Kewaskum's Phone Exchange Is Not Capable of Handling 911 Emergency System

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

The Kewaskum Village Board was asked, Tuesday evening, to send a letter to GTE Corporation asking that it install up-to-date equipment in the Kewaskum exchange area as soon as possible which will allow it to become a part of the proposed countywide 911 emergency system.

"Right now our equipment is not capable of handling the advanced 911 system," stated Kewaskum Police Chief Richard Knoebel. He told the board that the 911 system is targeted for installation in the Kewaskum areas in 1992, and if the service equipment is not update by that time, Kewaskum will not be included in the 911 program. "I can see a real problem if that happens," said Knoebel. "If two 911 calls come in and the regular system has 'call waiting,' an emergency call from this area could be pushed back as the 911 calls are answered first."

Knoebel said the company seem to be looking for the county to help pay a portion of the cost of updating their equipment. If our equipment isn't updated in time, as county taxpayers we would be paying for it but not getting the service.

Knoebel said the new equipment is already in at GTE in Slinger. Beside Kewaskum, the Allenton and Waubeka exchanges would also be left out of the 911 system if their equipment is not updated by the time the 911 service is put in place.

In other business, the board heard a presentation by Village Administrator Dan Schmidt on various options the village could consider for hydrant rental service and fire protection. After a review of all the facts, the trustees concluded the present system of charges and tax roll billing best met the village's service program.

The board also considered but denied a request by a West Bend individual to set up a committee to support the establishment of a housing authority to provide for the needs of HUD.

Trustee Mary Krueger stated, "I am very opposed to it." Krueger indicated she felt it was just opening a can of worms. Schmidt told the board that the idea had been discussed in committee before and had not been looked on favorably. He also noted that HUD could impose much stricter housing requirements than presently exist in the village. "To me," said Krueger, "there are more bad things than good" (in getting involved with HUD). "I can't see where it would benefit the village in the overall look of it," said Trustee Tom McElhatton.

In other action the board approved Resolution 89-17, which supports the Washington County Jurisdictional Highway Plan. In that resolution the board indicated its support for all the proposed county highway projects except the extension of Highway J, which has received little support throughout the county.

In an update on the village's sidewalk repair program, Schmidt informed the trustees that work was progressing satisfactorily for the first phase and all repairs are expected to be finished by next week. He also noted that he and Public Works Superintendent Augie Bilgo had already begun to look at various areas for the 1990 phase of the project.

The board also approved a building permit to David and Sue Goeden for construction of a house at 1010 Edgewood Road, contingent upon the completion of the road's extension.

In non action discussion Schmidt noted that Dr. Cesar Sison would be coming to the board with new plans for a senior residential facility on the property east of his clinic. At the present time all we have is a site plan, noted Schmidt. We have not received any construction plans for proposed three-story, 47-unit building. Preliminary data indicated the structure will contain fifteen community based residential care facility rooms, fourteen single-bedroom units and eighteen two-bedroom units. Dr. Sison is still awaiting state approval of the plans, noted Schmidt.

Historical Society Early Farm Days Here Sunday

The Kewaskum Historical Society invites you to their 15th annual Early Farm Days celebration on Sunday, Sept. 10. The event will be held on the west side of River Hill Park from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Visitors will be able to enjoy the many displays including gas and steam engines, miniature engines, old farm equipment and antiques. The award winning museum and reconstructed 1847 log cabin will be open to the public.

The Kewaskum Historical Society is pleased to announce that the Kettle Country Cloggers and the Kettle Moraine Squares, will be featured for everyone's enjoyment. Don't miss the chance to see these two dance groups perform, as both are outstanding.

A fall harvest stew, which is prepared on the day of the event over an open fire in a 40 gallon cast iron "butcher's" Kettle right on the grounds, will be available to the public. Roast beef sandwiches, hot dogs, delicious homemade desserts and refreshments will also be sold. Provisions for carryout food and the selling of homemade pies have been made available for your convenience.

The 15th Annual Early Farm Days commemorative collector's button will be on sale for a $1.00 donation. The proceeds will be used to support the operation and maintenance of the museum and log cabin.

There will be free admission, horse drawn wagon rides and special entertainment, so be sure to bring the entire family.

Farmington Landfill To Close November 15

Town of Farmington Landfill will be closed Nov. 15. Jack Theusch, Town Chairman, said that although the town had originally planned to close the landfill in January of 1990, it was decided that the Nov. 15 date would be better so the landfill can be covered before the ground is frozen. Letters announcing the landfill closing have been sent to town residents this week, Theusch said. The letters also inform town residents that the town will not accept tires, wood or brush after Sept. 16.

Letters were mailed to Farmington residents last spring asking for suggestions for handling refuse following the closing of the landfill. The majority of residents at the spring annual meeting expressed interest in continuing the recycling program started by the town six years ago. The Town Board and Recycling Committee studied the feasibility of building a transfer station at the town hall where refuse could be put in dumpsters and recyclables collected. After surveying other Washington County towns and looking at a possible site the committee found that building a recycling station would cost from $20,000 to $40,000. Because of the instability of the market for recycled materials and the feeling that many residents would not bring their refuse and recyclables to the station, it was decided not to build a transfer station at this time.

The Recycling Committee

recommended that Farmington residents contract with private haulers to dispose of their refuse. A private recycling center will be established at the old landfill site by Michael Berres, the current landfill custodian, when the landfill is closed. Berres plans to lease the land from the town and hopes to be open several days a week. He will accept all recyclables and plans to have dumpsters for refuse where bags may be deposited at 50 cents per bag.

Theusch said that town residents had been doing a good job of recycling and hoped that they would continue, by making use of the recycling center run by Berres or some other recycling center.

Tourist Guide Coloring Contest Winners Chosen

After studying the many entries in the Spring/Summer Kewaskum Statesman Tourist Guide Coloring Contest, the winners have finally been selected.

We received entries weekly from the first week the Tourist Guide came out up until the last week of the contest in August. All the pictures were beautiful and all the children must be commended for their efforts and their talented creativity.

Because of the many fine entries, the Statesman staff had a very difficult time choosing one to be the

No Injuries in Car/Train Accident

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

A Theresa woman has been cited for failure to stop for a railroad crossing signal as a result of her involvement in a car/train accident in the Village of Kewaskum at approximately 10:12 p.m., Sunday evening. The citation carried a fine of $116 and loss of three driving points.

According to Kewaskum Police Chief Richard Knoebel, a car driven by Helen M. Decker, 39, of Theresa, was hit by a Fox River Valley train when the woman, traveling west on Second Street, failed to stop for the flashing railroad crossing signals on Second and Railroad Streets.

The northbound train, moving at about 25-30 miles an hour, caught the left quarter panel of Decker's car spinning it around. The train came to an immediate stop. Though Decker was shaken by the experience, neither she or her passenger, Thomas Butzke, 35, of Kewaskum, received any injuries.

United Way Helping Food Pantry 'Shop' for Larger Quarters

The United Way of Washington County, a significant source of funding for the Full Shelf Food Pantry in West Bend, is actively helping the food pantry find larger quarters.

Dan Holtan, Board President of the United Way of Washington County, commented, "The Pantry has outgrown their present site. Increasing numbers of individuals and families need assistance; this, along with the Food Pantry's added responsibility of distributing government commodities, has necessitated this move."

The Full Shelf Food Pantry began in West Bend in November, 1982 and is currently housed at Lynn's Waste Paper Company on Island Avenue. Last year, 1400 individuals received help from the food pantry. Its service area extends throughout Washington County, excluding the Hartford area, which has their own food pantry.

"We're already above our 1988 figures in the number of families and individuals served," said Lynn Ehren, who manages the Full Shelf Food Pantry with her husband, Larry.

Food is kept in numerous locations and must be frequently transported to the Island Avenue site. "This is inefficient and time-consuming," said Mr. Ehren.

The Pantry is searching for a low cost facility to rent that is 1500 - 2000 square feet, with parking for 10-20 cars. Refrigeration units are optional, as these can be brought in.

Also, the Food Pantry should be conveniently located in the West Bend community for accessibility, but not in a conspicuous location.

More than 70 dedicated volunteers donate their time at the food pantry. "There are no paid staff," said the Ehren's.

In addition to United Way funding, the Food Pantry receives donations of cash and food items from individuals and churches throughout the area. Referrals for food pantry services come from local agencies, clergy, and the Department of Social Services.

"Besides fund raising, a major role of the United Way is to help solve community problems," said Holtan.

"We're interested in combining resources to help the Food Pantry carry out their mission by securing a larger facility at economical cost. By doing so, we can help ensure that the majority of funds will be used for food items," he said.

"We'd like to move before the weather gets too cold," said Mrs. Ehren.

Anyone with information on a potential site should contact the Ehren's at 334-9131 or the United Way office at 338-3821.

New Vegas Money Game Offers Three Ways You Can Win

MADISON...The Wisconsin Lottery's new VEGAS MONEY GAME offers players three ways to win.

"This is an exciting new game from the Lottery which brings several new features to our instant game players: The VEGAS MONEY GAME offers a chance to win the largest instant cash prize ever from the Wisconsin Lottery and includes a second chance drawing which gives every ticket a chance to be a winner, along with a chance to win money on our weekly MONEY GAME television show," Lottery Executive Director William F. Flynn, Jr. said.

The VEGAS MONEY GAME gives players a chance at a top instant prize of $21,000, more than double the previous top prize offered by a Wisconsin Lottery instant game.

The VEGAS MONEY GAME also includes second chance drawings that award free trips to Las Vegas to five players each week for eight weeks. The Las Vegas trip winners will be announced on the weekly MONEY GAME television show.

The VEGAS MONEY GAME also includes the $100 TV Winner, which gives a player who has a ticket with three TV symbols a $100 instant prize as well as a chance to win $50,000 and more on the weekly MONEY GAME television show.

"In addition to the VEGAS MONEY GAME giving players three ways to win, each ticket has three play areas, so it offers three chances to win," Flynn explained.

"The VEGAS MONEY GAME will also return 52 per cent of sales as prizes, which is the largest payback we have ever offered through an instant scratch game," Flynn added.

"The VEGAS MONEY GAME, with its $21,000 top instant prize, the second chance drawings for the trips to Las Vegas as well as the weekly money game television show, will add up to fun for our instant ticket players," Flynn noted.

About the only way you can afford to raise teenagers is to put bargain shampoo in name-brand bottles.

The winners Sister Janet chose were Michelle Backhaus, age 4, 3424 Hwy. 28 East, Kewaskum, in the 1 to 5-year-old division, and Lindsay Krause, age 7, Route 2, Spencer, WI, in the 6 to 9-year-old

The Kewaskum Statesman would like to thank all the children who took the time to enter the contest. We had entries from as far away as Roy, Utah, and as close as "just up the street."

Winners of the coloring contest will receive their prizes shortly in the mail.

We sincerely hope all the children will again enter another holiday coloring contest which will be included in the new Fall/Winter Tourist Guide, coming out in the near future.

as advertising in the Nu-Way milking machine catalog. Many Kewaskum residents would make daily trips in the late afternoon to the Stark farm to purchase their milk. The barn basement walls were used in the construction of the Hon-E-Kor Country Club.

County Tourism Council to Honor Timmers for 25 Years of Service

A Perfect Pair...
Fun and Fitness
And Square Dancing

Think of all the items that really go together. Things that belong together. Things we like to eat. Things we like to do, and activities that are good for us. The list is endless. Crackers and cheese. Peaches and cream. Pie a la mode. Coffee and donuts. Corned beef and cabbage. Moonlight and roses. Sugar and spice. We would go on and on.

But there's another unbeatable combination - Fun and Fitness! Today everyone is concerned about being fit. What better way to achieve that perfect pair than through square dancing? There's romance and sociability. There's music and rhythmic movement. There's food and fellowship. There's color and friendly people. There's mental stimulation and mild exercise. There's action and interaction. And what better way to be fit? Square Dancing is an excellent cardiovascular exercise. In an average evening of Square Dancing, you will walk (shuffle) three to five miles. In one hour of square dancing, you can burn off 300 calories. And let's face it folks, this is a lot more enjoyable than walking around the same block night after night because the doctor says you need to get more exercise. Why not mix exercise with fun and be learning something new and meet new friends at the same time?

So double your pleasure - two by two - with the perfect pair.

Fun and fitness go hand in hand with square dancing.

Come and join in on the fun at a Square Dance, "try it." It's free! This dance is on Sunday, Sept. 10, from 7:30 to 9:30 at the West Bend Recreation Center at Eighth and Elm. For more information, call 338-0943 or 334-7156. But don't be surprised if they're not home. They're probably Square Dancing.

Clogging... Fun for the Whole Family

Kettle Country Cloggers

Clogging is a true American folk dance whose roots are buried deep in the heart of the Appalachian Mountain. The word "clog" is a Gaelic word meaning time. Clog Dancing is "time" dancing with the heel being the timekeeper.

The intricate steps of traditional cloggers are all combinations of eight basic toe and heel movements of the dance. Traditional cloggers do a constant shuffle on the weight-bearing foot, while the free foot does something else.

Precision clogging, with all dancers doing the same step at the same time, seems to be the most popular aspect of today's cloggers. Routines may be done as solos, duets, or they may be done in lines for dances. No partners are necessary in clogging.

Clogging is fun for the whole family. It is challenging and healthy. It's rich history and exciting pace make it appeal to all ages.

As its popularity continues to spread, clogging enthusiasts may one day be able to stop saying, "Clogging is not a plumbing problem."

If you think clogging sounds like fun, why not give it a try? There will be a free clogging "Try It" on Sunday, September 17 from 1:30 to 3:00 at the West Bend Recreation Center, on Eighth and Elm. Why not give it a try?

UWWC's 1989-90 Fine Arts Series To Open with Modern Dance Group

Chicago's oldest modern dance group will be at West Bend Sept. 15 and 16 to open the 1989-90 Fine Arts Series at the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County.

Chicago Moving Company, founded in 1972, will appear in concert at 7:30 p.m. on its first night in town. During its second day, it will present a modern dance master class on campus.

The 11-member company includes Nana Shineflug, founder and artistic director of the group. She will teach the master class on Saturday. A Chicago paper called her the "founder and priestess of modern dance in Chicago."

During the Friday night performance, the UWWC audience will see a sneak preview of Chicago Moving's upcoming European tour, including:

- "John Somebody," an examination of the difficulty of living in today's cities, music by Scott Johnson, choreography by Shineflug.

- "Floating," inspired by the dances of Loie Fuller, an artist who became famous at the Follies Berges in Paris in the 1920's, music by Claude Debussy, choreographed by Shineflug.

- "California," a duet choreographed by Shineflug for herself and Krista Willberg, dealing with the similarities between the choreographic process and directing one's own life.

- "Cathedral Dances," featuring the entire company and set to the music of the Bulgarian State Radio and Television Female Vocal Choir.

The UWWC Fine Arts Series is planned and carried out by a committee of faculty, staff and students. Support comes from ticket sales and student funds. Funding for the Chicago Moving Company performance was provided, in part, by Arts Midwest.

Tickets for the dance performance cost $6, with a student and senior citizen admission for $4. Season tickets to the nine monthly events in the September through May series cost $39 - or $28 for senior citizens and students.

To reserve tickets or to obtain more information, call UWWC, 338-5208.

Opening Session Of Reading Program At UWWC Sept. 13

Fanny Flagg's book, "Fried Green Tomatoes at the Whistle Stop Cafe," will provide the Sept. 15 opening session of the fall Continuing Education reading program at the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County.

The four-session course will meet from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. with instructor Marie Pitz of West Bend.

Pitz said that on Oct. 13 the class will discuss "Over the Edge" by John Kellerman.

Both of the first two fall books were selected by students enrolled with Pitz last spring. Fall students will decide which books will be ready for November and December or January.

Pitz refers to her sessions as "an adventure in sharing." The fall fee is $10. An average of ten readers attend the monthly discussion sessions.

Students read one book each month, Pitz said. She describes her role as that of starting the discussion and then trying "to keep things on track and pull in those who are a little more reticent."

She said her goal is one of keeping the class "fun and interesting" but avoiding becoming "a coffee klatsch."

Reading has always been important to Pitz, she said. She and her late husband Dar tutored adults in reading in Milwaukee's inner core area. She recalls a student asking Dar why anyone should bother to read. He replied, "Because there are so many interesting things to learn."

New members are welcome in the class. To register or obtain more information, contact Joan Laabs, Continuing Education coordinator at UWWC, 338-5218.

Committee Reorganized to Again Seek Replacement for UWWC's Dean Thompson

A 10-member search-and-screen committee was reorganized here Aug. 28 for a second attempt to find a replacement for retired Dean Robert O. Thompson at the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County.

Committee members met with Chancellor Stephen R. Portch of Madison, administrative leader of the 13 freshman-sophomore centers in the UW System. In June, the chancellor announced that he was ending an initial six-month search for a successor to Thompson, who had served 16 years at UWWC.

Selected by Portch to chair the committee is Gary Britton of West Bend, a professor of mathematics at UWWC and head of the UW Centers Mathematics Department.

Six of the committee members are from Washington County. Six are faculty members, two are administrators, one is a student and one, a member of the community.

After the meeting, Britton said the group had decided to advertise nationally in October for Thompson's replacement. He said Nov. 20 was tentatively set as the applications deadline for applicants.

On Dec. 19, the committee plans to name its choices of finalists, who will be invited to UWWC from Jan. 2 to 8, for personal interviews.

Later in January, the committee will make its recommendations to the UW Board of Regents. Britton said the group expects a new dean could be appointed sometime after March 1, 1990.

New to the committee is Gerald Lee of Port Washington, a UWWC student.

Continuing on the committee are three UWWC faculty members: Albert Asch of West Bend, professor of music; Margaret Cleek of Kewaskum, associate professor of psychology; and Sarada Prasad of Mequon, assistant professor of business administration.

Also continuing are Michael Murphy of West Bend, director of student services at UWWC, and Nancy Van Vooren of West Bend, representing the campus community.

Portch named two additional faculty members and a center dean from other campuses to the committee: Jean Tobin, a professor of English at UWC-Sheboygan, and Dean Bradley Gottfried and Roger Riegerink, associate professor of philosophy, both from UWC-Fond du Lac.

In naming the committee, Portch told their members that they would help "choose the next generation of leadership" at UWWC.

Offer Math Courses at UWWC

Registrations are now being accepted for two refresher and remedial math courses being offered this fall at the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County.

The non-credit courses, Elementary Algebra and Topics in Geometry, begin the third week in September. Each costs $99 and are designed for students who have not had high school algebra or geometry.

Successful completion of the algebra course prepares a student for Introductory College Algebra. Completing geometry satisfies the requirements for UW-Milwaukee graduation and for UW-Madison admission.

Topics in Geometry begins Sept. 18, and meets from 5:30 to 6:20 p.m., each Monday and Wednesday in Main 150. The course is taught by Darwin Dorn, an associate lecturer in mathematics at UWWC.

Elementary Algebra begins Sept. 19, and meets from 12:05 to 12:55 p.m., each Tuesday and Thursday, in Main 149. Teaching the course is LuAnn Roth, a UWWC lecturer in mathematics.

Both courses are open to UWWC students and community members. The course fee is in addition to any other fees and tuition for credit courses at the center. However, the course carries a credit equivalency of 2 credits which count towards qualifying a UWWC student for financial aids.

Both courses conclude during the week of Dec. 10. Students who satisfactorily finish each course receive an official certificate of achievement with a letter grade.

Algebra topics in the course include introduction to sets, binary operations, variable expressions, fractions, factoring and solving simple equations.

Geometry deals with methods of proof, properties of simple plane figures, congruence and similarity.

Both courses have had high enrollments, and early registration is advised by Joan Laabs, UWWC Continuing Education Coordinator. For more information, call her at 338-5218.

Lottery Retailers Will Offer Two Instant Scratch Games

MADISON...While more than 5,000 Wisconsin Lottery retailers across the state will offer their customers the new VEGAS MONEY GAME, the Lottery's DOUBLE FEATURE tickets will remain in stores also.

"Virtually all consumers are given a choice of brands or packaging when they go into a store to purchase a product. Now they will have a choice of Wisconsin Lottery instant games," Lottery Executive Director William F. Flynn, Jr. explained.

"Each game has its own appeal. DOUBLE FEATURE, for example, offers players a top instant prize of $10,000 in a more familiar play format with more smaller prizes per pack of 500 tickets. The VEGAS MONEY GAME, on the other hand, has a $21,000 top prize in a new 'slots' play style and the second chance drawing for trips to Las Vegas," Flynn continued.

"Both games will give players a chance to win $50,000 or more on the weekly MONEY GAME television show with the $100 TV Winner ticket," Flynn added.

"Our pull-tab retailers have always had two games to offer their players, now our instant scratch retailers will be able to offer their customers a choice of games, too," Flynn said.

50 Years Ago

September 8, 1939

Because their big picnic and dedication on Aug. 20, which attracted nearly 9,000 people was marred and kept from being an overwhelming success as the result of a heavy afternoon and evening rain, the Kewaskum Firemen held another celebration last Sunday in the new village park in the form of a community picnic. This event also drew a surprising crowd estimated at close 4,000 people throughout the afternoon and evening and proved to be a fine success in every way.

With all games completed, the final standings in the Kettle Moraine Baseball League show that the Kewaskum team wins an undisputed second place, a full game ahead of Adell and Waldo who tied for third.

Two popular young people were united in marriage last Saturday afternoon, Sept. 2 at the St. Lucas parsonage, Kewaskum, by the Rev. Gerhard Kaniess, when Miss Bernice Hicken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hicken of Beechwood, became the bride of Elmer Ramthun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ramthun, Sr. of the Town of Kewaskum.

The mangled body of a middle aged man was found on the Soo line tracks one mile north of Lomira at 8:30 o'clock Monday morning has been positively identified by Andrew Diels, a farmer residing a short distance south of the village as that of his brother Jacob Diels. The finding of his hat and the discovery of blood stains on the crossing near the Theo Hankwitz crossing south of Lomira indicated, according to the coroner, that Diels was struck by a northbound train and was carried by the engine through the station to the next crossing where the body fell off. Jacob Diels was born in the Town of Wayne 51 years ago.

Philip J. Haug, an old and respected resident of the town of Auburn, passed away in death last Monday, August 31, at the advanced age of 80. His death was caused by infection of the kidneys.

Kilian Strobel and family and B. Beisbier autoed to Fond du Lac to attend the county fair.

A valuable horse belonging to Otto Dickmann, Campbellsport, was killed by lightning Monday.

A baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Herman last week Friday. Congratulations.

You Must Include Dependent's Social Security Number on Tax Return to Claim Exemption

Anyone claiming the $2,000 exemption for a dependent age two or over on their 1989 federal income tax return must enter that person's social security number, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

The number along with the dependent's name and other information must be entered on the front of the return whether you file Form 1040 or Form 1040A. Prior to a recent law change, this requirement only applied to dependents who were at least five years old.

If your child or other dependent will be at least two years old by the end of the year, you may want to consider getting them a number now. To apply for one, fill out Form SS-5 available from the Social Security Administration. Visit an SSA office or call them toll-free at 1-800-234-5772 for further details.

Also new for 1989, workers claiming the Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses must include on their return the name, address and taxpayer identification number of each care provider. If the provider is a nonprofit charitable, religious, or educational organization, only the name and address are required.

A taxpayer identification number is a social security number if the provider is an individual. It's called an employer identification number if the provider is a partnership or corporation. The same requirement applies if you receive benefits through your employer's dependent care assistance program.

Form W-10 can be used to request this information from the provider. Order free copies of this form by calling the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-3676 (FORM).

Madison...Just a few months ago, persons caught dealing drugs where children play could get off paying a small fine. But today, thanks to a new state law, these "playground pushers" face mandatory jail time and 100 hours of community service and no drivers license for at least six months.

Few have heard about the new state law, authored by State Representative David Brandemuehl (R-Fennimore), because it was one of hundreds of public policy measures signed into law as part of the 1989-91 state budget. Specifically, the law imposes mandatory penalties for dealers who peddle hard drugs where children are found. These so-called "drug-free" zones include schools, school buses, parks, public swimming pools, community centers and youth centers.

Under the law, judges must sentence persons guilty of dealing cocaine, crack, heroin, or LSD in a "drug-free" zone to three years in jail. Minors guilty of possessing drugs in these zones must put in 100 hours of community service and have their license revoked for a minimum of six months. Judges can impose this additional penalty on top of jail sentences given adults. For those caught distributing marijuana within 1,000 feet of a zone face a one-year jail sentence without a parole.

Brandemuehl explained that for several years these penalties have been an option for judges and by making them mandatory the state is ensuring that they are "not loosely exercised, but tightly and consistently imposed."

"We need to show drug dealers that, as parents, we will not tolerate their attempts to cripple our future generations," he said.

Brandemuehl said figures from a recent study show that "drug use by students is a terrible reality." The study by Search Institute of Minneapolis shows that drug use by Wisconsin students has reached "epidemic proportions." According to the report, 47 percent of high school seniors, 34 percent of sophomores, 18 percent of eighth graders, and 6 percent of sixth graders have experimented with an illicit drug.

"Parents have a right to expect from our society a drug-free environment for their children," Brandemuehl said. "This legislation is one in the right direction."

A Back-to-School Message from State Superintendent Herbert J. Grover

Local communities have so much invested in their schools. The children who enter first grade this year are the business people, teachers, artists and sales force of the year 2002. It is critical that these precious children, our children, receive the very best education, in safe schools, from teachers, administrators, and school staff people who have the community behind them 100 percent.

In support of the investment communities have in their schools, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction is devoting the 1989-90 Families in Education program to the Year of Community Partnerships.

Research tells us over and over again that students learn more when their families are involved in their education. This research is the foundation of the Families in Education program, yet we know that few families are made up of a father working, a mother at home helping the children with their school work, and grandparents and relatives nearby to support these efforts. Over the past two years, the Families in Education program has extended the meaning of families to include all those people who help children to grow and develop.

As communities wisely become like an extended family for our children, education in Wisconsin will surely blossom beyond our greatest expectations. Community support takes many forms. Good schools depend on adequate funding for salaries and instructional programs. Excellent schools thrive in a community that stresses the importance of education and is filled with individuals who share their time, talents, and expertise with school staff and students.

Partnerships call for give and take, and schools have very much to give back to communities. While the greatest contribution is certainly a well-informed citizenry, during this Year of Community Partnerships the DPI is encouraging schools to explore opportunities for community use of schools.

Our local school buildings are worth millions. They have gymnasiums, classroom space, libraries, and other facilities that can support adult community education and recreation programs before and after the regular school day. In some districts, the buildings already are being used successfully for before- and after-school child care and are the hub of activities for senior citizens.

I believe when members of the community walk into a school building, whether they have children in school or not, they begin to feel as though the building belongs to them. And with local property taxes paying for nearly 50 percent of the cost of education in Wisconsin, the community truly does own the schools.

The new school year provides all of us the wonderful challenge of building community partnerships. I encourage every individual to join in making the Year of Community Partnerships a success for education in Wisconsin.

Realtors Installation And Awards Night

Dennis Scherwinski, President of the Washington Board of Realtors, Inc. announces the installation of Theresa L. Fredrich as the new president of the board on September 6, 1989. Her official installation will take place at the Chalet on Hwy. 175, Hubertus Rd., Richfield. John Van Hollen, the governor's northern representative and a realtor member of the Chequamegon board will conduct the installation.

Fredrich will head the Washington Board of Realtors, which is one of 43 local boards around the state. The Washington Board of Realtors has over 200 members. All boards are part of the Wisconsin Realtors Association, one of the state's largest trade associations. Over 10,500 professional realtors from around the state are represented by the association.

"The outlook for state's home sales during 1989 is very promising. We anticipate that about 70,000 homes will be sold statewide during 1989. First quarter sales in 1989 nearly set a record for the state," said Dennis Scherwinski. "The Wisconsin Realtors Association and our board are helping the people in Wisconsin to buy their own home. We are encouraged by the creation of the division of housing in the state's budget, and feel it will benefit home buyers and sellers in all parts of the state."

Theresa L. Fredrich is associated with Coldwell Banker Spectrum Real Estate in West Bend. She has been in real estate for approximately twelve years.

Supercarrot Promises More Vitamin A

by Michelle Dresser Johnson, UW Ag Press Service

It tastes good and it's good for you. It's some good news from the food front this summer.

Beta III is a new variety of carrot developed by Philipp Simon, University of Wisconsin - Madison vegetable geneticist and USDA Agricultural Research Service scientist. The carrot packs two to four times the beta-carotene punch of ordinary carrots and delivers its nutrition in a good-tasting package.

The beta-carotene content of vegetables is important because the body converts beta-carotene to vitamin A.

"I bred for the sweeter flavor because for most people that's a desirable carrot flavor," says Simon.

He distributed Beta III seeds to agricultural stations around the world to get specific comments about the carrot's taste and how well it grew in different climates.

The international scope is important to Simon. He developed the carrot to help fight vitamin A deficiency in Third World countries, where it is a common problem. Lack of vitamin A can cause night blindness, total blindness or even death.

"So far, I've had responses from 15 to 20 international cooperators, and the taste tests have been quite positive," says Simon. It grew well everywhere except Sri Lanka, Simon reports, and since there was only one failure he suspects that set of seeds went bad during the overseas trip.

With the Third World in mind, Simon also developed Beta III to be self-propagating.

"This carrot is not a hybrid," he emphasizes. "It's open-pollinated, and that's part of its desirability. It was essential to develop this type of carrot for the developing countries so they can be self-sufficient with it."

To collect seeds, growers need to leave some carrots in the ground over the winter. Beta III, like other carrots, won't flower and set seed until its second year of growth.

Positive responses about Beta III haven't been limited to overseas. Home gardeners around the United States have requested Beta III seed samples, which Simon supplies at no charge. He sees Beta III as an excellent garden prospect.

"This isn't a bad-tasting carrot at all," he says. "Speaking in general terms, when compared to the average supermarket carrot Beta III is the sweeter, better-tasting carrot."

Some recent studies have hinted that vitamin A is a potential anti-cancer agent, a finding which could significantly boost interest in the carrot. But Simon says that people who want to take advantage of Beta III's high nutrition and good taste had better plan on growing their own for now.

"The root shape of Beta III isn't quite what the commercial growers want," Simon confesses. "They want a different shape - more long and slender. Commercial carrot producers want hybrids, because they're more uniform-looking and they mature earlier."

But one commercial producer, Asgrow of Sun Prairie, Wis., is considering Beta III as an addition to its present seed lines.

"Because of the publicity the carrot's gotten there appears to be a growing market for it, but that was not my original intention," Simon says.

Simon isn't waiting for Beta III to establish itself on the world's markets or supper tables, though. He's already at work on another carrot, one with twice the beta-carotene of Beta III.

"But that's a bad-tasting carrot," he says with a grimace. "I was only selecting for beta-carotene content, not at all for flavor."

Home gardeners who would like a sample of Beta III seeds can contact Simon at 203B Horticulture, Madison, WI 53706.

Lac Lawrann Conservancy Fall Dried Flower and Weed Sale Sept. 16

4-H Interstate Exchange Program

From July 31st to August 6th the following Washington County 4-H members were selected to host delegates from Cayuga County, New York: Kewaskum 4-H'ers - Lynn Johann, Sara Lemke, Karie Ann Reichert, Michelle Schaub, and Brian Staehler; Badger Boosters - Mark Hautamaki and Ben Shier; St. Lawrence Eager Beavers - Jenni Buchholz, Michelle and Stefanie Hefter; Farmington 4-H'ers - Jill Peterson, Kirrhayn Trotters - Rachel Heidtke. Adult chaperones for the group were Kandi O'Neil, 4-H Youth Agent and Helen and LeRoy Doll.

To start off our busy week on July 31st, a Welcome to Wisconsin party was held at Sandy Knoll Park in West Bend. The tired group of New York delegates arrived at 8:30 p.m. and feasted on a potluck supper.

During the week many outings were planned to show our New York guests the sights of Wisconsin. One scheduled trip took the group to The Cave of the Mounds and Circus World Museum in Baraboo.

Many members of the group also attended the following events: Skating/pizza party, a swimming party and a day at the State Fair. To round off the week the New York delegates and their host families attended a farewell party on August 5th.

All too soon the week was over - at 8:00 a.m. Sunday morning, August 6th, the New York delegates left from the Washington County Courthouse and started their long journey back to New York taking back many neat experiences to share with their families.

Extend WE Energy Program 2 Months

MILWAUKEE — Because customers are still turned on to turning in old, inefficient appliances, Wisconsin Electric Power Co. will keep that program running an extra two months.

"Customer interest in our appliance turn-in program still is enthusiastic, so we've decided to keep that part of the Smart Money Energy Program plugged in through Oct. 31," said Valerie Clarke, superintendent, residential energy management, at Wisconsin Electric. The turn-in program had been scheduled to end Aug. 31.

"Getting old, inefficient appliances off our system helps reduce the need to build expensive, new power plants," she said. "The extension of this year's effort will result in additional energy savings for all of our customers."

Wisconsin Electric is receiving more than 500 calls a day from customers who want to exchange their old, inefficient refrigerators, freezers and room air conditioners for U. S. Savings Bonds.

"More than 30,000 customers have called us already this year, asking to turn in their old appliances," Clarke said. "That's 3,000 ahead of the total turned in 1988. The program's extension through October should bring in another 10,000 appliances."

Since the Smart Money Energy Program began in 1987, Wisconsin Electric customers have turned in more than 100,000 old, inefficient refrigerators, freezers and room air conditioners in exchange for savings bonds.

Customers who would like to turn in an appliance may do so by calling 221-2800 in Milwaukee or 1-800-922-6253 outside Milwaukee.

How on earth could he know . . .

about every public and private event occurring in this area, I asked myself in wondering amazement as I listened to the respected Mr. Holmes. The obvious facts about who was doing what, and where they were doing it, he recited without so much as a hesitancy.

Holmes chuckled and wriggled in his chair, as was his habit when in high spirits.

"Here is an intriguing story about a village president, off the beaten track in Wisconsin," he would say, and begin telling the most extraordinary tale of a public officer in some obscure wooded village.

"But then, again, that escapade would hardly match the goings on in Madison," Holmes said loftily as he shifted in his chair, lighted his clay pipe, and started telling in minute detail some remarkable story of a legislator and the governor.

I sat perplexed, wondering how anyone could have so much information about the people and events around him.

"How did you know..." I began.

Hardly could I finish my inquiry when Holmes replied.

"Elementary, my dear Watson, I read it in the newspapers."

Indians Better, But Not Best in Non-Conference Game at Horicon

Despite a 7-6 halftime lead, the Kewaskum Indians still came up on the losing end of the spectrum after their non-conference game with the Horicon Marshmen. The final score of the game played Friday night at Horicon was 24-13, with the Marshmen chalking up the win.

Scoring began when KHS linebacker Scott Heller recovered a fumbled Horicon snap from center. Fullback Noel Stradtman picked up a first down on seven and eight yard runs and a few plays later, Brian Dobke scored on a 14 yard run into the end zone. Bruce Waechter's point after kick was good and the Indians were in the lead, 7-0.

The Indians lead was short-lived however, as Horicon's Jim Dobbler returned the KHS kickoff 77 yards for their first score. Horicon's extra point attempt failed giving Kewaskum a one point edge throughout the first half.

Both teams got close again in the first half, but Kewaskum's field goal attempt on the 28 yard line was no good, and Horicon's fourth down play on the 26 yard line was crushed.

In the second half, the Indians could no longer hold the brakes on Horicon's Brian Blankenheim. After several plays in their scoring drive, Blankenheim ran 32 yards into the end zone to put the Marshmen ahead. The point after run failed.

Kewaskum's drive began on the 45 yard line, but hopes of scoring again were quickly diminished when quarterback Brian Leitheiser was trapped 14 yards behind the line of scrimmage and Dave Kuphal lost four yards on a screen pass on fourth down.

Horicon ended up with the ball on Kewaskum's 34 yard line due to a controversial call by the officials who said an incorrect signal for a fair catch was made by Kewaskum. Several plays later Horicon quarterback Peter Ferge tossed Pat Mayo a 14 yard pass that hit pay dirt. The point after try failed bringing the score to Horicon 18, Kewaskum 7.

Horicon quickly scored again on their next drive when Blankenheim ran 53 yards for another touchdown. Again the point after failed.

With the end of the game in sight, Coach Clark Pearson began substituting players and put in sophomore quarterback Greg Cook who engineered a 70 yard drive which culminated with Stradtman scoring from the one yard line.

The Indians did lose, but showed some definite bright spots and promise of a victory to come.

Canada Goose Season Set for Wisconsin Hunters

MADISON, WI — With a good population of Canada geese in central North America this year, a Canada goose hunting season with a harvest quota even higher than in 1988 has been approved for this year by the Natural Resources Board, announced Jon Bergquist, Department of Natural Resources waterfowl/wetland ecologist.

The estimated fall flight of Mississippi Valley Population (MVP) Canada geese will approach or exceed 1,000,000 birds. The MVP Committee of the Mississippi Flyway Council approved a 40 percent increase in harvest to 364,000 geese for 1989.

"A portion of that harvest, 28 percent, is allocated to Canada and minor U.S. states," Bergquist said. "The balance is allocated to six major harvest states, with Wisconsin and Illinois each receiving 32 percent."

That high percentage, added to the giant Canada goose and other goose population harvests, means a 1989 harvest objective of 89,200 birds. This is up from 63,700 in 1988.

The Canada goose season by zone includes:

Horicon Zone — The season opens at sunrise on Saturday, Sept. 23 and runs through Saturday, Dec. 16 for a 76-day hunt in four periods. Hunters are restricted to time periods: Period 1, Sept. 23 - Oct. 22; Period 2, Oct. 7 - Nov. 5; Period 3, Oct. 21 - Nov. 17; and Period 4, Nov. 27 - Dec. 16.

All hunters should get two tags and many of the hunters selecting periods 1, 2, or 3 might get three tags, Bergquist predicted. There's a two-bird daily limit for all time periods; the season bag limit is the number of tags received.

Collins Zone — A fourth time period has been added to the Collins Zone hunt. Hunter numbers are limited to 325 per time period; the season limit is four geese, with a daily bag limit of two. The season opens Sept. 23 and closes Nov. 30. The Collins Zone is closed to Canada goose hunting during the gun deer season. The four time periods are: Period 1, Sept. 23 - Oct. 8; Period 2, Oct. 9 - 22; Period 3, Oct. 23 - Nov. 5; and Period 4, Nov. 6-17 and Nov. 27 - 30.

Pine Island Zone — A fourth time period has been added to the Pine Island Zone also. Hunter numbers for each time period increase to 200. The season opens Sept. 23 and closes Nov. 30. The daily bag limit is two birds and the season limit is four. The time periods are: Period 1, Sept. 23 - Oct. 8; Period 2, Oct. 9 - 22; Period 3, Oct. 23 - Nov. 5; and Period 4, Nov. 6-30.

Theresa Zone — The season opens Sept. 23 and continues for 60 days or when the harvest objective of 4,500 birds is reached, whichever comes first. The season limit is four birds; the bag limit is one bird per seven days. Hunters must wait seven days between each goose harvested. The zone will be closed during the nine-day gun deer season. For the first time hunters will have to apply for tags prior to the season, just like for the other tag zones.

Exterior Zone — The season in the Exterior Zone (the remainder of the state not covered by other zones) opens Sept. 23 in the North and Sept. 30 in the South (coincides with the ducks' north and south zones) and continues for 70 days. The daily bag limit is one goose; there's a possession limit of two for both zones through Oct. 31, and two geese with four in possession thereafter.

The Mississippi River subzone season framework is similar to last year. It opens concurrent with the 1989 duck season and extends after the regular Exterior Zone season.

The special giant Canada goose hunt in the Rock Prairie subzone has a daily bag limit of one goose from Nov. 5 to Dec. 10. The December giant Canada goose hunt in the Brown County subzone has a daily bag limit of three giant Canada geese.

The Mississippi River special giant Canada Goose runs Nov. 20 - Dec. 22, with a two bird daily bag limit and possession limit of four.

"Hunting in the Exterior Zone will close if the harvest objective is reached prior to the ending date of the season," Bergquist said.

The bag limit for other geese is seven, including the legal limit of Canada geese and not more than two white-fronted geese. The possession limit is 14, including the legal limit of Canada geese and not more than four (4) white-fronted geese.

The snow and blue goose season is concurrent with the duck and Canada goose seasons except in the Brown County Subzone, where the season ends Dec. 1.

"All goose hunters are reminded of the September 8 deadline to apply for Canada goose hunting permits," Bergquist stated. "The only goose hunting permit applications accepted after the September 8 deadline will be for the Exterior Zone. Canada goose hunters in Wisconsin are required to have a goose permit and this permit is only valid for one of the five zones."

Duck Season Similar to Last Year Approved for 1989

The 1989 Wisconsin duck season approved by the Natural Resources Board will be as restrictive as last year in the wake of surveys showing that duck populations remain low, said Jon Bergquist, Department of Natural Resources waterfowl/wetlands ecologist.

"The season will be no better than last year given the circumstances, both in the state and internationally, involving duck production," Bergquist said. "Last season, following the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service season framework, Wisconsin saw a nearly 50 percent reduction in duck harvest. With the 1989 regulations, we expect little change in harvest level. If anything, there might be a decrease."

Wisconsin's 30-day duck season will begin at noon on Saturday, Oct. 7 in both the north and south duck zones. The season will run through Sunday, Nov. 5 in the north. In the south, a split season runs from Oct. 7-10 and Oct. 18 - Nov. 12.

Shooting hours will be from sunrise to sunset. Wisconsin will stay with a conventional bag limit similar to last year, rather than the point system.

The daily bag limit is three ducks, to include not more than two mallards, of which only one may be a hen, one redhead, one black duck, one pintail or two wood ducks. The daily bag limit for mergansers is five, to include not more than one hooded merganser. The season on canvasback ducks is again closed for 1989.

The total estimated 1989 duck breeding population in the surveyed areas of Canada and the United States is 24 percent below the 1955 to 1987 average, while breeding populations of 10 important species of ducks in the same survey areas are 31 percent below goals set in the North American Waterfowl Management Plan, Bergquist explained.

Mallard, blue-winged teal, northern pintail and scaup breeding population estimates in the survey areas are all 25 percent or more below their goals in the plan.

In contrast, Wisconsin's 1989 estimated total duck breeding population is 31 percent above the 1973 to 1988 long-term average and is the third highest recorded. The statewide estimated mallard breeding population this year is 52 percent above the long-term average and is the highest recorded since the survey began.

"Because of the continuation of poor habitat conditions in prairie Canada, Wisconsin may have supported a substantial number of ducks that would normally have bred in Canada," noted Bergquist, "partially accounting for the large increase in Wisconsin's estimated population."
