Serigraph Receives Certified Supplier Award from Calsonic

WEST BEND... Serigraph, Inc. was recently presented the Certified Supplier award from Calsonic Manufacturing Corporation, one of just 15 suppliers to be honored this year.

Calsonic, headquartered in Shelbyville, Tennessee, supplies heating, air conditioning and exhaust systems for Nissan, Mazda, Ford and General Motors automobiles. Serigraph manufactures "panel finishers," the dashboard overlays for the autos' heat and air conditioning units.

According to Holt Cason, director of materials management at Calsonic, Certified Supplier is the company's most prestigious award. "To achieve this recognition, a supplier must have virtually defect-free product, total on-time performance, bar-coded labels and advanced shipping notice (ASN) capability, and excellent customer service," he said.

"Only 15 suppliers won the award this year," Cason pointed out. "Serigraph was named Certified Supplier in its first year as a supplier to Calsonic, a feat that is very rare."

Serigraph, with 40 years of product decoration experience, is a leading supplier of automotive interior graphics.

Kewaskum Businesses Invited to Participate in Million Dollar Affair

The Channel 10 Auction... "A Million Dollar Affair," is currently seeking merchandise and service donations from Kewaskum area businesses.

Businesses that support the Auction reap a number of benefits. The televised Auction offers an impressive marketing value. With a donation valued at $65 or more, businesses receive live on-air recognition during an event that's seen by thousands of viewers. Auction donations are also tax deductible.

In addition, businesses that donate to the Auction contribute to a fund-raising event that supports the quality programming Milwaukee Public Television provides to Southeastern Wisconsin. In fact, the Auction funds ten minutes of every hour of television programming aired on Channels 10 and 36.

Support from area businesses is needed now for the 25th annual Auction to meet its $1,000,000+ goal when it airs live this spring on WMVS Channel 10. In less than six months, the Auction must secure, gather and process more than 10,000 donations for the nine-day event.

Interested donors from the Kewaskum area should contact the Channel 10/36 Friends' Auction office for further details. The Auction office is open during business hours and can be reached at (414) 278-1491.

The nation's no. 1 PBS auction... "A Million Dollar Affair," airs live on WMVS Channel 10 April 30th through May 8th.

Valley Bancard Wins National Service Quality Awards

Valley Bancard, an affiliate of Valley Bancorporation, was recently presented with two national awards for service quality excellence from Visa U.S.A. The awards are bestowed to member financial institutions for superior operational performance. Valley Bancard, Inc. was one of 26 Visa members, out of thousands, to win these coveted awards with annual Visa sales between $10 million and $1 billion.

The award for Best Chargeback Performance for an Acquirer recognizes Valley Bancard for having a very low percentage of chargebacks from the consumer to its merchant clients compared to the number of transaction that were processed. Valley Bancard contributes this award to the excellent operating procedures of its merchants and to Valley Bancard employees in handling error free information.

The second award for Best Request-for-Copy Performance by an Acquirer was awarded for the low percentage of Request for Sales Draft Copies by consumers compared to the number of transactions that were processed. This award is the result of merchants and Valley Bancard personnel supplying good, descriptive information on customers' statements.

Ed Baumann, President, Valley Bancard, said, "The importance of focusing on service quality excellence cannot be over-emphasized. At Valley, we believe it is a key ingredient that can set us apart in an increasingly competitive business environment. We are very honored and pleased to accept these awards on behalf of our merchants and our employees."

Turning Kids On to Reading

Prepared by Kandi O'Neil
Washington County UW
Extension and 4-H Youth Agent

Reading should be included in a child's leisure time activities. Because television-watching competes with reading, parents need to make an extra effort to encourage kids to read. Here are some ways to do this.

READING & STORYTELLING AS A FAMILY ACTIVITY

Reading aloud to your children and storytelling may be better competition for TV than having children read on their own. Set aside an hour or two each week for family reading or storytelling sessions.

Parents and children can be involved in selecting and reading the stories. Books or long stories can be read in installments. You can establish rituals such as telling ghost stories on rainy nights.

Make reading aloud as exciting as possible. Use different voices for dialogue and add comments about what has happened or what will happen next. With fidgety young listeners, skip over long descriptive passages and remember that toddlers have short attention spans.

While you read cuddle little children on your lap. They will then associate good feelings with reading. Although you may want to tape a few stories to be played when you are unavailable, this can never substitute for cozy, in-person reading.

TEACHING THROUGH STORIES

Storytelling is an ancient way of teaching lessons, morals and ideals. Children will listen to and learn more from a story than with a finger pointed at them.

For example, a story about a little beaver who got lost because he strayed from his mother, can teach a lesson. Family storytelling entertains and teaches children at the same time, and because it requires nothing but your imagination, it can be done in any setting at any time.

SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

It's one thing to tell children that you want them to read, but if kids don't see you reading they won't become readers either. To encourage them, have books around the house and give them as gifts. You can also read interesting items aloud to your children from magazines and newspapers.

DON'T TURN LEISURE READING INTO A CHORE

One of the reasons children don't like to read is that it may seem too much like homework. It's up to parents to expose children to reading for pleasure. Discuss books and stories with your children. Ask how they feel about a character or why they like a particular scene, rather than quizzing them on facts or details.

LIMIT YOUR CHILD'S TV TIME

The average American child spends three to four hours a day in front of the TV. Try to limit TV time to one hour a day with exceptions for special programs.

The other hours can be spent reading or doing other constructive activities. Never use TV as a punishment or reward because it makes it seem too important. Instead, make reading a special privilege. Let your child stay up half an hour later than usual if the time is spent reading.

MAKE YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY A FAMILY RESOURCE

Visit the library regularly to show your children the kind of books available. Children who are taken to the library regularly learn early that reading is for entertainment as well as for learning. This plays an important role in their success in school.

Ask the librarian to recommend books suited to your children's reading levels and interests and become acquainted with the children's books available there. To show children that books are important, teach your children to handle books carefully and make a fuss over the child's first library card.

January Exhibitions At WB Gallery

AN AMERICAN STORY: EIGHTY YEARS OF SOCIAL LANDSCAPE PHOTOGRAPHY FROM THE MILWAUKEE ART MUSEUM: January 6 - February 14

This exhibition represents a significant trend in American photography between the years of 1935 and 1983, in which the photographer consciously became a vehicle for social commentary. This selection of photography presents a broad sweep of 20th century masters including: Bernice Abbott, Diane Arbus, Lewis Baltz, Margaret Bourke-White, Bruce Davidson, William Eggleston, Walter Evans, Louis Faurer, Larry Fink, Robert Frank, Lee Friedlander, Dorothea Lange, Danny Lyon, Ed Ruscha, Weegee and Garry Winogrand.

This work focuses on human interaction within the framework of public, rather than intimate or private environment. While we might tend to think of photography historically as a medium for portraiture, or as documentation of important events, this selection of work enables the viewers to realize a new facet of the role of art and the photographer. These photographers ventured into the streets, subways, alleys and other man-made vistas of urban habitation. In a 1959 essay introduction to Robert Frank's book, THE AMERICANS, Jack Kerouac exclaimed on Frank's work, "The humor, the sadness, the EVERYTHING-ness and American-ness of these pictures!" Individuals are captured, sometimes unaware, in a daily drama that today, out of their original context, may have new meaning.

Susan Sontag writes that photography has become one of the principal devices of experiencing something, for giving an appearance of participation. It is an event. She continues, "...the photographer stays behind his or her camera, creating a tiny element of another world: the image-world that bids to outlast us all." (from ON PHOTOGRAPHY, 1973).

An illustrated catalogue accompanies this exhibition and includes an essay by Tom Bamberger, Curator of Photography at the Milwaukee Art Museum.

Excerpts From As I Remember

by Marvin Martin

During the depression, a girls basketball team was formed. Originally the girls played a six person team and certain people could only go up to half the court. This was later changed and they played more by the boys rules. The reason for starting the girls team was to try to get more people to come to the games. These girls also played other boys teams and probably got $25 for playing these teams (that's how I met my wife).

We talk about gangs today, yet it was not unusual for groups to go to dances for the sole purpose of picking a fight. I could name different groups, but I don't think that is appropriate, because people's character does change and these are bygone days.

The Forgotten Discrimination

Thousands of women each year join the nightmarish ranks of displaced homemakers, due to either widowhood or divorce. Not only must these women learn to cope with the loss, they now must often face the foreign world of finance and employment outside the home.

These women often fall through the cracks of social-service programs. They can not receive unemployment insurance for unpaid work in the home, and they may be too young for Social Security or lose claim to a part of their husband's pensions.

In 1989, widows and divorced women had the lowest and second lowest median incomes of unmarried women. The median income of widowed women was $8,362, while the median income for widowed men was $11,200. The median income for elderly divorced women was $8,147, and for men in the same category, $10,709.

Lifelong homemakers, or women whose job experience is outdated, find it difficult to find good-paying jobs. Finding job training, or retraining, is not easy. There are only about 1,000 programs to reach out to more than 20 million displaced homemakers. Less than 15 percent of female Job Training and Partnership (JTPA) participants have been trained or placed in nontraditional jobs.

Work force participation of women in the 55 to 64 age group has increased significantly. In 1950, only 27 percent of women in this age category were in the labor force, but by 1970, the proportion had risen to 43 percent. So middle-aged women as a group not only have special concerns, but they should also be aware of age discrimination as it affects the work force as a whole.

However, women are still over represented as a group in "traditional female jobs" that offer lower wages and few employ benefits. Women hold three-fourths of all women who work outside the home hold such jobs, as compared to 9 percent of women workers who hold higher paying jobs in occupations dominated by men.

Even midlife women who have been lifelong workers face limited opportunities for on-the-job training and advancement as well. Job segregation appears to increase with age: the older the woman, the more likely it is that she holds a "traditional female" job, frequently because that is where her career began. Midlife women will find that age compounds these inequalities. Age discrimination can start at age 40 for women.

Those women who do have higher-paying jobs run up against "the glass ceiling." Secretary Martin's "Report on the Glass Ceiling Initiative" found that, at best, women occupy only 17 percent of all managerial positions in Fortune 1000 companies, and only 7 percent of the executive-level positions. In addition, there is some evidence that, the more nontraditional the job and the higher the pay, the more sexual harassment a woman face.

Finally, and not surprisingly, the wage gap is amplified for midlife and older women. Although women as a group earn roughly 70 percent of what men earn, midlife and older women fare worse, earning only about 64 percent of what men in their age group earn. Women's earning also peak much earlier (age 35-44) than do men's (age 45-54).

AARP supports several measures to improve employment opportunities for midlife and older women:

- vigorous enforcement of civil rights laws, including laws prohibiting discrimination in early retirement and benefits policies, with particular attention to victims of multiple discrimination based on sex, age, and race;
- increased action to address obstacles like sexual harassment and the glass ceiling;
- greater support for training programs that target midlife women;
- improved compensation for jobs held predominantly by women;
- and mandated provision of important benefits (health insurance, pension coverage, Social Security taxes, etc.) on a pro-rated basis to part-time workers.

Age discrimination is illegal under the federal Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA). The ADEA protects most workers age 40 and older from discrimination on the job. The ADEA is based on the fact that ability, not age, should determine an individual's qualifications for getting and keeping a job.

You may file a complaint with the Illinois Department on Aging, Civil Rights Coordinator, Office of the Director, 421 E. Capitol Blvd., Springfield, IL 62701; 1-800-252-89966.

You may also file a complaint through the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) at 536 So. Clark St., Rm 930-A, Chicago, IL 60605; (312) 353-2713. Over 17,449 age discrimination charges were filed in 1991 with the EEOC.

In a 1988 survey of AARP members in Michigan, one out of every five respondents age 50 and older reported they felt discriminated against on the job or facing negative age bias. However, only 10 percent of the respondents reported taking any legal action because they said it wouldn't do any good or it was too difficult to prove. If employers recognize that older workers will be hesitant to take any legal action, or stand up for their rights, this may lead to further age discrimination.

Charles R. Twede, an AARP Worker Equity Volunteer, said that "Let your supervisor be aware that you know your rights."

Twede also suggested gathering all written information of your job evaluation, and pay attention to job evaluations that were consistently good start to become poorer when a company starts to downsize.

AARP is the nation's leading organization for people 50 and over. It serves their needs and interests through legislative advocacy, research, informative programs and community ser-VICES provided by a network of local chapters and experienced volunteers throughout the country. The organization also offers members a wide range of special membership benefits, including Modern Maturity magazine and the monthly Bulletin.

Study Says Calcium Guards Against High Blood Pressure

Calcium consumption may reduce your risk of developing high blood pressure.

That's the word from researchers at the University of Southern California School of Medicine, who found that people who consumed 1,000 milligrams of calcium a day lowered their risk of high blood pressure an average of 12 percent.

For people under 40, the news is even better: Their risk can be reduced as much as 40 percent if they are within average weight ranges and consume only moderate amounts of alcohol, the study indicates.

The study included 6,634 men and women who participated in the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey conducted by the National Center for Health Statistics from 1971 to 1984. All participants were required to provide information about their diets, drinking habits and medical problems. None had a history of using anti-hypertension medication when the study began.

After 10 years, the incidence of treated hypertension among the men and women was measured along with their daily calcium intake. Researchers found that, for each 1,000 milligrams of calcium consumed, the risk of developing high blood pressure was lowered an average of 12 percent.

"This may seem like a modest reduction," said James H. Dwyer, Ph.D., "but when you think about the prevalence of high blood pressure, it's very substantial." Dwyer, an associate professor of preventive medicine at the Los Angeles school, is co-author of the research.

"Our goal was to look at the role of calcium in high blood pressure and to see if it was different in certain individuals," Dwyer said. He said he was interested in conducting a long-term, large-scale study of dietary calcium because earlier studies have indicated calcium might help prevent high blood pressure.

Approximately 63 million Americans have high blood pressure. Left untreated, it can cause kidney failure and increase the risk of heart attack or stroke.

The 1,000 milligrams of calcium consumed by survey participants is about twice the average adult's daily calcium consumption. The Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) for calcium is 1,200 milligrams for 11 to 24-year-olds and 800 milligrams for those over 25. But Dwyer was quick to point out that individuals who wish to increase their calcium consumption should not start popping pills. Instead, he recommended they consume foods rich in calcium, such as milk, cheese and other dairy products, kale, broccoli and sardines with bones.

Nutrition experts at Dairy Council of Wisconsin note that, among adults, cheese is the most popular source of dietary calcium. Although the nutrient content of cheese varies slightly from one type to another, a 1/2 to 2-ounce serving generally supplies about 300 milligrams of calcium, as much as an 8-ounce glass of milk.

The California study is the second this year to link increased dietary calcium consumption to reduced risk of high blood pressure. In May, researchers at Boston University School of Medicine reported results of their study of 3 to 6-year-olds that indicated the more calcium children consumed, the more their systolic blood pressure was reduced. Both studies seem to suggest increased calcium consumption beginning early in life can have a significant impact on an individual's risk for developing high blood pressure.

Dairy Council of Wisconsin's nutrition education programs in Wisconsin, northern Illinois and northwestern Indiana, as well as Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board's research and marketing program nationwide, are made possible through funds provided by dairy farm families.

America Counts on Wisconsin's Agriculture

According to the most recent census of agriculture (1987), Wisconsin ranked first in milk cow inventory. Milk cows in Wisconsin accounted for 1.7 million head in inventory, 17.3 percent nationally. Dairy products sold totaled nearly $2.8 billion in 1987.

The evidence comes from the census of agriculture, taken approximately every five years dating back to 1840. Further trends will be measured when the 1992 Census of Agriculture is taken early next year. It is the only source of uniform, comprehensive data on agricultural production, inventories, sales, expenditures, and other items for each county, state, and the Nation. The census of agriculture, an integral part of the other economic censuses, helps local, state and Federal governments and organizations determine regional economic health and vitality.

Meanwhile, here is more of the state's agricultural story as shown by the most recent census of agriculture and related census information:

Wisconsin ranked eighth among states in cattle and calves inventory. Wisconsin reported 53,315 farms with cattle and calves and an inventory of 4.1 million in 1987. The number of cattle and calves sold during 1987 totaled nearly 2 million head.

The total 1987 sweet corn crop for Wisconsin was produced on 136.4 million acres.

Wisconsin ranked 10th in number of feeder pigs sold. Hogs and pigs accounted for $244.8 million in sales. The state's 1987 inventory numbered 1.3 million head. The number of hogs and pigs sold totaled 2.5 million of which 752,053 were feeder pigs.

Wisconsin ranked seventh in bushels of corn for grain or seed harvested, accounting for 311.7 million bushels. The total 1987 corn for grain or seed crop for Wisconsin was produced on 2.8 million acres, representing 4.7 percent of the Nation's corn acres harvested.

Total 1987 soybean harvested for Wisconsin was 297,226 acres; soybean harvested was 11.5 million bushels.

Farm organizations, farmer cooperatives and agribusinesses, universities, state and Federal agencies, and legislators use the information reported in the agriculture census. Here are some examples:

*Congress uses the census of agriculture to help develop, evaluate and revise farm production and rural development legislation. Information can be used to target farmers and farm communities with specific needs.

*State and local governments use census data to analyze and develop policy on land use, irrigation needs, farmland assessment and rural development.

*Farmer cooperatives and agribusinesses use census data to develop sales territories and to determine the most effective and efficient locations for distribution centers for farm equipment, machinery and supplies.

*Farm organizations use census data to devise farm programs and policy proposals.

*Universities use census of agriculture data to understand trends in farming and the rural economy. Specialists analyze data which assist planners and developers in directing state and local development.

*The Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service uses crop information to devise payment schedules in the administration of soil improvement, set aside and related conservation programs.

*The U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service uses census of agriculture data to plan operations during outbreaks of disease or infestations of pests. The agency estimates the extent of the problem to appropriately distribute resources.

*The Extension Service and Cooperative State Research (USDA) rely on census information to determine the number of farmers by race, gender and type of operation which enables county extension agents and university professors to better serve farmer and community needs.

*USDA's Economic Research Service uses the census of agriculture to prepare farm income and cost production estimates, as well as assess patterns and trends in resource use and management. Census data serve as a reference to USDA survey data.

These are some of the reasons why it is important to identify current trends in agriculture by collecting data for 1992. The Census Bureau will mail the 1992 Census of Agriculture report forms to agriculture producers in late December 1992. Title 13, U.S. Code, requiring farmers and ranchers to report in the census also protects the privacy of their reports. Only sworn Census Bureau employees may see report forms. Other government agencies cannot obtain individual reports. Information is used for statistical purposes and only summary information is published.

Sampling is used to collect data for selected items and to account for nonresponding farm operations. Thus the results are subject to sampling variability as well as reporting and coverage errors. Dollar values have not been adjusted for changes in price levels.

Make it known... America counts on agriculture!

IRS Has Extra Cash for 804 State Taxpayers

Need some extra cash? The Internal Revenue Service may have a check with your name on it. If you're one of 804 Wisconsin taxpayers who have not yet received your 1991 tax refund check, the IRS wants to hear from you.

According to John T. Ader, Director of IRS in Wisconsin, the IRS has undeliverable refund checks totalling over $301 thousand that are waiting to be claimed by 804 Wisconsin residents. The checks belong to Wisconsin taxpayers who filed a 1991 federal income tax return that resulted in the IRS owing them money. The largest check is for $12,024.95. The smallest is for $1.00. According to Ader, all these taxpayers have to do is contact the IRS and their refund check will be reissued.

Ader said the checks were returned by the Postal Service because they could not be delivered. Every year thousands of checks are returned because the address on the tax return was not legible or the taxpayer moved and didn't leave a forwarding address.

Ader suggests that taxpayers avoid these kinds of problems by using the peel-off mailing label that comes with their tax package or by filing Form 8822, "Change of Address," whenever they move.

Ader also has a suggestion for taxpayers who don't want the worry of waiting around for the postman to deliver their 1992 refund checks. "File your return electronically... by computer... and choose to have the refund deposited directly into your savings or checking account. Over half of the 167,000 Wisconsin taxpayers who filed their return electronically in 1991 opted for direct deposit. By doing so, they eliminated the possibility of their check being lost, stolen, or having it appear on the undelivered refund list."

Ader said that undelivered refund checks are not the general rule. Last year, over 1.4 million Wisconsin taxpayers received their refund check. The average refund was $823.

Sen. Stitt Helps Prepare Newly Elected State Legislators for 1993

In an effort to prepare newly elected state legislators from across the nation for the challenging tasks of 1993, State Senator Donald K. Stitt (R-Port Washington) recently worked with over 400 state legislators at an intense series of briefings on the issues facing the states today.

Stitt, who is a member of the American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC) board of directors, said the conference was "very productive" and "solidified the need for meaningful change throughout the nation."

"The 1992 election saw one of the highest turn-over rates in the history of American politics," Stitt said.

"The American people signaled clearly that they want change... they want their government, at all levels, to be more responsive and more accountable to the voters."

The conference, which was paid for by the ALEC Board of Directors, included sessions on critical topics such as controlling state spending, economic policy and health care reform.

"State Legislators elected this last November represent a new generation of political leadership dedicated to returning government to the people," Stitt said.

"This conference helps to set a new agenda for change in Wisconsin and legislatures across the country."

Stitt Calls for Special Session to Limit Gambling

MADISON... In an effort to limit the unchecked growth of legalized gambling in Wisconsin, State Senator Donald K. Stitt (R-Port Washington) urged Governor Thompson to call a special session of the Legislature to pass a constitutional amendment to more narrowly define "lottery" in our State Constitution.

Along with 13 other Senate Republicans, Stitt said it is "crucial for the constitutional amendment on gambling to be on the April 1993 ballot."

"Wisconsin residents never dreamed they were voting for full-blown gambling when they approved a state lottery," Stitt said.

"It's time to listen to the people instead of the gambling lobby."

Federal courts have broadly interpreted the word "lottery" in our constitution as including all forms of gambling, not just a state run lottery and horse and dog racing.

"Let's put the gambling debate to bed and place some meaningful limits on how far Wisconsin can venture into the dangerous realm of legalized gambling," Stitt said.

"A constitutional amendment is the only way to effectively help state officials say no to big-money gambling interests."

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of Leland Vetter, who passed away one year ago, Jan. 7, 1992.

Days of sadness still come o'er us.

Tears in silence often flow. For memory keeps you ever near us.

Though you died one year ago. Death can never take away And time cannot erase The memory of a loving heart. A dear familiar face; And there is comfort in the thought

That as the years go by Our memories grow dearer still- For love can never die.

Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren.

A 17-year-old Kewaskum youth was charged with leaving the scene of an accident after the auto he was driving struck the concrete steps and metal railing leading into the front entrance of the Glacier Inn at the intersection of Main Street and Fond du Lac Avenue at 12:35 a.m. last Wednesday. Local police reported the car was found and the driver apprehended at Hwy. 41 and CTH H about seven miles west of Kewaskum later. Officers followed a trail of water leaking from the damaged radiator of the car which had to be stopped for lack of water in the radiator.

Jim Butz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Butz of Kewaskum, who is a senior at Kewaskum High School, has received notice that he is included among the ten who were cited for honorable mention in the William Randolph Hearst Foundation-U.S. Senate Youth Program, according to this month's school newsletter. Butz was notified of his selection by the State Superintendent of Schools, William C. Kahl. This honor is a result of his nomination by his high school and a statewide examination.

A son, Ronald Eugene, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Theusch of the Town of Wayne, Route 3, Campbellsport, on New Year's Day, January 1, at St. Agnes Hospital in Fond du Lac. Born at 7:05 a.m., the baby is the first of this area born in 1968 and also the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Theusch. He tipped the scales at 7 pounds, 10 ounces. The new daddy is a service man (trouble shooter) at Gehl Mfg. Co., West Bend. The mother is the former Carol Ann Krebs of St. Lawrence. The Theusch family will receive gifts from 15 West Bend merchants after being declared winners of the West Bend "first baby" contest.

A daughter was born to A/1c James Dorn and his wife at Anchorage, Alaska, on December 27. Airman Dorn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dorn of Kewaskum, and Mrs. Dorn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Riley, West Bend.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Ahrens, Watertown, on December 12. Mrs. Ahrens is the former Mary Ellen Jaeger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jaeger of Kewaskum.

A daughter was also born to Mr. and Mrs. Barry Murre of Kewaskum on December 30.

JANUARY 8, 1943

Jacob Becker, village blacksmith for many years, suffered the loss of the last two fingers on his right hand on Monday morning in his shop when they were cut off while he was operating an electric motor powered joiner or planer. The fingers were cut off at the second joint. Mr. Becker was planing a piece of lumber in the machine. It was quite cold in the shop where the misfortune occurred and his fingers were stiff. For this reason he was wearing a pair of gloves. He got his hand too close and the glove got caught in the knives of the machine, pulling in his fingers. Mr. Becker was confined to his home a couple of days but is back on the job again doing what he can.

Tuesday, January 12, has been designated by President Roosevelt as National Farm Mobilization Day. On this day, farmers of the nation as a whole will be asked to plan maximum crop production for the year 1943. In many localities throughout America farmers will gather in their local school house or their community hall and hear farm leaders explain the great need for food in carrying on the global war in which America is taking a leading part.

Nearly ten inches of snow fell in this section over the weekend. The snowfall Friday night and early Saturday morning measured fully four inches and Sunday's heavy snowfall amounted to five inches. There was considerable wind with Sunday's snow and as a result country roads were drifted quite badly and the highway department was kept busy. This snow, added to that already covering the ground, gives us enough to last quite awhile. The streets are piled high with it.

"Be Prepared" for Social Security

by
David W. Becker
Branch Manager

If you're thinking about retiring and signing up for Social Security anytime soon, some of the best advice we can give you is contained in the old Boy Scout motto: "Be Prepared." The prospect of retiring and then dealing with a big government agency like Social Security can be overwhelming, but you should know that those of us who work at your local Social Security office understand your apprehension and are here to help.

You might like to know that about 4.5 million people sign up for Social Security benefits every year. And for almost everyone, the process is relatively simple and straightforward. Here are some tips that will help make sure the same is true for you.

1) Learn as much as you can about Social Security ahead of time. Call or visit our office and ask for free copies of one or both of these publications: "Understanding Social Security," (Publication No. 05-10024), which provides a general overview of all Social Security programs; or "Retirement," (Publication No. 05-10035), which tells you everything you need to know about Social Security retirement benefits.

2) Find out how much you'll get from Social Security ahead of time so you can make better plans for the future. To do this, just call or visit our office and ask for a "Request For Earnings And Benefit Estimate Statement," (Form 7004). About 3 weeks after you send in the form, you will receive a statement that lists your earnings as shown in our files and that provides an estimate of your retirement benefits. Disability and survivors estimates are also provided. Check the earnings statement and if you note any discrepancies with your own records, let us know and we'll help you correct our files.

3) Gather the documents you'll need to file for benefits. You'll need to have a certified copy of your birth certificate and W-2 forms for last year (or your tax return if you're self-employed). If you were in the military service, bring your discharge papers. If your wife and children also are filing for benefits, bring their birth certificates and Social Security numbers. If you want direct deposit, bring your checking or savings account information. Do not delay filing if any of this information is not available. Benefits could be lost each month you delay filing.

If you follow this advice, in other words, if you will "be prepared," signing up for Social Security should be a simple and easy process.

You can get the booklets and the benefit estimate request form mentioned above by calling Social Security's toll-free number: 1-800-772-1213, business days between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Golf 93 Courses in 1993 for Only $35

By Noel Stollenwerk

BROOKFIELD — Would you like to golf some of Wisconsin's best golf courses for just a portion of their cost? Then the $35 American Lung Association of Wisconsin Golf Privilege Card may be for you.

"This year's Lung Golf card offers more courses and new playing options," said Irene Kuntz, a volunteer for the American Lung Association of Wisconsin. "Courses offer either free greens fees with required power cart rental, or one free greens fee with one paid greens fee. In any case, golfers can save $1,000 in green fees and play some of Wisconsin's finest courses."

Among those courses participating in the program include Alpine Valley Resort (East Troy), Americana Resort (Lake Geneva), Olympia Resort (Oconomowoc), Fox Hills Resort (Mishicot), Quit-Quit-Oc Golf Course (Elkhart Lake), and many others.

Golf Privilege cards may be purchased by calling the American Lung Association of Wisconsin at (414) 782-7833 or 800-242-5160. VISA and MasterCard are accepted.

The cards may also be purchased at Play-It-Again Sports retail outlets, including the one in West Bend, at 821 South Main St.

Proceeds are used to help the American Lung Association fight lung disease in Wisconsin through education and research.

The Urban Fishing Waters And New Regulations

There has been some confusion this year with the new fishing regulation pamphlet and the reference to Urban Waters in Washington and Sheboygan Co.

The Urban Waters are small ponds located mainly in parks and are posted as such. It does not include the lakes in Washington and Sheboygan Co. where the daily bag for pan fish still is 50 in aggregate. For a list of the Urban Waters contact the nearest District DNR Office at 414-263-8613.

Ice conditions are very unsafe at the present time on area Lakes. Please use extreme caution when on the ice.

If you have any other questions feel free to contact me at, 626-2116 or 533-5041.

IRS Warns Taxpayers About "Refund Services" by Mail

If you receive a postcard in the mail telling you that you have an unclaimed tax refund from the Internal Revenue Service, you should know that it didn't come from the IRS. You should also know that this card may actually end up costing you money.

Wisconsin's IRS has been getting calls from taxpayers throughout the state who have been receiving postcards, usually green, in the mail. The postcards are from a group identifying themselves as the "Center for Refund Services" in Oakland Park, Florida.

According to John T. Ader, Director of IRS in Wisconsin, the card tells taxpayers that the IRS is holding unclaimed tax refund checks from tax year 1991. The card instructs the recipient that, in order to claim their tax refund, they should send $9.97 along with the card to receive a "Refund Service Claim Package." The card says the package will tell them how to prepare their claim and allow them to determine the amount of their tax refund.

Ader said that the problem with the information on the card is threefold. "In the first place, only the IRS issues tax refund checks — there is no way this organization could have your tax refund check or know the amount you are due. Secondly, the IRS only issues tax refund checks to people who are entitled to them — people who filed a federal income tax return that resulted in the IRS owing them money. Some people who are receiving these postcards were not due a refund at all. Thirdly, chances are that if you expected a tax refund for 1991 — and didn't get it — you would have already contacted the IRS."

The card also lists money amounts that are related to "a transfer of sweepstakes funds." Ader said some recipients may not read the fine print. "They may think it's their refund amount. It's not."

Ader advises anyone who receives one of these cards, or anything similar, to read the fine print and know what you're paying for. "Refund schemes involving tax money frequently pop up prior to and especially during the tax filing season. If the IRS owes you money, contact us immediately. We'll send you the proper form you need to claim it — and we'll do it for free. Don't waste your $9.97. Don't be tricked into paying for information that you can get from the IRS for free."

If you filed a 1991 federal income tax return and expected a refund — and didn't get it — call the IRS taxpayer information hotline. In the Milwaukee area, call 271-3780. Elsewhere in Wisconsin, call toll-free, 1-800-TAX(829)-1040.

Fishing is More than Filling the Freezer

By Lee Kernen

MADISON, WI — There aren't enough fish in Wisconsin to feed everybody who lives here today. There were almost five million people living in Wisconsin in 1990, and nearly two million people go fishing.

By comparison, we estimate there are about two to three million adult walleyes in all of Wisconsin's waters. About a third of these fish, or approximately one million walleye, can be harvested annually without harming their populations.

At best, that leaves one walleye a year for every two anglers. Fortunately, not everybody fishes for the keeps walleyes. Most anglers concentrate on panfish.

Panfish, like bluegill and perch, are much more abundant; but even these species cannot stand unlimited harvest. On Green Bay, perhaps our best perch fishery, Department of Natural Resources fisheries managers estimated ice anglers caught 2,060,000 yellow perch during the winter of 1989-90 alone. This led to a reduction of the daily bag limit to 25 fish. Imagine, sport anglers over-harvesting a huge bay of a Great Lake! Just a few short years ago neither anglers or fishery biologists thought that was even possible.

I call this to your attention for a very good reason. Most of our lakes and streams are already at or very close to their maximum fish harvest.

There are only three ways to improve fishing: we can improve habitat; we can stock more fish; or we have to kill less fish.

Working together, government and businesses have cleaned up a lot of the pollution in the Fox and Wisconsin Rivers, allowing us to reclaim this fish habitat. Thousands of fish now reside in these waters.

We do other habitat work too, like improving trout streams and providing hiding spots for trout. One of our most successful programs is to aerate lakes that would suffer annual winterkill of fish as oxygen disappears under the ice. Through installation of bubble hoses driven by compressors, we can make hundreds of acres of water suitable habitat for fish.

Stocking is the second way to improve fishing and we use this technique effectively in Wisconsin. But stocking only works in some lakes and streams. With our thousands of lakes and rivers we will never be able to sustain our fisheries by stocking.

Nor would we want to. By taking care of our environment and with proper management, natural reproduction should be able to provide more than 90 percent of the fish caught in Wisconsin. In the long-run, clean water and good habitat is the most important thing we can do to ensure good fishing for now and in the future.

But if the habitat is already there — and Wisconsin has a lot of beautiful water — the quickest and most effective technique to provide more action on the water is to catch and release fish. And this applies to all kinds of fish, even those that are especially good to eat. We have to view fishing in a different light.

I was raised in the 40's and 50's and my family ate everything my Dad and I caught or shot. Lake Michigan perch, caught off the piers in Sheboygan, were an important supplement to our diet in those days. But times are changing and there simply are not enough fish to go around for people to view them as a major part of their diet. Today, supermarket bins are loaded with top quality cod and haddock that are reasonably priced and excellent eating.

Walleye and panfish are tasty supplements to our diets and should be enjoyed occasionally. But if everyone in Wisconsin maintains a fill-the-freezer attitude, we will never see the kind of improvements in Wisconsin fishing that so many of us anglers would like to see.

For more information contact Lee Kernen (608) 267-0796.

Lady Indians Win Mayville Invitational

By Noel Stollenwerk

MAYVILLE — In what coach Glenn Eichstedt labeled as the team's best performance of the season thus far, the Kewaskum girls basketball team upset Mayville, 57-44, in the opening round of the Mayville Invitational here, last Tuesday night.

"It's always a great thrill to win at Mayville," Eichstedt said of his squad's victory over the Cardinals, who came into the game unbeaten at home and in the Flyway Conference.

The Indians started off slowly against the Cardinals, with a Bonnie Schlice free throw representing the lone point scored in the first four minutes.

But both teams started to find the range, although it was Mayville who held the first quarter edge, 11-8, thanks much in part to Nicole Walter's seven points.

Eichstedt unhappy with the way things were going, drew a technical foul early in the second quarter. But as the KHS boss pointed out, "things started to go our way," in the second period, as the Indians got eight points from Robyn Winninghoff to help pull into a 22-all tie at the half.

Winninghoff continued to stay hot in the third, scoring another eight points to help the Indians go up by two, at 37-35, heading into the fourth.

It was there that the Indians' defense took over, as junior Ginger Wiesner came up with some big steals to help the Indians break it open. Wiesner finished with seven points in the quarter, helping the Indians outscore the hosts 20-9 and pull away.

"The game was determined by our ability to patiently control the pace of the game," Eichstedt noted, adding that "solid defense and a patient offense resulted in a gradual pulling away."

Winninghoff led all scorers with 20 points, while she also chipped in with 12 rebounds. Wiesner finished with 11 points, eight steals and eight assists, while sophomore Missy Radtke was a force on the boards, grabbing a game-high 15 rebounds.

"It was our best interior passing and shooting all season," Eichstedt said of the win. For the game, the Indians connected on 36 percent of their shots (22/60), while limiting Mayville to just 26 percent (15/58) shooting.

Walter led the Cardinals with 16 points, while Rachel Ehlers added 10.

Schlice and Kim Sabish also "contributed significantly," according to Eichstedt. Schlice finished with eight points and five assists, while Sabish added five points, four assists, and four steals.

KEWASKUM (8-14-15-20) — Wiesner 11, Sabish 5, Mertz 1, Schlice 8, Winninghoff 20, Radtke 10, Free Throws - 12 of 26, Fouls - 21.

MAYVILLE — (11-11-13-9) - Keller 6, Williams 4, Rosin 4, Heideman 2, Budahn 2, Ehlers 10, Walter 16, Free Throws - 12 of 21, Fouls - 25.

Saturday Morning Shooters Slammers Basketball Program

Members of the 1992-93 Kewaskum High School Girls and Boys Basketball Teams will be conducting fundamental basketball clinics for area students in grades first through sixth on Saturday mornings in January at the K.H.S. Fieldhouse.

The goal of this program is to help develop proper ballhandling and shooting skills of future participants on area athletic teams as well as provide a teaching experience for current members of our high school girls and boys basketball teams.

Sessions will be conducted on the last four Saturdays in January (9th, 16th, 23rd & 30th) of 1993. Parents can register participants any time from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. on Saturdays in the Kewaskum High School Fieldhouse. It is not mandatory that each registered student participate each week, however, all students who have participated in at least three sessions will be invited to perform prior to the Varsity girls game on Friday evening, January 29th.

The clinic will be divided into two sessions each Saturday morning. With the 9 a.m. session for fourth through sixth grade individuals interested in improving their shooting mechanics and form. Whereas the 10:30 a.m. session for first through third grade participants will emphasize ballhandling skills, such as, dribbling and passing.

Participants should show up 10 to 15 minutes prior to their session with their gym shoes along (no special attire required—street clothes are fine) and all students must be out of the building by 12:30 p.m. Parents should arrange to have their child(ren) picked up immediately after their session has ended.

On Friday, Jan. 29th the Kewaskum Indians will host the Chilton Tigers in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference game as well as hosting our second annual "Elementary School Night". Thus, all participants in the Saturday Shooters and Slammers Basketball Program will have a chance to demonstrate their skills prior to the start of the varsity contest, approximately 7:15 to 7:45 p.m. Sportsmanship rather than competition will be emphasized throughout, thereby all participants will receive Certificates and Awards on Saturday, Jan. 30th.

The K.H.S. Basketball Teams personnel will provide supervision and individual instruction with the School District of Kewaskum making the facilities and equipment available for your child's use. There will be No Charge or fee associated with these basketball clinics. The only requirements are registration, your time, effort and enthusiasm. If you have any questions, please contact Coach Eichstedt at Kewaskum High School (626-2166).

Big First Half Helps KHS Beat Falcons in Title Game

By Noel Stollenwerk

MAYVILLE — A quick start and a stingy defense were parlayed into a Tournament title by the Kewaskum girls basketball squad here, last Wednesday night.

The Indians used their tough defense to jump out to a 20-point lead over Hustisford, and then held on down the stretch for a 39-31 win over the Falcons in the championship game of the Mayville Invitational.

It was the Indians' second championship in the Invitational, and helped KHS improve to 5-3 overall for the year.

"We relied upon tremendous team defense and intensity," KHS coach Glenn Eichstedt said of the championship win. "All members of the team were able to contribute."

That was because the Indians were able to use their strong defense to build a huge lead. Kewaskum forced five Falcon turnovers in each of the first two periods, in building a comfortable 23-11 halftime lead.

Ginger Wiesner was, as usual, opportunistic, coming up with five steals in the first half. KHS used nine different players in the first half, and had six different players score in building the huge lead.

Things got worse for Hustisford in the second half, as the Indians increased their lead to 29-15 at the end of the third period. KHS scored the first six points of the fourth to make it a 20-point margin, before a late Falcon run made the score more respectable.

Sophomore Missy Radtke, who has been a key to the Indians squad thus far, led the team with eight points and 13 rebounds. Wiesner and Robyn Winninghoff each added six points, while Wiesner finished with six steals on the night. Sandra Schmidt also played well, finishing with five points, all coming in the fourth quarter.

The tough Indian defense limited Hustisford to just ten field goals for the entire game. The Falcons shot a paltry 24 percent (10/41), including a 3-for-15 effort (20 percent) in the first half.

Briana Glauvitz of Hustisford led all scorers with 10 points, while also pulling down 11 rebounds.

The Indians, who sport a 2-1 mark in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, will get back into the swing of things in the EW this Thursday, when they host Sheboygan Falls.

Indians Fifth in 35-Team Tournament Dziedzic, Kurtz Bring Home Mat Titles

Kewaskum Senior Todd Muckerheide faces Mario Trafficante of Poynette at the Oshkosh Tournament.

By Noel Stollenwerk

OSHKOSH — A pair of Kewaskum wrestlers showed why they might be headed back to the WIAA State Tournament, while several other Indians gave indications that they want to make the trip to Madison as well.

Competing in the 35-team Oshkosh Lourdes Invitational at the Kolf Sports Complex on the campus of UW-Oshkosh, the Indians as a team took fifth with 167 points, and also brought home a pair of individual champions.

"It went real well," KHS coach John Nell reported. "There were some pretty tough teams up there. We had two champions, so I was real happy with that."

Kewaskum's perennial rival, Campbellsport, won the tournament team title, amassing 312 points. The Cougars also had a pair of champions, including the tournament's outstanding wrestler, 112-pounder John Dexter.

The Indians' Mark Dziedzic and Josh Kurtz were also outstanding, both coming away with 5-0 marks and individual titles.

Kurtz, competing in the 152-pound class, opening up against Don Herman of DePere, and quickly put his shoulders to the mat in :49.

Kurtz then scored a quick pin against a Two Rivers wrestler, before rolling over a foe from Wild Rose, 20-7. "He was a real tough kid," Nell said of Kurtz's quarterfinal foe.

The Indian senior drew a wrestler from Roscholt in the semi's, easily advancing with an 8-2 win. In the finals, though, Kurtz had his hands full with Oak Creek's Bill Kahle, who was a state qualifier a year ago.

The match was scoreless heading into the second period, when Kahle scored on a reversal to make it 1-0. Kurtz came out fired up in the third, however, scoring a reversal and then putting Kahle on his back for near fall points to take a big lead. Kahle benefitted from a couple of penalty points against Kurtz to make it close, but Kurtz eventually came away with a convincing 7-5 win.

"He was pretty much in control the whole match," Nell said of the defending state Division II champion Kurtz. "He did a good job."

Dziedzic also did pretty good, recording four pins and a decision. Dziedzic opened up against Winneconne's Chris Marx, getting a fall in 4:16. The senior then scored a pinfall (4:53) against Austin Hearty, setting up a quarterfinal showdown against Campbellsport's Aaron Zangl, who came into the match with a 12-2 record.

Dziedzic put Zangl on his back in the second period though, before eventually pinning him in 4:41. "I really hadn't expected that," Nell said of Dziedzic's easy win over Zangl.

In the semifinals, Dziedzic scored another pin, this one in 3:51, putting him in the title bout against Waupaca's Nathan Smith.

After the scoreless opening period, Smith scored an escape in the second to take a 1-0 edge. That's the way it stayed until late in the final period, when Dziedzic came up with a reverse, and then held on for a 2-1 victory.

"That was real close," Nell said of the title match. "He (Smith) was a pretty tough kid. But Mark nailed some good kids up there."

In addition to the two titles, the Indians also came away with a

Wrestling Poll

By Noel Stollenwerk

STEVENS POINT — The latest crossface wrestling poll still shows Campbellsport ranked fourth among the WIAA Division II schools, but also shows that Kewaskum might be on the verge of moving into the poll.

While they are not even included in the "Also Receiving Votes" category, the Indians' strong showing at the Oshkosh Lourdes Tournament might garner them some votes in the next rankings.

The Indians finished fifth in the meet, ahead of at least two of the top five schools in the WISAA rankings. The Indians finished one-half point ahead of WISAA's No. four school, Milwaukee Pius XI, and also finished ahead of Lourdes, who is ranked fifth in the state.

Campbellsport, which won the Lourdes Tournament, received 79 votes in the Division II balloting, well behind Luxemburg-Casco, which continues to hold down the No. 1 spot.

Merrill is the top Division I school in the poll, while Athens easily is the No. 1 Division III team.

Hartford, meanwhile, is ranked ninth in Division I, while Cedar Grove, is ranked fourth in Division III. The Rockets will host Kewaskum in a dual meet January 19th.

Mark Dziedzic, Kewaskum, works to get Doug Tenor of De Pere to his back. Mark pinned Doug to get into the championship round.

sixth from Mark Morell (171), sevenths from Chad (160) and Todd Muckerheide (189), and an 11th from soph Rich Farchione (145).

"That was just a jam-packed weight class," Nell said of the 189-pound class, in which Muckerheide sported a very impressive 4-2 mark. "That was easily the toughest in the whole tournament. I think there were six or seven undefeated kids in that class."

Both Muckerheides, Morell, and Farchione came away with respectable 4-2 records in the meet, with their places depending on when they lost.

Meanwhile, Jake Thull (112), Jake Gundrum (119), and Corey Rammer (135) each sported 2-2 marks in their matches, but did not place.

In addition, Nell was happy to report that sophomore Tyler Dieringer (130) returned to action, after missing the first half of the year with an injury. Despite Dieringer's 0-2 mark in the meet, Nell isn't concerned.

"I think a lack of mat time hurt him," the KHS coach said of Dieringer, who fared well on the JV squad last season. "He's just got to get out there on the mat and compete."

Nell was quite pleased with the tournament as a whole, adding that "it was very well-run." The tough competition should help his wrestlers at the end of the season, he noted.

"We did alright," Nell concluded regarding the meet. "We were working pretty hard. I was very happy with our effort."

The Indians will get back into Eastern Wisconsin Conference action this Friday, when they travel to New Holstein. That will be a good warm-up for this Saturday's Fond du Lac Invitational, which will again pit the Indians against some of the top wrestlers in the state.
