THIS SIGN SAYS IT ALL! Even though the sign was placed a bit prematurely on Sunday afternoon prior to the Super Bowl game, employees at Shefond were confident that their prediction of a Green Bay Packer win would come true. And come true it did, to the delight of Packer fans all over the country, as they defeated the New England Patriots, 35 to 21. Not a creature was stirring throughout Kewaskum during game time, as all eyes were glued to TV sets everywhere. Congratulations Packer administration, coaches, players and fans, and thanks for giving us an extra month of football excitement. The warmth generated from "Packer Mania" and Packer fans shortened up the cold, cold month of January and took the edge off the harsh reality of winter this year, following the holidays. The Lombardi Trophy has finally made its way back to the "frozen tundra" where it belongs.

Some Board Members Apprehensive About Making Quick Decisions on High-Impact Issues

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

With the implications of overcrowded classrooms and the district running out of elementary space pressing on the Kewaskum school board, some members are asking for more time to decide "the right thing to do," regarding future facility planning for the school district.

At a work session held Monday night, the board openly discussed their feelings and apprehensions over addressing so many issues at once, issues that impact the communities comprising the district, as well as the taxpayers.

After months of strategic planning, and the ongoing development of district standards and curriculum, not to mention discussion of full day Kindergarten, the board is faced with a long list of facility options that include reopening Beechwood School.

Superintendent Dr. Charles Johnson told the group there is a definite connection between full day Kindergarten and opening Beechwood. "It would be a strain on the operating budget to open the school without full day Kindergarten," he said, citing bussing costs as an example. Board member Mary Andera asked what effect a fourth elementary school would have on the boundaries determining where students go to school. Business Manager George Allmann said children from the Towns of Auburn and Scott (within the district), New Fane, and the Crooked Lake area could fill Beechwood at a K-4 level, estimating 87 students in grade 1-4, and 21 Kindergartners. "It is hard on the parents, but the lines can be re-drawn," Johnson pointed out. "On a positive note, a fairly large number of children live in and around the Beechwood area."

When asked by a board member what would happen if nothing was done with facilities for a year, Johnson said the district could probably get by, given the students numbers available now. Allmann, a strong supporter of reopening the vacant school, told he board that by the 1997-98 school year another second grade classroom would be needed, as well as increased Kindergarten space, which may entail using the district offices next to KES, and utilizing the third floor of the grade school, although it was a potential safety risk.

Estimated costs to reopen Beechwood include $208,857 in facility preparation ($159,992 in structural repairs and $48,857 for start up purchases), and $290,741 for the proposed budget, although $115,000 of that figure indicates staff salaries currently paid to existing staff, and $24,600 pays for salary related benefits currently paid to existing staff.

In discussion involving funding to reopen the school, Allmann pointed out that money could be taken out of the district's contingency fund, and the decision did not require a referendum. Both Johnson and Allmann were opposed to using the school district's fund balance, although it was an option. "We don't want to unless it's critical," Dr. Johnson emphasized. "Then you're over your (revenue) caps, which would affect (the school's) rating."

Board member Larry Fechter was the first to toss out some ideas, for the sake of debate. "I'd like to say I'd like to see Beechwood open, but we have to address alternatives," he stated, and felt the topic should go to a public referendum, with assur-

Subacute Care Adds New Dimension to Patient Care

Thomas W. Kieckhafer, left, President/Chairman of the Board of Directors of St. Joseph's Community Hospital, West Bend, and Ken Miller, Washington County Board Chairman, share ribbon cutting duties for St. Joseph's Community Hospital's $1.4 million subacute care unit during official dedication ceremonies held on Monday, January 27.

The addition of subacute care at St. Joseph's Community Hospital brings a new dimension to patient care at the hospital -- transitional care. The unit will help post-hospital patients acquire the skills and independence they need in the transition from hospital to home or to another care setting, such as a nursing home.

The subacute care unit combines a homelike atmosphere with the advanced technology available in an acute hospital. The unit is a cooperative effort of St. Joseph's Community Hospital and the Samaritan Health Center -- Washington County, which holds the license for the unit's 23 nursing home beds.

Located on the third floor of the hospital's east building, the $1.4 million subacute care unit was officially dedicated Monday, January 27 and is set to receive its first patients in early February. An open house for the public will be held Saturday, February 1, from 2 to 4 p.m.

"Washington County leaders and the hospital's board of directors recognized the community's need for this innovative new service," said Gregory Burns, executive director of St.

Joseph's. "We are all very proud to see the results of this cooperative effort by the county and the hospital."

The subacute care unit will provide personalized medical, rehabilitative and therapeutic services to adults with a variety of needs. Patients may be recuperating from surgery, recovering from an illness or need to learn special skills to function more independently at home or in a nursing home. Patients will stay an average of 10 days on the unit.

The 14,500 square foot facility includes nine single rooms and seven double rooms, all with their own bathrooms, TV, fully functional hospital beds and comfortable, homelike furnishings. The unit also includes wheelchair-accessible showers and a therapeutic tub. Wall coverings and paint in pastel colors, pleasant lounge areas and large windows give the unit a bright and friendly feeling.

Meals will be served in a large, central dining room. The unit also includes a beauty shop, a staff lounge, offices and a conference room where nursing teams will conduct regular patient ance the boundary lines would not fluctuate from year to year.

Board member Tom Timblin said he had received several phone calls from residents who opposed reopening Beechwood, and questioned why none of the proposed facility options offered a choice that did not include this item. "I think a public hearing is a necessity," he commented. "I like the idea of the people deciding this issue." He also suggested that a possible referendum could list three or four different facility options, so the community could have more than one choice, and felt Beechwood should be a separate on the referendum. Board president Jean Goeden agreed that a public hearing was in order. "We really have to inform the public, because I don't think we did that last time," she stated. "Hindsight, we should have been looking into this four years ago, when we had the referendum." Allmann pointed out that Beechwood was included in all the facility options because the district has no elementary space left.

"Have you thought about just adding on to Wayne and Farmington, and not reopening Beechwood?" board member Mary Andera asked, wanting to address immediate space needs while buying some time to investigate all the options in more depth. Board member Neal Weare pointed out that the goal of the Facilities Planning Group was to take the district 10-15 years down the road. "Looking at that scenario, how long term is that idea?" he questioned.

Board member Jon Downs related he was apprehensive about rushing into anything, and would only support reopening Beechwood if it was the best way to go economically, for the school district. "I'm thinking of next year. We have a lot of opinions on the board right now. Our problem is at the elementary level. We have time at KMS and KHS. One thing depends on another, and if we try to piece meal, we'll lose the whole package."

Before moving into closed session, Allmann told those in attendance, "You look at all the communities that used to have a community school, and when the school is gone, look what's happened to those communities." Board member John Schulte ended the discussion by commenting, "It's our responsibility to decide. How we're going to do it, is a referendum question. I would commit to opening Beechwood."

The board reconvened after closed session, and a motion was made and approved to allow administration to look into the possibilities of obtaining land for future district needs.

Last Day of School Revised

Because dangerously cold temperatures forced the School District of Kewaskum Schools to cancel two days of classes on January 16 and 17, the official last day of school will be June 9, 1997, providing there are no more snow days.

care conferences.

To be admitted to the subacute care unit, a patient must be medically stable and able to follow the care plan. The level of care on the unit must also be appropriate for the patient.

On the unit, the patient's medical care is directed by his or her physician and overseen by the subacute care team. An interdisciplinary approach will involve physicians, nurses, therapists, social workers, families and patients working together. Recovery, mobility and independence to the patient's best possible level are among the goals of daily planned activities and therapy.

The unit's location in the hospital enables it to draw on the same advanced medical technology and staff that is available to medical and surgical units in the hospital. For example, subacute care patients may continue to receive intravenous therapy as they regain strength and mobility. The unit will utilize the resources of other hospital services such as physical, occupational and speech therapy, respiratory care, dietary, laboratory and radiology services.

The hospital's location is also convenient for physicians, family and friends, who will be visiting patients on the unit.

Subacute care unit staff includes registered nurses, nursing assistants, unit clerks, a social worker and activity aid. Karen Glassman, RN, BSN, is the nurse manager for the unit. Patricia Stengel, assistant administrator at the Samaritan Health Center, is the designated nursing home administrator for the unit. Together, the staff and its leadership bring a mix of experience in acute, subacute and nursing home care.

Planning for the unit began almost three years ago. In June, 1995 the hospital and the Samaritan announced their plans to jointly develop subacute care service at the hospital, involving the relocation of 23 nursing home beds from the Samaritan to the hospital.

In March 1996 the application to establish the subacute care unit at the hospital was approved by the State of Wisconsin, Division of Health, the cost not to exceed $1,443,034. Construction began early in the summer of 1996. The third floor of the east building was gutted and completely remodeled. The floor had been an ambulatory surgery area from 1985 to 1990 and most recently was used for office and storage space.

"The subacute care unit is the realization of an important initiative for St. Joseph's Community Hospital. It is another service point along the continuum of care we can provide to residents of this area. Subacute care is an innovative and cost-effective method of care delivery in which we can help patients through the complete recovery process," said Burns.

Information about subacute care at St. Joseph's Community Hospital may be obtained by calling Margie Klink, manager of public relations and capital development at St. Joseph's Community Hospital, 334-8576.

A view of one of the nine single rooms of the subacute care facility located on the third floor of St. Joseph's Community Hospital's east building. There are also seven double rooms available. The public is invited to an open house of the unit on Saturday, February 1, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Shown above is one of the pleasant, spacious lounge areas located in the 14,500-square-foot subacute care facility dedicated on Monday at St. Joseph's Community Hospital.

Grandparents from throughout the Kewaskum School District will have an opportunity to see the schools in action during a special day set aside for them.

On February 19, any grandparent or senior citizen in the District is invited to visit the District schools and see how much education has changed. No longer do students take goiter pills, get their chocolate milk from little glass bottles with pop top lids or get their music and art instruction from the state radio network in Madison.

Today education in Kewaskum Schools is vastly different. First Graders learn reading from computers, middle school students learn Spanish and German and high school students work in area businesses learning skills for future employment.

The day's itinerary for grandparents is as follows:

8:45 to 9:30 - Meet at Kewaskum Middle School for coffee and donuts and tour building.

9:30 to 10:30 - Observe and take part in classes

10:30 to 11 - Visit and tour Kewaskum High School.

11 to 12:15 - Visit and take part in high school classes

12:15 to 1 - Lunch at Kewaskum High School

1 to 1:30 - Transportation to Farmington Elementary School, Wayne

Elementary School or Kewaskum Elementary School.

1:30 to 2:30 - Visit and take part in classes at one of the elementary schools.

2:30 - Transportation to Kewaskum or residence.

We encourage you to take part in this special day. Please call the District office at 626-8427 to register. Transportation will be provided to and from your home if you so request it.

Again, come and join us for Grandparents Day in the Kewaskum School District. You'll be impressed with what you see!

Celebrate Families Feb. 2-9

Families are a concern of everyone. As our society is changing, what has long been known as the "traditional family" has also changed. Today's families come in many shapes and sizes. Families may be nuclear, extended, blended, single-parent, dual-parent, multi-generational, bi-racial, elderly, yours-mine-and-others. The key is that they all exist right here. They all function, and they are ALL important.

Agencies, organizations, businesses, schools, churches, and concerned citizens in Washington county have joined together to develop and implement a unified approach to "Celebrating the Family," a week long program, February 2-9, 1997, is being designed to emphasize the importance of the family. The theme, "Celebrate Families," focuses on the family as a changing place, a growing place, a learning place, a belonging place, a doing, playing, working place, and a celebration place.

The belief is that through joint effort, we can have a significant impact on all types of families in Washington County. It is essential, in our changing society, that we try to meet the needs of our changing families and that we celebrate the importance of family in our own community. It does not matter what family type you belong to, our goal is to emphasize that all families are an integral part of our community.

On Sunday, February 2, a Family Resource Fair will showcase organizations that offer services to strengthen families. Displays and activities by nonprofit agencies and organizations will be held at Paradise Mall, West Bend. Various groups will be performing in the Center Court area.

Join in on Celebrating Families! Spend time together with your family. Plan to eat dinner together, read together, or play together.

We invite you to financially donate to the Celebrate Families event, support the event by flying a Celebrate Families Banner, purchase Celebrate Families ribbons for employees to wear that week, or purchase Celebrate Families Pins. Your participation will be greatly appreciated.

Letter to the Editor

January 27, 1997

The United Way of Washington County recently completed its 1996 Campaign. The theme was "United Way - 60 Years of Caring and Sharing," commemorating our sixtieth anniversary, as we were founded in 1936 as the West Bend-Barton Community Chest.

Our goal for the campaign was set at $930,060, representing an amount which would be the highest dollar campaign in our history. Not only did we achieve our goal, but we greatly exceeded it, raising $960,000. A great big thank you goes out to each of the approximately 300 volunteers who contributed by their dedication and hard work. It took everyone to accomplish our goal, and their extra efforts were instrumental in surpassing it.

I'd like to sincerely express my appreciation to the many individuals, businesses and organizations who so generously contributed to this year's campaign. They all exhibited the fact that the people of Washington County do in fact "care and share."

The 25 agencies served by United Way use the funds allocated to them in a very meaningful way. The agencies are appreciative of each of the dollars donated, and depend on these funds to continue to operate.

Again, "thank you" to all of the volunteers and donors who made this campaign so successful. You play a big part in keeping Washington County a great place to live, work and raise a family.

The meticulously manicured, weed-free crabgrass-proof lawn is largely a modern phenomenon. In the mid-1800s, when American novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne visited England—where the rage for solid-green lawns was in full bloom—he was distressed by the vista's artificiality and pretension. He wrote home that he longed for the more natural American front yard, rich in its varieties of weeds, nettles, clovers, and dandelions.

Meet the School District Staff

Jerry Gosa

Kewaskum High School chemistry teacher Jerry Gosa knows something about challenges.

As a chemistry teacher at KHS, he has challenged his students. As KHS boys track coach, he has challenged his athletes. He has also met head on -- the challenge of raising funds for local worthy causes.

Mr. Gosa has taught KHS science for 21 years, but many in the community know him, too, from his fundraising efforts for KEYS (Kewaskum Youth Scholarships) and the local United Way.

As President of the KEYS Scholarship Fund (which provides scholarships to graduating KHS students), Mr. Gosa has seen the group progress from awarding one $500 scholarship in Fall, 1985 (its inaugural year), to plans for awarding scholarships totaling $30,500 in 1997.

"It's been exciting to see it grow like it has," Mr. Gosa admitted, but added with a smile, "No matter how well it's doing, though, you always want to see it do more."

This year, KEYS continued doing more. The third annual KEYS Scholarship 5K Run/Walk this past fall, for example, raised $7,500, about $2,500 more than the previous year. Mr. Gosa has been a major force in the organization and staging of the KEYS fundraising event (which also provides the chance for students to earn a $300 scholarship for designing the Run/Walk t-shirt).

Additionally, Mr. Gosa has helped coordinate other efforts for KEYS, such as the Christmas Concert and contacts with citizens and local businesses.

On the school side, Mr. Gosa had coordinated United Way fundraising efforts among the faculty through payroll deductions and other contributions for about 15 years (which grew from his extensive involvement in the community's United Way). He commends the efforts of the District's staff, whose contributions have exceeded projected goals each of the last two years.

Even with all that, however, Mr. Gosa is first and foremost, a teacher.

"We're here to help kids learn. I enjoy doing that," he commented.

He enjoys spending time with his family, as well. Mr. Gosa and his wife, Mary, (a medical technologist at St. Joseph's Community Hospital in West Bend) live in Kewaskum. They have four children: Rachel 22, David 20, Katie 15 and Colleen 14.

Whether helping students learn, or helping coordinate fundraising efforts, "The challenge is always there," he stated, "to do a little bit better."

And, as long as there is that challenge, rest assured that Mr. Gosa will be willing to meet it.

There's only one thing worse than to live without working, and that is to work without living.

Packer Fever Contagious in Kewaskum Schools

A virulent strain of fever ran through the Kewaskum Elementary Schools last week, characterized by students and staff turning green... and gold! It was, of course, PACKER FEVER and everyone from kindergarten to custodians came down with a healthy dose of it in preparation for the Packers' appearance in the Super Bowl.

At Wayne, Farmington and Kewaskum Elementary Schools, everyone was encouraged to sport their Packer colors and apparel to "psych up" for the big game.

On Thursday, Farmington staged an exciting Packer Pep Rally, in which students performed self-made skits, raps, and cheers during a school-wide assembly. Before the rally, students participated in a Packer Parade throughout the halls, with each class carrying a Packer banner it made to show its support for the team, to the strains of Packer Backer music.

On Friday, students and teachers wore hats and shoes, self-decorated with Green Bay colors, in a further example of "Packermania."

Principal Kieth Kriewaldt was busy manning the grill at the KES Packer tailgate lunch on Friday. Teachers helped serve "Desmond dogs," "Butler brats" and "Favre fries" to students during the lunchtime celebration.

During the week, extra Packer activities ranged from face-painting small Packer logos on students and teachers, to staff members adorning their shoes in creative displays of green and gold, to the attractive cheeseheads made and modeled by the First Steps classes.

Although there currently is no known cure for Packer Fever, it is believed that the epidemic in the schools has peaked and will slow... until NEXT January, that is!

"GO PAKERS!, uh, PACKERS!" Kindergartners show their spirit with a cheer during the Farmington Elementary School's Pep Rally.

Dustin Swenson and Krystal Cochran lead their fourth grade class members in the FES Packer Parade. Catchy banner, kids!

Checking on the progress of the "Butler Brats" and the "Desmond Dogs" at the KES Packer tailgate party is Principal, and griller extraordinaire, Kieth Kriewaldt.

Packer Mania Thrives In Kewaskum

TOUCHDOWN AND THE FANS GO WILD! The fans watching the game at Prime Time Pub show almost as much excitement as if they were in the stands at "The Big Easy." No matter where you viewed the game, the electricity was in the air everywhere and all Packer fans were united and bonded to the same destination. For a few short hours, animosity in the world did not exist among Packer Backers.

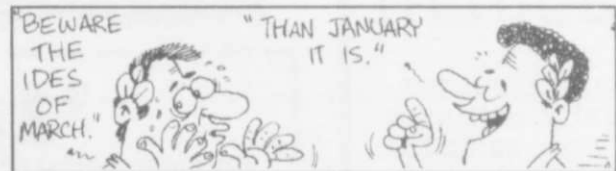

Kevin Marquardt proudly waves his Titledown Towel at Rookies Sports Bar in Kewaskum, as Desmond Howard sets a new Super Bowl record, returning a kickoff 99 yards for another Packer score. Howard was named Super Bowl MVP for his special teams efforts and it looked like he had as much fun playing in the game as we did watching him.

Jubilant Packer fans could not contain their joy indoors anymore following the end of the Super Bowl game Sunday evening. It was just too much excitement to keep indoors, so these fans took to the streets at the corner of Main Street and Fond du Lac Avenue to hoop it up and express their feelings to anyone driving through. Honking horns and hollers could be heard throughout Kewaskum late into the evening, and believe it or not, no one seemed to mind.

March was the first month of the ancient Roman calendar. Julius Caesar moved the year's beginning to January.

Karen Eckl, left, and Sharon Ellis put the final touches on one of the many takeout pizzas ordered from Eckl's Main Street Inn by Packer fans in Kewaskum. No one wanted to leave the TV set long enough to prepare food, so many fans ordered takeout. After all, the commercials for the Super Bowl this year were almost as entertaining as the game.

We Like It Here!

By Joe Harper

Something remarkable happened. Something tangible, as powerful as an earthquake, as reassuring as a hug.

The Packers won the Super Bowl. Granted, it wasn't a world-changing, or history-making event, but it was something -- something wonderful -- just the same.

As I drove home after watching the game with friends, there were people on the streets, not partaking in the usual celebratory looting and arson found in the championships of big city teams, but waving homemade banners, and pennants, and pumping their fists in the air at passing motorists in pure, undiluted excitement, and pride, and joy. The Packers -- no, WE-- are the champions of the world.

The streets weren't full, by any means. To be honest, I saw fewer than a dozen folks on my short drive home, but taking into consideration a light snow and a temperature on the short side of zero, it was pretty impressive, nonetheless.

And it wasn't a display reserved solely for those who had partied past their limit.

It was a father and his son, walking hand in hand, punctuating the chill night with emphatic waves of a Packer pennant for no one's benefit save their own.

It was a grandmother standing outside her home with her two grandchildren, each bundled up and holding a small banner of green and gold; each bubbling with the thrill of a game played a thousand miles away.

It was the honking horns of autos as they made their ways along the snow-covered streets. It was the smiles of a community draped in green, pulling together for a single dream. It was the shouts of "WOO-OO!" from distant homes as I stood on my porch, unlocking my door.

But it was even more than that.

It was the celebration of a team whose hard work, and moral character, and childlike enthusiasm we find very much like our own. It was the compassion felt for congregations losing their places of worship in hate-related crimes down south. It was the inspiration of a man admitting and overcoming, his mistakes, for the good of the team.

It was a call to nostalgia, an homage to earlier teams -- teams of our youth -- with the same hard work and moral fiber that our parents worked so hard to instill within us.

It was affirmation, as well, that good guys don't have to finish last.

Most importantly, though, it was the rekindling of hope -- the belief that anything is possible, if we are willing, if we are able to work hard enough, and persevere -- and endure -- long enough, even twenty-nine years.

But, hey, I know it's not a cure for cancer.

And I know that hate-crimes will continue to spew their pain and venom.

And, sadly, too, countries will still go out of their way to annihilate one another.

But, the Packers won the Super Bowl.

And for this moment, this place, it has made the world a little bit brighter for all of us.

And that is, indeed, something worth celebrating.

Letters to the Editor

January 22, 1997

Dear Editor:

On January 15, 1997, after a public hearing attended by about 50 people, the Town of Farmington Planning Commission endorsed what must be the weakest land use plan in Southeastern Wisconsin.

Despite an overwhelming survey mandate to preserve the rural/agricultural characteristics of Farmington, The Advisory Committee chairman's objections, and strong objection from the floor at the hearing, the planning board quickly voted 4 to 2 to approve what could be termed a "non-plan."

Although the approved statement of objectives reflected the survey, the accompanying regulations contradicted both the stated objectives and the wishes of the people. These regulations will allow the entire Town, except for wetlands, to be open to development with minimum lot sizes of one to three acres. No creative planning to save agricultural land here -- no plan for maintaining green space-- no designated future recreational areas -- no real plan for anything! It is easy to see, however, that this could be a developers dream come true!

Discussion at the open meeting centered around minimum lot sizes, but the rationale of some of the more vocal board/committee members was revealing in some other areas as well. Some examples:

- Telling new homeowners that lots must be large is "immoral"
- Getting fixed rate mortgages on larger plots is almost impossible
- How can you tell a landowner he cannot maximize the value of his land
- Large lots out here fos-

FACILITIES PLANNING ARTICLE CORRECTION

In the Jan. 16th issue of the Statesman, an error appeared in an article entitled, "Administrators, Facilities Planning Group, Present Three Building Plan Options at School Board Work Session." The K-6 Model option incorrectly listed building a new high school as part of this model. It should have read as follows:

K-6 Model With New KES - District transitions to K-6 elementary in 1997 - 98. Construct new KES on new site. Upgrade KHS/KMS with connecting gym/auditorium/IMC. Redesign Rose Hall, 700 area, with other upgrades. Remodel outlying elementary schools. Land purchases sufficient to meet new MS needs in 2010. Total cost = $16.7 million.

Our writers apologize to Statesman readers for this error.

- You really can't designate open areas because you never know which farmer will want to open his land up to development

- Cluster concepts lead to neighborhood squabbles

- "We don't have a crystal ball" (On a population density question)

- No need for more discussion, I've made up my mind and it will never be changed

- Let's not delay the vote for further input, what possibly could be different

The plan was touted as a compromise, but clearly, the process was dominated by individuals who derive income from construction/realty related activities. In addition, the professional land use planner retained by the town was terminated fairly early in the process and never replaced. A qualified planner would never have endorsed a plan so inconsistent with its primary objectives, or so lacking in basic planning features.

Hopefully, the April 1997 election will offer alternatives to accepting a continued lack of responsiveness and vision. I urge Town of Farmington residents to study the candidates carefully, and vote for qualified individuals dedicated to open minded public service. The issue of land use control is too important to allow anything but our best and most sincere effort!

Winter Colds And Ear Infections: New Study Holds Promise For Acute Ear Infections

(DM)—Americans catch about one billion colds each year — with children being more susceptible and getting as many as six to eight a year, according to estimates from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases. This high rate of colds in children is due to their lack of immunity (built-up resistance to infection) and close contact with other kids in enclosed environments, such as schools or day care centers.

The good news is that most childhood colds resolve without serious problems. However, some colds can cause complications, including sinusitis, bronchitis and otitis media (ear infection). Acute otitis media (AOM) — inflammation of the middle ear caused by accumulation of fluids containing mucus and pus — is the most commonly treated illness in children under the age of five. The onset of AOM is sudden, characterized by ear pain, fever and irritability.

When treating AOM, physicians look for a drug to be active against the most common causative bacteria — Streptococcus pneumoniae, Haemophilus influenzae and Moraxella catarrhalis. Amoxicillin, which is chemically related to penicillin, traditionally has been first-line therapy for treatment of AOM. However, many bacteria commonly associated with AOM have developed the ability to change and make themselves resistant to penicillin-based antibiotics.

That is why there is a growing concern regarding the emergence of penicillin-resistant bacteria in the United States. At a recent scientific meeting, researchers discussed the results of a multi-center clinical trial — Use of Cefprozil in Children with Recurrent Acute Otitis Media — involving 262 children, which measured the clinical activity of Cefzil® (cefprozil) against antibiotic-resistant bacteria in AOM. The study, conducted from December 1994 to October 1995, found that Cefzil, an oral cephalosporin antibiotic, is an effective and well-tolerated alternative therapy for children with AOM, including cases of recurrent infection and previous treatment failure.

About one-third of all children have more than three ear infections by age three. Ear infections result in 30 million doctor visits per year.

The study, presented by Samuel E. McLinn, M.D., F.A.A.P., a private practice pediatrician and chairman of Infectious Disease, Scottsdale Memorial Hospital, Scottsdale, Ariz., is the first large clinical trial in AOM to confirm that the most common bacteria for recurrent otitis media in this subset of children were S. pneumoniae, H. influenzae and M. catarrhalis.

What makes this study unusual is that it included children with recurrent otitis media and previous treatment failure. Children with these characteristics often are excluded from clinical trials. Additionally, all children (aged six months to 12 years) underwent tympanocentesis — a rarely conducted procedure to access and confirm bacteria found in middle ear fluids.

"Cefzil produced greater than or equal to 96 percent resolution or improvement of key presenting symptoms such as ear pain, fever and irritability in patients who had those symptoms upon enrollment. Overall, Cefzil produced high clinical response rates to the bacteria associated with recurrent acute otitis media, S. pneumoniae, H. influenzae and M. catarrhalis," said Dr. McLinn.

Cefzil therapy (30 mg/kg/day, a powder for oral suspension) taken in two equally divided doses for 10 days, was well-tolerated by children in the study, and side effects related to therapy were infrequent. The most commonly reported adverse events were diarrhea (3%) and rash (2%).

When treated promptly and effectively, AOM typically is not serious. However, if improvement in the child does not occur within 48 to 72 hours, it may be necessary to see a physician to switch antibiotics. Cefzil represents an effective and well-tolerated alternative therapy for children with hard-to-treat AOM.

Cefzil, which was given clearance recently by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for the treatment of acute bacterial sinusitis in adult and pediatric patients, is the only cephalosporin approved for both sinusitis and otitis media in pediatric patients.

This information was prepared by Bristol-Myers Squibb Company. Physicians are advised to read the full prescribing information for Cefzil (cefprozil).

Biofeedback is Topic For Fibromyalgia Support Group

Sara E. Rehring, certified biofeedback therapist with the Biofeedback and Stress Management Center in West Bend, will speak at a meeting of the fibromyalgia support group sponsored by St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend on Monday, February 3, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the hospital's fourth floor east conference room.

Biofeedback uses state-of-the-art technology to monitor and measure the body's normal responses to stress, such as muscle tension, skin temperature and perspiration. It enables an individual to be aware of his or her responses and to gain control in reacting to stress. Biofeedback and stress management are used in the treatment of certain health problems and are useful in general relaxation and enhancing wellness.

Fibromyalgia is discomfort and pain surrounding the muscles and generally affects younger women. Some symptoms of fibromyalgia are: inability to perform daily activities, sleeping disorders, and bowel disorders such as diarrhea or constipation.

A 17th Birthday Tribute to Robert Schairer Jr.

Feb. 3, 1980 - Nov. 27, 1995

Remember me to the living, I am gone.
To the sorry, I will never return.
To the angry, I was cheated.
But to the bappy, I am at peace.
And to the faithful, I have never left.
I cannot speak, but I can listen.
I cannot be seen, but I can be heard.
So as you stand upon a shore,
gazing at a beautiful sea,
remember me.
Remember me in your hearts,
your thoughts, and your memories,
the times we cried, the times we fought,
and the times we laughed.
For if you always think of me,
I will never be gone.

Sadly missed by Mom, Dad,
Michelle, Laurie and Devin

Director of Public Works,

Jerry Gilles reported on the status of the Sanitary Sewer mains and relationship with the proposed railroad interceptor line. This discussion involved the sewer line from the main lift station to Roseland Drive where some problems exist. On a motion by Trustee Gary Gavin, seconded by Trustee Harry Roecker and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Board authorized the engineers to proceed with as built type drawings and to review this area so corrective action could be accomplished in conjunction with the railroad interceptor sewer.

On a motion by Trustee Gary Gavin, seconded by Trustee Harry Roecker and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Board denied the issuance of a Class "A" Fermented Malt Beverage License to US Oil Co., Kewaskum Amoco, 890 Fond du Lac Avenue as heard at public hearing. It was noted that the Village of Kewaskum was 4th lowest of the 35 communities providing water service. If combined the Village of Kewaskum came out at 4th lowest of the 38 communities for both water and sewer service. The Board commended the utilities and office staff at the fine record.

The Board held a discussion regarding the salary/wages for the six non-represented employees, crossing guards and summer seasonal part-time employees. It was noted a variety of percentage type increases were discussed. The Board did recommend bringing a straight 3.0% increase back to the meeting for consideration. Debate pursued regarding the percent to be granted with comments pro and con. On a motion by Trustee Gary Gavin, seconded by Trustee Warren Dums and carried by the majority roll call vote, the Board granted a 3.75% increase effective 1/1/97 by using exhibit C-1-97. State Wolf Population Continues Its Recovery PARK FALLS -- Wisconsin's population of endangered timber wolves is continuing its recovery, with overwinter surveys finding around 100 wolves in the state, according to a timber wolf specialist with the Department of Natural Resources.

"Both the number of timber wolves and the number of packs, or family units, increased in northern and central Wisconsin," says Adrian Wydeven, an endangered resources ecologist in Park Falls. The increase was encouraging, the notes, especially in light of the recurrence of mange -- a parasitic skin disease caused by mites that can be fatal to wolves.

"We lost four radio-collared wolves to mange over the past year and we were able to capture, treat and release another wolf that nearly died from the disease," Wydeven says.

Nearly half the wolves that were live-trapped during the summers of 1992 and 1993 in Wisconsin showed signs of mange. Biologists focused on treating the disease following that outbreak, and only two of 15 wolves inspected last summer had the disease. The recurrence of mange this winter means biologists will again focus on treating wolves in areas with outbreaks, Wydeven says.

Researchers meeting in Park Falls this past spring compiled the results of population surveys taken around the state. Those surveys indicated there are currently between 99 and 105 wolves in Wisconsin in 28 or more packs.

"We identified a third pack that has become established in central Wisconsin and we've had no reports of conflicts or depredation of domestic animals or livestock, which is very encouraging," he says.

In fact, Wydeven says, the only significant reported incidents involving wolves in the last year were in Burnett County and turned out to actually involve wolf-dog hybrids.

"Hybrids don't have the normal fear of people that wolves have," Wydeven says. "We found that a group of three hybrid litter mates were raised by someone for part of their lives and then took off to another area and started attacking dogs. We were able to capture two of them, but one had to be destroyed because it acted aggressively toward people."

Wydeven attributes much of the success of the recovery of timber wolves to efforts to educate people about wolves and their natural role in our state's ecosystem. Encounters with humans, Wydeven notes, were traditionally the cause of most wolf deaths in Wisconsin, but the number of wolf deaths attributed to humans has declined in recent years.

The state's timber wolf recovery program -- which began in 1989 -- reached a major milestone last year when the number of wolves identified in the state topped 80. The goal of the recovery plan is to establish a sustainable population of 80 wolves in the state by the year 2000. If the wolf population remains above 80 for three consecutive years, the DNR would be able to propose that the species status in Wisconsin be upgraded from "endangered" to "threatened," which would still provide wolves with a protected status.

The DNR Bureau of Endangered Resources coordinates the recovery activities with the support of many volunteers and other conservation organizations, such as the Timber Wolf Alliance in Ashland and the Timber Wolf Information Network in Waupaca. Part of the funding for recovery efforts comes from state residents who contribute to the Endangered Resources Fund through the checkoff on state income tax forms.

Before European settlement, wolves lived throughout the state, but by 1960 wolves were declared extirpated... or no longer found in breeding populations... from the state. Wolves were listed as a federal endangered species in 1974 and as a state endangered species in 1975.

The DNR monitors the population by radio tracking up to 30 wolves a year and by conducting howling and winter tracking surveys. Other key elements of the recovery plan include education, vaccination of wolves against disease, cooperative management, protection of wolf habitat, and providing legal protection of wolves.

JV Wrestlers Have Busy Week

By Sally Cochran

The JV Indian wrestlers traveled out of town three times last week. They were in Germantown on Tuesday, New Holstein on Thursday and on Friday they attended a tournament at Ozaukee High School.

Tuesday was a pretty good day for two of the freshmen on the team. Dave Lettow and Nick Martin both pinned their opponents to win their matches. The other five Indians wrestlers who were lucky enough to have matches, were not as lucky in the win category.

They got pinned, but they also gained some mat time and experience they can take with them into another match. Something Coach Kevin Chambers is always pleased with.

Thursday's matchup with New Holstein didn't prove to be as rewarding, since the JV wrestlers only had four matches for the evening. Sophomore Josh Seymour was the sole JV winner for the night beating his opponent with a 4-2 decision.

The team wrestled at the last of the JV tournaments for this season on Saturday. Three proud wrestlers walked away from Ozaukee High with first places. Junior Kevin Pamperin won after getting three pins under his belt.

"This was Kevin's best day of wrestling this year," said a very proud Coach Chambers. John Klesmith, a sophomore, wrestled his first match this year after recovering from some injuries. He also was victorious with three pins. Lastly, Dave Lettow pinned his three opponents for the win.

Second places were received by Steve Gundrum (Fr.), and Dan Sabish (So.), both achieved second with two pins. Josh Seymour and Matt Gundrum came in third and fourth places for the team were Emma Chambers, Pat Bohn, Nathan West, and Chris Spears.

This week is fairly quiet for the wrestlers. They have a match at home tonight (Thursday) against Plymouth.

Kewaskum Gymnasts Spring Into Action

By Sally Cochran

The lady Indian Gymnasts competed in two meets last week. Monday they hosted Markesan and Thursday the girls traveled to Grafton for an invitational. The team's final score at both meets kept them above one hundred, which was the team's previous goal. "We need to be getting our score up to about 110 or 115 to be competitive at sectionals," coach Wendy Fiedler said. The team is always looking for ways to improve their routines.

The Grafton invite was a perfect place to get lots of ideas. The schools competing included Menomonee Falls, West Bend East, Sheboygan, a combined team from Grafton/Cedarburg, Port Washington, and Kewaskum. All are Division One schools except Port and Kewaskum.

The girls came in fifth place with 101 points beating the Port Washington gymnasts who had only 79. Fiedler explained, "This was very good for the girls to come to an invitational and get some good experience against Division One teams and also come out ahead of Port who will be at our sectional."

Nadalie Reindl was the sole medal winner for the day, receiving a fifth place medal for her floor exercise with an 8.65 and a sixth for her beam routine with a score of 8.15. Other highlights of the day included Kathy Deshotels with a 7.65 on the bars, placing her in seventh, Eileen Kohlwey with a 7.0 on the floor, Joanne Thull received a 6.9

on her vault, Becca Wolf got a 5.8 on the vault, Steffanie Carlson received a 5.1 on her floor exercise, Jessica Hawkinson, also on the floor, got a 4.7, and Jessica Parrent vaulted for a score of 4.4.

In the meet with Markesan, Kewaskum ended up behind 103-107. "We are closing the gap," said Coach Fiedler, referring to a previous meet with Markesan in which they were down 100.4 to 109.45.

Kathy Deshotels had an excellent night, getting first on the uneven bars with a score of 7.85, her personal best. Kathy also placed fourth in the all-around competition with a 6.05. Nadalie Reindl also had a very rewarding evening placing first on the vault, floor, and all-around with scores of 7.3, 8.65 and 7.25 respectively. Nadalie had a 7.1 on the beam, which placed her in second.

Eileen Kohlwey placed third on her floor exercise, receiving a 7.15 and she also took fourth on the beam with a 6.8. Steffanie Carlson placed sixth on the floor, receiving a score of 7.05.

Coach Fiedler says if the girls all do their best at sectionals, they should be able to come out ahead of Markesan yet. This week they host the Beaver Dam team in a makeup meet from two weeks ago. Good luck girls!

Girls Basketball Team Celebrates First Victory

By Sally Cochran

Saturday turned out to be a great day for the Kewaskum girls basketball team, to some, maybe as great as the Packer's win on Sunday!

The girls were victorious over Sheboygan Falls with a score of 41-23. Coach Dave Rizzardi said the girls were playing with such intensity. "They were covering the whole floor," he commented.

The girls were ahead at the half, 28-7, something they have not been able to do all season, get such a good lead, that is. They had to maintain their intensity throughout the game. "I think the key was the turnovers," said Rizzardi.

Leading scorer of the game was Tiffany Laubach with 11 points. The girls free throwing percentage was way above their usual average of 46%. On Saturday, they were shooting 57% from the free throw line. This may be the start of a winning streak.

In other game action last week, and there was a lot of it, the girls had three other games. Monday they played Wayland Academy from Beaver Dam, on Tuesday they hosted Ozaukee, and on Thursday, they were up against Plymouth.

The game against Wayland Academy was a close one. "The girls were leading most of the game," Rizzardi said of his Indians. But Wayland came out ahead at the end, 29-27. The girls were outscored in the fourth quarter. "Because of last week's cold weather we hadn't played together for five days, and that really can make a difference," said Rizzardi. Carrie Wiesner and Jackie Hass both were leading scorers with eight points.

Tuesday's game with Ozaukee ended in a loss by a score of 41-29. Wiesner and Erin Krueger were top scorers for the team with six points. Rizzardi mentioned that the girls did not start off strong and let them get a good lead at the half, 20-9. "What we need is a hot hand, someone to step forward and really score big," said Rizzardi.

The game with Plymouth on Thursday ended 68-32 in Plymouth's favor. Another game where the girls started out slow. "Plymouth pressed a lot in the beginning of the game," Rizzardi commented. At the half, Kewaskum was behind 34-17, which isn't that bad, according to Coach Rizzardi, but the girls just couldn't pull it off.

Leading scorer was Carrie Wiesner with eight points and right behind her with six points were Tiffany Laubach and Erin Krueger.

HT Boys A Team Wins Another One

In a game riddled with fouls (22 for Holy Trinity and 23 for St. Matthew's), the Holy Trinity Wildcats handed St. Matthew's of Campbellsport another conference defeat, winning by the score of 48 to 39. The game was played at the Kewaskum Middle School on Friday, January 24.

The Wildcats took a ten point lead (22 to 12) by the end of the first quarter, extending that lead to 14 by the end of the half (30-16). Although outscored by St. Matts, 23 points to 16 points in the second half, the Wildcats lead was substantial enough to create the loss.

The Wildcats made only 36% of their attempted field goals, but did capitalize at the gift line by hitting 53% of their free throws.

Those scoring for Holy Trinity were: Luke Piwoni, 14 points, Jacob Stoffel 10 points, Mitch Strobel and Josh Repovsch 10 points, Jon Boedeker four points, Bryan Kraft three points, Paul Mertz two points, and Mark Schrauth, John Neumann and Anthony Laatsch, one point.

The Wildcats next game is on Friday, January 31, at the Kewaskum Middle School. They will play host to St. Marys of Barton.
