Deadline for Elections Filing Approaching

Village and School Boards Posts Open

By GERRY MUELLER
Statesman Staff Writer

With the January 2nd, deadline for filing nomination papers just around the corner, neither the School District or Village of Kewaskum is being inundated with candidates.

So far only the three incumbents for the Kewaskum Board of Education have taken out nomination papers, those being Ruth Schmitt, Ron Beimborn and Don Nowak. As of Wednesday, only Schmitt had returned her papers to the district's Administration Office.

The village, on the other hand, has at least enough candidates to cover the three trusteeships which will expire in spring. Both incumbents Tom McElhatton and Larry Williams have confirmed their intention to run for re-election by returning their papers to the village's municipal office.

The third candidate is a newcomer, Gary Gavin, who has also returned his nomination papers.

The terms of McElhatton, Williams and Richard Schlice expire, however Schlice announced last month he would not seek re-election to a second term.

The death, last week, of Trustee Vincent Groh will not affect the upcoming election even though it will create a vacancy on the board. Groh's term does not expire until 1991.

Village Administrator Dan Schmidt said Groh's post is not officially vacant and action by the board to fill the position would not be taken until next year. "The board has the option to advertise for written applications," said Schmidt, "and the earliest it could make a decision would be February." In the past the village has given residents at least a month to submit applications Schmidt noted.

The board could then review the applications and select an individual to fill the one year left on the un-expired term or leave it vacant until the next election in 1991, when the term officially expires.

Individuals interested in running for either the Board of Education or Kewaskum Village Board, have until Tuesday, Jan. 2nd at 5:00 p.m., to take out and file nomination papers.

Kewaskum United Way Tops 100%

A fundraising record of $32,282 was achieved by the Kewaskum community as part of the 1989 United Way of Washington County drive.

"Surpassing the goal of $32,000 was accomplished by strong community support. "We are most pleased with Regal Ware employees," commented division Chairman Gerald Zimmer. "They more than doubled their contributions over 1988. Overall, the total represents the highest amount ever raised," he said.

Other Kewaskum businesses who did well are Dairyland Seed, Marigold Foods, Hon-E-Kor Country Club, Honeck Chevrolet, Valley Bank and Kennelly Pharmacy, along with many other companies and individuals.

The success of Kewaskum contributed to the record amount of contributions to the county-wide campaign. $624,523 was announced this week as the official 1989 figure for the United Way of Washington County. The announcement was made by John Torinus, campaign chairman.

The County figure surpassed the $610,000 goal by $14,000 and represents an increase of 11.3% from the $552,852 raised in 1988 (the figures include Kewaskum and Hartford).

According to Torinus, "The volunteers made the difference. Almost to a person, they did what they said they were going to do." A total of 121 volunteers shared their time and talent to benefit United Way on this year's drive.

other major factor in surpassing the goal was to broaden the base of contributors. When all was said and done, a total of 7,454 families and 550 businesses in Washington County made a contribution. People who had never been active before became involved by the hundreds in 1989," he said.

With approximately 27,200 families in the service area of Washington County's United Way, the participation percentage was 27 percent. Out of 1,272 businesses, 43% gave a corporate gift.

"We are especially proud of Kewaskum and Hartford, the two newest communities to join the United Way of Washington County. They each came in at over 100% of their goals," said Torinus.

Final figures are as follows: Key Firms - $265,023 (101%); Smaller Industry - $21,605 (98%); Commercial - $7,049 (88%); transportation - $9,659 (97%); Retail - $29,255 (106%);

Financial - $39,333 (106%); Education - $17,899 (108%); Public - $14,288 (110%); Agencies - $17,533 (103%); Professionals - $20,951 (113%); Special Gifts - $34,124 (100.4%); Direct Mail $547 (73%); Allenton - $17,012 (100%); Jackson - $14,993 (130%); Slinger - $15,246 (95%); Newburg - $886 (118%); Hartford - $66,838 (103%); and Kewaskum - $32,282 (101%).

Torinus repeated his gratitude and praise for volunteers and donors alike. "There is still room for broadening the giving base further, and that will be the challenge for the 1990 campaign," he said. "Hopefully, next year's leaders will be blessed with the name high caliber of volunteer cadre to tap an ever larger pool of contributors."

Funds raised will be distributed to 36 United Way of Washington County affiliated agencies in 1990.

County Board of Realtors Raise $713 For Friends of Abused Families

The Washington Board of Realtors has once again joined together to help those in need. Seven Hundred and Thirteen dollars was raised for Friends of Abused Families.

The money was raised thru a silent auction conducted at the Washington Board of Realtors Annual Christmas party. Items for the silent auction were donated by members of the Washington Board of Realtors and their Affiliates.

"Thanks to all who contributed" said Pam Ehlke of Lakeland Title. Money raised was donated to the Friends of Abused Families and went towards the purchase of Christmas gifts.

The Friends of Abused Families had a Christmas tree in the Paradise Mall with names of those in need. Those names that had not been picked from the tree received gifts.

KHS Graduate Barb Thill is Advisor to Award Winning School Paper, Yearbook

Members of Hononegah High School's publications staffs have been enjoying the fruits of their labors. Hononegah's yearbook, the Mack, and its newspaper, The Indian Today, have both received top ratings from national and regional press associations. Both publications are advised by Barb Thill, a 1977 Kewaskum High School graduate.

"Rumor Has it," the 1989 edition of the Mack received a Medalist rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association (CSPA). Medalist ratings are granted to yearbooks selected from First Place ratings for special qualities evident to the judge. CSPA characterizes these qualities as the personality spirit, or creative excellence of the particular entry. Approximately 50 yearbooks nationwide receive the Medalist rating each year.

The Mack was judged against similar schools with enrollments over 1,000. In the area of design, the '89 Mack received an All-Columbian award for scoring 191 out of a possible 200 points.

The '89 Mack also received a First place rating from the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA) with a Mark of Distinction for Copy. And, in regional competition, the Mack received an All-KEMPA, the highest rating awarded by the Kettle Moraine Press Association.

The Indian Today, a monthly newspaper begun by Thill in 1988 also received a First Place rating from NSPA.

The Mack was edited by Ann Maxwell and Nikki Rhodes and Emily Minogue edited The Indian Today.

Thill has taught journalism and social studies at Hononegah High School since 1986. She also serves on the Board of Directors of the Kettle Moraine Press Association and the Northern Illinois Scholastic Press Association and is an instructor at summer journalism workshops. Hononegah is located in Rockton, Illinois.

Governor Thompson Announces Grant Program for Homeless

MADISON — Governor Tommy G. Thompson has announced a new effort to address the growing concern of homelessness in Wisconsin.

At a meeting of state homeless program coordinators, the Governor announced the availability of $200,000 in grants for organizations serving homeless or potentially homeless persons.

"Although Wisconsin's economy is strong and most of our citizens have decent homes, the fact remains that there are still people living in shelters or on the streets. The actions we're taking today will help those people find a place to live by providing money to strengthen and expand local housing organizations."

These housing grants are the first phase of the Local Housing Organization Grant Program which is administered by the state's newly created Division of Housing.

Local organizations can apply for up to $10,000 to help pay for salaries and other administrative costs related to providing long-term housing opportunities for the homeless.

The second phase of the program, scheduled to begin early next year, will provide $600,000 in grants to groups that offer housing to low and moderate income persons.

Both phases offer competitive grants which must be matched by cash or in-kind donations from local organizations.

Governor Thompson said money for staffing and administration is often ignored with housing grant programs. "Local housing groups are often overworked and understaffed. These grants will give them the ability to devote more of their time on developing housing opportunities for those in need."

This grant program is the first initiative by the Division of Housing. The goal of the division is to provide and promote affordable housing opportunities for low and moderate income state residents.

"The Housing Division is moving rapidly in addressing Wisconsin's housing needs," Governor Thompson said. "It has been in operation for only about a month and already this grant program is underway. I am confident that this quick and efficient action will continue."

Information about the Local Housing Organization Grant Program is available by contacting the Wisconsin Division of Housing, 101 S. Webster St., 7th floor, P.O. Box 7864, Madison, WI 53707-7864, 608/266-0288.

Property Tax Payment Date Moved Up

Property owners who pay their 1989 real property taxes in one payment will have to pay by January 31, 1990, if they don't want to be delinquent, according to the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance (WTA), Madison.

The WTA, a nonprofit government-research and citizen-education organization, said the change to the January 31, date from the last day in February payment date was one of several revisions in property tax collection laws enacted by the 1987 legislature.

Also due not later than January 31 are the full amount of personal property taxes, special assessments and special taxes, such as forest crop and managed forest taxes. This date is also one month earlier than before, the WTA noted.

The WTA said that for real property taxes, the standard 2-payment installment due dates of January 31 to the local treasurer and July 31 to the county treasurer will continue. However, a widely used municipal option of extending the first payment to no later than the last day of February is no longer permitted. Persons should be aware that any first installment payment after January 31 will be delinquent, the WTA warned.

As an alternative to the general 2-payment plan, municipalities may enact a multiple-payment schedule consisting of 3 or more installments. In 1989, however, only 40 communities, or 2% of the towns, villages and cities in the state, used a multiple-installment plan. The city of Milwaukee has its own schedule for paying taxes in installments.

The property tax revision law also covers procedures for treasurers to pay over collections to school districts and other taxing jurisdictions for which they collect taxes. In some cases, the treasurer also has to pay them for delinquent taxes even though the money has not yet been received.

The WTA noted that 2 counties now collect all taxes for one or more municipalities. Portage county will be collecting taxes for 5 towns and 5 villages, while Dane county will collect taxes for the city of Fitchburg.

For a free copy of the report on property tax collections, write the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance, 335 West Wilson Street, Madison 53703-3694.

Reconstruction of Bridge Approved in Town of Jackson

Governor Tommy Thompson has approved a $128,000 contract for the reconstruction of two bridges at Cedar Creek Crossing in the Town of Jackson in Washington County.

The contract, awarded to Zenith Tech, Inc., of Waukesha, provides for the replacement and widening of both bridge structures at the crossing.

"With increased capacity, these new bridges will provide safer and more convenient travel for this community," said Harvey Shebesta, director of the Wisconsin Department of Transportation's southeastern Wisconsin district, which includes Washington County.

The Wisconsin Department of Transportation will provide 80 percent of the funds for this project and 20 percent will be provided by the Town of Jackson.

Construction is scheduled to begin in April 1990 and is expected to be completed in June. The bridge will be closed during construction and a detour will be provided.

St. Lukes is One of Five Centers in the Country to Offer New Cancer Treatment

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 14, 1989 — A new cancer treatment for patients with melanoma and kidney cancer is now available at St. Luke's Medical Center in Milwaukee. St. Luke's is one of only five centers nationwide to offer the tumor-infiltrating lymphocyte (TIL) treatment, a new form of immunotherapy.

"Initial research in the National Cancer Institute laboratories shows that TIL cells are 50 to 100 times more potent in cancer killing than the LAK (lymphokine activated killer) cells we use in other treatments, and TIL cells home like homing pigeons to the patient's tumor," explains John P. Hanson, M.D., principal investigator in immunotherapy at St. Luke's.

"Furthermore," Hanson stresses, "the NCI data shows that for patients with melanoma or kidney cancer whose tumors are accessible and can be treated with TIL cells, 50 percent of the patients have a lasting response to TIL therapy." For patients who cannot be treated with TIL cells, LAK therapy offers a 30 percent chance of response.

Immunotherapies are cancer treatments that use the body's own immune system, boosted by promising drugs such as interleukin-2 (IL-2) and interferon, to fight disease. In TIL therapy, cancer fighting cells are taken directly from a patient's tumor. These cells are then incubated for several weeks in laboratory cultures containing IL-2, where they multiply up to 100,000 fold. Once the TIL cells have multiplied, they are re-infused into the patient to kill cancer cells.

Robert Petit, Ph.D., research immunologist and director of St. Luke's Immunotherapy Laboratory, explains: "This newly formed army of cancer fighting cells seeks out and does battle with the patient's remaining cancer and can cause the rapid and dramatic elimination of tumors throughout the patient's body. It's ironic that TIL cells, found within and developed from part of the tumor itself, may be the most powerful weapon available today for treating some particularly resistant forms of cancer."

St. Luke's received Food and Drug Administration approval to offer TIL to patients on Nov. 17, and the laboratory currently is growing TIL cells for three patients. A $125,000 gift from Security Savings and Loan Association helped fund the research necessary to bring TIL therapy to St. Luke's.

The four additional U.S. sites to offer TIL therapy include the National Cancer Institute, University of California at Los Angeles Medical Center, Cleveland Clinic Hospital and M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Texas.

For more information regarding TIL and the immunotherapy program at St. Luke's Medical Center, call the Vince Lombardi Cancer Hotline at 649-7200 or 1-800-252-2990.

Glacier Edge Roundtables Planned

Glacier Edge District 11, Bay-Lakes Council of the Boy Scouts of America, will conduct roundtables for adult cub scout pack and boy scout troop personnel, Thursday, Jan. 4, at 7:30 p.m., at John Long Middle School, corner of Fifth and Hickory Streets, Grafton.

The fun and pagentry of Mardi Gras will be experienced by cub leaders in the all-purpose room as Charlotte Bigelow, Tricia Clark, Marilyn Haug, Agnes Knapp, George Krueger, Robin Kuzel, Ron Roecker, Rosie Van Dyck and Carol Winget begin the parade.

The February theme will also include an anniversary Blue & Gold Banquet, complete with table decorations. Den and Webelos leaders will prepare den projects, while cubmasters, committee chairmen, den leader coaches and other committee members learn how to plan their banquet and prepare an agenda. Participants will engage in games of skill following the joint sessions.

Boy scout leaders and troop committee members will meet in the school library under the direction of roundtable commissioner, Birger Gabrielson. Ed Farrell and Harold Wolk will present a program on "High Adventure," which includes Council Camp Gardner Dam, National Philmont Ranch in New Mexico and the Florida Sea Base. Essentials of long-range planning will be detailed.

Klondike derby chairman, Clint Miles, will discuss the revised requirements and activities for the February 10 outdoor event.

Ryan Cronwell, chapter chief of the Order of the Arrow of the Awase Lodge, will meet with OA members in room B-16 of the school.

New Year's At Grandfather's

They were on their way to Grandfather's farm, lost in a New Year's Eve snowstorm:

"Oh, look, Hector! There's a chicken, so we must be near the farm!"

"A chicken? That's the weathercock on the township's schoolhouse!"

Use of Designated Drivers Urged This New Year's Eve

Should old acquaintances drink this New Year's Eve, urge them to use a designated driver, advises the Department of Transportation.

The designated driver — a driver who does not drink alcohol — will be a safety device for many partygoers this year.

"New Year's Eve is traditionally a night of celebrating," said Mila Plosky, director of the DOT's Office of Transportation Safety. "We're encouraging designated drivers for people who will be drinking because we don't want the evening to be marred by the tragedies that come with drinking and driving."

The penalties of drinking and driving are stiffer with the administrative suspension law, a tough new statute which clamps down on drunk drivers. "Administrative suspension means that if you're stopped for drunk driving and test over .10% BAC (blood alcohol concentration), your license will be taken on the spot. After 30 days your driver's license will be suspended for six months," explained Plosky.

Plosky also recommends that drinkers use mass transit if it's available. Madison and Milwaukee will offer free transit rides New Year's Eve.

If attending a party, Plosky says, "Know your limit and carefully measure all drinks so you know exactly how much you're consuming. Avoid carbonated mixers because they speed alcohol absorption. Try water or fruit juices instead."

Eat while you drink. "Nutritious and appealing food slows down the effect of alcohol," explained Plosky. When dining out, have your drinks with dinner, not afterwards."

When entertaining, assume responsibility for your guests. Serve high protein foods like cheese or cold cuts instead of salty snacks. Set a "bar time" and end the evening with coffee or other non-alcoholic beverages. "If guests drink too much, offer them a ride with a designated driver, call a cab or have them spend the night," added Plosky. "Good friends take care of each other."

Plosky reminded drivers to buckle up on the way home. "Using safety belts is your best defense against a drunk driver," she said. "You can double your chances of surviving or escaping serious injury in a crash just by taking a few seconds to buckle up."

GOOD NEWS FROM UNITED WAY

This is a part of a continuing series of United Way-funded agencies in Washington County.

A volunteer with the Full Shelf Food Pantry in West Bend recently shared this experience:

I said, "Soup? Do the boys like soup?" He said, "They eat everything. Seems like they're hungry all the time." I said, "Spaghetti or macaroni?" He said, "Spaghetti. We get to laughing when they slurp one of the really long pieces." I said, "Cereal? Dry Milk? Peaches? Crackers? Toilet paper? Canned vegetables? Frozen liver? Bread?" He said, "Yes, thank you" for each item offered.

After he carried the boxes to his truck, he came back, shook my hand and said, "How can I ever thank you enough?" Then he quickly kissed my cheek. I said nothing. No words could pass the lump in my throat.

I'll keep the kiss. That is mine. But the thanks go to you for your continued support of the Full Shelf Food Pantry.

In early November, the Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse hosted a training for seven new B.A.B.E.S. presenters. B.A.B.E.S. stands for Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies, and is a program for students in primary grades. The seven lesson curriculum deals with self-image and feelings, peer pressure and decision making, coping skills, alcohol and other drug information, and getting help. The program was developed by the National Council on Alcoholism, and is being presented to students throughout Washington County.

The Volunteer Center matches people who would like to share their time and talent with needs in the community. This fall, a number of volunteers have been placed. These include a high school student who needed hours of volunteer work for a class credit; a woman who likes to do crafts and wants to help with the craft program in a nursing home; and a recently retired man, new to the community, who is a volunteer driver for patients needing medical treatments in West Bend and Milwaukee.

The goal of the Respite Care Program offered by Lutheran Social Services is to provide quality care for a developmentally disabled child while the parents take a break from caregiving responsibilities. Thanks to financial support from United Way, 68 families have utilized Respite Care this year.

One goal of the co-dependency program at DePaul Clinic in Hartford is to provide understanding and support for family members of dysfunctional families, and this in turn helps the entire family to recover.

Your support of United Way through payroll deductions, pledges or outright gifts makes these and many other services available throughout Washington County. Thanks to you, the United Way works for all of us.

Federal Tax Forms Being Mailed

Coming soon to a mailbox near you. Your 1989 federal tax forms. Although the 1989 forms look a lot like the 1988's, the Internal Revenue Service says there are some changes that affect many people.

You must enter on your return the social security number of each person age two or over whom you claim as a dependent. If you claim the credit for child and dependent care expenses or dependent care benefits provided by your employer, you must report the care provider's name and address and, unless it is a tax-exempt organization, the provider's social security number or employer identification number.

Reimbursed employee work expenses can no longer be claimed on the front of the 1040 form. Most employee business expenses can only be claimed as miscellaneous itemized deductions on Schedule A. Because none of the much-discussed proposals to reduce the tax on capital gains were adopted, this year's Schedule D for reporting capital gains and losses is similar to last year's. A new form, Schedule D-1, is now available for people who need more room to report sales of stock and other capital assets.

The IRS says people who are eligible for medicare benefits can ignore references to the Supplemental Medicare premium on Line 23 of Form 1040 or Line 54 of Form 1040. This tax-based catastrophic health insurance premium which would have applied to many higher-income senior citizens and disabled persons was repealed by Congress in late November after the forms went to press.

You may need or want to fill out forms not included in your pre-addressed tax package. The IRS encourages you to order these forms early using the order blank in your tax package. Also available are more than 100 free publications covering topics ranging from interest expense to IRA's.

Sheriff Warns Parents About Scare Sheet

Sheriff Robert H. Schulteis wishes to assure parents that a sheet being posted on bulletin boards and passed to children at some schools contains unwarranted statements.

The sheet, which makes an appearance every few years and is from an unknown source, claims that children are being victimized by persons who want them to start taking LSD, a dangerous hallucinogen drug.

The sheet explains that LSD is sometimes ingested by placing small pieces of paper in the mouth. These papers, which are less than 1/4" in diameter, are impregnated with LSD. The papers often have cartoon characters or designs printed on them.

Sheriff Schulteis explains that it is true that LSD users do ingest the drug, as well as sell it, in this form. But the sheet scares parents by implying that drug dealers will give the papers to kids to "cultivate new customers." There is no evidence of any kind that this has ever happened, and no reason why it would. "A drug dealer would have no reason to do this, and everything to lose," the sheriff stated.

The sheriff's department has not been able to locate any type of incident of this kind.

"We wish that people would talk to us about these things before posting these sheets. We would be the first ones to spread the word about a danger to children, but this sheet creates a false hysteria. It is totally unjustified," the sheriff stated, adding that he has worked in drug enforcement for most of his career at the sheriff's department.

"There are so many real threats to our children, not the least of which is parents who don't make sure their children are belted-in their cars, that it is unfortunate that a scare-sheet occupies so much concern," he said.

SHEEPSHEAD WINNER'S

Sheepshead winner's on Wednesday, Dec. 20th were: Faye Keller, 50-8-42, 21-5-16; Arnold Hawig, 28-2-26, 13-1-12.

Arthritis Foundation Offers Booklet On 'Coping With Pain'

Learning to live with chronic pain may be the most challenging aspect of having arthritis, reports the Arthritis Foundation, Wisconsin Chapter.

"Everyone reacts to pain differently," said Jeri Danz, Program Consultant of the Wisconsin Chapter. "Pain is physical, but it is also effected by psychological factors. The up-and-down nature of arthritis can leave people feeling depressed and helpless, taking away the energy needed to cope with pain. It's possible to be caught in a vicious cycle of pain, depression and stress that is hard to break."

The Foundation points out that the way people manage pain can have a big affect on how they feel. Having arthritis and the pain that goes with it can lead to a life built around pain and sickness. Or, you "change gears" and build your life around wellness instead. A "wellness lifestyle" involves eating a balanced diet, getting daily exercise and enjoying some kind of social activities. It also includes learning how to relax and maintaining the proper weight.

"The first step in learning to handle pain is to believe you can help yourself, and then to take steps toward accomplishing this goal," Danz said. "Arthritis may limit you, but it doesn't need to control your life."

The stress from having a chronic disease, combined with other factors in your life, can trigger flare-ups of arthritis. These in turn cause more pain. Learning relaxation techniques can help reverse the affects of stress and give you a sense of control and well-being. Deep breathing, muscle relaxation and biofeedback are some of the more popular relaxation techniques. A doctor or physical therapist can suggest which would be best for you.

The Arthritis Foundation offers a booklet entitled "Coping with Pain," which provides in-depth advice and tips on learning to live with chronic pain. For more information on arthritis contact the Arthritis Foundation, Wisconsin Chapter at (414) 321-3933 or 1-800-242-9945.

Proper Lighting Helps Aging Eye See Better for Longer

The aging of the human eye is a process that begins at birth and continues until death, but at about age 40, many people are forced to admit their eyesight is deteriorating.

There's nothing we can do to slow down this lifelong process, says Mary Ann Baird, associate dean and head of the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point's Division of Fashion and Interior Design. However, her prescription to help the aging eye see better longer is the use of proper lighting in our homes and workplaces.

As the eye continues to change throughout a lifetime, adaptation from one light level to another takes longer and the range of sensitivity drastically diminishes the ability to see at low levels, according to the professor. Some researchers estimate that a 60-year-old needs up to 10 times as much light as a 20-year-old to perform the same task.

Also, as the lens becomes less flexible, the liquid entering the older eye becomes more filtered, she likens these changes to pulling a blind over a window. Often, at the beginning of their fourth decade, people are shocked to find they need to start wearing glasses or that they must make the transition from regular glasses to bifocals. Also, according to Baird, the older eye has greater difficulty with accomodating focus on objects both close and far away.

However, lighting can have a significant impact upon how well we see things, and the interior design specialist has some hints about good lighting, especially for people who don't view the world as clearly as they used to.

The aging eye is caught in a double bind, Baird says. More light is needed to achieve good sight, but glare becomes less tolerable and more offensive. Older people need direct light on whatever task is at hand, but devices such as shades, baffles and recessing can be used to help reduce glare.

For instance, in Baird's offices, parabolic wedge louvres have been installed over all the fluorescent lights. The louvres direct the light down on desks and table tops, but also diffuse the light out of the range of a 45-degree angle which creates offensive glare. Especially with the proliferation of video display terminals in offices, she believes it is important to use diffused light in order to enhance vision and avoid eye fatigue.

Indirect methods, such as cove, cornice and soffit lighting, which bounce the rays off ceilings then direct them back down, also cut down on glare, according to the professor.

For reading, the older eye needs increased light shining directly on the materials, but the light should come over the shoulder to keep one's eyes out of the glare zone, Baird says. Floor and table lamps are suitable for reading, but the shade should be at eye level or slightly below so the person cannot see the light source. A high wattage ordinary light bulb with an appropriate shade is sufficient — a special reading bulb is not necessary, she says.

The worst thing for any eye, especially the over-40 one, is to read under an intense light in a dark room, Baird contends. Looking into the darkness than back to the lighted area is like going out into the bright sunlight from a dark movie theatre. Adjusting from dark to light can cause strain, especially for the older eye which takes longer to fully adapt — more than 20 minutes, in fact.

For all lighting, reflection is good, but glare is bad, Baird emphasizes. For the aging eye, reflective properties of surfaces are significant. Desk and table tops should not be shiny, creating reflected glare, she says. Bright, shiny surfaces such as car chassis are considered valuable in our society, but are actually offensive to the eye. Dark colors are not good for desk tops either — they absorb rays, so light is reduced.

In particular, she says, the mature eye craves contrast in its environment. It likes variety, not even illumination. It sees shapes and forms, but cannot discern details, which can have an effect on both efficiency and safety, she continues. Panels such as range and television controls are often poorly designed with little thought for the sight needs of consumers, she says.

She recommends, for safety's sake, if you have steps between rooms in your house, the area should be well-lit and the flooring in the separate rooms should be distinctly different colors, or the wall color should contrast with the floor, thus revealing a change in elevation. The older eye cannot see those steps if the illumination and the flooring colors are uniform, the professor says.

In terms of aesthetics and utility, bathrooms often get poor grades, according to Baird. In the bathroom mirror, you want to illuminate the face, so lights should be slightly to the front and to the side of the head. The old haloed mirrors in theatre dressing rooms were designed to do this efficiently. Also, color of light makes a big difference in how we look, she says. Cool fluorescent bulbs, which are found in about 80 percent of public buildings, emit more blue rays of the spectrum. For a rosier, healthier (maybe even more youthful) looking complexion, warm white tubes, which have more red, orange and yellow tones, may be installed, she continues.

Also, using lighting as a design element can add interest, excitement and variety to our lives. Vary the levels of lighting in your rooms — don't flood areas with the same amount of light, Baird says. Darkness and highly lit areas may be used to emphasize art, floral arrangements or other object of interest. She believes lighting can help create an image, a mood or a feeling in a home.

In illuminating our spaces, an important thing to remember, according to Baird, is that the aging eye is not unique to age 65 — changes occur gradually over many years, and the way we light our homes and offices can have significant impact upon every persons quality of life.

Christmas Decorating Contest Prize Winners Announced

Lights went on all over Kewaskum on Monday, December 18, as members of the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce who served as the judges, went out about the task of deciding the winners of this year's annual Christmas Home Decorating Contest. The decisions were extremely difficult as the residents of Kewaskum really outdid themselves, with one home more outstanding than the next.

The community can again be proud of the beautiful decorations and all the effort it took to erect such exciting displays. Thousands and thousands of lights flickered as the judges groaned with the weight of their decision, changing their mind with every new decoration they came upon.

But eventually, some had to be eliminated and some had to be chosen best. This year the Chamber of Commerce even added four honorable mentions to the monetary prizes, but the judges could not even narrow the decisions down to seven, and thus added a "special mention" category to those homes which just could not be overlooked.

The decisions of the judges were based on uniqueness, overall appearance, balance, continuity, color and light. Winners will receive their prizes in the mail. Monetary prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place and for four honorable mentions.

To end the suspense... first prize was awarded to Daniel Braun at 364 Main Street. Second prize went to the John Gitters at 550 Werner Drive. Third prize goes to the Arnie Stommel family at 1415 Roseland Drive. Honorable Mentions were awarded to the Ken Ericksons at 556 Werner Drive; the Jim Heisdorfs at 1011 Milan Drive; the Norman Kempfs at 535 Werner Drive and the Drs. Sison on the western end of Forest Avenue. Judges "special mentions" go out to the Jim Schaub's at 1175 Park View Drive; the Gerald Stollenwerks at 375 North Avenue and the Thomas Tromps at 1690 Riverview Drive. Winner of the business decorations was Hon-E-Kor Country Club at the south end of Riverview Drive.

The most decorations had to be found on Werner Drive with Edgewood close behind. When making your tour, don't forget to include the homes in the Bel Ric subdivision, where there were some beautiful decorations with every street decorated to the nines.

The Statesman wishes to apologize for not announcing the winners in last week's issue, but due to the extreme cold weather, it was virtually impossible to get photos of the winners. Please bear in mind, the photos in no way do justice to the gorgeous displays. Some were taken during the day, therefore you are not able to see the incredible lights. Some were taken during the evening and the darker colored lights will not show up on a black and white photo.

Our apologies also go out to the Jim Heisdorf family, who won an honorable mention. We have no photo of their display, but there is no photo which could do their decorations justice. Their entire home, front and back, was decorated in red lights. These lights would not show up during the day and in a black and white photo at night, the red lights would show up black. You have to see their home for yourself! So please, do yourself a favor... pack up your kids and go for drive through Kewaskum to see this fantastic display of color and light. You won't be disappointed. (Keep your lights on Kewaskum!)

First Place — Daniel Braun, corner of Main and Riverview. These handmade decorations were a feast to the eyes of little children, who delighted in seeing Santa and all his elves brightly lit every night.

Honorable Mention — the Ken Erickson's home had a large Santa, his sled and reindeer. There were also numerous lights around the house and a beautiful three dimensional type tree in lights next to the home.

Second Place — the John Gitter's large lighted JOY on the roof of their home situated on a hill could be seen from almost a mile away. The Gitters also had a beautiful lighted cross and the prettiest rock in town, not to mention their other decorations.

Honorable Mention — This evening photo of the Drs. Sison home shows a partial view of the way the home was bathed in white lights. The Sisons also had two large deer which were strung with white lights on the front lawn.

Third Place — the Arnie Stommel home had a huge "Frosty," gift-wrapped packages and a gorgeous display of multi-colored lights everywhere, with not one light out of place. This photo was taken at night and does not show the beauty of their lights.

Honorable Mention — the Norman Kempf home again had unique decorations. Shown in the photo is Santa in his sleigh with the reindeer and various other decorations, but not shown is a large sign the Kempfs made which spelled "Merry Xmas" in multi-colored lights.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to Editor:

November 29, 1989

The Threshold, Inc. is a private non-profit agency which provides habilitation and rehabilitation services to children and adults with a disability. The goal of The Threshold, Inc. is the developmental, vocational, educational and social growth of each person served.

In 1963, The Threshold started with six persons with disabilities on a part time sheltered workshop. Increased need for service and strong community commitment have expanded facilities and programs into the organization of today serving more than 250 persons with disabilities each day.

There are services and programs for children and adults ranging from support to the families and/or individuals to employment in the community.

With personal interest, a member of the Developmental Disability Task Force and an officer of the Opportunity League of Washington County, I took the opportunity to tour The Threshold, Inc. recently. I was impressed and overwhelmed with the information.

As a member of the Developmental Disability Task Force, I represent all persons with all disabilities. The Task Force is a subcommittee of the Comprehensive Community Services Agency (CCSA). CCSA emphasizes community based services for persons with disabilities and is responsible for the development and maintenance of a system of comprehensive services in the fields of alcohol and other drug abuse (AODA), developmental disabilities (DD) and mental health (MH). At the DD Task Force meetings, we have input on services and programs funded at The Threshold, Inc. by CCSA. They are Early Intervention Program, Work Related Services, Adult Day Services Special Services and Employment Services.

The Early Intervention Program serves children from birth to three years. The program can be in the home or at Threshold. The services provided include support to the families, education, speech, occupational and physical therapies and emphasis is placed on motor, self-help, behavior and communication skills.

Individuals are placed on Real Jobs to learn work skills and behaviors in a structured environment. The food service, custodial, outdoor maintenance and shipping and receiving area training programs to prepare people for specific careers. They do quality subcontract work for many area companies with 250 full and part time workers supervised by training instructors who ensure quality job standards while teaching good habits. Also included in the Adult Program are Basic Living Skills, Remedial Education and Recreation and Leisure. All plans emphasize Work.

Adult Day Services served 26 persons with severe physical and/or mental disabilities offering training in self-care skills, social skills, leisure activities, community orientation and prevocational skills. They have 8 staff to focus on each person's specialized needs - independence, therapies, basic educational skills, exercise and music.

Special Services serves persons with traumatic brain injury and those with severe physical disabilities, providing a rehabilitation program designed specifically to meet their needs with emphasis on therapy, education and work.

Employment Services and Supported Employment are an important part of The Threshold Inc. to make persons with a range of disabilities able to become valued employees. Threshold provide competitive, temporary and creative employment with job training, placement, job coaching and other support services to the employer and new employee to assure a smooth transition and quality match.

Local businesses have been very willing with employing persons with disabilities in their companies. If the person is capable of job duties, why not?

The Threshold, Inc. did $750,000.00 in subcontract work for 40 companies in 1988. They were 75 companies in Washington County that employed persons with disabilities in 1988. The Threshold, Inc. is funded by United Way, individuals and businesses. In 1981, 85% of the funding was from the government. Today, it is 50% and the rest is raised. They have fund raising events throughout the year.

I, personally, am very interested in advocating for the rights and responsibilities of all persons with all disabilities to make our lives as normal as possible. There are jobs out there for everyone and anyone. The Threshold, Inc. staff is doing a great job of making our dreams come true - independence, belonging to the community and supporting us.

Sincerely yours,
Judith A. Behlen

Dear Editor:

As the old year winds down, we at Citizen Advocacy of Washington County, Inc. would like to thank those who helped us help others in 1989.

We deeply appreciate volunteer advocates and the persons with disabilities who created so many meaningful one-to-one relationships. Those who believe people with disabilities to be the only beneficiaries should talk to a volunteer Citizen Advocate.

Special thanks also go to the Citizen Advocacy board, United Way and the many civic clubs, churches, foundations, businesses and individuals who made it possible for us to truly include people with disabilities in our communities.

Typical of the generosity are the Fifth Avenue United Methodist Church; Karen Wysocky and the West Bend High School Swing Choir; Benidt Foods; Hankerson's Country Oven Bakery; Kohl's Food Store; Piggly Wiggly

Cedar Lake Home's Tri-Campus... Growing to Meet the Community's Needs

In the over thirty years since its original planning and actual construction, the Cedar Lake Home has grown, beyond anything that could have been imagined by a bachelor farmer who donated the initial tract of land which was to become the site and the start of Cedar Lake's dedication to the community.

At that time, Rev. L.C. Riesch, now Executive Director of the Cedar Lake Home Campus Foundation Board of Directors, was entrusted with the responsibility of putting that Town of West Bend land to use, serving both the physical and spiritual needs of the community.

The Cedar Lake Campus, located at 5595 Hwy. Z, West Bend, has grown and become nationally known for its unique features of providing both skilled care and independent living in a setting and atmosphere which blends the needs of its residents with the natural beauty of the surrounding.

This facility is now made up of four villages consisting of 85 individual homes for retirees who still seek independence, yet know services to meet all their needs are close at hand.

Also located on the grounds are Fellowship House, Friendship House and the Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Agency.

Fellowship House, now undergoing a $14 million remodeling program which will nearly double its existing size from 122,000 to 307,000 square feet, is a nursing home which offers both independent living in a community setting along with skilled nursing care.

Friendship House, North America's first facility especially built for the skilled care of those afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease and related disorders, is nestled among the hills and woods of the campus.

Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Center offers outpatient therapy services to everyone throughout the community as well as neighboring communities. From the very youngest individual to the most elderly, all can avail themselves of the services.

Seeing the need to grow and meet still more needs of the community, the Cedar Lake Benevolent Corporation, a non-profit organization, created Cedar Valley Retreat Campus. Located in the Town of Wayne, Cedar Valley is a non-denominational retreat campus nestled in the Kettle Moraine countryside. It is available to everyone, offering educational, recreational and spiritual facilities, with excellent accommodations for overnight stays including a dining room, kitchen, library and meeting rooms. Arrangements can be made to provide meals.

Both individuals and groups can use the facility for an evening or weekend getaway or to have meetings in a relaxed atmosphere away from the pressures of everyday life.

Cedar Valley is made up of 99 acres of wooded hills, fields, ponds and wildlife. Visitors can go swimming, walking and jog or bicycle on a half-mile track. Cedar Valley is also the site of the completely restored Log House, which can be used by individuals, families or small groups.

Cedar Ridge Retirement Center, the third segment of the Tri-Campus, is the latest addition to the Cedar Lake family. Located on 50 acres of scenic land within the City of West Bend, it is truly a city within itself.

Besides the 312 fully equipped one and two bedroom apartments, the complex contains everything to meet the tenant's needs without having to leave the building. Cedar Ridge contains a library, greenhouse, dining room/restaurant where guests can be entertained, recreation area which accommodates every craft and hobby from sewing to chair caning, exercise areas with a swimming pool and whirlpool, as well as a grocery store, beauty parlor and barber shop.

Located next to a county park, Cedar Ridge has ample room for personal gardening, nature trails and walks.

Cedar Lake has strived to not only maintain the scenic natural beauty of the land its facilities occupy, but add to it by planting more trees, flowers and plants native to the area.

At all its retirement facilities the Cedar Lake Home Corporation stresses the importance of remaining active and participating in life. No matter how limited an individual may be, there are always programs and activities to fit their capabilities.

Information and/or brochures on any of the facilities can be obtained by contacting the Cedar Lake Home Campus, 5595 Hwy. Z, West Bend, Wisconsin, 53095, phone 414-334-9487 or Milwaukee, 276-4370.

Two young men were killed and a third passenger in the same car was critically injured in an automobile accident north of Kewaskum last Sunday, the day before Christmas. Lester Joseph Corbett, 25, of this village and William Berkevich, 23, of near Adell and Chicago, lost their lives in the crash and Raymond Pranskunas, 16, of near Dundee was critically injured. The crash occurred on Hwy. 67, near Dundee between 12:30 and 1:00 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 24. Berkevich, a brother-in-law of Pranskunas and his family, along with Corbett, were spending the holidays at the Pranskunas home. They were on their way to Dundee with Berkevich driving the car. Berkevich, it is believed, lost control of the car which skidded into a ditch, struck a concrete culvert, bounced into the air and landed in a field. Corbett was thrown out of the car and found about 100 feet from the auto. The car was completely wrecked and came to a stop on its top.

Mrs. William Bartelt, Sr., mother of Wm. Bartelt, Jr. of this village, passed away on Saturday, Dec. 23, at her home in Kohlsville. Death was caused by a complication of diseases that old age produces.

Mrs. Ella Wright, 57, a former resident of Kewaskum and sister of Mrs. Louis Brandt of this village, passed away Friday, Dec. 22, at her home in Milwaukee after a week's illness. Death was attributed to heart trouble.

John Schlosser of this village, who is employed by the Mid-West States Telephone Company here has been promoted to a higher position by the company and will be transferred to Richmond, Ill.

Another local young man, Myron Belger, who was also employed by Mid-West Telephone Co. has secured a position as meat cutter in Waukehsa and left for that position last week.

Donald Uelmen of Campbellsport is spending the week with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Meyer and family, New Prospect.

was summoned at once and did everything possible to alleviate the sufferings of the unfortunate young man.

Last Saturday, Henry Garbisch of this village purchased the large ice house and business of Frank Bossman of Horicon. Mr. Garbisch will take possession of the new business immediately. He intends disposing of his interests here as soon as possible. His family will remain here until April. We regret to see him leave, but wish him and his family all the prosperity that may be theirs in their newly chosen field.

No poison was contained in the stomach of Miss Nettie Schiltz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Schiltz, Town of Scott, who died under peculiar circumstances on Nov. 10, according to a letter received from Victor Lenhar, head professor of chemistry of the University of Wisconsin. The letter clears up the mystery which surrounded the death of the 16-year-old school girl and eliminates the rumor which spread following her sudden demise. Although attending physicians had pronounced the death due to blood-poisoning, the statement of the professor clears all doubts.

Edmund Kletti of Schlei-singerville, had a close call from being killed last week while oiling the shafting in the blacksmith shop of his brother, Fred Kletti in that village. His clothes got caught in a revolving shaft, but by bracing himself against a joist, managed to save himself from being seriously, if not fatally injured. Before the machine could be stopped most of the clothes were torn from his body. He suffered a fracture of the right leg below the knee and a contusion of the left leg.

Easy Home Urine Test Can Detect Bladder, Kidney Disorders Early

Madison, Wis. — An easy home urine test can detect serious bladder and kidney disorders at their early, most curable stages, according to a preliminary study at the University of Wisconsin Clinical Cancer Center (UWCC).

The test uses specially treated strips of paper to detect minute amounts of blood in urine — often an early warning sign of disease, which claims 20,000 lives annually in the United States, most of them men over age 50.

"Traces of blood may be present in urine long before any symptoms of disease appear," says study director Dr. Edward Messing, UW Medical School associate professor of surgery and human oncology. "For example, if caught early enough, bladder cancer is easy to treat. But once the tumor invades deeply into the bladder, it's fatal more than 50 percent of the time despite aggressive therapy including surgery, radiation and chemotherapy."

Messing says he hopes that widespread use of the strips may lead more people at risk to consult a physician earlier. The American Cancer Society estimates that 68,900 cases of bladder and kidney cancer will occur nationally this year.

The pilot study, conducted from 1986 to 1987, involved 235 male subjects at UW Hospital and Clinics. A large study, ultimately involving 4,000 Wisconsin men enrolled in several major south central Wisconsin health care providers and their affiliates, has just begun.

Of the 235 who participated in the initial study, 31 detected blood in their urine using the urinary "dipsticks" and agreed to a complete urologic exam. Fifteen were found to have serious disease that required immediate attention.

"Eight of the men with serious problems had cancers—three in their kidney and five in their bladder," says Messing. "None of them had a clue that anything was wrong."

Men over 50 were solicited for the study because these tumors are rare in younger individuals and are three times more likely to develop in men than women. Participants had no history of blood in their urine—known as "hematuria"—or other symptoms of urinary disease.

The participants were instructed to test their urine once each week for 12 months using the strips, which change color even when microscopic amounts of blood are present.

"The amount of blood in the urine has little to do with the severity of the underlying disorder," says Messing. "A condition that is not serious may bleed noticeably, while even a large tumor may produce blood only detectable with a microscope."

Furthermore, hematuria occurs intermittently, explaining the need for repeated testing. It's possible that a single urinalysis performed during an annual checkup may fail to reveal hematuria and thus overlook a serious urologic disorder such as cancer.

"Testing urine with the strips repeatedly at home may catch infrequent bleeding and detect a potentially serious problem early," he adds. The men in the study reported the strips were convenient and easy to use. They are also inexpensive. A urinalysis done at a hospital or clinic costs between $10 and $15, while a year's supply of strips — available by prescription — costs about $8.

While laboratory tests have proven the strips as accurate as urinalysis in detecting hematuria, Messing said there is ample evidence that they are reliable when used in the home as well. The follow-up study will further evaluate the test's ability to identify early urologic disease as well as analyze costs involved in performing a urologic examination on all participants who test positive for hematuria.

"Unfortunately, more than half of those with potentially life-threatening urinary tract tumors are seeing their doctor after the tumor has already invaded deeply. By then it's often too late."

"Ultimately, we would like to determine if using these strips translates into reduced morbidity and mortality from urological cancers or other serious diseases," Messing adds.

The extended study is funded partially by Ames Division of Miles Laboratories, Inc., manufacturers of the chemical strip, and through the Wisconsin Cancer Control Initiative. Part of Gov. Tommy Thompson's budget recommendations last year, the one-year initiative funded projects aimed at controlling and preventing cancer in Wisconsin. Health care providers in the study include Dean Clinic (including Dean Care), Monroe Clinic, Physicians Plus (including Jackson Clinic) and UW Hospital and Clinics' General Internal Medicine Clinic and Family Practice Clinic (including U-Care).

For more information on this study, contact Messing at (608) 263-5384.

Informational Meetings for Farm Business Arrangements

The family farm is a basic institution in Wisconsin Agriculture. Many parents want their business to continue and have as their objective to pass their farm to the next generation. Many younger people are interested in the opportunity to continue or move into a farming business.

Farm families in Washington, Ozaukee and Sheboygan county will have an opportunity to learn more about Farm Business Arrangements at informational meetings scheduled for the three county area. The sessions are scheduled to be held on Tuesday, Jan. 9 at the Sheboygan County Extension office in Sheboygan Falls; Wednesday, Jan. 10 at the Washington County Courthouse in West Bend and Thursday, Jan. 11 at the Ozaukee Courthouse in Port Washington. All sessions will start with registration at 9:30 and the program at 10:00 a.m. and conclude by 3:00 p.m.

Major topics for discussion will include a. Types of Farm Business Arrangements, wages, incentive plans, joint operating agreements, partnerships and corporations.

b. Ways to transfer property to the next generation; c. Appraising the present farm business for financial strength, profitability of alternative arrangements and the goals and objectives of people involved; d. Estate planning considerations.

Individuals planning on attending the program should make reservations with the county Extension offices involved by January 5. Registration cost is $5.50 per person which includes the noon meal.

This session should be helpful to families that are considering entering into any type of business arrangement with either a family member or others. Selecting a business arrangement is an important decision. The type of arrangement selected can be critical for the chances of success of the young operator and the financial security of retiring parents.

The program will be presented by Dr. John Ambrosius, Farm Management Specialist with the University of Wisconsin - Platteville and Jack Trzebiatowski, Washington County Agriculture agent.

Farm and Industry Short Courses Set for January

The University of Wisconsin - Madison will offer short courses on berry production, turf management, dairy herd management and integrated pest management in early January.

The berry production course — designed for commercial strawberry and raspberry growers — will cover plant anatomy, mineral nutrition, fruit set, pollination, selecting cultivars, controlling weeds, insects and diseases, applying sprays, and keeping farm records. It will meet Jan. 8 - 10.

The turf management course is both an entry level course on turfgrass management and a review course for practicing turf professionals. Experts will discuss fertilizing, mowing, irrigating, preventing diseases, detecting insects, and identifying and controlling weeds on the cool-season turf grasses used on golf courses and home lawns. Teachers will emphasize the proper methods to handle and apply pesticides. The course meets Jan. 8 - 12.

The latest on dairy herd products and practices will be presented in a third course designed for dairy farmers and professionals. It covers dairy cow nutrition, reproduction, breeding, record keeping, milking and health. Students are encouraged to bring are encouraged to bring questions and problems for discussion, and to discuss their solutions for problems they encounter. The course will meet from 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Jan. 8 - 11.

Farmers who want to learn to identify crop pests and diseases and combat them with the latest integrated pest management (IPM) techniques should enroll in the fourth course. Specialists in agronomy, entomology and plant pathology will teach the course, which meets Jan. 8 - 12.

UW-Madison College of Agricultural and Life Sciences staff teach the courses, which are open to anyone. Each course

Ski-Doo, GTE to Sponsor Badger State Winter Games Torch Run

Two of Wisconsin's corporate leaders, Bombardier Corp. (Ski-Doo) and GTE North, have again joined forces to sponsor the second Badger State Winter Games Torch Run. The torch will travel to at least 40 Wisconsin communities during the month leading up to the second Badger State Winter Games, Feb. 2-4 in Wausau.

Ski-Doo and GTE sponsored the Winter Games first Torch Run which traveled to 25 communities last year.

The world's largest producer of snowmobiles, Bombardier was the exclusive sponsor of the unique 1988 Calgary Winter Olympics Torch Run. Bombardier utilized Ski-Doo snowmobiles equipped with wheels to spread the Olympic message across Canada from Nova Scotia to Calgary!

"Our association with the 1988 Winter Olympic Games in Calgary gave us the idea to carry the torch, via Ski-Doo snowmobile, from town to town in Wisconsin," said Russ Davis, national sales manager of Ski-Doo.

"Snowmobiling is a very popular sport in Wisconsin and, even though it is not part of the Badger State Winter Games as an event, it becomes a viable way to focus our attention on the Badger State Winter Games."

Two 1990 Ski-Doo Safari L's will be specially equipped with wheels to run down the highways of Wisconsin. Davis said the wheeled snowmobiles will enable the tour to focus on the cities and towns that will be hosting torch run festivities. The association of Wisconsin Snowmobile Clubs and Wisconsin Ski-Doo dealers will help with the organization of the month-long event. Ski-Doo is also proud to be able to provide snowmobiles and grooming equipment for alpine and nordic events.

"With our U.S. headquarters located in Wausau, it makes good sense for us to strike this partnership with the Badger State Games and GTE," Davis said. "Wisconsin is indeed a very sports-minded state and snowmobiling is one of its strong sports. We are proud to be a part of this enthusiastic support of winter sports in Wisconsin."

GTE is also no stranger to the Badger State Games. The corporation is a major sponsor of Wisconsin's amateur sports festival and has sponsored the Badger State Summer Games Torch Run for the past four years.

"Our winter involvement is a natural extension of our summer commitment to the Badger State Games," said Jim Giffin, manager of GTE North in Wausau. "We are very excited about continuing our co-sponsorship of the Winter Torch Run and the opening ceremonies of the Badger State Winter Games."

Giffin said GTE will take an active role in the organization of not only the Torch Run, but also individual events. GTE is providing computerized timing, scoring and race results for both the alpine and nordic events.

"We are proud to have an established sport program like the Badger State Games compete in Wausau," Giffin said. "Our employees will be involved in volunteer committees and a great deal of technical services needed to make the Winter Games a great success."

Among the highlights of the Torch Run will be kickoff ceremonies in Madison January 4. The Run will end at the opening ceremonies of the Badger State Winter Games, Feb. 2 in Wausau. Those ceremonies are also sponsored by Ski-Doo and GTE.

The second Badger State Winter Games will include competition in eight sports — alpine skiing, curling, figure skating, adult and youth ice hockey, nordic skiing, ski jumping, snowshoeing and speed skating. The first Badger State Winter Games attracted 1,645 athletes to Wausau last year.

Josh Kurtz, Kewaskum, who just got points by having Eric Hollenbeck of New Holstein on his back, won by a major decision over Eric, 19-4.

Dave Kuphal, Kewaskum, won his match by pinning Jim Shampo of New Holstein.

BY Patti Aupperle

The Indians suffered another defeat Friday against New Holstein during parent's night and alumni night. The Indians gave away four forfeits, lost four matches, and won five matches.

With all the excitement of the evening those who won gave the team a wonderful Christmas present. Winning for the Indians with pins were Dave Kuphal and Josh Kurtz. Kuphal beat his opponent, Tim Shampo, easily and didn't allow him to score. Dave pinned Shampo in 2:24.

Josh Kurtz beat Eric Hollenbeck with a technical fall at the end of the last period. Hollenbeck was held from scoring until the last period when Kurtz allowed him to escape his hold and put a reversal on him, but once again Kurtz held strong to defeat him.

At 140, Noel Stradtman lost to Chad Arbuckle, 7-3 for his second loss this season. Dean Kries wrestled at 145 and was pinned in a quick 37 seconds by the Huskie's Matt Bittner.

Todd Muckerheide, at 171, was up against a tough opponent. Muckerheide, who faced Jason Buechel, was unable to score and lost, 6-0.

Also losing for Kewaskum was Greg Holl at 189. Having a hard match, Holl got pinned late in the last period by Kevin Schoeder. Holl did hold Schoeder up until the end when Schoeder pinned Holl in 5:14.

In JV action, Brett Rauch beat John Loehr at 171 in a pin time of 3:55. In exhibition match, Mark Morell pinned Dave Simon in 3:40.

Chad Bindrich, lost with a pin to Jason Garin in 5:59 and Dan Roher 8-3 against Brian Lefebber.

The Indian's next match will be January 5th at Sheboygan Falls. On the 6th, the Indians will start their tournament season as they travel to Fond du Lac for the Fond du Lac Invite at Goodrich High School. The tournament starts at 8 a.m. and all fans are encouraged to come and cheer the wrestlers on.

15 Inch Walleye Size Limit

Beginning January 1, 1990 the minimum size limit for keeping walleye in most Wisconsin waters will be 15 inches in an effort to put more and larger fish on stringers.

The Lake Winnebago system will not be included in this new regulation, there walleye of any size may be kept. The regulation also only applies to walleye/sauger has no minimum size.

As with the 14 inch size limit on large and small mouth bass, the minimum size limit on walleye is an effort to produce more and larger fish. For this program to work it is important for fishermen first of all to obey the new rule, and secondly to release the fish unharmed. To do so properly the fish should be handled as little as possible and returned to the water as quickly as possible. This may require that the line be cut if the hook is deeply embedded. A dead fish is still no justification to keep the fish, so do as much as you can to release the fish unharmed.

The 1990 Wisconsin Fishing Licenses are available now and will be accepted as of December 10th, 1989 as a valid fishing license. There is also a 1990 fishing regulation pamphlet now available at license outlets which covers in more detail the regulations and the rule changes.

One more item of interest, applications for the 1990 Bear Season Harvest Permits are due January 12th, 1990. Applicants are required to purchase a bear hunting license to be eligible for a harvest permit. Bear hunting licenses cost $6.60 for residents.

UWWC Wildcats Ranked Number 1

The women's varsity basketball team at the University of Wisconsin Center - Washington County is ranked number one among the state's two-year campuses.

Coach Tom Brigham said his Wildcats finished their fall semester play with a 7-1 record and are ranked first in both the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference (WCC) and the Wisconsin Junior College Athletic Association (WJCAA).

The only defeat was on Dec. 14 at Manitowoc to Silver Lake College, a four-year school. Following the defeat, the UWWC team arranged a rematch with Silver Lake at UWWC on Jan. 10.

The Wildcats trailed 36-33 at halftime. Coach Craig Wenner of Silver Lake told him, "During the first half, you had the best man-for-man defense that's ever been played against us."

According to Brigham, his team was forced to continue the tight defense throughout the game because of excellent outside shooting by Silver Lake. "In the second half, we ran out of gas," he said.

In its first seven games, the Wildcats combined high-scoring offense and tight defense, beating UW Center Richland 69-53, UW Center Waukesha 69-26, UW Center Marathon 62-36, Waukesha Technical 81-16, UW Center Marshfield 90-28, Milwaukee Technical 76-34 and the UW Center Fond du Lac 57-49.

Brigham's team has four of its five starters back from last year, when they were divisional champs in the WCC. Veterans, all from West Bend, are Tammy Becker, Melissa Gundlach, Kelly Koller and Tisha Warda.

New this year are Heidi Wagner of Hartford, Jenni Jankowski of Colgate, who played for Sussex-Hamilton, and Raquel Justman of West Bend, who played at Kettle Moraine Lutheran.

The spring season begins at home on Jan. 6 versus the UWWC Alumni. Other games are:

January: 8 Madison Tech at home, 10 Silver Lake at home, 16 at UWC-Marathon, 17 at UWC-Marshfield/Wood, 24 at Waukesha Tech and 29 UWC-Waukesha at home;

What is a Contractor?

A man in any field develops his own special traits and your local contractor is no exception. A contractor is found; lining up, putting on, measuring from, connecting to, leveling with and adjusting for. His wife tolerates him, little boys follow him, but it takes Heaven to stop Him.

A contractor is a paradox . . . he designs multi-thousand dollar complexes in an office often too small and stuffy for his daughter to do homework . . . can't remember his wife's birthday but can tell you how many bundles of shingles were used on John Smith's house. He manages more capital than most of the men in town, but can't help his wife balance the food budget.

He's an organizer who files by pile . . . a construction boss who can't manage his kids . . . a crusader with a passion for Playboy . . . a psychology expert with a few strange traits of his own. He likes sunshine, new trucks, good food, "hard workers", satisfied customers, short cuts, long days and above all a customer who wants quality instead of a bargain.

He's not much for sick crew members, rain in the heart of the day, lumber that is not straight, 8 hour days, cleaning up his desk or throwing out blueprints. Nobody else is so close to God or so far from a telephone. You can reduce his potential, but you can't reduce his ambition.

Campbellsport Building Supply hopes you support your local contractor . . . he is your friend, your competitor, your customer, your confidant, your source of new ideas for a better way of life. He is your countryman . . . a denim dressed, business-wise, fast growing statesman of stature. And when he comes home in the evening, having spent the energy of his hopes and dreams, he can be recharged anew with a telephone call — "start building anytime, our loan has been approved."

Campbellsport Building Supply has a large list of area contractors who supported us, as well as the community, during the past year . . . we hope you will choose to support one of your local contractors in the upcoming year.
