District to Receive $87,000 'Smart Money' Rebate

Board Okays 1988-89 School Budget Proposal

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum School Board, Monday night, approved the presentation of a $7.3 million budget to electors at the annual meeting set for Tuesday, August 16th. The actual figure, $7,373,443, represents a 4.74% or $333,929 increase over the 1987-88 budget of $7,039,514.

Business Manager Cherna Gorder reported that, using an unofficial projected equalized value of $256,916,034 for the district meant the 1988-89 proposed tax levy would come out to $3,568,064, an increase of 7.10%. However, using $123,000 from the district's fund equity would reduce the tax burden for district residents to an increase of 3.97% in the mill rate for 1988-89. That rate, based on a 3% projected increase in the equalized value, would come out to $13.89 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, compared to $13.36 for 1987-88.

Board president Ralph Horner told the meeting he would vote against the budget because he felt it could be reduced by at least another $110,000, a reduction in the $123,000 taken from fund equity to $55,000 and another $55,000 in actual budget cuts.

Board member Perry Ankerson told fellow board members, "I wish there would have been more 'no' votes when we approved teacher salaries." He noted salaries and benefits had increased by over $484,000, while the balance of the budget had actually decreased by $66,000. "There is little we can do now to hold down costs because of teacher salaries," said Ankerson. "I commend the administration on coming up with the budget they did considering the figures we locked them into," noted Ankerson.

Ankerson also asked Gorder how the proposed levy would affect taxpayers. Using a $70,000 home as an example, said Gorder, the 1987-88 tax was $935. With a projected 3% increase in equalized value, that home's value would rise to $72,100 and at $13.89/$1,000, that would come out to $1,001 in taxes for the 88-89 budget, an increase of $66.

The motion to present the proposed budget to the annual meeting passed on a 4-3 vote, Ankerson, Neal Weare, Don Nowak and Ruth Schmitt voting yes and Horner, Ron Beimborn and Clara Trapp voting no.

In other budget related action the board approved Local Vocational Education Coordinator Dan Wangerin's request to proceed with programs for Home Economics, Business Education, Technology Education, Disadvantaged Students and Handicapped. He has received approval of grants in all those areas.

For Home Ec. expenditures would be $1,287, with a 55% of $708 reimbursement for a district cost of $579. Business Ed., $9,550, reimbursed at 25% or $2,387, district cost $7,163. Tech Ed., $19,665, reimbursed at 15% or $2,950, district's cost $16,715. The LVEC position at $18,130, is reimbursed at 10% or $1,813, district's cost $16,317.

The two programs for Disadvantaged and Handicapped at $2,709 and $871, are reimbursed at 100% with no cost to the district.

In other financial discussions, Gorder updated the board on the district's participation in Wisconsin Electric's "Smart Money" energy saving program. She said the district's cost was $120,319, and it would be receiving a rebate of $87,158, bringing that total down to $33,161. She indicated there was some additional overtime costs for district employees to do the ballast changeover work, bringing that figure up to around $40,000. Gorder, however, said she expected reductions in electrical costs to begin offsetting those expenditures. She noted the

22 Peace Church Members Leave For Habitat for Humanity Project

Twenty-two members of Peace United Church of Christ are busy at work in Buffalo, New York all this past week on the local Habitat for Humanity project.

Housed at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in central Buffalo, the group is renovating homes at two Habitat sites; one having the old interior torn out, and the other having finishing work completed.

In September, new Habitat homes will be constructed on sites recently donated to Habitat by the city of Buffalo and officially received by Rosalynn Carter on behalf of this international religious organization dedicated to providing decent shelter by means of no interest ownership loans for qualifying homeowners.

This is the basis of Habitat for Humanity, founded by Millard Fuller and dedicated to the Economics of Jesus, as explained in Fuller's book, "No More Shacks," published in 1986. Fuller spoke at Peace Church in November of 1986; the church has supported the project since, sending 15 builders to Nashville, Tennessee last July.

Kewaskum residents involved in this year's Buffalo project are Richard Zaring, Marion Erdmann, Rodney, Mary Lou and Jennifer Stelter, Pat, Shannon and Pat McFadden Jr., Mitchell and Shirley Ogi, Bret Rauch, Jennifer Kissinger, Joel Serwe, Chris Charland, Willard and Ruth Gruhle, JoAnn and Becky Manthei, Bob Schreffler, Marlene Domasky, and Pastor James and Betty Bettin.

Workers were dedicated to this Christian work project at Peace Church during the 9:30 a.m. service on July 3. They will return Saturday evening, July 16.

Village of Kewaskum Receives $11,880.22
Local Governments Receive Share Of Fuel Tax, Registration Fees

The state Department of Transportation has mailed checks to all 1,267 town treasurers, as well as 653 municipal and county treasurers which, over a year, will account for nearly 30 percent of state fuel tax and registration fee collections.

"While most people assume that their user fees are kept by the state for use on freeways and other major state highways, actually a large portion of these fees go back home to pay the cost of plowing snow and patching potholes on local streets," according to DOT Secretary Ronald R. Fiedler.

During 1988, local governments will receive $193.5 million from the state transportation fund to help pay the cost of building and maintaining local bridges and roads.

The 1,920 checks mailed July 5 totaled $48.4 million. The largest check, for $5.5 million went to the city of Milwaukee, while the smallest, for $262, went to the Sauk County village of Lime Ridge (pop. 191).

Checks to local agencies include: City of West Bend (payment of connecting highways) — $13,623.18; Town of Ashford — $11,692.50; Town of Auburn — $8,017.50; Village of Campbell-sport — $3,607.77; Village of Kewaskum — $11,880.22; Town of Fredonia — $9,481.87; Town of Scott — $7,187.69; Town of Farmington — $11,390.62; Town of Kewaskum — $6,941.25; Town of Wayne — $8,429.47; Town of West Bend — $7,417.79; City of West Bend — $175,686.55.

In the current local aids payment, one of four each year, 1,267 towns shared $11.5 million, 393 villages received a total of $3 million; 188 cities received $20 million, and Wisconsin's 72 counties shared $13.8 million. In addition, $2.3 million was sent to 119 communities to help pay the cost of plowing snow and other maintenance on portions of state highways that are within urban boundaries.

Local governments also received transportation revenues for other programs such as public transit, elderly and handicapped transportation, airports and harbors, as well as state and federal funds for specific highway and bridge construction projects.

Summer Activities to Do As a Family

By: Mary Reese
Washington County Summer
Extension Home Economist

For families with school-aged children, summer is supposed to be a time to relax, have fun and spend time together. Unfortunately, summer can be a tough time. Kids may get bored with all of the free time they have, schedules may need to be adjusted and problems might arise because family members are spending so much time together.

Here are some suggestions for summer activities for families:

1. Participate in a library activity. Family members can participate in a reading program or a story hour. Set up a chart and reward the child with an item such as a star or a sticker for every book read. A larger reward like a stop for ice cream could be offered after the child earns a set number of stars. This will encourage reading and increase a child's vocabulary at the same time without draining your pocket-book.

2. Set aside time each week for a family outing. Take a trip to a park, the zoo, a museum, a swimming pool or a local factory tour. (Call ahead to reserve a time). Activities don't have to cost money. Be creative.

3. Plan time for a family project. The family can play a board game, work on a jigsaw puzzle, plant a garden or even take a simple room redecorating project.

4. Set up a "camp" at home. Pitch a tent in the back yard, cook camp type foods, and organize camping activities such as playing cards, frisbee or baseball. You may even want to sleep in the tent to draw a conclusion to the day.

5. If it is possible, take your child to work with you to spend the day. It will help the child to understand what you do all day and will teach him/her about work in general. Bring books, crayons, coloring books and paper along to counter any boredom a child may experience.

Be creative. There are plenty of family activities to do.

Archbishop Rembert Weakland Authors Book

Milwaukee — A new book, "Letters to Teens" written by Archbishop Rembert G. Weakland has been released by the publisher. Based on the letters to "Debbie and Don" that appeared in his popular weekly Herald of Hope column in the Catholic Herald, this book offers understanding and compassion as well as helpful advice for today's young people.

The teen years are a time of questioning, wondering, seeking and evaluating, but life can be difficult when there are always more questions than answers. Archbishop Weakland's book follows the pattern of his column in giving honest, open answers about the hard facts of today's teen life. He discussed such questions as: "Why do parents nag instead of trust teens?" "Is everybody else really 'doing it'?" "Why do I have to go to Mass when it's so boring?" "Why does God let teens die?" and "How do I decide what to do with the rest of my life?"

Archbishop Weakland admits that in his own teen years, there were fewer choices and a "different mood" in society. Yet he feels there were also many similarities to today's teens. "For example," he says, "I always felt as a teenager that no one understood me. I was pretty moody. I sulked and pouted a lot and had big emotional swings." He adds that he has tried to recall that time in order to empathetically respond to today's young people.

In "Letters to Teens," the Archbishop mixes pastoral concern with sound, Catholic doctrine as he discusses such subjects as peer pressure, materialism, drugs, living together before marriage and self-image. His straightforward answers and advice are present in brief, easily read chapters that should make this book a helpful tool for high schools, and parish or teen discussion groups.

Published in paperback, "Letters to Teens" is now available at many local book stores and parishes. Cost: $1.50. The publisher is Liguori Publications, Liguori, MO 63057.

NEWS EXTRA...

Social Security's Future Looks Good

By David W. Becker, Branch Manager

The latest report of the Board of Trustees of the Social Security Trust Funds, issued earlier this year, had news that should be of particular interest to young workers wondering if Social Security program is sufficiently financed to pay benefits well into the next century.

The trust fund reserves are expected to continue to grow until they are needed 40 years from now to pay retirement benefits to people retiring at that time - the "baby boomers." This means that people planning on retiring in the future can count on Social Security as a base on which to build their retirement income.

For those who recall talk some years ago of the Social Security program going bankrupt, this is indeed reassuring news. The rumors grew out of events of the 1970's when high inflation and other economic conditions placed Social Security in serious financial condition.

Based on recommendations from a bipartisan commission appointed by President Reagan, legislation was enacted in 1983 to resolve the serious funding problems facing Social Security at that time. Among other things, the legislation delayed the cost-of-living increase scheduled to take place in July 1983 to January 1984; shifted the tax increases scheduled in the law to take effect earlier; and gradually raised the normal retirement age to 67 by the year 2027. Benefits of upper-income beneficiaries are now taxable, and Federal workers and nonprofit organization workers are mandatorily covered under the program.

The result is a Social Security program that is financially sound and that will represent the cornerstone of your retirement security in the next century, just as it has for your parents and grandparents.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

People of the Kewaskum School District:

The resumes are in and the count down begins. Who will be our next Superintendent of Schools?

I would hope he or she will serve this school district in many aspects. Also that he or she serve this community. This means to be visible to all the people in the realms of the schools and at activities or events in this area.

Keeping our taxes reasonable and having the know-how of budget control with the ability to prioritize educational needs, is another quality needed in this position.

This person should have the ability to work with other administrators, teachers and community groups.

Another requirement is to be able to project staffing due to changes in enrollments and curriculum.

Knowing teacher and support staff contract language and working in harmony with these groups will be so very important.

And last but not least, I feel that this person and the family should live in our district. After all, what better way to prove that the schools are being directed accurately than to have one's children in attendance?

Remember, we as taxpayers are paying his or her salary. We would expect this person and the family to be visible.

There are only a few people who could fill these qualifications.

One will have to dedicate many long hours to the educational needs of our/your children.

I'm sure we're all interested in the progress the board is making to fill this position as school will be starting sooner than we think.

Freshman Placement Testing, Program Planning Dates Announced at UWWC

New freshman placement testing and program planning dates for July have been set here at the University of Wisconsin - Washington County Center, West Bend.

This year UWWC is requiring all entering freshmen to take the English and math tests and to attend a planning session before they can make an appointment to register. The three-hour tests are set for July 18 at 9 a.m. or 5 p.m. Program planning will be held at 5 p.m. July 26 and 9 a.m., July 27.

In June, the first batch of 145 students went through the process.

Testing does not affect a student's admissibility to the UW System but helps determine which courses a beginning English or math student can enroll in. No advance reservations are required for the tests, according to Jan Ford, associate director of student services.

Ford said, "Students just need to show up. However, they do need to have applied for admission to the University."

The planning session, she said, is designed to provide "an upbeat and reassuring" introduction to deciding which courses to take. That process, she conceded, is "new to freshmen, and it is scary."

Ford opens the planning sessions by explaining how degree programs are divided into three parts: basic studies, core requirements and electives. "Basic studies is what we're all about at UWWC and what students are going to be all about for the next two to three years."

She also talks about what a credit is and how it translates into a time commitment. "And I give them some tips on how to build a schedule and choose classes," she said.

Mike Murphy, UWWC's director of student services, completes the session with an orientation to the course catalogue and filling out computer cards. He also helps students interpret their placement test results.

The planning session closes with Ford and Murphy working with each individual on a one-to-one basis, helping them choose classes and answering any questions. At the end, they leave with their permit to register.

Ford summed what planning is all about. "The whole purpose," she said, "is to pick out a schedule and have it approved by an advisor. We'd like them to leave with the feeling they know what they're doing. That's the bottom line."

What's the hardest part of the planning session for new freshmen? Ford said, "Some are not quite ready to deal with the fact that there are no right answers. They want us to tell them what classes they need if they are going to major in business."

"It's hard for some to grasp that a lot of combinations can work to meet the same requirements. That forces them to explore and take some risks, which is great."

"I think planning a schedule is frustrating for most new freshmen."

Ford has observed changes in the planning sessions.

"Students are a little more concerned about their credit load. They ask: 'Can I handle this?' That's nice. It means they are a little more concerned about what they will do when they're here."

A NOTE OF THANKS

I want to thank my friends for cards and prayers while I was in the hospital, also thanks to Rev. Staskal for his words of encouragement. Thanks again.

West Bend Savings Produces Good Earnings

West Bend Savings announced excellent financial results at the end of the second quarter, June 30th. West Bend Savings' President, Richard A. Larson indicated that before earnings were $332,268 and higher than the prior year.

Savings and Loans that use a calendar fiscal year have been required by the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) since January 1, 1988 to defer most of their loan fee income and take it into income over the life of the loan. Despite this deferral which lowers current income, but still is fully taxed, West Bend Savings exceeded 1986's comparable period. Adjusting for the accounting change and under the former system West Bend Savings' earnings were over 25 percent higher.

Larson said that West Bend's core savings business was very strong and mortgage activity and consumer loan activity was substantially higher than last year. In addition to the Savings and Loan results, Financial Resource Group Affiliates, Realty World-West Grove Realty and A.C. Larson & Co. Insurance reported excellent profits. Both are affiliates of West Bend Savings. Larson said that West Bend Savings, like most Wisconsin thrifts had excellent earnings and net worth compared to the national average and were in very sound financial condition.

Dear Betty Crocker

The chicken is able to run as fast as nine miles per hour.

Q. Why do recipes no longer specify sifting flour? E.S., Hometown, IL.

A. Flour is already sifted many times during the milling process. For the most consistent results when baking, dip the measuring cup into flour and level it with a straight-edged knife. Take care not to tap or shake the cup.

Q. My breads always come out with a hard crust. What's causing this? Mrs. A. B., Moorhead, MN.

A. A too high oven temperature may cause the problem. Compare the temperature on your oven controls to that of an oven thermometer. And, you may want to have your oven controls checked. Be sure to place rack in middle of oven and center food to be baked.

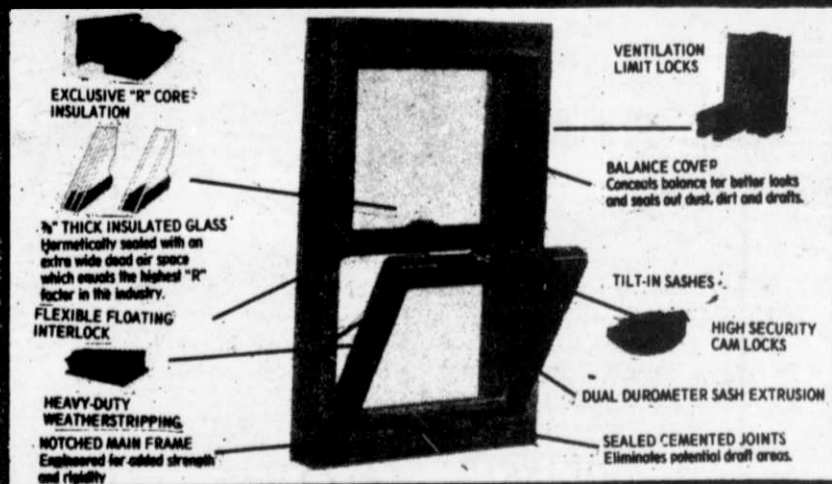

Q. I'd like some new ideas for preparing red cabbage. E.S., Syracuse, NY.

A. Stir-fry cabbage with other vegetables in hot oil or make a cabbage soup with potatoes, ham, other vegetables and herbs. Roll a mixture of cooked sausage, rice, sauerkraut, and seasonings in cabbage leaves and bake. Or make a simple tossed salad or red cabbage, tomatoes, green pepper and a light vinaigrette.

TIP OF THE WEEK: Self-rising flour makes pie crust mealy and tender rather than flaky and tender. Be sure to omit salt from recipe when using self-rising flour.

Do you have a question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440.

Rain Again Dampens Parade

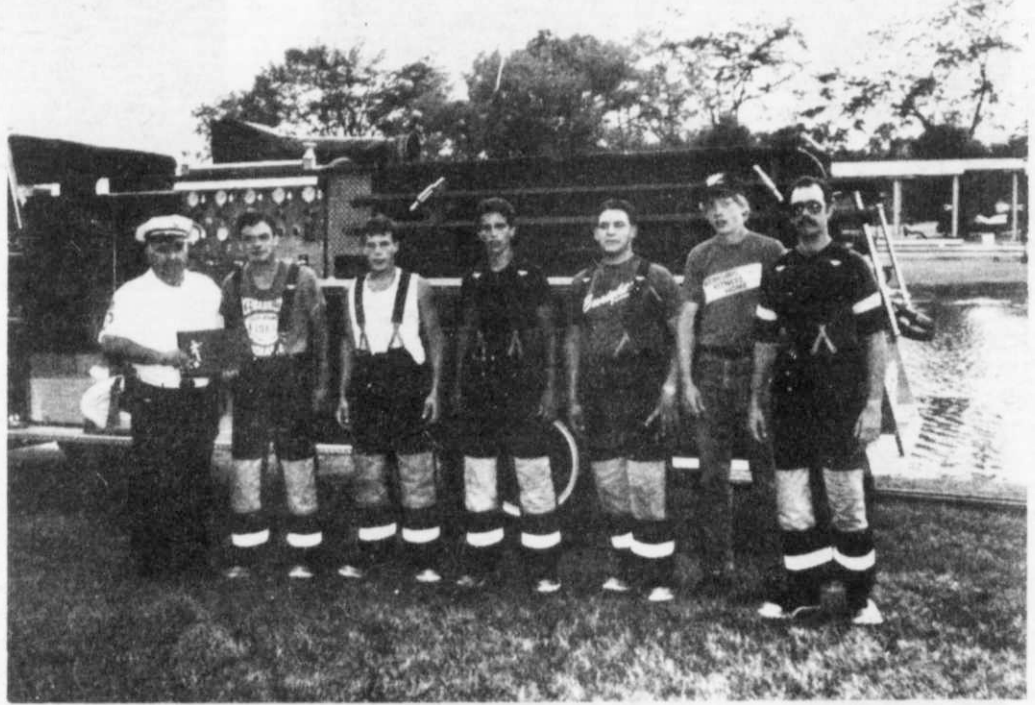

Rain again dampened the annual Kewaskum Firemen-Legion parade held at noon on Sunday. Despite the welcome rain, a large crowd was on hand to view the popular parade.

Many beautiful floats were entered in this year's parade, and the rain did not diminish the hard work and artistry that went into the making of these floats. The winning floats were entered by Family Hair Salon, who won first prize; Kewaskum Sno Chiefs, winning second prize, and the Kewaskum Girl Scouts, who won third prize. Information was not available concerning the winners of the children's specialties.

The festivities began on Saturday evening when Riverhill Park opened at 5 p.m. Waterfights started at 6 p.m. with fourteen teams participating in single elimination bouts with two minute rounds. First place winner was Boltonville, with second place going to Kohlsville. Newburg finished third and fourth place went to Slinger team No. 1.

On Sunday, parade viewers made their annual trek up the hill to the park to enjoy the usual amount of sun, good food, cold refreshments, rides, games and live music.

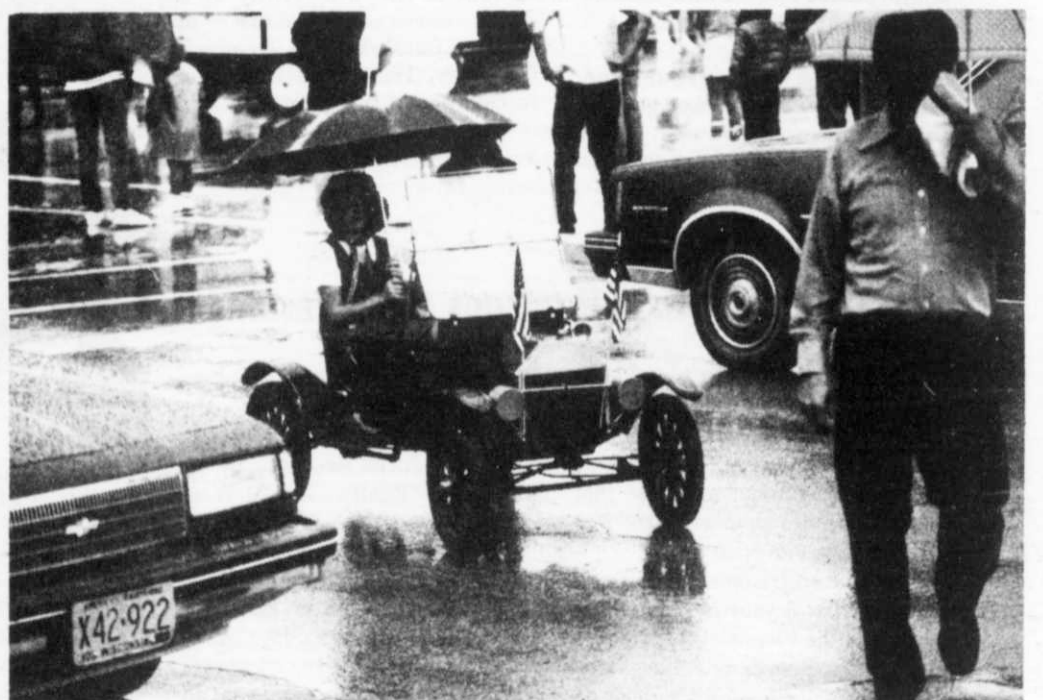

Congratulations and thanks to all the firemen and legionnaires who contributed so much to make this another enjoyable parade and picnic for all of us who look forward to it each year.

Parade viewers sported umbrellas rather than sunglasses as they watched Regal Ware's float travel down Main Street.

An unusual version of a convertible. Jeanne and Jesse Jaeger were lucky enough to find a "big" umbrella to protect themselves and their little car as rain also drenched participants in the parade. Dad Jim Jaeger walked in front of the car.

Family Hair Salon took first place with their float entry "Welcome to the Gateway."

Library's 'Summer Splash' Reading Program a Definite Success

Youngsters who participated in "Summer Splash" enjoyed many activities including a water balloon relay game held outside the Kewaskum Public Library.

The first summer reading program at the Kewaskum Public Library has come to an end. The seventy-six children who participated not only checked out books, but also took part in games, puzzles, arts and crafts, movies, and even a water balloon toss during the four week program.

All of the arts and crafts projects made by the children will remain on display for an additional week. Prizes, which included books and "McGruff the Crime Dog" toys, were awarded to nine lucky children. The library would like to thank the following sponsors who donated refreshments to the program: Homeplate, K & L Hardware, Kemp's Dairy, the Kewaskum Police Department, and Shefond Oil.

The library is hoping to make the summer reading program an annual event, and hopes for continued support from the community in the following summers.

Literacy Collections Available at County Libraries

Surviving in our technological society without reading can be a frightening, confusing, and stressful existence. Illiterates may be concerned with getting lost because they cannot read a road sign or a map, or with being unemployed because they cannot fill out a job application. Many illiterates live in fear that someone — their employer, their co-workers, or even their children — will find out they cannot read. One out of every five Americans is considered functionally illiterate — unable to read or write well enough to function effectively as a citizen, as an employee, and as a family member.

The Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System, which includes Dodge, Fond du Lac, Jefferson, and Washington Counties, continues its campaign against illiteracy. Working through a Library Service and Construction Act Grant, the Washington County public libraries in Germantown, Hartford, Kewaskum, Slinger, and West Bend have each received a collection of books designed for adults who are learning to read or who are trying to improve their reading skills. Every public library in the Mid-Wisconsin area now holds a special collection of books for the Adult New Reader. The subjects are of adult interest, but written at first through sixth grade levels. The books are appropriate for use in formal tutor-student situations and for independent use by people who wish to refresh their skills in the basics of reading. The collections include informational and recreational titles as well as reading study materials.

In the libraries, these books are located in an Adult New Readers section. Each book is labeled with the American Library Association Library Logo to make it most accessible even to patrons whose reading skills are limited.

Please come to your library and examine the books in the Adult New Readers Collection. Perhaps you know an adult who cannot read or cannot read well. You could be the one to help him or her join the world of readers.

NEW IRS FORM FOR SELLING HOME

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has issued regulations requiring that a special IRS form be filed any time a home is sold. The move was taken in an attempt to collect $700 million a year in additional taxes.

Anyone selling a home after December 31, 1986, is required to file a report with the IRS.

The requirement applies to any house, town house or condominium with four or fewer units, as well as stock in a cooperating housing corporation.

The home sale report must be made on a Form 1099S and filed by the settlement attorney. This form is similar to those used by banks to report interest paid to a taxpayer. The forms will be checked against tax returns, just as reports of interest or dividends are.

For example, if you sell your home in 1988, your settlement attorney must file the 1099S form with the IRS by January 31, 1989. You must receive a copy of the filed form by January 31, 1989.

This is the result of the Tax

Reform Bill 1986. Proponents of that bill had promised simplification. One of the reasons I voted against the bill was I did not consider additional forms, such as this, as tax simplification.

John Hammen, West Bend, was awarded the prestigious national Diakonia Award for Meritorious Service, June 19 at his home church, Immanuel United Church of Christ, West Bend. The award, through the Council for Health and Human Service Ministries of the United Church of Christ was presented by the Cedar Lake Home Campus, West Bend, to Mr. Hammen in recognition of his many years of volunteer service to the campus.

He is the first volunteer the Cedar Lake Home Campus has recognized with the Diakonia Award and the 26th person to be cited by the Campus in the past 35 years.

John Hammen began volunteering at the Cedar Lake Home at its conception in 1953. After retiring from the electric company in 1970, John continued volunteering half days, helping residents with activities and teaching chair caning.

The word Diakonia comes from the Greek word for deacons who serve honorably. It was used in the early days of the Christian church for those appointed to serve the church of Christ. Participation in honoring John Hammen, and his wife of 67 years, Marie, were Shirley Birkholz, president of the William Koehl Working Auxiliary; Dr. James Baumgartner, a director of the Benevolent Corporation of the Cedar Lake Home Campus; Burt Lass, president of the Benevolent Corporation; and Steve Jaberg, administrator of the Cedar Lake Home Campus.

Hartford and Washington County United Ways Merge

United Way of Hartford and United Way of Washington County have made it official. As of 4:45 p.m. on Wednesday, July 6 these two organizations have merged into one - the United Way of Washington County.

At a champagne reception for the two Boards of Directors held in Hartford, the officers of both organizations signed an agreement to completely merge operations of the United Ways. Campaigns will merge immediately with the 1988 fund drive. Hartford will select a Division Chair to lead the Hartford area drive, but that person will, for the first time, have the support and assistance of a professional staff and the leadership of Campaign Chair, Bernie Nielsen, President of the Gehl Company.

Glenn Broker, President of the Hartford organization, and Don Ryd, President of the Washington County organization proposed a toast at the meeting. They welcomed in a new era of cooperation and trust between the two communities. Both Ryd and Broker agreed that this merger will be positive for both communities and the programs that serve them.

The agency funding processes for the two organizations will be merged over a three year period. Currently seven agencies are funded by Hartford but not Washington County. Seventeen agencies are funded by both organizations, and eight agencies, including United Way of America are funded by Washington County but not Hartford. For two years the Hartford-only agencies will be reviewed by a special Hartford panel. In 1991 all 32 agencies will be reviewed in the same manner.

Jacquelyn Fogel, Executive Director of United Way of Washington County said, "I couldn't be more pleased with this. We have been working toward this goal for three years and to finally see it happen is exciting. The agency director I have spoken with are anticipating a reduction in their overall paper work and budgeting time. That means more effort can be put into programs rather than paperwork."

Nielsen, never one to shy away from a challenge, sees this as another challenge in the 1988 Campaign.

"I'm looking forward to working with the Hartford business community. I know they have a lot of potential in this campaign - we just have to work harder to make sure the job is done well. It takes a total team effort."

Four members of the Hartford United Way Board will immediately join the Washington County Board of Directors. The next meeting, scheduled for July 27, will be the first for the newly merged agency.

NAP FOR ENERGY

Winston Churchill took a snooze each afternoon, saying it enabled him to "press a day-and-a-half's work into one." Actually, half the people in the world take a nap each day - the siesta of the tropics and subtropics. Evidence indicates a brief afternoon nap - between 2 and 3 p.m. - give the best energizing results. More than a one hour nap won't increase the benefits.

Liesiefsky to Emphasize Family Issues in Bid for State Senate

Rita Liesiefsky

Saying she will stress issues that are important to families, Rita Liesiefsky has announced that she is a Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the 20th District.

Liesiefsky, 34, is the Chair of the Ozaukee County Democratic Party and works as a field representative for the American Red Cross. She resides in Belgium with her husband, David and 5-year-old daughter, Katherine.

The 20th district includes all or parts of Ozaukee, Washington, Sheboygan, Fond du Lac and Dodge Counties. The seat is currently held by Senator Donald Stitt (R-Port Washington).

"As a working mother, I know first-hand the challenges that families in our society face," Liesiefsky said. "I am running for the Senate because I would like to serve as an advocate for programs and policies that will make it easier for families to face these challenges."

"Wisconsin has a long tradition of providing its residents with an excellent quality of life in terms of education, the environment and programs for the elderly," Liesiefsky continued. "Unfortunately, Senator Stitt has not been as active as he could have been in promoting the continuation of this tradition."

Liesiefsky said she would also make job creation and economic development one of her priorities if she is elected to the Senate.

"I do not believe it is inconsistent for us to have strong education and environmental programs and also have a strong business climate. Instead of constantly criticizing Wisconsin's efforts to serve its people, we should be promoting ourselves to the business community as an excellent state in which to do business and raise a family."

Liesiefsky said that she would also bring a new perspective to the debate over property tax relief.

"It is apparent to me that the people making the decision in Madison are not providing real property tax relief to the people of Wisconsin. If I am elected, I will fight for a comprehensive property tax package that will finally bring some real relief to the people of this state."

UWWC Receives 'Smart Money' Check

Officials from Wisconsin Electric and the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County examine one of the fluorescent lamps that will save UWWC $3,000 per year. Holding the lamp, from left, are UWWC Dean Robert Thompson; Cathi Dzedzic, UWWC business manager; Andrew Gumm, West Bend district manager for Wisconsin Electric; Tom Eiring, UWWC maintenance supervisor; and George Patterson, West Bend district senior customer service engineer for Wisconsin Electric.

WEST BEND — "What's the catch?" Andrew J. Gumm, West Bend district manager of Wisconsin Electric, said he hears that question a lot as he goes around handing out "smart-money" checks to customers.

He heard the question again during a recent trip to the University of Wisconsin Center — Washington County with $993.50 in smart money. His answer at UWWC and elsewhere: "There isn't any catch."

For UWWC, the smart money was Wisconsin Electric's 50 percent sharing of the campus costs for replacing all of its 40 watt fluorescent lamps with less-energy-hungry 34 watt lamps. According to Wisconsin Electric, the lower-watt lamps will save UWWC $3,000 a year on electric bills — paying for the cost of new lamps in four months.

George G. Patterson, senior customer service engineer for the utility's West Bend district, said the smart-money program adds up to "a three-win situation." He told UWWC staff, "You win, we win, and the vendor wins."

Wisconsin Electric's "winning" comes from the reduced demand for power on its system as more efficient equipment and appliances are used by its customers. As a result, more power is available for new customers but without the costs of building additional generating plants.

Gumm said that building plants is "our biggest cost" and would cost about three times more than the $70 million being invested by Wisconsin Electric in the smart-money program. The buy-back goal is 10 megawatts of electricity.

Along with UWWC, he said, almost every public school and large customer in the area is participating in the program, which began in 1987. In addition to the large customers, homeowners and farmers have been offered incentives to replace things like air conditioners, refrigerators and freezers and milking equip-

Gumm said, "Wisconsin Electric is the first major utility in the Midwest to do this. It is unprecedented for a utility to be doing a program of this size."

One of the great mysteries of life is how the idiot that your daughter married can be the father of the smartest grandchild in the whole wide world.

Sensenbrenner Urges Congress Not to Forget Our MIA's in Vietnam

(Washington, D.C.) — REP. F. JAMES SENSENBRENNER, JR. (R-WI), in a speech before the House of Representatives said he would introduce legislation urging the Administration to withhold any food or economic aid from People's Republic of Vietnam until they account for all MIA's.

On May 12, 1988, the Communist Vietnam government began appealing to international organizations and foreign countries for emergency aid because of a severe food shortage in that country. This shortage is the result of Vietnam's occupation of Cambodia and Laos.

Sensenbrenner said, "Unfortunately, for more than a decade, the communist government of Vietnam has been uncooperative and arrogant in the face of our sincere and humanitarian petitions for a full and final accounting of American MIA's."

Sensenbrenner told his colleagues, "To extend economic assistance to Vietnam at this time would be a complete mistake. It would signal the appeasement to a greedy nation, hurt our efforts to gain a full accounting of American MIA's and symbolize the second defeat of the U.S. in Southeastern Asia. In fact, we should put more pressure on our Asian allies to close the gaping loopholes in their embargo of Vietnam."

It is widely believed that some of the 2500 American MIA's may still be alive in Southeast Asia.

Sensenbrenner concluded, "Americans cannot forget the agony of the war. The children who never saw their fathers, wives who still wait for their husbands, and family and friends still plagued by lingering doubts about American servicemen still unaccounted for, cannot forget. We should not acquiesce to the communist government of Vietnam their requests without demanding complete attention to our concerns."

THANK YOU

Thank you to my family, friends and neighbors who remembered me with flowers, visits, cards, gifts, phone calls, food, or in any way made my stay at St. Joseph's Hospital and recovery at home, more pleasant.

Thank you to Dr. Gardner, Dr. Hammer and all the nurses on third floor.

A special thanks to Vicar Henzi and Pastor Strong for their visits and prayers.

Conservation Ideas from Wisconsin Electric

MILWAUKEE — Record-setting heat and drought conditions during June will lead to increased bills for customers of Wisconsin Electric Power Co. this month.

Average temperature for the month of June was 70.3 degrees, compared with 64.9 degrees considered a normal average for the month. The difference between normal and actual temperatures for the month was about 8 percent, enough to be reflected in increased appliance use and higher electric bills for WE customers.

Similarly, June this year had 216 cooling degree days compared with 81 for a normal June.

As a result of the warmer weather, Wisconsin Electric customers used their air conditioners and fans more; refrigerators, dehumidifiers, freezers and water heaters worked harder; and all that combined to produce a new record peak use of 4,451 megawatts by Wisconsin Electric's customers on June 20. It was the third daily record set in June, and total energy use also set a record.

"Customers may see higher bills as a result of increased electrical usage due to the hot weather," noted Nancy Noeske, vice president of Consumer Relations. "By the time those bills arrive, however, the weather will have cooled off and usage will have moderated. Also, the impact on individual bills will depend upon when meters are read and bills are calculated."

You can minimize your bill by taking these steps:

- set your air conditioner thermostat no lower than 78 degrees;
- keep the filters and coils on your air conditioner clean;
- use window, ceiling and attic fans instead of an air conditioner;
- schedule heat-producing chores such as cooking, baking, clothes drying or dishwashing for early or late in the day, when it's cooler;
- seal gaps around your air conditioner;
- keep drapes and shades closed during daylight to keep heat out; and
- avoid unnecessary use of your refrigerator.

Additional conservation ideas can be obtained by calling Wisconsin Electric's Energy Facts Phone, 221-2000 in the Milwaukee area, or 1-800-222-9288 outside Milwaukee.

Pause . . . A Moment with Wisconsin Newspapers

by Romain C. Brandt

Compiled for the Wisconsin Newspaper Association Foundation

There's a story making the rounds about a new baby that was born grinning from ear to ear and wouldn't stop smiling. Finally the doctor, who had never seen anything like this before, called in some of his colleagues to have a look. One of them noticed that the baby had his right hand clenched into a fist, so he reached down and opened it. Inside the hand was -- The Pill. Ralph Goldsmith, Boscobel Dial

Learning to Listen Helps Children Do Well In School

If parents are good listeners, children are more willing to listen to them. And good listeners are better prepared to learn.

The 1987-88 school year is the year of the Family in Education in Wisconsin. The Washington County UW-Extension Office is working with school districts to highlight ways parents can enhance their children's education.

Children develop literacy through good listening and good conversation. This does not mean parents should use only simple words when speaking to children. Children are not bothered by words they don't know. They learn the meaning of new words by hearing them used in sentences and figuring out what they mean. Sometimes they need your help. Explaining word meanings and ideas can help children to follow ideas.

There are a number of ways parents can help children learn to listen:

Include children in conversations. Have you ever been certain that a child wasn't paying attention to what you said, only to be embarrassed later when the entire conversation was repeated to you word for word? Children do listen. They like to be included too. This makes them feel important.

Encourage critical listening. Children need to learn to evaluate what they hear. As parents and children explore ideas together, children learn to analyze what they have heard. Critical listening leads to critical thinking.

Build on children's interests. Watch children perk up and pay attention when the conversation turns to a topic of interest to them. Knowing and focusing on their interests helps them to become better listeners.

Young children love to hear familiar experiences repeated over and over. They will listen more attentively and for longer periods of time to something that intrigues and interests them.

Repeat your understanding of children's messages. If you are unsure of what is meant, say to the child, "I am hearing you say . . . Is that what you want to understand. It also takes concentration on the part of the child to check your understanding. Children want to be understood. They are more likely to listen carefully when they think you are trying to understand them."

Encourage listening to learn. Listening allows children to explore new experiences and to better understand their own experiences. During an unhurried pleasant time, stories are a valuable way to teach children to listen and learn.

The most worthwhile conversations are often the ones children begin. Parents should see these conversations as an opportunity to share and rediscover the world together.

The Washington County UW-Extension Office has more than a dozen publications written especially for parents of school-aged children.

Burglars broke into the Post Office in this village during Tuesday night, and escaped with a team of horses and rig, which they stole from the Grell & Wollensak creamery barn. The team was found at Calvary cemetery at Fond du Lac early Wednesday morning. The yegman did a bungling job in the village. They entered the Post Office building by prying open a rear window. They then attempted to drill through the vault door, but failing to open it in this way, knocked off the combination with a sledge hammer, which was found on the floor beside the vault. This hammer was stolen from the A. A. Perschbacher blacksmith shop. They then drilled another hole in the door. This second attempt to force the door was also unsuccessful, as after the vault door was opened late in the afternoon by an expert from Milwaukee, it was found that nothing was disturbed. The four alleged safe blowers suspected of the Post Office robbery were taken off a passenger train of the Soo line Wednesday at Forest Park, Illinois. The suspects resisted arrest and the struggle that ensued caused a small panic among the women passengers.

Last Sunday afternoon during the absence of Chas. Raether and his family, living two miles north of this village, Mr. Raether's farm residence was entered and several articles stolen. The burglar entered the house through the basement door. He made his getaway with a new coat, three rings, a watch, a revolver and several small articles. The burglary was first noticed Monday evening, when Mr. Raether found an old coat, and upon further investigation he found that his house was entered and several articles stolen.

On Thursday evening, A. L. Rosenheimer and J. B. Day, the well known real estate men from this village, purchased the entire general merchandise stock of the Campbellsport Co-Operative Store, located at Campbellsport. The new owners are unable to state at the present time their future intentions as to what they will do with the stock. They however state that the store will be re-opened in the very near future.

Notice is hereby given that all those who are compelled to pay poll tax are requested to do so at once as same is long past due. All those failing to pay their just dues will be prosecuted according to law.

The basement of the New Opera House at Campbellsport has been leased by a party from Pott, Washington. He will install several billiard tables and also a bowling alley. He expects to have everything in readiness by July 19th.

Dirty Dancing
Almost all birds bathe regularly, but not necessarily in water. International Wildlife magazine reports that pheasants, quail, wild turkeys and many other birds prefer to clean themselves in dirt. This process, known as "dusting," is not only pleasurable but also beneficial. Dust absorbs excess oil in feathers, and it may also prevent the spread of parasites.

Aid for Wisconsin Cattle Producers

Wisconsin cattle producers are getting relief from the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). The USDA announced it has set-aside up to $50 million to purchase bulk ground beef for domestic food assistance programs.

Because of the drought, many Wisconsin dairy producers have been selling more of their cattle than they usually do at this time of year. This saturates the cattle market and lowers the market price 25 percent.

The USDA will purchase approximately 45 million pounds of bulk frozen ground beef with the $50 million, in addition to the already scheduled subsidized purchases. The goal of this program is to stabilize the market price of cattle, prevent further decline in the price level and strengthen the market.

"This is a positive and helpful program," says Dan Vogel, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, meat and livestock marketing specialist. "Since Wisconsin is the eighth largest cattle producer in the U.S., the program will definitely benefit our cattle producers who are selling their cattle for lower than average prices."

Wisconsin Among Leaders In Beef Production

A combination of dairy, beef and veal interests makes Wisconsin one of the top states in the U.S. in terms of cattle and calf marketing. The state ranks 8th in the nation in the production of cattle and calves, with sales totaling $636 million.

According to the Wisconsin Agricultural Statistics Service, there were 4,260,000 cattle and calves in the state in 1986, valued at $2.58 billion. Wisconsin cattle generate $650 million in farm revenue annually.

Because of its strong dairy industry, the state supplies about 10 percent of the nation's ground beef, and provides a base for the Wisconsin special fed veal industry, which ranks first in the country. Bull calves not used in the dairy operations are the predominant animals used in veal barns.

Cattle are raised on 63,000 farms in the state. These farms provide meat to over 6,000 retail stores in Wisconsin and others around the country.

Drought Affects Wisconsin Wildlife Too

MADISON, WI — The drought is creating havoc not only for Wisconsin farmers, but also for some of the state's mammal, fish, and waterfowl species, reports Department of Natural Resources fish and wildlife specialists.

Lack of rain is having "drastic effects on waterfowl," according to Jon Bergquist, DNR waterfowl staff specialist.

Drought has caused low water levels in wetland areas, not only in this state, but also in Canada and throughout the prairie pothole region in the Dakotas and Minnesota, the breeding grounds for most species of ducks. Low water levels are causing ducks to bypass these areas and head directly to the larger bodies of water, areas they normally travel to following breeding and brooding periods.

In bypassing the wetlands, some ducks are foregoing any breeding whatsoever.

Wisconsin had more acres of wetlands in the early spring than other midwestern states and prairie Canada, allowing our state to be in a better waterfowl production than the others, according to Bergquist. Preliminary figures from Wisconsin's breeding pair surveys show a 26 percent decrease in breeding population estimates compared to the 40 to 50 percent decrease in the pothole region and the Canadian prairies.

However, the survey also found a 50 percent decline in the number of shallow seasonal wetlands in southern Wisconsin compared to 1987. All of this adds up to a potentially poor year for duck production and the possibility of a restricted duck hunting season, noted Bergquist.

The outlook for pheasant hunters, though, looks favorable at this time.

"Survival of upland game birds born earlier in the season is positive," stressed Ed Frank, DNR farm wildlife specialist.

Young game birds need warm, dry weather in order to survive. The worst thing for them is to have to search for insects to eat in wet, cool weather, according to Frank.

Birds that hatched later might be less fortunate because extensive hay harvesting done earlier than usual due to the drought may have destroyed nests and killed some nesting hens.

It is too early to predict how other wildlife species such as deer, squirrel and turkeys will be affected, noted Frank. Their winter food consisting of corn and acorns has not yet been damaged by the drought, but most non-irrigated corn will need rain soon to revive.

In northern Wisconsin, people are seeing more black bears as they rummage through garbage containers, forced to leave the woods in search of food to supplement their usual diet of berries and greens, which are in scarce supply.

Lowered lake and stream levels, combining with reduced spring flows, are creating the possibility of temperature increases in trout streams, and consequently increased trout stress, according to John Klingbiel, DNR warmwater lakes and regulation specialist. These conditions also increase the possibility of higher summer and winter fish kills.

Drought is also affecting aquatic furbearers such as mink, muskrat and beaver, which are heavily dependant on water, as well as upland furbearers such as fox and raccoon.

According to Carl Batha, DNR Southern District wildlife specialist, aquatic furbearers are going to be more severely affected by the drought than upland animals simply because they depend on water for both food and cover.

Batha stated that normal breeding activities have not been altered yet. He mentioned that young furbearers will probably experience negative aspects of the weather later on in the summer. For the upland species, the lack of water will greatly reduce their food sources of vegetation and insects, while the aquatic young will notice both a reduced food source and a loss of cover necessary for survival.

Batha said the impacts on the furbearing animals "will get worse if this drought doesn't end."

Make Time Together A Summer Priority

Mary Reese
Summer Home Economist
UW-Extension
Washington County

If you are too busy to spend time as a family, then you are too busy, according to a UW-Madison researcher. "Spending time together was the most important factor for strong families in a number of recent studies," says Hamilton McCubbin, dean of the school of Family Resources and Consumer Sciences and director of the Family Stress, Coping and Health Project.

"Many families have found that once they get into a routine of doing things as a family, it becomes a high priority," he says. "The benefits are definitely worth the investments of time, money and effort."

Research has shown that spending time together as a family has many benefits:

— It builds family pride, helping everyone to become part of the family.

— It helps to keep the lines of communication open between members.

— It helps to keep the family a priority in everyone's life.

Families need time together, says McCubbin. "Think of the groups you have belonged to in the past. What happens if group members don't agree on a common purpose, if the group seldom meets or if group members are missing? Groups need to meet regularly to have life and purpose." Families are no different from other groups — They need to spend time together if they hope to endure a long time, he says.

"Activity overload is the challenge of our day," he says. "We have so many things to do and so little time to do them all. Family members must make it a priority to be home enough to be part of the family." A recent study found that strong families intentionally cut down on the number of outside activities and involvements in order to minimize fragmentation of their family life, he says.

But he notes that time with the family or family members does not come easily. "You have to take the time or you can end up with only 'leftover time' — when you are tired, irritable, cranky, or just plain exhausted. He suggests that families schedule time together. One evening per week set aside for family activities would be an ideal goal, he says.

"Realistically, that may not be possible for every family. Still, striving for family time on a regular basis not only results in the best benefits, but also helps set the family as a priority," according to McCubbin.

Indians Overpower Plymouth

KEWASKUM — The Kewaskum Indian baseball team powered their way past the Plymouth Panthers in a conference game Monday, June 27. The Indians used two home runs on the way to a 6-1 victory over the visiting Panthers.

The Indians got on the scoreboard right away in the first inning taking advantage of Plymouth pitcher Mike Haslee and his control problems. Haslee walked both Scott Krahn and Noel Stollenwerk to open the game and they advanced on a couple of wild pitches. Steve Johnson then tripled to drive in two runs as the Indians jumped out to a 2-0 lead.

The Indians got a few more runs in the third inning. Stollenwerk singled with one out and Johnson followed that with another single. Eric Pearson then stepped to the plate and ripped a Haslee offering over the leftfield fence for a three-run homer, his first of the year, making the score 5-0. The Indian's final tally came in the sixth when Mike Heberer led off the inning with a solo home run, his third round tripper this season.

Heberer also did a good job out on the mound for the Indians, scattering seven hits while striking out four and walking four. The Panthers only run came in the seventh when, after Heberer walked the leadoff batter, he was replaced by Stollenwerk. Stollenwerk also had some control problems in the inning, walking three more, forcing in a run before finally striking out the final batter.

The win, the Indian's sixth in a row in conference, upped their league leading conference record to 10-2, 10-6 overall.

Indians Bow to Germantown

KEWASKUM — Although the Kewaskum Indians have been doing extremely well in the tough Eastern Wisconsin conference, they have yet to win a game in nonconference action. This held true against the Germantown Warhawks on Friday, July 1, as the Indians fell to the visitors, 6-4.

One big reason the Indians haven't fared better against nonconference opponents is because coach Tom Bartelt uses nonconference games to give his subs some playing time and get everyone into the action. This could prove very helpful at tournament time if someone should get injured.

Germantown got to Indian starter Noel Stollenwerk right away in the first inning. Greg Zak doubled with one out and following a strikeout, Bryan Preiss drilled at triple to score Zak and give Germantown a 1-0 lead.

The Indians answered right back in the bottom half of the first. Dan Heisdorf led off with a single and stole second base. Jeff Miller then singled, driving in Heisdorf and tying the score at 1-1.

Germantown got another run in the second when Frank Wilson tripled to lead off the inning and scored on a ground-out. The Warhawks added to their lead in the third when Chad Maier, Zak and Jay Olszewski each singled. Wilson again singled scoring two more and after the third inning, the Warhawks led, 4-1.

Germantown added another run in the fifth off reliever Paul Budiac. After a walk to Wagner, Wilson again singled, moving Wagner to third and when Wilson got in a rundown, Wagner scored before Wilson was caught for the third out.

Indian bats came alive in the fifth. Mike Heberer reached on an error and scored when Heisdorf's single got by the centerfielder and Heisdorf ended up on third. He scored on a wild pitch making the score 5-3, Mike Morell then launched a ball over the centerfield fence for a solo home run making the score 5-4.

That was all the Indians could muster, however, as Germantown scored another run off Jeff Miller who replaced Budiac. Miller had control problems, walking three batters and hitting another before getting out of the inning.

The loss dropped the Indians overall record to 10-7.

Indians Lose Heartbreaker to Falls

SHEBOYGAN FALLS — The Kewaskum Indians traveled to Sheboygan Falls last Saturday, July 2 making up a postponed game from during the week. The Indians should have wished for more rain, however, as they came up on the short end of a 4-3 decision.

The Indians started off on the right track as Noel Stollenwerk doubled with one out in the first inning and scored on Steve Johnson's clutch two-out single. Johnson was left stranded and the Indians led 1-0.

Things continued to look good for the Indian's as big left-hander Dennis Aupperle struck out the side in the first and appeared to be in good control out on the mound.

The game stayed at 1-0 until the bottom of the fifth. Aupperle, who sailed through the first four frames, giving up only one hit, walked the leadoff batter, Brek Rammer and then made an error trying to pick Rammer off base and sent the runner to second. Brad Kayden then had an infield single, moving Rammer to third, who then scored when catcher Eric Pearson sailed a throw over third baseman Mike Lubahn's head when trying to catch Rammer napping off third. Kayden moved to third on the play and scored on an infield groundout, giving the Falcons a 2-1 lead.

They added to that lead in the sixth, Chad Tenpas singled with two out. Rammer walked again and Kayden again singled, scoring Tenpas. The Indians got out of any further damage when Rammer knocked over Pearson at the plate, constituting an automatic out and ejection.

The Indian bats finally came to life in the seventh. Mike Lubahn reached on an error with one out and scored on two wild pitches, making the score 3-2. After another out, Stollenwerk singled and moved to second on a single by Jeff Miller. Steve Johnson then

Huskies Use 'Home Field' Advantage to Defeat Indians

NEW HOLSTEIN — The Kewaskum Indians baseball team got a definite and unique example of the term "bushball" July 5 in a game at New Holstein. The home team got two bush-aided home runs en route to a come-from-behind victory over the Indians, 6-5. The loss dropped the Indians out of a tie for first place with New Holstein as both teams entered the contest with identical 10-3 records.

The Indians drew first blood in the second inning. Eric Pearson singled with one out and advanced to third on a single by Mike Heberer. Pearson scored on a wild pitch and the Indians led 1-0.

New Holstein answered right back in the bottom half of the inning. Jeff Berg drew a walk and Jamie Mertens drilled a ball to the gap in left-centerfield. The New Holstein baseball diamond has no home run fence. Instead, the outside of the outfield is layed with rows of thorn bushes. One of the ground rules laid down by the New Holstein coach before the game is that if the ball is hit into the bushes, the ball is still playable and the outfielders are to retrieve the ball. Meanwhile the hitters can keep running. Such was the case of Mertens as he circled the bases for a two-run home run as outfielders Steve Johnson and Jeff Miller still combed through the thorn bushes in search of the ball.

Down 2-1, the Indians came right back in the third. With one out, Noel Stollenwerk drew a walk and moved to second on Miller's single. Johnson then came through with a single, scoring Stollenwerk. Miller scored on a wild pitch and Johnson crossed home on a sacrifice fly by Pearson, making the score 4-2, Kewaskum.

The Indians got another run in the fourth, Paul Budiac led off with a triple to centerfield. Mike Lubahn then singled home Budiac, making the score 5-2 in favor of the Indians.

That's the way it stayed until the bottom of the seventh. Dennis Aupperle cruised through the first six innings, only allowing three basehits and striking out five. But Aupperle got himself into trouble in the seventh. After striking out the leadoff hitter, Aupperle walked the next two batters. Craig Halbach then hit a grounder to second which took a bad hop on second baseman Mike Morell and headed into centerfield, scoring a run, making the score 5-3 with runners on first and third. Aupperle got the next batter to pop out, and with two outs, he faced Steve Feyan.

Feyan lined a shot into the gap in left-centerfield, hitting the thorn bushes in almost the exact same spot as Mertens homer. This time Miller dove into the bushes headfirst, looking for the ball. He found it, but not in time as the relay throw from Stollenwerk was too late and the Huskies had stolen a 6-5 victory right away from Kewaskum. This was the second straight game the Indians had lost in the bottom of the seventh inning, but this one left them with a more bitter taste in their mouths as it dropped them out of first place.

The Indians, now 10-4 in conference, must look for some help from the other E.W. teams as they trail New Holstein by one game with only one week of play left.

Heberer Pitches Two-Hitter Indians Beat Two Rivers

TWO RIVERS — The Kewaskum Indians, behind the two-hit pitching of Mike Heberer, beat the Two Rivers Raiders, 6-0 on July 7.

The fact that the Raiders started six freshmen may have helped, but Heberer's performance was a definite bright spot for the Indians. The junior right hander struck out ten batters while walking only two in going the distance for a complete game victory. Heberer had a no-hitter going for five and two-thirds innings before finally surrendering a single to Chad Duffner in the sixth. Only two batters reached second base off Heberer the entire game as he pitched the first shutout for the Indians this year.

On the offensive end, Steve Johnson had three of the six Indian basehits, including a double which was the only extra base hit in the game. Johnson also stole three bases and scored three runs.

In the first, Noel Stollenwerk reached on an error and went to second on Johnson's single. They pulled off a double steal and both scored on Eric Pearson's ground ball that was misplayed.

In the second inning, Mike Lubahn reached on a fielder's choice, stole second, and went to third on a passed ball. He then scored on Dan Heisdorf's single, making the score 3-0.

The Indians added another run in the third when Johnson singled and stole second. He again stole third and scored on a sacrifice fly by Pearson. The Indians had a total of eight stolen bases in the game, by far their season high.

Kewaskum got their final runs in the fifth. Jeff Miller started things off with a one-out single and Johnson followed with a double, scoring Miller. Pearson singled driving in Johnson and that was all scoring either team had, 6-0.

The Indians, now 11-4 in conference, are tied with Sheboygan Falls in second place, one game behind New Holstein.
