School Board Pledge of Allegiance Decision Draws Record Crowds

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

It was a late night session for board members at last week's school district meeting. The action packed agenda drew record crowds that poured out into the hallways, and as one parent put it, "I've been attending school board meetings for the past six years, and have never seen such a turn-out."

The majority was comprised of Farmington residents alarmed by a recent decision to recite the Pledge of Allegiance once a week at Farmington Elementary School, instead of the traditional daily requirement. The decision was made by staff and principal Steinhilber, who cited the reason being time restraints and a very tight schedule with buses not always arriving at the same time.

Board member Goeden made a motion to immediately rescind this decision, making it mandatory for grade one through eight to recite the Pledge of Allegiance at the beginning of every school day.

Dr. Heather felt it was more appropriate this item be addressed by the policy committee, for discussion and formulation of a decision, but a lengthy parade of parents and American Legion members made it clear they wanted an answer before they left the meeting that evening, with the consensus being that patriotism needs to be a part of the educational curriculum of the district and students should be taught why they are saying the Pledge.

World War II Veteran Elmer Hallen and his wife, Betty, spoke on behalf of, "restoring honor to the American flag," with Betty adding, "we are only sitting here tonight because of the veterans who have fought for us."

Parents of the elementary school children expressed similar views, having led petitions throughout the area the past few weeks to gain support for the daily Pledge, as well as an assurance the school system would continue to hold holiday programs. Farmington had also recently canceled their annual Christmas program in favor of an integrated musical program in the spring, but reinstated the holiday program in a letter from the staff and principal to parents and administrators on December 6th, after the Farmington community had voiced their anger at such a proposal.

Parent Linda Gerlach asked, "how, in a matter of minutes, can they take away the Pledge of Allegiance AND the Christmas program, when we might have to wait months before this goes to the policy committee?"

Dr. Heather answered that a decision like this can be made based on a form of site based management, with all schools retaining some degree of autonomy, but board member John Schulte disagreed, and argued the point as to whether this was actually true.

Board member Ron Beimborn expressed his views as to why it (the Pledge), couldn't be made mandatory through grade 12, but high school principal Heidner explained it would be difficult to do with co-op students, and announcements not taking place until third hour. Another board member, Karen Sparks, voiced her concern that, "I don't want us to get caught up making decisions administrators typically make."

After lengthy discussion, the board unanimously passed the motion, and added they hoped volunteers from the community would come forward to help with student education on patriotism and the Pledge of Allegiance.

'Crickets' Recognized

Kewaskum Village President Bob Wagner, right, presents a framed proclamation and gift certificate to Gregor "Crickets" Rohlinger, left, of Kewaskum, in honor of his 27 years and 10 months of employment with the Village of Kewaskum. The Proclamation of Appreciation read in part: "to Gregor Rohlinger in grateful recognition of your 27 years and 10 months of faithful, efficient and dedicated public service rendered to the Village of Kewaskum, Wisconsin. The Village of Kewaskum is proud indeed of its employees who have contributed in no small means to the enhancement of the fair name of the Village of Kewaskum. Successive Village Boards appreciate the job you have done as an employee in the Department of Public Works. They also have realized the extra effort given by you to the Village for nearly three decades. Progress in municipal government is predicated, for the most part, upon loyalty and dedication of the civic employees, and their ability to carry out faithfully and effectively, the acts of Village Government." The proclamation was presented at last Monday's Village Board meeting.

St. John of God Ruins Torn Down

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

After heartfelt efforts by a group of parishioners to save the historic fieldstone ruins of the Irish mission school and convent, St. John of God Church tore them down last Wednesday, and buried the remains in a twenty foot deep pit on church property.

"They came in so early, it had to be 4 a.m. when they started," states supporter Kerry Fay of Boltonville, "because it was all down by 7:30 a.m., and none of us were given any warning." Fay was alerted by a customer at Kerry's Corners, and quickly called Ann Enright in hopes that she could salvage the pink stone cross inlaid above the doorway to the convent, which she did, along with some of the pink cornerstones. "We are going to use these to make a monument of some sort," Enright explains. "Maybe a grotto with pictures and a statue," Fay adds.

Supporters from the parish as well as around the state, are shocked and angered at the sudden turn of events and choice to demolish the buildings in the midst of fervent attempts to work with the church, the insurance company, and the Archdiocese to reach some type of alternative solution. Offers were made to purchase the land,

Dollhouse Architect

Dave Ritter displays the base of one of the new log houses he's starting, including the set-in fireplace that really works.

Each house takes over 144 hours of labor. The logs are individually worked and set in place. Shown above and below are two different varieties of Dave's creations.

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Five years ago, Dave Ritter of Kewaskum, couldn't even pound a nail straight. Today, he builds award-winning, one of a kind, "log cabin style" doll houses, that are sought after by children as well as collectors.

Ritter and his wife, Vonnie, have five grown children, and hoped for at least one grandchild to enjoy. They wound up with twelve, and Dave wanted to make his granddaughters dollhouses but considered himself talentless as far as woodworking goes.

Through a club in West Bend, Ritter met up with a man named Don Star, who brought a miniature log home that he had built, to one of the meetings. "I really admired the detail and construction of the model," Dave recalls, "and we became good friends. He taught me how to build the houses. Everything I learned, I learned from Don."

His first house, which he cannot part with, took him 144 hours to build. None of the wood for the projects is purchased, only scrap lumber is used. No two houses are ever the same, and he points out, "I never work with blueprints or plans. People have asked me to replicate their own home, but I can't. I build and design each individual dollhouse as I go along."

Dave figures he's built between 20 and 25 in the last five years; they usually sell as fast as he can make them. Sometimes he works on one with Don, but these days they build most of their houses independently. All his work is done using a basic drill press and table saw.

Using 3/4" logs, each one is handled several times through different processes before it is glued in place, including wire brushing to create an antique look. Approximately 1,300 logs go into the making of one log house, depending on the size of the structure. After being glued into place, a caulking is put between the cracks to produce an authentic look.

Attention is placed on every detail. The windows are dressed with shutters and window boxes, the porch contains an old-fashioned swing and wrap around railing, and all doors are hinged and really work. So does the stone fireplaces Ritter has made in Random Lake. "People use them for burning incense in, and the smoke goes out the chimney," he adds.

Starting with a square of rectangular frame base, no nails are used except on the bottom of the base. Hardwood floors are replicated throughout all the rooms, and the roof is removable for easy cleaning. The two story log dollhouses contain two to three bedrooms, and sometimes a loft with a removable ladder, "just like in the old days," along with kitchen, dining, and living areas. Dave tries to build true to the circa the homes were popular in. His wife, Vonnie, sews curtains for the little windows of each room. As the structure ages, the logs will darken in color from light blonde to a rich red, adding to the uniqueness of the individual house.

Dave took home a first place ribbon this year from the Magic Marketplace Craft Show put on by West Bend Hospital's Auxiliary, winning the blue for his design talents. Each finished creation receives a brass plaque containing Ritter's name and the date it was finished.

"I can't take credit for this," Dave repeats in honor of his great friend and mentor. "This was Don's baby, he just taught me how to build them. He came a long way from his first one, which was a one room lean-to. We've both come a long way."

For his next project, he wants to tackle wiring the whole house for electric lights. This won't be an easy task, but Dave's learned he can do things he once thought were impossible. For information on Dave's log doll houses, contact him at 626-4227.

Dec. 16, 1994

Dear Editor:

First, I want to thank the school board for the action taken, at the December 11th meeting, concerning the Pledge of Allegiance to our flag and to further educate the children on the merits of the Pledge and the historical information relevant to our heritage and to our national flag.

It is now up to the parents to continue this most important part of the children's education in patriotism and to show respect to our flag and our country.

I do take exception to several items written by Dr. Heather, contained in his letter to the board members dated December 8, 1994, a copy of which I received from the school office.

I will take direct quotes from said letter:

..."considering the board members choice to discuss the issues with the public and the press, whipping up an emotional frenzy that precludes any possible type of rational discussion on the educational value of the issues involved."

"If this is the new way of how we are going to do our business in the future, please let me know so that we can consider whether or not we want to get down in the dirt and play this type of game."

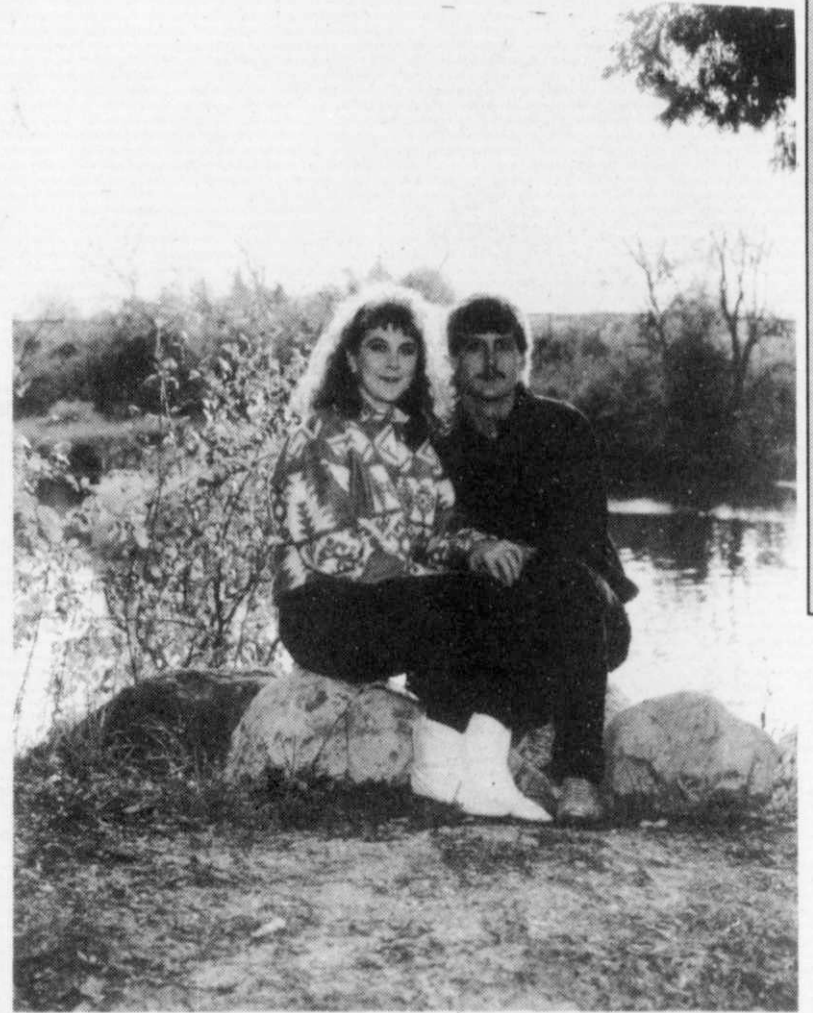

"I should also point out to you that educational decisions made in haste before an emotionally charged audience or on an emotional issue generally turn out to be very poor educational decisions."

It is of great concern to us, the public, what and how our government and school system works and what they do or not do.

Yes, the issues taken by the board at this meeting were emotional as patriotism is and should be emotional. Made in haste? The American flag and the Pledge of Allegiance have been around a long time and I do hope they remain till eternity.

These quotes are very unprofessional, uncalled for, and an insult to our intelligence and a public apology from Dr. Heather is now in order.

President Ruth Schmitt addressed the audience, stating, "community input is always welcome, and a valuable part of our meetings."

Representatives from the Honeywell Corporation were present to present awards to teachers from the district as winners of the 1994 Honeywell Educational Mini-Grant Program. Mr. David Drexler won for his development of a unit on solar energy for his middle school classes, and Mrs. Zoerb, Mrs. Kasten, and Mrs. Stradtman received awards for their "Take Home Totes," project developed for kindergartners.

Two architects were on hand from Eppstein, Keller, and Uhen to discuss the plans for the high school addition and answer any questions the board might have. The expansion includes four major areas: the music addition; the new two-level gymnasium; the cafeteria, kitchen, family and consumer education expansion; and the office, guidance, and science area renovation. Neal Weare voiced his concern that there were no specs to draw conclusions from but hand drawings, and would prefer to see something better, with ground breaking scheduled for March 1st.

The representatives, John Miceli and Dave Dellagnese explained that these were just preliminary or conceptual drawings, and since this is an ongoing process, the firm was just there to let everyone know where things stand in the scheme of things.

Not everyone is getting what they want, there are tradeoffs here." They offered to supply the board with prints from the computer layout so they could view the concepts in a bigger picture. The plans and their costs still have to be reviewed by Hunzinger Construction before building begins. The board approved the preliminary plans 5-2, with Goeden and Weare voting no.

Mrs. Lora Schreiber, Chapter I/Remedial Reading teacher for Farmington and Wayne Elementary Schools presented a videotape on multi-sensory instructional methods being used for spelling and recognizing words, specifically designed to aid Dyslexic children, who have language-based learning problems.

She was demonstrating a process taught by Dr. Nash she learned during a six-credit course taught at the University of Oshkosh. The pilot program requires a three year commitment, with Schreiber providing Dr. Nash with student evaluations, using the Multi-sensory teaching which she has been implementing in grades three and five at Wayne, and grade four at Farmington. Schreiber is also instructing a group of teachers in this type of approach.

Several parents were on hand to urge support for this type of instruction to continue in the school system. Neal Weare requested a vote for a formalized contract lasting three years, to establish a firm commitment to the project. The board approved Schreiber's pilot program 6-0, with Ruth Schmitt abstaining on the basis that it was more appropriate to review the information at budget time.

The next large item on the agenda was a request by curriculum coordinator Connie Strand to involve the district in the Washington County School-to-Work Partnership grant, a program aimed at increasing work based learning opportunities for students throughout the county.

The partnership will link the school districts of Germantown, Hartford Union, Kewaskum, Slinger and expand existing Youth Apprenticeships in Finance, Health, Insurance and Printing, as well as develop new youth apprenticeships and school to work opportunities integrating state and national skill standards.

The grant was written by a county-wide committee, requesting to receive $159,450 from the 47 million the state was allotted, with which they would hire a full time county coordinator, support staff, pay for school site and employer mentor training, as well as supplies, professional development, outreach and technical instruction. The district would share teachers as well as a district level coordinator.

Board member John Schulte disagreed with the need for the proposal, asking, "what's wrong with them (the students) rounding out their education in the school setting with the courses we have to offer and then pursuing a career upon graduation?"

Strand indicated that approximately 11 to 15 students from Kewaskum would be able to participate in the program, receiving pay and an apprenticeship certification at the completion of the program. "We as a small district, can't offer that all by ourselves to our students. It's more feasible to offer it with a shared cost to all the schools in the county." She also pointed out that large businesses, such as Regal Ware, want to get involved with the school district in a manufacturing apprenticeship.

Washington County Economic Development Coordinator Marcia Theusch was present at the meeting and addressed the board, commenting, "this is one of the best moves our school district has made is to come together and collaborate on this because it is the only way to make it cost effective."

The Youth Apprenticeship Program is very structured, with a curriculum developed and approved by the state. The nine month grant was developed with a five year grant cycle, with the intent that it should sustain itself beyond that. Grant winners will be announced by January 2. "If we get this grant and don't participate, we'll be doing (the school) a disservice," Strand added.

After lengthy discussion, the board approved participation in the program, should the district receive the School to Work partnership grant, on a 4-3 vote, with Goeden, Schulte and Weare voting no.

In other business, Ms. Crowley discussed the after school tutorial program at the middle school, with 35 students using the after school computer lab, and eleven students involved in the tutorial lab so far this year, on a strictly volunteer basis. "I think it's a viable program for the middle school students," she expressed. "We just have to get the word out to parents that this exists." The board also approved a summer baseball game to be played in Minneapolis on June 24, 1995, against Slinger. The rental of the stadium would be split between the two teams, with students earning money to pay for transportation and lodging. Several fund raisers have been held to pay for this trip.

A new OM coach was approved for Wayne Elementary School - Mrs. Judy McCabe-Krudwig, a parent of one of the students.

Also approved were several new courses for KHS students for the 95-96 school year, including four integrated math courses, a Homeowners Maintenance course, and an advanced U.S. History course. Senior Nicole Kardaris was chosen as the November student of the month.

swift and secretive destruction of the ruins, especially before the holiday season. "This is one deep cut, and I don't know how it will ever heal," he conveys. "As far as I'm concerned, it was done deliberately, in a cowardly fashion because of personal grudges that go way back. Maybe three or four people knew this was going to happen."

Fay had spent thousands of dollars to support efforts to save the convent and school, including cleanup of all debris around them this past summer, and hiring a lawyer to work with the archdiocese on the matter. "We were getting somewhere, but they never gave us a chance." Many parishioners would have saved some of the stones in remembrance, had they known destruction would come this soon. "I would've saved at least an entire wall," Kerry adds.

move the buildings, restore and resupport the structures from funds raised outside the church... all to no avail.

The parish had voted in June 61-46, to remove the buildings, stating the condition of the buildings caused concern and possible insurance liabilities, with the archdiocese sending a proxy to St. John of God priest, Father Roger Zens, to go ahead with demolition proceeding the vote. Zens also serves St. Michael's Church.

The issue is an emotional and personal one, dividing the church and its members, and making it difficult for some "to walk through those church doors again." "I feel like I lost my best friend," expresses Ann Enright, one of the founders of the Farmington Historical Society. "I feel sorry for my children and grandchildren who will never get to see a part of our history. There was no physical reason for this to have happened," she points out. "If there were no alternatives, I could see it, but the church had no reason. At least we can hold our heads up and know we told the truth in this matter," alluding to the fact some church trustees were misinformed during the voting process, and led to believe at least one of the buildings would be preserved.

Holiday Home Decorating Contest Winners

The Fred Krieser home, located at 1120 Roseland Drive, received the "Home for the Holidays" award.

The home of Tim Bullette at 1323 Western Avenue was given the award, "Most Elegant."

Candy Cane Lane in front of the Carl Marquardt home at 1009 Edgewood Drive, was deemed "The Sweetest."

Judges for the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce Holiday Home Decorating Contest are still seeing lights in front of their eyes, but they managed to pick this year's winners.

I thought I saw them driving around yet in the wee small hours of the morning, dazed, wearing sunglasses, desperately trying to eliminate homes to get narrowed down to the final six winners.

With all the lights and glitter displayed this year, being a judge was, I'm sure, no easy task. During the holiday season, the Kewaskum community definitely has to be one of the largest electricity users in the state!

The judging this year was done a little differently because it normally is so difficult trying to choose a first, second and third prize winner from all the beautiful homes in the village. This year $25 prizes were awarded to each of the six homes the judges chose as their favorites.

The judges also gave titles to the awards they picked. Drive around town real soon and see if you agree with the judges' decisions. All the winners are pictured below, except one. As we drove around taking the photos Monday evening, the winning home of Pat Gross at 812 Memorial Drive, was not lit. Due to time limitations, we could not get back later to try again. But be sure to check out why Pat received the award, "Most Electricity Used."

Governor Urges Safe and Sober Holiday Travel

Governor Tommy G. Thompson is asking Wisconsin travelers to help make the holiday season safer by buckling up and driving sober.

"I have declared December as 'Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Month' in Wisconsin because I want this to be a joyous holiday season for all of us. I can't think of a better gift to give to our families and friends than making the commitment to travel safely. Using a seat belt every time we get in a vehicle, and choosing a designated driver before the party begins, are keys to a safe and sober holiday season," Governor Thompson said.

Governor Thompson noted that, in December 1993 alone, 22 people were killed and 708 injured in alcohol-related crashes. Some 44% of all traffic fatalities last year involved alcohol.

The Governor added that several programs are intensifying their efforts during Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Month to promote safer holiday driving.

For example, the North Woods Driving Force (715-344-7191, covering the northern two-thirds of Wisconsin), and the Business Against Drunk Drivers'

PSSST Program (414-273-2233 in southern Wisconsin), are both helping to promote safer holiday celebrations at alcohol-serving establishments.

"North Woods Driving Force and PSSST are helping establish strong designated driver programs and alternative transportation services for patrons across the state. They also provide training to alcohol beverage servers and sellers. Both are excellent examples of our business community taking the lead for safer roads," Governor Thompson said.

In addition, college students across the state led a "Lights on For Life" campaign on Friday, December 16. Drivers were encouraged that day to keep their headlights on as a symbol of their concern about the major public health issue of impaired driving.

More Items Must Be Recycled In Townships Starting January 1

The final stage of Wisconsin's Waste Reduction and Recycling Law kicks in along with the new year at midnight January 1, 1995.

As of January 1, landfills and incinerators in Wisconsin can no longer accept 10 recyclable items: newspapers, office paper, magazines, corrugated cardboard, aluminum, steel or glass containers, No. 1 or 2 plastic containers, bimetal containers, or used tires. Some communities are ahead of the game and have been recycling many items for years already.

By January 1, more than 99% of Wisconsin residents will live in an area served by a local recycling program. Local procedures for preparing recyclables vary from community to community.

Owners of commercial or residential rental properties, five units or more in size, must provide tenants with a collection system and storage containers for recyclable materials and ensure that the materials are processed and marketed.

At this time, state law requires that only plastic containers numbered 1 and 2 be recycled. Mandatory recycling of plastic containers numbered 3 through 7 and foam polystyrene packaging has been delayed until 1996 to give local governments time to develop collection systems and find markets for these materials. Some communities have decided to collect these materials sooner.

The state recycling law was intended to keep harmful or recyclable materials out of landfills and incinerators to lengthen the life of these disposal facilities, protect the environment from hazardous materials found in some recyclable items and recover valuable materials that could be successfully recycled. By the year 2000, Wisconsin residents are expected to recycle 42% of the municipal waste produced in the state.

Contact your Town Clerk for more specific information regarding your township's recycling program:

Election Law Changes

By Bernadette Mondloch

There have been a few changes in the election laws which will be of importance to those seeking local municipal offices for the first time and for those who wish to seek re-election in April, 1995.

If the incumbent officeholder does not file nomination papers and a declaration of candidacy by the filing deadline, all candidates for the office, other than the incumbent, may file nomination papers no later than 72 hours after the January 3rd filing deadline. The 72 hour extension does not apply if the incumbent has filed a written notification of non-candidacy with the municipal clerk by the December 23rd deadline.

So in laymen's language, if you currently hold a municipal office, whether town or village, and you wish to seek another term, you must file a Declaration of Candidacy with the town or village clerk by 5 p.m. on Friday, December 23.

On the other hand, if you choose to step down and do not wish to seek re-election, you must file a Declaration of Non-candidacy by the same deadline.

Another change involves using a nickname on the ballot. It is permissible for a nickname to be substituted for a first or middle name on the ballot. A nickname is defined as a familiar or shortened form of a proper name by which an individual is commonly known. This permits the use of names such as "Peggy," "Jim," or "Jack."

It does not permit the use of a shortened form of proper names such as "Red," "Buster," "Skip," "Lower Taxes," or "None of the Above." A nickname is a substitute for the candidate's legal name, quotes or parentheses are not allowed. The form in which the candidate prefers his or her name to appear on the ballot must also be on the Declaration of Candidacy.

One item which has not changed is the date on which nomination papers may be circulated. That date is December 1. Nomination papers, Declaration of Candidacy and Declarations of Non-candidacy are available from your municipal clerk.

Rep. Grothman to Chair Administrative Rules Panel

MADISON -- State Representative Glenn Grothman (R-West Bend) has been appointed to the co-chairmanship of the Joint Committee for the review of Administrative Rules by Assembly Speaker-elect David Prosser.

Grothman, a sophomore legislator in the Republican-controlled Assembly, will share the chairmanship duties of the joint committee with Senate co-chair Tim Weeden of Beloit.

At the news conference announcing his appointment, held at the Capitol on Thursday, Grothman commented on his goals for the JCRAR. "So many of the most onerous and burdensome regulations that government places on individuals and businesses are enacted not by the Legislature, but by unaccountable bureaucracies through the rule-making process." Grothman continued, "it will be the focus of this committee to allow those who are victims of these rules to be heard. The time has come to change or repeal these unnecessary regulations and to trim the power of unelected government agents."

Grothman will assume his new duties in January when the GOP assumes control of the State Assembly.

Auxiliary Fulfills $33,000 Pledge to St. Joseph's Hospital

The St. Joseph's Community Hospital Auxiliary recently fulfilled its 1994 pledge of $33,000 to the hospital. Money raised by the auxiliary is used to purchase new equipment for the hospital and provide continuing education opportunities for hospital staff.

"This year the auxiliary devoted thousands of hours to raise money for the hospital," said Marie Pitz, president of the auxiliary. "Included among our fundraising projects are the Well-Wisher Gift Shop, Magic Marketplace, the Lovelight Tree, flower sales and a croissant sale. All did very well this year thanks to the thousands of hours auxiliarians have devoted to this cause."

"The hospital appreciates the auxiliary's hard work and their dedication to fulfilling their pledge," said Greg Burns, executive director at St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend. "Thanks to them and our employees and physicians, St. Joseph's Community Hospital is able to provide the community with the high-quality health care service this area deserves."

Anyone interested in information about volunteering with the St. Joseph's Community Hospital Auxiliary may call the hospital's Public Relations Department at 334-8576.

Kewaskum School District News

This fall Mrs. Ammel's Second Grade Class at Kewaskum Elementary had a special guest. One of the parents, Charlene West, came to the classroom to play her guitar, sing and yodel.

The class had been studying landforms in Social Studies. On the day they were discussing mountains, Danny West, one of the students, said that he knew that people who lived in the mountains liked to yodel. He volunteered to bring his mother to school to demonstrate yodeling to the class. Everyone in the class enjoyed Mrs. West's visit and singing along with her.

I Do Not Understand

I do not understand

Why kids shoot for fun.
Why beatings happen in a home.
Why there's no peace in the hearts of people.

But most of all

What I do not understand,
Is how a mother could betray her daughter.
I saw it once..
A daughter had chosen a new identity,
To cover all the bulging fear inside,
Heavy make-up, orange hair, and a pierced nose.
What a screech of criticism arose!
Her mother slashed - not hair or clothes -
But her daughter's very soul.
For an instant, the rebel mask was dropped.
The daughter never knew we saw...
The mother never saw...
The gentle, shrinking soul -
- Stranded by abandonment -

What I understand most

Is home...
Where I cannot betray or be betrayed.
I live it always...
Home is where I have no fear;
It is a safe haven.
Where I'm allowed to develop my own identity
And encouragement is my mantle.
My mother builds character in my soul.

Kewaskum Riverwalk Progresses

Planning and work continued this fall on the Kewaskum Riverwalk project. Dave Stradtman's Construction Skills class began building steps from an area near the Middle School parking lot down to the Milwaukee River. Students constructed platforms at the top, middle and bottom of the stairway. They also dug twelve large postholes by hand and planted posts to anchor the stairway. Eventually the trail will wind along the river from that location to the east and south through the school property. This trail may also connect with one the Village of Kewaskum hopes to be able to construct. As funding becomes available two small ponds will be constructed on vacant land near the river. The Kewaskum FFA is interested in planting trees and native grasses in the area around the trail and ponds. Once work is completed, the entire area will be used as an outdoor classroom by area schools, including Kewaskum Middle School and Kewaskum High School science classes. If you are interested in learning more about this project, please contact Bill Lickel at Kewaskum High School. (626-2166).

Brain Buster

Each week, Mrs. Wagner's 7th grade math classes attack a challenging problem which the students refer to as a Brain Buster. Students are expected to find the answer, explain how they arrived at that answer and justify their answer. After successfully completing this week's problem, the students decided to challenge The Statesman's readers with the following Brain Buster.

Book Fair

The Middle School Parent Advisory Council Book Fair was a huge success. The students, parents and staff purchased over $1,700 worth of books and material. May 1, 1913 - Dec. 26, 1979

Baby Jesus gave me a present.
A gift beyond compare.
A kind, and loving husband,
With whom my life I'd share.
But when the day was over,
He took my present home
To live with Him forever
And left me all alone.

Miss you,

Beware of Making Your Home 'Too Snug'

MARSHFIELD -- The geese are on their way south, the leaves have fallen and there's that nip in the air that tells of winter not far away.

It's time to put the storm windows on and get the house tight and snug for the long winter ahead. But keeping all that cold air outside may eventually cause problems inside.

Lori Ferries, assistant head nurse of the Emergency Department at Saint Joseph's Hospital in Marshfield, advised area residents that too snug of a house could lead to carbon monoxide poisoning. It occurs more frequently during winter months when houses are closed up, cars are started and left to warm up in garages, and sometimes, appliances are misused to heat cold houses.

The National Safety Council reports that in 1992, more than 500 people died in this country from home accidents related to carbon monoxide. The deaths were caused by the incomplete combustion of hydrocarbon fuels, including those from heating and cooking equipment and motor vehicles.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is colorless and odorless. Fuels such as natural gas, fuel oil and gasoline will produce carbon monoxide if incomplete combustion occurs.

Ferries offered the following danger signals to tell if an appliance is producing carbon monoxide:

*Sooting at the appliance or vents.

*The sharp, bitter odor of aldehydes, a gas associated with carbon monoxide.

*A wavering yellow gas flame instead of a quiet, crisp blue flame.

"Everyone has small amount of carbon monoxide in their blood," said Ferries. "But repeated exposure to low levels or in a single high-level exposure can be extremely dangerous causing serious injury or even death." Ferries explained that carbon monoxide takes the place of oxygen in the blood when it is inhaled. It is also absorbed 200 times faster than oxygen so it quickly takes over.

"Some of the common warning signs include vomiting, headaches, muscle weakness, blurry vision, tightness of the chest, a ringing in the ears or heart palpitations," Ferries said. "And while these symptoms are common to many other problems, such as food poisoning or influenza, if more than one member of a family experiences the same problems, or if symptoms disappear when outside or away from home, carbon monoxide should be considered as a possible source."

If you suspect someone has been overcome by carbon monoxide, Ferries recommends that you:

*Remove the person and yourself from the area and then open windows to ventilate the area.

*Provide whatever basic life support necessary.

*Call for appropriate help, and for transportation to the nearest health care facility.

"Our Emergency Department treats carbon monoxide victims each year," Ferries said. "But with some simple precautions, and knowledge about carbon monoxide, most of these home accidents can be prevented. We want people to stay warm, as well as safe, this winter."

JV's, Freshmen Lose to Two Rivers

By Tom Menger

Both the J.V. and Freshman boys basketball teams ran into bigger, more physical teams when they traveled to Two Rivers last Tuesday.

The J.V. Indians (0-4) fell behind early, trailing 24-16 at the half. Missed shots and poor defense plagued the visiting Indians throughout the game.

"We didn't shoot very well, and didn't play very sound defense. They really ripped us in the third quarter." Commented coach Dale Schatz, who was able to find one plus for Kewaskum, noting that all 14 players saw action.

Dan Jeserig led the team with 8 points, while Kevin Martin chipped in with 6, as the Indians dropped the contest 61-33.

The freshman team also had a difficult time, losing 62-30 to a Raider team that "played harder, more physical basketball, and had no turnovers" according to coach Dave Shaw.

Chad Butzke and Paul Weidmeyer were the leading scorers for Kewaskum, with 7 and 6 points, respectively.

The first Christmas card manufactured in the U.S. was made in 1875 by Louis Prang, a German-born Boston printer.

Indian Matmen Fall to Tigers

By Statesman Sports Writer

CHILTON - After a strong start to the season, the Kewaskum wrestling team got a strong dose of reality here, last Friday night.

The Indians seemed to sleepwalk through their meet with Chilton, and the Tigers made them pay for their inattentiveness with a 35-30 victory.

The loss dropped KHS to 5-2 in dual meets this season.

"We looked as flat as we could be," KHS coach John Nell said of the outing. "It wasn't too pretty. We didn't look good, and they wrestled well. They really took it to us."

Nell said that he expected to get victories from a few other spots Friday night, but those expectations were never realized.

"I guess it's good in ways," Nell said of the defeat. "I think sometimes you can get complacent with the way we were performing. I think this will help them to train a little harder and work a little more in the future."

The Indians' lone remaining unbeaten wrestler was given a lesson against the Tigers. Rich Farchione, who came into the match 6-0, lost to the Tigers' Chad Ott, 12-3.

"He just didn't look like his normal self out there," Nell said of Farchione.

Despite Farchione's loss, the Indians still led 30-29 heading into the final match. But KHS' Tim Gundrum was pinned by Nathan Herrick, ensuring the Tiger victory.

On the positive side, the Indians got pins from Richard Wulff at 189 pounds and Jason Czaja at 140 pounds. Both victories came in the first period.

Others recording wins in matches were Tyler Dieringer at 135 pounds, and Peter Reis at 152 pounds. Both Craig Trzinski (103) and Matt Heather (160) received forfeits.

"It happens once in awhile," Nell said of the loss. "I think they'll be working much harder now, pushing themselves more."

Helping to push them will be some alumni who are stopping by to take part in the workouts. Former standouts including the school's only state champ Josh Kurtz, are lending some advice to those currently competing.

"That really helps," Nell said of the former wrestlers who now are competing at the college level. "They can show our kids some things that they are doing in college, so that's good for them."

The Indians will try to employ some of those maneuvers over the holiday, when they take part in the Oshkosh Invitational December 29 and 30.

Wildcats Dominate Lions As Gruber Scores Career High

By Louise Martin

The Holy Trinity Wildcat boys A-team basketball squad was victorious in their first conference road game of the season, defeating the Campbellsport St. Matthew Lions, 47-33.

The standing room only gymnasium was full of Wildcat fans who were led in cheers by the cheerleading squad of Crystal Heberer, Katie Kopecky, Mary Lehmann, Mary Rinzel, Katie Schladweiler, Nicki Wessing, Dani Wieter and Robyn Wolf.

Wildcat starters were Jason Butschlick, Jarrod Gruber, Jason Strobel, Shaun Timblin and Eric Wenninger, under the coaching efforts of Tony Butschlick and Tom Timblin.

A confident Lion team entered their court and the Wildcats were ready for the challenge.

Eric Wenninger received a bounce pass and scored the first bucket for the Wildcats. Play moved quickly up and down the court when Wenninger got open and scored again. The Lions put pressure on the Wildcats and with 3:11 remaining in the quarter, the Lions took the lead, 6-4. A timeout was called by Holy Trinity to regroup as they seemed to be plagued by turnovers.

As the ball entered into play, the Lions were fouled sending them to the free throw line. A pass to Luke Martin following the free throw resulted in a break away run. Martin scored a bucket at the buzzer sending the Wildcats into the second quarter trailing by two at St. Matthews 8, Holy Trinity 6.

Wildcat Shaun Timblin was able to position himself under the basket and score the first bucket 41 seconds into the second quarter. Following a timeout by the Lions, an inbound pass from Martin to Jesse Boegel resulted in two points. Good rebounding and an aggressive defense by the Wildcats, shook the Lions confidence.

Jason Butschlick, Jarrod Gruber and Nick Staehler increased the Wildcats score by two points each at the charity line. With under one minute remaining, Wenninger caused a turnover passing the ball to Timblin for a break away run and two points sending the Wildcats ahead, 17-12 at halftime.

The Wildcats continued to control the Lions in the third quarter. With under three minutes remaining, Jarrod Gruber infiltrated the Lions defense positioning himself under the basket, going up for two. A long pass from Butschlick to Timblin netted yet another score. The Wildcats outscored the Lions 11-6 ending the quarter in the lead, 28-18.

Just into the fourth quarter as the Lions passed the ball inbounds, Timblin forced a turnover and was able to score. With over one minute into play, a nice bounce pass from Timblin to Jarrod Gruber netted two.

An aggressive defensive quarter sent players of both teams to the free throw line several times but the Wildcats were able to maintain control. A nice outside shot by Jarrod Gruber, a perfect three point bucket by Jason Strobel and a rebound and break away run by Timblin added to the excitement in the deafening roar within the gym.

With under one minute remaining a long pass from Martin to Timblin added two. Jarrod Gruber contributed yet another score with only seconds remaining giving the Wildcats the victory in a well played, hard played game.

Two Wildcats scored in double digits for the night - Timblin with 19 and a career high of 10 for Jarrod Gruber. Butschlick contributed six points; Wenninger, four; Strobel, three, with Jesse Boegel, Luke Martin and Nick Staehler each adding two.

Timblin led the team in rebounds with 14, followed by Wenninger with six, Jarrod Gruber with five, Butschlick and Stobel with four each, and Martin, three. Strobel, Timblin and Jarrod Gruber each had two steals with Butschlick and Jason Gruber, each having one. Strobel was credited with four assists, Butschlick three, and Martin and Timblin two each.

Former KHS Wrestler #1 in Colorado... Twice

ALAMOSA, CO -- Former Kewaskum High School wrestler Rich Straub remains undefeated this winter in Colorado, capturing a pair of tournament championships.

Straub, who competes for the Cool Sunshine wrestling club out of Alamosa, Colorado, won his first tournament title at the University of Southern Colorado Open, in Pueblo, Colorado.

Competing at 142 pounds, Rich won six matches on the day to take top honors in a 35 man weight class. Straub opened with a pair of pins over Brad Covington of Western Wyoming College, 1:56, and Brian Lafave of Lassen College (CA), :45.

Decisions over Leo Gozales of the University of Southern Colorado, 13-2, Fred Leavy of Lassen College (CA), 6-4, and Jamie Ontiverus of the University of Northern Colorado, 6-2, gave Straub a berth to finals. An anticipated match up with 1994 NCAA Division 2 All-American Leo Gyer was nulled when Gyer was upset by Sheroyd Brown of the Air Force Academy in the semis.

Brown proved to be a tough adversary as the championship match went into double overtime before Straub pulled out a 2-1 sudden death victory.

Straub's second tournament title came at the Fort Lewis College Open in Durango, Colorado. Rich easily rolled to the finals with two 15-0 technical falls over Brandon Bowman of Western State (CO), and Zach Nelson of Emery Riddle University (AZ), and a 12-3 major decision over Mike Kallai of the Air Force Academy. The finals saw a rematch from the USC Open as Straub was again pitted against Sheroyd Brown. This time, Straub only needed the seven minutes of regulation to defeat Brown 4-2.

Straub who serves as assistant wrestling coach at Adams State College in Alamosa, Colorado, is pursuing a Masters Degree in counselor education, maintaining a 3.86 GPA with plans to graduate in May, 1995.

Eden took the lead early and kept that lead throughout the entire game. Holy Trinity pulled to within four points in the second quarter but that was short-lived. Eden kept adding to the score.

Despite the loss, there was some bright spots in the game. Mitch Strobel led the team in scoring with 13 points. Jacob Stoffel had six points, Mark Schrauth had five points, Jon Boedeker had four points, Paul Mertz had two points and Noah Koch had one point.

Rebounding was fairly even with many of the rebounds ending up in jump balls. Holy Trinity will now be inactive until January 6, when they will host St. Mary's of Mayville on Friday evening.

Senior David Gosa was recognized as the most valuable runner of the Kewaskum boys cross country team, and sophomore Marni Lynn for the girls cross country team at the end of the season awards ceremony.

Gosa, who started his high school career as both a football player and cross country runner his freshman year, devoted himself to running cross country in the fall and lettered three years. David Gosa was the number one runner for the team throughout the season. During his three seasons he earned Second Team All Conference honors once and First Team All Conference honors twice. This season, he consistently placed in the top six at major invitationals and earned First Team All Conference honors in the tough Eastern Wisconsin Conference.

Coach Drexler commented that "David worked real hard both before and during the season, and enjoyed an excellent season." Sophomore Marni Lynn, in her second season of cross country earned Second Team All Conference honors this year. Marni progressed nicely throughout the season and consistently finished at the top of the Kewaskum girls in the meets. Coach Drexler remarked that "he is looking forward to working with Marni the next two seasons."

Lady Indians Can't Hold On Down the Stretch

By Statesman Sports Writer

KEWASKUM -- Kewaskum girls basketball coach Dave Rizzardi was looking forward to what seemed to be a reprieve in the Lady Indians' schedule. After games against several high-caliber opponents, KHS got back in Eastern Wisconsin Conference action last week against relatively weaker competition.

But that didn't matter here, last Thursday night, as the Lady Indians fell apart in the fourth quarter, blowing a big lead against New Holstein. The Huskies nailed several key three-pointers in the final period, allowing them to pull out a 52-50 come-from-behind victory.

The loss dropped the Lady Indians to 1-6 on the year, and sent them to their sixth straight defeat.

"This was a game I really thought would be good for us," Rizzardi said. "And we played a pretty good game. We just didn't finish it off."

KHS was ahead the entire game until late in the fourth quarter. A three pointer by the Huskies put them ahead 50-48. After sophomore Tiffany Laubach tied the game with a basket with under a minute to play, the Huskies went up 52-50 with about 30 seconds to go on a basket by Laurie Buechel, who finished with 17 points.

The Indians' Mary Yahr was fouled on the ensuing trip downtown, and had a chance to tie things with just :02 to play. After missing the first free throw, however, Rizzardi called timeout.

"We told her to miss the second one per purpose, and hoped to get the rebound," Rizzardi said, noting that KHS was unable to secure the board and eventually ran out of time.

We had a terrible night with our free throws," Rizzardi said, pointing to the four-of-14 effort at the charity stripe. If we make anywhere near our average (over 53%), we should be still in the game."

KHS came out strong in the first half, leading by as many as 10 points. At the half, the Lady Indians led by a 31-26 score, and Rizzardi said his team was playing well.

"We were playing good defense," Rizzardi said. "We did a good job switching from man-to-man to zone and we were really doing a good job. We weren't giving them anything inside."

But the Huskies started to heat up in the second half, including a strong effort from beyond the three-point line. In the fourth quarter alone, the Huskies connected on three three-pointers, helping them erase the deficit.

"Our defense was still doing a good job," Rizzardi said, noting the Huskies simply got hot. "They popped in several three's in the fourth quarter."

Meanwhile, the Indians

got cold on the field in the final stanza, resulting in a 19-9 Husky run.

"We weren't able to hit our normal jumpers," Rizzardi said. "We still had good shots, they just weren't going in."

Tanya Laubach led KHS with 13 points, while Kelly Schreffler added 12 and Yahr, 11.

The loss was disappointing because Rizzardi thought the Lady Indians could gain some momentum heading into the holidays.

"We have to get a win here to get over this hump," he said.

KHS will have the chance this weekend against Chilton, before taking part in the Hustisford Holiday tournament December 29-30.

The Indians will open against host Hustisford in the first round, with that winner playing the winner of the Slinger-Mayville matchup.
