Cedar Lake Home Names New Administrator

Mary Kay Strachota

The Benevolent Corporation Board of Directors has appointed Mary Kay Strachota as the Administrator of the Cedar Lake Home. Ms. Strachota earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing from Marquette University. In 1987, she earned a Masters Degree in Health Care Fiscal Management from the University of Wisconsin, Madison. Ms. Strachota joined the Cedar Lake Home Campus staff in 1989 as an administrative manager. She grew up in the West Bend area, and has lived in the city of West Bend for the past two years.

Ms. Strachota has an extended career in the health care field. She has worked as a Registered Nurse (RN) for 14 years. Her nursing career started at St. Mary's Burn Center in Milwaukee. She also has been employed as a RN in Brisbane, Australia. Furthermore, she worked as an RN in Largo, Florida and the University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics in Madison, Wisconsin. After receiving her Masters Degree in Health Care Fiscal Management, Ms. Strachota was employed in the Health Care Division of Wipfle, Ulbrick, and Bertelson, which is a certified public accountant firm in Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

Ms. Strachota plans to continue on with the Cedar Lake Home's tradition of quality care for the elderly, frail and handicapped. "I believe in Cedar Lake Home's philosophy that through dedication and total team effort, every resident can contribute to society regardless of their mental, spiritual, physical or social condition," said Ms. Strachota.

New Business at Campbellsport

1992 will bring a new business to Campbellsport.

Scheduled to open on Tuesday, January 7, is ADD Auto/Industrial Supply. The business will be located at 107 S. Fond du Lac Avenue in Campbellsport, the building recently vacated by Wright Veterinary Service. The phone number of the new business is 533-5549.

ADD Auto will be affiliated with the National Bumper to Bumper stores. The business will be a full line auto parts jobber with quality name brands including Walker exhaust systems, TRW engine parts, TRW moog chassis parts, Borg Warner clutch, Dayco belts and Wagner lighting.

ADD will also handle industrial and farm parts. Machine shop service will include drums, rotor turning, press work and hydraulic hose (new repair).

In addition, ADD Auto will contain a high performance corner and accessory line. ADD Auto will also offer daily delivery service to auto dealers including Fond du Lac and West Bend.

The new business will be managed by Alan D. Defatte. Alan has ten years experience as a service technician with Firestone. He and his wife Traci have three children, Alan Jr. 8, Nicole 7 and Cory six months.

Additional Donations Made to Chamber of Commerce Memorial Star

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce again wishes to thank all those generous people who donated money towards the Christmas parade through the lights placed on the Holiday Magic Christmas tree and Memorial Star located in front of Valley Bank in Kewaskum.

The complete list of donor names (current at that time) was published in the December 12th issue of the Kewaskum Statesman, as well as listed on the honor boards placed with the tree and star.

Since then, the following additional donations have been added to the list, all made to the Memorial Star in honor of those who were not able to spend the holidays with us. White Memorial Lights were added for: Grace Behring by the Homeplate employees.

Arlene Gutjahr by Rick and Jill Gutjahr.

Don and Kimberly Mitchell by The Mitchell Family.

Arlette Edwards by Dick and Marilyn, Anne, Mary, Rick and Tom.

Kathryn "Tudy" Warner by Bret and Jenny Warner and family.

James Manthei by John and Brenda Gitter.

Catherine Gitter by John and Brenda Gitter.

John Hammes by Donald and Doris Hammes.

"King" and Nellie Backus by Ralph and Eileen Hein, Steve Heisler and Stan Heisler and family.

Delores Miske by the Miske family.

Lonnie Miske by the Miske family.

Kermit Miske by the Miske family.

Keith Ebert by Monty and Kathy Belger.

Edwin, Jim and Gary Fickler by Mrs. Edwin Fickler.

Again heartfelt thanks go out to all who donated. Please see the thank you the Chamber has published on page 2.

Legend Says Robin Made Pilgrimage To Calvary

Unless you live in the sun belt, chances are you won't see a robin during the Christmas season. But, according to legend, this migratory bird made the pilgrimage to Calvary. In Brittany, it was long believed that when Christ was bearing his cross, a small bird attempted to relieve His suffering by plucking thorns from His brow. The bird's breast became forever stained with blood and ever after the bird was known as Robin Red-breast.

Welcome to Our World

By

Dianne Horlamus, Executive Director

As I sit here at the computer, I can hear dogs barking, cats meowing and puppies crying for their families. Each day brings new arrivals to the shelter. We see the once small, cute puppy that has grown into a large hairy, untrained, outside barking machine. There is the cat that has decided to use its masters bed for a litter box. The family that realizes they have allergies come in with a sad looking kitten. The loving, gentle dog that comes in to the shelter to be held for rabies observation for 10 days. This is the same dog that bit the neighbors child when the little girl tried to take her red ball out of the dogs mouth.

We cry with the owners of that dear, beloved, faithful old beagle that has come in to be put to sleep. We get upset when year after year we see the same people bringing litter after litter to us so that we can find them homes. "Why don't you spay or neuter?" we ask. You'd be surprised at the answers we get, everything from "the miracle of birth" to "that is way too expensive."

I have two favorite times of the day. The first is when the animals have been fed and are lazily sleeping off their meal. They are so content, warm and happy. They remind me of myself after I've fed all the critters at home, eaten my dinner and curl up on the couch with a good book. My second best part of the day happens when I see the "perfect" pet going home with the "perfect" family. I get a warm happy feeling, knowing that they will grow to love their new family members as much as we love our "family."

Animals deserve all the love and devotion they can get. Who else loves you when everything goes wrong or you get too fat or old? Who is at your side hoping for just one loving, gentle pat on the head? Who else is willing to hear the same old story over and over again? All they ask is to be loved and treated with the same dignity that they give to you.

There are a lot of these wonderful creatures at The Washington County Humane Society just waiting to meet you. They prove over and over again the old adage, "One man's garbage is another man's GOLD!"

January Exhibitions at West Bend Gallery Planned

The West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts is pleased to present two exhibitions during the month of January:

Upper Gallery Classical Realism The Tradition Continues

The focus of this exhibition is a group of painters of classical realism from Atelier Prohl Studio School of Art in Milwaukee. The instructional philosophy embraces theories of earlier ateliers of the Boston School and dates back to the French academic Ateliers. The Atelier Prohl espouses observational drawing skills, careful study of nature, and a high degree of technical discipline in the use of formal elements of composition, perspective, value and texture. Atelier Prohl, founded in 1985 by artist James Prohl, is the only studio school of classical painting and drawing in the state of Wisconsin. Artists included in this exhibition are Evelyn Inman, Ronald Levandosky, James Prohl, June Sullivan and K Doble Thompson.

Lowery Gallery League of Milwaukee Artists

Began in 1944, the League of Milwaukee Artists is one of the state's largest and most active art organizations. This membership exhibition features paintings and graphics representing over 100 members, resulting in a diverse and pluralistic survey of art work.

The League of Milwaukee Artist has grown and developed since the early days of meetings in Friedman's second floor on 3rd & Highland. The first midwest group to exhibit in a park at Cathedral Square over 30 years ago, the League continues to fulfill a role in the southwest Wisconsin area.

Reception

There will be a public reception for all the artists on Sunday, Jan. 5 from 1:30 - 4:00 p.m. Our members are encouraged to attend.

The West Bend Gallery of Fine Arts is located at 300 South 6th Avenue in downtown West Bend. Normal gallery hours are Wednesday through Saturday 10:00 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. and Sunday 1:00 - 4:30 p.m. For more information call the gallery at 334-9638.

Registration at U-W Center, Fond du Lac

Registration for second semester is continuing at the University of Wisconsin Center - Fond du Lac. Classes begin on Tuesday, Jan. 21. Several classes are beginning to close, so university officials suggest that students wishing to enroll not wait until the last minute. Students may call the admissions office at 929-3606 for enrollment information or may visit the Office of Student Services in the Library/Administration building. The campus will be closed on Monday, Jan. 20 in observance of Martin Luther King's birthday.

Fees for the second semester are $60.10 per credit up to 11 credits and $722.40 for 12 - 18 credits. There is a $.75 United Council fee assessed to each student.

Veterans May Receive Extra Points on Civil Service Tests

West Bend — Eligible Wartime Veterans may receive up to an additional 20 points on State of Wisconsin Civil Service tests. The additional 20 points will go to veterans with a VA disability rating of 30 percent or more.

The legislation, signed by Governor Tommy Thompson on December 6, provides for an additional 10 points for all eligible veterans, an additional 15 points for veterans with a VA disability rating less than 30 percent, and an additional 10 points for spouses of deceased veterans who were rated by the VA as 70 percent or more disabled. In most cases, the additional points will only apply on examinations for initial entry into the Civil Service.

For more information contact your County Veterans Service Officer or Richard W. Baker, Washington County Veterans Service Officer at 335-4457.

County Immunization Clinics Offered

All recommended immunizations are available to children and adults of Washington County at the immunization clinics offered by Washington County Community Health Service. January clinics are:

JANUARY 7 - 2 to 5 p.m. — Community Health Nursing Service, Courthouse, Lower Level, Room 119, 432 E. Washington St., West Bend.

JANUARY 14 - 1 to 4:30 p.m. — Germantown Senior Citizen Center, W162 N11960 Park Avenue, Germantown.

JANUARY 21 - 9 to 12:00 a.m. — Hartford City Hall, 109 N. Main Street, Hartford.

JANUARY 28 - 9 to 11 a.m. & 2 to 5 p.m. — Community Health Nursing Service, Courthouse, Lower Level, Room 119, 432 E. Washington St., West Bend.

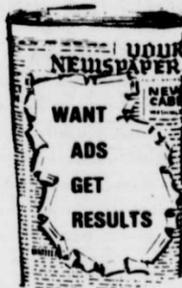

Parents must bring their records of each child's past immunizations to clinics. Immunizations will not be given without a record card.

For further information, call 335-4462, 644-5204 or 342-2929.

Campus Notes

Menomonie, Wis. — The following Kewaskum area residents are enrolled this fall as undergraduate students at University of Wisconsin-Stout. They are Michael Johann, majoring in applied mathematics; Kari Kurtz, majoring in retail merchandising and management; Todd Stange and Dawn Troeller, majoring in hospitality and tourism management; Gregg Dean, Corey Garbisch and Lisa Wheeler, all majoring in general business administration; and Connie McChain, majoring in early childhood education.

With an enrollment of approximately 7,600 Stout is a "special mission" university in the UW System. Founded in 1891, it retains its original primary mission of preparing men and women for careers. Because of this, the university continues to have a job placement record of better than 90 percent for its graduates.

Still Time to Lower Tax Bill

MILWAUKEE — It's not too late to lower your 1991 income tax bill.

"Since tax rates for 1992 most likely will remain the same as 1991, taxpayers may want to postpone taxable income until next year and accelerate deductible expenses this year," said Gary A. Hollman, chair of the Tax Division at Reinhart, Boerner, Van Deuren, Norris & Rieselbach, s.c.

Among the items that could be deferred, for example, are bonuses, salary increases, dividends and liquidating distributions, and capital gains on the sale of assets. Deductions can be accelerated by paying 1991 real estate taxes prior to Dec. 31, making charitable contributions early and taking advantage of other available deductions.

Hollman also recommends: Family gifts: Shift income-earning property to family members in lower tax brackets. Gifts of $10,000 ($20,000 in the case of married couples) a year can be made to each family member without incurring a gift tax.

Match capital gains with losses: To take full advantage of deductions for capital losses, time the sale of property subject to capital gains tax to offset capital losses.

Avoid underpayment of taxes: Failure to have sufficient income tax withheld from salary can result in a penalty. No penalty is imposed if taxes paid by year-end exceed the prior year's tax liability or are at least 90 percent of the taxpayer's 1991 tax bill. Taxpayers with other income not subject to withholding, who did not make estimated tax payments, should increase the tax withheld from their paycheck.

Utilize retirement planning vehicles: Qualified taxpayers can make a deductible IRA contribution up to $2,000. Self-employed taxpayers can also make deductible contributions to tax-qualified retirement funds, such as a Keogh plan. However, the plan must be set up by the end of 1991 and the payment must be made before the due date of the return.

The motto In God We Trust first appeared on U.S. coins in 1864.

THANK YOU

to all who contributed towards the Kewaskum Christmas Parade through the "Holiday Magic Tree" and the "Memorial Star."

Our apologies are extended to everyone for the lights that burned out so quickly and for sometimes being only partially lit.

New lights will be purchased, the star and tree will be restrung and hopefully with everyone's help, both will shine brightly for next year's Christmas parade.

Volunteers Needed

At this time of year when we find ourselves especially busy with holiday and year end activities, we are still reminded of the many needs for volunteers in our community. Why not take some time from your busy schedule and give a gift of time and love to brighten someone else's life. Call the Volunteer Center at 338-8256 and let us help you find the job that matches your schedule and your interest.

URGENT NEED; Medical Transport Assistant to accompany nursing home residents to doctor appointments. Driving not involved-volunteer will ride in transport van with resident, push wheelchair into doctor's office and wait while they see doctor, and then accompany them back to nursing home. Times for this are between 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m., Monday thru Friday. This would involve about 3 to 4 hours per month.

TUTOR — To help children to read. Hispanic parent speaks English but doesn't read it. Children need help after school to improve reading skills. Any retired teachers out there needing something to fill their time?

A friendly, outgoing older woman with arthritis has had a stroke and comes to the YMCA for swim on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. A volunteer is needed to dress her at 11:45 a.m. Volunteer needed until December 20, 1991 and beginning again on January 6, 1992. If you can do this one day a week or more let us hear from you.

MEAL DELIVERY: Pick up noon meals at senior center in West Bend and deliver to home bound people in Jackson area. This takes about an hour, and you can choose the day best suited to your schedule.

TRANSPORTATION — Drive people to appointments, mostly in the West Bend area. These are mostly older people who are no longer able to get around by driving themselves.

TYPIST — Who is familiar with Macintosh Word Processor. Agency prefers volunteer to work Wednesday mornings if possible. This is in the Newburg area. A good way to improve your skills.

Volunteers needed at a local nursing home to transport residents to a small area of building and serve refreshments. Not a lot of walking but what a wonderful way to fill your hours and make a difference in the lives of these senior citizens.

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY ASSISTANT — Help professional staff with occupational therapy for senior citizens at a local nursing home. This includes some light clerical work and minimal walking. Training is provided for this.

BEAUTY SHOP HELPERS — Work in the beauty shop at a nursing home; taking out hair rollers, polishing nails and taking residents to and from beauty shop. Should be able to push wheel chairs, like elderly people.

MAINTENANCE ASSISTANT — Dust, clean and straighten fitness center at a local agency. This takes about 1 hour a day from Monday thru Friday. Can come at either 11 a.m. or 3 p.m. Choose a day that suits your schedule.

Remember this is but a few of the volunteer opportunities available. There are many more and we would be happy to help you find the one best suited to you.

Marine Pvt. Timothy P. Clune, son of Lois C. Untiedt of 7460 Glacier Drive, West Bend, recently completed recruit training.

During the training cycle at Marine Corps Recruit Dept. San Diego, recruits are taught the basics of battlefield survival, introduced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are emphasized throughout the cycle.

The 1991 graduate of Kewaskum Community High School, Kewaskum, joined the Marine Corps in July 1991.

Scholarships Available

ANTIOCH COLLEGE, YELLOW SPRINGS, OH — Antioch College Yellow Springs, Ohio has a number of scholarships available to Kewaskum-area students. "Antioch College awards academic scholarships to students who have challenged themselves intellectually and creatively and who have demonstrated their ability to perform at high levels," according to Antioch College Dean of Admissions James H. Williams. Most scholarships are automatically renewable as long as the student maintains full time continuous enrollment and remains in good standing at the College.

Kewaskum students who wish to apply for a scholarship from Antioch College must have a completed admissions application on file by Feb. 1, 1992. Admissions material, and a complete brochure describing the scholarships offered by Antioch College are available by calling 1-(800) 543-9436 or writing to the Antioch College Admissions Office at 795 Livermore Street, Yellow Springs, OH 45387.

Scholarships of interest to Kewaskum area students include:

- Antioch Regional Scholarships: For students who show distinct academic promise, and live where there are large numbers of Antioch alumni, these scholarships provide up to $3,000 each year for students whose primary residence is in the Kewaskum area.

- Horace Mann Presidential Scholarships: Up to $5,000 each year for students who demonstrate academic promise and a commitment to humanitarian values such as peace, civil rights, or environmental issues.

environmental issues.

- Arthur Morgan Presidential Scholarships: Up to $5,000 each year for students who demonstrate academic promise, and an interest in a career in public/community service.

- Alfred Hampton Memorial Scholarships: Up to $5,000 each year to an African-American, Asian, Hispanic/Latino, or Native American student with a strong academic record and demonstrated qualities of creativity, initiative, and/or independence.

- Dean's Scholarships: Up to $3,000 each year for students who show distinct academic promise, based upon their academic record or other academic achievement.

- Hughes Science Scholarships: Funded by a grant from the Hughes Medical Institute, these scholarships provide up to $8,000 each year for students with financial need pursuing studies in the biological, biomedical or related sciences.

- E.Y. "Yip" Harburg Scholarship for Black men: A $1,500 per year scholarship for a male African-American student. To qualify to become a Harburg Scholar, a student must show evidence of social concern through volunteer activities, and have graduated from high school with a B+ /A- average.

- Upward Bound Scholarships: For students who have participated in an Upward Bound or similar type program, these scholarships provide up to $3,000 each year toward tuition.

- J.D. Dawson Science Scholarship: A $5,000 per year scholarship available for a student in the sciences.

- Evan Spalt Scholarship for Science and Math: A $2,000 per year scholarship available to a student in math/sciences.

- Foreign Exchange Student Scholarships: For students who have spent time living and/or working abroad in an American Field Service or other foreign student exchange program, these scholarships provide up to $3,000 each year toward tuition.

Antioch College is a distinctive national liberal arts college with a cooperative work study program which draws students from across the United States and around the world. Antioch College enters the 1990s with a cross-cultural and international curriculum designed to prepare its graduates to face the global realities of the 21st Century. The curriculum offers students the opportunity to be experienced in and sensitive to cross-cultural and international environments, to be conversant in languages other than English, and to be aware of cultures in the non-Western as well as the Western world.

Weekly Radio Show Debuts Jan. 4
Psychologist Offers Commonsense Advice on Raising Kids

Divorced and blended families. Single-parent homes. Multi-cultural and foreign adoptions. The disintegration of the extended family. Family life today is more complex than ever and, as a result, so are its problems. But Dr. Sylvia Rimm believes the solutions don't have to be.

"There's no doubt that the responsibilities of parenting can sometimes seem overwhelming," acknowledges Dr. Rimm, "and for good reason. But there are practical skills that can help families cope with the problems of growing up in today's world. I try to give commonsense advice that's easy to understand and that will make a real difference in everyday life."

Dr. Rimm's making good on her goal. As a licensed psychologist, she directs Family

Achievement Clinics in Oconomowoc, Watertown, Madison and Milwaukee, Wis. She's also authored six books, including "How to Parent So Children Will Learn" and "Underachievement Syndrome: Causes and Cures," and pens a column that appears in over 90 newspapers nationwide.

Starting Jan. 4, she takes her message to the airwaves in a new, weekly radio program, SYLVIA RIMM ON RAISING KIDS, produced by Wisconsin Public Radio and heard locally over 90.7 WHAD/Delafield - Milwaukee.

It's not her first venture into public radio. For the past five years, she has joined Wisconsin Public Radio host Tom Clark to field questions about children from infancy to young adulthood, and to discuss topics from setting limits and dealing with behavior problems to encourage self-confidence and creativity. The two will team up again, in the new program, which airs at noon over the 10 Ideas Network stations of Wisconsin Public Radio.

"Sylvia touches a lot of lives," notes Clark, who also is the network's director of talk programming. "Every show, we hear from listeners who call to say, 'thanks; that really worked for me.' There's no better endorsement than that."

"The chemistry between Tom and Sylvia and their listeners is great," says program director Greg Schnirring. "I think the listeners can tell that these two people care about kids. There's a warmth and sensitivity that's inviting and reassuring. We think making the program a regular, weekly event has real value not only for parents and grandparents, but for anyone who's interested in children and family relationships."

With Dr. Rimm's expertise in learning and achievement, the program also promises to be of special interest to families and teachers of children with learning problems and children who are gifted or talented. Because of the program's strong educational value, the Stackner Family Foundation, Inc. of Milwaukee, Wis. has given Wisconsin Public Radio a grant to help distribute the program, free of charge, to other public radio stations around the country.

In Wisconsin, listeners can tune in to the program on Wisconsin Public Radio Stations including AM 970 WHA/Madison; 90.7 WHAD/Milwaukee; AM 930 WLBL/Auburndale - Stevens Point; 91.5 WGBW/Green Bay; 91.1/WLFM Appleton; 90.3 WHBM/Park Falls; 91.3 KUWS/Superior; 88.3 WHWC/Menomonee - Eau Claire; 90.3 WHLA/La Crosse and 91.3 WHHI / Highland - Dodgeville.

People outside Wisconsin are encouraged to contact their local public radio station to find out when the program will be available in their area.

To suggest foundations which may be interested in helping fund the national distribution effort, contact Peter Wallace, Wisconsin Public Radio's development director, at 608-273-5997.

1992 "Yarns of Yesteryear Contest" Opens Jan. 1

Wisconsin residents, age 60 and over, who remember the happy times as well as the grim realities and hardships of the "good old days" are invited to enter their reminiscences in the UW-Madison "Yarns of Yesteryear Contest" which opens January 1, 1992.

Contest entries may tell of family, friends, and/or customs and activities of bygone days; or they may be historical stories with a personal slant.

This creative writing contest is cosponsored by the UW-Madison Department of Continuing Education in the Arts, the Wisconsin Regional Writers Association, The Country Today, Eau Claire, and Bi-Folkal Productions, Inc., Madison.

Entries must be postmarked no later than the contest deadline of March 1, 1992. Only one manuscript, original and unpublished, may be submitted. It may be typed or neatly handwritten; the word limits are 500 to 1500 words. Manuscripts will not be returned; contestants are advised to make and keep a personal copy.

Contestants are also asked to prepare a separate cover sheet listing the title of their manuscript, their name, address (including county), telephone number, age, name and address of their local newspaper, and the number of words in their entry. The contest entry fee is $4.00.

Cash prizes ranging from $10 to $25 will be awarded to the top ten winners by the Wisconsin Regional Writers Association. Ten memberships in the association and twenty honorable mention certificates will also be awarded. Additional cash awards ranging from $10 to $35 will be given by The Country Today for the best entries in the "Winners' Circle", a special competition for those whose previous entries have won contest prizes.

Bi-Folkal, Inc., will award a $25 first prize for the best entry that exemplifies some aspect of "Remembering the House Where I Grew Up."

Judges for the contest will be: Howard Kanetzke, Wisconsin State Historical Society; Gen Lewis, former director of the Yarns of Yesteryear Project; Clarice Dunn, the first Yarns of Yesteryear contest director;

James R. Batt, Wisconsin Educational Communications Board; and Mary Reinhardt and Sally Benforado, Reminiscence Writing instructors, all of Madison.

For a brochure listing contest rules and entry procedures write to: Yarns of Yesteryear Contest, Kathy Berigan, Director, Room 627N Lowell Hall, 610 Langdon St., Madison, WI 53703.

For ideas and suggestions as to the types of stories to write, contestants may wish to read selections in Volumes I and II of We Were Children Then the anthologies of previous contest entries, available at some libraries throughout the state. Or write to the above address for subscription information for a new publication called Wisconsin Writes Home: Stories to Remember a collection of stories from past contests.

Hypothermia and the Elderly

By Lisa Brunette, UW-Madison Center Health Sciences

MADISON-- Most Wisconsin natives know how to cope with nature's fury when winter winds howl and the temperature plunges to single digits. We break out the mittens and scarves, bundle up just to run across the street, and turn up the thermostat to guard against the chill.

But nature doesn't have to be dramatic to be dangerous. Elderly people, particularly those with complicated medical problems, are susceptible to hypothermia, and it needn't be frigid outdoors for the problem to occur.

Hypothermia occurs when the body's core temperature reaches approximately 35 degrees Centigrade (or about 95 degrees Fahrenheit). Allowed to progress, it can result in stroke, abnormal heart rhythms and even death. About 900 people in the U.S. die every year from hypothermia; about half of them are over age 65.

"It doesn't take bitter cold for an older person to develop hypothermia," says Dr. Michael Siebers, assistant professor of medicine at University of Wisconsin Medical School and a specialist in geriatrics at UW Hospital and Clinics. "Often, it occurs simply because an older person is trying to save money by keeping the temperature at 55 degrees in the house, or because the housing is poorly insulated. Occasionally, it's because the person wasn't dressed warmly enough or because multiple medications have altered metabolism."

Symptoms vary and can be hard to detect, especially in someone with other medical problems. Often, however, someone developing hypothermia will have thick, slow speech, will have difficulty walking, will show confusion or drowsiness and will feel cool to the touch. They probably will not shiver, because their slower metabolism doesn't generate enough heat. The telltale symptom, however, is a drop in the heart rate.

"That's the bell-ringer," notes Siebers. "A normal resting heart rate for an adult is between 60 and 100 beats per minute. A pulse of less than 50 is cause for concern. If you reach 30, you're in very serious trouble."

Unfortunately, a number of common conditions help mask symptoms while contributing to the loss of body heat. Chief among them is alcohol use. Some medications, including beta blockers and certain tranquilizers, also play a role... and the problem is compounded if the person takes several medications. Poor nutrition and decreased muscle mass from lack of physical activity also make hypothermia more likely.

Knowing and controlling the risk factors will prevent most cases of hypothermia. Siebers advises both older people and those who care for them to take the following steps:

*Check the thermostat. People over the age of 60 should check the room temperature daily, keeping it no lower than 65 degrees.

*Cover the head. Most heat is lost through the head, so it makes sense to wear a headband or scarf indoors to limit heat loss.

*Check the pulse if you suspect hypothermia. If it's low, immediately provide warm liquids and wrap the person in a large blanket. It's best to seek emergency attention because body temperature can drop quickly.

*Remember: risk increases with age. The same set of conditions that are low risk for a 60-year-old may be dangerous for someone who's 80.

Shaw to Exhibit Cattle at National Western Angus Show

Stanley Shaw, West Bend, will exhibit Angus cattle at the Roll of Victory (ROV) Angus Show during the 1992 National Western Stock Show in Denver, Colorado, January 8-11, reports Richard Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association.

Some 231 exhibitors, who are members of the American Angus Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri, have entered a total of 603 head to compete for top honors at the ROV event.

Judge Doug Parrett, Urbana, Illinois, and associate judge Dick Jurgens, Peoria, Illinois, will place 603 Angus cattle in the open show. Judges for the 52 pens and 8 carloads will be Chris Sankey, Council Grove, Kansas; Vern Suhn, Eureka, Kansas; and Richard McClung, New Market, Virginia.

The Angus show at the National Western Stock Show is one of the largest Angus events held annually. Breeders and spectators from across the United States, Canada and foreign countries will be in attendance to watch the four days of showing.

Children's Hospital of Wisconsin Offers Advice to Help Parents Cope with the Flu

MILWAUKEE -- Now that the flu season has started, Children's Hospital of Wisconsin urges parents to watch their children closely for signs of serious problems.

"Right now, about 50 percent of the children we see in the emergency department each day are sick with the flu," said emergency department patient care supervisor Jane Gyuro, RN. "Children have been running high fevers with this flu (104 to 105 degrees F.) and that has scared some parents."

However, Gyuro said, every child with a high fever does not need to be seen in an emergency department or urgent care center. "Always call your doctor first - before bringing your child to an emergency room," she said. "But, you also should observe your child closely for signs of dehydration (tacky mucous membranes, sunken eyes and changes in mental status, such as extreme lethargy or unresponsiveness). If your child is alert and drinking plenty of fluids, you don't need to worry."

Treatment for the flu consists of bedrest, drinking plenty of fluids and taking an aspirin substitute, such as acetaminophen.

"Since the flu is spread through the air, you probably cannot keep your child from being exposed," Gyuro said. "However, sick children should be kept away from other children, so don't send your children to school if they are ill."

Children's Hospital of Wisconsin is a private, not-for-profit regional pediatric medical center. The hospital serves all children in Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula who need its specialized services without regard to race, creed, color or ability to pay.

Apply Now For Summer Youth Camp Positions

MADISON, WI — It's not too soon for high school students to think about how they'll spend their time next summer. The Department of Natural Resources is looking for students ages 15-18 to participate in its summer Youth Conservation Camp program.

According to Peg Rasch, DNR youth camp coordinator, the program is basically a work-learn experience for high schoolers. It offers four weeks at a summer residential camp and a unique summer job working for the DNR on resource management projects to preserve and improve Wisconsin's outdoor environment.

There are four separate youth camps located around the state: Statehouse Lake Camp at Manitowish Waters, Ernie Swift Camp near Minong, Mecan River Camp near Montello, and Kettle Moraine Camp near Campbellsport. Rasch said that campers work 32 hours a week and are paid $4.25 per hour; a room-and-board charge of $40 per week is deducted from their paycheck.

Applications to attend the camps are due March 1. Each camp runs two four-week sessions, with each session at each camp limited to 50 boys and 50 girls. Rasch suggests getting the applications sent in early before the camps are filled up.

Additional information and application forms can be obtained after January 17, 1992 from high school guidance offices, state Job Service office, DNR district offices in Milwaukee, Fitchburg, Eau Claire, Spooner, Rhinelander and Green Bay, or by writing to: Youth Conservation Camp Program, Wisconsin DNR, P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707.

Rasch added that the Youth Camp Program is also recruiting camp staff. Staff positions available are: camp director, assistant director for work, assistant director for education and recreation, camp counselor, head cook and assistant cook. The length of employment is 10 weeks, beginning in early June and ending in mid-August.

More information about the staff positions is available at Job Service offices, college and technical school placement offices, DNR district offices or by writing to the above address.

For more information contact: Peg Rasch — 608-266-8226; Marilyn Howell — 608-266-5324.

AAUW Seeking Scholarship Contributions

By donating and purchasing books at the recent American Association of University Women used book sale, area communities have become part of the AAUW Non-traditional Women Student Scholarship program at our two Washington county university campuses.

The West Bend Branch of AAUW established the scholarships at the University of Wisconsin Washington County and the Moraine Park Technical College several years ago to fill the gap in existing resources for education for non traditional women students at these campuses. The first scholarships were awarded in 1988.

The 1991 UWWC recipient was Patricia Sliwicki, the mother of two primary school children who is pursuing a degree in Business-Industrial Relations. The 1991 MPTC recipient was Jeannine Schneider, a West Bend single parent, a Medical Records Technician major.

AAUW members are college educated women concerned about this community and education. Their mission statement includes promoting equity for women and education and self development over the life span. Promoting scholarships for adult women pursuing a degree with income stretched to the limit is one way the branch furthers their goal. Marian College counselor Don Weimer, notes "Adults returning to school may be terrified of the classroom. But once they get into their classroom, they soar, becoming the best students an instructor can hope for...they establish goals and direction leading to success in the classroom; this success turns to increased confidence in the workplace and even in relationships."

The used book sale has been only one source to fund these scholarships. Contributions have also been made by branch members as well as individuals and businesses in the community. The funds are administered by the respective foundations and are tax deductible. As they continue to seek funds for these women, AAUW welcomes the community support. Those wishing to contribute may contact the AAUW scholarship chair, Darlene Tessar at 626-2393.

Protect Your Eyes When Jumping a Car Battery

Last year, auto battery accidents caused nearly 6,000 eye injuries, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin. This number could have been greatly reduced by following correct safety procedures.

When preparing your auto for this year's cold, remember winter's association with dead car batteries. Eye injuries caused during jump-start accidents soar during winter months.

Many of us think we can jump-start a car, but few are aware of the potential danger to eyes. If you are careless, you run the risk of setting off an explosion, causing serious eye damage.

"Car batteries are capable of producing explosive gases. Incorrect jump-starting can cause sparks to ignite these gases, turn the battery into a bomb and send battery acid and casing fragments flying in every direction," warns Kathleen M. Nelson, executive director of Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin.

Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin recommends that you follow safe jump-starting procedures.

To receive instruction (4" x 8" vinyl sticker), send $1.00 and a self addressed business size envelope to: Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin, BATTERY SAFETY, 759 N Milwaukee, Milwaukee, WI 53202.

Prevent Blindness-Wisconsin is a non-profit organization, which provides free sight saving screening as well as eye health and safety programs. For more information call (414) 765-0505 or write to the above address.

Scout Roundtables Scheduled

Roundtables for Cub and Boy Scout Leaders and Pack and Troop Committee Members of Ozaukee and Washington Counties of the Glacier Edge District 11, will be held Thursday, Jan. 9, from 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. at John Long Middle School, corner of Fifth and Hickory Streets, Grafton.

The Cub personnel will convene in the all-purpose room with Commissioner, Tricia Clark, and her staff for a mock Blue & Gold Banquet with a "Scouting Around The World" theme. Table decorations, complete with centerpieces, place mats, nut cups, place cards and name tags, will be used; and other theme ideas will be exhibited. A full agenda with advancement, recognition, opening and closing ceremonies, as well as skits, songs, a game and announcements will be featured.

George Krueger, Cub Winterfest Chairman, will give details and discuss this February fun event with the Packs.

The Boy Scout Leaders' Roundtable will be conducted in room B-18 under the direction of Commissioner, Tom Wierzbicki. John Browning, of Adventures Unlimited, Mequon, will present his "Winter Survival and Camping Program." Demonstrations of equipment, tentage and snow shoes will highlight the narration.

A discussion on the new Boy Scout event for February, Scout Ice-O-Ree, will be conducted by Chairman, Rick Buth.

Members of the Order of the Arrow will also meet at the school at 7:30 p.m. in room B-16. Chapter Chief, Dennis Schmidt, will preside.

In the Service

Navy Seaman Recruit Ralph A. Boettcher, son of Clifford and Marlene R. Boettcher of Campbellsport, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, IL.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

He joined the Navy Reserves in August 1991.

Pvt. Jennifer B. Sauer has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

She is the daughter of Donna B. Sauer of W. 1315 Auburn-Ashford Drive, Campbellsport.

The private is a 1991 graduate St. Mary's Springs High School, Fond du Lac.

Fire of undetermined origin Saturday damaged much of the contests and interior of the Elwing Mfg. Co. plant at Campbellsport. Damage at the factory which manufactures domestic and industrial brooms, was estimated at from $40,000 to $45,000. The fire apparently started in an incinerator at the rear of the building. Firemen were hampered in efforts to control the blaze by unusual heavy black smoke resulting from the burning broom straw, a large amount which was stored in the building.

Patrick Reilly, 17, 320 Washington St., Campbellsport, was injured and the car he was driving demolished when it collided with a Northwestern Railway train at the Main St. crossing in Campbellsport at 11:25 a.m. Christmas Day. The accident occurred when Reilly, who apparently didn't see the approaching train, drove into the side of the locomotive. The vehicle bounced against the first coach and was dragged about 80 feet. Reilly, who remained in the car, was able to get out by himself.

Carl Schultz eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schultz of this village, was fatally injured last Sunday morning, Dec. 28, when he was run over by an auto while crossing the street. The accident occurred on Main Street where it crosses with West Water Street. The lad was enroute home from Sunday School with a group of other children who witnessed the mishap. He and another lad, Richard Bunkelmann, left the curb to run across the street. Richard, running ahead, reached the other side safely. Schultz, according to witnesses was about half way across the street upon seeing the oncoming car, tried to stop and in doing so, slipped on a patch of ice and slid directly under the auto. He was dragged under the car a short distance then one of the rear wheels passed over the child's head fracturing his skull and injuring the left side

WINDOW ON WASHINGTON

A Weekly Commentary by U.S. Senator Bob Kasten of Wisconsin

A Legislative Wish List for 1992

The beginning of a New Year gives us all an opportunity to take stock, and to examine ways we can do better in the future. America can and should be doing a lot better than it is today... and I would like to offer my list of actions Congress must take in the next year to make it happen.

1. Tax Relief for Americans. In 1990 Congress saddled taxpayers with the biggest tax increase in American history. The result was a serious economic slowdown, and real hardship for many Wisconsin families. I think these families need a break... so I introduced a bill that would provide a much-needed tax cut for working families with children. It provides a $300 non-refundable tax credit for each child aged 6 to 18... and a $1,000 credit for each child under age 6. The bill also provides tax incentives to spark the economic growth that will create the new jobs our economy needs.

2. A Balanced Budget-Tax Limitation Amendment to the Constitution. The chief cause of our economic problems is that Congress spends too much. Over the years, Congress has continually raised taxes to close the deficit... and gone on to spend an extra $1.59 for each dollar in new taxes!

I want to pass a Constitutional Amendment that requires Congress to balance its budget the same way Wisconsin families have to... through SPENDING DISCIPLINE instead of tax increases.

Help for Dairy Farmers. Wisconsin's dairy families are really getting squeezed. In the last year, Wisconsin's dairy farmers have experienced a drop in income of more than 10 percent. At the same time, feed costs have risen... and so have other costs.

Americans know that we can't afford to see our dairy sector go under... and that's why we need to ensure price stability for these important producers. In 1991, we lost an important vote on raising price supports by one dollar by the narrow margin of 51 to 47. If we had won that vote, Wisconsin milk producers would have gained $983 million over the next four years. That's the direction we need to be going... and I think we succeeded on this in 1992.

4. Health Insurance Reform. Approximately half a million Wisconsinites lack health coverage... and awareness of this problem is growing at the Federal level. I will be working to make it easier for farmers and other self-employed Wisconsinites to deduct their health-insurance expenses.

When you have to pay both employer and employee portions of the cost of health insurance the cost gets very steep. I think that's unfair... and I will try to make Congress do something about it in the 1992 session.

We have a lot of work ahead of us. It's work we will have to do together... because Congress won't take the necessary action unless we at the local level make them feel the heat. I think that if we work together, we can be successful on all these issues... and make America a better place than it is today.

Demographic Changes: Death-Knell for Hunting?

The beastly weather that thrashed Wisconsin's 1991 deer hunt forced many hunters out of the woods and in search of coin-operated clothes dryers; the soggy ones who stayed on stand probably questioned their own sanity. Nonetheless, about 700,000 people went deer hunting in Wisconsin this year.

With those numbers, there will always be plenty of hunters, right? Maybe not, says Tom Heberlein, a rural sociologist at the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences. If present trends continue, hunting will look much different, and in some states nobody will be hunting by the middle of the next century, according to Heberlein.

The male population in the United States is getting older, more urban, more educated, and less white. Families are getting smaller and more fragmented, and the number of skilled manual laborers is shrinking, according to Heberlein. All of these factors tend to reduce hunting participation. If these trends continue, hunting as we know it will not exist by 2050, he says.

These factors accounted for about one-half of the decline in hunting participation between 1977 and 1990. Increased income and population growth in the mountain states offset these factors, but only slightly, he says.

Reduced access to hunting areas, declining wildlife populations, and anti-hunting attitudes and other social trends probably account for the other half, and they are likely to increase in the future, according to the University of Wisconsin-Madison researcher.

The decline will be slower in Wisconsin because of its large rural population, strong social traditions in hunting, and large wildlife population, Heberlein says. As the deer population has risen in the state, so have the numbers of deer hunters; if the deer population falls, so would hunter numbers.

Males make up nearly 85 percent of all hunters, and fewer and fewer are taking up the pursuit. That's primarily because fewer males are growing up in rural areas and small towns where hunting traditions are strong, according to Heberlein. On top of that, fewer men are choosing to live in rural communities. Men in the north-central United States, which includes Wisconsin, are more likely to hunt, but population is declining in this region.

Whites are more likely to hunt, and the proportion of whites in the population is shrinking. Married men and men with more children are more likely to hunt, but this group is declining. College graduates are less likely to hunt, and the proportion of college grads is increasing.

In general, these factors have the same effects on females who hunt. Despite other changes in women's roles, they are not increasing their overall participation in sport hunting, according to Heberlein.

To reach conclusions, Heberlein analyzed results from the National Survey of Fishing, Hunting and Wildlife-Associated Recreation (conducted by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service) and the General Social Survey, a national sampling of households conducted by the National Opinion Research Center.

According to the General Social Survey, 39 percent of males said they went hunting in 1977; this declined to about 32 percent in 1990. A statistical projection showed that the number of males who hunt is declining by more than 5 percent per decade, according to Heberlein. From the base of 39 percent in 1977, the equation predicts that no males would be hunting in 2050.

"It is not out of the question that there will be no sport hunting, or a dramatic change in the character of sport hunting in the United States by the middle of the 21st century," Heberlein says.

Heberlein worked on this analysis with Elizabeth Thomson of the Center for Demography and Ecology, Department of Sociology, UW-Madison.

Deer Hunting Safety: This Year's Hunters Were Safer, Smarter

MADISON, WI — Department of Natural Resources recreational safety officials report a relatively safe 1991 gun deer season compared to recent years.

According to DNR Hunter Education Coordinator Larry Johnson, the nine-day season saw a total of 25 gun-related injuries. He said that compares favorably with average totals of closer to 40 accidents per season in recent years.

"The weather may deserve some of the credit," Johnson says. "I'm sure it limited the amount of time some hunters spent in the field. Still, we had more hunters licensed for the season than ever before. It's obvious they put some thought and effort into watching out for one another."

Johnson says out of the 28 total firearm related accidents reported during the seven-day extended season, 14 involved self-inflicted injuries. Eight accidents involved hunters using exposed hammer firearms with half-cocked position safety mechanisms.

"This is a continuing concern for us," Johnson explains. "Hammer firearms simply aren't good for people who don't have a sound understanding of firearm operation. Unfortunately, since they're generally less expensive, they're often the only firearm available to beginning hunters."

Johnson says this year's season, once again, resulted in the shooting deaths of two hunters. "We've lost two hunters each in three of the last four seasons. Those are relatively low figures when you consider the history of hunting in Wisconsin.

Still, it's sad to have to report these."

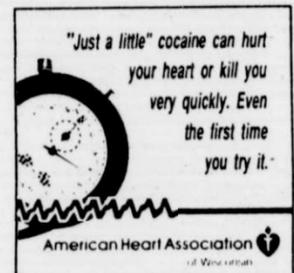

One of the fatalities, Johnson says, involved a 13-year-old hunter with an exposed hammer rifle. While the hunter believed the safety to be in half-cocked position, Johnson says the gun accidentally discharged, striking a 10-year-old boy who was walking with the hunting party. In the other fatal accident, a hunter reportedly firing at a deer instead struck a hunting partner approximately 70 yards away.

"In that accident, the victim was wearing camouflage pants and a small blaze orange coat," Johnson says. "If there's anything to learn from that, it's probably the importance of wearing good quality blaze orange in the field. That and, of course, being sure of your target and what's behind it."

Johnson says he was also disappointed by the fact that four people were injured climbing into or out of tree stands with loaded firearms, with two of the injuries being fairly serious. Despite continued efforts to promote the unloading of firearms and use of a rope to raise and lower guns to and from stands, Johnson says similar mistakes are made each year.

"Sometimes it's hard to reach people. But with some 20,000 people completing hunter education training each year now, we're optimistic the figures will improve," Johnson says. "These are hunters who'll be there to provide an example for their kids in the future."

PUBLIC INFORMATION MEETING Butternut - Auburn Transmission Project

- Wisconsin Electric Power Company is hosting a public information meeting regarding the proposed construction of a 138 kV transmission line from Wisconsin Electric Power Company's Butternut substation location on Super Drive west of USH 41 in Lomira Township, Dodge County, to the Auburn substation located on USH 45 south of Old Bridge Road in Auburn Township, Fond du Lac County. Various routes are being evaluated for this project, some utilizing existing rights-of-way.
- The demand for electric power in this area has been increasing and is expected to continue to increase. New transmission facilities are needed to reliably serve the existing and future customer needs.
- Wisconsin Electric plans to file an application to construct the transmission line and associated substation equipment with the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin in mid-January, 1992.
- The proposed transmission line between the Butternut and Auburn substations is part of a project to strengthen electric transmission in the area of Lomira, Campbellsport and Kewaskum.
- Representatives from Wisconsin Electric will be in attendance to review the proposed project and answer any questions:

Meeting Date: Thursday, January 9, 1992

Time: 1:30 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Location: Ashford Town Hall
N1410 Rolling Drive

(Intersection of Highway 67 and Rolling Drive)

- We are looking forward to seeing you at this meeting. If you have any questions regarding this project, please contact:

Dick Darling
Wisconsin Electric Power Company, Public Affairs
(414) 221-2869

THE SANDHILL WILDLIFE DEMONSTRATION AREA

★FIRST IN THE SERIES★

By Bob Cooney, UW-Madison Ag Press Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the first in a series of stories on rural sociologist Tom Heberlein's work with gun deer hunters at the Sandhill Wildlife Demonstration Area. Heberlein surveyed about 2,800 hunters who took part in experimental hunts at Sandhill over 11 years. The stories cover hunters' marksmanship and lack thereof, hunting techniques that proved effective at Sandhill, and makings of a satisfying hunt, and how crowding influenced hunters and hunted at Sandhill.

Hunters at the Sandhill Wildlife Demonstration Area get a chance to hunt trophy deer, but they also become part of a biological and social research program. Sandhill is one of the largest areas in North America with a fenced-in whitetail herd that is regulated by public hunting.

Sandhill lies 17 miles southwest of Wisconsin Rapids, spread across the sandy lakebed of the former Glacial Lake Wisconsin. Wallace and Hazel Grange operated the area as the Sandhill Game Farm for 25 years, and deeded it to the Wisconsin Conservation Department in 1962. It is now a game refuge and research and demonstration area managed by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources for biological, ecological and sociological research. A 10-foot high deer-proof fence encloses about 9,000 acres of marsh, woodlands and fallow fields at Sandhill; about 5750 acres are huntable. The interior is not fenced, and deer move freely.

University of Wisconsin-Madison rural sociologist Tom Heberlein and his colleagues collected data from more than 2,700 hunters during a series of experiments at Sandhill from 1979 to 1989.

Most of the hunters lived within 50 miles of the area. They completed questionnaires after finishing one-day hunts under one of three season frameworks: antlerless-only, either-sex, or mixed hunts (some hunters had either-sex tags, some had antlerless-only tags). They hunted in areas containing four to 30 hunters per square mile.

Sandhill hunters had a greater opportunity to shoot at a deer than hunters during opening day of the statewide gun season, and they were more likely to bag a deer. They also had a greater chance of shooting an 8-pointer or better at Sandhill. Opening-day deer densities at Sandhill ranged from 24 per square mile to 46 per square mile during the 11 years of the study.

The Sandhill area is managed to produce trophy bucks. Wildlife managers restrict the kill of antlered deer so that bucks grow bigger racks and body sizes than statewide deer. Hunts remove does and fawns to keep the herd within the carrying capacity of the deer range.

Heberlein's Sandhill work is supported by the College of Agricultural and Life Sciences and the Wisconsin DNR.

Kurtz Takes First in Oshkosh Tournament

By Statesman Sports Writer

OSHKOSH — It was a battle of unbeaten wrestlers from schools that are perennial rivals. It was supposed to be a classic matchup that would go down to the wire. It wasn't even close.

Kewaskum's Josh Kurtz kept his record unblemished as he took care of Campbellsport's Jason Winger by a 7-0 count in the 145-pound finals of the Oshkosh Lourdes Academy Invitational Wrestling Tournament held here, last Thursday and Friday.

Kurtz got to the finals by destroying his three earlier opponents. Kurtz downed a foe from Pulaski in just :57 in the opening round, and came back with a :43 pin over a Milwaukee Pius wrestler. In the semi's, Kurtz dominated his foe from Fond du Lac St. Mary's Springs 15-2 to earn the right to face Winger in the finals.

"He did a real nice job," Indian coach John Nell said of Kurtz, who ran his record to 10-0 on the year. "The kids did a pretty good job overall, I think."

The Indians as a team finished 10th out of the 18 teams entered. Campbellsport ended up winning the Invite, with Nekoosa a strong second.

"It was a tough tournament," Nell went on to say. "There were a lot of good, talented wrestlers up there. But we're improving every time we get out there."

Kurtz was the lone Indian to make it to the finals, but a hand-full of Indian wrestlers came up with good efforts to gain medals.

At the top of the list was 130-pounder Mark Dzediec, who was making his first appearance of the year after recovering from an off-season knee injury. Dzediec wound up fourth in the meet, drawing words of praise from his coach.

"I thought that (finishing fourth) was pretty good, considering that he hadn't wrestled in a match yet," Nell said. "It was real nice to have him back in the lineup."

Also taking fourth for the Indians was 189-pounder Todd Muckerheide. "He had a good tournament," Nell said of the junior, who continues to improve.

Kevin Kapp added a sixth-place showing in the 125-pound bracket, while Muckerheide's brother, Chad (160) was seventh, Mark Morell finished eighth, and Jake Gundrum and Brad Jackson each placed tenth, respectively.

"I was pretty happy with the kids," Nell went on. "They're going to keep working hard."

Nell's troops get back on the mat Tuesday, when they travel to Oakfield. The Indians will then return for a home match with Plymouth on Friday, Jan. 10th.

Judo Tournament Held in Fond du Lac

The Santa's Thiai Judo Tournament was held this past weekend in Fond du Lac.

It was hosted by the Welcome Mat Judo Club of Wis. and the Fond du Lac Recreation Department.

Over 150 Judoka from WI and IL participated in the event. Sixteen members of the West Bend Park Recreation and Forestry Dept.'s Judo program, along with their coaches Jon Sanfilippo and Ron Rodamer participated.

The girl's 8 year old class saw Jessica Sanfilippo win 2nd place and Jennifer Sanfilippo take 3rd place in that division. Molly Kliss was recently promoted to jr. orange belt and won 3rd place in the girl's 9 year old class.

Sara Bertram won 2nd place in the girls 10 thru 12 year old light weight class.

Kerri Sanfilippo competed in two classes; the senior womens light weight class where she won 2nd place and girls 16 year old class where she was awarded 4th place.

Competing in her 1st Judo tournament Myra Winnemuller captured 3rd place in the Senior womens light weight novice class.

The boys division saw Barry Bertam win 3rd place in the 9 yr. old class. Victor Walsh and Nick Thull competed in the boys 11-12 yr old light weight boys class with Victor capturing 2nd place. The boys 11-12 year old heavy weight class had Peter Kesting winning 3rd place.

Rick Hanson and Brad Faber competed in the boys 14 yr old class with Rick winning 3rd place and Brad winning 4th place.

Fourth place went to Ryan Boerner - Bowling in the boys 15 yr. old light weight class.

Competing in two divisions was Nick Nordquist. He fought in the boys 15-16 yr. old heavy weight class where he captured an undisputed 1st place by winning all his matches by full point Ippon throws in about one minute (matches are 3 minutes long). Nick won 2nd place in the senior men's light wt. class.

The 16 year old light weight class saw Brian Faber win 1st place. Josh Kesting fought in the senior mens middle weight class where he was awarded 3rd place.

Coach Jon Sanfilippo stated, "the results demonstrated the consistent success of the City of West Bend's Park Recreation and Forestry Dept.'s Judo program which they have offered area residents for over 24 years through evening classes at Silverbrook Middle School."

Wildcat Men Lose Thriller to Manitowoc

By Statesman Sports Writer

WEST BEND — Being involved in close games is getting to be old hat for the UWWC men's basketball team. Now they just have to perfect winning them.

It was a thrilling game against one of the better teams in the Wisconsin Collegiate Conference, but that wasn't much comfort for the Wildcats, who dropped a thrilling 75-74 decision to UW-Manitowoc here, last Wednesday night.

"It was a barn-burner...real exciting," Wildcat coach Tom Brigham said of the game, which looked to be a blowout with Manitowoc entering the contest with just one loss. "For the most part, we played them head to head."

The Wildcats played a stellar first half against Manitowoc, and lead the visitors 40-34 at halftime, despite shooting just 37 percent from the floor in the first half.

"We were missing a lot of bunnies," Brigham said, referring to the fact that the Wildcats were getting some wide open shots underneath, but just blowing them. "We ran our flex offense just great, but we didn't finish off our shots."

It was a three-man show for the Cats in the first half, with Dave Swanson, Terry Howell and Jay Leberecht being the only UWWC players to find the mark, scoring 16, 10 and 14 points, respectively. Swanson's total included four three-pointers.

But the Wildcats struggled on the defensive side of the ball early in the second half, as Manitowoc jumped out in front. "We traded baskets from there, no one really went out in front," Brigham said of the tight ballgame.

But the Wildcats had a chance to tie with just :14 to play, as Terry Howell went to the line to shoot a pair with UWWC down 75-73. Howell made the first, but the second bounced away.

What happened next sounded like a comedy of errors, according to Brigham, who said that Keith Hosking got the rebound on the free throw miss, and his shot also missed the mark. The ball bounced off and into the hands of Buddy Mechinch.

"His shot went around and around," before falling out, according to Brigham, who said that the ball then fell into the hands of Swanson. But Swanson, in preparing to shoot, traveled with the ball. All of this happened in just over ten seconds.

Manitowoc subsequently had the ball out of bounds, and tried a long baseball pass to try and catch UWWC off guard. But Hosking knocked the ball away, and Swanson was there to grab it, launching a three-quarters court shot as time expired.

"The ball hit the rim, hit the backboard, hit the rim, and bounced off," Brigham said, describing the final shot that would have given UWWC the win.

Swanson and Howell wound up with 20 points each, while Leberecht finished with 19. John Braun led Manitowoc with 20, while Jon Mott and Jason Shimon added 15 and 14, respectively.

1992-93 Wisconsin Turkey Stamp Design Contest

Madison, WI — The design contest for the 1992-93 Wisconsin Turkey Stamp began December 1 and runs through March 1, 1992, said Bill Vander Zouwen, contest coordinator for the Department of Natural Resources.

Again this year the National Wild Turkey Foundation (NWTF), along with the Wisconsin Chapter of the NWTF, will publish and market a limited edition of fine art print reproductions from the winning entry. In addition to this national exposure, the winning artist will also receive $500 and a $3 per print signature fee paid by the NWTF.

Entries will be accepted from now through March 1, 1992. The design should be of an Eastern wild turkey appearing in a natural setting as found in Wisconsin.

Entries must be eight inches wide by 10 inches high, mounted on white matting to a size of 10 inches by 12 inches. The design must be the artist's original creation and cannot be copied or duplicated from previously published art, including published photographs.

Copies of the 1992-93 Wisconsin Turkey Stamp design contest rules and the print reproduction rights agreement may be obtained by writing to: Wisconsin DNR, Turkey Stamp Contest, P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707.

The 1991-92 contest winner was David Constantine, Durand; his design was chosen from among more than 60 entries submitted for the contest.

Cougars Outlast Indians In Holiday Finals, 49-41

By Statesman Sports Writer

WAUPUN — A pair of runs, one that did take place, and then one that didn't, told the tale of the Kewaskum boys basketball team's fortunes in the annual Holiday tournament, this year hosted by Waupun, last Friday and Saturday.

The run that did take place allowed the Indians to rally past Slinger in the Tourney's semifinals, as Kewaskum posted a 61-48 win over the Owls. The one that didn't happen allowed Campbellsport to hold off the Indians in the championship game, as the Cougars won their third straight Holiday Tourney with a 49-41 win.

It was nip and tuck against the Owls on Friday night, as the Indians held a slim one-point advantage after one quarter, 14-13, and then found themselves tied 29-29 at the half.

"We played pretty evenly in the first half," Indian coach Jim Westphal said of the matchup. "They came out really aggressive, and we were flat."

But a big third quarter run helped turn the game in Kewaskum's favor. The Indians outscored Slinger 18-7 in the quarter, and at one point ran off 12 straight points to take a commanding lead. Senior forward Joel Fleischman helped pave the way with 10 points in the period.

"He was the beneficiary," Westphal said of Fleischman, noting that good team defense was a key. "Our press started to bother them. They handled it pretty well in the first half, but we kind of wore them down. They just started to take some bad shots."

That gave the Indians an 11-point lead heading into the fourth, where they were never really threatened. Fleischman finished with 19 points, while Matt Seiser "played quite well," according to Westphal, chipping in 12. Matt Schellinger led the Owls with 15 points.

Next up for the Indians were the Cougars, whom they had fallen to, 72-65 in the first game of the year. This time around, the defenses took over, holding shooting percentages down and making for a much lower-scoring contest.

That was evidenced by the Indians' 9-8 lead after the opening quarter. "Neither team was shooting very well," Westphal continued. "We missed a lot of shots that we plain and simply should have made," including three missed free throws, which were an indication of what was to come.

The Cougars came back in the second quarter, outscoring the Indians by four to take a 22-19 halftime lead, all this without their leading scorer, Sam Durand, who missed the Tournament with a sprained ankle.

Campbellsport continued to pull away in the second half, as Indian turnover continued to mount. By the end of the third quarter, Campbellsport had a 35-29 advantage.

"We were just plagued by turnovers...unforced turnovers," Westphal said, noting that the miscues didn't come necessarily as the result of Cougar pressure. "They press, but the (T.O.'s) really weren't off of the press. It was the sloppiest passing game that we've had all year."

The Indians ended up with 17 turnovers for the game, but just as costly was the eight-for-18 performance at the line, an area that really could have helped in the tight contest.

"The game was still very much in doubt," late in the fourth, Westphal said. "If we could have made a little run like the night before, we could have just as well won the game."

But the run didn't occur, and the Indians were set back for the fourth time in five games. Fleischman once again led the Indians with 15, but "he really had to work for those," Westphal noted.

"There was a lot of good defense played," he went on. "They did a real good job at taking Matt (Seiser) out of the game." Seiser finished with just five points.

Ben Rettler led a balanced Cougar attack with 12 points. Mick Garvey and Aaron Buslaff also hit double figures, each chipping in ten.

"They're tough," Westphal said of the 9-0 Cougars. "But we missed some scoring opportunities early, and really struggled on offense. It just wasn't a very pretty game."

Westphal hopes to get the kinks out of the start of the new year, as the Indians will host Chilton this Friday, and then travel to Plymouth Jan. 10th, before returning home to face Mayville Jan. 14th.

Straub Wins Triton Tournament

By Statesman Sports Writer

RIVER GROVE, ILL. — Former Kewaskum High School standout Rich Straub captured the 142-pound title at the Art Kraft Memorial Tournament held at the Triton Community College campus recently.

Straub, a member of the UW-Whitewater wrestling team finished the day with a 5-0 mark, and improved his overall record to 10-1 this year.

Competing in a 25-man weight class, Straub started the day by beating Kuyahoga College's Ian Graham by a 12-5 count. Rich then beat Joe Marciano of Waubonsee College 9-6. In the quarterfinals, Straub made quick work of Lincoln College's Jason Mitsdarffer, pinning him in 34 seconds.

Straub easily won his semifinal match, a 12-2 decision over Eric Murray from the College of Dupage. The finals pitted Straub against junior college All-American Kelly Bitsko of Kuyahoga College. Straub had little trouble with Bitsko, an eighth place finisher at the NJCAA national tournament a year ago, using a headthrow to

Poor Shooting Continues to Hurt Lady Indians

By Statesman Sports Writer

SLINGER — You don't really have to look all that far to see why the Kewaskum girls basketball team has lost its last nine ballgames.

"Right now we're shooting under 20 percent for the season from the floor," Indian coach Glenn Eichstedt said over the holidays, after his team lost both of its games in the Slinger Holiday Tournament.

The Indians quickly realized just how far they've fallen, as they faced the host Owls in the first round. Slinger, the only team that the Lady Indians have beaten this year, pulled away in the second half to post a 35-27 victory.

Kewaskum followed the same trend that has seen them grab an early lead against opponents, but then falter on the offensive end. The Indians jumped out to a 9-4 lead midway through the first period, but did not score another basket until the Owls had run off ten straight to take a 14-9 advantage.

"We just continued the same type of play," Eichstedt said regarding the game. "We've been getting out of the blocks well. We just have not been able to put it together so far. We just

Riveredge Bird Club to Meet

The January 7 meeting of the Riveredge Bird Club will feature a slide program of some of Florida's finest wetlands. Bill Holmes in his program entitled Southern Swamp Stomping will travel in the Everglades, Corkscrew Sanctuary and Merritt Island in search of their bird inhabitants. The recent Riveredge Christmas Count also will be reviewed. The 7 p.m. meeting will be held at the Riveredge Nature Center, located just north of Newburg on Highway "Y". The program is free to everyone and refreshments will be served.

haven't been shooting real well."

The Indians tallied just a meager 16 percent from the field against the Owls, but still found themselves tied at halftime, 17-all. But another scoring drought at the outset of the second half did in the guests.

"We went the first six minutes of the second half without scoring," Eichstedt said, disappointedly. "Essentially, we just never got a run going, in either the first or second halves."

Down 25-19 heading into the fourth, the Indians were able to cut the deficit to four at one point, but were never able to get closer.

Robyn Winninghoff led the Indians with 12 points, but "offensively, no one besides Robyn had much of a night," according to Eichstedt. He did note, however, that Julie Mertz "had a really nice game...did a good job."

That sent the Indians into the consolation game against Hustisford, which had been downed by Mayville the night before. The Indians went into the game shorthanded, as several girls were missing due to injury or other conflicts, and finished the game even more diluted.

"In the end, we were playing people that we preferred not to," Eichstedt said, referring to one girl who had been in a car accident the night before, and was forced into action because the Indians ran out of other players due to foul trouble.

The foul trouble plagued the Indians all night, as Hustisford used a huge advantage at the line to post a 44-31 win over the Indians.

"They went to the line 38 times," a bewildered Eichstedt said. "We outscored them 11-8 in field goals, but they made 28 free throws to our nine."

In all, the Indians were whistled for 32 fouls, forcing four girls to foul out, and another two to finish with four apiece.

Eichstedt pointed to one point in the second quarter when his team was whistled for six straight fouls, forcing the Indian coach to voice his frustration to the officials, thus drawing a technical. "For the next minute or two, we got every call."

Hustisford hit 15 of their 32 attempts in the first half, also drawing Eichstedt's wrath. "That's enough for a whole game, and they had that many attempts by halftime."

Still, the Indians were only down by five at intermission, 23-18, and were well within striking distance. But the Indians' shooting problems continued, as they made just 17 percent of their tries from the field, and never mounted a serious threat in the second half, as Hustisford slowly pulled away.

"We are mentally hurrying our shots," Eichstedt said, trying to explain his team's shooting woes. "We're trying to score too many points in a hurry. We're just putting a lot of pressure on ourselves."

Tammy Schmidt and Terry Vogt fought through their shooting problems to lead the Indians with eight and seven points, respectively, while Winninghoff chipped in four.

The road doesn't get any easier for the 1-9 Indians, who ring in the new year by traveling to Chilton to take on the highly-regarded and undefeated Tigers, who are coming off of their championship win in the West Bend East Holiday Tournament.
