Welch to Face Kohl in November $5,450,000 School Referendum Passes As Three Others Fail

The $5,450,000 Kewaskum School District referendum was finally passed by the electorate at Tuesday's primary election. Three was the magic number as the voters previously turned down two other attempts to pass a remodeling/renovation referendum.

Three other referendum were denied by the Kewaskum School District electorate. Voters said no to the referendums regarding the $200,000 football field/track improvements, $80,000 improvements regarding lighting of the football field/track and $2,275,000 auditorium complex addition.

In Kewaskum 45% of the electorate turned out to vote, an outstanding number for a Partisan Primary Election. Voters numbered 682.

In Kewaskum, State Rep. Robert T. Welch, (R-Redgranite) handily defeated his opponents, four to one, to receive his party's nod to go against U. S. Senator Herb Kohl (D) in November's General Election.

The Republican race for County Clerk was won here, as well as countywide, by Marilyn Merten over Thomas F. O'Meara III. None of the other county offices had opposition.

Village Board OK's Rezoning Phase III of Sunset Estates

By Lana Harbeck Kuehl

The Kewaskum Village Board faced a packed house audience as they pondered the decisions needed to turn Monday evening's long and tedious agenda into workable solutions.

Topping the agenda was Sharon Webb of the Mid-Wisconsin Federated Library System. Ms. Webb attended the meetings to discuss and answer questions on the possibility of automating our library system in regards to the Nichols Advanced Technology-Library Automation System (MOLLI).

The cost estimate of the MOLLI system is approximately $15,000 to $20,000, depending on hardware and software needed. However, Ms. Webb also explained there are grants available up to as much as $5,000.

She also added that libraries such as Kewaskum, that are not as yet automated, are given priority when the grants are issued. There is also a possibility that local civic organizations might contribute towards the automation.

The Board will be checking into the system and all other aspects of library automation, cost factors, etc., and the subject will be discussed more in depth in the near future.

Public Hearings were the next agenda item with the first one being that of Gary and Linda Gavins, developers of Sunset Estates, a subdivision located on Kewaskum's west side.

The Gavins were requesting the rezoning of a parcel of property (Phase III of Sunset Estates) located adjacent to Edgewood Road, across from Forest Avenue. The parcel is currently zoned Agricultural Land District and Conservancy District. The Gavins were asking that this parcel be rezoned to R-1 Single Family Residence and R-3 Two Family Residence District and Conservancy District.

The Gavins are proposing single family dwellings and duplex condominiums (Planned Unit Developments) be erected in this Phase of Sunset Estates.

Gary Gavins addressed the Board and audience, commenting there are 15 lots in Phase I with five houses currently under construction. Construction in Phase II is expected to begin after January 1, 1995, with the sewer and water scheduled to be put in during the winter months. Gavin added he thought it could be as long as two years before the Phase III project might be undertaken.

Gavin stated, "What I am proposing to do is rezone the Rosenheimer property which is approximately nine acres. I am proposing to have a private driveway going in to the property which would be making it a condo duplex which would all be duplex or it could be single family housing. If someone came to me and asked for single family housing there it could be built because that's part of the zoning."

Gavin further explained, "The houses (condos) I am proposing to build would be from 1200 square feet up to 1800 square feet. Some would be ranch, some would be two-story. It is being built as condos. All the development would be part of the condo association."

"The area in front, behind the single family houses, and before the condos, I am proposing to build a 2 1/2 acre pond for a wildlife refuge. It will have nature trails walking from Sunset Estates over to the park, two of them. As far as a burden to the village, the association will have to pick up all its own garbage, maintain the roads themselves. So the village will be getting the tax base without having to provide the services such as garbage pickup and maintenance of the roads."

Gavin then presented a tentative layout of the area for the board and audience to view, as he explained there would be two single family homes erected in front, north of the Larry Ammel home, to stay in line with the continuity of the rest of the layout of the subdivision.

The audience was then given the opportunity to ask questions and verbalize any opinions/objections they might have regarding the rezoning.

A member of the audience, Mary Lou Chambers, stated she thought the Village Board had previously passed some type of ordinance against any more multi-family housing being erected in Kewaskum. She said, "I think that we need more single family dwellings in the village. We are so full of multi-family that when you look to build a home, I personally do not want to go out and buy a home near multi-family... that's a personal preference, because I think that not everybody that lives in a multi-family dwelling is going to be the best family, and I'm not saying they're going to be the worst, but it does have a tendency to keep people away from building."

Gavin, asking to comment, stated, "I definitely would not want to see multi-family going up there in those beautiful homes because I'm building three homes already and I'll probably build 20 homes in that association, and no way would I have that condo association put a detriment to my other 52 lots... I mean, that would be cutting my own throat. The buildings that are going to be built in there are going to be something that this town can be very proud of because they're going to be ranging from $150,000 and up per unit. It's not going to be a bad area."

Gavin further stated, "I've had the stigma of everybody telling me when I bought Sunset, it was going to be a low-income project. Well, I think I've already set a standard on that and it's far from being a low-income project. Those are beautiful houses being built in there and I'm proud of it."

He also said that this might be a new project for Kewaskum, but in surrounding communities, there is a big demand for condos. People don't want to cut the grass. People don't want to shovel their lots. They want to have that all done for them. As far as multi-family, there will never be anything bigger than a duplex back there."

It was also explained these duplexes are not considered as a rental, nor are duplexes in themselves considered multi-family housing.

Village Administrator Daniel Schmidt commented, "There has never been an ordinance/resolution passed regarding limits on multi-family." Schmidt explained that the village had discussed the guidelines in regards to its own land use plan, and again reiterated that condos were considered a Planned Unit Development... not multi-family housing.

Trustee Dave Goeden stated he personally is against multi-family housing, but as a member of the Plan Commission, voted in favor of recommending this project to the Village Board due to the beauty of the layout and the community's need for this type of project.

Larry Ammel, whose property neighbors the proposed project, commented that at first he was opposed to it, but feels now that, "I think there are people that do not want to own something without having the hassle of taking care of it. Especially the older people... and I think it will be a good thing back there."

Following no further comments it was voted to close the public hearing. Further along in the meeting, a vote on the rezoning request was taken with Trustee Beisbier, Waala, Goeden and Stoltzmann and President Wagner voting in favor and Trustee John Borland voting against. (Trustee Kulas was absent).

Due to the many items on the agenda and the extreme length of the meeting, another article addressing the balance of these issues will be printed in next week's issue.

National Farm Safety And Health Week 1994

September 18-24, 1994, marks the 51st annual weekly commemoration of National Farm Safety and Health Week. The theme, "Safety and Health; A Way of Life" has been selected to take special note of issues involving farm equipment, livestock and chemicals. The elderly are at risk for many of the same hazards and represent an increasingly higher proportion of the agricultural population.

The men and women we rely on to produce crops and livestock work in one of the nations most dangerous career fields. Some 1,300 deaths from agriculture related accidents occur every year on farms and ranches all over the country. An additional 120,000 farm workers are injured, many of them permanently. Children and adolescents also face serious risk. About 300 of our nations young are killed and 23,500 are injured needlessly every year while working and playing on farms and ranches.

Harvesting season is soon approaching and many farmers use rural highways to transport their crops. Slow moving farm equipment is very dangerous. Approach all farm equipment with care. Large equipment is easily blinded and may not be able to see passing automobiles. Defensive driving is a must. To help avoid all types of accidents we ask that you use care when working with farm equipment and be sure that safety is not taken lightly.

Injuries, Death to Child Pedestrians Can Be Avoided

For many children, the end of summer marks the return to the classroom. However, with each new school year brings an increased danger to these students.

Each year in the United States, more than 50,000 children are injured as pedestrians, according to the American Academy of Pediatrics. Of those 50,000 children, 1,800 die, 18,000 are admitted to hospitals and 5,000 suffer from significant long-term disabilities.

So far this year, 103 children have been admitted to Children's Hospital of Wisconsin for pedestrian/motor vehicle injuries, Jeni Wincek, RN, clinical nurse specialist/Trauma Program coordinator at Children's Hospital, said.

The beginning and end of the school year, when more children are on the streets during certain times of day, poses the greatest risk to children, Wincek said. Most injuries occur between noon and 6 p.m., and children who are between the ages of 4 and 8 are most frequently injured, she said. She added that most children are hit by vehicles after darting into traffic from in between two parked cars.

Effective prevention programs must be developed to protect child pedestrians from further injuries and death, Wincek said.

Many young children cross streets alone, Wincek said. However, very few children under 8 years of age can deal safely with traffic because of their age, she said. These children are at risk because:

*They are impulsive and tend to do things without thinking first.

*They believe that if they can see a driver, the driver can see them.

*They believe cars can stop instantly.

*Few can judge the speed of traffic.

*A child's field of vision is one-third of an adults.

*They do not recognize or react to unsafe situations.

"Safety begins at home," Wincek said. "The best advice is for parents to be examples for their children. Younger children are at the highest risk of being involved in an accident because they have not yet developed a sense of danger."

Before letting children cross the streets alone, it is important for parents to cross the streets hundreds of times with them, Wincek said. Children develop skills through repetition and positive reinforcement, she said.

"Pedestrian injuries and death, especially those to children, can be avoided," Wincek said. "Children learn traffic safety by watching and doing. Adults can be excellent role models."

Wincek suggested parents practice the following safety skills with their children:

*Learn to read and understand traffic signals and signs.

*Be alert to potential hazards.

*Stop at the curb or edge of the road before crossing the street.

*Never run into a street.

*Once a street is clear, it usually is safe to cross. However, keep looking for oncoming traffic until the street has been safely crossed.

*When walking in town, stay on the sidewalks and cross streets at designated crosswalks.

*Never cross between parked cars.

*When walking at dusk or during evening hours, make sure to wear bright clothes and some type of reflective device. Do not walk alone at night.

Parents should supervise children at all times until they prove they are safe pedestrians even when distracted, Wincek said. It also is important for parents to structure their child's play areas in locations away from any type of vehicular traffic, she said.

"Children need to learn to be safe pedestrians, however the ultimate responsibility lies with the drivers," Wincek said. "Drivers should slow down in residential and school areas and should always remember that children are impulsive and tend not to think before they act."

Children's Hospital is a private, independent, not-for-profit regional pediatric medical center. The hospital serves all children in Wisconsin and Michigan's Upper Peninsula who need its specialized services without regard to race, creed, color or ability to pay.

Krug-Senn Site Uncovers

Bob stands inside the largest stone circle, also known as a sun circle, or medicine wheel, used for ceremonies and festivals.

One of the larger petroglyphs found on the Krug-Senn site. Native Americans told Bob the stone was chosen for use because it was sacred, surviving a natural crack without breaking in half.

By Sharon Callaway Roznik
with Robert Krug

Imagine Wisconsin five thousand years ago, when buffalo and elk roamed what was then vast prairies and oak savannahs. When a nation of people hunted and gathered to survive... burning off the prairie to allow new growth.

They came together to celebrate life, death, and follow the movement of the stars across the night sky, and their meeting place became a sacred site where Native Americans from across the state and beyond could converge to exchange stories, ideas, tools, and artifacts, as well as practice their spiritual beliefs.

Such a site exists in Campbellsport, and has been labeled the Krug-Senn site after its discoverer, Robert Krug, who has studied the area with such notables as scientists, astronomers, Native Americans from various tribes, archeologists, Russians, Japanese, astronauts, the Smithsonian... to name just a few of the experts who've come to provide theories as to the meaning of over 3,500 stones set in patterns across fifteen acres of land.

Bob and his wife Audrey have given countless tours of the location set atop a wooded drumlin behind their home on Spring Drive in rural Fond du Lac County. Krug seems familiar with every inch of the property, and has spent the past several years exploring, mapping and cataloging the various stone circles, and petroforms (intentionally placed rock configurations) that are found in the shape of animals such as bear, turtle, snake, buffalo, as well as the recent discovery of stick people and comets.

The Krug-Senn site is one of eleven major sites of its kind found in North America - all of them located on continental divides which offered easy access for travelers of that time moving by water. The largest intensity of petroforms can be found in Winnepeg, Canada.

Scientists theorize the site dates back 5,000 years and continued to be built upon up until 2,000 years ago. The petroforms have been preserved because the ground never freezes deeper than one foot in this wooded area due to the insulation of leaves and grass.

With the aid of a computer, scientists discovered that "key" stones were aligned with points on the horizon and plotted the yearly movements of the sun - confirming their suspicions that the largest stone circle was astronomically aligned to solstice and equinox sunset/sunrise positions.

With this ancient calendar a society of people could accurately mark the beginning and end of seasons, using a 20 hour day, divided into one hour and 18 minute segments. "It was an agricultural calendar and also a festival calendar," adds Krug.

The exploration of the drumlin is an ongoing process since its discovery in 1986, often painstakingly slow. "We've cleared and burned off a lot of the forest debris to uncover what's underneath," Bob explains, "but we can't remove what has basically preserved the site for thousands of years." The most exciting discovery has been the recent uncovering of several petroglyphs and pictographs. The following is an excerpt from Bob's own story:

"Two years ago I picked up a small stone with a rock art face on it. At that time I thought that some European descendent has probably carved it while sitting and squirrel hunting, but a year ago, I found another rock, about basketball size, with rock art. It shows a man shooting a bow. The arrow is in flight to what appears to be a buffalo attacking them from behind. A woman is herding two children away. On the other side of the stone there is rock art of a wolf with a sunburst on the side of the shoulder.

In the fall of 1991 my son, Bob, found another basketball size rock that has rock art on all sides. There are many different Indian designs... sunbursts, stars, moon, fish, eagles, deer-like creatures, sunsets, owls, crescents, some formed by lines and others by dots. In March 1992, I found a flat rock about the size of a small dinner plate. On one side, it has many different delicate petroglyphs, animals, birds, fish, sunbursts, a stick man, teepees, etc.

In April 1992, Bob again found a rock, watermelon size. It has rock art or petroglyphs on one side. It looks like a wigwam village, a man standing over the village shooting an arrow at two sunbursts to the right. To the left of the man is a large ugly face. Left of that are two small stars or moon bursts. We have found six more stones with rock art on them. All pictographs and petroglyphs are found underground.

We do find other types of artifacts such as shaft sanding stones, counting stones, and other on parts of the ridge, most at the bottom of the causeway by the spring. Also stone discs and balls, one ringing stone that changes tone by holding it at different places and tapping it.

There are stones with drilled holes through them, three notches on them. They could have been used like a sexton or by putting a stake through the hole into the ground and turning the stone around it to align the lines that formed equinox on solstice lines."

Old-timers living in the vicinity of the area remember stories told by their parents that Native Americans would come and camp by the spring located on the east side of the woods. In the spring of the year they would come and beg for food and ask for rifle ammunition to hunt deer.

There was a large lake (Bob calls Glacier Lake) located where there is now marshland. A series of stone steps, circles and mounds follow a causeway leading down to the spring which is lined with rocks. Part of an ancient trail is located here that runs from Kewaskum to Horicon Marsh and there is evidence of two boat landings.

Once again, Bob explains, "At the north side of the drumlin now is a swamp extending 1 1/2 miles northwest, a half mile at its widest point. This swamp at one time was a glacier lake on the subcontinental divide. The water now flows to Lake Michigan through a narrow ravine. In ancient times the ravine was closed and the water would have flown out of the west side of the swamp to the Rock and Mississippi Rivers. So at that time they could come here by boat from either the Atlantic Ocean or the Rocky Mountains with only a quarter mile portage from the Atlantic."

There is speculation as to the purpose of the large earth mounds also found on the site, usually accompanied by a hollowed out pit on the side. The mounds contain no large stones, only a series of gravel topped with clay and black topsoil. Krug does not believe they were used for burial, or were tree falls as some have suggested. He suggests that they could have been used "like steeples on our churches, each person has his own individual steeple to meditate by. Or the pits could have been used as a sleeping pit by putting a grass bed on the bottom of the pit and an elk rib frame across the top and covering that with a grass stack. It would be a warm and cozy place to stay in about any kind of weather."

Native Americans began to visit this site in 1990, and have been making regular pilgrimages back ever since. Each tribe has their own beliefs as to certain usages of the stone circles. The Fox nation believe these ancient ancestors were sky and star worshippers. They all agree that the site is indeed sacred and the large stone circle, or sun circle, also called a Medicine Wheel, was used to perform ceremonies of great importance to the people and their culture.

Krug comments in his report, "Native Americans honor all things living, growing, and in the universe. That is why there are petroforms of animals, fish, turtles, constellations, solar and lunar lines. They also used these solar lines for traveling and communicating with other clans and nations in this hemisphere. The five stone circles were observation circles for viewing such things as solar and lunar events. The smaller stone circles were meditation circles with openings facing the south or the southwest. Walking into the circles from the southwest they viewed the morning star at its brightest. From the south gate they viewed the northern lights. The circles with more stones were exhaltation circles for those who had done great deeds such as warriors or hunters.

They came to this site for festivals, usually four times a year, and they consisted of four days of fasting, four days of worship and four days of feasting. When they saw the bowl shaped holes with fireplaces at the side they identified them as cooking pots. They placed a skin, such as elk in the pit, then filled it with water and their food. In the fireplaces they heated basketball size stones and transferred them into the pits when hot, using the rib bones of elk. The hot stones boiled the water and cooked the food. They also made maple sugar this way. They lined the hides in the bottom of the pits with a layer of small stones to keep the large, hot rocks from burning the hides. After the sugar was cooked, the children would lick these small stones like lollipops. That flat standing stones located next to the cooking area were used for the chef or other person of high position to oversee the preparation of food.

Around these areas is also indication that posts were sunk into the ground and the cooking area was tented in case of rain. Stone walkways lead to the pits, and from the number found, it is estimated 800 to 1000 people gathered here for the festivals. For some, it was a once in a lifetime pilgrimage."

Bob and Audrey continue to welcome visitors to the site from all over the world, and continue to uncover more stone formations, recently the stick figures of men and women. There is much more to be uncovered along the east side of the ridge and the south side of the woods. Their age doesn't stop them as the doctor told Bob he has the body of a thirty year old man. And it's evident as you try to keep up with the man while he bounds with enthusiasm pointing out the petroforms stone by stone until the figures emerge to a visitors surprise. His energy and dedication to the discovery is endless, rising with the sun to head for the ill to clear ground cover, haul away fallen trees and logs, cover stones with chalk for easy viewing, remove nettle and briar...it's all in a days work for the tireless couple.

The Krug-Senn site may well be one of the most important archeological discoveries in Wisconsin in the past century, providing key links to migration and trade routes throughout the United States, as well as the continuing study of the people who inhabited North America five thousands years ago. The site provides answers to questions regarding their social, economic, cultural, and spiritual development as a complex society that may have formed the basis of our own evolution through time.

Everyone should travel, if only to get a fresh appreciation for the comforts of home.

On Sunday afternoon, fire of unknown origin, completely destroyed the barn on the Henry Opper farm, located in the Town of Auburn, formerly known as the Frank Quandt farm. A threshing outfit, belonging to Fred Zielicke, was in the barn at the time, and Mr. Zielicke was looking over the machine, preparing same for Monday's work, when smoke was noticed. Through the able assistance of Mr. Opper and sons the threshing machine was saved. The fire consumed this year's entire crop of hay and grain. The loss is estimated at $3,000 partly covered by insurance.

The Public Schools of this Village will open on Monday, September 8. The following teachers have been engaged for the ensuing year: Principal - C.W. Dupree; Assistant Principal - Miss Lamoreaux of Mayville; German Teacher - Miss Kuenne of Random Lake; Music Teacher - Miss Flaherty of West Bend. The Trinity parochial school opened on Wednesday with a large attendance.

Sunday afternoon, September 7th, at 2:30 p.m., is the time set for the Big Game of Indoor Baseball, which will be played under the auspices of the Kewaskum Athletic Club. Here is your chance for a good hearty laugh, for the old timers will put forth every effort to slip a victory over the younger men. The men who will participate in the game are as follows: Elwyn Romaine, Arthur Schaefer, Elmer Kilb, Walter Schneider, Carl, Walter and Harry Schaefer, John Schaefer, Byron, Maurice and Adolph Rosenheimer, Otto E. Last week Friday, George Petri of Wayne sold his entire stock of merchandise to Friend Brothers of Chicago. M.D. Davidson, a representative of Friend Brothers, has been appointed manager of the entire stock and will hold a big sale beginning September 9th, during which time all groceries, hardware, tinware, crockery, paints, oils and all household utensils will be disposed of at greatly reduced prices. Mr. Petri intends to retire from business and offers for sale all his property at Wayne. With the closing of this business one of the oldest stores in Washington County goes out of existence. The store was built about sixty years ago, by the late Wendel Petri, who continued to manage same until his death, when his son George took charge of it, who managed same up to the present time. As this was the only store in Wayne, the citizens of that place will in the future have to travel a great distance to buy their merchandise.

Miss Josephine Blum, daughter of Mrs. Ida Blum and Edward Bassil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bassil of this village quietly married on Tuesday at the Evangelical Lutheran St. Lucas Church.

The work of razing the old Casey residence, located on Main Street, and recently purchased by the Theresa Telephone Company, was commenced this week. As soon as the old buildings have been torn down the company will immediately start to build a new modernly equipped central station on said place.

KHS Spikers 3rd At Campbellsport

By Statesman Sports Writer

CAMPBELLSPORT - After a pair of conference victories during the week, Kewaskum volleyball coach Dave Rizzardi was probably expecting a better effort than his Indian team put forth here, last Saturday afternoon in the Campbellsport Invitational.

The Indians looked lackluster all afternoon, finishing the day with just two wins and four losses. The record gave them a third-place finish in the four-team meet, which was won by the host Cougars (5-1).

Laconia took second with its 4-2 mark, while North Fond du Lac was fourth (1-5).

After splitting two games with Campbellsport in the Indian Invitational two weeks earlier, the Indians looked flat against the Cougars in the first round Saturday.

Campbellsport outplayed KHS in the opener, winning 15-5. The Indians regrouped, and actually held an early 7-2 advantage in game two before the Cougars finally kicked it into gear.

The result was a 13-2 run, giving Campbellsport the 15-9 win and the momentum to roll to the tournament championship.

The Indians, on the other hand, continued to struggle, winning just half of their games the rest of the day. Against Laconia in the second round the Indians dropped the first game 13-15, before coming back to win the second 16-14.

The results were the same in the third round against North Fond du Lac, which beat KHS 15-13 in game one. Again, the Indians came back in order to secure a split, winning game two 15-5, thus avoiding a last-place finish.

Minutes of Plan Commission

Village of Kewaskum
Plan Commission
July 26, 1994

The Plan Commission of the village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin met in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

In the absence of President Robert H. Wagner Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt called the meeting to order. Members present were David Goeden, John Stephani, Paul Ziebert, Donald Mlodzik, Zoning Administrator Richard Zaring and Administrator Daniel Schmidt. President Robert Wagner, Gerald Stollenwerk and Richard Schmidt asked to be excused and were absent. A quorum was present.

On a motion by Paul Ziebert, seconded by Donald Mlodzik and unanimously carried by voice vote, David Goeden was authorized to serve as chairman Pro-Tem.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and the Pledge of allegiance.

On a motion by Paul Ziebert, seconded by John Stephani and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission approved the minutes as printed for June 28, 1994.

Discussion was held on the request of Gary and Linda Gavin for to rezone the parcel of land known by tax key number V4-0055-001 (Rosenheimer Land) adjacent to Edgewood Road west of Forest Avenue. The request was for the rezoning of the easterly 200' x 275' adjacent to Edgewood Road to R-1 Single-Family Residents District and C-1 Conservancy District (wetlands) and westerly 282' x 931' to R-3 Two-Family Residents District and C-1 Conservancy District (wetlands) from AG-2 Agricultural Land District. It was noted that the R-3 Two-Family District is being laid out as a Planned Unit Development as provided for in the Zoning Ordinance. After a considerable amount of discussion and the Commission reviewing the PUD request action was taken. On a motion by Donald Mlodzik, seconded by Paul Ziebert and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission recommended the rezoning as requested and sent the matter to the Village Board for public hearing and action.

Discussion regarding the request of Gary and Linda Gavin for a conditional use permit allow for a Planned Unit Development for the area of land under consideration to be rezoned to R-3 Two-Family Residents District. It was noted that certain items would be need to be placed into the conditional use permit as follows:

1) Private access drive 24 feet wide within the PUD and wider adjacent to Gavin Parkway as to provide for sidewalk.

2) Require the placement of sidewalk on one side of said private drive.

3) Acknowledgements that the lots adjacent to Gavin Parkway are not corner lots.

4) Establishment of a rear yard equal to that which is required in the R-3 zoning.

5) Requirement that adequate parking be maintained for each unit as well as visitor parking.

6) Acknowledgement that all improvements within PUD are privately owned and maintained such as, but not limited to (Water, Storm Sewer, Sanitary Sewer, Roadway, Snow Removal and Garbage Collection).

7) Plus any others that the Board may determine to be needed after public hearing.

On a motion by Paul Ziebert, seconded by John Stephani and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission recommended proceeding with the Planned Unit Development and asked that Mr. Gavin bring a site plan back prior to the Commission sending the matter to the Village Board for public hearing.

On a motion by John Stephani, seconded by Donald Mlodzik and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission changed the meeting date from August 23 to August 30, 1994 as requested by Rick Kania.

On a motion by Donald Mlodzik, seconded by John Stephani and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission recommended an Ordinance change regarding allowing "Bed and Breakfast Establishments" as a conditional use. The board will hold a public hearing on the matter September 12, 1994.

Discussion on amending the Zoning Ordinance regarding Planned Unit Developments as to more accurately address these needs met with the approval of the Commission. the consensus of the Commission was to proceed with preparing such an amendment and to bring it back for review.

On a motion by John Stephani, seconded by Paul Ziebert and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Commission adjourned the meeting. Roll call vote was 4 "Aye," 0 "Nay," 3 "Absent."

Rohrer Upends Kohler's Highly-Regarded Wood

By Statesman Sports Writer

KOHLER - Despite getting beat pretty handily by an impressive Kohler girls tennis team, it wasn't a complete loss for Kewaskum here, last Thursday.

The Indians' Missy Rohrer showed that she should be regarded as one of the state's best Division 2 singles players, after she beat the Blue Bombers' Susannah Wood in straight sets.

The victory by Rohrer, her first in seven tries against Wood, helped the Indians avoid a shutout, as they lost the match

Maertz Scores

By Statesman Sports Writer

KEWASKUM - The Kewaskum soccer team scored its first goal of the season here, last Tuesday, but it wasn't nearly enough.

Troy Maertz scored unassisted late in the first half of the Indians' game with Milwaukee Vincent. But the inexperienced Indians were unable to reach the net again, losing to Vincent 3-1.

The loss dropped the Indians to 0-2 on the year.

The Indians are in their second year of competition in soccer, and have a schedule of non-conference games this year.

America's first extensive hard-surface road was built in Pennsylvania. Completed in 1795, it is known as the Lancaster Turnpike ran 62 miles.

EWSCA NEWS

(PLYMOUTH, WI) Two-time Modified track champion Donny Goeden of Kewaskum continued on his quest for a third straight crown by winning the 30 lap Eastern Wisconsin Stock Car Association Modified feature race Monday, Sept. 5 night at Sheboygan County Fair Park.

Goeden started second and drove to the front in the first turn of the opening lap. From that point on, Goeden was never seriously challenged. Four red flags and several mechanical failures decimated the field. The most serious incident occurred on lap eight when first year Sheboygan Falls driver Craig Schueffner rolled his Modified in turn four. He escaped without injury. Only eight of the twenty cars that started the race were running at the finish.

On each restart, Goeden quickly pulled away from the pack to lead every lap on his way to his fourth main event win of the season. Plymouth's Chuck Melis finished second, point leader Pete Ostrowski of Milwaukee came up from the fifth row at the start to take third. Ostrowski now holds a fourteen point cushion over Goeden in the season long standings going into next week's end of season championships. Eddie Staehler of Kewaskum was fourth, and Ken Jay Fiedler of Sheboygan Falls took fifth after starting eighteenth.

Next week the Eastern Wisconsin Stock Car Association will hold it's annual end of season championships with extended feature races in all three divisions. 1994 track champions will also be crowned on Saturday night. Qualifying will start at 6:00 p.m. with racing getting underway at 7:00 p.m.

KHS Regroups to Beat Kiel

By Statesman Sports Writer

KEWASKUM - Coming into the season, Kewaskum volleyball coach Dave Rizzardi knew that defending Eastern Wisconsin Conference co-champion Kiel was not going to be a real threat for the title again this year.

After losing its top players to graduation, the Raiders still are not willing to concede anything, as evidenced by the scare they threw into the Indians here, last Thursday night.

Kiel outlasted Kewaskum in the opening game of the match, 15-13, but was unable to follow through on its early success. The Indians rebounded well, taking the final two games by identical 15-6 scores, thus securing the match win.

The win helped improve KHS' mark to 3-1 in the EW, keeping it in contention for the regular season title in the loop.

Serving helped the Indians overtake the Raiders in the final two games. Led by Michelle Thull's 20 perfect serves, including four aces, the Indians converted on all but five of their 80 attempts.

Kelly Schreffler and Mary Yahr were key at the net for the Indians, as well. Schreffler finished with 12 kills, including seven spikes, and led the Indians with 13 total points.

Yahr was right behind, coming up with eight spikes and 12 total points in the match.

Shelly Williams once again led the Indians in assists, totalling 18 passes, while Tanya Krahn chipped in with three saves and nine assists.

The Indians will hope to continue their EW winning streak, now at three matches, when they host Sheboygan Falls on Tuesday. The Indians will also play New Holstein on Thursday, capping off what will be an important week for the Indians' EW title hopes.

Indians Run Past Tigers in EW Opener

By Statesman Sports Writer

CHILTON - It was smash mouth football at its finest for the Kewaskum football team here, last Friday night.

Taking advantage of its bigger and stronger linemen, Kewaskum plowed over Chilton's defensive line, amassing over 200 yards rushing in an easy 33-12 victory over the Tigers.

The win gave the Indians a 1-0 mark in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference, and improved the team to 2-1 on the season.

After struggling against Horicon the previous week, the Indians had no trouble with an overmatched Chilton squad, which found itself trailing big early.

Things didn't look too promising early for the Indians, though. After committing a crucial turnover that led to a loss last week, Kewaskum opened with a turnover on its first series against the Tigers. A fumble by Cory Rammer negated a nice opening drive by the Indians, but the guests quickly recovered.

After stopping Chilton on the ensuing possession, the Indians drove 65 yards on their next series, culminating in a one-yard touchdown plunge by quarterback Dan Survis. The run helped alleviate some of the pressure on both the Indians and Survis, whose fumble was returned for a touchdown

Indian Spikers Tame Tigers

By Statesman Sports Writer

CHILTON - The Kewaskum girls volleyball team didn't serve all that well against Chilton here, last Tuesday night. But in the end, it really didn't matter.

That's because the Tigers were much worse with their serving game, leading to many KHS sideouts. The Indians took advantage, rolling to an easy 15-4, 15-6, 15-3 victory.

The win upped the Indians' record in the Eastern Wisconsin Conference to 2-1.

KHS missed 10 of its 84 serving opportunities, a number that is normally high enough to cause some problems. But against the Tigers it was no problem, as the Indians dominated play throughout.

Everybody got to play in the blowout win for KHS, leading to some low point totals for the Indians leaders.

Erin Stockhausen led all KHS players with seven total points, including five spike kills. Shelly Williams and Tanya Krahn shared high assist honors, each dishing off seven, while Williams had a pair of assists.

Williams and Sandy Melzer also accounted for a combined 20 good serves, with Melzer collecting three aces as well.

against Horicon.

The rejuvenated Indians got on the board a short time later, as Ryan Herman's interception allowed KHS to set up shop inside the Chilton 20-yard line.

Rammer made up for his early blunder, running around the corner and into the end zone unscathed for a 19-yard score, making it 13-0 in favor of the Indians, as kicker Luke Chesak split on his first two point after tries.

Rammer wasn't through, however, ripping off a 25-yard run on the Indians' next possession to put them in scoring range again. A fourth-down catch by Paul Reis put the ball inside the one yard line, from where Rammer took it in on the next play, making it 20-0 Kewaskum at halftime.

The Indians added to the Tigers' misery in the third quarter, as a bad snap on a punt attempt gave the Indians possession inside the Tiger 20 once again.

Rammer once again took off on a 19-yard dash into the end zone, making it 26-0.

The Indians apparently had made it 32-0 after Shawn Erdmann intercepted a pass and returned it 30 yards for a score. A clipping penalty, however, brought the ball back.

It didn't matter, though, as Tim Strigenz scored soon after, hitting paydirt from 20 yards out early in the fourth quarter. Chesak's extra point made it 33-0.

Chilton got on the board with two late scores, the first of which came on a fluke play. Chilton QB Mike Hintz lost the ball after being hit around the Indian 10 yard-line. But the ball sailed directly into the hands of teammate Cory Johnson, who nestled it in and ran the final distance into the end zone.

Johnson accounted for the other Tiger tally as well, capping off a long drive with a two-yard burst.

It was much too little for the hosts, however, as Chilton was outgained in the contest 257-164. Of the Indians' total, 217 yards came via the ground attack.

The Indians will try to ride the momentum gained in the victory when they travel to Fox Valley Lutheran this Friday night. The Foxes lost to Plymouth on Friday, 19-0.

It will be the final non-conference contest of the season for the Indians, who will get back into EW action next Friday afternoon, at home against Two Rivers.
