FIREWORKS

Saturday, July 3

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Hundreds of people will descend upon River Hill Park in Kewaskum on Saturday, July 3, to exercise their rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of an enormous fireworks display.

The Kewaskum fire department will start firing aerial salutes at 3 p.m. to remind residents to come up to the River Hill Park early to enjoy a brat, burger or "cold one" before the fireworks.

This year's spectacular display includes brilliant colored groundworks and a thunderstorm of explosions bursting in air after dusk.

The fire department will set off the display along the west bank of the Milwaukee River, so pick out your best viewing seat on the hill east of the river. Lots of food will be available on the grounds, with both stands opening at 3 p.m.

For your added pleasure, live music will be featured in the beer garden from 7:30 until midnight, so come enjoy the fantastic sounds of the popular group, "Illusion."

A rain date has been scheduled for Sunday evening, July 4th.

Don't forget to mark your calendars for July 9th, 10th and 11th and we'll meet again at River Hill Park for the annual Kewaskum Firemen-Legion picnic, with a spectacular parade at noon on Sunday.

Any business or individual interested in contributing towards the purchase of additional fireworks for next year, please contact the Village Administrator Dan Schmidt at 626-8484 during regular business hours.

Get to the park early to reserve your spot on the hill and view something new this year... daylight fireworks!

Village Board Denies Bel Ric Rezoning

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM -- The Kewaskum Village Board Monday night refused to act on a rezoning request by Joe Smith, thereby denying Smith proposal to build a ten-unit apartment complex on Bel Ric Drive.

The property is currently zoned for two-family units, and Smith had requested it be rezoned for a multi-family district. Smith had proposed building the 10-unit condominium, which would have both two and three-bedroom units, with two-car attached garages.

The property is located at the southwest end of the current Bel Ric Drive, and would be located on the northwest side of the proposed extension of Bel Ric Drive. The extension of the road is currently being studied by the Planning Commission.

Trustee David Goeden said that he was contacted by several residents in the neighborhood, and they were said to be worried about potential traffic problems in the area.

Several other residents were in attendance at the meeting, and also voiced their concerns.

"We have too many apartments up already," said Gene Zorn, of 820 Bel Ric Drive. Fellow resident Dale Haas, though, noted that all of the neighborhood's apartment units were full. "So there must be some demand for them."

Trustee Gary Gavin questioned Smith as to why he needed to build a ten-unit building, and why not possibly a six-unit one. Smith cited the cost of the property, coupled with that of the proposed road extension, saying that a six-unit building wouldn't be able to off set the cost.

After the discussion at the public hearing, Village President Robert Wagner suspended the rules for the agenda, allowing the Board to act on the ordinance to amend the zoning. And when no trustee introduced the new ordinance, the request effectively died.

In another matter, the Board voted to install about 290 feet of curb and gutter this year on parts of Roseland, Forest and Midland Drives. Because the 290 feet represents the smallest amount to be constructed by the Village, the cost of the job was notably higher than in past years.

Instead of the normal $12 per front foot, the low bid from T.P. Concrete came in at a cost of about $17 per front foot. Village Engineer Ken Ward, along with Administrator Dan Schmidt, suggested that the Village could pick up the difference in the two costs, with about a $1,500 price tag.

Gavin, meanwhile, suggested that the affected residents should be given an option to postpone the construction for a year, which could lower the price when it is coupled with other curb and gutter work. His proposal was voted down, 5-2, though, with Charles Waala agreeing with Gavin.

Tom McElhatton then introduced a measure that would accept the current price and have it done this year, with the Village not picking up any costs. That measure passed by a 5-2 vote, with Gavin and Waala dissenting.

Fireman/Legion Picnic July 10-11

This is just a reminder that the Fireman's Legion Picnic isn't very far away now, it's the weekend after the 4th!!

Don't forget about the big parade on Sun., July 11th at noon. The theme this year is "Support Our Area Volunteers." We hope to see many participating in this year's parade.

We will also be having many bands in this parade and we are always looking for people or groups to sponsor a band in all or part of the expense, it goes to a good cause.

If anyone is interested, please give Bob Wagner a phone call at 626-4509. I hope to hear from you.

Stoffel Awarded Wildlife Artist of the Year

Award winning wildlife artist Andy Stoffel has been named the 1993 Wisconsin Wildlife Federation (W.W.F.) Artist of the Year. The winning entry featured a bald eagle scene in Wisconsin, entitled, "Land of the Eagle."

The following is Andy's story of his experiences as a Wisconsin artist and his recent Artist of the Year award.

I received the invitation to enter the contest last December and the 1993 entry was required to feature a bald eagle. The invitation came at a good time. I had just completed a six painting series on Rocky Mountain big game, and I'd begun research and pre-sketchings on my next series, featuring the American Indian in relation to eagles and birds of prey. So the contest fit right in, and I decided to paint one more eagle and challenge the contest.

In March, I received a phone call notifying me that my entry had placed in the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation finals with six other artists throughout Wisconsin and Minnesota. In 1989, I had placed in the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation finals, with my Canadian Lynx, but I got beat out and had to settle for a second place and go back to the drawing boards to try again.

I would have to display three of my other original paintings with "Land of the Eagle" at the convention which was being held at the Hilton in Oshkosh on April 24. The final judging for the competition would be completed by all the delegates at the convention, which makes it all the more exciting and nerve racking. Your work has to please some 150 or so judges, not just one.

Featured with "Land of the Eagle" were my black wolves scene entitled, "Black Wolf Midnight," my cougar scene, entitled, "Cougar Country," and my Trumpeter Swans, entitled, "Elegant Flight." They were all well received.

It was a long day, after eight hours of suspense and excitement of displaying with the fine work of the other six finalists, I finally got the word that my "Land of the Eagle" had won the Artist of the Year Award for 1993. After several hand shakes and sketching out a few pencil remarque autographs for some, it was Miller time.

This is my second Artist of the Year Award. In 1988, I won the Artist of the Year with the W.O.W. sponsored by the Miller High Life Company with my winter scene of the Red Fox and Pheasant, entitled, "Old Timber Road."

At the present time, I am planning to release my "Black Wolf Midnight" scene for a collector print series in 1994. Collectors purchasing the "Land of the Eagle" collector print, would also have first chance at purchasing my "Black Wolf Midnight" as a match number series, with special remarques. I hope to continue on, releasing a new print each year as a series to accompany the "Land of the Eagle" and to continue with the matched number and remarque series.

My Rocky Mountain big game series as well as my American Indian series, featuring birds of prey, would also accompany the "Land of the Eagle" as a follow up, matched number series. This would be a guaranteed matched number series with a special remarque for your authenticity of print, as a collector piece.

Many times I'm asked at the shows which is my best piece. I don't really have a best painting, but I guess the piece I'm working on at the time is always my best. I'm self-taught and paint mostly from memory and through a lot of research.

Having a photographic memory helps. I've been painting and sketching for some thirty years, and I am comfortable with my style of painting. I don't do commissions and I enjoy working in most all mediums, oils... acrylics... watercolor... pencil... ink... pastels. I enjoy the outdoors and I do as much field research as I can on most all my works, many times using a mixture of several mediums to accomplish this and getting it to a reproduction and producing a collector print series for people to enjoy for a lifetime.

I keep my painting strictly a hobby and doing art shows throughout the states as time allows.

Throughout the summer, I am employed at the Rolling Meadows Golf Course in Fond du Lac in grounds maintenance operations. During the off season from the golf course duties, I enjoy being by a warm fire, at he easel preparing for next year's shows and challenging a contest or two.

My art show is scheduled to run July 10th-11th from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day at the Crossroads Gallery and Gifts, located at the corner of Hwy. 67 and 45, in Campbellsport. I will be introducing my artist of the year print, "Land of the Eagle," as well as several of my original paintings. Pencil and color remarques will be available throughout the entire show upon request.

All artist proofs of the artist special collection of "Land of the Eagle" will feature a special color remarque by the artist and sold first come, first served. The limited edition includes 495 prints with 50 artist proofs, for the artist special edition.

I wish to thank the Wisconsin Wildlife Federation for sponsoring this fine program and for the 1993 Artist of the Year award. As with my other awards, it will be cherished for a lifetime.

Traffic Fatalities In May Lowest Since WW II

May 1993 will go down in history as the safest May for Wisconsin travelers since World War II, according to the Wisconsin Department of Transportation (WisDOT) Secretary Charles Thompson. Preliminary Wis DOT statistics show that 45 people died in traffic crashes during the month, compared to 60 deaths last May and a 10-year average for the month of 69.

"For the first few months of this year, we were concerned because total fatalities were high compared to last year. But now we're back on track to meet or even beat last year's success in reducing roadway fatalities," said Secretary Thompson, noting that 1992 saw the lowest year-end traffic fatality count on Wisconsin roadways since 1945.

As of May 31, WisDOT estimates that 227 people died in 203 crashes this year, compared to 218 people killed in 198 crashes during the first five months of 1992.

Thompson also noted that this Memorial Day weekend was safer than last years. Six people died in four holiday weekend crashes, compared to 10 deaths in 10 crashes last year.

Next Sunday is July 4th, INDEPENDENCE DAY, the day that our flag became our NATION'S SYMBOL.

FLY YOUR FLAG!! It meant so much to those who gave their lives! You are thanking them as you salute.

A PROPER SALUTE: If you are not in uniform, remove your hat and place your right hands over your heart. If in uniform, give proper hand salute. IT'S EASY AND THE RIGHT THING TO DO.

ROSALIE WARANIUS VASS nws MIXED WATER MEDIA PAINTINGS

Former Dundee native, Rosalie (Waranius) Vass, has been chosen for a select exhibition of her mixed water media paintings at the Jesse Besser museum in Alpena, Michigan, July 11th through August 29th.

The 30-work exhibition marks a milestone in her career, adding to a mounting resume of both national and international shows.

She was raised in Dundee and attended St. Mary's Springs Academy in Fond du Lac. Vass received her art degree from Alverno College in Milwaukee, and began her career illustrating animal and figure designs for the Farm Journal Christmas Book.

The artist married Ken Vass of Barton, whose father, Ken Sr., served as fire chief for many years. Her parents, John and Ann Waranius, were well known in the Dundee area and owned a tavern there for 35 years. "I grew up in the glacier area, so my paintings are very influenced by the rolling hills, forests, rivers, streams, lakes, flowers and animals," Vass explains.

Her work is recognized for its vibrance, color, ingenuity of subject, and most of all "movement." Each creation begins with a subtle abstract base derived from nature. The process begins with laying down large fields of color into which she works patterned forms, often times, transparent in nature.

Thistle Hill Farm studio is located in Batavia, Illinois, and boasts a solid list of corporate and private clients. Although full-time artists are something of a rarity in the '90s, Vass states matter-of-factly, "it's what I decided to do." She previously taught at Marmion Military Academy for five years.

She is a signature member of the National Watercolor Society, an honor based on being juried in for continued quality in work and professionalism. Rosalie is also an associate of the Midwest Watercolor Society, and belongs to the Chicago Artists' Coalition, the National Museum of Women in the Arts, the Chicago Art Institute and Valley Art Center.

Your Skin Won't Forget If You Forget the Sunscreen

by Jan Lathrop and Jordana Lenon
UW-Madison Center for Health Sciences

MADISON... This summer, as you rush outdoors to savor the arrival of warm weather and sunshine, don't forget to grab a hat and some sunscreen. If you forgo protection and subject yourself to sunburn, your skin won't forget.

Though skin outwardly recovers from sunburn, deep inside it never forgets, explains Dr. Derek Cripps, dermatologist at UW Hospital and Clinics and professor of medicine at the UW Medical School.

"Just one skin-peeler as a child could increase your risk of the most deadly skin cancer, malignant melanoma," he adds.

That's why protection is especially important for young people, who will receive 80 percent of their lifetime sun exposure during childhood and teenage years, Cripps says. Babies and children have thin, sensitive skin that needs careful protection from the sun's harsh rays.

Fortunately, sun damage is easy to avoid. Sunblocks, which come in opaque white and various pastel colors, offer complete protection and, if thick enough, can block 100 percent of ultraviolet rays. Cripps recommends them not only for babies under six months, but also for spot protection on noses, ears, shoulders, hands and behind the neck.

"These are the areas most often hit by skin cancer, although die-hard sunbathers are now turning up with cancers on their legs, too," says Cripps, who developed the Sun Protection Factor (SPF) rating system for sunscreens in the 1970s.

Sunscreens allow varying degrees of sun penetration. The SPF rating tells you how long they will protect your skin from ultraviolet rays, he says. Know your skin type and how long a sunscreen will protect you, and check the ingredients before you buy, he advises.

Available sunscreens give good protection against UVB rays, which cause sunburn, but UVA (long ultraviolet rays which pass through window glass) may also damage the skin. To protect against UVA, sunscreens should contain the chemicals parsol 1789 and benzophenone.

Cripps recommends keeping sunscreen no longer than a year, or checking with a pharmacist about the shelf life of the product you buy. Storing sunscreen in the refrigerator helps keep it fresh, he adds.

To be safe in the sun this summer, Cripps offers these additional suggestions:

- Teach children early to wear a hat, a shirt and plenty of sunscreen.

- Use milky sunscreen lotions for most of the body... they're more soothing to the skin than clear gels that may contain alcohol. Use clear gel sunscreen on the face if you are acne prone. And remember, tanning oil is not sunscreen.

- Use sunblocks (opaque pastes) on infants.

- Test lotions on a forearm for allergic reaction 24 hours before whole body use.

- Don't increase sun exposure time just because you or your children are wearing sunscreen.

- Avoid the sun's harshest rays, between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

- Guard against reflected rays. Light-colored sand, water and snow can reflect up to 85 percent of the sun's rays.

- Reapply sunscreen every one to three hours or after swimming.

- Urge teens to tan gradually and always wear sunscreen: Members of the first generation of teens to buy into the heavy tanning lifestyle of the 1950s are now getting skin cancer in epidemic proportions, Cripps says.

Story Theater at UWWC July 1-3

UWWC summer theater will focus on family fun this year with their production of Paul Sills' comedy, "Story Theater." The play is an adaptation of Grimm's Fairy Tales and Aesop's Fables, including The Bremen Town Musicians, Henny Penny, The Golden Goose, The Robber Bridegroom, and other classics.

Story Theater blends comedy and drama in the tradition of Saturday Night Live and Second City with an entertainment value the whole family can share. This unique performance relies on the actor's ability to creatively combine mime and improvisation.

The ensemble cast for "Story Theater" consists of Chris Cochran, Jacob Cochran, Krystal Cochran, Kurtis Cochran, Sally Cochran, Steve Hahn, Kris Holly, Vicki Isola, Cory Klein, Megan Krueger, Holly Meier, Cindy Rice, Nellie Rice, Grant Rondorf, Jenny Sacia, Jenny Seymour, and Jenny Shutes.

"Story Theater" will be presented July 1 through 3 and July 8 through 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the UWWC Theater. Tickets are $6.00 for adults, $5.00 for students/senior citizens. Reservations are not necessary for these performances. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

For groups of 10 or more, discount rates are available at $1.00 off each ticket price. Large groups may also sponsor an entire show.

The Northern Lights have been seen as far south as Florida.

Jenny Degnitz, '92-93 Fairest of the Fair

This past year being Washington County's Fairest of the Fair has been very exciting, full of great memories, and very rewarding for me, Jenny Degnitz.

This was a busy year, which included handing out ribbons and awards at the Fair, exceeding stage shows, riding in parades, assisting in 4-H events, competing in the state competition, appearing on the radio, T.V., and at the June Dairy Month Banquet, and at Breakfast on the Farm.

This experience has helped me gain self confidence, and develop more communications skills. This is a way to tell citizens that the county fair is not just fun and prizes, but we promote education, social and economic opportunities.

I encourage any female, ages 18-22 as of January 1st, to compete for the title of 1993 Washington County Fairest of the Fair. It is a great opportunity to meet many new people at the Washington County Fair.

To receive an application, write or call the Washington County Fair Office; Public Agency Center, 333 E. Washington Street, Suite 1200, West Bend, WI 53095 or call 335-4485 or 644-5206.

Getting Your Teen to Talk

By Joyce Albrecht

UW Extension Home Economist

Asking open-ended questions... questions that can't be answered with a "yes" or a "no" may be a good way to get your teenager to talk.

Start when your child is young with questions such as: "How do you feel about this?" "Tell me a bit more about that." "If you had to make that choice, what would you do?" "How do you suppose it will work out?" "What have you figured out so far?" "What seems to be the most difficult aspect of this problem?" "Why do you think it happened that way?" "What was it like for you?" "What are some likely solutions?"

Kohl Works to Revive SBA 7 (A) Loan Guarantee Program

WASHINGTON --- An amendment that would restore funding to the successful but financially struggling Small Business Administration (SBA) 7(a) Loan Guarantee Program was approved by voice vote in the Senate today. U.S. Senator Herb Kohl, a member of the Small Business Committee, was a cosponsor of the amendment.

"In one year alone, the funds we can secure with this amendment will generate over 35,000 permanent, private sector jobs," Kohl said. "Over four years, the investment will yield almost 140,000 jobs. And our amendment will not add one penny to the deficit."

Kohl noted that the funding for the SBA 7 (a) Loan Guarantee Program will be paid entirely through recisions in other programs. In addition, a Price Waterhouse study indicates that government actually makes a profit from 7 (a) loans.

Kohl has worked closely with Senate Small Business Committee Chairman Dale Bumpers on this issue since the 7 (a) program was shut down on April 27 due to lack of money. In addition, Kohl expressed his grave concern about the funding shortage to Office of Management and Budget Director Leon Panetta.

"Small business 7 (a) loan guarantees are a model for the type of public-private partnerships that can make our economy grow," Kohl said. "Further, 7 (a) loan guarantees expand the diversity of the American labor market. And perhaps most importantly, 7 (a) firms exhibited faster growth than did small businesses in general."

Kohl cited a five year sample of 7 (a) loan recipients which showed that they enjoyed 22% more growth in revenues and 65% more growth in employment than did other small businesses.

Spring Cleaning Makes Home Safer

By Joyce Albrecht

UW Extension Home Economist

Spring cleaning isn't what it used to be... when the walls were stripped and rugs were beaten free of dust. But a judicious cleaning makes your home safer, no matter what the time of year.

According to the Soap & Detergent Association, a good cleaning helps prevent fires and accidental injuries. You're in danger of tripping over piles of newspapers, magazines, boxes, unused furniture, toys, and supplies that are left in the open.

These items are even more of a hazard when tucked away in attics, basements, and beneath stairs... places where fires can begin and spread rapidly. As a precaution, sort out what you really need. Give away what's useable and recyclable, and throw away the rest.

Organize what remains in safe, convenient storage areas. This type of spring cleaning could be the most important thing you can do. In addition, search out a hazardous household waste recycling event. These special amnesty days are sponsored with increasing frequency and provide an environmentally safe outlet for discarding household chemicals.

THANK YOU PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, You who make me see everything, and You who shows me the way to reach my ideas. You who gives me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are with me, I, in this dialogue want to thank You for everything and to confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love toward me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer daily, promise to publish prayer when your wish is granted. Prayer never fails.

Advice for the Graduate: It's Worth the Money

By Joyce Albrecht

UW Extension Home Economist

If you're in search of that perfect bit of wisdom to pass on to your graduate, consider this:

If today's graduates plan well and begin at age 22 to invest $2,000 a year, every year, they'll have $579,471 at age 65. That's if they earn a 9 percent return on their money.

If they begin at age 31 and invest $2,000 a year... and earn 9 percent, they'll have $470,249. This means investing a little more than $30 per week. When that first paycheck shows up, begin saving 10 percent and save one-half of every pay increase.

With that kind of discipline, your graduate will reach his or her financial goal.

IN MEMORY

In memory of LEO ROHLINGER, who passed away fifteen years ago, June 30, 1978:

Though his smile is gone
And hands we cannot touch
Still we have so many memories
Of one we loved so much;

His memory is our keepsake
With which we'll never part,
God has him in His keeping
We have him in our hearts.

That single transaction alone is equivalent to the production of 1.6 million acres of crop land and would fill over nine of the largest ships that handle grain.

Gumm lives in Slinger with his wife Susan and their three children. He was born and raised in Jackson, graduated from West Bend High School in 1967, and from Carthage College in 1971.

The 1993 United Way campaign theme is "Washington County Cares." "United Way is a vital county-wide organization that brings us together as one caring community. We want to continue the momentum of last year's campaign, and emphasize that United Way is a caring way for all residents to give or receive benefits from the programs and services we fund," said Gumm.

The campaign officially begins in late August, and will cover the nine communities of Hartford, Kewaskum, Jackson, Slinger, Allenton, Newburg, Hubertus, Richfield and West Bend. The 1992 campaign surpassed its $785,000 goal by raising more than $808,000.

"Right now, we're in the process of reviewing our past campaign successes, looking at agency needs for 1994 and recruiting more than 200 volunteers who will be involved in this year's effort," said Gumm. "Most of our division leaders are already in place, thanks to the foresight and efforts of last year's successful team, chaired by Paul Christensen of Amity Leather Products.

"I see people involvement as the key to our continued success. Our track record shows that businesses and individuals in Washington County are extremely supportive of United Way."

"Earlier this year, the local United Way Board of Directors voted to not pay any dues to the national organization in 1993. What this means is that the funds raised will be staying right here in Washington County," said Gumm.

"With our current economy, the need for United Way programs and services is greater than ever. The challenge is to raise the very necessary funds to help our families, friends, neighbors and co-workers who live and work in Washington County," he said.

"I am looking forward to another successful United Way campaign for 1993," continued Gumm. "Washington County is a caring community. We are blessed with a fine quality of life -- and United Way plays an important role in ensuring that the quality continues."

Recipient agencies have prepared their 1994 budgets and will soon meet with United Way fund distribution panels, made up of 40 community volunteers. The Panels will make 1994 funding recommendations to the United Way Board of Directors.

Agency needs, along with the giving history of business and individual donors and the United Way operating budget will be combined to determine the 1993 campaign goal. Final approval of the Campaign Goal will be given by the Board of Directors in late July. "I am pleased to see the percentage of funds used for administrative expenses steadily decreasing," said Gumm. "What this means is that more dollars are going directly to the member agencies."

Funds collected in the upcoming campaign will benefit 26 agencies meeting health and human care needs throughout Washington County. These agencies are:

The American Heart Association, American Red Cross - Kettle Moraine Region, American Red Cross - West Bend Chapter, Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Washington County, Bay Lakes Boy Scout Council, Catholic Social Services.

Child's Place, Citizen Advocacy of Washington County, The Council on Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, Family Center of Washington County, Friends of Abused Families, Full Shelf Food Pantry, Wau-bun Girl Scouts, Greater Hartford Area CPR Committee, Hartford Area Community Blood Donors, Hartford Emergency Squad.

Kettle Moraine Support Services, Lutheran Social Services, Nova Services, Outreach to the Aging, The Salvation Army, Senior Citizens Activities, The Threshold, USO, Volunteer Center of Washington County, and The Youth and Family Project.

TIME

It is always there, it is always gone
Slipping away like the shadows of dawn
Bringing the sorrows of death or the joys of birth
And no one or no thing can measure its worth
No price can be named, on deal can be made
That can bring back the moments we let fade
So precious it is now, so worth less it had seemed
That I let it pass by while I sat and dreamed
Of how it could be better, of what I should have done
If I could have that moment back, just that one
Now it is gone, yet it still lies ahead
In what will be done and what will be said.
You see, it is mine, and forever will it be
I cannot change it nor rule it, but it belongs to me
It is why I have lived, it is why I will die
It is what I have missed, it is what I will try
It is now, the moment, it is the past, a dream
It is tomorrow, the future, it is our change to be redeemed..

Governor Approves Contract to Reconstruct Hwy. 33 Between Allenton and West Bend

Governor Tommy Thompson has approved a $3.9 million contract to reconstruct WIS 33 between Allenton and West Bend in Washington County.

The contractor, Trieweiler Construction & Supply Company, Inc., of Marshfield, was expected to begin work on the 7 mile project in late June.

This section of WIS 33 now carries, depending on count location, 9400 to 11,400 vehicles each day. By the year 2012, these numbers are expected to increase to 13,000 to 16,000 vehicles per day. WIS 33 serves as a major east/west access link between US 41 and US 45.

The present roadway does not meet current needs. Intersections are substandard. In particular, between County Z and County B, vehicles making left turns cause traffic back-ups. The roadway was last rehabilitated in 1965.

Between US 41 and County Z, the work will consist of resurfacing the roadway with asphalt, paving 3 feet of the 10 foot shoulders and constructing the intersections to current standards including curbs and gutters. Turn lanes, acceleration lanes, deceleration lanes and truck climbing lanes will be added. Obstructions or hazards immediately off the roadway that would hinder errant driver recovery will be removed.

Between County Z and County B, the roadway will be completely reconstructed. The current asphalt pavement width of 24 feet with 10 foot shoulders will be concrete paved to a width of 48 feet, curb face to curb face. A varying width median will be installed to allow for two lanes in each direction plus left turn lanes and acceleration and deceleration lanes. Storm sewers will also be installed.

"Motorists will have enhanced safety benefits and they will notice the pronounced reduction in traffic congestion as they travel the new roadway," said Ken Gorsege, Wis DOT construction supervisor on this project.

There will be no detours for this project. Two way traffic will be maintained except that a flagging operation will be necessary at immediate working locations on that portion of the project between US 41 and County Z. Access to businesses will be provided at all times by staged construction or building temporary driveways. No existing residential or business driveway will be removed from service without sufficient notice given to occupants so they may remove their vehicles.

The reconstructed eastbound and westbound roadways will be completed and opened to traffic by this fall. If weather conditions or seasonal restrictions preclude final completion of the project, operations will be suspended until the spring of 1994.

The project will be paid for with 80% federal dollars and 20% state dollars.

Laws Are Working for the Protection of the Victim

In the past ten years, Washington County has increased the legal protection available to victims of domestic violence through the use of Wisconsin Law. The first law assisting in this protection is one which enables a victim to file a restraining order which will protect them from contact from their abuser for, in some cases, up to two years.

This law gives the victim the right to report any contact by the abuser while the restraining order is in effect. The burden of responsibility is on the victim to report and on the courts to enforce the legal fine and sentences on the abuser who does not abide by the order.

Friends staff does restraining orders daily and generally we do about four a week. This is a free staff/agency service to those persons seeking this protection. Staff estimates that this law may be saving the lives of over a hundred persons in Washington County each year.

The second law came about in response to the fact that for too many years victims of Domestic Abuse refused to call law enforcement agencies to report that they had been beaten. This refusal was based on the fact that law enforcement agencies had little working on their behalf to support the arrest of the abuser. Fortunately the laws in the state changed as of 1987.

Wisconsin has a mandatory arrest law which states that when officers are called to a scene where there is domestic violence they must arrest the primary aggressor. At the time of this arrest, the officers in Washington County call Friends of Abused Families to report the incident and the persons involved. The law provides for a charging conference which must be held within 24 hours of the arrest and the victim and the perpetrator are required to appear in the District Attorney's office. Friends staff and volunteers, based on the information which is given to them by the officer, meets the victim in the DA's office. At that time, we explain the services which our agency can offer to them.

Through the Mandatory Arrest procedure and the restraining orders, more victims learn their rights and their options and can and do make choices based on the options which are available to them.

Should you or anyone you know wish further information you can call our 24 hour crisis line at 334-7298 to receive information and assistance in looking at your options.

Jennifer Nord Wins Poster Contest Honors

Jennifer Nord was presented a certificate of achievement on June 9 at the Allenton Elementary School awards program for a drawing addressing anti-Native American racism that she submitted to the Wisconsin Education Association Council Human Relations Committee's Third Annual Poster Contest.

The goal of the contest was to address anti-Native American racism in a positive fashion, while also attempting to sensitize students to the Native American culture.

This year's theme was, "The Earth Does Not Belong to Man; Man Belongs to the Earth." (Chief Seattle in his "Sacred Web of Life" speech, 1854).

Jennifer's poster was one of three that was selected out of 47 entries submitted from fourth graders throughout the state. Slinger Education Association President Richard Kramer presented the certificate, a medal and a $100 savings bond to Jennifer on behalf of WEAC.

High Quality Alfalfa Pays Its Way

By Jack Trzebiatowski
Washington County
Agriculture Agent

Whether you're a dairy producer raising your own forage or you grow hay as a commercial crop, high-quality alfalfa pays big dividends. For dairy producers, the pay-off comes in improved milk yields. For commercial growers, it commands top dollar at the hay auction. For dairy producers and commercial growers alike, quality alfalfa can translate to higher profits.

The quality of alfalfa is measured by an index called Relative Feed Value (RFV). RFV is a measure of a forage's intake potential and energy value based on its crude protein, acid detergent fiber (ADF) and neutral detergent fiber (NDF) content. RFV is expressed as a percent compared to the value of full bloom alfalfa at 100 percent RFV. A high RFV indicates high quality, greater intake, high digestibility and improved performance.

The benefit for the dairy producer from feeding high-quality, low-fiber alfalfa is increased milk production with less supplemental energy (grain) and protein.

According to a University of Wisconsin summary of research trials, poor-quality alfalfa (resulting from a 10-day delay in harvest) reduced milk yield about eight pounds per cow per day and reduced income about 90 cents per cow per day. For a 100-cow herd, that production loss translates to a $15,000 annual swing in profit opportunity.

That's why high-quality alfalfa commands top dollar. For example, at hay auctions in Wisconsin, dairy producers pay 90 cents per ton more for each point increase in RFV for quality forage. If an RFV forage of 125 is priced at $50 per ton, an RFV forage of 150 would bring $70 to $75 per ton.

How can you improve the value of the forage you grow? Paying attention to two production areas can make a big difference.

Maintain a pure stand. Grasses generally contain more NDF than legumes, which can potentially lower intake levels. This is important because energy intake is often a limiting factor in high-producing and early lactation cows. Broadleaf weeds will generally have the same effect on forage quality, especially at later stages of alfalfa maturity when weed quality declines more rapidly than forages.

Direct seeding new stand with a companion crop, such as oats, and then removing the cover crop with a herbicide helps prevent grass and other weed invasions. Additional benefits of conserving soil moisture and preventing soil erosion are gained with this method.

Cut at optimum maturity. As forage matures in the field, fiber content increases while crude protein decreases. Alfalfa can go from very high-quality forage to very poor in a short period of time. For high-quality alfalfa hay, cut at the mid-to-late bud stage of maturity.

JUNE 29, 1918

A stranger giving his name as Charles Brown, aged about 60 years, a vagabond, was killed last Monday afternoon at about two o'clock when he was struck by a northbound freight train. Brown had walked to this village during the forenoon, and when last seen, was strolling down the railroad track in a southerly direction. When the afternoon freight train arrived at the local station, the train crew reported that they had struck a man sitting on the railroad bridge just south of the city limits. The engineer stated that the man must have been sleeping, for he blew the whistle and rang the bell, but the man gave no sign of moving out of the way. Medical aid was at once summoned and upon arrival of the physician, it was found that life was already extinct.

Harvey, the 10 year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ramthun of Kewaskum, broke his right arm above the wrist on Monday afternoon. Harvey with a number of his little friends, were at play on top of a straw stack when in some manner he got too close to the edge of the stack and fell five feet to the ground, causing the fracture of the arm.

Getting Your Teen to Talk

By Joyce Albrecht

UW Extension Home Economist

Asking open-ended questions... questions that can't be answered with a "yes" or a "no" may be a good way to get your teenager to talk.

Start when your child is young with questions such as: "How do you feel about this?" "Tell me a bit more about that." "If you had to make that choice, what would you do?" "How do you suppose it will work out?" "What have you figured out so far?" "What seems to be the most difficult aspect of this problem?" "Why do you think it happened that way?" "What was it like for you?" "What are some likely solutions?"

Minutes of Village Plan Commission

Village of Kewaskum
Plan Commission
May 25, 1993
7:00 p.m.

The Plan Commission of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin met in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Robert H. Wagner called the meeting to order. Members present were Donald Mlodzik, Richard Schmidt, Thomas McElhatton, Paul Zeibert, Mark Slaughenhou, Zoning Administrator Richard Zaring and Administrator Daniel Schmidt. Gerald Stollenwerk asked to be excused and was absent. A quorum was present.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and the Pledge of Allegiance.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Donald Mlodzik and unanimously carried by voice vote the Commission approved the minutes as printed for April 27, 1993.

The Commission reviewed the request of Fred Gildersleeve to modify the proposed street layout for the southwesterly extension of Bel Ric Drive. His suggestion was to layout and dedicate the roadway to the Village limits but to maintain adequate clearance from his pond (20 feet). The street to be installed would be 66 feet ROW versus the partial dedication of 80 feet. It was noted that he would be dedicating land for street purposes and that Mr. Smith may have some adjustments as well. It was further noted that the curbing and future sidewalk to the south of the street would be paid for by special assessing the Gildersleeve property. Mr. Joe Smith indicated that if he had to now extend the street to the Village limits he could not afford to do that unless he was able to construct 10 units instead of 6. On a motion by Thomas McElhatton, secondary Mark Slaughenhou and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Plan Commission asked to have the street roadway engineered to a width of 66 feet extending to the Village limits, providing for the dedication of whatever land is needed and abandoning the excess roadway. The layout is to look at the future extension of the roadway to maintain an approximate minimum 20 feet clearance from the pond so sidewalk could be installed. All of this is to be completed prior to any building permits or other permits and developers agreement being issued.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Donald Mlodzik and unanimously carried by voice vote the Plan Commission is sending a favorable recommendation on the rezoning request alter to R-4 limiting the number of units not to exceed ten, of Joe Smith and sending it to the Board for public hearing.

No action taken regarding the CSM until the street is engineered.

On a motion by Thomas McElhatton, seconded by Mark Slaughenhou and unanimously carried by voice vote the Plan Commission recommended the permanent zoning classification of B-2 General Retail and Service District for the land petitioned for annexation known as the Tompkin's Annexation, acknowledging the three R-2 Single Family Residences located on the premises and sending it to the Village Board for review and favorable action. Also the recommended permanent zoning classification of TUL Transportation and Utility Lands District for the two parcels being attached to the Village owned property adjacent to the Water Pollution Control and Public Works Department and sending it to the Village Board for review and favorable action.

Mr. Rick Kana of SEWRPC was present to review Chapter II of the proposed Land Use Plan. This Chapter was distributed and the population, housing and employment projections were reviewed. No action was taken.

On a motion by Richard Schmidt, seconded by Mark Slaughenhou and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Commission adjourned the meeting. Roll call vote was 6 "Aye," 0 "Nay," 1 "Absent."

Working For A Living

The best social program is a job.

That's why I've proposed a new welfare program that offers welfare recipients exactly what they need: a job.

"Work Not Welfare" is an exciting new program designed to make Wisconsin's welfare system a true transition from the welfare rolls to the pay roll. It will be the nation's first program that requires that welfare recipients work for their benefits and places a limit on how long individuals can receive welfare benefits.

The program will require work, provide education and job training, remove obstacles to work, then limit the amount of time an individual can receive cash benefits.

First, it requires all able-bodied welfare recipients to work in exchange for benefits. The amount of benefits paid will be based on the number of hours worked. If a recipient is asked to work and refuses, no benefits will be paid.

Second, education and job training, is provided. Additionally, welfare recipients will get help in finding a job.

Third, this program removes obstacles to employment. Child care and health insurance is provided while an individual receives welfare benefits and for up to a year after cash benefits end.

Fourth, places a limit on the amount of time that people can receive welfare. Cash benefits would end after two years. This means that if you're on welfare, you have two years to prepare for work, find a job and become self-sufficient.

Our current welfare system has trapped far too many into a life of dependency. Studies have shown that at any given point in time, 65 percent of welfare recipients will spend eight or more years on welfare. That's too long.

Here's how "Work, Not Welfare" works:

When an individual signs up for welfare, they will be required to sign a contract agreeing to work for their benefit. In the first month, the individual will meet with a case manager to develop an employment plan.

During the first year, the individual will receive education and training combined with work experience. By the end of the first year, the recipient will be expected to be working.

At the end of the second year, cash benefits will end and the individual will continue to receive transitional child care and health care assistance.

Clear? No nonsense? You bet. But it's exactly what many welfare recipients tell us they need and want.

"Work Not Welfare" does not reform welfare, it replaces welfare. It does not encourage welfare recipients to work, it requires them to work. It does not discourage welfare dependency, it ends welfare dependency.

More than 50 years ago, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt described welfare as "a subtle destroyer of the human spirit." He called welfare a "narcotic" which, over time, "induces spiritual and moral disintegration."

Unfortunately, FDR was right.

Our innovative proposal will make welfare what it was meant to be: a temporary hand up, not a permanent hand out.

A Message from The Postmaster

Hello Kewaskum Statesman readers and how are all of you this fine day? Glad to see some nice days have finally arrived but sure hard to believe that June is over... whew! Where does the time go?

Hoping to see all of you at the Annual Kewaskum Firemen-Legion picnic July 9th to 11th. Being a Legion member, I will be working at the North Beer stand... stop by and say "Hi," okay? On to some postal news, okay?

First of all... what is new in stamps? I am happy to say that we have a huge collection of stamps readily available at the Kewaskum Post Office. The latest stamps and booklets available are on display but please feel free to ask either of my clerks or myself to see "the huge assortment" that we carry. We will be more than happy to accommodate your request.

For some... "a stamp is a stamp," but then, there are some of you that like to collect and/or put a little variety into the stamps you purchase. Here are a few of the 29 cent stamps that we offer: Flags, Elvis, Oklahoma, Grace Kelly, New York Stock Exchange, Dean Acheson, Sport Horses, Circus, Rock n' Roll (featuring seven popular stars), Hank Williams and Love.

In booklets of 10 for $2.90, we offer flags, love and the tulip. In booklets of 20 for $5.80, we can supply you with flags, space, garden flowers, rock n' roll and ducks.

We also carry a huge supply of self-adhesive stamps. Are you sick of the taste of stamps? Do you just hate licking all those stamps on invitations, thank yous, or just the bills? Well then, the self-adhesive stamps are FOR YOU! They come in four varieties. You can purchase 17 for $4.93 or maybe you would like the latest self-adhesive?

It was issued in Milwaukee on June 26th and features the red squirrel. They are available in sheets of eighteen for $5.22. Please note that self-adhesive stamps have been available for some time, but only in March of this year did the Postal Service remove the so-called "service charge."

You used to pay 7 cents not to have to "lick em" but now... all self-adhesive are the same price of regular stamps and come on a sheet that can be nicely folded and put into your wallet and/or purse.

We also carry envelopes. Stamped envelopes sell for 34 cents each. Have you seen our variety? We carry regular, love and hologram. They can be purchased singularly or you will get a discount by buying boxes of 500. Please call me or stop in for details.

Postcards are available for 19 cents and also postcard stamps... 19 cents each or available in booklets of 20 for $3.80. I have had quite a response to the popular World War II collection. For those that missed it in past columns, this is really a unique collection. In 1991, the first set came out (1941 collection). In 1992, the second set was issued (1942 collection) and this year, the third set (1943 collection). For only $8.70... you can have this "piece of history"... thirty stamps (ten from each year accompanied by a map depicting the events of that year at war). Figure it out... 30 ordinary stamps cost the same... $8.70.

Do you have someone out there "just a little hard to buy for?" Someone that may have served in World War II? Or do you want something special for the kids or grandchildren that will be unique and quite collectible in years ahead? THIS SET IS FOR YOU! I have a good supply of all three years, 1941, 1942 and 1943. Next year the 1944 will come out and in 1995, the final issue (1945) will come out. I have been in the Postal Service for 18 and a half years and to my knowledge, this is the very first time that they have come out with such a collection. I have it on display or stop in and either of my clerks or myself will be more than happy to show it to you "up close." I cannot guarantee the availability of these stamps so if you are interested, stop in today and start your collection, okay?

Many of you loved the Wildlife Flowers that we had awhile back. These are no longer on sale, but we do have the Mint book with the full sheet enclosed. It is a beauty. If you are interested, stop in and please ask to see it. It is going to be a collectible... trust me on that!

Mint sets are available but not like they used to be a couple of years ago. A Mint Set is each and every commemorative that was issued during the year. It comes with a hard cover book in which you place the stamps. Each page has an accompanying story telling you about the stamp and the person who designed it. This makes a terrific gift for the "newborn" in the family... something that can be added to each and every year.

My daughter who was 20 a couple of weeks ago, has 20 years of Mint Sets. The Mint Sets have been very popular and as mentioned earlier in my article, becoming harder and harder to "come by." We have the 1992 Mint Set and the 1993 will come out in November of this year (depicting all the commemoratives from this year).

If you are interested in 1992, get it as soon as possible as we have no idea when we "get the word" to send it in for destruction and then it will no longer be available. Anyone interested in the 1993 Mint set? Stop in or call me at 626-2575 and I will put your name down and insure that when they become available, you will have one FOR SURE!

Mailing products? Yep... we got 'em! We carry white 6x9 envelopes for 15 cents, 11x13 for 30 cents, strapping tape for $2.50, mailing labels are 10 for $1.25. Padded envelopes are available in three sizes... small (50 cents), medium ($1.00) and large ($1.40). Please remember that Priority envelopes are FREE OF CHARGE." We have the "flat rate ones" (whatever you want to put in there goes for one price - $2.90) or the other ones that you pay (starting with the $2.90 basic charge).

In closing, I have been and continue to be TOTALLY OVERWHELMED with the number of customers that stop in to meet me and tell me, "we love your column." Thank You! A big thank you also, to the "Statesman" for allowing me the space. Until next time... try to have a GOOD DAY... A HAPPY EVERY DAY.

Your Postmaster, Bonnie

Many Dangers Associated With Flood-Swollen Rivers

MADISON... People who are thinking about boating or canoeing on Western Wisconsin's rain-swollen rivers in the near future should think twice. "For the next couple of days it would be extremely unwise for even an experienced boater to be out there," says Dave Rasmussen, Department of Natural Resources Western District warden.

Rasmussen identified the following dangers associated with flood-swollen rivers:

*Unpredictable currents make it hard to "read" a river or stream.

*Fast water can pull debris off river banks and into rivers. The debris is often located below the surface and is difficult to see.

*Dams pose a greater threat during high water. As water pours over a dam and enters into the waterway below, it creates a "backroller effect" that can trap and hold objects beneath the surface. Even on smaller dams, this backroller effect can be strong enough to capsize boats and canoes, putting their occupants at risk of drowning.

*Dams open because of high flood waters can create very fast water upstream that can draw boaters and canoeists and entrap them in the strong current flowing over the dam.

While the high water levels persist on the rivers, Rasmussen says boaters are better advised to stick to the state's 15,000 lakes and its flowages.

But even here, boaters need to exercise extreme caution and care because of the high water levels. They may not be facing the hazards of currents and dams, but debris still poses a threat. Also, boaters in flooded areas need to slow down to avoid creating wakes that can cause property damage, he says.

Bill Engfer, DNR boating law administrator, advises that canoeists and other boaters stay off rivers if the waters are outside the river banks. After the water has receded and a river is back in its banks, canoeists should take the following steps to determine whether it's safe for them to navigate a river with still higher-than-normal water levels.

*Listen to local news reports assessing the river levels

*Ask locals about the water levels and difficulty in maneuvering.

*"After you've done all the above things and you feel you may be able to do it, go out and look at the water you want to canoe," Engfer says. "See if the water level is above your ability, and ask yourself, is this something I normally canoe on? If the answer is no, don't go out."

Sweet potatoes were unknown in Europe until Columbus found them in the West Indies and took them back with him. They have turned into one of the world's cheapest food crops.

Study Finds Northern Pike Survive After Catch-and-Release Ice Fishing

MADISON--- Northern pike that anglers catch while ice fishing stand a good chance of surviving if they are released back into the water, according to results from a recent Department of Natural Resources study.

"These preliminary results show us that if a northern pike is caught on a treble hook, the type of hook most ice anglers use, it stands a very good chance of surviving if it's released," said Paul Cunningham, a DNR fisheries ecologist and one of the authors of the study.

However, the study also found that if ice anglers use a type of hook known as a pike hook or Swedish hook, the chances for a released fish to survive drop considerably. "Almost one-third of the fish caught on pike hooks died within 48 hours after they were released," Cunningham said.

The department is considering placing length limits and reduced daily bag limits on northern pike in southern Wisconsin to increase both the size and the population of northern pike. Currently there is no size limit on northern pike and the daily bag limit is five.

Northern pike populations in some lakes are dropping because of overfishing and because of a loss in spawning habitat due to wetland drainage, dredging and shoreland development, Cunningham said. "Before we make any changes that would increase catch-and-release fishing for northern pike we wanted to make sure pike would survive being released," he said.

Any proposed changes will be considered at the annual Spring Fish and Game Rules Hearings next April. If they are approved, the rules could be adopted by the department beginning January 1995.

The study results are significant, especially because about half of the northern pike harvest takes place through the ice. "Northern pike are one of the most popular species to ice fish for because they remain active through the winter," Cunningham said.

The study looked at anglers ice fishing for northern pike on three different lakes. When an angler caught a northern pike, a fisheries biologist recorded the size of the fish, the type of hook used and where the fish was hooked, and the length of time it was held before being released. The fish was then marked for later identification and released into underwater cages where they were held for 48 hours.

The study found that the most important factor in determining whether a fish would survive after being released was type of hook the angler used to catch it. "When we combined results from all three lakes we found that less than one percent of the northern pike caught on treble hooks died after being released, while one-third of those caught on pike hooks died," he said.

In general, the study found that fish caught on pike hooks were hooked deeply in the mouth or in the gill, which probably accounted for the higher mortality, he said.

"The success of new size limits and reduced bag limits for increasing northern pike populations would depend on the survival of any fish released," Cunningham said. "The results of this study indicate that such proposals could help increase both fish size and populations, but that these measures could be undermined if anglers released fish that were caught using pike hooks."

Diseases Endure as Corn Plants Mature

Corn plants have relatively good immunity to leaf diseases, stalk rots and ear molds while they are actively growing. That's usually until about two to three weeks after pollination. But as plants mature they become more susceptible to diseases, points out Frank Stark, corn breeder for the Renk Seed Company, Sun Prairie, Wisconsin.

According to the National Corn Handbook, as much as 20% of the nation's corn yield potential can be lost to diseases. At an average of 12% yield loss, it's about one billion bushels a year.

The threat of diseases calls for crop monitoring.

"Each type of disease-causing pathogen--fungi, bacteria and viruses-- has a certain set of conditions which are conducive for attack" says Stark. "However, all of them tend to be more active when there is heat and high humidity."

Stark says all the leaf diseases, stalk rots and ear molds are more liable to occur after damage by cultivation, hail, insects or whipping from the wind. "Anything that causes an opening in the stalk, leaves or ear makes the plant more vulnerable," he notes.

An imbalance between nitrogen and potash -- too much N or too little potash -- also makes a plant more susceptible to diseases, Stark says.

When to monitor

Stark recommends that farmers start scouting their own corn plants for diseases at the late dough to early dent stage. This is usually about the time seed companies hold their field days.

"Look for randomly dead plants," he advises. "Even at low percentages, they are a warning signal that disease is active and a field may need to be harvested early."

When attending a seed company field day, watch for randomly dead plants as an indication of which hybrids are most prone to disease.

"After the first hard freeze," says Stark, "it's a good idea to go through your fields and pinch stalks at random. That will give you an assessment of overall plant health and tell you which hybrids may need to be harvested early."

For the future

Except for early harvesting, there's not much a farmer can do to reduce the effects of corn diseases during the current season. But the National Corn Handbook suggests several steps to prevent future problems.

Two common control measures are selections of hybrids which are tolerant to the most prevalent diseases and crop rotation. Also, plant full-season hybrids and avoid excessive nitrogen.

Park Avenue Pub, C.C.'S First Half Softball Leaders

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM -- With last week's games, the Village of Kewaskum Athletic Association's softball leagues reached the halfway point of the season. And with half the season done, one league has a logjam at the top, while the other's play-offs spots are still wide open.

Park Avenue Pub took care of Bohn Dry, 6-1, and then beat Neuville Chevrolet 7-6 in a makeup game later in the evening. The twin wins allowed Park Ave. to finish the first half with a 6-1 mark, good enough for first place thus far.

There's a three-way tie for second place as well, with Amerahn, Prime Time Pub and Dupli-Quik all sporting 5-2 marks during the first half.

Last week, Prime Time beat up on Neuville Chevrolet, 16-0, while Amerahn trounced Dupli-Quik, 14-2. In the other contest played Tuesday, Bunkelman builders took care of John Doe, 19-7 in six innings.

In the Thursday night loop, C.C.'s maintained sole possession of first place, shutting out C.C. Cody's 14-0. C.C.'s is the lone unbeaten team in either league with its 6-0 mark, while C.C. Cody's fell to 4-2, after beating Emun Mull Gamefarm earlier in the evening, 8-2.

In other contests played Thursday, it was Accent Photography over Diamond F, 7-0; M and I Bank beat Accent Photography 11-9; Diamond F beat Prime Time Pub, 15-9.

Brath To Ride On Bike Tour

Ken Brath of Allenton is among a handful of riders from Washington County gearing up for the 11th Annual Door County Bicycle Tour sponsored by the American Lung Association of Wisconsin. The event is scheduled for September 17-19 and benefits children with lung disease.

The 36 year old Brath is an ex-smoker, who also rode in the Bicycle Tour in 1991. His fundraising goal this year is $1500. He's trying to raise money now, and is asking for community support.

The Door County Bicycle Tour is a two- or three-day event. Participants get the opportunity to ride through some of the most scenic parts of the state, including Sturgeon Bay, the Cave Point Park, and Washington Island. Meals and sleeping accommodations are provided, and the weekend concludes with a big "Armageddon" (last day) celebration.

There's a $25 registration fee for riders. The two-day tour requires $175 in pledges or contributions, and the three-day tour requires $250. All proceeds help the American Lung Association fight lung disease -- the third leading cause of death in America. You can donate pledges to Ken by calling him at (414) 629-5986, or the American Lung Association of Wisconsin at (414) 782-7833 or toll-free in Wisconsin at (800) 242-5160.

Rettlers Propell Indians Past Two Rivers

By Noel Stollenwerk

CAMPBELLSPORT -- After putting together back-to-back wins in the first two games last week, it was back to the same-old, same-old for the Kewaskum baseball team here, last Thursday.

The Indians committed more errors than they had hits, and the result was as expected, a 7-1 loss at the hands of Campbellsport.

"We basically gave them six runs," KHS coach Doug Gonring said of the Eastern Wisconsin Conference matchup, in which the Cougars score six unearned runs. "If you make those plays, it's an even-steven

KHS Breaks Out in 12-1 Win

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM -- It's been a long time coming, and Kewaskum baseball coach Doug Gonring was more than pleased to see his team finally break out of its season-long hitting slump here, last Tuesday.

"We just exploded," Gonring said regarding the Indians' 12-1 win over Chilton. The whipping gave KHS some sort of revenge against the Tigers, who are one of only a few teams to thoroughly outplay the Indians this season. Chilton had beaten KHS 8-1 a couple of weeks ago.

This time around was a different story, however, as Kewaskum came up with nine hits, and took advantage of seven walks. "That's a lot of extra base runners right there," Gonring said of the patience shown at the plate.

Kewaskum came up with four runs in the bottom of the second, the big blow coming off the bat of catcher Scott Donath. The senior deposited a pitch from David Nett over the left-field fence for a two-run homer, scoring Mark Strobel, who had singled.

After scoring a single run in the third, the Indians put the game away with seven more in the fourth. Kewaskum batted around in the inning, sending 12 batters to the plate, despite rapping, out just three base hits. Nett helped out, walking three and adding two more wild pitches.

Senior Jim Marx went the distance on the mound for KHS, and pitched well according to Gonring. Marx gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked none. The lone run allowed was unearned and came in the seventh, when the game was already out of reach.

"Jim and Doug (Buechel) are just pitching beautifully, Gonring said of his chuckers. "I can't complain about the pitching at all."

KHS improved to 2-4 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, and to 3-10 overall.

ball game."

The Indians had two errors in both the first and sixth innings, when Campbellsport tallied three runs in each. In the first, the Cougars added three hits and a walk in jumping out of the 3-0 advantage.

Kewaskum narrowed the deficit to 3-1 with an RBI single by Scott Donath in the fourth, but that would be the last tally by the Indians, who managed just three hits off of the Cougars' Josh Stoffel.

"He pitched real well," Gonring said of the Cougar hurler, who struck out seven while walking none. "Whenever you are able to do that (7 K's, O BB's), you're making the other team work to score runs."

The Indians gave Campbellsport three more runs in the sixth. Two errors, and three walks in the frame accounted for the scoring.

"It was disappointing, because we've been playing competitive ball," said Gonring, whose team fell to 2-5 in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, 3-11 overall. Of the Indians' 11 losses, eight have been by four

Indians Self-Destruct Against Cougars

By Noel Stollenwerk

KEWASKUM -- Earlier in the season, Kewaskum baseball coach Doug Gonring was using a designated hitter for freshman Joe Rettler, not wanting to throw too much pressure at the inexperienced player.

Gonring is quite happy that he changed his thinking, as Rettler went 2x2, including the game-winner, as the Indians downed Two Rivers 6-5, in an Eastern Wisconsin Conference contest.

After falling behind twice by three runs, Kewaskum rallied to tie the game at 5-all with three runs in the bottom of the sixth. That set the stage for the Rettler brothers' heroics in the final inning.

Aaron Rettler, who went 2x4, led off the seventh with a triple. Joe then followed with a clutch single, scoring his older brother, and helping the Indians break a seven-game losing streak.

"He's been making all of the plays," Gonring said of the younger Rettler, who also had a solid game at shortstop. "Hopefully, he'll continue to work hard and improve."

The Indians' hitting has certainly shown signs of improvement. KHS rapped out seven hits in the contest, including a big two-out double by Robbie Donath in the sixth, which scored a pair of runs.

Senior Doug Buechel was the recipient of the timely hitting, as he went the distance on the mound for KHS. The righthander gave up six hits, walked six, and struck out six, while giving up just one earned run. Four Indian errors led directly to Two Rivers' scoring.

With the win, Kewaskum improved to 1-4 in the EW, and to 2-10 overall.
