Country Music Fest Promoter Withdraws Rezoning Request

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

A record crowd of 150 people packed the Auburn Town Hall Monday evening to voice their opinions on the request from Bill Heberer to rezone 120 acres in the Town of Auburn from agricultural to rural development for the purpose of holding a three day country music festival.

After two hours of discussion before the Planning Commission, Heberer's spokesperson, Gary Runge of Excel Engineering, Campbellspport, withdrew their request for the rezoning and special permit stating, "this development is not appropriate, and the petitioner is withdrawing."

Heberer's presentation included Billy Greiner, retired director of the Wisconsin State Fair for 20 years, along with an architect's drawing of the proposed site located on property adjacent to Auburn-Ashford Dr. and Pine Lane; specifically 80 acres in sec. 28, owned by James Kieckhafer, and 40 acres in sec. 21 owned by Maynard Bartelt.

The proposed plan was to develop a site on secured grounds for a family oriented country music festival, with an attendance of approximately 8 to 10 thousand people

Improvement specifications were explained, as well as crowd and traffic control, noise problems, garbage collection, dust and water concerns, the involvement of local police and fire departments, as well as increased revenue to the surrounding communities.

In reference to his experience as director of the Wisconsin State Fair, Griener stated, "we've never had any problems off the ground. It can be run safely with very little problem." A petition signed by those in favor of the festival was presented to the board, along with a letter from the Rhinelander Chief of Police, Tony Paris, stating the positive aspects of the Hodag Country Festival in Rhinelander.

"Yes, it does have a large impact on the economy of this area. It trickles down to all the business community. We never had any major problems with crowd control," stated Chief Paris.

The request was for a three year permit to be extended on an annual basis. "We want to work with you (the board) to make everyone happy," commented Gary Runge.

Plan commission member Harry Knoelke presented a letter from the Dept. of Natural Resources, opposing there zoning. Reasons included a negative impact on the Kettle Moraine the Milwaukee River Basin, and the future of wildlife in the area.

Town of Auburn residents took turns voicing their opposition to the members of the Plan Commission: Chairperson Mel Furlong, David Runge, Camilla Butzke, Cary Ramthun and Harry Knoelke. They were represented by their lawyer, John St. Peter, who often spoke on behalf of the board.

Area Man Hurt in Bike Accident

By Noel Stollenwerk

RIVER FALLS -- A Kewaskum area-man was seriously injured in a freak biking accident here, last Thursday.

Eric Pearson, a 1988 Kewaskum High School graduate, suffered severe spinal injuries when he lost control of his mountain bike and struck a tree head-first. The accident occurred when Pearson was riding with two other friends from the University of River Falls football team.

The injuries are not life-threatening, according to Pearson's mother, Mary Kay, who was reached at St. Paul (Minn.)'s United Hospital, where Pearson is listed in serious, but stable condition.

"He's very lucky," Pearson's mother said of the accident, in which Eric struck the tree while traveling approximately 35 miles per hour. "The doctor (treating Eric) said that it was the equivalent of shooting out of a canon and hitting it head-first."

As a result, Pearson suffered a compressional fracture of his spinal cord, as well as broken ribs, a separated left shoulder, a punctured left lung, and numerous cuts and lacerations. Due to the spinal injury, Pearson was paralyzed from the chest down.

Pearson, who was a four sport standout athlete at KHS and went on to become River Falls' starting quarterback the past two seasons, was in extremely good physical condition before the accident. That dedication to strength conditioning more than likely saved his life, according to his mother.

Parade Theme Announced

The Kewaskum Firemen/Legion picnic is not far away. That, of course, means parade time nears.

This year the theme of the parade is, "Salute Our Area Volunteers." The firemen encourage everyone to enter their floats and novelties in the parade. It is hoped the parade this year can be bigger and even better than last year.

The same rules apply as last year. Anyone entering a semi-truck and trailer must either have a float or band on the trailer. Otherwise the truck must be entered without the trailer.

The parade begins at noon on July 11th. Hope to see you there.

Vehicle Collides With Train Here

Steven J. Dilling of Fond du Lac, was extremely lucky to escape from the above vehicle-train collision with minor injuries late Thursday, May 13. The 1988 GMC "Jimmy" Dilling was driving was struck by a southbound Fox River Valley train at the Main Street crossing in Kewaskum around 10:19 p.m. The vehicle was pushed down to Railroad Street and Prospect before the train could come to a complete stop. Dilling escaped through the sun roof, suffering only minor cuts to the forehead and arm. Witnesses to the accident called 911 and the Kewaskum Rescue Squad and Fire Department was dispatched to the scene, however, Dilling refused transport to the hospital. The "wig-wag" signals at the Main Street crossing were working at the time of the collision.

Day Football Games to be Considered Preliminary Work Set to Begin on Remodeling

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM -- The Kewaskum Board of Education voted last Monday to begin interviewing engineering firms and design contractors for the schools district's multi-million dollar expansion and remodeling project.

The unanimous votes signalled the beginning of the initial stages of the project, dubbed the "Master Plan." The project is scheduled to include revamping of the science and music areas, locker rooms, administrative offices, athletic facilities, and a new auditorium.

Monday's vote gave the district permission to start the first phase of the project, which will be the development of the athletic facility at the high school. The interviewing process has already begun with several engineering consultants, and District Administrator Dr. David Heather told the Board that formal recommendations will be made to the Building and Grounds Committee.

Board member Ron Beimbom told his constituents, however, that several residents have approached him with their concerns about the projects.

"People want to see an emphasis on academics and the arts," Beimbom said of his conversations with taxpayers. They figure that our (the Board's) priorities are misrepresented."

Ron Theusch, citing his concerns at the meeting, agreed with that assessment. Theusch used the football field as an example, saying that the money that might be used to install new lights could go to a more worthwhile cause.

"That's going to be a lot of money paid (for the lights), and that's just for the opportunity to play football on Friday nights," Theusch told the Board. He suggested that the Board look into the possibility of playing games either Friday after school, or possibly on Saturday afternoon. This way, the money for the lighting could go for more important renovations that involved academics.

Board President Neal Weare added that the possibility was being looked at. Weare also told Theusch that the Board was committed to funding the project, despite the fact there is only about $150,000 available in the Capital Improvement Fund for the renovations.

"Ultimately, it'll be up to the rest of the voters in the district," Weare said, noting the Board could pass a resolution giving the voters an idea of the total cost. The voters would then have a reasonable amount of time in order to get signatures and force the issue to a public referendum.

"This is a very important issue," Weare went on, adding that the public will have to play a very active role in the project.

Rezoning

Donna Sarauer presented a petition signed by the neighbors of the proposed site, listing their strong objections to the idea of a three day music festival being held in their neighborhood. Some of their fears included harm to wildlife, excess noise, fire safety, garbage and sanitation problems, the enforcement of drinking laws, unmanageable traffic volume, drug paraphernalia on their lawns including needles, the threat to single women living along in the area, urination on their properties, oil leaking from vehicles onto the land, the loss of water in their wells, dogs breaking loose from camping areas and killing neighboring livestock, vandalism, theft, possible arson, as well as the devaluation of their properties. "We don't believe this township can support it," noted Sarauer.

Other comments from the crowd against the proposal included one resident who stated, "some of those homes are over $100,000 out there." Al Wiesner voiced the fact that "nobody asked us how we felt;" and Dan Casey pointed out that the neighborhood would be littered with everything "from t-shirts to diapers to steak bones to dog bones."

"I withdrew my petition because of the concerns of the residents of the Town of Auburn," stated Heberer after the meeting. Plans for an alternate site for the country music festival are being discussed.

The Youth Choir lined the church aisle with lifted palms and sang "When Jesus Came to Jerusalem". During the worship they also sang "Each New Day". On the Tuesday evening prior to their confirmation, the six youth presented papers on faith for a gathering of family, friends and church members. College for Kids Program at UWWC

College for Kids is a program designed for children with high academic potential, motivation and talent. University of Wisconsin - Milwaukee has provided this program for thirteen years. This summer, UWM is offering several classes cooperatively with University of Wisconsin-Washington County.

"The cooperative program is designed to provide exciting learning experiences," according to Joan Laabs, coordinator of Continuing Education.

Home Improvement Loans Available to Wisconsin Vets

West Bend - To finance home improvements, qualified Wisconsin veterans may borrow $3,000.00 to $15,000.00 at an annual interest rate of only 7.4 percent with up to 15 years to repay.

The Home Improvement Loan Program (HILP), administered by the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs, may be used for construction, remodeling and repairs that will protect or improve the basic livability or energy efficiency of the veteran's home. The loan also may finance garage construction.

Although HILP can be used for a variety of improvements, some are not allowed such as: deck or patio construction, home appliances purchases, fencing, landscaping, or adding recreational facilities such as pools, saunas and tennis courts. HILP has the following requirements:

*The veteran must meet eligibility criteria for state residency and military service (CVSO has information on these requirements).

* The house must be the veteran's principal residence.

* The veteran must have at least 10 percent equity in the property. The fair market value listed on the property tax bill plus one-half of the cost of the proposed improvements may be used in this calculation.

* The combined annual income of the veteran and spouse must not exceed $42,600.00. VA disability compensation and income from part-time National Guard or Reserve service do not count toward the

Valley Records Strong First Quarter Earnings

Valley Bancorporation recently reported quarterly net income of $10.894 million, or $.81 per share for the quarter ended March 31, 1993, up from $8.226 million or $.67 per share in the same period last year.

Commenting on the first quarter results, Peter M. Platten, III, Valley's President and Chief Executive Officer, said, "Valley's earnings are on plan for the first quarter of 1993 and continue to reflect the benefits of our cost control initiatives. We are very pleased to report this level of first quarter earnings."

Platten continued, "the outlook for the remainder of 1993 looks positive, however we are aware of the potential for future interest rate declines which would place further pressure on our interest margin. We continue to experience excellent credit quality which compares very favorably with our peers. We expect to show further benefits this year from our reorganization, standardization and centralization efforts. We are confident that these increased efficiencies, along with the benefits from our expansion efforts, will make 1993 a year of increased profitability in which we will move Valley to its goal of becoming a superior performing financial services company."

On July 1, 1992, Valley completed the acquisition of United Savings and Loan Association. In this transaction, United was converted from a mutual to a stock institution and concurrently issued all of its stock to Valley. As part of the transaction, Valley sold to United's account holders and the general public 1,002,225 shares of its common stock at a price of $32.75 per share. Part of the proceeds from the sale ($18 million) were infused into United. This transaction was accounted for as a purchase and therefore, Valley's consolidated results of operations only include the operations of United from July 1, 1992 forward.

Earnings for the first quarter of 1993 benefited from an increase in fully tax equivalent (FTE) net interest income of $3.745 million over the first quarter of 1992, resulting from growth in average earning assets between quarters of 11.6% or $411.054 million, primarily reflecting external growth. Net interest income was negatively impacted by continued asset repricing in the existing low interest environment. This asset repricing along with the softening in loan demand has put pressure on Valley's interest margin.

Noninterest income increased from $13.525 million in 1992 to $15.755 million in 1993. Most categories of noninterest income increased, with the largest increases noted in other service charges, commissions, and fees ($.652 million), gain on sales of mortgage loans ($.529 million), accretion of negative goodwill ($.394 million), service charges on deposit accounts ($.347 million), annuity commissions ($.176 million), and credit card revenues ($.171 million). Decreases were noted in net securities transactions ($.254 million) and insurance revenues ($.048 million). Noninterest expense increased from $38.058 million in the first quarter of 1992 compared to $40.051 million in 1993. The most significant areas of increased noninterest expense were salaries and wages (1.290 million) and pensions and other employee benefits ($.533 million).

Valley's efficiency ratio (noninterest expense as a percent of FTE operating income excluding securities gains or losses) decreased to 68.05% in the first quarter of 1993, down from 71.52% in the first quarter of 1992 and 69.20% in the fourth quarter of 1992. Through continued implementation and administration of its cost control and revenue enhancement programs, Valley expects further improvements in its efficiency ratio.

The return on average assets for the first quarter of 1993 was 1.02% compared to .85% for the same period in 1992. The return on average equity for the first quarter increased from 12.04% in 1992 to 13.15% in 1993.

At March 31, 1993, Valley reported total assets of $4.277 billion, an increase of 9.74%, ($379 million), over the $3.898 billion at March 31, 1992. Loans increased to $3.012 billion, compared with $2.603 billion a year earlier, an increase of 15.7%, ($409 million). The acquisition of United with assets of $320 million and loans of $258 million contributed significantly to these increases. The reserve for loan losses totalled $38.748 million on March 31, 1993 compared to $31.914 million on March 31, 1992. Nonperforming loans at March 31, 1993 amounted to $25.901 million or .86% of loans, compared with the March 31, 1992 amount of $34.046 million or 1.31% of loans. Nonperforming loans decreased slightly from the $25.993 million reported at December 31, 1992. Deposits as of March 31, 1993 stood at $3.691 billion, an increase of 9.95% over March 31, 1992 deposits of $3.357 billion.

Shareholders' equity totalled $334.601 million, an increase of $59.193 million over the $275.408 million on March 31, 1992. At March 31, 1993, book value per share was $24.82 compared with $22.38 per share at March 31, 1992, an increase of 10.9%. Weighted average shares outstanding totalled 13,440,628 for the first three months of 1993, and 12,270,125 for the same period in 1992.

Valley Bancorporation is the third largest bank holding company headquartered in Wisconsin. Valley, with assets of $4.3 billion, currently serves Wisconsin through 154 banking offices and additional financial service companies engaged in insurance, trust service, brokerage, credit card servicing and bank support services. The company's common stock is traded on the National Market System under the NASDAQ symbol VYBN.

Investigation by Sheriff's Department Will Result in 50 Criminal Charges

Detectives of the Washington County Sheriff's Department are presently finishing up a six-week investigation which will result in 50 criminal charges being requested in Washington County against six adults and one juvenile.

The investigation began in mid-March when Dodge County authorities arrested burglary suspects in their county and uncovered information identifying a burglary ring operating out of the Madison area. The group had been very active in Dane, Dodge, and Washington County, as well as, other adjoining counties. The investigation is expanding as more information becomes available.

The crime spree began in September of 1992 and lasted approximately six months. In Washington County the charges include burglaries to four businesses, five residences, and four forced entries to vending machines. A total of 28 felonies and 22 misdemeanor charges are being requested.

Most of the crimes were committed by three to four individuals at a time, resulting in several charges for each incident. It is unknown at this time how many charges are going to be issued in other counties. The number could easily extend the total in Washington County.

Additional arrests and charges are quite possible as the investigation continues. Washington County authorities would like to thank Dodge and Dane County authorities for their cooperation during this investigation.

Dr. Albrecht was nominated for the honor by William Listwan, M.D., an internist at the General Clinic and outgoing president of the State Medical Society. According to Thomas Adams, executive vice president of the medical society, "This award was designed by the SMS Board of Directors to recognize physicians from each Board district for their service to their communities above and beyond that which is expected of members of their profession." An award presentation is planned at a time to be announced.

Dr. Albrecht has been practicing medicine in Jackson since 1948. He served as Washington county coroner for eight years

In addition, he involved himself from the start with society's problems such as unwed mothers, alcoholism, drug addiction, sex education, and poverty. He has been very active in the Lutheran church. He says that a high point was when his Sunday School class brought about the resurrection of the National Day of Prayer in 1970.

His autobiography is being published and will be available in early June. His wife, Marian, assisted in the writing until her death December 7, 1992. Proceeds of the book will be given to Lutheran Social Services of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

This week can be a good time to start that volunteer job you have intended to do! There may be a very interesting opportunity out there needing your help! Volunteering is such a good way to help others. To see where you are needed - and to choose what you want to do - telephone the Volunteer Center, 338-8256.

Child Care - An adult is needed to supervise teenagers who are caring for young children while mothers are involved in meetings and group therapy sessions. This is at an agency in West Bend, on Wednesday nights from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. If you like working with children of all ages, we are waiting to hear from you.

Pharmacy Assistant - Do filing in a pharmacy at a local nursing home. Help is needed from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. If you can help a whole day or just a few hours, your time will make a difference. Choose the day and time that suits your schedule.

Wheelchair Helpers - Transport nursing home residents (within the facility) to a dance recital being given by the West Bend Recreation Department. This is from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m. on Saturday, April 24. A good opportunity for a family or service group.

Adopt-A-Plot Program - Help design, plant and maintain a flower plot in the city of West Bend for the summer growing season. This is a good way to show off your city to visitors as well as to residents. This is a great project for a service organization, church group, scouts or maybe your family would like to do this together.

Job site Developer - Develop, on an ongoing basis, employment opportunities for youth in Project Payback. This includes paid jobs and jobs for unpaid community service work. Volunteer should have good knowledge of Washington County communities, a valid driver's license and a vehicle.

You will need some free time during business hours. A confident, outgoing personality with good communication skills describes the person we are looking for to fill this position.

Drivers - Transport cancer patients to Milwaukee for treatment, which lasts about 15 minutes. If you drive to Milwaukee on a regular basis, perhaps you can help with this much needed service.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters - There is always a need for adults (single or married) to be a companion on a one to one basis to a young person who needs an adult role model. A special recruitment program is being conducted from April 15 to May 20; get in on the fun and make a difference in the life of a young person. Do it for the kids!!

Adopt a Park - Now that spring is here, our parks will be getting much more use. Volunteers are needed to keep the parks beautiful and inviting. Walk through a park and collect litter as well as keep an eye out for repairs that may be needed on playground equipment, picnic tables, etc. you can take the kids along and let them help. A great way to teach civic responsibility.

Teens - It will be summer very soon, and with summer comes many opportunities for teenagers to become volunteers. Spend those summer months doing a well needed community service while also having a good time. Call and see what is available.

Remember this is only some of the volunteer jobs. There are many others and we would be happy to tell you about them.

Rettler to Attend Lakeland

Rick Bolanos, head football coach at Lakeland College, announced that Aaron Rettler, a three year starter at Kewaskum High School, has committed to play football at Lakeland College.

His high school football coach, Clark Pearson, stated, "Aaron is a very intelligent kid with great hands. He played wide receiver and at the outside linebacker position. He is an extremely hard worker who will be an asset to any football program."

Coach Bolanos added, "Aaron is an excellent student athlete who has shown us that he is capable of coming to this program and having an impact in more ways than one. A Message from the Postmaster

Hello Kewaskum Statesman readers and how are you all doing today? Well, my folks have arrived back in Fondy from New Port Richey, Florida and think that they have brought some pretty nice weather back with them. They arrived on May 10th so we celebrated "Mom's Day" just a bit late. They are down there seven months of the year and it is "quite a sight" to see them "deplaning."

We watched 6-7 people get off and then there was a "big lull." My sister and I looked at each other and just knew that mom and dad were bound off next and then... there they were!

Like many of you, we are a VERY CLOSE family and I am so happy to have them home for a few months. Both mom and dad are looking forward to meeting "ya" all." On to some Postal news, okay?

As promised in last week's column... how do you "vent your feelings" about the Postal Service? As your Postmaster, I feel that I can speak for each and every one of my employees when I tell you that "day by day, we strive to provide you the very best service possible." I know that many changes have been implemented since my arrival and constantly look for "more avenues to try and serve you better." I could never begin to thank you for all the kindness that you have shown me since my arrival. Being a Postmaster is something that I worked very hard to achieve — there were many personal sacrifices along the way but... all in all, they were "all worthwhile."

My entire family has been very understanding as each and every one of them totally realizes that "I had a dream... a dream to start on the "bottom of the totem pole" (as a letter carrier), work my way up and finally achieve a goal... to be Postmaster and each and every one of them TOTALLY understands and agrees with my commitment that CUSTOMER SATISFACTION IS MY PRIORITY!

As in business, there are some things that even I cannot change... the rules and regulations that govern the entire postal system.

I am deeply concerned when one of my customers comes in and tells me: "My letter took five days to get to Milwaukee." (This is just an example, but I think you understand the "gist"). I have encouraged those same customers to fill out a consumer service card. This is YOUR AVENUE to let the Postal Service know, "I am a little disappointed in your service."

You will have to realize that as your Postmaster, I AM THE ONE that has to answer your complaint but... do you realize that all of these cards go on to St. Louis where they are "logged" and "computerized." They could possibly point out an "avenue of travel that certain mail is taking" that there is a "problem area" along the way. Our best piece of evidence is the letter itself... that we can physically show that it was postmarked on a certain date and received "so many days later."

The Consumer Service Card (available in the lobby or "we will deliver" free of charge is intended for you to "let us know how we are doing." You can use it to "log a complaint, make a suggestion or even compliment... if you so desire. Many of your Postal concerns may not be with the Kewaskum Post Office but my

FIRM FEELING AND CONVICTION is that as a Postmaster, it is a "cop-out" to blame a bigger office (such as Milwaukee) — all employees work for the United States Postal Service — we all have to share the problems and do what we can to alleviate them. Please feel free to call me at 626-2575 or stop in to see me (my door is ALWAYS open to YOU) if there is anything that I can assist you with.

POSTAL TIDBITS: Flower booklets are available now at the Post Office. I know many of you are a "little sick" of the ducks so stop in and see what else we have to offer. We also have flags in booklets of 10 for $2.90 and 20 for $5.80. The Eternal Tree at the office will soon take a "new look." Hearts and Strawberries adorned it for "Mom's Day" but the local nursery school is getting set for "Dad's Day"... watch for it!

Well, that is about it for this week. Chrystal's first day at Great America is Friday, May 21. If you get down there... look for her at "Batman" or the "Crawler." By the way... who are you all... lived in Nelson Hall at UW-Oshkosh and met my daughter? Stop in and introduce yourselves. WELCOME BACK HOME TO KEWASKUM all college students. Until next time, try to have a "good day... a happy every day."

Your Postmaster, Bonnie

Governor Approves Contract to Upgrade Highway 83 from Hartford to Allenton

Governor Tommy Thompson has approved a $1.0 million contract to rehabilitate Highway 83 and widen intersections from just north of Wilson Avenue in Hartford to Highway 175 near Allenton.

The contractor, Payne & Dolan, Inc., of Waukesha, is expected to begin work on the 4.7 mile project in June.

This section of Highway 83 now carries 2640 vehicles per day. By the year 2013, this number is expected to increase to 3740 vehicles per day. The highway serves farms and businesses and is the most direct link between Hartford and Allenton.

The highway was built in 1935 and last rehabilitated in 1970. Time, traffic and weather have caused deterioration to the road surface and shoulders.

"The present roadway is below standard in width and banked curves. It also lacks turning lanes and sufficient width at the intersections," said Gene Somers, design supervisor on this project. Somers said that the Department of Transportation worked closely with the adjacent property owners during the early design phase of the project and incorporated their needs and ideas into the final design.

"The motorists will notice a smoother and safer ride when this project is completed," Somers said.

The contractor will salvage and recycle much of the old asphalt now on the roadway.

Where necessary, temporary silt fences will be installed to reduce disturbance of the adjacent environment. Sod and erosion mats will be placed as required to restore disturbed ditches and slopes.

The highway will be open during construction. Traffic may be restricted to a single lane at times during daylight hours. Access to commercial and farm operations will be provided at all times. Residential access may be closed for minimum periods of time but residents will be notified when this becomes necessary.

The project is slated for completion in October. It will be paid for with 80% federal dollars and 20% state motor vehicle revenue dollars.

Milwaukee River Basin Water Samples Tested

Cryptosporidium testing results of samples taken from the Milwaukee River Basin indicate a presence of the protozoan in six of the eight sites sampled. Officials with the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources stressed that the test results were preliminary.

Ron Kazmierczak, assistant director for the environmental protection program with the Department, said finding Cryptosporidium in the samples was not surprising because it is often found in surface waters.

"We are not drawing any conclusions from these samples. The test results reported today show whether or not Cryptosporidium is present in the water sampled. The results are certainly not conclusive as to the degree of Cryptosporidium present nor to any possible sources of its presence."

Kazmierczak said the samples tested were collected last week from eight sites along the Milwaukee Menomonee and Kinnickinnic Rivers. They are the first of several sample collections that will be conducted over the next several months to determine background levels and to search for possible sources of Cryptosporidium.

Cryptosporidium was found in water taken from the Milwaukee River at Brown Deer Road, the downstream end of a predominately rural water shed, and at Walnut Street, which is an urban site and also affected by the combined sewer overflow system. The Milwaukee River samples included Nichols Creek in Sheboygan County. Because it is located at the River's headwaters, this site was chosen as a pristine control site. Cryptosporidium was also found in this sample.

No evidence of Cryptosporidium was found in a sample taken on the North Branch of the Milwaukee River at County Highway M, near the Ozaukee/Washington County border.

On the Menomonee River, the protozoan was present in samples taken near Second Street, an urban site also affected by combined sewer overflows. No Cryptosporidium was found on the Menomonee at West Hampton Avenue. Both sample sites on the Kinnickinnic River, at South First Street and at North 35th Street, tested positive for the presence of Cryptosporidium. The 35th Street site was chosen as the urban control sample because all run-off into the water is from urban sources.

In addition to Cryptosporidium, the DNR samples tested for Giardia lamblia and fecal bacteria. Giardia is also a protozoan that may cause waterborne illness in humans. Presence of Giardia was bound in two samples: in the Menomonee River at Second Street and the Kinnickinnic River at First Street.

Fecal coliform and streptococci bacteria were found in all the sites sampled, with the lowest concentrations found at the Nichols Creek site and the highest concentrations at the First Street location on the Kinnickinnic.

New Test: Early Disease Detection

(NAPS)—Now easy for doctors to detect and cure is a disease that's very common in both men and women.

A new test for a common disease can improve diagnosis and treatment for both men and women.

The disease is chlamydia, a sexually transmitted disease (STD) that affects more than 2.5 million women, 1.8 million men and 110,000 infants in the U.S. Many people who have the disease don't know it and going without treatment can be dangerous. Women can contract a variety of reproductive system disorders and pass the disease along to their newborns; men can get urinary infections and risk sterility.

If you're a sexually active adult, many experts believe you should be tested for chlamydia periodically. A fast, easy test that detects chlamydia, the Kodak SureCell test kit, provides accurate results from a patient sample in only nine minutes. In women, a swab from the cervix is collected; men, submit a urine sample.

Once detected, chlamydia is easy to cure. The only way to know for sure whether you have it is to see your doctor.

Bernard C. Ziegler Retires from Ziegler Board

WEST BEND... The Ziegler Company, Inc., a financial services holding company, has announced the retirement of Bernard C. Ziegler from the firm's board of directors. Mr. Ziegler served as director since August 1971, and was chairman of the board from August 1972 to April 1983. With his retirement, Mr. Ziegler, 71, has been named the first Director Emeritus of The Ziegler Company, Inc., by its board of directors.

A financial services holding company, The Ziegler Company, Inc., has seven financial services subsidiaries. The oldest and largest subsidiary, B.C. Ziegler and Company, was founded in West Bend in 1902 by B.C. (Ben) Ziegler, the father of both Bernard C. Ziegler and R. Douglas Ziegler, currently chairman of the board. Bernard Ziegler became a director of B.C. Ziegler and Company in 1946 and served until 1953. He was a director of the company again from 1969 to 1971 when it became publicly held and The Ziegler Company,

Inc. was established.

Bernard Ziegler came to The Ziegler Company, Inc. as acting chairman immediately following a June 15, 1972 plane crash which took the life of Thomas Kenny, then-president and chairman. He was joined by his brother Douglas Ziegler on January 1, 1973.

A major change in the company was made shortly after the arrival of Bernard and Douglas Ziegler. "When we came aboard we were primarily a church and religious hospital underwriting business," said Bernard Ziegler. "The first thing we noticed was we didn't have tax-exempt financing capability."

To address changing markets, Bernard Ziegler said the company purchased a Chicago tax-exempt investment banking firm in the id-'70s to provide the tax-exempt financing expertise. The firm became Ziegler Securities, a division of B.C. Ziegler and Company, and is not the nation's largest non-Wall Street investment banking firm for tax-exempt nonprofit healthcare providers. One out of every six hospitals in the nation has been financed by B.C. Ziegler and Company, according to Bernard Ziegler.

Active in politics and community and business affairs, Bernard Ziegler served on the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents for eight years and was president of the board in 1970-71. He was named a Director Emeritus of the Green Bay Packers' board of directors in 1992 after serving 18 years. Mr. Ziegler also served as director of Wisconsin Bell, West Bend Mutual Insurance Company, First National Bank of West Bend and the University of Wisconsin Foundation.

Mr. Ziegler maintains a summer home near West Bend.

The Ziegler Company, Inc., headquartered in West Bend, is a financial service holding company with eight subsidiaries; the largest of these subsidiaries is B.C. Ziegler and Company, an investment banking and brokerage firm.

Serigraph Earns IBM Award

WEST BEND... IBM Corporation's Rochester, Minnesota plant recently honored Serigraph, Inc. with its 1992 Customer Satisfaction Award. The prestigious award only goes to those suppliers that provide exemplary service and zero-defect product quality for any given year.

"The service and quality that we (IBM) have received from Serigraph has been quite remarkable," said Sue Starkson, IBM purchasing representative. These are the key elements that forge a "strong relationship between supplier and manufacturer," she said.

In presenting the award, Serigraph's employees were cited for "flexibility, responsiveness to needs and zero product defects," Starkson said. "Serigraph has earned this high praise for being a top-notch supplier."

Few IBM suppliers consistently meet the criteria necessary for such recognition, said Stan Czaplewski, IBM quality representative. "It is really quite an achievement for Serigraph or any supplier to receive this award."

In 1990, IBM Rochester received the prestigious Malcolm Baldrige National Quality Award from the U.S. Department of Commerce. The award honors U.S. companies that are leaders in developing and maintaining quality systems.

Serigraph manufactures IBM components at its new state-of-the-art Appliance/Electronics Graphics Plant, which serves the appliance, electronics, business equipment and computer markets.

The 36,000-square-foot plant at 2230 Stonebridge Circle, is one of four Serigraph plants in West Bend. Serigraph, one of the nation's largest industrial screen and offset printing companies, is a major supplier of graphics to the automotive, electronics, appliance, outdoor power equipment, marine, medical equipment and point-of-purchase advertising markets. Serigraph has been an IBM supplier since 1986.

GARDENING GUIDE

First Aid For Evergreens

(NAPS)—You don't need a particularly green thumb to restore evergreens to a robust, healthy green after a long hard winter.

Evergreens respond quickly to special nutrients and friendly soil.

The key is to provide the nutrition and soil conditions evergreens must have. Fortunately, university scientists have developed a special fertilizer called Miracid® for evergreens.

The fertilizer supplies weakened plants with much needed iron in a form that can be absorbed easily. It also creates the friendly acid soil and supplies the special nutrients evergreens must have to thrive and grow strong. Since Miracid is absorbed quickly, you may see the life flowing into your precious evergreens within days.

The fertilizer is good for azalea, camellia, rhododendron, dogwood, hemlock, holly, juniper, spruce and many other acid-loving plants.

UW Centers Earns Re-Accreditation

MADISON -- The University of Wisconsin Centers recently earned a 10-year re-accreditation from the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools. The UW Centers is a single institution within the UW System and consists of 13 campuses offering the freshman/sophomore curriculum.

Chancellor Lee Grugel said earning re-accreditation is particularly important for the UW Centers because "it indicates that we are meeting our mission goals and it affirms the quality of the education we provide."

It also is important, he said, "because our students transfer to other institutions to complete their bachelor's degrees. Without accreditation, those institutions would not accept our credits nor our associate degrees."

Additionally, said Grugel, "accreditation makes us eligible to receive federal financial aid funds and it helps in attracting faculty members and students."

The re-accreditation process involves three major steps--the institutional self-study and the resulting report, an evaluation and report by a team of educators from outside the institution that is selected by North Central, and the granting of re-accreditation by the association.

The institutional self-study began over a year ago. Study committees were formed to evaluate and write reports on six areas of the UW Centers: 1) administration, governance, and planning; 2) financial resources and physical plant; 3) institutional services; 4) instruction, research, and scholarship; 5) outreach and special programs; and 6) services for students.

Chancellor Grugel said the self-study process "is directed to strengthen the institution and provided us an opportunity to reflect on how far the institution has come in just two decades."

He said the self-study also will form a base for developing an approved strategic planning process in the UW Centers.

After review and comment by faculty, staff, and administrators within the UW Centers, the report was sent to the North Central Association. The association appointed an evaluation team that reviewed the report, met with the administrative staff in Madison, and visited several of the campuses.

The team leader then submitted his report to the UW Centers and to the association, which then granted the re-accreditation.

The next re-accreditation will be made in 2002-03.

Are Health Cures Being Hushed Up?

(NAPS)—Some health experts would say it's ridiculous but according to an article in one of the world's most widely read magazines, a drug which stops the starvation that kills most cancer patients is being meticulously blocked from even your doctor's hands by federal regulations and strangled by tests that make the drug look like a worthless fake.

The article, called "Hope, Heartbreak and Horror," about the drug hydrazine sulfate recently appeared in Penthouse Magazine. The inexpensive drug was tested at U.C.L.A.'s Harbor Medical Center in four successful, double blind, placebo-controlled trials. Hydrazine sulfate was given to terminally ill cancer patients whose bodies were wasting away because of cachexia, the starvation that kills most cancer patients. The drug was found to increase the survival of end-stage lung-cancer patients.

Surprisingly, the article goes on to say, researchers at the National Cancer Institute, when testing the drug, failed to exclude substances that were known to be incompatible with its success.

According to the drug's developer, Dr. Joseph Gold, Director of the non-profit Syracuse Cancer Research Institute in Syracuse, New York, "Each year 500,000 Americans die from cancer, and there are over a million new cases annually in this country alone. The U.C.L.A. data indicate that over half of these afflicted patients would be helped by hydrazine sulfate, some achieving significant extensions in survival. That the N.C.I. should be part of an effort to snuff out hydrazine sulfate constitutes what is truly one of the most shameful, scandalous medical undertakings in this country's history, depriving vast numbers of people of their health, happiness and lives."

It's been reported that an affordable new drug that fights the starvation that kills most cancer patients is being kept from the public.

Many Americans who wish to express their feelings about this new drug are writing to Hillary Rodham Clinton, The White House, Washington, D.C. as well as their legislators at the U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510, and the U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Those who would like more information about this new cancer drug can write to Penthouse, Attn: Hydrazine Sulfate, 1965 Broadway, N.Y., N.Y. 10023-5965.

Exercise Program For Arthritics

West Bend - St. Joseph's Community Hospital, in conjunction with the Arthritis Foundation, is currently offering an exercise program for people with arthritic problems.

The program entitled PACE (People with Arthritis Can Exercise) has been specifically designed for people with arthritis and focuses on activities to help increase flexibility, endurance and strength. In addition, the program consists of two levels of exercise, both basic and advanced, to meet the needs of each participant.

PACE will be co-led by Ken Schiller, registered occupational therapist and director of the hospital's rehabilitation services department and Marcia Reth, physical therapy technician, exercise specialist. Both Schiller and Reth have completed Arthritis Foundation training and are certified PACE instructors.

According to Schiller, the program is available to any adult with arthritis. Participants must be able to walk independently or with an assistive device. If in a wheelchair, persons should be able to transfer to a straight-back chair. Individuals who have severe joint problems or have had joint surgery are encouraged to check with their doctor about special precautions.

"We feel this new exercise program fills a void for persons afflicted with arthritis because of its many benefits, including a reduction in pain, stiffness and depression," Schiller said.

Classes will be held on Wednesdays and Fridays from 10-11 a.m. for six consecutive weeks beginning May 19. All sessions will be held in the hospital's 4 east conference room. Cost of the program is $30.00 per person.

To register or for more information, call the hospital's rehabilitation services department at 334-8237.

DNR Updates Public Health Advice For Consumption of Sport Fish

MADISON... Updated sport fish consumption advice was recently issued by state health and environmental officials.

The advice lists species and sizes of sport fish containing contaminant levels that may pose a risk to humans if eaten in certain quantities. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) update the advice each spring and fall. Fish from more than 235 Wisconsin lakes and rivers are covered by the advisory.

According to the latest update, lake sturgeon 50 inches or longer from Green Bay and up to the first dam on each of its tributaries are contaminated with high levels of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) and should not be eaten.

Added to the advisory for the first time because of mercury contamination were walleyes 15 to 18 inches long from Bladder Lake, Bayfield County; walleyes 10 to 22 inches from Long Lake, Iron County, and Deer Lake, Lincoln County; and largemouth bass 10 to 15 inches long in Rock Dam Lake, Clark County.

Also included in the updated advisory were mercury-contaminated walleyes from High Falls Flowage on the Peshtigo River; northern pike and walleyes from the river's Cauldron Falls Flowage; walleyes in the Wisconsin River from Castle Rock Dam to the Wisconsin Dells Dam; and walleyes in the Menominee River's White Rapids Flowage.

According to James Amrhein, DNR fish contaminant specialist, the "do not eat" advice for lake sturgeon in Wisconsin's portion of Green Bay is identical to advice the state of Michigan issued to anglers earlier this year for the Michigan portion of the bay.

"Because lake sturgeon search for food in lake and river sediments and may live to be 100 years old, they accumulate higher contaminant levels than other fish species," he said. Lake sturgeon located in the upper reaches of Green Bay tributaries do not contain high PCB levels, but sturgeon from one Marinette County tributary, the Menominee River, are already listed on the state's advisory due to mercury contamination, Amrhein said.

The state Laboratory of Hygiene tested five sturgeon for the DNR and found PCB levels ranging from four parts per million (ppm) to 32 ppm. The health standard for PCBs established by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration is two ppm.

PCBs may cause cancer in humans, slow growth and development in infants born to women who regularly eat contaminated fish and harm reproduction in wildlife, said Dr. Henry Anderson, H&SS chief medical officer. Mercury can affect the human nervous system if eaten in high doses over a period of time, he said. Unlike PCBs, the human body can get rid of mercury over time once exposure is halted.

"We expect the advisory for sturgeon to have little impact on sport anglers," Amrhein said. Few anglers fish for sturgeon in Green Bay waters. The autumn fishing season there lasts just a month, he said, and each angler may keep only one sturgeon of legal size.

No other changes were made in advice for sport fish in the Great Lakes pending the outcome of a review by a Fish Advisory Task Force appointed by the Council of Great Lakes Governors, according to Dr. Anderson. The task force is reviewing scientific data about the health and environmental effects of contaminated fish so updated, uniform guidance for all Great Lakes waters can be developed and issued to sport anglers in the future.

DNR records show that PCB levels in Lake Michigan fish have dropped more than 80 percent in the last decade.

Free copies of the state's complete "Guide to Eating Contaminated Sport Fish" are available from all DNR offices or from the DNR Bureau of Water Resources Management, P.O. Box 7921, Madison, WI 53707, phone (608) 267-7610.

Lake Maps Available

Fishing season is upon us!

The fisherman who hopes to catch more than occasional straggling bass or walleye will begin by learning something about the lake.

Step one, is the lake map - a hydrographic chart - showing the depths of the lake bottom. More than 2500 Wisconsin inland lakes have been surveyed to date. Mapping agencies include the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, U.S. Forest Service, C.C.C. and various electric power companies. The complete alphabetical index for these lakes is available.

The listing can be obtained at no charge by sending a self-addressed, stamped (52c) No. 10 business envelope to: Lake Map Section, P.O. Box 5096, Madison, Wisconsin 53705-0096.

Dairyland Seed Announces First Herbicide Resistant Soybeans

The first commercially available sulfonylurea-tolerant soybean (STS) varieties in maturity Groups I, II and III were introduced by Dairyland Seed Co., Inc., West Bend, Wis., at a dealer meeting recently.

Dairyland plant breeders, working with E.I. du Pont de Nemours researchers, carefully bred a gene conferring increased tolerance to the widely used Du Pont sulfonylurea broadleaf herbicides into several of the family-owned seed company's top-yielding soybean varieties. DuPont's sulfonylurea herbicides include Pinnacle and Classic.

Available for the 1993 planting season will be a Group I variety, identified as DSR-190/STS; Group II, DSR-250/STS; and Group III, DSR-350/STS. The new Dairyland Seed STS varieties have yield potential equal to or better than the company's current product line-up.

"Throughout Dairyland's 86 years in business, we've looked at what our farmer-customers needed and developed our soybean, corn and alfalfa lines to meet their expectations. Clearly, farmers want to reduce the amount and number of chemicals used on their crops. Developing plants that are tolerant to the newest generation of herbicides allows them to do this," said Dairyland Executive Vice-President Tom Strachota in an announcement to over 200 of the company's Dealer Elite Experimental Production (DEEP) team members.

Du Pont approached Dairyland to work with it to develop this new variety because of the company's reputation for soybean research and their standing in the seed industry.

"This effort involved critical skills in all aspects of plant breeding. We are extremely pleased that Dairyland Seed has once again shown its leadership in this area," said Phil Neff, DuPont business manager for soybeans. "STS will increase the options farmers have for improved, cost-effective, reliable and environmentally compatible weed control."

Dairyland Seed's major investment in research is based on its long-standing commitment to farmers and the agricultural market. Dairyland is the only family-owned seed company with its own research program for hybrid corn, soybeans and alfalfa.

The Dairyland Soybean Research (DSR) breeding program was established in 1966 and includes varietal testing locations from the Rocky Mountains to the East Coast and from Canada to the Mid-South. Company domestic breeding and nursery facilities are located in Clinton, Wis., Gibson City, Ill., and West Lafayette, Ind. Dairyland also utilizes winter nursery sites at various locations in the Southern United States, Hawaii and Central and South America.

Private Applicators Must Keep Federal Pesticide Records

As of May 10, private applicators will be required by the USDA Agricultural Marketing Service to keep records of restricted-use pesticides.

The new requirement is part of the Food Agriculture, Conservation and Trade (FACT) Act of 1990, which becomes effective May 10. The USDA hopes to monitor usage of restricted-use pesticides through the FACT Act.

Private and commercial applicators will be asked to record the following information:

- the brand name and the EPA registration number of the restricted-use pesticide applied;
- the total amount applied;
- the location of the application, the size of the area treated;
- the crop, commodity, stored product or site treated, and
- the name and certification number of the certified applicator.

This is the first legal requirement for private applicators to maintain records of restricted-use pesticides.

The National Agricultural Statistical Service will conduct a random survey from records kept by private applicators, which will be developed into a report to Congress. By studying recorded information, NASS and the EPA can learn how much restricted-use pesticides are applied. This factual information may help to reduce consumer anxieties about food safety and environmental concerns.

The requirement also benefits farmers. Keeping records of restricted-use pesticides or any pesticide application is good business. Records will help in case there's a complaint. Growers also will be able to better plan their pest management programs to possibly reduce pesticide usage in the future.

The regulation does not require the use of a standard form, allowing applicators the flexibility to fit the recordkeeping requirements into their current recordkeeping scheme, according to the USDA. Information must be recorded within 30 days of the application.

The new requirement indicates that growers should keep records for two years, but growers should keep them longer to assist in cropping decisions.

Penalties for non-compliance include fines up to $1,000. However, specialists believe it is the hope of authors of the FACT Act to develop a data base. The first phase of implementation is to educate and raise awareness of restricted-use pesticides, rather than to immediately check for compliance.

For more information about federal recordkeeping requirements for both commercial and private applicators, contact your county extension office.

The Synergy of Life

JOHN S. KARSHEN

April 22, 1914 - March 27, 1993

By June Sandra Karshen

It seems ironic to me that the death of the person who most wanted me to write would result in my writing again. For the past few months I have not had the energy, the ambition, the time, nor the desire to pursue my dream.

And yet one of the last things I said to Dad, just minutes before he died was, "I want you to put in a good word for me with the Big Guy upstairs. You always said He listens more to you old guys. Tell Him I want to be a writer."

I can picture him there, in heaven, driving everyone crazy. The angels are probably wearing dark green "wing"-tipped safety glasses while they now God's green pastures. I can just hear him lecturing, "I always had my kids wear them, and you should too." God's lambs are probably being unmercifully sheared as Dad trimmed our toy poodle Jacque, so many years ago. And the Saints have probably been given a list of rules and regulations on how he thinks heaven should be run.

Dad is always with me. When I'm driving and wish to take one hand off the steering wheel I can hear him saying, "Sandy, you're the best damned little defensive driver I've ever known. I've never seen anything like it! But never, and I mean never take even one hand off the wheel. You never know when someone or something will popout in front of you and you won't be able to react in time."

When I'm riding my bike up a steep incline, I can hear him saying, in reply to my indicating that I am getting old because I can no longer get up the tough hills anymore, "You're not old. You're fat and out of shape. Keep bicycling and stop eating so much candy."

And even when I was making his own funeral arrangements, shortly after his passing, he was there. Initiated and required solely by the memorial park where Dad now rests, I was told that I needed to meet with the park's representatives, personally, before necessary arrangements could be executed.

Answering basic and factual questions that could have been responded to over the telephone, the representative just needed my signature and we'd be through. Oh, and while I was there, would I be interested in purchasing some plots near my parents. "My son is still angry with me for not purchasing a place near his grandfather and now it's too late because there's no longer anything available," was the sales pitch I received.

With my temperament slowly rising I could hear Dad saying to me, "Stay angry Sandy. You're sharper when you're angry. What people get from you, they deserve. But don't howler and scream. No one deserves that. Just because I have done it to you, doesn't make it right."

"You can cremate me," I directed to Red, my fiancé. "It's cheaper." Dad would've laughed at that one.

Dad had unknown talents. He loved to play the harmonica. And for someone, who couldn't read musical notes, he could carry a pitch, never playing "off key." If you were from his era, or grew up listening to songs "from the gold ol' days," there would never be a doubt as to what tune he was serenading you with.

He enjoyed math. Standing over my shoulder as I'd work calculus problems, he'd become excited when I, like him, shared his interest and ease with numbers.

Dad was a beautiful writer. With never a desire to go public, his gift was known only to those closest to him -- Mom, my sister Joan, and myself. Through the years I amassed a collection of cards and letters received for notable occasions and brief departures, such as summer camp, college, and vacations. I seemed easier for him to speak through his writing for some of his loveliest and warmest thoughts were communicated through pen.

My memory bank is rich and Dad's deeds, while seemingly small, were vast in heart and effect.

Putting in a request, as a kid, for a muscular dystrophy carnival to be held in our backyard, I remember Dad yelling to Mom, Joan and myself, "all the neighbor kids, in our backyard! They'll tear the hell out of my lawn! I've spent a lot of time landscaping. No, and I mean no!"

The matter was put to rest and never discussed again until, a few weeks later, we all discovered Dad in the backyard, quietly building carnival booths from scrap wood.

When a friend from Dad's work punched one of Dad's peers to "solve" a verbal argument, it was Dad who spoke on his friend's behalf to avoid an inevitable firing.

Helpers, Dad had looked to Mom for wisdom on the matter while Mom remained neutral, indicating that it was Dad, not her, that had to work in an environment where rides were being taken, and consequently the decision was his to make.

Placing a telephone call to the necessary individuals, Dad completed his call, hung up the telephone and began lecturing me, as if I were a party in the dispute.

"I don't condone what this man has done," he had said. "Hitting another man is never the answer. But we all make mistakes. And let's just hope this one doesn't happen again."

I learned a lesson that day, but unfortunately the man about to be fired did not. For as recently as a few years back, he was still boasting that his fist had silenced another man, while I myself knew that Dad had fought, verbally, and won, verbally, to save his job. The silence to take note of was Dads, because to this day the friend still remains unaware as to who actually called a truce.

When our neighbor lady, LaVerne, came over one late evening in tears because her dog, Oliver, had been run over by a car, it was Dad who quickly placed them both in his car and drove them to his vet, after first making a call to request that the doctor open his office due to an emergency situation.

For years, all who lived in approximately a two-house radius from LaVerne's home could hear her screaming at Oliver in the early morning hours, typically right after her return from the area watering hole. If you were in our house during these occurrences, that were most annoying during the warmer months when all our windows were wide open, you could predict the inevitable chain of events. LaVerne would let Oliver out to do his duty, Oliver would bark nonstop, LaVerne would scream at him, and Dad would wake up cussing "can't she train that *!# mutt! I can't stand that dog!"

Oliver pulled through, from his brush with death, and after a somewhat lengthy stay in the Brookfield Veterinary Hospital he returned home, all bandaged up.

But Oliver wasn't the same. He no longer barked. And Dad was to my surprise, concerned. "I thought you hated Oliver?" I had questioned. "Yes. I can't stand that dog. But if something ever happens to him, LaVerne will miss him very much."

Time healed. Before long, Oliver's bandages came off and eventually his vocal cords began to work again, usually at around 2 a.m. Oliver barked, LaVerne screamed, Dad cussed and all was back to normal, once again.

Little things. It was always these little things that I remember most when I think about my dad. And if I were to add up all of these little things the total effect would far out-weigh the sum of the individual effects. Webster's dictionary calls this synergy.

Dad's life had a synergistic effect on me. A profound effect that creeps into all that I do, all that I am, and all that I strive to be. At times I fall short of Dad's teachings, as he admittedly has done, but even so, Dad has provided me with a wonderful example to follow....himself.

The last few months of Dad's life, we shared readings from Ernie Pyle's World War II dispatches, articles written by the journalist from the trenches of the European front. As a veteran of that war, Ernie Pyle was Dad's favorite writer, because he was the first reporter to inform the people back home about the everyday lives of all servicemen, regardless of rank.

By pure coincidence, Dad now rests near one of Ernie Pyle's writings inscribed on a plaque that commemorates all veterans of foreign wars. Ernie Pyle has written, "We have won this war because our men are brave, and because of many other things. We, did not win it because destiny created us better than all other peoples. I hope that in victory we are more grateful than we are proud."

Letter to the Editor: Kewaskum Statesman

I would like to publicly commend our Seniors at Kewaskum High School on their decision to include prayer at graduation.

Contrary to media reports and many educators' opinions, the ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court last June did not ban prayers at public school graduation ceremonies. Instead, the court's opinion implies that certain types of graduation prayers may be constitutionally acceptable.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled after the Supreme Court that it is completely legal for prayers to be included at the discretion of graduating seniors, not public officials.

Many in our country are distraught at the directions our country is going in and it has occurred to me more than once that perhaps it's because we have allowed God to be taken out of our schools, decisions and values. Our country was founded on Christian values and these are very rapidly being wiped out in the name of First Amendment rights.

It is an encouragement to me to see our upcoming leaders choose to continue in the ways of our country's heritage, ways that have made this nation the great nation that it has been.

Your have my support,
Seniors.

Lady Indians Struggle to Fourth at Conference Meet

1600 RELAY SETS SCHOOL RECORD

By Noel Stollenwerk

PLYMOUTH - After winning three major invitationals in a ten-day stretch earlier in the year, the Kewaskum girls track team and coach Perry Koth may not appreciate what it had accomplished.

So when the Lady Indians finished fourth at the Eastern Wisconsin Conference meet here, last Thursday, Koth finally realized what kind of run his team had made earlier in the season.

"Everything was clicking for us at that point," Koth said. "It just didn't happen at conference though. It just didn't go the way that I hoped it would. We had some people that were sick, and that hurt their performances."

New Holstein took first place in the meet, scoring 128 points, followed by Two Rivers (125.5) and Sheboygan Falls. The Indians, who entered the meet as one of the favorites, were next with 94.

The day wasn't a total loss, however, as KHS runners accounted for four firsts, including a school record in the 1600 relay.

Missy Rohrer, Mary Yahr, Christa Schmidt and Ginger Wiesner ran a combined 4:12.2, taking first and setting the new mark. "They really went all out from the start," Koth said of the quartet. "All four of them ran their best splits of the year."

Schmidt and Wiesner also turned in their best times in their specialty events in winning both. Schmidt ran a 48.07 in the 300 hurdles, while Wiesner ran a 60.88 clocking in the 400.

"That's looking real good for her," Koth said of Wiesner's improvement. Schmidt, who was one of the KHS runners that was ill, "didn't even have the strength to finish" the 100 hurdles race, where she was eighth. "I was real impressed in how she got herself together" for the 300 race later in the meet.

The lone other first by the Indians came in the discus, where Robyn Winninghoff had the best throw (110-0). KHS dominated the event, as Beth Kempf and Becky Yogerst took third and fourth, respectively.

"That was a real highlight," Koth said of the 1-3-4 finish. "Each of them were at, or near their best. Beth (Kempf) just had a great all-around meet." Kempf added a second in the shot put (35-3).

Wiesner added a third in the long jump, while freshman Kelly Schreffler turned in a third in the high jump. Yahr also capped off a fine day by taking fourth in the 100 hurdles.

"These invitationals are a real team thing," Koth said. "Everybody has to put in their best efforts, and it just didn't happen."

A new rule this year that allowed competitors to enter just three events also may have been a factor.

"I'm not disappointed in the kids at all," he went on to say. "It's just that your expectations are always high."

The Indians will try to get back on a winning note this Thursday when they take part in the conference relays at Sheboygan Falls.

"She's still one of the fastest pitchers in the conference," according to Molebash.

Niemuth finished with 12 strikeouts in the game, and was the beneficiary of some good defense. The Raiders committed just one error, compared to the Indians' five.

Senior Rachele Krahn returned to the mound for the nightcap, but she wasn't as fortunate as Niemuth. KHS fielders committed 11 miscues in the second game, thus negating a fine performance by Krahn, who allowed just one hit.

"We just beat ourselves defensively," Molebash said of the second game. "We didn't have a whole lot of hits, either."

Once again, Kiel raced to the early lead, scoring four in the first and two in the third to grab a 6-0 advantage. Most of the runs were due directly to the shoddy defense, according to Molebash.

Kewaskum battled back, though, posting a four-run fourth inning. Stephanie Heberer keyed the inning with a two-run single, scoring Julie Wagner (walk) and Angie Bindrich (double). Tanya Laubach also had an RBI single in the inning.

The Indians scored another run in the fifth, but were unable to string together much more offensively. KHS finished with just four hits in the nightcap.

Losing Streak at Six for KHS Girls

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM - All in all, it wasn't a very pretty eight-day stretch for the Kewaskum girls softballers recently.

After dropping both halves of doubleheaders to New Holstein and Kiel, the Lady Indians completed the trifecta, losing both games of a doubleheader to Two Rivers here, last Thursday.

In the opener, the Indians were shut out by the Raiders' Sherril Rank, who struck out eight in the 8-0 blanking. In the nightcap, the KHS woes at the plate continued. The Indians collected just four hits as they fell once again, this time 8-3.

"If it's not the errors, it's the hitting," KHS coach Janet Molebash said of the Indians' inconsistency this spring. "Our hitting has really been lacking lately, and it's hurting us."

The Indians managed just one hit in the first game off Rank, that coming from Rachele Krahn, who took the loss. Raider batters drilled Krahn for nine hits, meanwhile, as they slugged their way to the 8-0 lead after just four innings.

"They really pounded the ball," Molebash said of the Raiders, who are undefeated in conference thus far. "They are a fine hitting team."

The solid hitting allowed Two Rivers to get off to a fast start in game two as well. The Raiders plated five runs in the first, in continuing a trend of slow KHS starts. During the six game losing streak, the Indians have been outscored 19-2 in the first inning.

"We did much better defensively (than in their previous outings)," Molebash said. "But we just couldn't get any hits."

Julie Wagner (double) and Lori Pesch (triple) did hit the ball well, according to the KHS coach.

With the losses, the Indians dropped to 2-7 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, and to 3-8 overall. After their final conference game of the season Monday at Plymouth, the Indians will ready themselves for WIAA Tournament action, which gets underway Friday.

Jacak, Jackson Earn Firsts Boys Improving in Conference

By Noel Stollenwerk

PLYMOUTH - After finishing in sixth place with just 37 points in last year's Eastern Wisconsin Conference meet, the Kewaskum boys track team was looking to edge its way up the standings this season.

The Indians did just that, scoring 88 points to finish fourth in the races. New Holstein won the boys meet with 134.5 points, just edging Two Rivers (133).

KHS sophomore Travis Jacak successfully defended his high jump title of a year ago, this time clearing 6-3 to take the top spot.

The Indians other lone win came in the pole vault, where junior Brad Jackson tied the school record he set a couple of days earlier (13-3).

Jim Wichtoski turned in a personal best in the long jump, flying 20-8.25 to take second. Teammate Wade Kreis was right behind him in third (20-3).

Kreis had an excellent meet, as he also set a personal best in the pole vault (12-0), which placed him third.

Also taking thirds for KHS were Brian Bruendl in the triple jump (39-9) and Jim Rix in the shot put (46-6.5). The 1600 relay unit, consisting of Jeff Dirmeier, Heath Heise, Matt Tonn and Wichtoski, added a third as well (4:37), cutting ten seconds off their previous best time.

Adding fourth place finishes were Dirmeier in the 800 (2:06) and in the mile (4:50) and Dan Schulteis in the discus (133-0).

Errors Plague KHS Girls

By Noel Stollenwerk

KIEL - If it's not one thing, it's another for the Kewaskum girls softball squad.

The Lady Indians continued to struggle here, last Tuesday, dropping a pair of games against Kiel. Missing several regulars because of suspensions in the opener, the Indians fell behind early and lost 8-1. Things got uglier in the nightcap, as KHS committed 11 errors in a 6-5 loss to the Raiders.

"That really didn't help," coach Janet Molebash said of the players having to sit out the first game because of skipping classes. "People had to be shuffled around, and they weren't used to playing the different positions."

Freshman Tanya Krahn was thrust into the starting pitcher's role, and she was shaky early. Krahn walked four Raider batters in the opening inning, leading to three runs.

"She was nervous," Molebash said. "That really hurt us early. But after that, she did just fine."

Kiel touched Krahn for single runs in the second, fourth and sixth, and two more in the third, as they raced to the big lead. Krahn gave up just three hits, but walked eight.

The Indians had even less luck at the plate, garnering just a pair of hits off Kiel's Karla Niemuth, and Eastern Wisconsin Conference first-teamer last year.
