of composing for Denver has been a creative one. He compared the scoring to "a painter choosing colors and mixing paint," noting: "There are so many possible combinations of instruments."

His composing efforts began in high school but produced more frustration than music. "The reason was that I did not know enough about music," he said.

College changed that. He started as a music major at a prestigious school where he found himself turned-off "by narrow-minded professors." He enrolled for his second year at UWWC as a science major.

Along with getting a good education at the UW freshman-sophomore center, Glenn found he listened to a lot of records in the campus library. "There isn't time for that when you're a music student," he said.

While taking a break from schooling for a cross-country bike trip, he discovered a new sense of direction. "At the end," he said, "I knew I wanted to be a professional musician."

In his first year at UW-Madison, Glenn won the annual campus violin concerto contest, competing against all other Madison music students including those in graduate school. "That was a big turning point," he recalls.

Composing, for Glenn, is a process of discovery. "As I'm rehearsing and learning what I wrote," he said, "I'm discovering a lot more is holding the concerto together than I thought. I'd like to go back and analyze it."

Many of his discoveries take place while riding his bike. When the orchestra is touring, he often puts his instrument and luggage on the bus and pedals to the next performance. In mid-September, for example, he spent five hours riding the 90 miles between concerts at Marshfield and Eau Claire.

On the road, Glenn said, he thinks a lot and "when I'm not thinking, my mind drifts and I come to grips with feelings." He said, "My biking is an important part of composing. I need it to reflect and let things come naturally to mind. Things come so fast and get real clear."

Glenn bikes to work and gets in two weekly trips of about 40 miles each week, even in the winter.

On Oct. 2 at UWWC, pianist Diane Kachelmeier, one of Anna's former students, will substitute for the orchestra. Joining Glenn and his parents on stage will be his sisters Carol Asch, soprano and Laura Starkle Asch, pianist; and Laura's husband George, who performs as clarinetist George Mason.

For Glenn, the recital will be a time for further discoveries and new changes in his compositions. "I'll still be making changes at the last rehearsal in Denver," he laughed.

Engleiter to Run For U.S. Senate

Susan Engleiter, Minority Leader of the Wisconsin State Senate, has announced that she will seek the Republican nomination for the United States Senate seat now held by William Proxmire.

Engleiter, R-Brookfield, is the first candidate to formally announce for the race.

"I promise that during the coming year, my campaign will focus on ideas and issues, not on personalities and negatives," she said.

Engleiter is serving her second term as Republican leader in the state Senate. She was first elected to the Legislature in 1974, and has set a number of precedents during her 13 years in state government.

She was the first woman to hold a leadership post in the Legislature and the first woman to be elected Minority Leader of the State. Years ago, Gov. Lee Sherman Dreyfus predicted Engleiter would also become Wisconsin's first woman governor.

"I am hopeful that Governor Dreyfus will see fit to amend his prediction and to prophesize that I shall become Wisconsin's first woman U.S. Senator," Engleiter said.

"There are two basic messages I will convey during this campaign," Engleiter said. "First, as a legislator with 11 years experience, as a Republican Party leader, as an attorney and former teacher, as a working woman and as a Senate leader with years of experience in seeking bipartisan solutions to challenging public problems, I believe I am the best person for this job."

"Second," she said, "I am eager to represent Wisconsin in tackling the critical issues facing the state and the nation. During my years in state government, I have watched Wisconsin struggle through two energy crises, a long period of astronomical inflation, a severe recession and a devastating loss of jobs. I have been frustrated by how many times we have been told our problems are beyond state control."

"I look forward to tackling Wisconsin's problems in Washington."

Engleiter vowed to continue Proxmire's tradition of fighting waste, fraud and abuse in federal spending. She also promised to join Wisconsin Sen. Robert Kasten in making sure the state gets a fair share of federal investment and spending.

"Wisconsin needs two Senators helping our businesses, our communities and our people obtain good cooperation from the federal bureaucracy," she said. "We need two Senators making sure Wisconsin is treated fairly."

Engleiter said she will tour the state in November, immediately after the Legislature's October floor period, to meet with supporters, potential supporters and opinion leaders.

She named the federal deficit and federal welfare reform as two likely issues in the Senate campaign, and said she has tackled similar issues in the Legislature.

Engleiter has been an advocate of "truth in budgeting" reforms, fiscal restraint and welfare reforms in state government. She served on the Wisconsin Strategic Development Commission under former Gov. Anthony Earl and on Gov. Tommy Thompson's Welfare Reform Commission, which earlier this year shaped the initiatives that are making Wisconsin a national example of innovation in welfare programs.

Engleiter was named last year by the National Republican Legislators Association as one of the 10 best Republican legislators in the nation. Three years ago, she was named an Outstanding Woman in Wisconsin History by the American Association of University Women.

Among other honors in recent years, she received the Distinguished Service Award from the Wisconsin Association of the Future Farmers of America and the Community Award from the Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Greater Milwaukee. She was named the Wisconsin Gift of Life chairperson last year by the National Kidney Foundation.

Campbellsport Programs Focus On Women's Health

St. Agnes Hospital of Fond du Lac is sponsoring a series of educational programs for women in the Campbellsport area, part of a comprehensive effort to provide them with information about important health issues.

Called the "Well Women's Health Series," it consists of five different programs held on consecutive Tuesdays from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. in the Campbellsport Public School, Room 46. The dates are October 6, 13, 20, 27 and November 3.

The educational series is part of a major effort on behalf of St. Agnes Hospital to provide more health education resources to women. Valerie Thibaudeau-Graczyk is coordinating the series and is also developing a comprehensive Women's Health Resource Center at St. Agnes Hospital. She explains the purpose behind the fall education programs.

"Women have a driving need for more information about their life and health. The over abundance of women's magazines and journals are evidence of that desire for explanations and fact. The upcoming educational series will be the start of our hospital's commitment to providing the information that women are seeking, so that they'll have a local resource they can count on," Graczyk said.

Each program in the five-part series deals with a different topic. Two of the sessions are presented by a women's communications specialist. One session is entitled "Self-Esteem for Today's Woman: The Best Gift You Can Give Yourself" and the other is called "Passages of a Woman's Lifespan: Where Have I Journeyed From and Where Am I Going?"

The other three sessions deal with physical health and prevention topics. A registered dietitian and osteoporosis screening technologist will present a program on the disease of osteoporosis and how it can be prevented. A radiologic mammography technologist will talk about breast health and all of the factors that play a role in early detection of breast disease. A nurse will also talk about premenstrual syndrome. The last session is presented at St. Agnes Hospital by a nurse practitioner who will discuss wellness and how a healthy lifestyle can prevent many medical problems.

The final session also includes an opportunity for women to tour St. Agnes Hospital's Breast Screening Center and to see a demonstration of Bone Mineral Analysis Technology that is used to screen women for osteoporosis.

The Well Women's Health Series is a regional effort, according to Graczyk. This same series that's being presented in Campbellsport is also being presented in four other communities: in Fond du Lac at the hospital; in Green Lake at the Green Lake Public School; in Mayville at the Youth Memorial Building; and in Markesan at the Community Building. Persons can call St. Agnes to receive a detailed listing of times and dates in the other communities.

The cost for the entire series is $15 per person or $25 for two if individuals sign up together. The registration deadline is October 2. For more information, contact St. Agnes Hospital's Volunteer Services Department at 929-1497.

Nursing Homes To Be Inspected

MADISON — Governor Tommy Thompson said the State Department of Health and Social Services (DHSS) would begin unannounced nursing home inspections October 1.

"Six experienced surveyors will make surprise checks of nursing home operations and provide quick responses to complaints," he said.

"In the future, nursing homes in Wisconsin will have to pay closer attention to providing quality services to their residents 24 hours a day," he added.

According to DHSS Secretary Timothy Cullen, the special surveyors will operate out of State Division of Health offices in Madison, Milwaukee, Green Bay and Eau Claire.

Thompson said the special surveyors will supplement, not replace, the routine annual surveys by regular teams.

"They will also make special efforts to visit problem homes and to promptly get to the scene of complaints while observations and details of the circumstances are still fresh," Cullen said.

September 29, 1987

Dear Editor:

Last week's issue of the Statesman had a picture of Mr. Clayton Stautz from the American Legion presenting a check to me for five hundred dollars toward the Kewaskum High School band uniform fund. I would like to use this opportunity to publicly thank the Legion and Mr. Stautz for the donation. As the band students know and many parents realize, we are in need of new uniforms and have started the fund in hopes of getting them in the not too distant future. The present uniforms are eleven years old and since they are of a polyester material they have really begun to wear badly and look rather shabby.

The band students and myself are working toward the goal of raising the money needed and hope that we will be able to get there quickly. Any group or organization wishing to donate money or help us find effective ways of raising the money will be greatly appreciated.

Again thank you to the American Legion for their generous donation.

Sincerely,

Larry Ammel,
Band Director

Valeria Hildegard Meyer, age 3, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Meyer of the Town of Kewaskum, was fatally injured in an automobile accident on Sept. 23, on Highway 28, about three quarters of a mile northwest of this village. The accident happened as Gilbert Smith, Kewaskum, who is employed as mechanic by the H.W. Kuester Garage at West Bend, was demonstrating a 1934 Terraplane automobile to Mr. Meyer, who was planning to purchase a used car. Three little Meyer girls were taken along for the ride. The blackout on Highway 28 was wet and slippery and Mr. Smith somehow lost control of the car and it swerved and ran into a ditch directly in front of the Herman Backhaus farm, where it tipped over several times.

Emil Wilke of the Town of Scott was painfully injured Sept. 25, when one of his feet was cut off in a corn husker while filling silo on his farm. Mr. Wilke was filling the last load of corn into the silo and while he was pitching the bundles, the husker became clogged. He used his foot to push the bundles in and as he did so, his foot was sucked along in. Mr. Wilke was pulled from the wagon and onto the machine. His son, who was assisting, immediately hurried and turned off the power from the tractor, but too late.

A Milwaukee man was drowned in Lake Bernice, formerly Schrauth's pond, several miles northwest of Kewaskum on Tuesday of this week when dragged from a boat by the anchor rope. Albert Sacker, 26, had come to fish with his father-in-law. He had rowed 30 feet from shore. When they tossed out the anchor, the rope caught Sacker's leg, pulling him overboard. Neither man could swim. The Immanuel Ev. Lutheran Church in the Town of Scott, was the scene of the wedding of Miss Frona Garbisch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garbisch of the Town of Scott, and Raymond Justman of West Bend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Justman of Theresa on Sept. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. John Coulter are now at home on the former's farm at St. Kilian after returning from their wedding trip through northern Wisconsin and Canada. The bride is the former Miss Dorothy Funk, daughter of John Funk of Fond du Lac and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Henry Foerster of St. Kilian. The couple was married on Sept. 10, at the home of the bride's father in Fond du Lac.

Joe Miller, who has enrolled at the Wisconsin Institute of Mortuary Science, Milwaukee, left Monday to start his studies.

Due to a seasonal rush the Kewaskum Aluminum Company has found it necessary to hire additional employees. On Monday of this week 12 people began their new jobs in the factory. Six more were to start work on Wednesday.

Flying 238,225 miles an hour for 62 hours, S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, brother of Hubert Wittman of Kewaskum, set what officials of the Detroit national air show believed to be two new records in the light racing class at Detroit on Sept. 19.

Born at the West Bend Clinic Sept. 26, a baby daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Petri of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Petri are former residents of Kewaskum, the mother being remembered here as Miss Esther Raether before her marriage. The little newcomer will receive the name of Fay Ann.

DOT Public Hearing Set for Administrative Suspension of Driver's Licenses

The final provision of Wisconsin's new drunken driving law, administrative suspension of licenses for drunk drivers, will be discussed at a Department of Transportation public hearing Oct. 2.

The public hearing will be at the Hill Farms State Transportation Building, Room 145B, 4802 Sheboygan Ave., Madison starting at 2 p.m.

Immediate driver license suspension, among other more stringent provisions, was authorized last spring by the Legislature in 1987 Wisconsin Act 3, and will be effective Jan. 1, 1988. Other provisions of the drunken driving law dealing with stricter penalties went into effect March 1 of this year.

"This administrative suspension is different than judicial action in that it is faster," said Jerry Hancock, a DOT attorney who helped draft the law. "Under current law, the only way you lose your license is if you're convicted in court or plead guilty, which can take as long as two years in some Wisconsin counties. This rule will take drunk drivers off the road in 30 days."

The proposed rule specifically defines the responsibilities of law enforcement officers if a driver has a BAC of .10 percent or greater. The officer takes the person's driver's license, and issues a "notice of intent to suspend" and informs the driver that his or her operating privileges will be suspended at the end of 30 days.

"The new rule is analogous to having a health inspector find botulism in a restaurant and closing the place immediately for public health reasons," said Hancock. "Based on a valid, scientific test (Intoxilyzer 5000) the accused drunk driver is also considered dangerous to the public's health," said Hancock.

The driver's operating privilege will be suspended for six months. An occupational license may be requested. An occupational license restricts the operator to drive only to and from work and for job purposes.

Next, the officer forwards a copy of the notice to suspend within five days to the DOT or to the Office of the Commissioner of Transportation, along with other reports relating to the arrest. The State Patrol also sends copies of the Intoxilyzer 5000 maintenance reports to the DOT or Commissioner of Transportation.

After receiving the notice of intent, the driver has 10 days to request an administrative review by either the DOT or the Transportation Commissioner's office. That review must be completed within 30 days.

If a review is requested, it will be limited to the following issues:

- * Identity of the driver.
- * Whether the person was informed of Wisconsin's implied consent law.
- * Did the person have a BAC of .10 percent or more at the time the offense allegedly occurred.
- * Whether one or more of the tests indicated a BAC of .10 percent or more.
- * If more than one test was administered, did the results of all tests show a BAC of .10 percent or more.
- * Was there probable cause for the arrest.

The driver may appear at the review and may be represented by counsel. The arresting officer need not appear if the required reports have been submitted. Also, the officer may not be subpoenaed for this review.

Administrative suspension of driver's licenses has been used for about 10 years in other states, Hancock said, in an effort to keep drunken drivers off the roads.

August Kumrow and Herman Meilahn were appointed as the auditing committee.

Assembly to vote on SB 7 Oct. 6

During the current legislative session in Madison, a new safety belt law has been introduced for consideration. SB 7 has already passed the Senate with the following provisions:

- It allows primary enforcement, which means law enforcement officers can stop a motorist or his or her passengers for not having their safety belts fastened.
- It permits a flat $10 fine citation with no points assessed against the driver's record.
- It allows exemptions for physical or medical conditions, for rural mail and newspaper delivery persons, for taxicab drivers and for law enforcement officers under circumstances in which compliance could endanger either an officer's or a passen-

- ger's safety while riding in an authorized emergency vehicle.
 - It provides for the Department of Transportation to mount a public information campaign to inform citizens of the new law.
 - It provides for a Legislative Council study to report to the Legislature by January 1, 1989.
 - It applies to all occupants in a vehicle where there is a safety belt.
 - The bill will end June 30, 1989; unless further legislation is passed to extend its effects.
- The Assembly Committee on State Affairs approved SB 7 in August, and recommended it to the full Assembly for passage. The Assembly plans debate. A vote on a mandatory seat belt bill for Wisconsin on Oct. 6. Observers anticipate a close vote.

TODAY'S AGRICULTURE

Weed Control in Established Legumes

Fall is an excellent time to evaluate your forage stands and control weeds that may be competing with forages and reducing feed quality.

Since weeds are harvested with forage crops, a control program to reduce weed infestation seldom produces an increase in total yield. But weeds are often less palatable and lower in protein than desirable forages. So controlling weeds in forage crops can improve forage quality and increase forage protein. To get maximum benefit from increased forage protein, the forage must be analyzed so that protein supplement and grain in the feeding ration can be reduced accordingly.

Established legumes can effectively compete with many annual and perennial weeds. However, perennial weeds like white clover, yellow rocket, hoary alyssum and quackgrass become established with the legume or begin growth later and persist in spite of legume competition. Also, winter annual weeds like shepherd's purse, pennycress and wild mustard may become a problem if they become established the previous fall. Controlling these weeds can prolong the productive life of forage legume stands by minimizing weed competition.

Herbicides can be used to control many of the problem weeds. Both Princep and Kerb can be applied in the fall. Other products are registered for spring application only.

Fall application of Princep to straight alfalfa stands that have been established for 12 months or more provides good control of seedling plants of wild mustard, hoary alyssum, downy brome, yellow rocket, shepherd's purse, white clover and pennycress. Established plants of these weeds are not as easily controlled.

Best results have been obtained when Princep is applied following removal of the last alfalfa cutting and little alfalfa regrowth is present. But it can be applied to actively growing, semi-dormant or dormant alfalfa anytime after the last cutting and before it snows or the ground freezes. Other legumes or grasses planted with alfalfa may be injured or killed. Alfalfa may show temporary chlorosis (yellowing) but usually recovers.

Fall application of Kerb to established forage legumes provides good control of quackgrass, chickweed, downy brome and volunteer grain. You can use this treatment on established alfalfa; clovers, birdsfoot trefoil, crown vetch or sainfoin. Broadleaf weeds will not be controlled by Kerb. A vigorous stand of alfalfa helps suppress quackgrass and reduces the rate needed for satisfactory control. Apply Kerb after the final cutting but before the ground freezes. Optimal herbicide activity occurs if applications are made when soil temperatures are 55° F or less. Rainfall after application is necessary for good quackgrass suppression. Remove or disperse crop or weed residue before spraying Kerb unless Kerb is impregnated onto dry fertilizer.

Kerb should only be used on fairly legume stands (at least 4 to 5 plants per square foot) that aren't heavily infested with tolerant broadleaf weeds. Grasses seeded with the legume will be severely injured or killed by Kerb. This treatment will allow an existing legume stand to grow more vigorously but won't put legume plants into voids previously occupied by quackgrass or other weeds. Kerb can be applied the fall of the seeding year or any following fall. Legume injury does not appear to be a problem.

When using these or any pesticides read and follow all label directions about rates, application methods and safety.

Dilley Promoted To National Sales Manager by Dairyland

Dairyland Seed recently announced the promotion of Art Dilley to the position of National Sales Manager. Dilley has worked in a sales capacity for Dairyland Seed for over 20 years, most recently as Regional Manager for Dairyland's western division.

In his position as National Sales Manager, Dilley will be responsible for coordinating all sales activities as well as for working directly with Dairyland's Regional Sales Managers. In addition to serving in capacity as National Sales Manager, Dilley will also serve as Regional Manager for a reduced sales area. Other Regional Sales Managers include Wil Brunk of Watertown, Wisconsin, and Ron Peare of Elida, Ohio. In addition, Ray Kubly of Watertown, serves as Vice-President of Sales.

Dilley began his sales career at Dairyland out of Appleton, Wisconsin, covering the northern part of Wisconsin for Dairyland. He was promoted to Regional Sales Manager in 1981 and served in that capacity until this time. In addition to sales, Dilley has also been actively involved in designing advertising programs at Dairyland. In particular, Dilley designed and wrote Dairyland's series of "Management 2000" guides for farmers. These guides are designed to show farmers how to improve their productivity in producing hybrid corn, alfalfa, and soybeans.

"With Art as National Sales Manager, the entire sales staff will be exposed to his experience and leadership. This will certainly enhance and strengthen Dairyland's sales team," stated Executive Vice-President Tom Strachota.

Dairyland Seed is a family owned seed company operating out of West Bend, Wisconsin. Dairyland was founded in 1907 and handles a complete line of farm seeds.

State Corn Estimates Drop

September 1 Wisconsin Agricultural Statistics Service forecast show state corn production will decline 10 percent from a year earlier. The 328 million bushel estimate is based on 2.85 million harvested acres, 8 percent below last year's acreage. The 115 bushels per acre expected yield, is off 3 percent from the 118 bushel record yield of a year ago. Drier than normal weather during the first week of September helped reduce moisture levels in corn. Most of the corn crop is safe from frost at this time.

Corn for grain production in the United States is forecast at 7.14 billion bushels, down 13 percent from last year and down 1 percent from August 1 forecast. Crop development continued well ahead of normal. The national average yield per acre is forecast at a record high 120 bushels, up 1 bushel from the 1986 record high. Harvest is well underway in southern states and just getting started in the Corn Belt.

Wisconsin tobacco production is forecast at 9.98 million pounds, 7 percent below a year earlier. The state acreage allotment was reduced 5 percent but growers, especially northern producers, cut acreage 26 percent. Yields are forecast at 2,037 pounds per acre, up considerably from the weather damaged 1,633 pounds last year.

Nationally, tobacco production is forecast at 1.23 billion pounds, 6 percent above last year, but 3 percent below August 1 forecast.

EXEMPTIONS CHANGED

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is first in a series of items released by the Internal Revenue Service featuring different aspects of the Tax Reform Act. Their only intent is to inform readers so that no one need be surprised early next year when making out their return.

The one item that will change on everyone's income tax return this year is the value of each personal exemption. Exemptions are claimed for the people listed on your return ... yourself, your spouse, and your dependents. A given amount is subtracted from your adjusted gross income for each exemption to arrive at your taxable income, and that amount has increased from $1,080 for 1986 to $1,900 for 1987. Simple enough. But there are some new twists to be aware of if you are blind, are at least 65 years old, or can be claimed as a dependent on someone else's tax return.

The blind and the elderly used to be able to count on an extra exemption. That's no longer true. That extra exemption is gone; but, in exchange, those affected are now granted a higher standard deduction. Coupled with the higher value for each exemption, this additional standard deduction retains a tax break for the elderly or blind who do not itemize their deductions which is nearly equal to the double exemption granted under the old law.

Double exemptions for dependents are also a thing of the past. Formerly, it was possible for a family to claim two personal exemptions for the same person. It happened most in the cases of children who worked part time and filed their own tax returns. They were able to claim one exemption on their own returns as the taxpayer, and their parents more than likely could claim an exemption for each child as a dependent. No more.

Parents should also be aware that they need to get a social security number for each of their children who does not already have one. From now on, they will have to show the social security number of each person over 4 years old who is claimed as a dependent. Social security numbers are issued by the Social Security Administration, which has been trying to get children enumerated through the school system. If you have not been contacted and will need a number before you file your tax return next year, it is not too early to apply. Contact your social security office for an application form and get some proof of your child's age, such as a birth certificate.

And one last note regarding exemptions. The value of each one will increase again in each of the next two years ... $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989. After that, the amount will be adjusted for inflation, if necessary.

There is more information in IRS Publication 920, Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals. Order it by calling 1-800-424-3676.

Local Duck Populations Good for Opener

Waterfowl hunters in Wisconsin were expected to be greeted by good local populations of ducks when the season opened at noon on October 1. A Department of Natural Resources official reminds hunters that a health advisory is in effect for the first time in Wisconsin for some duck species on stretches of several Lake Michigan tributaries and two harbors. He noted that the affected birds represent only a tiny fraction of the total annual Wisconsin duck harvest.

"Some types of ducks in a few areas along Lake Michigan contain PCB levels higher than the U.S. Food and Drug Administration standard of 3 parts per million," said John Wetzel, Department migratory bird specialist.

He said that less than a third of one percent of the waterfowl Wisconsin hunters harvest each year come from waters subject to the health advisory.

According to the advice, issued by the State Division of Health in June, people should avoid eating:

- mallard ducks from the Sheboygan River from Sheboygan Falls downstream to Lake Michigan;

- lesser scaup (bluebills) from Sheboygan Harbor;
- black ducks and Milwaukee Harbor;

- mallards from the Milwaukee River from Highway 167 (Thiensville) upstream to Lime Kiln Dam at Grafton; and

- mallards from Cedar Creek from the Milwaukee River up to Bridge Road in the Village of Cedarburg.

"The State Division of Health has also applied a less stringent caution for mallard ducks from Green Bay and the lower Fox River," Wetzel said.

People should remove all fat and skin before cooking mallard ducks:

- from the lower Fox River from Lake Winnebago at Neenah and Menasha downstream, including Little Lake Butte des Morts, to the northeast city limits of Kaukauna, and from the De Pere Dam to the mouth of the Fox River at Green Bay; and

- from lower Green Bay and of a line from Point Sauble west to the west shore of the bay.

Stuffing or drippings from these ducks should also be discarded because they may hold PCB-contaminated fat, Wetzel said.

The advice is based on results of tests the Department of Natural Resources did on waterfowl sampled statewide, including birds from waters already subject to consumption advisories for sport fish.

The study showed, for instance, that about half the 77 mallards sampled from waters on the new waterfowl advisory contained PCBs higher than the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's standard of 3 parts per million for poultry fat.

Wetzel said tests showed that removing fat and skin from mallards reduced PCB levels by 60 to 90 percent, but the reduction was not always enough for samples to meet the FDA standard.

Waterfowl were among 747 game animals and birds tested in a three-year study of contaminants in 30 species of Wisconsin wildlife. Results, which were released in June, showed that most game species people are likely to eat, including most ducks, do not contain environmental contaminants in levels that pose a human health risk.

The Department plans to further study waterfowl in other areas subject to fish consumption advisories, including more Lake Michigan tributaries and the Mississippi River. DNR will not be routinely collecting any more white-tailed deer, ring-necked pheasant, cottontail rabbits, ruffed grouse, wild turkeys, squirrels or snowshoe hares because samples show these animals are free of contaminants.

The health advice for waterfowl is also contained in the 1987 waterfowl hunting regulations pamphlet, which is available free from all DNR offices.

De Pagter Bags Plymouth Enduro

BY: Dick Jepsen

Jim De Pagter of Sheboygan completed 233 laps in the 2½ hour time limit Saturday night to claim the $1,000 first place in the 250 lap or 2½ hour Enduro sanctioned by the Sheboygan County Fair Association Sept. 26th.

De Pagter driving an Olds Delta 88 worked his way into the lead before the first of five red flags on lap 52 or 47 minutes into the event when a car started on fire in turn two.

Racing action was short lived on the restart as the leader only completed one lap before the Olds Cutlass of Ron Lett of Plymouth went up in flames in turn three. De Pagter kept his lead as Larry Born Sr. of Plymouth moved into second with a little over one hour to go in the event.

The third red came out with one hour to go when the track was blocked in turn two and two cars were in bad spots in the main straightaway. With just a half hour to go the top four were De Pagter, Born Sr., Tim McMullin of Plymouth and Gene Fiedler of Sheboygan Falls.

The red came out twice in the final hour while De Pagter held the lead once for a fire in the Chevrolet Malibu of Jim Brulla of Elkhart Lake and the final one with just twenty minutes to go when Gerald Hansen of Cascade had his Chevrolet Caprice go up in flames in turn two.

Larry Kroening of Milwaukee moved up to within a half lap of the leader near the finish only to have a right rear tire go flat dropping him to a sixth place finish.

Attrition cut the 140 car field to less than twenty at the finish with several top contenders dropping out of the hunt with just ten minutes to go; they included Born Sr. dropping to twelfth, Tim McMullin dropping to fifth and Gene Fiedler winding up seventh.

De Pagter led for over two hours as he battled to victory before a capacity crowd and a near race ending crash on the last restart for the win.

Second went to John Cordes of Sheboygan Falls in a Chevrolet Malibu; Cordes also won the trophy for the best appearance car, third went to Kevin Schnell of Kiel in a Chevrolet Impala, fourth to Ken Fiedler of Sheboygan Falls in a Pontiac Firebird and rounding out the top five was Tim McMullin of Plymouth in a 1972 Chevrolet Impala.

Despite several fires and bone grinding crashes no drivers received any injuries and plans are being made for the third annual Enduro to be held next September.

Hunter's Choice-Land Owner Preference

Landowners in Wisconsin are given preference for thirty percent of the hunter's choice permits available this year, and that fact has resulted in some confusion among hunters about who qualifies and who does not qualify as a landowner.

There are four requirements to qualify for landowner preference for a hunter's choice permit. They are:

1. The applicant must be a resident of Wisconsin. Nonresidents who own land in Wisconsin do not qualify.

2. The applicant must be the owner, or a buyer under a land contract, of at least 50 acres or more in one parcel of land.

3. The parcel must be located in the deer management unit for which application for a hunter's choice permit is made.

4. The applicant must reside on the parcel of land at least 51 percent of the time. And, no more than one person may apply as a qualified landowner for one parcel of land in one season. Large parcels may not be divided to qualify more applicants.

Applicants for hunter's choice permits must be post-marked no later than October 2, or delivered to the License Section, Department of Natural Resources, GEF 2, 101 South Webster Street, Madison no later than that date to be eligible for the drawing for hunter's choice permits.

Fast Two Rivers Team Shuts Out Indians, 17-0

By Ann-Marie Horner

Kewaskum was unable to stop Two Rivers' speedy running backs here Friday night and as a result was blanked by the Raiders, 17-0. Several important pass completions also aided the winners.

The Indians thus slipped to 0-2 in conference play and 3-2 overall after three non-conference wins. Two Rivers is now 2-1 and 4-1.

In the losing effort, junior Chris Charland, son of the coach, played a strong game for the Indians. He caught two passes and led the defense in tackles. Coach Charland also praised the play of Mike Heberer and all his linebackers. Injuries took their toll late in the game for the Indians.

Eric Pearson started the game with a good kick-off. Pearson booted the ball to the 25 yard line and the Raiders couldn't return it.

The Raiders tried to advance by running the ball, but got nowhere. Erik Walters tried carrying the ball, but Robbi Hron stopped him and the Raiders ended up kicking the ball back to the Indians on the 47 yard line.

The Indians, having good field position, gave Ryan Degnitz a chance to get some yardage. Degnitz carried the ball for a 4 yard gain and Pearson carried for a 5 yard gain. On short 1 yard for a first and ten, Pearson handed off to Jeff Miller and Miller carried the ball for the first down. Mike Lubahn then became part of the action and carried the ball for 7 yards.

With only 3 yards short, Pearson passed to Miller; to give the Indians another first down and the ball on the 30 yard line.

Passing appeared to be moving the ball well, so the Indians continued to pass. This time Pearson passed to Mike Morell for a 16 yard completion. Lubahn then carried the ball down to the 8 yard line.

In an attempt for a touchdown, Pearson passed to Steve Johnson but the pass was ruled incomplete.

Two Rivers received the ball on the Raiders 7 yard line. Steve Stangl threw to Marty Johnson for a 40 yard pass. Then Walters carried the ball to the 24 yard line.

Johnson and Hron worked their way through the offensive line and sacked the quarterback, to put the Raiders on the 26 yard line.

Marty Schulteis became part of the action. Schulteis sacked the quarterback, causing a fumble. Mitch Gebheim recovered the ball on the 32 yard line.

The Indians moved the ball to the 41 yard line, but couldn't continue moving it. Johnson kicked the ball to the 16 yard line.

Doug Szopenski of the Raiders managed to carry the ball for a first down. Stangl then passed to Ray Mills for another first down. With the ball on the 39 yard line, Stangl passes to Marty Johnson to put the ball on the 2 yard line. Stangl again passed for a touchdown. The Raiders' tried for a conversion and succeed. At the end of the first half, Two Rivers 8, Kewaskum 0.

To start the third quarter off the Raiders kicked off. The kick went to the 17 yard line and Schulteis returned it to the 26 yard line.

With the ball on the 26, Pearson kept the ball and ran for 9 yards. Then Lubahn carried the ball 5 yards to put the Indians on the 39 yard line and a 1st and 10 situation.

The Indians fumbled the ball and Stangl recovered it for the Raiders.

Szopenski carried the ball for 35 yards to put the ball on the 13 yard line. Szopenski then carried the ball in for a touchdown.

The Raiders kicked and it was good, to put the Raiders ahead 15-0.

Kewaskum ended up with the ball again, but couldn't move it.

Johnson tried kicking but the snap by Miller went over Johnson's head. He recovered the ball in the end zone to give the Raiders a safety and making the score 17-0.

That ended the third quarter. In the fourth quarter neither the Indians nor the Raiders could come up with a score ending the game at 17-0.

This week Kewaskum travels to Sheboygan Falls to take on the powerful Falcons, undefeated conference leaders. After Plymouth beat Kewaskum, 20-0, the week before, Falls ran over the Panthers last week, 32-7, which should rate them as the favorites for the Eastern Wisconsin title.

$77,500 Grant to County for Ridge Run Park Expansion

Washington County will receive a grant of $77,500 from the Federal Land and Water Conservation (LAWCON) Fund. The money will be used to match funds donated by the West Bend Natural Waterways Land Foundation and Washington County to acquire approximately 32.9 acres of land to expand Ridge Run County Park. Funds for the LAWCON program come largely from off shore oil and gas leases and the sale of surplus federal property. The federal funds are administered through the Department of Natural Resources.

The Department has made a preliminary determination that an environmental assessment is not required for this proposal. Comments or questions regarding this action are welcomed. Contact Thomas Blotz, District Community Services Specialist, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. Box 12436, Milwaukee, WI 53212, Phone (414) 562-9603 by 4:30 p.m. on October 9, 1987. Secor Has 8 Kills For Ripon College

Ripon College women's volleyball team, highlighted by another sparkling performance in a very tough tournament, upped its season record to 10-7. The Redmen defeated Edgewood College, Madison, in somewhat of a mismatch, and finished in a tie for third in the 10-team UW-Oshkosh Invitational.

Against Edgewood, everyone had a change to play, as the Redmen had an easy time of winning all three games. Tricia Darow (Des Plaines, IL) and Sandy Secor (Kewaskum, WI) each had eight kills in the match.

On Saturday night, in the Oshkosh Invitational, the Redmen played very solid, consistent volleyball and missed going undefeated for the day by only two points. The Redmen lost the deciding game of that match 15-13. However, the Redmen were the number one seeded team from their pool going into Sunday's championship round. After drawing a bye in the first round, the Redmen's championship hopes were quickly dashed by UW-Platteville, as Ripon lost the first game in a bitter struggle 16-14, and fell in the second 15-5.

Secor is the daughter of Gerald and Mary Secor, 1856 Scenic Dr., Kewaskum, and a graduate of Kewaskum High School.
