Kewaskum's Dairy Queen Dedicated to The Memory of Margaret Miller Mehring

On Saturday, December 23, Jerry and Nancy Mehring, owners of Dairy Queen, dedicated their Kewaskum restaurant to the memory of Jerry's mother, Margaret Miller Mehring, a native of Kewaskum. Shown above, Jerry's dad, Harold Mehring, unveils the memorial plaque which will be on display in Kewaskum's Dairy Queen. During the formal presentation ceremony for family, friends and patrons, Jerry stated, "Today we are here to honor the memory of Margaret Miller Mehring, a Kewaskum native. By doing so, we are dedicating this store in her name. She was born in Kewaskum, attended Holy Trinity School, and graduated from Kewaskum High School. Throughout her life, she was constantly promoting the qualities of Kewaskum. I don't think she ever dreamed there would be a Dairy Queen in Kewaskum. She isn't here with us today in person, but her spirit will always be here. I'm sure she is looking down on us right now. This plaque will be displayed here in this store so we can always remember her and how much Kewaskum meant to her." The Kewaskum Dairy Queen opened on May 17, 1995.

Thanks Extended to Those Who Purchased Holiday Lights

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce would like to extend a special thank you to all the generous people who purchased lights on the community's annual holiday Christmas tree and Memorial Star.

The giant tree and star, now a tradition held in conjunction with the annual Christmas Parade, graced the front lawn at Bank Wisconsin on Fond du Lac Avenue throughout the holidays. All proceeds from the sale of these lights go directly towards underwriting the cost of the Christmas Parade. No other funds are solicited. The annual parade was again impressive and grows a little every year thanks to the generosity of the donors listed below.

If you enjoyed the parade, make a note to help out by purchasing a light on either the tree or memorial star next year. As everyone knows, the things you most enjoy seem to come with a price tag, and the Christmas Parade

New Pilot Program to Be Tested in School District

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

A new pilot project involving the use of computerized curriculum writing will be tested in the school district this year, beginning in January.

The board approved the Kewaskum Instructional Design Program (KIDS), at their monthly meeting, explained by district curriculum coordinator George Allman as a computer disk program for K-3 that would enable the teaching staff to easily modernize, review, and revise their curriculum for language arts. If successful after one year, the project may be developed district-wide.

The pilot test is based on a Wisconsin instructional model, using pre-tests and post-tests for evaluating its impact on the students, and it includes developing course objectives, compiling educational activities and resources, and creating goals students could achieve.

Board member Jeanne Goeden stated that she was apprehensive after attending a recent workshop on the subject. "Is the curriculum easily changeable once it's on the disk?", she asked Mr. Johnson. "Part of what we will be learning from the test is how we look at curriculum and how do we review it in the future," he pointed out, also stating that with this type of program, curriculum could be reviewed and rewritten on an annual basis, instead of every five years, which is the current district policy.

Allman felt it would provide uniformity within the schools and coordinate the curriculum that is presently taught, although board member Karen Sparks pointed out that teachers do have the opportunity to develop and change the curriculum, as long as any changes are funneled to Mr. Allman, who has the master copy, and the district headquarters would maintain a hard paper copy as well as a course disk.

A separate discussion headed by interim superintendent Charles Johnson revolved around several ongoing administrative projects.

The first was a recognition program, currently being developed by KMS principal Katherine Crowley and the administrative team. This calls for board recognition of not only students of the month, as they do now, but students, faculty, support staff, and parents for each quarter.

Another group expected to report to the district at the board's January meeting is the Kewaskum K-3 Task

Kiwanis Club Names 1995 Outstanding Conservation Farmers

The Kewaskum Kiwanis have named Gordon and Julie Darmody and Ellis and Judy Kahn as their 1995 Outstanding Conservation Farmers.

This award has been presented annually since 1958 to family farms in the Kewaskum area who have demonstrated a commitment to soil and water conservation. The award is presented as part of the Kiwanis Farm-City Week celebration. Farm-City Week is an effort by the Kiwanis to emphasize the importance that agriculture plays in our local economy.

Gordon and Julie Darmody own a 136 acre dairy and livestock farm in Sections seven and eight of Wayne Township. The Darmodys rent an additional 80 acres of cropland. A soil conserving hay rotation is used on all the cropland the Darmodys operate.

The livestock operation in Section seven has required more intense conservation treatment because of the steeply rolling hills. In 1981 the Darmodys installed 29 acres of contour strip cropping to protect the steepest fields on this farm. In the fall of 1994, Gordon installed a manure storage tank to prevent livestock manure from reaching a wetland area on the farm.

While planning the storage, Gordon contacted the Natural Resources Conservation Service office in West Bend to discuss the idea of using a used fuel storage tank for manure storage. The Washington County Manure Storage Ordinance required that a storage design be developed to address the environmental risks of the project. To protect groundwater, the tank was placed into a trench lined with a 30 mil. PVC plastic and covered with a concrete cap. This combination of tank and liner resulted in an environmentally safe manure storage at a reasonable price.

Ellis and Judy Kahn own Stone Creek Farm, an 86 acre livestock farm in Section seven of Kewaskum and 12 of Wayne. The Kahns have owned the farm since 1983 and have built up an award winning herd of Polled Hereford beef cattle. The Kahns also use a hay in rotation on their cropland. In 1994 the Kahns installed 2 acres of Contour Strip Cropping to protect their steepest hills and will soon layout eight additional acres of strips. Ellis also uses high residue tillage to reduce soil erosion on corn fields.

In November of 1994 the Kahns installed a barnyard runoff control system to prevent manure from reaching the creek that runs through the center of their farm. The system holds manure on the yard and slowly releases the barnyard runoff onto a grass filter where the nutrients and bacteria are removed.

Ellis has also begun to rotationally grazing his cattle using temporary electric fencing. This reduces the amount of manure concentrated on the yard and requires less handling of feed.

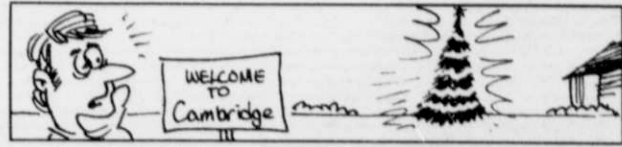

The efforts of these family farms to control soil erosion and animal waste runoff benefit all of us. By applying conservation practices the productivity of the land is being protected for future generations and the waters of Washington County are a little cleaner.

Town of Scott Prepares to Accept Bids for New Truck, Snow Plow

By Bernadette Mondloch

Town of Scott board members spent the major part of the December meeting putting together specifications in preparation for accepting bids on a new truck and snow plow.

A public hearing and special meeting relating to the truck purchase and budget changes was being planned for January 4, 1996 at 8 p.m. The hearing is necessary in order to get permission from the electorate to make a change in the 1996 budget.

If approved, the money necessary for the purchase will be taken from the contingency fund. Further plans are to replenish the contingency fund with money anticipated from the sale of the old truck and plow. Exact amount needed for the purchase will not be known until after opening of the bids which is expected to be done in February or March.

As a result of the public input portion of the meeting, existing road signs when in need of replacement, will be replaced with reflectorized ones.

Russell and Marilee Melius were appointed to the list of poll workers.

Kelly Ebert, who had applied for a beer and liquor license had her application tabled because she failed to appear at the meeting. The town has a requirement that first time applicants must appear in person.

Contracts for 1996 regarding fire protection were approved for the Batavia and Beechwood Fire Departments, each for $30,000. The Batavia First Responders contract was also approved for 1996 at a cost of $4,800.

A Substance Abuse Policy has been put into place to cover all town truck drivers who hold a CDL license. The town will be enrolling these drivers in a drug testing group located in Green Bay.

No further information was available on the status of the Beechwood School. A meeting with Neal Weare, President of the Kewaskum School District Kewaskum School Board is being planned for after Christmas.

The following zoning changes were approved: Raymond Kaufert, 4.18 acres in Section one from

A-2 to A-6; Troy Kaufert, one acre, Section one, from A-2 to A-6; Glenn Knepprath, 3.45 acres in Section 29 from A-2 to A-6; Ronald Hintz, 7.25 acres in Section 16 from A-1 to A-2, and Paul Michaels, 10.99 acres in Section 29 from A-2 to A-5.

The request from a change from A-1 to A-6 requested by Paul Michaels was tabled until January.

Earlier this month, the board adopted a budget totaling $390,599.46. The 1995 budget was $456,389.00, a decrease of $65,789.54. The decrease is only expected to be $1,844.00 for the purchase of election equipment. In 1995, $21,600 was spent for the purchase of recycling equipment and $40,425.00 was paid toward the Random Lake Community Library renovation project.

There are few increases in budget categories for 1996. Salaries show an increase of $1122, $500 more for workshop fees, $52 to pay Wisconsin Towns Association Dues and $10,000 for Contingency Fund assessment. Solid Waste Disposal and Recycling is expected to be up by $979 and the Random Lake Community Library support has gone up $1,230 for operation expenses.

Dale Matthies and his mother, Evelyn (Matthies) Reichert, in Hawaii

December 11, 1995

Dear Editor:

Evelyn (Matthies) Reichert, a life long Kewaskum area resident, retired last spring after working at Regal Ware for thirty-five years. During those thirty-five years she rarely took a sick day and never took more than two weeks vacation, even though the company allowed five weeks for an employee with her seniority. Her life focused around work and supporting her family. Taking a vacation, going on an adventure, doing something for herself, these things were not part of her world because her concern was always her family and doing what is expected of her.

All of that changed recently when she agreed to come along with my wife, Joy, and myself on our first West Bend to Kauai, Hawaii. I owned Mathis Music (which started in 1967 in Kewaskum as Dave's Music Center) and played in the Dale Mathis Group band since the mid 1960s. Late in 1994, for health and economic reasons (but mostly because we really dislike cold, snowy winters), Joy and I decided to leave Wisconsin and move to Hawaii to open a bed and breakfast. Evelyn (my mother) was having emotional difficulty adjusting to the idea of her oldest son being thousands of miles away. She was not a traveler and the idea of being so far away from all that is familiar was difficult for her to accept, why would we want to do this?

For months we tried explaining all the reasons why we wanted to make the move and her response was, "No, you can't do that!" So finally we said, "Why don't you come along with us on the move, we could use your help." I guess it was the "we could use your help" part that convinced her to come along on our moving adventure.

It was an adventure. First we had to wrap and pack everything we own and load it into a 40 foot sea/land container (that equals the size of a semi-trailer). Everything had to be very carefully packed because the container went from West Bend to Milwaukee by truck, then Milwaukee to Los Angeles by rail (can be very jarring), then L.A. to Honolulu by ship, then Honolulu to Kauai by barge, and finally it was trucked to our new house.

To ship our van, we had to drive it to Los Angeles where it got loaded on a ship headed for Honolulu. I want to stop here a moment to tell you that this whole process was very stressful, especially since Joy had to work her medical job almost up to the day we left, so packing got a bit hectic. A move like this can be rough on a marriage, so having Mom along as a cheerleader (and occasionally a referee) was very helpful.

Monday, October 24th, was a bright fall day and we wanted to reach Omaha by evening. Driving was going great until we discovered we missed a turn and were headed toward Chicago instead of the Mississippi, so we only made it to Des Moines the first day. The next day we did well and made it to Cheyenne. A couple of hours before we stopped for the night we pulled over to buy gas. Next to the gas station, which seemed like it was in the middle of nowhere, is a huge outfitters catalog showroom store called Cabellas. I'll bet sportsmen feel like they have died and gone to heaven when they enter the store. I am not a hunter, but I was very impressed with the tasteful done displays of trophy animals. And the clothes, everything from African safari supplies to cold North excursions was available. Wednesday we stayed overnight in Salt Lake City and Thursday we arrived in Las Vegas early enough to give Mom enough time to loose two bucks worth of nickels to the slots. Driving through the Nevada dessert, I kept thinking how much water can change an environment. This desert is one of the driest places, and a mountain top (Mt Waialiali) on our new island home is the wettest place on Earth (500 inches of rain a year). We dropped the van off at the docks on Saturday afternoon we had flown from L.A. to Honolulu and finally to Kauai.

Although our house is fairly new and is an ideal set-up for a small bed and breakfast, it had not been lived in since Hurricane Iniki (1992). Here we are on this lush, beautiful island, just waiting to be explored, and Mom is helping us with all sorts of other mundane household chores. She stayed another ten days before heading back to New Fane, this was also the first time she flew solo. Except for luggage getting lost (for a while) she said it was a good flight.

So the point of this story is that it is important for people to try new things. I commend my Mom for sharing our adventure with us, she says she had a great time and is ready to come back, this time to relax and take a vacation!

If any of my neighbors would like to come and visit us, give us a call at 808-828-2162. Our rates are reasonable and we would love to share our beautiful Kauai with you.

Aloha,
Dale Matthies

P.S. If you see my Mom, say, "Aloha!"

School District News

Mrs. Domasky's fourth grade class went on an informative field trip recently. The first stop of the day was at the Guttman farm. The students were able to watch cows being milked, and they saw how all the equipment and pipes were cleaned. Then the tank truck came to pick up the milk and test it. Other fun happenings were petting the calves and climbing in the hay mow. After lunch on the farm, the class traveled to the Ice Age Center in Dundee. A movie was shown about the four glacial periods. There were many displays to see as well as information to learn. After that the class climbed Dundee Hill to be able to observe the effects of the glaciers first hand. The hike took them up very high, and the view was great. Everyone had an excellent and interesting day.

If every seventh grade student at Kewaskum Middle School held hands, could they stretch around the perimeter of the school? As part of a grade wide unit on peace, students in Miss Badura's, Mr. DeRuyter's and Mrs. Wagner's math classes created and implemented a plan to solve this problem. They calculated the perimeter of school using the blueprints, found the average arm span of a seventh grader (63 inches) through its direct correlation to their height, and found that there are 148 seventh graders. Using this information, they came to the conclusion that they needed approximately 70 more students. As you can see in the above photograph, they eagerly tested their hypothesis and found that they were correct. They also found the satisfaction on working together in peace toward a common goal.

Sweet Tooth Trick

Say you have a sweet tooth that just won't quit? Do you have a yen for peppermint candies all year round? Then here's an idea you're sure to "sink your teeth into."

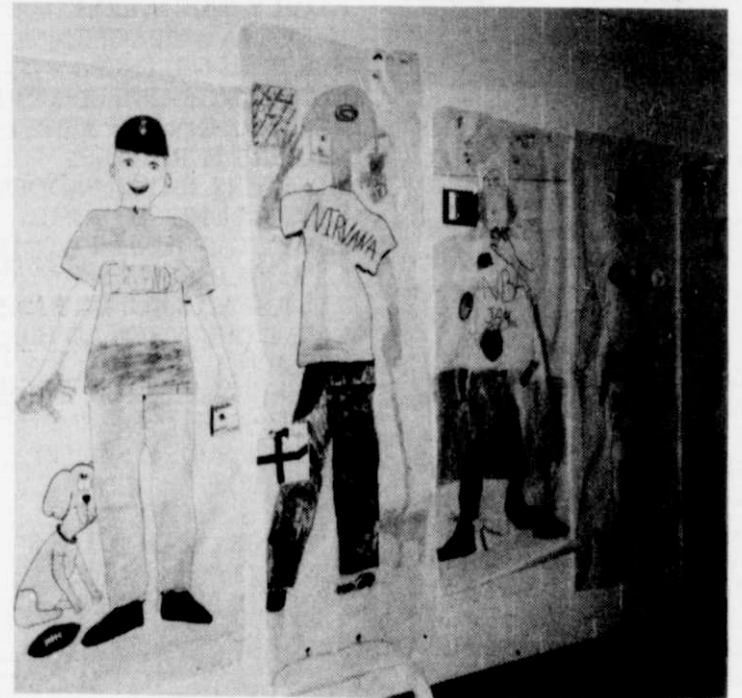

Use individually wrapped candy canes to decorate your tree. For an extra touch, twist red and white velvet around each cane. When Christmas is done, you don't have to pack up the ornaments and worry about having them break or crack. You just break them up yourself and fill up your candy jar for a taste treat you can enjoy long after Christmas is gone.

A fox may sleep with its tail over its nose and front paws.

Second graders at the Farmington Elementary School gathered with their fifth grade reading buddies from Ms. Laura Kowalski's class to celebrate Thanksgiving. Shown above, fifth grader Monica List helps second graders Renee Keeley and Ryan Helland put the finishing touches on a Thanksgiving wreath. Among those things students were thankful for were family, food, home and friends.

Mean, median or mode; which definition of average should I use? The Kewaskum Middle School seventh grade students in Miss Badura's and Mrs. Wagner's math classes answered this question in order to create their "average seventh grader." After surveying their classmates using questions ranging from, "What's your favorite TV show?" to "How many pets do you have?" students compiled their data and found the class average. Then they had to display their results on the classes "average seventh grader." The results were interesting and revealed many insights about the students.

A family is a unit composed not only of children but of men, women, an occasional animal, and the common cold.

KMS Students Tour River Walk

Bill Lickel of the Kewaskum High School science department and coordinator of the River Walk Project, gives KMS seventh graders a tour of the Project on a cold winter morning.

On a cold, brisk, winter morning, enthusiastic seventh grade science students from Kewaskum Middle School, toured the Milwaukee River Walk Project with Bill Lickel. Mr. Lickel, coordinator for the river walk and chairman of the high school science department, explained the project to the students and showed the progress that has been made.

The plan for this outdoor education facility and river walk was designed by Troy Kupahl from the Washington County Land Conservation Department. It is a cooperative project that has received funding from a variety of sources including the Kiwanis Club, The Lions Club, Bank Wisconsin, The State of Wisconsin, FFA, and numerous local groups.

Work on the river walk has been done by a variety of volunteers and students. Dave Stradtman's Construction Class built the steps leading to the river. Dave Rizzard's Agriculture Class planted trees and grasses and worked on developing the trail. Mr. Gonwa's middle schoolers worked on extending and smoothing the trail during the KMS

Activity Day, and Kewaskum Elementary School fourth graders built bird houses last year with John Stephani and Dave Stradtman, that have been placed along the path.

The next phase includes the construction of two ponds. "The target date for pond completion is the fall of 1996 but that is dependent on funding," according to Mr. Lickel.

The seventh graders who went on the tour will contribute to the project by making markers in the spring that will identify the plants and trees along the walk. The students' involvement is part of the gifted and talented program at the middle school this year and Mrs. Jan Uhlman, G/T Liaison, is coordinating this science project which also includes outdoor "wild crafting" and basket weaving.

Register Now for Rainbows Program

The Youth & Family Project, Inc. will be sponsoring a Kewaskum Rainbows Program for pre-school through eighth grade children. Registrations are currently being accepted for the 14 week support groups, that will begin in January.

Rainbows is a not-for-profit, international program that provides peer support groups for children who have experienced the divorce, death, separation of an abandonment of a parent.

The purpose of the groups is to provide those grieving an opportunity to share their feelings in an accepting environment; understand their new family unit; and to assist in building a stronger sense of self-esteem.

Rainbows has successfully served over 100 children in the Washington County area. Anyone interested in registering their child for the Kewaskum program can call The Youth & Family Project at 338-1661.

Force. This group has been rigorously reviewing the K-3 curriculum, and they will be reviewing their findings, and answering some difficult questions that need to be addressed.

High School principal Charles Heidner, will be chairing a committee made up of administrators, faculty and support staff, formed to review personnel evaluations. The focus of the initial January meeting will be support staff personnel evaluation within the district. "It's an issue that has long term impact," Johnson told the board, adding that both the tools and processes of these evaluations will be assessed and reported on, including administrators and teachers, in the upcoming year.

The "JET" committee was formed to take a look at the technological needs of the district this year, and in the future. They're currently developing new strategic plans as to where the district is headed in the next five years, bringing us into the year 2000.

AISE Seeking Host Families

As Americans, we are fortunate to live in a country which people from around the world are eager to visit.

The American Inter-cultural Student Exchange, a non-profit educational foundation, is seeking host families for high school foreign exchange students for the 1996-97 school year.

AISE exchange students live with American families and attend local high schools during their ten-month cultural exchange experiences. Host families provide students with room and board, and a loving, family atmosphere in which to live.

Students learn about our government, our history, our customs and our language, as well as leaving a lasting impression of their cultures in the minds and hearts of their American host families and peers. AISE seeks to shorten the perceived distance between countries around the world, while at the same time showing foreign teens why the American people cherish their country so.

Call AISE at 1-800-SIBLING for more information on hosting a foreign exchange student. A world of adventure awaits you!

'Tis Christmas in Heaven

What a beautiful sight!

It's my first one here;

Everything is all right.

The crib is adorned

With the brilliance of stars;

Wise men have come

From Venus and Mars.

I've met all our dear ones

Who preceded us here;

The reunion was lovely,

An event full of cheer.

And tonight we'll all gather,

In reverence we'll kneel,

For the Babe in the cradle

Up in heaven is REAL.

I think of my family

That I left behind

And pray

that your Christmas is as blessed as mine.

Please shed no more tears

For my soul is at rest.

Just love one another,

Live life to its best.

Yes, it's Christmas in Heaven

So I've heard them say.

Yet, Christmas in Heaven

Happens everyday.

Sadly missed by

A Busy Season at Holy Trinity School

Students at Holy Trinity School have been very busy during this Advent season. They had a Penny Drive for toys for the needy. Each student was told to count all their toys (games, toys, video games) and bring in a penny for each toy they had. The Student Council members then went shopping with the money and bought a variety of toys - approximately 25 different toys ranging from a dart board to dolls, trucks and games.

There has also been a Mitten Tree up on each floor of the school. Students were asked to bring in new mittens, scarfs, and hats which were then donated to the needy. Both the mittens and the toys were distributed through the local St. Vincent de Paul Society. The students have enjoyed sharing some of the joy of the season with others and seeing how good God has been to them.

Farm Bureau Monitoring Retail Beef Prices for Profit Taking

Retail beef prices are about the same as they were five months ago, despite lower cattle market prices to farmers, prompting the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation to further monitor the retail price spread of beef.

The statewide average retail food price survey of 40 food items increased 14-cents from $58.62 in October to $58.76 in November.

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation conducts the Market Basket survey in 16 communities.

The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation's November Market Basket survey indicates that beef prices were unchanged from October. According to the Wisconsin Agricultural Statistics Service, Wisconsin beef cattle prices dropped 3.8 percent in November, and slaughter cattle prices dropped nine percent from October.

According to the Farm Bureau, retail beef prices have remained steady through the summer months, and indicated consumers should be paying less for beef than what they are currently paying.

Retail dairy prices prices edged up two percent in November, reflecting improved market prices for Wisconsin farmers. A gallon of whole milk was up 4-cents to an average $2.23, and a gallon of 2% milk was up 1-cent to an average $2.02.

Pork, chicken prices and fruit and vegetable prices were unchanged from October to November.

Compared to a year ago, the food price index is 54-cents higher for the 40 food items. It cost an average $58.22 for the same food items a year ago. Shoppers paid more for pork, beef, and dairy, compared to November 1994. They paid less for grain-based foods and fruits and vegetables compared to a year ago.

Food facts

The U.S. Department of Agricultural predicts retail prices for fresh fruit -- apples, grapes, oranges, bananas, peaches, and strawberries -- to increase. The USDA said fresh fruit prices will increase 7 percent, compared to a 3 percent rise for the overall Consumer Price Index.

Americans spent 11.2 percent of personal disposable income on food last year, compared to 14 percent in 1970. And Americans are eating much more compared to 25 years ago. We eat 61 pounds more vegetables, 54 more pounds of bread, pasta, cereals and other grain products, 48 more pounds fruit, 23 more pounds added sugars, and 11 more pounds red meat, poultry and fish. Americans cut out 76 eggs and 6 gallons of milk.

Reformulated Gasoline Update

By Congressman Jim Sensenbrenner

As winter temperatures approach, constituents repeatedly have asked me at town hall meetings when the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will suspend the Clean Air Act (CAA) mandate that motorists use reformulated gasoline (RFG) year-round in ozone nonattainment areas, including six counties in Southeastern Wisconsin. EPA officials have responded the CAA prohibits them from suspending the RFG mandate temporarily during part of the year. I want to update you on our efforts to solve problems associated with RFG.

Last September in consultation with Governor Thompson, I introduced H.R. 2327, which would amend the CAA to allow governors to petition the EPA to waive sales of RFG during the winter. Southeastern Wisconsin registered ozone nonattainment levels on eight different days during the most recent ozone season (May-September). However, during the non-ozone season (October-April) ozone readings are not even required because ozone levels are so low as not to pose a public health risk.

Under my proposed legislation, a governor's request would have to be approved by the EPA Administrator who would certify discontinuing RFG requirements would not prevent or interfere with the attainment of a national air quality standard in Southeastern Wisconsin.

Last week I met with five other Congressmen from Southern Wisconsin to discuss RFG with EPA officials. I was terribly disappointed by the response we received.

EPA officials could not comment effectively on the legislation because it appeared they misunderstood its provisions. EPA officials said they would study the bill and keep us informed of the EPA's position. Every indication I received from the EPA leads me to believe they are reluctant to support amendments to the CAA because they fear exposing the Act to amendments will lead to the Act's complete overhaul.

There are two legislative tracks available to pass my legislation. First, I am working to bring the legislation up on the Corrections Day Calendar. Corrections Day allows Congress to eliminate rules, regulations, statutory laws, or court decisions which impose a financial burden, are ambiguous, arbitrary, or ludicrous. However, because Administration officials and representatives from the petroleum industry oppose H.R. 2327, it does not look promising. Second, I anticipate the House Commerce Committee will move ahead to amend the CAA. At that time, I hope my colleagues on the Committee will include H.R. 2327 as part of the Clean Air Act reform of 1996.

I sympathize with and understand your concerns regarding RFG. Since January 1, 1995, the CAA mandated the year-round sale of RFG in six severe non-attainment counties including Milwaukee, Waukesha, Washington, Ozaukee, Racine and Kenosha to help reduce ozone levels. I have four areas of concern. First, many constituents have stated they have experienced health problems, including nausea, headaches, and allergic reactions related to contact with reformulated fuel. Second, some two-stroke engines - such as those in lawnmowers, snowmobiles, and boat engines - may be damaged by use of reformulated gasoline unless costly engine modifications or repairs are made. Third, individuals may cross county lines to purchase gas for these engines and drive home with the gasoline in the back of their car endangering public safety. Finally, reports indicate motorists are experiencing reduced gas mileage.

I am working with my colleagues to give EPA officials the authority to suspend the RFG mandate. I will keep in touch as we move forward.

County Selling Native Trees, Shrubs, Flowers

Order forms are now available for anyone interested in planting native trees, wildlife shrubs or prairie flowers next spring. The Washington County Land Conservation Department is taking orders on a first come first serve basis from now until March 1, 1996.

28 species of native trees and shrubs and three prairie seed mixes are offered through the program. A minimum of ten per species and 25 total trees or shrubs must be ordered.

All orders must be paid in advance. Pick-up of orders will be in mid-April, 1996 at the County Fair grounds in Slinger. For order forms or further information, call 335-4800, or write: Washington County Land Conservation Department, 333 E. Washington St., Suite 3200, West Bend, WI 53095.

Pesticide Applicator Certification And Recertification Program Set

Pest control involves the use of many cultural practices. However, it may also require the use of pesticides. More of these pesticides are now being classified as restricted use products, requiring the purchaser and applicator to be certified.

There are two ways to become certified or recertified. One is to attend a one day certification program. Programs will be held on January 16 at the University of Wisconsin Washington County Center in West Bend, on February 16 at the Ozaukee County Administration Building in Port Washington, and on March 19 at the Addison Town Hall in Allenton.

The programs start with registration at 8:30 a.m. and finishes at about 4 p.m.

In order to attend one of the sessions it is necessary to register no later than one week before the session.

The educational program is provided by UW-Extension and the certification is issued by the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection. Certificates are good for five years.

The above sessions are for private applicators, not commercial applicators. A private applicator is an individual that applies pesticide on land owned or operated by themselves and produce an agricultural product. Commercial applicators are certified at area meetings. Contact the UW-Extension Office for information about commercial applicator sessions.

A second way to become certified is to purchase the study materials and study on your own. When you are ready, then make arrangements to take the exam at the Extension Office. When using the self-study method a passing score of over 70% is required. When the evaluation is taken as a part of the day long session, a passing score of over 50% is required on the evaluation.

The cost for the program is $30 for the session with lunch, refreshments, and facility rental or $20 for the self-study materials. If the materials are mailed there is an additional $5 for postage. The postage charge can be saved if materials are picked up at the UW-Extension Office.

For further information, call the UW-Extension Office at 335-4477, 644-5204 or 342-2929.

More Bear Permits Available to Hunters

MADISON -- Due to a growing black bear population and improved methods of monitoring the number of bear in Wisconsin, state wildlife officials will be increasing the number of bear hunting permits available for 1996.

"All the information we are gathering indicates that our bear population is continuing to expand," explains Bill Mytton, deer and bear ecologist for the Department of Natural Resources. "In some areas, bear numbers have increased to the point where people are beginning to view them as a significant nuisance."

The most recent population estimates of the number of black bear in Wisconsin indicated there are around 14,000 bears statewide, Mytton says.

"The highest number of bears is still in the north, and especially in the northwestern portion of the state. Reports from hunters and the number of bear nuisance complaints we receive from that area support our data that indicates the bear population is increasing," Mytton says.

The DNR has initiated a new bear-tagging project and increased the amount of data it is collecting on black bears harvested by hunters. Wildlife biologists are also using an improved model for estimating bear populations that was developed jointly by wildlife researchers at the Minnesota and Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. The Wisconsin DNR has also expanded its annual survey of bait stations that it conducts across the state, Mytton says.

The results showed higher numbers of black bears in Wisconsin than wildlife managers previously estimated. Accordingly, the DNR will increase the number of bear permits available next year to 4,570. The deadline to apply for a permit for the 1996 season is January 12.

"The increase in permits will provide improved opportunities for hunters," Mytton says. Currently, bear hunters may have to wait up to six years for a permit.

A larger harvest will also bring the bear population closer to population goals set for different areas of the state that are based on available habitat and human tolerance for the animals, he adds.

Permits will increase the most in bear management Zone A, which has the highest populations and from which the DNR receives the greatest number of nuisance complaints. The following are the number of permits that will be available in each bear management zone: Zone A, 1620; Sub-Zone A1, 1620; Zone B, 735, and Zone C, 595.

Last year the state issued 2,600 bear permits statewide and hunters harvested a total of 1,668 bears.

For more information contact Bill Mytton at 608-266-2194.

Receives Degree

GREEN BAY - About 300 students, representing 31 Wisconsin counties, five states and five countries, were eligible to take part in commencement ceremonies on Saturday, December 16, at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

Chancellor Mark Perkins presided and gave the charge to the class. He was assisted in conferring degrees by Howard Cohen, provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs.

Jean Koepke-Soyk, 3997 Badger Road, Kewaskum, was a candidate for a bachelor degree in business administration.

Annuity Issues Made Easier With Help of Free Software

(NU) - Saving for retirement is hard enough. Deciding how to invest the savings can be downright frustrating.

Brokers, financial planners and personal-finance pundits often tout the benefits of variable annuities. By combining the flexibility and professional management of mutual funds with the tax-deferral benefits of Individual Retirement Accounts, variable annuities can be a boon for those building a retirement nest egg, they say.

The pros are right. But variable annuities can also come with some unwanted baggage: sales loads, management fees and other charges that eat away at your investment, lowering total returns. Even though variable annuities allow your investment to compound without paying taxes (until you withdraw money, after age 59 1/2), if fees and charges are too high, you'd be better off paying the taxes in a plain vanilla mutual fund with low fees.

How to decide? One way is to go through the calculations yourself. If you're good with numbers and you have a fancy calculator with compound-interest functions, you'll stand a chance.

For the rest of us, a much easier option is now available — new computer software from

T. Rowe Price Associates. Called the "Variable Annuity Analyzer," the program enables investors to compare the total return from a variable annuity with investments in various types of mutual funds.

The software takes into account several variables, including investment amount, life expectancy, tax rates, expected retirement age and projected investment returns. Users can create a personal profile, save it and apply it to various investment options; for each one, they can compare how various management fees and other expenses will affect returns over time.

Whether you need a variable annuity or not, this program can educate you and your friends about what these often-misunderstood investment vehicles can and cannot do.

The program is free from T. Rowe Price (1-800-341-0790), a large provider of no-load mutual funds that also markets no-load, low-cost variable annuities. To run the program, you'll need an IBM compatible PC with Windows 3.1 or higher.

A good marriage, if there is such a thing, rejects the company and conditions of love. It tries to imitate those of friendship.

Indians Lose to Cougars, 58-43

out even getting a shot..." said Shaw with a great deal of concern about the situation.

While Kewaskum was hurting itself with turnovers, it was Campbellsport's Jason Hayes who was doing the damage for the Cougars. Hayes led Campbellsport with 18 points, including nine in the first quarter.

Campbellsport coach Roger Turchany wanted Hayes to do more shooting and Hayes responded with a good effort, while Gary Goebel added 13 points.

Kewaskum did have a good game from junior Dan Jeserig who scored a game high 20 points. Shaw was very pleased with Jeserig's enthusiasm and effort but feels that for his team to win, they will have to have that type of effort from all five players on the court and will have to execute the offense more consistently.

The Kewaskum boys basketball team traveled to Campbellsport in an effort to break a five game losing streak last Tuesday, but it was not to be as the Cougars prevailed with a 58-43 non-conference win.

The young Indians once again fell behind early, trailing 16-7 at the end of the first quarter. Coach Dave Shaw once again expressed concern about his team falling behind early in games, stating, "We just do not have the offensive talent to get behind early and then try to play catch up ball the rest of the game."

Another concern Shaw had was his team's inability to take care of the ball and not turn it over. The Indians committed 18 first half turnovers and during one stretch in the second quarter they turned it over seven consecutive times.

"It's tough enough to score, but when you go seven possessions with-
