Town of Kewaskum Tables Game Farm Permit Decision

By Louise Martin

Consideration of a conditional use permit for E & E Game Farm, Inc. located north of East Moraine Drive in the Town of Kewaskum was before the Plan Commission and town board on Monday, February 17.

The 360 acre property is an area where hunters pay to hunt pheasants, quails and partridges. The small business has been in operation since 1993. The owners were unaware they needed a conditional use permit from the town.

During the public presentation portion of the Plan Commission meeting, Town Clerk Barb Wenzlaff read five letters the town received regarding the game farm. The first was a letter signed by approximately 21 neighbors who requested the permit be denied. They believe the farm is hazardous, harmful, adverse to the environment and value of the neighborhood.

Four others requested the permit be approved citing the farm as a safe, well-run, high-standard, first-class operation. Concerns raised against the permit voiced by those in the audience included trespassing problems and guns being fired near their homes.

Approximately 40 town residents were in attendance to hear the outcome of the consideration. However, according to town attorney, Karen Christianson, the permit application was incomplete.

She recommended, which the town board followed, that action on the permit be tabled until the owners, Greg Engelhardt and Perry Etta, provide a site plan of the property showing boundary lines, buffer areas and distances to nearby houses and provide a state operating license. Renewal of the license is currently being considered by the Department of Natural Resources.

Additionally, at the request of counsel for E &

E, a public meeting will be scheduled for all Plan Commission members to visit the farm during daylight hours. A Saturday in March is being considered.

The farm is currently operating even though its state license expired on December 31, 1996. The renewal process for the license allows the license to still be in effect.

According to James Jakobi, legal counsel for E & E, the owners want to be good neighbors and are willing to abide by state statutes which designate what can and cannot be done on the property but not by arbitrary guidelines. He further stated the decision needs to be based on the law and fairness not on emotion.

In other action before the board, a rezoning request by Marvin Tackes was postponed until the town's attorney can review deeds to the land being considered for rezoning, gave approval for the town clerk to attend a Wisconsin Clerks Association meeting in Beaver Dam and were advised that approximately 12 survey markers will be placed throughout the town.

The markers are the starting point for a county-wide digital mapping system. The system will make measurements and eventually location of underground gas mains, gas lines, telephone cables, wiring, sewer and water lines, etc. will be available via computer.

The Town Board will hold a Public Hearing on Monday, March 10, 1997, at 7 p.m. at the town hall to discuss the proposed Town of Kewaskum Zoning Ordinance as it relates to the recently adopted town land use plan. All interested parties are invited to attend.

The next Town of Kewaskum Plan Commission meeting will be held March 17, 1997 at 7:30 p.m. at the town hall with the town board meeting to follow.

Senior Citizens Day Held In School District

Watching students in the Middle School computer lab is community member Roger Schleif.

Some came to see grandchildren, some came to see the Kewaskum District Schools in the action, but whatever the reason, Senior Citizens Day in the District was a tremendous success.

Dozens of community members participated in at least some part of the day, which included tours of Kewaskum High School, Middle School and the Elementary Schools, a chance to sit in on the learning taking place in the classrooms, and even lunch and refreshments.

"We wanted to give our senior citizens the chance to see what's happening in our schools," said KMS Principal Clark Pearson.

Judging from the enthusiastic response, it seems that the day was a wonderful chance to do so.

Donations Needed for 'The Big Bang' July 3

The holidays are long over... and the Packers have beautifully shortened cold, dull January with warmth by bringing home the Lombardi Trophy.

The kids ate most of our Valentine chocolates, so what else is there to look forward to during these sun-abbreviated days and cloudy nights that continuously shower us with those big, white flakes? More shoveling, shivering and layers upon layers of sweats and jackets?? WRONG!

Close your eyes and stretch your memory, just a tad further into the future... a huge hill covered in warm, green grass that tickles your knees because they are clad in shorts... short-sleeve heat... brilliant, dazzling lights bursting in the sky above... and thunderous, ear-popping explosions that force you to close your eyes for a second of fear... until you remember and realize that moment of fear and the noise explosion is just what you've been anticipating all year... it's all a part of the annual celebration.

What celebration, you ask. Why the July 3rd fireworks in honor of the July 4th Holiday celebration, of course! And this year's annual "big bang" promises not to be just another "shot in the dark!"

Of course, that partially depends on you and I. If you are fascinated and love fireworks as much as I do, you'll be more than happy, as I am, to make a donation to insure the fireworks this year become an even bigger and better show than we could possibly imagine.

Too early you say bunky? Not true. The bulk of the fireworks have to be ordered in mid-March to be sure we get what we want. Will you send a small contribution to light up our community? You love those fireworks... you know you do! And if we all send in a little... it will definitely add up to be alot... of fireworks!

If you can make a contribution, please fill out the coupon on the bottom corner of page 3 and mail it to the Kewaskum Statesman, P.O. Box 98, Kewaskum, WI 53040. We will coordinate the contributions, keep a list of those fantastic community-minded residents and businesses that care to donate and pass them along to the Village Administrator who is in charge of the ordering when he is not sampling French cuisine.

A list of all donations will be printed in a future edition of the Statesman... so if you want to buy fireworks in honor of someone else... please feel free. More will be printed about the fireworks in the next few weeks. And for those of you who choose to send a donation... my mommy thanks you... my kids thank you... and I wholeheartedly thank you a bunch!

Soup: A Hot, Hearty Meal In Minutes

(DM)—On a cold winter afternoon or evening, there is nothing more comforting than a homemade bowl of soup. With increasingly busy schedules, however, who has the time or energy to prepare soup from scratch? You do.

This new recipe from Santa Cruz Fine Foods is prepared in one pot and uses ingredients you already may have in the refrigerator.

Potato Cheddar Soup is a savory combination of hearty potatoes and onions with the tangy flavor of cheddar cheese. Rich and satisfying, Potato Cheddar Soup has only 369 calories per serving and takes just 40 minutes to prepare. Topped with the nutty flavor of Simply Blue Salad Eatos™ and paired with a fresh green salad, it makes a complete, nutritious winter meal.

Salad Eatos are crunchy, bite-sized organic corn strips perfect for soups, salads or snacking. Dubbed the "alternative crouton," they combine great taste with the convenience of a crouton.

Salad Eatos also are available in Fiesta Salsa and Lime, Garlic Parmesan, Chili and Lime, and Sun Dried Tomato and Basil flavors. Each four-ounce bag contains 16 servings and retails for approximately $1.99. They are sold in the produce or snack section of supermarkets, natural food stores, and specialty food outlets.

POTATO CHEDDAR SOUP

|---|---|
| 1½ pounds baking potatoes (3 large), peeled and cut into chunks | 1 cup lowfat milk   |
| 3 cups vegetable or chicken broth                               | 1 cup corn kernels, fresh or frozen   |
| 1 medium onion, finely chopped                                  | 1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded cheddar cheese   |
| 1 teaspoon dried dill weed or 1½ teaspoons dried basil leaves   | Salt and pepper (to taste)  |
|   | 1 package (4 oz.) Simply Blue or Sun Dried Tomato &amp; Basil Salad Eatos |

In a 3-quart or larger pot, bring potatoes, broth, onion and herbs to a boil over high heat. Reduce heat to low, cover pot and simmer until potatoes are very soft, 20 to 25 minutes. With a fork, mash potatoes in soup to a coarse, nubby texture. Stir in milk and corn; heat several minutes. Remove soup from heat; add cheese and stir until melted*. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Ladle soup into individual serving bowls and top with Salad Eatos. Makes about 1½ quarts/6 servings.

*To prevent cheese from curdling, it is important to remove soup from heat before adding.

Nutritional Information Per Serving (including Salad Eatos): 369 calories 155 calories from fat, 17g fat, 33mg cholesterol, 828mg sodium, 43g carbohydrate, 14g protein.

KMS Student Going to State Spelling Bee

Regional Spelling Bee Champion Erin Bannenberg stands beside District Spelling Bee Coordinator and Kewaskum Middle School Teacher Mrs. Stangl.

By correctly spelling "terrace," Kewaskum Middle School sixth grader Erin Bannenberg won the Regional Spelling Bee for Grades 5-8, and will compete in the State Spelling Bee competition.

Erin is thought to be the first student in the history of the Kewaskum School District to reach that level. Farmington Elementary fifth grader Juliet Tofte also finished strongly, capturing ninth place out of more than thirty participants.

In addition to "terrace," Eric correctly spelled twenty words in all, including migraine, desolate, essayist, excavator, and perpend (which, as everyone probably knows, is an outdated way to say "ponder").

Erin will compete in the State Spelling Bee in Stevens Point later this spring.

Town of Wayne Meeting Planned For Land Use

By Louise Martin

Members of the Town of Wayne Plan Commission will hold a Land Use Plan developing meeting on Tuesday, March 11, 1997 beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall, 6030 Highway H. Kevin Hall from Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission (SEWRPC) will be in attendance. SEWRPC has been selected as the township land planner.

The meeting is open to the public. All interested individuals are encouraged to attend.

Sunburst Ski Patrol Open House Sunday

You are invited to join the Sunburst Ski Patrol at an Open House on Sunday, March 2.

The ski patrol is looking for intermediate skiers and snowboarders, ages 15 and older, to join them in their award winning patrol.

Bring your skis or snowboard and plan to spend the day with a patroller. A complimentary lift ticket and brat fry will be provided. Meet at the patrol building at 10:30 a.m. and please dress for the conditions.

Boy Scout Camp Promotion BBQ

Kurt Knowski, District Executive of Kettle Country District of the Boy Scouts of America, extends an invitation to all adult Boy Scout leaders to attend the Camp Promotion Barbecue to be held Thursday, March 6, at 6 p.m. at Central Middle School, 1100 Cedar Street, Hartford.

Council staff members, Patrick Scherer and Edward McCullen, will present the program geared to high adventure and year-round camping.

Kettle Country District includes Dodge, Ozaukee and Washington Counties and the Random Lake Community.

The monthly Cub Scout Roundtable will also be conducted at the school beginning at 7:30 p.m. Roundtable Commissioner Lou Glassman, and his staff will highlight the "Cub Scout Birdwatchers" theme with associated activities. Carol Stuckert will assist Den Leaders with a hands-on project, and Webelos Leaders will scrutinize the Athlete and Sportsman Activity Badges.

Annual Agricultural Appreciation Day in Hartford March 4

With winter on the wane and the first day of spring on the way, it's time again to recognize farmers in the community for their help in providing us with our plentiful food supply. To coincide with the start of the growing season, the 15th Annual Agricultural Appreciation Day has been set for Tuesday, March 4th.

The "WTKM Farm Fair" will be held at Legendz Great Hall of Hartford from 9 until 4, and will feature over 50 agribusiness firms from throughout the area exhibiting their products and services. Guests will also enjoy free milk courtesy of Kemps and Golden Guemsey Dairies, with plenty of product samples offered by many of the exhibitors. Food is provided by the Washington County Farm Bureau, and refreshments will be available all day as well.

The farm fair also gives farmers, a chance to discuss concerns with local and regional farm leaders, and area home economists will be on hand to answer questions on family living. Special attention should be given to the farm safety informational booth staffed by local FFA chapters. Informative seminars will also be conducted throughout the day.

Admission to the WTKM Farm Fair and Agricultural Appreciation Day is free, and all area farmers are invited to come visit with their neighbors, while discovering ways to better manage their farming operations, at Farm Fair '97 on Tuesday, March 4th. Legendz Ballroom "Great Hall of Hartford" is located at 700 South Main Street in Hartford.

FFA Alumni Holding Annual Tool Sale

Farmers and repair shop owners are encouraged to check their shop supplies. Do you need drill bits, tools, welding rods, nuts and bolts or almost anything else for your shop?

Now is the time to purchase them as the Kewaskum FFA Alumni, along with J & R Shop Supplies, will be holding their annual Spring Tool Sale. They will be in the Kewaskum area the week of March 3-7 to pick up your order. For more information, please call 626-4251.

Receive Degrees

GREEN BAY -- About 350 students, representing 34 Wisconsin counties, five states and five countries, were eligible to take part in commencement ceremonies on Saturday, December 21, at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay.

The following area students received bachelor's degrees: Sara Nysse, 857 Homestead Dr., West Bend, in Accounting, and Eric Derge, 620 South 17th Avenue, West Bend, Environmental Policy and Planning.

"I don't know what's worse... Harvey putting his thong on backwards or nobody noticing!"

Wisconsin Muenster contributes the unique flavor, and chicken is a great tasting substitute for ham. Add the beverage that's convenient to serve at any table — milk.

Scalloped Potato and Chicken Casserole

- 3-1/2 cups milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 package (5 to 5-1/2 ounces) scalloped potato mix
- 1-1/2 cups frozen cut green beans, thawed, well drained
- 1-1/2 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1/4 cup green onion slices
- 2 tablespoons stone ground mustard
- 1 cup (4-ounces) shredded Wisconsin Muenster cheese

Microwave milk and butter in 2 quart round casserole 4 minutes on High or until steamy. Stir in potatoes and sauce mix; cover with waxed paper. Microwave 15 minutes, stirring every 5 minutes. Stir in beans, chicken, onion and mustard; microwave 5 to 6 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Stir in cheese; let stand 5 minutes.

Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: Substitute cooked fresh green beans for frozen green beans.

We Like It Here!

By Joe Harper

Just the other day, when I bent down to pick up my shoes, I noticed that the floor seemed a whole lot lower than it used to be.

Although I just celebrated a birthday (and I'm well past 30), I'm holding out hope that the floor seems lower not because of my advancing age, of course, but because, in fact, I may still be growing taller.

I'm also sure that any gray hair I find on my head is a freak of nature, an aberration.

Currently, I'm averaging about two new aberrations a day.

Back in the days when TV sets were exclusively black and white there was a commercial that gushed, "You're not getting older, you're getting better."

Right. And we all wear the same size pants we did in high school (with every passing day I more and more expect to see the word "Goodyear" emblazoned around my waist).

But, to be honest, it's not that I can't accept growing older.

It's just that I can't believe it.

When you're a kid, EVERYONE seems so old.

Your teacher, Old Lady Johnson, was actually 23 and fresh out of college.

Your parents were so out of date, they may as well have spoken in the grunts and yips of prehistoric man.

And you were reasonably certain that, in her day, Grandma had seen a dinosaur or two roaming around the yard.

But then it's you.

You're watching TV one Sunday afternoon and find that the players from your favorite team -- even the grizzled, old veterans that are well past their prime -- won't reach your age yet for a couple years.

And politicians -- the sour-faced, near-sighted, balding centurions of your youth -- are now the age of your siblings. Even the President, for goodness sakes, listens to pretty much the same music you do.

The clerks at the Piggly Wiggly call you "Sir." You notice the Tonight Show is a lot later than it used to be. Popular music no longer strikes you as catchy tunes or meaningful anthems of rock, but instead sounds only like spoons in the garbage disposal.

And you discover yourself making noises when you stand up, and hearing yourself say (echoing the words you used to hear from your blue-haired, older-than-dirt Great Aunt Martha), "I like onions, but they don't like me."

And by the time you stop to realize it's happening, it already has.

But by then you may also realize it's not so bad: you have a lot of experiences, you have a lot of memories, and, now, you have 100% Bran Flakes from time to time. So what?

If you've been blessed, you've had some good friends to call on over the years, family members with whom you could reminisce, and at least some fleeting moments of dizzying happiness (such as getting that puppy at age eight, or hitting a homerun, or falling in love). And you can understand that there still may be such moments sprinkled throughout your future. And when you reflect on it, all in all, you see you're really coming out on the plus side of the ledger.

And I realize that I don't have to listen to current popular music, and I don't have to eat onions anymore, and maybe some gray hairs might make me look at least a little bit more distinguished, after all.

Now if I can just do something about raising the floor.

'Working Mom Worries' Workshop

Do you feel like you are being pulled in too many directions? If you are a mom who works outside of the home, even part-time, this workshop is for you!

We will look at the demands that are placed on working mothers and how this affects you and your children. Tips on how to cope with the many challenges you face will also be offered.

This FREE workshop will be held at the Family Center on Thursday evening, March 6, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Free child care is also available (ages 0-5) for this workshop.

To register for this workshop call the Family Center of Washington County at 338-9461.

The Family Center of Washington County is a non-profit agency, funded by Children's Trust Fund, United Way of Washington County, and private donations. The mission of the Family Center is to strengthen the quality of family life in Washington County through multi-faceted nurturing experiences.

Winter Carnival Held at KMS

It was so cool, it was HOT!

Winter Carnival at Kewaskum Middle School drove away the midwinter blues recently, with a week full of things like "Wacky Hair Day," an all-school cookout and week-ending February 14th carnival and dance.

Music blasted out from the gym as the DJ played the students' favorite songs, while out in the hallway, students tried for prizes in carnival games by knocking over milk bottles, or tossing rings, or making a soda bottle stand up using a ring on a fishing pole.

The games, actual carnival-style games, were recently purchased by KMS to use for such events. The winter carnival proved to be the perfect venue. The games allowed students a chance to play games and have fun entering in the boredom.

Also adding to the excitement was a Disney-themed costume contest. Mrs. West's homeroom students, Peter Herriges, Nicole Dreher and Noah Koch won top honors as characters from "Winnie the Pooh." Pinocchio from Mrs. Proher's, and Cinderella and Prince Charming from Mrs. Gutjahr's, finished close behind in the balloting.

Earlier in the day, Principal Pearson, Counselor Mr. Nell, and teacher Mr. Schlehle cooked up burgers outside on a grill in a school-wide cookout. The food had been purchased using the proceeds from the school's juice machines. (Mr. Pearson also reported that, to his knowledge, no one had gotten sick from his cooking...).

The week was filled with Winter Carnival events as well. Perhaps the most unique was "Wacky Hair Day," bringing everything from colored Mohawks, to 50's style 'dos to hair that would fill Don King with envy.

Students and teachers report, having had a terrific time, and they are definitely looking forward already to next winter.

Ponytails and braids were in abundance on "Wacky Hair Day" as seen in this group of eighth grade girls.

With her toss in the air, sixth grader Jenny Koth hopes to get five in a row to win "Ball Bingo."

Weight Watchers Meeting Tuesday

Weight Watchers knows that losing weight should fit the way you live your life... not the other way around. The Freedom Plan helps you learn how to lose the weight you need to lose without complicating your busy life. What's so special about the Freedom Plan?

* You can eat real food, in real portions. No one will ever guess you are "on a diet."

* You won't have to weigh food and measuring portions is easy.

* Meals and recipes are simple, quick to prepare, and use common ingredients.

* With the Weekend Freedom Option, you learn how to indulge, while staying in control -- simply and easily.

Join in and get a great start on the Freedom Plan! Attend the Organizational Meeting on Tuesday, March 4, at 5:15 p.m. at the Kewaskum Toning Shop in Kewaskum, and hear more about Weight Watchers food plan. For additional information, call 1-800-391-3130.

Chill Out With A Fruit Smoothie

When temperatures climb, chill out with a frosty fruit smoothie that's low in fat and big on flavor.

Skim milk, yogurt and ripe bananas give Banana-Orange Smoothie its "creamy" texture. Honey, orange juice, and cinnamon punch up the flavor, not the fat, while toasted wheat germ adds a "boost of nutrition."

Because it's the "heart of the wheat," wheat germ is a concentrated source of many essential nutrients, including vitamin E and folic acid. An added benefit is wheat germ's naturally nutty flavor and appealing crunch.

This smoothie is easy to customize by varying the flavor of the yogurt and the juice. Try peach yogurt and apricot nectar or strawberry yogurt and cranberry juice, then create your own tasty combos.

Banana-Orange Smoothie

- 1 cup skim milk
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/2 cup vanilla nonfat or lowfat yogurt
- 1/4 cup Kretschmer wheat germ
- 1 medium-size ripe banana, peeled and sliced*
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Place all ingredients in blender container; cover. Blend on high speed about 1 minute until smooth. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ before serving, if desired. 2 Servings

*For a thicker shake, cover and freeze banana slices overnight.

Tax Changes for 1996

Tax law changes could affect the bottom line of your 1996 income tax return. Here are some changes you should know about.

Each year, there are changes to the tax rules, some due to new laws, some to changes provided for in previous laws. The following are some of the more common changes that could affect most people's income tax returns.

Individual Changes

Personal exemptions are worth $2,550 for 1996.

For people who do not itemize their deductions, the standard deduction has increased. The new amounts are $4,000 for single people who cannot be claimed as another person's dependent; $5,900 for heads of households; and $6,700 for married people filing jointly or qualifying widow(ers). People who are at least 65 years old or blind get an extra amount added to their standard deduction. The standard deduction is limited to the larger of $650 or earned income for people who can be claimed as dependents by another, and to $3,350 for married persons filing separately.

The earned income tax credit (EITC) will increase in 1996 for working people who qualify. The amount a person can earn and still be eligible for the credit increases, too.

Another change to the EITC relates to people with investment income, such as interest, dividends, rents and royalties. No one who has more than $2,350 in investment income may claim the EITC.

And finally, the EITC will be denied to any individual who is not authorized to work in the U.S. In order to claim the credit, the taxpayer (and spouse, if married) must have a valid Social Security number.

A valid taxpayer identification number will be required for each dependent or qualifying child as a condition for claiming a dependency deduction or a dependent care credit for the child.

Other changes affecting this year or future tax years will affect punitive damages received for personal injury or sickness, qualified state tuition programs, individual retirement account (IRA) contributions for spouses who do not work, a nonrefundable credit for certain adoption expenses, and medical savings accounts.

Business Changes

The 1996 standard mileage rate for using one's car for business is up a penny to 31 cents a mile. The special rate for rural mail carriers is up to 46.5 cents a mile.

And for 1996, the maximum wages and self-employment income subject to Social Security tax is $62,700.

The deduction for expenses in maintaining a home office has been clarified to permit a deduction for expenses related to a storage unit regularly used for inventory or product samples for tax years beginning after December 31, 1995.

Employers who were to begin making tax deposits electronically as of January 1, 1997, now have until July 1, 1997, to begin using the Electronic Federal Tax Payment System.

The exclusion for employer-provided educational assistance, which had expired December 31, 1994, has been retroactively extended through taxable years beginning before June 1, 1997.

Other business changes for this year or future tax years affect depreciable property, work opportunity tax credit, orphan drug tax credit, excise taxes and health insurance deductions for self-employed persons.

For more information on tax changes, call 1-800-829-3676 and get Publication 553, Highlights of 1996 Tax Changes.

The IRS has tax forms, publications and other information available on-line. Access through the Internet via the World Wide Web (<http://www.irs.ustreas.gov>); file transfer protocol (<ftp.irs.ustreas.gov>); or Telnet (<iris.irs.ustreas.gov>). To access by modem, dial 703-321-8020.

Tips From The Consumer Electronics Manufacturers Association

Take Care of Your Computer Disks

(NAPS)—Dear Ed,
We bought our first computer over a year ago. At first we only had a few software programs and disks. Now we seem to have hundreds and they've created a mess. What's the best way to keep them organized and safe from accidents?

Signed,
Margaret of
San Antonio, TX

Dear Margaret,

Buy storage containers to protect your disks which are susceptible to magnetic fields and can be accidentally erased or damaged if not stored properly. Disk storage cases are available for all types of disks and can be bought at most consumer electronics retailers.

To make disks last longer, heed these precautions:

1. Write on the disk label before you attach it to the disk.
2. Once the label is attached, write on it with a felt-tip pen, not a ball-point.
3. Don't cover any jacket holes when you attach the label.
4. Don't touch the magnetic surface.
5. Don't bend the disk or attach notes to it with paper clips.
6. Don't force the disk into the disk drive.
7. Don't put magnets on the disk and keep disks at least three inches away from magnetic fields such as stereo or TV speakers or transformers, even if the disks are in a storage case.

8. Don't leave a disk in direct sunlight.

9. Don't smoke around your disks.

10. Don't place anything on top of disks (tools, books, etc.).

11. Don't expose disks to extreme hot or cold temperatures. If you do, leave them at room temperature at least two hours before using.

If chocolate, correction fluid or other non-water-soluble liquids spill on your disk, contact the manufacturer for advice on removing them. Inserting contaminated disks into your computer may damage the disk drive.

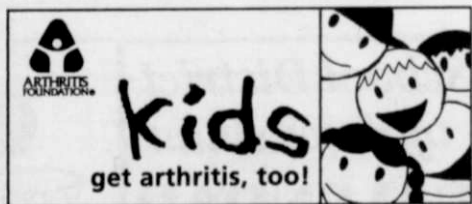

To protect disks from the static electricity and other adverse conditions during mailing, use special disk-mailing envelopes lined with foam.

Beyond taking care of your disks, regularly clean your disk drive. Check your computer's instruction manual. The manufacturer may recommend a head cleaning kit which is usually available from retailers who sell and service your brand.

Professors Present Math Paper at National Meeting

Gary Britton, Professor of Mathematics at the University of Wisconsin Washington County, and Neil Stahl, Associate Professor of Mathematics at UWC-Fox Valley, presented a paper, "Quantitative Reasoning," at a national meeting of the Mathematical Association of America (MAA) in San Diego, January 8 to 11. This is a new course for the core requirement in mathematics for an associate degree.

In the presentation, Britton and Stahl described the new mathematics course which has been developed for the Associate of Arts and Sciences degree offered by the UW Centers. They also discussed some of the issues which the department faced in developing the course.

The content of the course, as well as the underlying philosophy of how it is taught, represents a new approach to introductory mathematics courses. The course will focus on building mathematical concepts through applications. While it will count toward the degree requirements for all students, it will be of particular interest to those students who will not be pursuing additional mathematics for a major in business, mathematics or one of the physical sciences.

Stahl chaired the departmental committee which developed the course last year. Britton was a member of that committee as well as a member of the UW Centers Task Force which developed the new Associate Degree requirements. The course will be offered for the first time in the fall of 1997 at all of the UW Centers campuses.

The presentation was part of the MAA Session on Innovations in Courses Before Calculus.

Offering Childbirth Preparation Class

St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend is holding a prepared childbirth class on Tuesdays, March 4, 11, 18 and 25, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the hospital's fourth floor east conference room.

Classes provide information to help parents make informed decisions for the last trimester of pregnancy, labor and childbirth. Topics discussed include nutrition, common discomforts of late pregnancy, labor and delivery, cesarean birth, what to expect in the hospital, emotional aspects, newborn characteristics and basic infant care. Each class includes practice in relaxation and breathing patterns that are helpful for labor and delivery. Expectant parents also tour the New Life Center.

The fee is $20 per couple. To register or for more information, please call the hospital's New Life Center at 334-8361.

As part of their 4-H Child Development project, sixth grader Tricia Brath reads to interested Book Fair visitors while Franklin the Turtle (Beth Vogt, grade 4) and the Princess (fourth grader Amanda Bakken) look on.

Obituary

LYLE W. BELGER

Lyle W. Belger, age 71, of Batavia, died Friday, February 21, 1997, at St. Luke's Hospital in Milwaukee.

Mr. Belger was born April 23, 1925 in Kewaskum, the son of the late Walter and Lena Habeck Belger.

On October 19, 1946, he married Mildred Mehlos in Silver Creek. Mildred preceded him in death on November 5, 1962.

On February 11, 1966, he married Pearl Illian Berndt in Silver Creek. Lyle farmed in the Town of Sherman until moving to Batavia in 1978.

He was a member of Zion United Methodist Church in Batavia.

Survivors include his wife, Pearl; two sons, Randy (Beverly) Belger of Fort Myers Beach, Florida, and Perry (Cheryl) Berndt of Silver Creek; one daughter, LuAnn (Howard) Hensel of Naples, Florida; six grandchildren, numerous nieces, nephews and other relatives and friends.

He was preceded in death by his parents and one brother, Myron.

A memorial service was held at 7 p.m. Monday at Zion United Methodist Church in Batavia. The Rev. Barry Watson, pastor, officiated.

Friends called at the church from 5 p.m. on Monday, until the time of service.

In lieu of flowers, a memorial fund has been established in Lyle Belger's name for Zion United Methodist Church.

Wilk Funeral Home in Waukegan served the family.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of RUBEN A. OPPERMANN, ED & SHIRLEY ZASTRO, who passed away one year ago, Feb. 25, 1996:

There is a road called remembrance
Where thoughts and wishes meet;

We take that road in thought today to one we can meet;

You filled our life with happiness and you gave us all your love.

For the time we shared together, we thank the Lord above;

To your resting place we visit and place flowers there with care,

But only God knows the heartache.

When you leave you there.

Sadly missed by Virginia, Mae, Pat, Nicole, Doug, Buddy and other friends and relatives.

There are over 326 million cubic miles of water on earth. There are over a trillion gallons per cubic mile.

SEE YOUR DOCTOR Save Yourself From Stroke

(NAPS)—Over a million Americans have a potentially fatal or disabling condition known as atrial fibrillation. Many don't even realize it. That's one more reason you should see your doctor regularly, especially if you're over 75, since the risk increases with age.

The Symptoms
Signs of atrial fibrillation can include:

- Abnormal or irregular heart beat.
- Fainting.
- Fluttering or palpitations in the chest.

The Cause
The condition affects the atrium, a chamber in the upper part of your heart that is divided into right and left sides by a thin wall or partition. The left atrium collects blood coming from the lungs and sends it to the pumping chamber or left ventricle. The blood is then pumped through the body and the brain.

When people have atrial fibrillation, the contractions of the left atrium are fast and weak and cannot empty the blood completely, leaving some blood behind. Blood that stays in the atrium frequently clots. Blood clots can travel from the heart to the brain and other parts of the body.

The Body
A blood clot that is the same size as the blood vessel it is in can completely block the artery and prevent blood from entering that part of the brain. When those parts of the brain that lie beyond the clot get a reduced blood supply, damage or destruction of brain

The more you know about stroke and your risk, the better you and your doctor may be able to take the proper steps to prevent it.

cells—a stroke—can occur.

The Good News
Fortunately, a stroke due to atrial fibrillation can be frequently prevented. A study by IPRO, long known as experts in evaluating healthcare quality, found that two important drugs that reduce the ability of blood to clot, lessening the possibility of stroke, are not fully utilized by some hospitals and doctors.

These drugs are warfarin, an anticoagulant or blood thinner and, to a lesser degree, aspirin. Warfarin, researchers say, can cut the risk of stroke by 70 percent. One aspirin daily may reduce the possibility of stroke by 25 percent.

Your doctor can tell you which medication is right for you. You should never prescribe drugs for yourself. He or she may also recommend you stick to a healthy diet and a reasonable exercise program and have regular checkups.

For more information about stroke and atrial fibrillation, write: IPRO, Medical Affairs, 1979 Marcus Avenue, Lake Success, NY 11042.

The TV Parental Guidelines

The following categories apply to programs designed for children:

TV-Y: All Children. This program is designed to be appropriate for all children. Whether animated or live-action, the themes and elements in this program are specifically designed for a very young audience, including children from ages 2-6. This program is not expected to frighten younger children.

TV-Y7: Directed to Older Children. This program is designed for children age 7 and above. It may be more appropriate for children who have acquired the developmental skills needed to distinguish between make-believe and reality. Themes and elements in this program may include mild physical or comedic violence, or may frighten children under the age of 7. Therefore, parents may wish to consider the suitability of this program for their very young children.

The following categories apply to programs designed for the entire audience:

TV-G: General Audience. Most parents would find this program suitable for all ages. Although this rating does not signify a program designed specifically for children, most parents may let younger children watch this program unattended. It contains little or no violence, no strong language and little or no sexual dialogue or situations.

TV-PG: Parents Guidance Suggested. This program may contain some material that some parents would find unsuitable for younger children. Many parents may want to watch it with their younger children. The theme itself may call for parental guidance. The program may contain infrequent coarse language, limited violence, some suggestive sexual dialogue and situations.

Parents Strongly Cautioned. This program may contain some material that many parents would find unsuitable for children under 14 years of age. Parents are strongly urged to exercise greater care in monitoring this program and are cautioned against letting children under the age of 14 watch unattended. This program may contain sophisticated themes, sexual content, strong language and more intense violence.

TV-M: Mature Audience Only. This program is specifically designed to be viewed by adults and therefore may be unsuitable for children under 17. This program may contain mature themes, profane language, graphic violence and explicit sexual content.

Winter Life at Riveredge Nature Center

By Reporters Kyle Rieden and Ben Schickert

Mrs. Goham's third grade class in Holy Trinity School in Kewaskum, visited Riveredge Nature Center recently to study Life in Winter and to learn how to become nature detectives.

We thank Lowell Bunkelman, Mrs. Joan Cochran, Jim and Jane Korth, Mrs. Beth Rieden, and Mrs. Diane Schickert for driving us to Riveredge and joining us on our walk through the woods.

We also thank teacher/naturalists Ellen, Barb and Sonny for sharing their knowledge of our world with us.

TEACHER/NATURALIST KO'D BY THIRD GRADE GUESS!

We REALLY found out not to guess! Ellen, one of the Riveredge teacher/naturalists, was KO'd by a guess. We were supposed to be observing animal signs and inferring, not guessing. Jeffrey Thull guessed at which animal made some tracks and, "CRASH," Ellen fell in the bushes. Surprisingly and luckily, Ellen did not get hurt, but after that we did a pretty good job of not guessing much.

WHAT WE ENJOYED AT RIVEREDGE!

Amanda Bunkelman, Ben Schickert, David Timmerman, Lora Jo Christie, and Randy Hestekin enjoyed the snowshoeing.

Ashley Feucht and Ashley Cochran thought it was great to be at Riveredge. Tamara Baughman liked her teacher/naturalists, Barb and Sonny.

Ashley Feucht's, Kyle Rieden's and Jeff's favorite part of Riveredge was the snowshoeing.

Kyle and Tamara said, "We had a lot of fun at Riveredge." Eric Cain "had a blast at Riveredge" and Lora Jo's favorite part of Riveredge was "when we were looking for tracks, not scat."

Kyle reported that, "My favorite school day is at Riveredge."

WHAT WE OBSERVED AND LEARNED AT RIVEREDGE!

Everybody learned how to observe and to make inferences from what we have seen. We learned about TELS, which stands for Tracks, Eats, Lives and Scat.

These are the animal signs which help us to learn about the animals around us.

Barb taught us how to put on snowshoes, how to fall down, get up and walk in them so that we could save our energy and not destroy the snowshoes. Everybody learned how to observe and to make inferences from what we have seen.

While we were in the snowshoes, Barb tried an experiment she had just learned from a tracker. We had to close our eyes and try to walk in a straight line. We saw that people who are right handed tend to go right, and people who are left handed, tend to go left.

Ben, Kyle, Bryan, Sabel, Amanda, Matt Rinzel and Tamara found and traced mouse and mole tracks and tunnels. They learned that the tunnels keep the mouse warm and safe from predators like owls.

Bryan thought the best thing at Riveredge was looking for animal signs. Everybody observed animal scat, signs, skulls and tracks. David found raccoon tracks. Near the bridge, David heard and spotted a Cardinal in the beautiful snow covered trees and the entire Red group got to see it fly away.

David, Jeff, Ashley and Ashley, followed opossum tracks across the bridge. Ben, Bryan, Randy, Eric, Jeff, Ashley and Ashley saw that rabbit tracks have a rectangular pattern and squirrel tracks have a square pattern.

Barb, Sonny, and Ellen taught the kids how to figure out which way the animals were going and if they were going fast or slow.

Everybody saw rabbit scat and learned that scat contains the things that the person or animal ate. Ben, Bryan and Amanda thought it was neat when Ellen opened rabbit scat and showed that it was made of bark and didn't stink.

Kate and Matt reported that they saw bees. Yes, bees in winter! As the blue group was walking down the trail, they saw two bee hives made out of wood and metal and inside it was 90degrees. They also heard a humming noise!

Ashley Cochran spotted the squirrel scamper around the tree limbs, on the ground and disappear into his hole in the tree. People in the red group then watched the squirrel move about the tree limbs and pop out of its hole in the tree. Did you know that its summer home is a nest in a tree and that its winter home is a hole in a tree?

We have a picture of Lora Jo holding a dried mouse and making a funny face because she did not like it. Eric laughed and tried to pick it up.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH?

Chad Piwoni feels that "the best thing that happened at Riveredge was that I got to eat a worm." He later said that the worm was "found inside a gall and I enjoyed eating the worm even though it had no taste." (Mustard was not available).

Chad also reported that he saw a deer running in the woods. It was a four point buck, and BIG and brown and the most beautiful sight he ever saw. He saw deer browse and from that he did not think deer have sharp teeth.

The blue and red groups saw deer tracks, deer browse, and a deer skull. They also learned that deer have more teeth on the bottom jaw than on the top.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH THIS TIME?

After their walk in the woods, Kate, Tamara, Matt, Randy, Chad, Lora, and Jim and Jane Korth went into the main Riveredge building to look at owl pellets.

Kate says, "the best thing at Riveredge was the owl pellets."

The blue group opened up an owl pellet and saw animal bones. "We had to pull the bones out of the hair." Matt enjoyed pulling the pellets apart. He found a skull. The teeth were orange and jagged and sharp. Some think it was a mouse. Others think it was a muskrat skull. Kate found a claw and Tamara found the lower jaw. They found that owls eat their prey whole and have to spit up what they can't digest.

In the room where they studied owl pellets, the blue group saw a wolf, a goose and a wildcat. They were real but they were stuffed with stuffing!

SKULL STORY

Near the end of our visit at Riveredge, Ellen showed our group some animal skulls and asked us to identify the type of animal by observing the teeth. We looked at four different skulls and could tell if they were Carnivore, Herbivore or Omnivore. We looked at muskrat, deer, and skulls and could tell by the shape of their teeth what kinds of food they eat. Jeff liked looking at skeletons.

Everybody also learned that even though they were bundled up they still got cold when they were observing or listening and not moving.

Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday --- was it worth it?

Up, Up and Away... KMS Students Construct, Test Hot Air Balloons

Forgive the students from the Kewaskum Middle School Tech Ed Aerospace course for starting off into space recently. It's just that they were in the KHS Fieldhouse checking out the progress of the hot air balloons they had made.

For the fourth consecutive year, students studying aerospace in Mr. Drexler's Tech Ed course created hot air balloons from a pattern, using tissue paper and glue, to test the principles of lift. Students prepared reports on ballooning topics and then prepared their own balloons for the flight.

Different from previous years, however, this year's testing was conducted indoors to corral the balloons, as well as to allow for some testing for buoyancy, and determining what weight could be added to make the balloon float at one level, instead of head for the skies.

Mr. Drexler brought a small's air, and Mr. Soller's KHS Physical Science class was on hand to help log the results.

"This is the first year we've included buoyancy," said Mr. Drexler about the added step of adding weights to the small student-constructed baskets attached to the balloons.

"With something like this," he continued, "you really don't know how it's going to go, but this was very successful. I'm very happy with it."

Before the flights, however, some of the students weren't exactly brimming with confidence.

"We weren't sure it would go up," revealed Ryan Greenwald, member of the team that titled its black, yellow and orange balloon, "Archimedes' Principle," after the mathematician that helped demonstrate buoyancy. "It had a couple of holes, and when we tried it before, it just kind of sat there."

But in the Fieldhouse, it rose. They all did, from the black and yellow "Hornet" to the pink and white "Air Rocky," to an unnamed balloon made from yellow and white panels.

"Air Rocky" team member Heather Hackbarth shared similar sentiments, "I didn't think ours would go up, but I was happy when it did."

Teammate Jessica Schmidt agreed and added, perhaps more importantly, "And we learned how buoyancy works."

So, if you're ever looking for an activity that combines fun, ingenuity and learning, just try looking up.

"Archimedes' Principle" team members debate the prospect for success as their balloon prepares for lift off.

"Air Rocky" team members, from right: Jessica Schmidt, Heather Hackbarth, and Adriel Shulka wait as Mr. Drexler heats their balloon's air.

It's There, Blooming by AMi

Sometimes the wonders of nature really baffle me! Like the one plant we are told traces its ancestry to pre-historic days. Inceedy to the lovely skunk cabbage found so abundantly in Wisconsin has always been one of my favorite spring miracle plants...and I use the word "miracle" because to me it's a miracle maker in a number of ways:

How many plants do we recognize that bloom amidst the snow and ice frosting the earth in March? In all of my many years on earth, March 15th has been the usual latest date that this hardy plant pokes its rather ugly bloom-head out searching for sunshine in its swampy environment. And in spite of the March winds and frequent blizzards it persists to the warmer days when it unfurls its beautiful huge green leaves dotting the wetlands with what to me looks very much like lovely bright green bows which the Lord himself uses each spring to remind us of the new surge of life which He deigns occur following the dormant months of every winter.

And to top it all, if you are courageous enough to give it a try...pluck some of these luscious leaves during their very light green just unfurled stage...take them home and after a good rinsing, toss them into a huge kettle adding water and a tablespoon of baking soda...cook them like you cook spinach or Swiss Chard -- you'll find them to be an early spring vegetable treat. I usually squeeze out the water and place them in a bowl...add a turner slice of onion and two, a little milk, a beaten egg...a touch of salt & pepper...mix and then add a bit of raw onion and fry this in butter. Unbelievably good.

Indeed, nature has many marvelous foods including, of course, the fabulous tan sponge-like May fast growing Morel mushroom. Here, again, simply rinse them in salt water to remove any bugs or worms, slice them in half and dust them with flour and fry slowly in butter. Fantastic! And do to take the time to SEE THE SKUNK CABBAGE IN FULL BLOOM... and experience the miracle of miracles.

Perhaps next month I'll share with you the spring flowers which taste exactly like sweet peas fresh out of the pod...until then, prepare for the oncoming "green up" time of 1997.

Two Sweet Victories for KHS Girls

By Sally N. Cochran

The girls basketball team had an excellent week last week, winning both of their games. Tuesday they were up against Kiel and on Friday, despite the awful weather, Sheboygan Falls traveled into town.

Tuesday night's game was a very low scoring four quarters. The final score of the game was only 27-17. "Our defense was working great together," Coach Dave Rizzardi said, adding, "We were able to keep their score down, but at the same time we couldn't get our offense going to score more points."

Tiffany Laubach and Jackie Haas scored the most points, six, on Tuesday. Rizzardi commented, "When Jackie scored the four points in the fourth quarter, that secured the game for us."

The team managed to put everything together in the fourth quarter and it paid off with their first road victory of the season.

The game with Sheboygan Falls had the same outcome as the Kiel game, but definitely not the same content. The excellent defense of Missy Thull combined with the awesome shooting of Jenny Kraft, who scored 14 points in the game, gave the girls the victory over Sheboygan Falls, 43-30.

"I could see a lot of improvement with all the girls," Coach Rizzardi said. The Indians were ahead at the half, 17-13, but then held them back even more to secure the win. Sheboygan Fall's Jamie Lorenz, an excellent player, was held to only two points in the second half of the game.

Friday night's game was sweet, giving the girls a three-game winning streak, going into tournament play, which started this week on Tuesday. Kewaskum hosted Slinger in the first round. No score was available at press time.

The KHS girls are four and eight in conference, which gives them fifth place, tied with Chilton.

One Thousand Apply For Spring Turkey Permits

MADISON -- More than 100,000 hunters applied for the record 92,215 wild turkey permits available for the 1997 Wisconsin spring turkey hunting season. The Department of Natural Resources mailed permits in early February, so successful applicants should have already received their permits, says Tom Howard, DNR turkey specialist in Dodgeville.

Wisconsin's wild turkey population has continued to grow, which has allowed the DNR to increase permits available for the spring turkey season nearly every year, Howard says. There were 75,597 permits available for the spring 1996 season and 68,353 permits available for the 1995 spring season.

Hunters harvested a record 19,000 turkeys during the 1996 spring season, the 13th consecutive harvest record since the season began.

The spring turkey season is conducted in six five-day periods beginning April 16. Each period runs Wednesday through Sunday. The last period ends May 25. The bag limit is one bearded or male turkey per permit.

"Despite the severity of the winter last year, turkey survival was very good, which shows us these are very resilient birds," he said. "There are areas of deep snow in several northern turkey zones again this year, but in general, this winter's weather has not been as severe. That makes us fairly confident there will be good survival this year too. However, we are only halfway through the winter, so conditions could still deteriorate."

Landowners, who are given a preference in the permit drawing, received 13,194 permits. There were 8,318 hunters who received two permits, primarily because they applied for permits in later time periods and in zones for which there was a greater chance of receiving two permits.

The highest number of permits were issued in zones three and 23, with 7,800 and 6,000, respectively. The highest number of second permits were issued in zones two, 11, and 13, with 967, 1,231, and 887 respectively. DNR officials expect another excellent spring hunt in 1997.

Howard encourages beginner and novice turkey hunters to attend one of the free Turkey Hunter Education Clinics offered around the state. The clinics, sponsored by the Wisconsin Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation and the DNR, cover turkey biology and the ethics and safety aspects of turkey hunting.

"The clinics offer an excellent opportunity for hunters to meet experienced turkey hunters and share tactics for bagging a gobbler," Howard says.

Dziedzic to Make Fourth Trip to State Competition

Dziedzic, Schnabel Going to State

By Sally N. Cochran

Kewaskum is sending two of their top wrestlers on to the state tournament this weekend in Madison.

Joel Dziedzic wrestled a very tight match to clinch the victory at the sectional tournament on Saturday. At 135 pounds, he was up against Campbellsport's tough Clint Dexter, who Dziedzic also had to defeat during regional play.

"They may meet each other again at the state competition," said Coach John Nell.

This will be Dziedzic's fourth consecutive year competing at the state level. During his first trip to state, as a freshman, Joel came in fifth as he was defeated in his first match by Chris Voelker of Ellsworth.

During consolation play, Joel overtook Cory Baehman of Weyawega-Fairmont 4-3 in overtime setting up a match with Brad Koele of Lake Mills. Dziedzic then pinned Koele for the fifth place position.

As a sophomore in 1995, Dziedzic returned to state competition meeting Voelker again in the first round. Joel had Voelker in a precarious position late in the match with the score tied 2-2. But, instead of going for the takedown, he tried for something more and was penalized for an illegal hold. That penalty point turned out to be the difference in the match, which Voelker won 3-2.

Nell later explained that Dziedzic had Voelker in what is called a figure four position, while the two wrestlers were still standing. In that type of hold, Dziedzic's leg had to be directly behind Voelker's knee. Joel was trying to get more leverage for a subsequent takedown and slid his leg around Voelker's calf, instead, constituting a scissor's hold, which was illegal.

The loss sent Dziedzic into the consolation bracket where he met Tyson Karchefski of Kimberly. He pinned Karchefski late in the match, setting up a fifth place match against Lady-smith's Toby Swanson. Swanson, who according to Coach Nell was a "master of the cradle move," caught Dziedzic offguard in the cradle move twice, sending Dziedzic home with a sixth place finish as a sophomore.

In his third year at state, as a junior in 1996, Dziedzic became the third wrestler in KHS history to advance to the finals. In quarter final play, Joel was paired up against Chad Fritzl from Stanley-Boyd. After leading the match late in the third period, Joel pinned Fritzl with eight seconds remaining. His next opponent in the semi-finals was Chas

Trembl of Luxembour-Casco. He decisioned Trembl by a score of 4-1.

In the finals, Joel faced Matt Olson of Cuba City. This was Olson's third trip to the state finals and the competition between the two wrestlers was intense. Entering the third period, relatively evenly matched, Olson did an ankle takedown to take the lead and with seconds remaining Joel tried desperately to escape while the last few seconds ticked away. The score ended 5-4 in a fantastic match, where Joel came in as runnerup.

As a senior this year, Dziedzic has the experience to win it all and the entire community will be keeping an eye on this match. Everyone will be pulling for Dziedzic and is hoping the fourth trip will be the charm and the magic number for Joel to bring home the coveted crown he so richly deserves for all his efforts.

Glen Schnabel, who also had to wrestle a Campbell-sport opponent, Travis Ebert, in the championship round, ended up losing his match, but still took second place which qualifies the 160 pound wrestler for the state tournament.

The other two Kewaskum High School wrestlers who competed in the sectional tournament, lost during the first round of competition. John Immel at 119 pounds and Eric Kopecky at 152 pounds, "did a fine job," commented Coach Nell.

Kopecky had to wrestle

Gillis from New Berlin, who ended up advancing to the state tournament.

"The wrestlers from our regional did excellent, just as I suspected," Coach Nell commented. Thirteen of the wrestlers advancing on to the state tourney came from the regional held here in Kewaskum. That is half of the number going from the Slinger sectional to the tournament in Madison. Campbellsport will be advancing six wrestlers. Division Two wrestling starts Friday morning.

Early Trout Season Begins on March 1

MADISON -- Wisconsin will have its first early trout season in three years this spring when a new and expanded season begins on March 1. The new season format is designed to provide quality fishing opportunities without harming the trout population, explains Larry Claggett, a coldwater fisheries ecologist with the Department of Natural Resources.

"This new early trout season protects the resource by requiring anglers to use only artificial lures with barbless hooks, and they must immediately release all trout they catch," Claggett says. "Studies have shown that the survival rate of trout caught and released with artificial lures is very high, averaging about 95%."

Claggett says using barbless hooks will aid in the release of trout, and that anglers can either purchase special barbless hooks or pinch the barb down flush with the shank of the hook.

The new season is open on all inland trout streams, with the exception of Great Lakes tributaries three inland streams and all lakes, ponds, and spring ponds. The streams closed are: the West Branch of the White River in Waushara County - which is home to a rare inland population of self-sustaining rainbow trout; the two portions of the Tomorrow River in Portage County that are designated as category five in the Trout Regulations; and the White River and its tributaries upstream from Pikes Bridge in Bayfield County (these streams are closed because they have concentrated spawning areas).

Great Lakes tributaries are streams that drain into Lake Michigan or Lake Superior and have rules that govern migratory trout and salmon up to, generally, the first lake or dam (see the Trout Fishing Regulations for specifics). Lake Michigan tributaries are open year round and most of the Lake Superior tribu-tries open March 29.

Wisconsin had an early trout season that was in effect for 20 years in eight southwestern counties and allowed trout harvest in most waters.

"Some anglers criticized the old season because it only included eight counties and may have resulted in too many big trout being taken in some waters," Claggett says. "The new season addresses those concerns because it is open statewide and is catch-and-release only."

Some people have also expressed concern over an early season because anglers may be wading in trout streams when some eggs and fry are still in the nests, or redds.

"Other states that have early or year-round seasons have not seen harmful effects," Claggett says. "And here in Wisconsin we actually saw natural reproduction improve in many streams in the southwest during the former early season." However, because damage to eggs is possible. Claggett says fisheries biologists recommend that anglers avoid wading near riffle areas where redds are usually located.

The state Natural Resources Board has also directed the DNR to study and evaluate the effect of wading on natural reproduction. Anglers will be surveyed on four streams to estimate fishing pressure and wading, and six streams will be electrofished to estimate natural reproduction.

"That will give us an estimate of angler use and wading, and will allow us to compare reproduction to past years and to streams that are closed," says Claggett. "If problems are found the season could be altered."

The Natural Resources Board established the season on a temporary basis as an additional safeguard. The season will expire after 1999 unless the board takes action to extend it.
