Christmas Decorating Contest The Lights Go On and the Winners Are

First Place Winner - The Norman Kempf home on Werner Drive

by S. Callaway Roznik

On the evening of December 19th the panel of Chamber of Commerce members selected to judge Kewaskum's first annual Christmas Decorating Contest set out on their mission with a tough job ahead of them. Tonight they would have to choose the winners, a select few out of the many glorious Christmas scenes the village of Kewaskum had created for this special holiday season.

Residents turned on their lights in anticipation and the village was aglow with festive flickerings on everything from trees, to wagon wheels, up chimney tops, and yes, even on pigs. There were jolly Santas waving, choir boys singing, nativity scenes, lolli-pop lanes, prancing reindeer, busy elves, and much much more.

After several hours of touring each neighborhood, discussing and debating, the final decisions had to be made. As far as the judges were concerned the entire village was the winner being that they had made this job such a difficult one!

Decisions were based on overall appearance, balance, creativity and continuity.

The home of Norman and Rosemary Kempf, 535 Werner Dr., was chosen as the grand prize winner. Second place was awarded to Randy and Wendi Dreher, 320 Main St., and Drs. Cesar and Aurora Sison, 1040 Fond du Lac Ave., received third place.

The judges decided to give "honorable mentions" several homes that were decorated with a touch of the unusual or unique-making them stand out in their eyes.

Honorable mentions were awarded to the homes of Mr.

and Mrs. George Eggert Jr., 378 3rd St., Mr. and Mrs. Alex Laubach, 536 Werner Dr., Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Stommel, 1415 Roseland Dr., Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wesenberg, Memorial Dr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gildersleeve, 451 Lazy Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Erickson, 556 Werner Dr., Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Schmidt, 221 Mrs. Joyce Clinton St., Halfmann, 611 Highland Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knoebel, 709 Moraine Ct., and Mr. and Mrs. James Heisdorf, 1011 Milan Dr.

But the judges didn't stop there! A "special mention" category had to be created to tell everyone about Mr. and Doug Schacht's "functional lawn decoration" at 499 Knights Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. James Hammen's original life-like decorations at 235 Braatz Dr., and last but not least, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buddenhagen's most novel decorations, located on First Street.

The Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce would like to take this opportunity to thank the entire community for making this contest so successful, and for uplifting the spirit of Kewaskum. Congratulations to all the winners, and don't forget to take a special holiday drive and see if your choices match the judges!

Kewaskum Plan Commission to Forward Rezoning Request

By GERRY MUELLER Statesman Staff Writer

After a short discussion Monday night, the Kewaskum Plan Commission voted to forward a rezoning request for a parcel of land east of the Ideal Subdivision No. 1, located on the northwest side of the village.

The rezoning is a joint request from James Wessing and the Village, from which Wessing is in the process of purchasing the property. The village recently approved the sale of the approximately seven acre parcel, retaining only one lot on which the new lift station is being constructed.

The request is asking that the zoning be changed from the present R-3, duplex residential district, to R-1 single family and R-4 multiple family residence. Of the thirteen lots, eleven would be re-zoned single family and two would be multiple family

Village Administrator Dan Schmidt indicated that, while no actual plans have been drawn up, the north side R-4 lot could accommodate up to a 16-unit building and the south R-4 lot

Members of the Chamber chose Tim's picture because it best depicted the message they want to convey to tourists.

The Chamber wants to tell all tourists that the Kettle Moraine's beauty is right here for everyone to enjoy and Kewaskum is the "Heart of the Kettle Moraine.

The photo also explains Kewaskum and the Kettle Moraine offers summer and winter fun for all visitors. The Chamber hopes that while tourists will also include Kewaskum and the surrounding area on their list of places to Tim's winning photo earned him a $100 savings bond courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce. Tim has also won awards from the Wisconsin Department of Development's Division of Tourism and the Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Parks, for photos he submitted to 1988 statewide photography contest. (See related story on another page in this issue).

(All those who entered the contest and did not win may pick up their pictures at the Kewaskum Statesman).

BREAST CANCER

The risk of getting breast cancer before menopause is only half as great among women who have ever breastfed as among women who have not, reports the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center, Seattle. The study covered lactation histories of 329 women, aged 25 to 54, diagnosed with breast cancer. These were compared with histories of women without the disease who were matched in age to the patient group. Washington DC Trip Offered

Kewaskum High School's history teacher, Fran Charland, is organizing a trip to Washington D.C., June 5-11, 1989. The trip's itenerary includes a stop in Gettysburg to see the National Park Service display and tour the cemetery where Lincoln gave his famous Gettysburg Address. At

Sun. 9 to 4

Gettysburg, there will also be a guided tour of an actual battlefield, and from there, its off to Washington, D.C.

In Washington, D.C. places visited will include the Washington, Jefferson, and Lincoln Memorials, Arlington Cemetery, The Smithsonian Institution, the Capitol, the Vietnam Memorial, Mount Vernon, and much more. After two days in D.C., the tour will go south to Colonial Williamsburg, Jamestown, and Yorktown. As the trip is returning home, it will go through some mountainous territory and spend the night in Charlestown, West Virginia.

The cost of the trip is $245.00 for students or $255.00 for adults, meals not included. The tour will stop where there are several restaurants and a variety of prices to satisfy all. This is done to minimize cost and keep the schedule somewhat flexible. Traveling will be aboard a Motor Coach from Otte Bus Service of Cedar Grove.

There have been five very successful and enjoyable trips and the Kewaskum tours have a very good reputation with the bus company and the places stayed at. Mr. Charland has worked hard to provide the very best trip possible at the lowest cost that can be achieved. "I don't think you can match the price for this trip which includes admissions at Gettysburg, Mt.

Vernon, Jamestown, Williamsburg, and Monticello," stated Charland. "It really can be a trip to be remembered for a long time."

If you'd like to be a part of this fantastic historical adventure, please contact Mr. Fran Charland at 626-2166. Prices are based on four people per room. If you desire or require a two person room, there will be an additional charge of $60.00 for the week. "We hope you can join us!!"

On Wednesday, Dec. 14th the Kewaskum Women's Club held their Christmas Party at the home of Jeanne Goeden in St. Michaels.

The entertainment for the evening was The Half Notes, a quartet from West Bend, led by Fred Bury.

This year the membership had a contest for the "best dressed" or cleverest decorated sandwich.

First place went to Lois Bunkelman for her sandwich in the shape of a house with snow on the roof. The "eye catcher" award was given to Minerva Martin, and the "best dressed" award was given to Martha Stoffel for her work on a sandwich covered with a paper tuxedo. Vivian Stommel was the distinguished judge.

After the entertainment and luncheon the members enjoyed a sing-along. Plans for next year's annual party are already in progress.

Ground Beef Alert

Consumers should be aware of the dangers of eating raw ground beef or rarely cooked ground beef. Recently, the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection Division, alerted consumers to a recent case of a foodborne disease involving raw ground beef.

The disease occurred in Minnesota and involved 40 students whose symptoms were bloody diarrhea caused by a bacteria identified as E.coli 0157:H7

E.coli 157:H7 is a bacteria found in animal intestinal tracts. Symptoms of the foodborne diseases are bloody diarrhea and severe abdominal cramps. It can cause kidney shut down in children due to urinary tract infection.

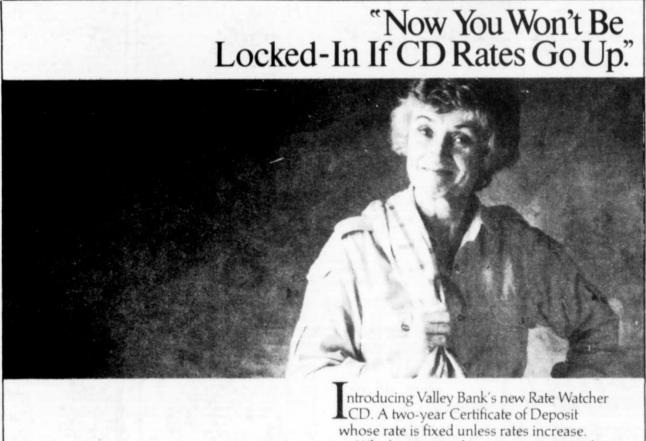

Thorough cooking destroy the bacteria. Most cases are related to improperly cooked or rare ground beef. Ground beef should thoroughly cooked to at least 165 degrees. Refrain from eating raw ground beef or rarely cooked ground beef.

Consumers should wash their hands well and wash utensils used in preparation of raw meats. Cutting boards should be thoroughly washed and sanitized with bleach. Bacteria can be passed from one person to another to spread from meat to other foods.

If you have specific questions regarding E.coli, you can contact Terry Burkhardt, Food Division, Wisconsin Dept. of Trade Agriculture Consumer/protection, 608-266-3419.

Peace Church to Celebrate Christmas With Worship Services

The celebration of Christ's birth will begin at Peace United Church of Christ in Kewaskum on December 24th at a 6:30 p.m. worship service. At this early service and then again at 8:30 p.m. Rev. James Bettin will bring the message, "The Curiosity of Christmas," based on the text of Luke 2:8-16.

Soloists will provide special music for the early worship, and the Chancel Choir will sing at the later worship time. Both services will feature candle-lighting and both will have a special children's message.

On Christmas Sunday there will be worship with holy communion at 9:30 p.m. served to all believers. The morning message of Pastor Bettin will be "And the Time Came." A time of carol singing will be featured in all of the Christmas services.

Salem UCC to Hold Candlelight Service On Chistmas Eve

Salem United Church of Christ will hold a candlelight service at 7:00 p.m. on Christmas Eve. The church is located at the junction of Washington County Highways H and W — 2 miles east of Highway 41 in Wayne.

There will be singing of the favorite Christmas carols, Roger Mertz will sing O HOLY NIGHT and the Adult Choir will provide special music.

The Christmas meditation SOMETHINGS TO GET ALL CHOKED UP ABOUT will be presented by Milton Staskal, Pastor. The community is invited and encouraged to participate in this joyful worship experience as we reaffirm the reason for Christmas. "After a week like yours, you need a church like ours."

When all is said and done, it's customers like you who make us proud to be of service.

We hope you have the best holiday ever!

Good News With Community Church THE PERFECT GIFT

What do you want for Christmas this year? Whatever it is the newness of any material gift soon wears off, and the first excitement of receiving it is forgotten. But there is a perfect gift that never wears away. This is the gift of eternal life which is worth more than all the riches of the world.

Why should a person receive this gift? The Bible says, "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God. The wages of sin is death but God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting

West Bend Freeway Plan Includes Seven Overpasses

Road construction is expected to start the week of December 19 on the first phase of the construction of the second roadway on the West Bend Freeway (USH 45), from STH 145 to CTH "D", in Washington County. The work will consist of the construction of overpass structures at Sherman Road, STH, 60, Paradise Drive, 18th Avenue, STH 33, Jefferson Street, and CTH "D".

The work will be performed under two contracts led to Zenith Tech, Inc. of Waukesha, at a total estimated cost of $1,564,140.00. Financing will be shared on approximately a 76/24 percentage by the Federal government and the State of Wisconsin, respectively, from funds provided primarily by gas taxes.

STH 60, Paradise Drive, STH 33 and CTH "D" will remain open to a minimum of one lane of traffic in each direction during the work. 18th Avenue and Jefferson Street will remain open to two-way traffic at all times. Sherman Road will be closed to through traffic from Mayfair Road to CTH "P." Alternate routes to bypass the closure are via STH 60 to the north and Western Avenue to the south. Motorists are urged to use the alternate route of their choice, as a marked detour will not be provided. Motorists are urged to be aware of the flagpersons and use caution in the construction zone.

It is anticipated that this project will be completed by June 30, 1989. Every possible effort will be made to provide continuous and safe ingress and egress to all business and residential properties during this reconstruction, but pedestrians and motorists are urged to use caution in the construction zone.

UWWC to Broadcast How to Run a Caucus

If your town or village picks political candidates by caucus, you might want to sit in on a Jan. 4 teleconference that explains the procedures.

The program, "How to Conduct A Town or Village Caucus," will be broadcast over UW-Extension's Educational Teleconference Network from 7:30 to 8:50 p.m. ETN provides two-way voice communications between 200 sites throughout Wisconsin. There is no fee. If you'd like to attend contact your county UW-Extension office.

Town and village caucuses are assemblies of eligible voters, held in January to nominate candidates for public offices, explains Ken Nelson, a University of Wisconsin - Extension specialist who works with local governments.

"It's probably the most significant event that takes place for a lot of communities. It's truly the democratic system in operation. People get together and decide who their candidates will be," Nelson points out.

He estimates that 60 percent of Wisconsin's towns and villages use the caucus system. In the rest, candidates circulate nomination papers.

The program will be led by Kevin Kennedy of the state Elections Board and Rick Stadelman of the Wisconsin Towns Association. It will be designed to teach local officials the legal requirements for running a caucus, but it's good way for anyone to learn how caucuses are supposed to operate.

Christmas Tree Lights Not Costly On Electric Bill

MILWAUKEE - Worried about how much those Christmas tree lights will add to your electric bill? Don't be too concerned.

"Miniature Christmas tree lights are very economical to operate," according to Bonni Yordi, supervisor of consumer Education at Wisconsin Electric Power Co. "A string of 20, 35 or 50 miniature lights uses only 18 watts, so if you decorate your tree with three light strings and keep the lights on for six hours a day for three weeks, you'll use about 45 cents of electricity.'

A quiet energy-waster on cold days can be a waterbed. It's especially important to cover a waterbed. A partially unmade bed uses 30 percent more energy. A king-size waterbed with the heater set at 90 degrees and covered with a comforter in a 70-degree room contributes about $8.50 a month to a family's electric bill. Take that comforter off, however, and the cost of heating the waterbed goes up nearly $3.

Brochures on the cost of operation of common household appliances and on the purchase and use of efficient appliances are available from all Wisconsin Electric offices. If you have a question about the cost of operation of a specific appliance, or want a brochure mailed to you, call Wisconsin Electric's Enegery Facts Phone at 221-2000 in Milwaukee, or toll-free outside Milwaukee, 1-800-222-9288.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

December 8, 1988

Dear Editor:

It's a Christmas Eve scene I would like to forget, but I can't erase it from my mind - even six years after it happened.

We were celebrating Christmas with my wife's sister and brother-in-law in their home.

Orlan Lee had been living with a diagnosis of emphysema for several years. Now in the advanced stages of the disease, he was hooked up to a portable tank with continuous oxygen. Rising slowly from his chair, he crept to the window, signaling a request that I open it. Still hooked to the oxygen, he gasped for air as the cold winter night blew in.

It was mid-January when we got the call that he had succumbed to the disease.

Orland Lee had been a smoker. He had started when young, before there were warnings that smoking causes emphysema and lung cancer, warnings that alert today's children to the risks.

Today, too, persons who suffer with emphysema are helped to live more comfortably, and researchers are looking for a cure.

These and other life-saving programs conducted by the American Lung Association are made possible by the annual Christmas Seal Campaign. Please give generously. You can help someone escape the unnecessary suffering of emphysema. You can help save a precious human life.

Letter to the Editor

Here's an idea for families in the Kewaskum area who are looking for a project they can do ogether to share the joy of Christmas with someone less ortunate. In 1984, my wife Diane and I started an organizaion called Friends of the Americas to reach out to children in Latin America and the Caribbean suffering from war, natural disasters of extreme poverty. Since then, we have founded a hospital, refugee center, five medical clinics and 25 self-help projects countries of hemisphere. We help homeless children - refugees, disaster victims, street children orphans and children living in he marginal areas of the big ities of Latin America. Our most popular project is the hristmas Box Project which llows an American family to out together an individualized gift box for a needy child of a articular sex and age. Families send the boxes to us, and we process and ship them to our chairman in each country sually the American imbassador or his wife. Each box must be personally handed to the needy child by the ambassador or another merican citizen.

Friends' Christmas Box Action Kit provides instructions on how to prepare a box. Each box contains 30 new items, including clothing, school supplies, toys and a small American flag. Most important, it includes a letter and a photo from the family who prepared the box. In the highlands of Guatemala, the slums of Mexico City, the San Blas Islands of Panama, La Mosquitia of Honduras and a thousand other Christmas boxes provide a chance for Americans to go where the need is greatest and share with children the joy of Christmas and the generosity of the American people. Here in the states, preparation of a Christmas Box is a chance for families to express our love for the children of Latin America and spend family time together giving of ourselves.

Since 1984, Friends has delivered more than 200,000 Christmas Boxes to needy children, including many prepared by families in the Kewaskum area. This year thousands of children in Latin America are hoping and praying that we will remember them.

These are children who have never had a single toy or new piece of clothing. We invite you to prepare a Christmas Box this year. To receive Christmas Box Action Kit, call (504) 926-5720 or write Friends, 912 N. Foster, Baton Rouge, La. 70806. Please mention the Kewaskum Statesman.

Sincerely,

Rep. Louis [Woody] Jenkins Chairman

In addition to a large Christmas tree in front of the municipal building and the usual attractive street, show window and private home decorations, Kewaskum this year has been dressed up with another beautiful decoration to instill the holiday spirit.

A giant Christmas tree has been erected on top of the big hill at the east end of the village. The hill, now owned by Fred Fehlhaber, is familiarly known by the name of Keller's hill. It is the highest spot in Kewaskum and affords a view for many miles.

The tree, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ours, was cut from their property, on First St. It is about 30 feet high and is illuminated with approximately 125 red and green lights.

A memorial scholarship is being established in memory of the late Clifford Rose, who served as a teacher, high school principal and superintendent of schools in Kewaskum for over 30 years.

Tax rate of $32 per thousand is levied by Village Board. Out of every dollar you pay in real or personal property taxes, the Village of Kewaskum receives 11 cents. The balance, or 89 cents, goes to the state, county and schools as shown in the following schedule: The state's share is $.01. The county's share is $.20. The school's share is $.68. The village's share is $.11

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Timblin and children last weekend moved from the Mrs. Lester Kohn house at 1318 River View Drive into their newly constructed home at 1336 Kewaskum St. which has just been completed.

Mr. and Mrs. Boettcher have sold their tavern and hall at Kohlsville to Dan Coulter of R. 3, Campbellsport. The Boettchers conducted the tavern business in Kohlsville for the past 71/2 years. He is employed by the Kewaskum Post Office.

'Double Cash' Offers New Prize Structure

Wisconsin Lottery introduced its new instant scratch game called "Double Cash" Saturday, December 17, at more than 5000 retail outlets statewide.

The big news about "Double Cash" is the new prize structure and play format.

The prize structure includes new mid-tier prizes of $25, $50 and $100, and a top instant prize of $10,000 double the previous top instant prize of $5000 offered with the "Match 3" and "Instant Cash" games.

The new play format provides two ways to win: match three similar dollar amounts on one ticket to win that particular prize, or match two dollar amounts with the word 'double'' to win double the two matched amounts on the ticket.

"We've sold more than 85 million tickets with the match three and win format," said Wisconsin Lottery Executive Director William F. Flynn, Jr. "It's time to add a new twist to the scratch game.

"Double Cash" players will have the chance to win prizes of $1, $2, $5, $10, $25, $50, $100, $5,000 and $10,000 as well as an "ENTRY" ticket for the $1 million grand prize drawing instantly.

1988 Wisconsin Gun Deer Season Safest in History

MADISON — Wisconsin deer hunters in 1988 had the safest deer hunt in modern history with only 19 accidents reported, including two fatalities, Homer Moe, DNR hunter education administrator said.

'That's the lowest number of accidents since 1938 (when accurate statistics were first tabulated) when there were 17 accidents involving fatalities," Moe explained.

"The major difference is that during the 1938 season, there were only 103,721 licensed hunters who bagged 32,855 deer. In 1988 there were more than 650,000 hunters who bagged more than 255,000

Moe credits safety-conscious hunters for the decline in deer hunting accidents.

"That safety consciousness has been instilled in more than 360,000 Wisconsin hunter safety graduates by a volunteer group of dedicated hunter education instructors," Moe stated. "Safety while hunting has been the main emphasis of hunter safety instructors for more than 20 years.'

For others, safety reminders voiced by hunting partners, carried by news media and shared by many other sources concerned about safety in the deer hunting woods.

'I commend those hundreds of volunteer instructors who have given a part of their lives so their graduates and the sport of hunting could survive," Moe "Wisconsin's field warden force is also to be praised for accurate accident investigations finding the key accident causes and bringing them to light to become the focus of safety education training.

The 1988 season accident record compares with a prior 20-year average of 45.6 accidents, including occurring fatalities. each season. During the 1987 deer season, there were 45 accidents including eight fatalities.

The 1988 deer hunting total accident rate per 100,000 deer hunting licenses sold is 2.9 which is the lowest rate in Wisconsin history. comparison, Moe added, the rate for the 1940's was 18.2; the 1950's average was 14.2; the 1960's was 12.6; the 1970's was 7.9; and the 1980 through 1987 average was 5.6.

Not only are total deer hunting accidents consistently declining, fatal accidents also show a dramatic drop during the past four decades, Moe calculated. The number of fatal accidents per 100,000 deer hunting licenses sold in the 1940s was 5.7; during the 1950s it was 3.0: the 1960s 1.9: the 1970s 1.2; and the period of 1980 through 1987 was 0.6. The 1988 average is 0.3.

"The Wisconsin deer hunt has many and varied traditions, but my hope is that safe and responsible hunting continues and becomes 'the tradition' for all deer hunters. Unsafe and irresponsible hunter behavior has no place in the future of hunting," Moe stated.

"The training that DNR district law enforcement safety specialists have provided for volunteer wardens and instructors has assured high quality accident investigations and high quality hunter education. The results speak for themselves.

1989 BEAR SEASON HARVEST APPLICATIONS DUE JANUARY 13

MADISON - Applications for 1989 bear season harvest permits are due January 13, reminds Department of Natural Resources license officials.

Applications for the 2,020 harvest permits available for the fall hunting season must be received or postmarked on or before January 13, 1989, by the Wisconsin DNR, License Section, 101 S. Webster St., P.O. Box 7964, Madison, WI

Applicants are required to purchase a bear hunting license to be eligible for the limited number of harvest permits. Bear hunting licenses cost $6.60 for residents and $21.60 for nonresidents. Bear harvest permits are $25 for residents. $100 for nonresidents.

The 1989 season runs from Sept. 9 - 29 for hunters using dogs, and from Sept. 16 - Oct. 6 for hunters using bait. During the 1988 season hunters killed 1,123 bears; the 1987 harvest totaled 837.

Ferrantes Foil Kewaskum Lakes' Bid

MEQUON - Dan Doedens poured in 33 points, including seven three-pointers, as the Thiensville-Mequon Ferrantes held on for a 117-113 win over the Kewaskum Lakes team at Homestead High School here Sunday night. This game, along with Port Washington's upset of Menomonee Falls, creates a three-way tie for fourth place, with Kewaskum, Thiensville-Mequon, and Port Washington all having 1-3 records.

This game was throughout. The Ferrantes broke to a 28-24 first-quarter lead and stretched that to 58-50 at the half. Kewaskum came back to tie it up 87-87 after three quarters, only to have the Ferrantes prevail in the fourth.

Ken Kiefer added 20 points for Thiensville-Mequon, while Andy Doedens had 17 and Brian Rindfleisch 16. Randy Tennies led Kewaskum with 31 points, Tony Pirozzoli added 26, and Dan Lehman 17.

The Land O' Lakes league now breaks for the holidays for two weeks. Kewaskum's next game will be January 8 when they travel to Oconomowoc to take on the Express.

Indians Drop to 0-3

In a game plagued by fouls (52 to be exact) our Kewaskum Indians couldn't quite use their new strategy, the full-court press, to their advantage, and ended up with a loss to the Kiel Raiders 88-68.

The Indians put in two quick baskets to start the game off (one by Steve Gerhartz, one by Mike Ciriacks) and Kewaskum led 4-1. This was the only time the Indians held the lead as fouls were made by the Raiders but free throw shots missed by the Indians. As Coach Schatz pointed out, "Missed free throws killed us, especially early in the game." The Indians were down at the end of the first quarter 20-12.

The secnd quarter saw the scoring gap widen as Jason Strebe of Kiel popped in a couple of inside buckets early in the quarter. Kewaskum was down by as many as 23 points but kept fighting to tighten the gap and were only down by 11 at half-time 34-45. Excellent effort was made by Indians Mike Ciriacks and juniors Mark (Doc) Heather and Rich Radtke. All of these players came off the bench and helped the Indians pull back into the game during the first half of play.

Hopes to move into contention dwindled fast as the Raiders opened the third quarter with two unanswered baskets and the gap quickly widened back to sixteen. By the end of the quarter the score was 69-52 with Kiel's Isselman dominating the quarter with free throw shooting and a 3-pointer.

Steve Gerhartz played an excellent fourth quarter for our Indian team scoring 10 of his 21 points (a personal best) and fighting hard under the boards. By this time however victory was too far out of Kewaskum's grasp. Another strong inside player was Mike Ciriacks who out-maneuvered out-muscled the Raider team and wound up with 14 points. Mark (Doc) Heather also made a fine over-all contribution playing some solid defense and adding eight points to the score board.

"We had a strong bench tonight which really helped since three of our starters weren't the most effective offensively," stated Coach Schatz.

Isselmen, from Kiel, led all scores with 25 points. He's currently leading the Eastern Wisconsin Conference with 3 point shots and was 3 of 5 in the Raider victory. Casper and Strebe also added 12 points each for the victors.

The Indians travel to Two Rivers Tuesday with their next home game being Friday against Chilton.

JAYVEE ACTION — The JayVee team lost to the Raiders 37-46. Scott Heller and Chris Schmidt had outstanding games scoring 8 and 10 points respectively. Schmidt had an excellent "board" game pulling down 16 rebounds.

FRESHMEN played a fine game all-around according to Coach Westphal and won handily 66-59. High scorers for the freshmen team were Joel Fleischmann with 21 points and Chad Cook with 18.

by Dennis Aupperle

Kewaskum wrestlers, hampered by three forfeits, lost to the Kiel Raiders 44-27, Friday, Dec. 16.

The Indians were paced by pins from Bobby Castro, Chris Charland, Dave Kuphal, and Dennis Aupperle. Castro and Charland's pins were their sixth straight. Neither has wrestled an entire match yet this season. Aupperle's pin came in 26 seconds which gave him a total time of 1:42 for the last three matches. His pins came in 1:07 against Mayville and :09 against Plymouth.

Kewaskum's other points came on junior Dan Heisdorf's 5-4 win at 140 pounds.

Deace In Farth

Peace is not an illusion, an unattainable, centuries-old dream of mankind. Peace and joy exist as surely as love and compassion live within the hearts of men of good will. War, prejudice, oppression and evil; these are as old as the history of the world. They feed upon greed and ignorance; they persist because some of us are too weak or too indifferent to care about what happens to our fellow man. But there is peace in this world. There is peace and joy in the character of men and women who pursue that goodness of life which elevates mankind above the level of the primitive animals with which he shares this planet. Love, compassion — and faith — these are the God-given gifts that make mankind stand tall among his earthly contemporaries.

Because God so loved the world, and with compassion for the sins of mankind, God gave forth His only Son, to live upon earth a life of highest example. The life of Christ was lived in a spirit of love and compassion, and was faithfully dedicated to the will of God.

Because the Holy Child was born at Bethlehem, and so lived among God's people, every man can find an open door to peace and contentment, in this world and in the next. Because Christ came, the Christmas comes once each year to fill our hearts and our minds with inspiration and with hope.

This Christmas, let love, compassion, and faith guide you to a meaningful awareness of the spirit of Christmas.

approaches, many of us find more and more demands placed Christmas on our time. shopping and holiday gettogethers often take priority over preparing and eating nutritious meals.

"Eating a nutritionally adequate diet doesn't have to take a lot of time," said Jody Hackbarth, nutrition education The Dairy consultant for Council of Wisconsin. 'Besides, nutritious eating will keep you healthy and full of energy during this busy season.

To supply your body with the nutrients and energy it needs, eat a wide variety of foods from the four food groups. Needed each day are two servings from the milk group, two from the meat group, four from the fruit and vegetable group and four from the grain group.

You can eat from the four food groups even when you don't have time to sit down to a traditional meal. Here are a few

MILK GROUP

1. Eat a cup of yogurt for breakfast, lunch or a snack. 2. Top sandwiches and

4. Make a milkshake for a quick breakfast or snack.

5. Order milk instead of a soft drink at a fast food restaurant.

MEAT GROUP

- 1. Snack on nuts or add them to salads or casseroles.
- 2. Open a can of tuna or salmon. Both are great on a sandwich or in a salad.
- 3. Eat peanut butter on celery, and apple, a banana or on crackers.

FRUIT, VEGETABLE GROUP

- 1. Order a salad when you eat out.
- 2. Top burgers and sandwiches with lettuce and tomato.
- 3. Top pizza with vegetables such as green pepper and mushrooms.

 - 5. Drink fruit juice.

SHEFOND MOBIL MART

1149 Fond du Lac Ave., Kewaskum

By Ellen Carrol

Harry Jones began to edge toward the doorway. The office Christmas party had almost reached the critical point. Mr. Leathers had positioned himself before the tree and was rapping on the table before him with the golden pen his employees had presented to him the previous year. Now he would present gifts to each employee—and in return require them to tell everyone how they planned to spend the Christmas holidays.

This year, Harry was going to balk. For the fifteen years he had worked for Leathers & Company his Christmas speech had been proud, short and deliberate: "I'm going to visit my family and friends in New London."

For fifteen years, Harry had lived with his lie. Harry had no family. He had no friends. Each holiday season he had secreted himself in his room at the YMCA, afraid to venture into the streets lest someone see him and Leathers & Company, which was his entire world, would become aware that he hadn't gone anywhere at all, and that he was a liar and a fraud.

Harry had almost reached the door when Mr. Leathers looked him in the eye. "You may help me, if you will, Harry. I'll call the names and you pass out the presents. This will cut down on the traffic and everyone will remain comfortable."

"Yes, sir," Harry responded, stumbling forward, stepping heavily on the instep of Carol Whitley in the process. Carol let out a scream and the office resounded with laughter. Harry had done it again. Harry never did anything right.

right.
"I'm sorry," Harry said, to no one in particular, to embarrassed to apologize to Carol, who was obviously more embarrassed than injured.

Harry suffered through the presentation of gifts. What things his friends had planned to do! How nice it would be to visit Grandma on the farm, to take the wife and kids to Ski Valley, or just to stay home and exchange gifts by the fireside.

And then, it was Harry's turn. He accepted his present with a mumbled "Thank you, Mr. Leathers," and hoped the matter would end there.

But Mr. Leathers persisted. "As if I didn't know, Harry, what are your plans for the holiday?"

Harry swallowed hard. "I'm going to...No, I'm not. I'm going, as usual, to my room at the 'Y'. I have no family. I never had one. I was an orphan. I have lied to you people, my friends, for 15 years. I've never been anywhere for Christmas. Maybe I will go somewhere this year...if nowhere else, to church. But, I won't hide to make you think I have gone somewhere."

You could hear a pin drop. Spontaneously, everyone applauded, Mr. Leathers the loudest of all. "Come to see us, Harry."

"Yes, spend your holiday with

"The latch is out at our house, Harry."

Mr. Leathers raised his hands for silence. "I think, Harry, we always knew. But we could do no more than play your game. Mrs. Leathers and I would be delighted dinner. You need not accept now. We'll discuss it later. We have one more gift."

"It's mine," Carol Whitley said. "And, if you don't mind, I'll come and get it. I don't want Harry stepping on my feet again."

"And, what will you do for the holiday?" Mr. Leathers asked.

Carol looked knowingly at Harry. "I have a very old friend who, like myself, has no one to visit, no place to go. If he agrees, we shall have Christmas dinner together at the best restaurant in

Everyone applauded.
"That is," Carol added laughingly, "provided he agrees to walk at least two paces behind me."

Everyone laughed. And, everyone egreed it had been an excellent Christmas party.

The Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse of Washington County wants the coming holidays and the winter entertaining season to be a time of joy, well-being and safety for all Washington County residents. The Council offers several suggestions for reducing the risk of alcohol related tragedies:

- Parties and social gatherings should not be held just to drink alcohol. Remember, alcohol is not necessary to have a good time.

- An attractive selection of non-alcoholic beverages should be available for those who choose not to drink alcohol. Guests should not have to ask for these or be made to feel selfconscious about their choice.

- Don't overserve. Pace drinks, push snacks (not salty snacks that stimulate thirst!) and serve meals promptly.

- Instruct your bartenders to make measured, standard drinks, not doubles or "holiday specials." Serving more alcohol than people plan to drink is dangerous, not generous.

- Avoid drinking on an empty stomach. Unless you know food will be served at a party, eat before going. On arrival, begin with water or a non-alcoholic beverage before consuming alcohol, then be sure to nurse, not gulp your drink.

 Decide beforehand who will drive. There is no safe level of alcohol for drivers.

- Don't push drinks or refill "nearly empty" glasses.

- Don't give more alcohol to someone who is intoxicated. Coffee will not sober anyone up and caffeine can create a wide awake drunk instead of a sleeping one.

- Stop serving alcohol at least an hour before guests are expected to leave. If a driver has been drinking, offer to drive them home, arrange for someone else to do so, or invite them to sleep in your home.

- All use of alcohol by those under 21 is illegal and is high risk drinking. For them, alcohol is as much an illicit drug as cocaine and heroine and may be far more dangerous.

New Christmas Acquaintances

The house can have the most beautiful decorations ever and Christmas dinner can be the most delicious ever, but the true magic of Christmas comes from sharing it with loved ones. Even though you may have many friends and family members to share Christmas with, the season can become even more special by making a welcome for a newcomer to your home. Yes, it will take extra time and effort -- maybe even some inconveniences but in exchange you can expect good feelings and happy memories. Welcoming someone new to your family's Christmas needs the endorsement of everyone in your home. If it's too hectic of a time at your house, you might like to try it at other times during the year.

The family members can have a "thinking session" to think of persons who might be lonely this Christmas. There may be "forgotten" friends and relatives, or you may wish to ask a nursing home if there are residents there with no one to share Christmas. Or you might like to contact your local churches who will probably be very happy to put you in touch with some known lonely ones.

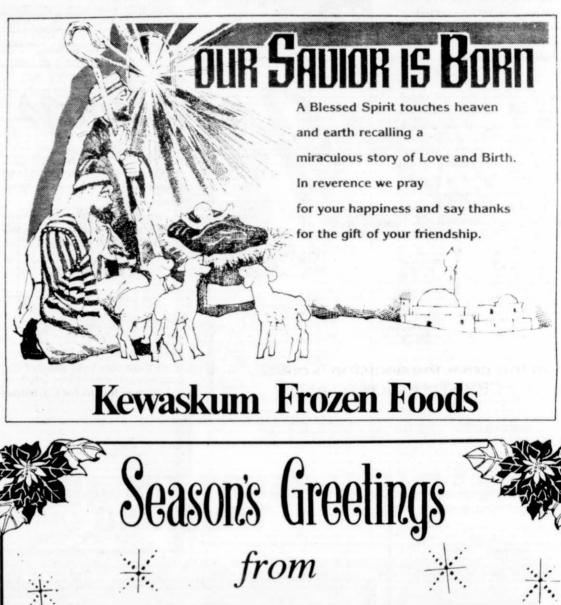

State and county social services can often supply you with names.

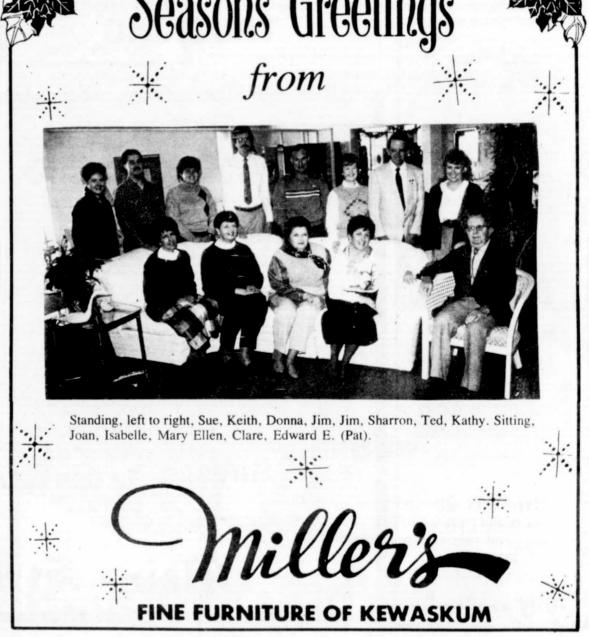

Foreign students may be visiting colleges and universities near you.

You never know -- your Christmas new acquaintance may become your very best year-round

Joshua Crane was almost ninety years of age and the richest man in Hillvale. He had not, as the boys around the pot-bellied stove at Moore's General Store liked to phrase it, "hit a lick at a snake in thirty years." Oldtimers still had stories to tell of some of the ways Joshua had accumulated his wealth.

Needless to say, Joshua Crane had no friends. Elmer, perhaps, but it was hard to tell. Elmer carried out his duties as cook, valet and chauffeur with a deference that was unchangingly stoic. Long ago he had learned to turn a deaf ear to the digs and more-than-casual comments of townfolk as he went daily to the market or wheeled the big, black limousine through the narrow streets.

Joshua Crane was the nearest thing to a relative or a friend that Elmer could claim. He had never known a family, his first memories of any importance being those of life in a sternly managed orphanage, of running away, cheating and stealing his way across a continent and eventually into prison. Elmer was grateful to Joshua Crane. Joshua had hired him on a warden's recommendation thirty years ago and neither man had any reason to regret or to look back.

Elmer didn't mind not having a family. You don't really miss something you never possessed. Only at Christmas did Elmer feel stirring within himself the urge to reach out and grasp a share of the joy and the good will that seemed to permeate the snowladen streets of Hillvale.

Christmas alone was a lonely time for Elmer. It was his time of greatest need. And, it was the one time of the year when Joshua Crane insisted on sending him away. For thirty years, Elmer's vacation period had extended from December 23rd to January 2nd, without variation. Joshua insisted that he not only leave the house, but "get out of town. Go somewhere. Do something. A person gets stale if they never know change."

Awake and restless in the unfamiliar bleakness of a hotel room, Elmer felt stirring within himself the thing he had come to call the "Christmas urge." He dressed and impervious to the chill of wintry winds, walked the lonely streets. He knew this time the urge would win and, without returning to the hotel for his sparse belongings, he stepped aboard a bus that would take him back to Hill-

In contrast to the other homes he passed along the way, the big Crane mansion loomed dark and silent behind the tree-lined drive-

Elmer let himself in as quietly as possible, hoping to forestall until tomorrow the tirade that was sure to come his way.

Halfway up the stairs a glimmer of light from the partly opened basement door stopped him short. Lights. Colored lights. Blinking lights

For a long time, Elmer stood, his nose and one eye against the opening at the basement landing. The cellar was alive with the sights and the smell of Christmas. An ancient, carefully preserved metallic Christmas tree held the center of the stage, meticulously adorned with baubles and tinsel that had an equal look of age and use. At the base of the tree, splendidly arranged, were an assortment of gaily wrapped packages, with the discoloring marks of time obvious at each corner and edge.

"I knew you would come. I hoped you would." Joshua Crane spoke without turning his eyes from the tree.

Hillvale folks had much to say Christmas Eve when word got around that the Crane mansion was decorated for Christmas, with a tree in the window and a welcome wreath on the door.

Strangely, the things folks had to say were somewhat kind. The kind of thing folks usually say when the "Christmas urge" begins to stir deep within the soul.

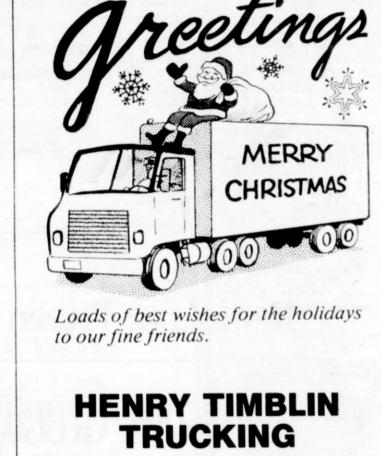

We enjoy your loyalty and friendship.

ONE SOLITARY LIFE

(Author Unknown)

Here is a man who was born of Jewish parents in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He grew up in another obscure village. He worked in a carpenter shop until He was thirty, and then for three years, He was an itinerant preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never put his foot inside a big city. He never did one of the things that usually accompany greatness. He had no credentials but himself.

He had nothing to do with this world except the naked power of His divine manhood. While still a young man, the tide of popular opinion turned against Him. His friends ran away. One of them denied Him. He was turned over to His enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property He had on earth while He was dying-and that was His coat. When He was dead He was taken down and laid in a borrowed grave through the pity of a friend.

Nineteen wide centuries have come and gone and today He is the centerpiece of the human race and the leader of the column of progress. I am far within the mark when I say that all the armies that ever marched, and all the navies that ever were built, and all the parliaments that ever sat, and all the kings that ever reigned, put together have not affected the life of man upon this earth as powerfully as has that One Solitary Life.

Don't Let Christmas Blues Spoil Your Holiday Season

There's nothing unusual about having the blues at Christmas. There's always pressure on everyone to be happy at Christmas and yet almost everyone can get holiday problems, and almost no one thinks anyone else does.

Most people who become depressed at this time of year aren't suffering from real depression but from temporary sadness. Doctors say that our holiday expectations become unrealistic. It's an expectation unique to the season. Disappointed expectation and social pressures may help explain why people with problems feel them more around Christmas.

Fireplace Adds To Holiday Atmosphere

For many families, the holidays would be incomplete without a fire in the fireplace. However, a small fire is just as cheerful as a roaring one - and much safer.

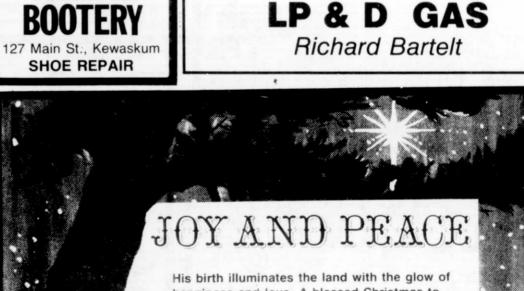

Most people prefer wood logs, although coal or charcoal can be used, especially in small fireplaces with grates. Hardwoods make the best wood fire. Scrap lumber or softwood create too hot a flame and can cause sparks to fly out the chimney. This may be a fire hazard to your roof or nearby trees.

If a fire is not out before you retire, push the logs in to the rear of the fireplace or stand them securely into either corner. Be sure the fireplace screen is securely in place. At Christmastime, DO NOT burn wrappings from presents in the fireplace, flames may flare into the room.

Warmest Wishes

happiness and love. A blessed Christmas to you and yours.

By Louie Spivey

It was Christmas Eve, and time for rejoicing — but not for Mildred Smith. Last night her home had been ransacked, and all the beautiful presents which she had so carefully picked out and wrapped for her friends had been stolen.

Snow had fallen in the night, and she sat looking out of the window remorsely as Melvin Rawls, the little hunchbacked caretaker who came about once a week to do odd jobs about the house, shoveled the white stuff to one side.

Suddenly Mildred's face lit up with alarm. As he stooped, she saw a package in one of the coat pockets which Rawls wore bulge out. The package was wrapped in Christmas paper, and was about the size of the brooch she had bought for her sister Edith! Did Rawls steal the presents? He had a key to the house.

She'd call Harry at the office and tell him what she saw. Harry had to work a half day today, even if it were Christmas.

"Mr. Smith has gone," the office girl informed her.

At that instant the phone went dead. She jangled the hook, then looked up to see the hunchback standing directly behind her.

"Can I help you, Mrs. Smith?" he asked.

"No, no," she drew back.
"Keep away from me."

"Why—Mrs. Smith," he seemed bewildered.

"Don't you try pretending at me," she admonished. "And I'll have you know I just called Harry at the office. He'll probably be here any minute now. The office girl said he'd already gone, and don't you try anything rash."

"Why, Mrs. Smith! I wouldn't for anything." He moved, as if in a lunge, towards her.

She grabbed at the library table drawer. Harry kept a gun there. She opened it and yanked at the weapon.

(The hunchback moved quickly. He grabbed at her hand, and the weapon fell to the floor.)

"You didn't mean that —did you Mrs. Smith? You wouldn't shoot poor old Melvin now, would you?" There seemed to be a note of triumph in his voice.

"Yes," she stammered. "Yes,

I would."

"Why, Mrs. Smith — and after all these years I've known you!"

all these years I've known you!"
"Yes, but I never knew what kind of a person you were 'till today."

"And what kind of a person am I today?"

Before she had time to answer, she heard Harry's car puil up in the driveway, and she rushed toward the sound screaming.

Harry came running, and Mildred began blurting out accusations of Rawls. The little hunchback looked more forlorn than

"Now, now," Harry finally shook Mildred into sensibility. "Forget it, forget it!"

"Harry — what are you say-

"You should be ashamed of yourself accusing Melvin," he said. "I just talked with the police chief before I left the office, and he already has the man who broke into our house. Said the man had confessed, and he wants us to come down there and identify our things."

Mildred's face was a puzzle. She tried to stammer something, but couldn't. She looked at Rawls in numbed silence.

"But the gun —" she finally said.

"And the package in your pocket — wrapped just like the brooch I had wrapped for Edith," she continued.

"The package—oh, the package—"Rawls seemed somewhat embarrassed. "You see, Mrs. Smith, I had that wrapped up to give you—it being Christmas Eve and all. Here—", he pulled the package from his coat pocket. "Take it—it's for you."

Later, as she and Harry got into the car to go downtown after the stolen presents, she thought, "It's a good time for rejoicing, after all."

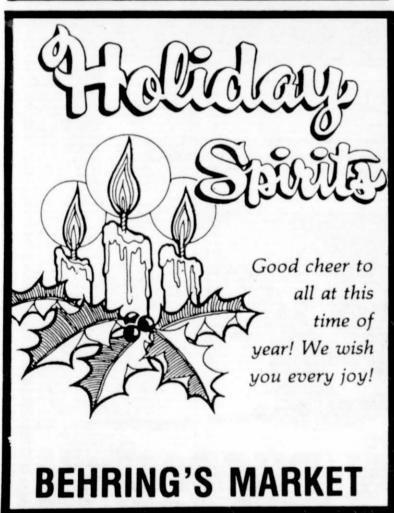

Christmas Tree For All Year

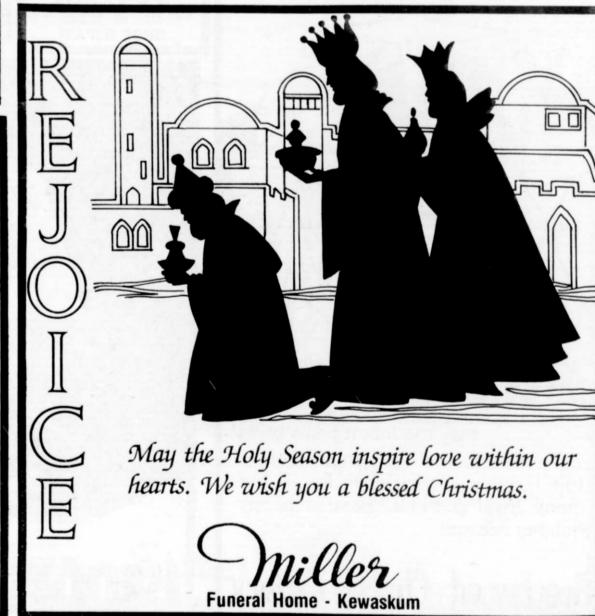

A Norfolk Island pine can be a beautiful Christmas tree as well as a houseplant for the rest of the year. Even though lights are too heavy for this beautiful little tree, you can hang the tiniest ornaments on it. To keep the tiny branches from dropping, hang the ornaments away from the branch ends.

This beautiful plant doesn't need heavy watering, only a little water 2 or 3 times a week. Fertilizing isn't necessary at Christmastime. Once in the spring is enough so it won't outgrow its inside place. In the winter, keep it in the full sun, then when summer comes move it just out of the direct sunlight. Your window air conditioner shouldn't bother it. Should you decide to put your Norfolk Island pine outdoors in the summer, you will want to brace it against the wind

GTE Introduces New Phone Book

GTE has introduced The Everything Pages, a newly-designed telephone directory already dramatically increasing GTE brand awareness in the markets where it has been released.

Named the Everything Pages because it offers everything the consumer and advertiser need in a telephone directory, the most striking feature of the new book is its cover — a large red GTE logo centered on a strip of blue sky. The concept was developed as a result of intensive consumer research which showed GTE's directories to be well-liked but difficult to identify by brand name.

Following its introduction late last year to select GTE North Incorporated customers, The Everything Pages garnered an approximately 90 percent brand-recall rating among users who could remember a name — exceptionally high recognition within the industry.

On a book - by - book, exchange - by - exchange basis, The Everything Pages is rolling out across the Midwest to GTE North customers. In Wisconsin, The Everything Pages this year is debuting in 188 exchanges, with a first appearance in GTE's Colby, Loyal, Owen, and Lodi exchanges scheduled during 1989.

State Vice President-General Manager James D. Blanchard, Sun Prairie, explained the strategy behind The Everything Pages: "In today's highly competitive directory market, product packaging and positioning are critical. We can't just be the 'phone book' — we've got to be the GTE phone book."

"By distributing a directory that is unmistakably GTE," said Blanchard, "we are enhancing GTE identity with local consumers and advertisers. That increases our credibility and keeps our customers coming back."

While the new cover represents a striking visual change, The Everything Pages also introduces in many Wisconsin markets a variety of substantive, consumer-oriented benefits. These features include "Community Wisconsin Access" and human services sections, expanded coverage areas and indexes highlighted in red. The feature packages vary from market to market depending on consumer and advertiser needs.

GTE Directories Corporation (GTE/DC), a leading telephone directory publishing company for more than 50 years, Everything publishes The Pages for GTE North Incorporated and is one of the world's largest integrated publishers of telephone directories. With headquarters at Dallas/Fort Worth International Airport, GTE/DC publishes more than 1,500 telephone directories in the United States and abroad. GTE/DC has 6,300 employees worldwide and annually markets, produces and distributes more than 52 million individual directories in nine languages.

Good resolutions are things that go in one year and out the other.

Roast Goose

If you have a yen to try something different this Christmas, forget the turkey and roast a goose. We're not trying to "fowl" up any Christmas traditions, just suggesting something different. After all, New Year's Day—another turkeytime, is just around the corner. If you wish to try goose, here's how:

Combine three cups lightly whipped potatoes with two cups of crumbs, 1 cup finely diced onion, 1 teaspoon rosemary, 1 cup coarsely chopped pecans or walnuts, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, and three tablespoons melted butter. Blend well and stuff the goose with the mixture.

Place goose on rack and bake at 450 degrees for 30 minutes. Reduce heat to 325 degrees and roast for another 1 to 11/4 hours or until breast is tender and skin crisp.

Basting is not altogether necessary. Pour off the goose fat as it accumulates in the pan and save for cooking. Salt and pepper the goose just before removing from the oven. Usually, an 8-10 pound goose should roast about 2 - 21/4 hours.

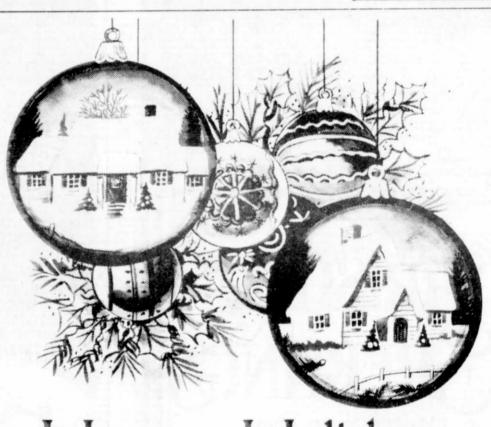

May the light of the season shine on you this Yuletide. Many thanks, friends.

There are ways to cope with holiday depression

The traditional holiday focus on family and friends may actually produce feelings of loneliness and depression in people. But there are ways to cope with the "holiday blues. says Imogene Higbie, director of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Counseling Service.

"Most of us long for a few intimate, positive relationships with other human beings," she said. "If we haven't had that unconditional love and acceptance from family members, we hope to make those intimate connections with our peers.

The holidays, with their celebration of love and togetherness, can accentuate the anxiety and depression felt by those who don't have or have lost some significant relation-

For many, Higbie added, this season is also a time of assessment, when people think of school, job and social life in terms of success or failure.

The first step in handling holiday depression, according to Higbie, is to recognize what's happening.

'Talk about your feelings with close friends and family. This offers a support group and a way to diffuse the trauma you discover that others have similar feelings," she said.

Secondly, she recommended watching consumption of alcohol and the tendency to overeat, both of which can affect the emotions.

she said. "If you're feeling scared of the time ahead, it's useful to make plans around pleasant activities.

Sparkle Cards

Cut out objects from old Christmas cards or winter outdoor scenes.

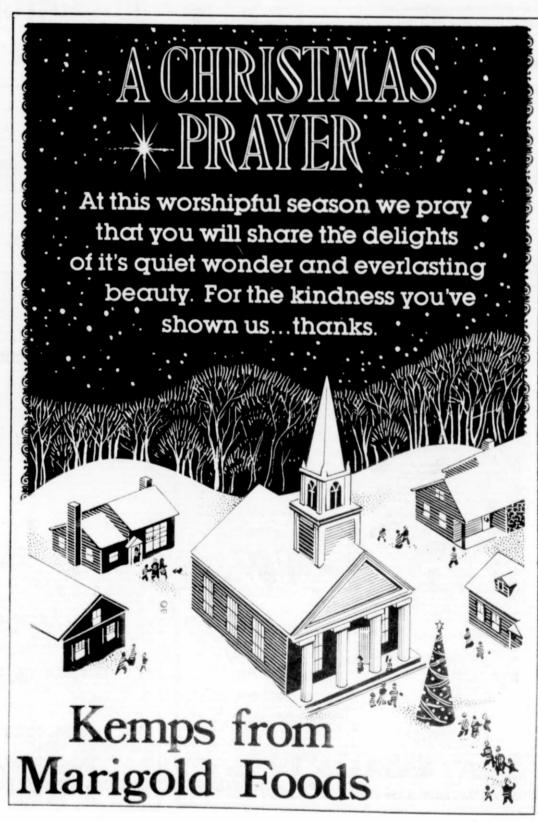

Add enough water with 1 cup of flour to make a thick paste. Add 2 drops of white glue. Gradually add 1/4-1/2 cup of salt until paste is thick and gritty. One to two teaspoons of fine silver glitter added to your mixture makes even more sparkle.

Brush your glitter mixture on with a paint brush to add snow to trees, shrubs, roofs, etc.

Fold a piece of paper like a greeting card. Paste your sparkling items on. Write a message inside and you've made creative Christmas cards!

Wind 5 feet of round, yellow cord snuggly around the glue, beginning and ending on the same side. Cut off any excess. Let dry.

2. Draw around the spool on bright colored tagboard or a stiff colored paper that's a contrast with the cord. Cut out these circles. Punch a hole in the centers. Glue a circle to each end of the spool.

3. Fold a 1/8" wide, 20" long piece of ribbon in half for a loop. Trim the ends diagonally. Make a knot about 2-34" from the fold. Thread a bead that has a large hole onto the ribbon below the knot. Coax the ends of the ribbon out of the hole with a needle if need be.

Slip the ribbon through the spool's hole. Thread a second bead onto the ribbon and push the head up to the bottom of the spool. Make a knot in the ribbon just below the bead

'Road condition reports are updated at least four times a day, more often if road conditions change," said James Van Sistine, administrator of the Division of State Patrol.

County highway and sheriff departments and state troopers report road conditions to transportation district and State Patrol district offices. The area reports are synthesized into one major report and sent to Madison where they are used to develop the statewide road condition reports, explained Tony Paulson, supervisor of the State Patrol communications center, Madison.

'More than 1 million calls for the recorded road condition report were received last winter at a cost of about $100,000,' reported Paulson. "When the weather is bad, we get flooded with thousands of calls. Those who get busy signals should listen to their local public radio station or official weather station for the reports.

Currently, there are 20 lines serving Milwaukee and seven lines for Madison. Statewide, there are five toll-free 800 lines.

Paul Norton, executive director of the Educational Communications Board, said Wisconsin Public Network listeners will hear the road condition report every weekday at 6:30 a.m., 7:30 a.m. 12:30 p.m., 4:30 p.m. and 7:29 p.m. On weekends, the report will be broadcast at 8:03 a.m. about noon, and 4:30 p.m.

The report can be heard on station WHAD, 90.7 FM, Milwaukee/Delafield.

The Christmas Sled

Oh, for the winters that used to be! The winters that only a boy may see! Rich with snowflakes' rush and swirl; Keen as a diamond; pure as a pearl: Brimming with healthful, rollicking fun; Sweet with their rest when the play was done; With kindly revels each day decreed. And a Christmas sled for the royal steed.

Down from the crest with a shrill hurray!

Clear the track, there! Out of the way!

Scarcely touching the path beneath; Scarce admitting of breath to breathe; Dashing along, with leap and swerve, Over the crossing, round the curve.

Talk of your flying machines! Instead.

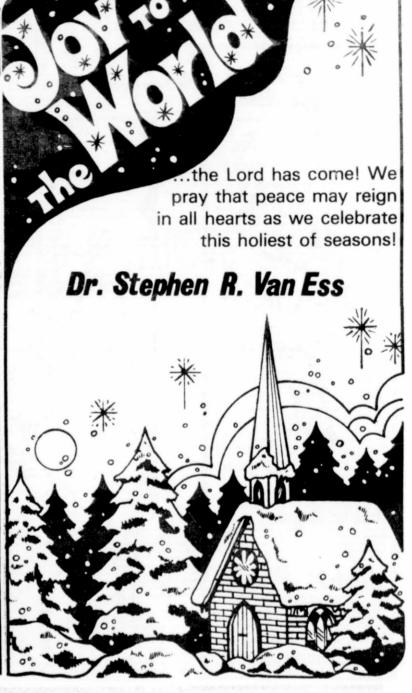

Give me the swoop of that Christmas sled.

Glad Tidings

The Lord has come! We pray that peace may reign in all hearts as we celebrate this holiest of seasons.

Dr. J. Dennis Connor

Cissie Brown wasn't bashful. Everyone in the office knew what she wanted for Christmas. "Just get me a man." she said, "and I'll be thankful for the rest of my life."

The trouble with Cissie, everyone knew, was that she had some far-out idea about the kind of man she needed. Cissie was looking for a knight in shinning armor or, his modern counterpart—rich, handsome, intelligent, and all of that. Cissie had been looking for him for most of her 30 years, and, according to the girls in the office, had overlooked better-than-average-type men in the process.

Ted Kagle was one. Everybody knew that Ted had been in love with Cissie for years. He was too quiet, too reserved to say anything about it, but you could see it in his eyes everytime he looked at her. It wasn't unusual that no one ever kidded Ted about it. Everyone knew he was a sensitive type guy.

But One

Fred Watson had never said anything where others could hear, but he had gotten in a word or two from time to time. Whenever he caught Cissie alone, he would say something nice about Ted. He also had kind words for Cissie whenever he was with Ted and no one else was near. He never suggested anything. He was too smart for that. He just passed a complimentary remark.

The office Christmas party was scheduled this afternoon, however, and Fred's mind was elsewhere. He needed something to "spike" the punchbowl. He had done so for ten years and everyone knew about it, even the old man. He'd never complained, because there were two punch bowls and everyone just waited until Fred has his first glass of punch before deciding where to fill their glass.

Fred's phone rang. It was the wife, saying company was coming by for a visit before dinner. "I'll take care of it right away," he said, happy for an excuse to run his errand. "Going to shipping for a minute" he said to no one in particular.

After an hour or so, the party was off as usual. It seemed a little happier than in previous years, for some reason. There was more singing, laughter, joke-telling. Even the old man seemed more in the spirit of things.

Playing Santa

Things were running more true to course when the time for opening gifts arrived. The old man played Santa, as usual, commenting on each gift, "Say, that's nice isn't it? Who had your name this year, Sam?"

When he came to Cissie's gift, he said, as he always did, "Let's see, now young lady. I'll bet there's something nice in here for you."

Everyone knew what Cissie was going to say, as she had each year, "That's a small box. Maybe it is a gift certificate for a good man."

No one expected Fred to say anything. But he did. "You guessed it, young lady. It's a gift certificate for dinner and dancing at the Purple Ballroom. All paid for. Made out to Mr. Ted Kagle and Miss Cissie Brown."

You could have heard a pin drop. The old man cleared his throat. "Fred, you haven't..."

"I haven't, sir, nary a drop. On my honor, sir..."

Cissie was waving the "Certificate" before the audience.

"Did you ever see such a novel gift? Thank you, Fred. As for you Ted, I warn you, I like to dance for hours."

Ted had found his voice, too. "I'm not very good, Cissie, but you'll find I'm willing and long-lasting."

Everyone applauded. Fred said, "Let's have another round of punch."

They did, hardly anyone taking notice that Fred was not taking his punch from the same bowl he had favored earlier in the day.

CHRISTMAS CARD ETIQUETTE TIPS

The holidays are approaching, and Americans will continue to follow a holiday tradition in record numbers-mailing an estimated two billion Christmas cards this year.

'Sending Christmas cards to relatives, friends and associates is a time-honored tradition," says Joe Gonzalez, president of Masterpiece Studios, a leading personalized greeting card manufacturer. "Often, the Christmas card is the only communication that keeps lifelong friendships and acquaintances alive through-out the years." Mr. Gonzalez offers a few etiquette tips when sending your holiday greet-

Address envelopes by hand. Use seasonal commemorative stamps to add a festive touch.

· Select a card which reflects your perception of the holiday. Anyone receiving it, regardless of their personal beliefs, will accept your card in that spirit.

· If you write a note inside, keep it brief; two or three sentences highlighting the year are adequate and welcome.

 Choose personalized cards with your name imprinted. Personalized cards reflect good taste and thoughtfulness. They may be ordered as early as August and addressed at the sender's convenience. And, personalized cards offer a broad selection of designs and verses that your selection is likely to have the quality of exclusivity.

• Don't throw away old Christmas cards! Children's hospitals and nursery schools can cut them up for use in collages and artwork.

And in despair I bowed my head; There is no peace on earth, I said:

For hate is strong, And mocks the song

Instant Photography Captures Holiday Memories To Cherish

When you take self-developing pictures at Christmas your whole family can see the magic of color images emerging on a blank print! Children love watching them develop and appreciative relatives treat them as something special when you send them as thank you notes.

Drum Ornaments

Make cute drums to hang on the tree or for place-setters, writing names on them.

1. Cut off a 2" section of a cardboard tube such as from paper towels.

2. Cut circles of solid color fabrics with a diameter that is 1" wider than the tube's diameter.

3. Spread glue around one end of the tube. Center a circle over that end. Press the fabric down over the glue stretching the fabric tightly. Do the same for the other end of the tube. Let dry. Clip off excess folds.

4. Cut a strip of felt 6-½" x 1-7/8". Glue around the tube cutting off any overlap to make a smooth joint. Glue a piece of 7" x 2" print fabric over the felt, overlap ends about ½" for the back of the drum.

5. Fold an 8" long x 1/8" wide piece of ribbon in half. Glue the ends to the back of the drum for a loop.

6. Glue a peice of 3/8" wide ribbon around the drum even with its top edge, overlap at back ½". Cut off any excess. Repeat with the other end. Let glue dry.

7. Cut ten pieces of ribbon, each 1-3/4" long (from 1" wide ribbon). Start at front and glue these 10 pieces diagonally around the drum. Overlap pieces to make points about 1-1/4" apart. Glue a sequin over each point.

8. DRUMSTICKS: Glue a pompon over one end of a piece of dowel 3-1/2" long and 3/16" in diameter. Do the same for the other stick. Glue the sticks across the drum.

Why Not Give Nonalcoholic Beverages A Try This Holiday Season?

In this day and age of low-calorie beverages." responsible drinking, why not give nonalcoholic beverages a try this holiday season?

'You'll be better off with a nonalcoholic drink from both a health standpoint as well as a safety perspective," according to Barb Noffke, an occupational health nurse at Appleton-based AAL, the nation's leading fraternal benefit society.

"Without alcohol, you'll be more alert and you'll actually enjoy holiday activities more,' Noffke stated. "In addition, you'll be putting others - and yourself - at less risk. Everyone associates accidents with drinking, but there are many other hazards which accompany abuse of alcohol - like falling on ice in cold weather."

"You'll be promoting a longer and happier life for yourself and for the ones you love by limiting intake of alcohol," Noffke continued. "After all, alcohol is basically a poison. A little bit of alcohol is fine - your body's liver can handle that. But your body just can't handle much more than one drink an hour and still function normally.

Noffke recommends that people attending the many holiday parties which crop up this time of year give nonalcoholic drinks a try. For a number of years, Noffke and others on the medical staff at AAL have encouraged AAL's 1,500 home office employees in Appleton to try festive, holiday oriented nonalcoholic beverages by serving them with a noon meal between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

'Another big advantage to serving nonalcoholic beverages is that these drinks are typically lower in calories," Noffke said. "Many of us are watching our calorie intake - especially during the holiday season and your friends will appreciate your thoughtfulness in serving Chill all ingredients. When ready to serve, combine all ingredients in punch bowl and garnish with orange slices.

Check Refund Policy Before Buying Gifts

"Consumers should find out what a store's exchange or refund policy is before buying Christmas gifts," advises Jane Jansen, assistant trade and consumer protection administrator with Wisconsin's Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection (DATCP).

Jansen, According to consumers often call DATCP for help after the holiday season when they discover a store will not allow credit, exchange or refund. Many stores have policies that "all sales are final."

Jansen points out that a store is not obligated to accept items for refund, exchange or credit, except in cases where the item is defective or was misrepresented.

Many stores have three basic return policies including exchange," "return for credit, or "return for refund." These privileges may vary from store to store.

"If a store limits its policy to exchange, an item may be returned and substituted with another comparable item of equal value. If a store has a credit issue policy, the customer is given a credit slip which can be used for future store purchases," Jansen said.

To ensure customer satisfaction, many stores have a refund policy. In this case, the customer simply gets his or her money back.

"Consumers should keep in mind that stores permitting refunds, exchange or credit, usually expect the goods to be returned within a reasonable time and in new condition. They also require a sales slip or some other evidence that the article was actually purchased there and not some place else,' Jansen emphasizes.

Lacy Baubles

Blow up small balloons 1" to 2" in diameter. Pour about 11/2" of liquid starch into a small bowl (or make a starch with flour or dry starch mixed with water to make a thin paste).

Place a spool of colored thread, on its side, in the starch, making sure it's completely covered with the starch.

Hang a balloon over the bowl of starch. Wind the wet thread all around the balloon like a cobweb. After you've wound as much thread around the balloon as you'd like, cut the thread and smooth the end down. While the threads are still wet, sprinkle them with glitter.

Let the balloons dry overnight. Pop the balloons and remove the balloons from the thread very carefully. Now hang your lacy bauble on the tree or in a window!

In parts of Scotland, it was believed that steel was a great defense against elves.

Biff Coleman eased the pressure of his foot and watched the speedometer needle drop down to 35 miles-per-hour. Central City was probably a speed trap and he didn't want to get started off on the wrong foot.

Top-drawer inefficiency, Biff thought, to start a branch office in such a small town. And just his luck to draw the assignment. Exiled, and at Christmas, too.

He saw the faint flow of red in his mirror. Yep, he had guessed right. Cops. Good thing he wasn't speeding. Or was he? That guy had his siren on. He's tailgaiting me, signaling me to move over, Biff thought, "What the . . . brother, I couldn't have been doing over thirty. What's the limit in this burg, anyhow? I'll fight through every court in this state before I pay a cent.'

Meeting

He pulled over, the squad car edging up behind him. A young, smiling officer emerged from the car. The type that likes his work, Biff guessed.

"Now, listen officer, I want you to know . . .

"Never mind, sir. Please step out of the car. I am Officer Paul McGrath, Central City police force. May I see your driver's license?"

Biff had it in his hand, all ready. "Here you are, but I would like to say . .

The squad car came to an almost screeching stop in front of a building which appeared more like a church than a police

Biff stammered, "Uh, Uh, Biff, Biff Coleman.'

Art Library in West Bend Now Open for Public Use

The West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts announces the opening of its art library for public use beginning October 19th at 1:00 p.m. The library and reading room is decorated in authentic German Biedermeyer furniture dating to the 1780's and offers a quiet and comfortable setting for the public to use over 1000 volumes of art books, periodicals, slide sets and videos.

The library expansion was due in part to gifts received from the John Reis Art Memorial.

Volunteers, Barbara Deters, Melody Gudex, Carol Malmsten, Mary Mickel and Laura Washa, have spent the past twelve months and over 1000 volunteer hours organizing the library for public use.

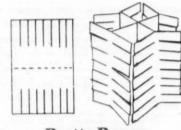

The art library is extensive and covers many art topics including art movements, artist's biographies, ethnic, folk and non-western arts, fine and decorative art value guides, hallmark monogram and signature identification references, art scholarship information, technical books on how to create art, and museum information on most museums around the world. The library includes many periodicals. VHS video tapes and slide sets.

West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts' Director, Tom Lidtke, said, "It's a very good library that will be of great value to the general public as well as students, art teachers, researchers, appraisers, collectors and dealers. It covers everything from major art movements to more obscure like information Pennsylvania folk art and art of Ancient Cyprus. If you have a question about art, you will probably be able to learn about it here. In the area of painting, drawing, printing sculpture, we have biographical listings of over 20,000 individuals. It really is quite a treasure chest filled with centuries of accumulated knowledge."

Although many books are for reference only the majority of books, video tapes and slide sets can be checked out. The library is open to the public during regular art gallery hours which are Wednesday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday 1:00 - 4:30 p.m. and Thursday 12:00 noon - 9:30 p.m.

The West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts is a member of the American Association of Museums, the Mid West Museum Conference and the Wisconsin Federation of Museums.

Plan Foods In Pre-Holiday Time

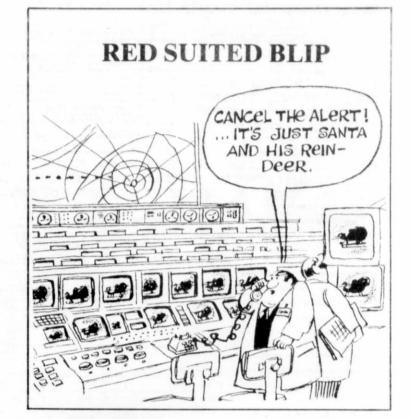

More than any other season of the year, Christmas brings unexpected visitors. The pace picks up as the holiday approaches and continues through the New Year. It can be a hectic time, unless there is some prior planning—such as baking ahead of time foods and desserts that can be frozen until needed.

Pastries, such as pies, tarts, filled rings and cookies come through freezing well, whether baked or unbaked. Cakes and frostings should be frozen separately; do not frost the cake before freezing. Butter mixtures and frostings and fillings made from uncooked confectioner's sugar can be frozen. Candytype frostings can be frozen for up to three weeks, after which time they will crack apart. Eggbased, boiled or brown sugar icings do not freeze well as they tend to become sticky.

Cookie dough and baked cookies both freeze well. Baked cookies should be allowed to cool before freezing in a tightly sealed container. Most cookies will thaw and be ready for serving in minutes. Fresh fruit, mincemeat and squash pie fillings freeze best.

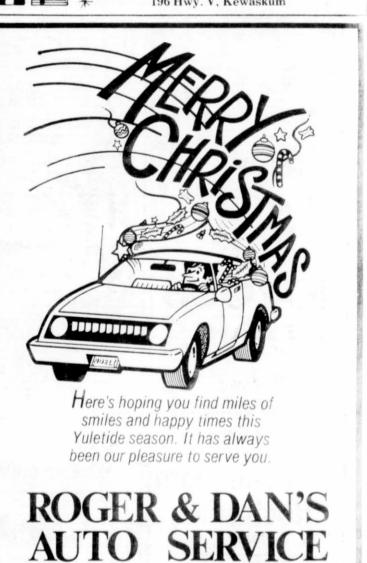

Santa's on his way to fill your hearts and homes with the joy of Christmas. Our sincere good wishes to everyone.

ABOUT CHRIST

"If Christ is to remain alive in the life of men, eternally present with us, it is absolutely necessary to resuscitate Him from time to time, not to color Him with dyes of the present day, but to represent with new words, with references to things now happening, His eternal truth and His neverchanging story."

COLORFUL PLANTS

These colorful little plants are fairly inexpensive and bear fruits that look like ornaments on a Christmas tree. The fruits will last for weeks if you give plants bright light, cool temperatures, and water when needed — Christmas Peppers and Jerusalem Cherries.

Student Starts A Tradition

One engrossed college student was said to have started the whole boar's head tradition. According to the story the student of Queen's College, Oxford, was walking in Shotover Forest deeply absorbed in reading Aristotle. Suddenly, without warning, a wild boar attacked him. The surprised young man had no time to draw his sword, all he knew to do was to jam his book down the boar's open jaws and choke him to death.

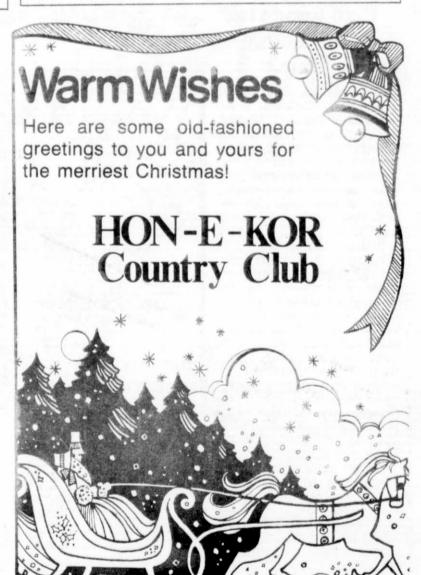

The much-relieved Oxonian cutt off the animal's head and triumphantly carried it back to college. The roasted head was impressively carried down the hall and served to the students. Queen's College, since that time has observed this custom. But now its a false head, with a piece of brawn under it that is carried.

The "Boar's Head Carol" is sung in a solo as the platter is carried along; everyone joins in the chorus. The provost slices the brawn and serves his table; the dish is then sent to the other diners.

This college custom was soon accepted by English nobility and became a favorite Christmas rite. Its ceremonies grew to be very elaborate through the passing years, but was banned by Cromwell. With the Restoration, the rite came back but never seemed to regain its old popularity.

Searching for holiday gift ideas? Give a gift for good health - a gift which encourages nutritious eating or exercise.

'These gifts often reflect the true holiday spirit because they demonstrate thoughtful giving and concern for a person's well-being," said Kim Bibow, a registered dietitian and nutrition education consultant for The Dairy Council of Wisconsin.

Some gifts which are both nutritious and easy to make include mixed nuts in a gift tin, a mixture of dried fruit and nuts in a mug or dish and a decorative basket full of fresh fruit. The basket could contain a variety of fruits or a selection of different types of the same

"Nuts are a good source of protein and many fruits provides vitamin C, potassium and fiber," Bibow said.

A basket containing a variety of cheeses - a good source of calcium and protein - is another gift idea.

"Including lesser-known cheeses such as Gouda, Edam, Brie and Camembert make the cheese basket a special treat," Bibow said. "You also may want to include a cutting board, a cheese slicer and an assortment of whole grain crackers in the basket.

A pot of fresh herbs or a sampler of spices gives cooks a new way to add zest to meals. A gift certificate from a seafood shop or other food specialty store encourages recipients to try new foods.

If you have friends or family who want to get in shape, give them a membership to a health club or enroll them in a local park district or YMCA exercise class. A gift of clothes or equipment for the recipient's favorite sport also may encourage participation. For those who prefer to exercise at home, an exercise audio or video tape is another possibility.

Exercise and healthy eating go hand in hand, Bibow said. 'Families participating in both reap benefits of togetherness and also improve health and fitness.

Trimmed Tree Cake

Bake one 13" x 9" cake; cool. Cut and arrange the cake as shown. Mark the sloping sides into 4 equal parts; cut in about 1 at each mark and out diagonally to meet the second mark for the tree branches. Use these pieces for the trunk, as shown. Spread icing between these pieces to hold them together

One special frosting is made from 4 cups of a non-dairy whipped topping to which you've added green food coloring and 1/2 teaspoon peppermint extract. Swirl the icing on. Trim the tree cake with colorful candies.

Keeping That Holiday

To keep poinsettias healthy, follow these guidelines:

- · Protect them from exposure to cold temperatures-only a few seconds of freezing temperatures or chilling wind may kill the plant.
- Water plants thoroughly when soil surface is dry to the touch and remember to discard excess water. The key is to keep soil moist at all times-do not allow it to become bone dry.
- · Feed your poinsettias with regular house plant fertilizer at monthly intervals throughout the life of the

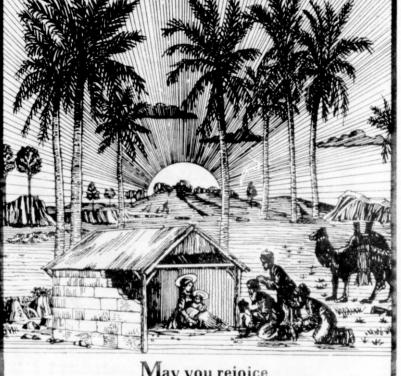

The striking beauty and symbolism of poinsettias can be enjoyed in the home for several months.

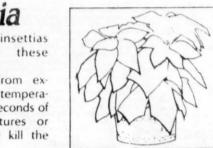

May you rejoice in the spirit of Christmas.

The legends of the season add to its beauty

There are countless legends that have grown up around the season of Christmas.

In Italy, the legend of La Befana tells of the Three Kings who came to her home, in search of the Infant Jesus. They invited La Befana to join them on their journey to Bethlehem, but she refused, for she was too busy cleaning her house. The following day, the old woman set out to overtake the Three Kings, but she never did, nor did she ever reach Bethlehem.

She would stop wherever there was a child, leaving a gift, in hopes that she would find the Christ Child. That is why Italian children await gifts brought by La Befana on January 5th. If they've been naughty however, she will leave them lumps of coal instead!

A legend that originated in Sweden tells of the Christmas rose. According to the story, a monk was tending his garden when a woman appeared, saying that she was the wife of a robber living in the forest. She told the monk of some beautiful flowers that bloomed in the forest on Christmas Eve. He persuaded her to lead him to the forest in exchange for obtaining a pardon for her husband.

On Christmas Eve, the snow disappeared and the forest bloomed, as the woman had said. But the snow began to fall again, and the monk, heartbroken, died clutching one of the blos-

One Christmas Eve, as the family ate a humble meal, there was a knock at the door.

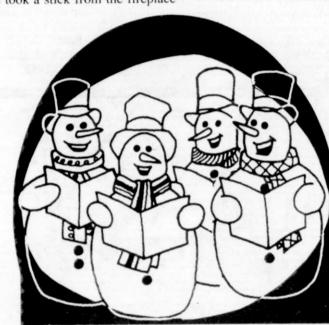

The woodcutter opened the door to find a small boy, shivering with cold. A blanket was wrapped about him and he was given some of the modest repast. That night, the boy stayed with the woodcutter's family, and the next morning, the woodcutter found the boy standing in the middle of the room, surrounded by a dazzling light. It was the Christ Child.

A beautiful legend concerning the poinsettia comes to us from Mexico. It seems that a poor young boy had nothing to offer the Christ Child on Christmas Eve, as was the custom in his village.

Thinking that at least he could pray, he knelt outside the church window. Rising to his feet, he discovered a beautiful plant with scarlet leaves right in the spot where he had knelt. He took the flower and placed it on the altar. The plant became known as "The Flower of the Holy Night" in Mexico.

Christmas is a time of joy and harmony. Hope yours is wonderful in every way! Thanks and happy holiday!

WEST BEND CINEMA

By Mike Bennett

Once there was a village called "Happyville," high in the mountains of a far-off land. It was a happy place, most of the time. But on a few occasions there was a bit of sadness here and there—which made Happyville more or less like villages and towns anywhere in the world.

Happyville was famous in a particular part of the world because of the Happyville Christmas tree. Each Christmas Eve, high on the very top of the mountain, the tree was visible for miles and miles, a perfectly-coned shaped arrangement of lights, blinking on and off like a beacon in the sky.

There are some who say that Happyville never existed. Men have searched the mountains in recent decades and found no evidence to prove anything one way or the other.

The simple truth of the matter is that Happyville still exists.

Many years ago, so the story goes, Happyville was a home for little people. These little people were friendly with the birds and the animals and at peace with all the creatures of the world. The little people even talked with the animals, which shows how wonderful things were in the village at the top of the Mountain of Faith.

The first Christmas tree appeared at the top of the mountain long, long ago, right after the visit of the jolly old man in the red suit. He was a sky-traveler, and he came to ask the little people for a very small favor.

Fake Santas?

Do you suppose it's hard for your kids to believe in a Santa with a nylon beard? In the "good old days" Santa's whiskers were made of good, believable cotton!

Christmas Drummer Old German Custom

In old Germany, children looked forward to the arrival of the Christmas drummer. According to custom, once the Christmas dinner was completed, an elderly man, with a drum attached around his neck and resting on his stomach, would lead a procession through each room in the house, beating the drum to frighten away witches and evil spirits. When he reached the children's room, the door was opened with great ceremony to reveal a large Christmas tree, illuminated with candles and laden with gifts for boys and girls. A huge Janus head-or Jack-o-lantern-was placed in the center of the tree and lighted with candles so that flame and smoke issued from the nose, mouth and ears. This was the signal for the children to surround the tree and strip it of the gifts, while the older members of the family exchanged presents and joined in the spirit of the occasion.

Some Things Needed Are Not For Sale

There are so many valuable and worthwhile gifts that may be freely presented without cost or sacrifice. We speak of some small token of love . . . of love itself . . . and friendship . . . understanding . . . a prayer . . . a helping hand.

The world needs most those things which may not be traded or sold. This we should all remember as the crowds gather and rush about to prepare for the Christmas celebration. Let nothing crowd the spirit of Christmas out of our hearts, where it rightfully belongs; it is the spirit of love and giving.

YULE LOG

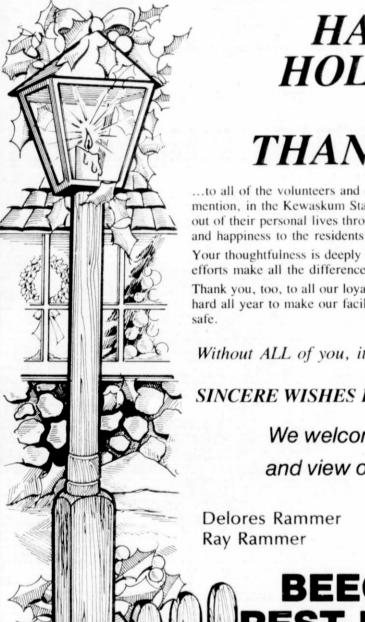

In days of old, the Yule Log was brought into the house on Christmas Eve and kindled with a piece of last year's log. It was necessary that the log be very large, so that it would burn throughout Christmas Day. If it died out prematurely, bad luck was foretold for the coming year.

Christmas in the Capitol City

By Senator Don Stitt

Two of the most beautiful sites in Wisconsin during the Christmas season are the State Capitol and the Governor's mansion. Both places present delightful displays and can be enjoyed by both children and adults alike.

In the Capitol's rotunda, stands a 58 foot balsam fir from the Chequamegon National Forest in the Mequon Ranger District of Taylor County. Friday, Dec. 2nd, Governor Thompson hosted the official tree lighting ceremony. This year's tree will be decorated with more than 1200 feet of garland, 1800 lights and more than 4,000 hand crocheted snowflake ornaments.

General tours of the Capitol are available every weekday at 9, 10, and 11 a.m. and 1, 2, 3 and 4 p.m. There is no fee. If a group of 10 or more wishes to tour the Capitol, please contact the Capitol Information and Tour Service at 608-266-0382. Also during the holiday season. many groups will use the first

Healthy Gifts For Christmas

By Jacquie Wiedmeyer Fitness Firm Instructor

Christmas shopping can be a problem for the person who has everything or for the individual who is very particular. Almost everyone is always thinking of their health, be it through exercise or food. When anyone speaks of health it should have the words exercise and diet in the same sentence. Keeping this in mind, here are a few healthy Christmas gifts that would please a friend.

· A nice cookbook with low calorie, low sodium or low cholesterol meals.

· A calorie and cholesterol counting book.

· A fitness magazine. There are many magazines or books to choose from.

· A gift certificate at a shoe store. There are different shoes for every sport, let your friend pick out her favorite shoes.

A membership to a fitness class. Don't forget to go along with your friend. There are many classes to choose from. Beginning with water aerobics, to Stretch 'n Tone, to Land Aerobics, to walking or even skiing.

 Food from a health food store. Try something different.

 A gift certificate at a unique restaurant. One with nutrition in mind.

· Fitness apparel. This can be from skis to leotards.

· Gift certificate at a health food store.

· Invite your friend to one of the many cholesterol screening sights around.

· A food scale.

Now that you have a few ideas for Christmas gifts, don't forget that you should keep fitness on your mind. If you are not doing anything to improve your health maybe the time is now. Begin a fit and happy life style with a friend.

Remember physical fitness is physical, mental and emotional well-being. For information on fitness classes in your area call Jacquie at 338-6754. Information will be given to you on Aqua Aerobics, Stretch 'n Tone, or Land Aerobic classes. Enjoy the holidays.

FRUIT CAKES

Fruit cakes can be kept almost indefinitely if they're properly wrapped and stored. Simply sprinkle orange juice over the cake periodically, to keep it from drying out and to add a touch of flavor as well.

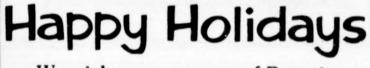

May this sacred season bring its finest blessings to you and those you love!

When shopping for children's holiday gifts, beware of dangerous toys that threaten the eyes, warns The National Society to Prevent Blindness -Wisconsin. An estimated 21,000 eye injuries were linked to toys and sports equipment used by children last Three-quarters of these accidents were suffered by children under the age of 15.

Playthings with pieces that shoot or fly off are particularly dangerous to eyes and should be avoided. A U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission survey of hospital emergency rooms indicated that children under the age of 15 were the victims of eye injuries predominantly from slingshots or slingpropelled toys and toy weapons with projectiles. BB and pellet guns are particularly hazardous to children's eyes and should not be considered toys. Not only are the number of children's BB and pellet gun eye injuries high, they are also severe, often resulting in the loss of the eye.

According to Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin, 90 percent of all eye injuries are preventable. Adults can protect children from eye damage, or even the loss of an eye, by several means:

1. Choose toys and games carefully. Factors such as coordination and strength, ability to follow instruction should be taken into account.

2. Teach children how to play safely with toys and supervise their use. It's important that a child understands how to use a toy and does not take a "harmless" plaything and make it dangerous. (For example, by pulling rubber tips off darts or throwing a toy airplane at another child.

3. Insist that children have and use protective eyewear for games that require them. Baseball, basketball, football and racquet sports are the source of a great many injuries to children.

4. Be aware of the risks posed by gifts for older children as well. Chemistry and science sets, craft and hobby kits often involve projects requiring safety glasses. Activities such as wood burning, mixing chemicals, and use of fast acting glues are a few examples.

Prevent Blindness - Wisconsin, celebrating 30 years of sight-saving programs, wishes everyone a clear and bright holiday season.

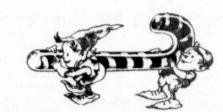

Christmas Goblin Measures Value

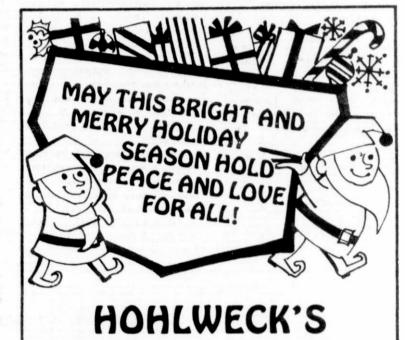

Goblins are associated with Halloween, not Christmas, but there is one legend about a Christmas goblin. According to an old story, the goblin went about the world at Christmastime with a magic scale to weigh the value of people's thoughts and deeds.

He met a man who had purchased a new car for Christmas, put it on the scales and it weighed nothing. He met a happy boy who had looked into the closet hiding place and saw many gifts he would receive on Christmas morning. He put them all on the scales and they weighed nothing.

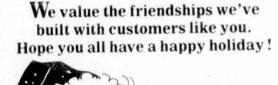

Next, the goblin met a very rich woman, who was busy knitting. She told him she was knitting a scarf for a sick friend. "Why do you not buy her one," the goblin asked. "Because," the woman replied, "the time and effort I extend is a token of my love and friendship." The goblin placed the scarf on the scales and it weighed to the

Special Care Is Needed to Ensure Home Electrical Safety During Holiday Season

Special care should be taken to ensure home electrical safety during this festive and joyful season, advises Wisconsin Electric Power Co.

Observing electrical safety is important all year but it is even more vital during the holiday season when lights are placed on evergreen trees, appliances are plugged into extension cords and portable heaters are used to combat wintry drafts.

"Electric energy is so quiet and efficient, it's easy to forget about the dangers that can arise if it's not used properly," said Bonni Yordi, WE supervisor of consumer relations. "In light of recent tragedies, we urge our customers to use decorative lighting and appliances correctly to give themselves the best gift of all — a safe holiday season."

Yordi offers the following safety tips:

• When you buy new holiday lights, look for the "UL" Label of Underwriters' Laboratories which means the lights have been tested for safety.

• With used lights, it's important to check for frayed wires, loose connections and broken or cracked sockets, as well as for areas where bare wires may be exposed. If damaged, either repair the light strings or throw them away.

 Keep all curtains or other flammable materials away from tree lights or floodlights. When you go to sleep or leave the house, make sure all decorative lights are off.

• Improper use of extension cords also can cause accidents. Always check the wattage rating of the extension cord and the wattage rating of the holiday lights before connecting. Never run an extension cord under a rug, across a doorway, or in a traffic path where it can be rubbed, frayed, tripped over or broken.

Only weatherproof extension cords and weatherproof outdoor lights should be used outside. Indoor lights are not designed to withstand exposure to snow, rain and the elements.

 Make sure you don't overload a circuit. Avoid plugging in too many lights, appliances and heaters in the same room or in the same wall outlet.

• If lights flicker, appliances stall, outlets or cords feel warm, fuses blow or circuit breakers trip, unplug nonessential items.

Special care is needed with electric space heaters. First, be sure to choose the right kind — one that's UL laboratory - tested and listed for safety. It should have an automatic switch that shuts it off if it tips over. Always use it in a safe location - out of traffic lanes, away from furniture, draperies, rugs, and other newspapers flammable materials. Also, don't plug the heater into an outlet serving other highwattage appliances or you can overload the circuit. Teach children never to poke fingers or objects through the protective guard of a heater, and never leave a child alone with a portable space heater.

WE customers who have questions about holiday safety should call Wisconsin Electric's Energy Facts Phone at 221-2000 or toll-free 1-800-222-9288 outside the Milwaukee area.

CONCERNS ABOUT HERBICIDE CARRYOVERS

by Jack Trzebiatowski Extension Agriculture Agent

Producers want herbicide to last long enough to provide season long weed control. They also should break down and not leave the residue to effect crops grown in the field the following year. Herbicides very substantially in the persistents. They are broken down by biological and chemical process. These processes are effected by soil moisture and temperature. Soil ph also has an effect on the breakdown of some herbicides. Application rates, the rate breakdown and sensitivity to the attended crop are factors that must be considered in an herbicide program. The 1988 growing season was both hot and dry so there is concern about herbicide carryover injury to next year's rotational crops.

There is no easy way to determine the degree of carryover problem that might exist from 1988 applied herbicide. However, there are some guidelines that producers can follow to help reduce the risk.

Producers should carefully check the product label. Many labels will provide information about the relative degree or risk to crops planted following the application of the particular herbicide product. Carefully review your 1988 application rate to see whether they are high enough to potentially cause a problem.

There are ways of testing for herbicide residue. The most common test includes an indoor bioassay, that simply means taking representative soil samples from the suspected field, bringing the samples indoors and growing a sensitive crop to determine if there is an injury.

Soil samples can also be sent to many laboratories to test for herbicide residue. The laboratory result will generally be reported in parts per million of herbicide found in the soil. This then needs to be interpreted as to whether or not the level is safe or a concern. Product labels may give these guidelines or they are available

From all of us to all of you, our dearest friends and kind patrons, healthy holiday time."

from other sources.

Soil samples for either testing method could be taken this fall before freeze-up or early next spring with about the same results. It is important that the soil sample adequately represent the field, if an accurate sample is to be taken.

Producers interested in more details about herbicide carryover can contact their county Extension office and request the publication titled ''Concerns About Herbicide Carryover,'' that was produced by Agromony specialists.

MANY SANTAS

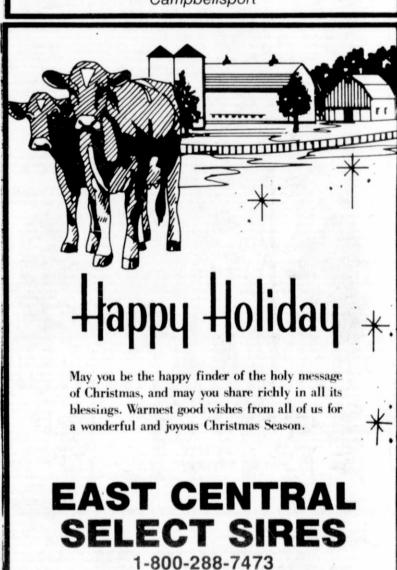

Santa Claus is found almost everywhere in the world, but his name isn't always the same.

In Russia he may be called "Father Frost" or "Father Winter." In Germany, children look for "Christkindl" or "Kriss Kringle." Chinese children anticipate their stockings will be filled by the "Nice Old Father" and Norwegian children expect gifts from an elf, "Jul Tonten."

Hollanders look for "Saint Nickolas" or "Sinterklass." French children await "Pere Noel."

Whatever the name, Santa and gift giving are part of the Christmas tradition around the world.

Many Holiday Decorations Pose Dangers for Toddlers

by Dawn L. Jones UW-Madison Center for Health Sciences

Few things evoke the Christmas spirit like decorations, but it may be a good idea to tone down some of the holiday glitter if there is a toddler in the house.

Marge Guthneck, pediatric nurse at University of Wisconsin Children's Hospital says the novelty and shine of decorations will flaturally spark childrens' interest. But many decorations are dangerous if not handled properly.

Some parents may want to put away breakable items for a few years — family heirlooms for example,'' she suggests. Although a good idea, she adds that it's only a start — everything is a target for a toddler's attention.

One major holiday hazard is fire. Although the image of a family gathered around the blazing hearth is a familiar one, many families use their fireplace only during the "Children holidays. naturally curious about the unusual, and parents who don't use the fireplace regularly should be aware that the kids are going to head straight toward the flames," explains Guthneck. "Make sure there is a screen in front of the fireplace and never, never leave the child unattended.'

A lot of kids burn themselves on candles as well, she adds. Parents should make sure that lit candles are kept out of reach.

A brightly decorated Christmas tree will also attract a toddler's attention, especially if it has been set up in a central or busy area. "If you are going to decorate the tree, place ornaments and lights on high branches, out of reach of young children," Guthneck urges.

"Toddlers are going to head straight for the tree, particularly if there are bright, shiny ornaments at their eye level." Fragments of broken ornaments can cut a child's hands, or become lodged in the throat. Christmas tree lights can also cut or cause burns.

If parents want to decorate the lower branches, one option is to decorate with paper ornaments, cookies, or the old-fashioned cranberry and popcorn strings, Guthneck suggests. They are not sharp, will not break, and young children can even help make them. "Take advantage of this time to involve your child in the decorating and encourage creativity," she adds.

In addition, what is underneath the tree may be as dangerous to toddlers as what is on it, both before and after presents are opened. Small bows or other package decorations may have sharp or pointed parts that can cut or become lodged in a child's throat if swallowed.

Used wrapping, particularly plastic bags and cellophane packaging, can cause suffocation. Parents with older children should also realize that toys left under the tree which are meant for older siblings may have sharp edges or small parts that could be dangerous for a toddler.

Many traditional holiday plants, including poinsettias, holly berries and mistletoe, are poisonous. They should be kept out of reach of young children. Guthneck urges parents who think a child may have ingested any kind of poison to call their primary physician or the local Poison Control Center immediately.

toddlers, many of which don't have anything to do with the holidays. Close supervision is always the best protection against injury, but some extra planning may ease the strain on parents during the bustle of the holidays.

BEGORRAH!

According to an old Irish belief, the gates of heaven open wide at midnight on Christmas Eve and those who die at that time go straight through without having to go to Purgatory.
