Village Park and Ride Lot Dropped

by Lana Harbeck Kuehl

The proposed village park and ride lot project, which was to be constructed at the corner of Highways 45 and 28, was officially dropped by members of the Kewaskum Village Board at Monday evening's meeting.

According to Village Administrator Dan Schmidt bids for the project were opened on February 17, with Runge Excavating coming in with the lowest bid of $62,411. Schmidt explained to date, the village had "roughly $7,000 plus" invested into the project which was estimated to cost $44,500. The state was expected to fund $40,500 of that amount.

He stated the village was aware they would be another $4,000 to $6,000 short because of a driveway, lowering the sidewalk and engineering costs after the grant was approved. In spite of that, the low bid still came in nearly $20,000 over the grant amount.

Schmidt added during discussion with the village engineers and the contractors present at the bid opening, after Department of Transportation representatives had left, he was informed that it was a state highway project and "if you did this on your own, it would have been that much less."

Adding another point, Schmidt stated normally when putting in a parking lot, it is estimated to cost $1,800 per stall. When this project was started, because of the type of lot the village was interested in installing, it was estimated it would cost $2,000 for each stall. With the bids that were received, the cost rose to approximately $3,200 per stall.

He then went on to explain the options available to the board regarding the proposed project.

The first option was to proceed with the project, moving the monies needed from the restricted fund to cover the additional $20,000 to $25,000 cost.

The second option included applying for a supplemental grant which on a 80-20 split, Schmidt estimated the village would be "lucky" to pull in an additional $5,000.

The third option was to reject all the bids and rebid the project entirely. A DOT official doubted if the village would receive a lower bid than the original one, and it was felt if the project was rebid, the bids would go up substantially.

The fourth option would be to reject the bids, drop the grant totally and reapply for a new grant using projected costs of $90,000, and bid the project, hopefully in 1999, but on a 20-10 split, the village portion would still be around $20,000. Additional problems that could be found with this option include not getting the grant approved the second time around; the county driveway access may be denied, and in 1999, in all probability, the bids could come in even higher.

Reject the bids, drop the entire project, cut the losses and put the budgeted money elsewhere was the fifth option.

The sixth and final option was to strip the project back considerably. However, doing that could mean the loss of the grant entirely; the elevation would have to be changed and parking stalls could be lost. At very best, a savings of only $15,000 would be realized.

The Administrator and the Director of Public Works, along with the village engineers, agreed option five was the smartest way to handle the now-deflated project.

Trustee Gary Gavin stated, "I think if the village really wants a park and ride, we've got the parking area already. (The former Sentry lot). We don't need to spend that kind of money."

Disappointed, Village President Bob Wagner agreed, commenting, "it was a real positive thing and they want everybody to go and improve air pollution, turn to car pooling and improve transit... it's frustrating to see this is the way it works out. It's a sad

Winter Parking Ban Lifted in Village

By Lana Harbeck Kuehl

Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles asked the Village Board Monday evening to lift the annual winter parking ban normally in effect until April 1.

According to Village Administrator Dan Schmidt, during the last six of the past 15 years the parking ban was initiated, it was dropped the first meeting in March. The other nine years, the ban was dropped the second meeting in March.

The board voted unanimously to lift the parking ban, effective immediately, contingent on the fact that a snow emergency may be declared any time weather conditions so warrant. If a snow emergency is in order, it will be announced over local radio station WBKV-WBWI. Until that time, it is again safe to park on village streets.

Kewaskum Chevrolet Sold to Nodell Cadillac

Kewaskum Chevrolet has been purchased by the owners of Nodell Cadillac, Gregory M. Marx and Cherylanne Marx. The transaction took place February 23, 1998.

Kewaskum Chevrolet was approached by the Marx's several months ago to buy the dealership. Negotiations were friendly and cordial. Chevrolet also had to approve the deal. With the success of this cooperative effort the transaction was closed and Kewaskum Chevrolet is now called Nodell Chevrolet.

Nodell Chevrolet will maintain many of the original sales and service personnel. The Marx's want their customers to recognize the people they have been doing business with over the years. They want to maintain the hometown country Chevrolet theme in advertising and the way business is done at Nodell Chevrolet.

The Marx's have owned

Nodell Cadillac for a little more than a year now. Since owning Nodell Cadillac, the coveted master dealer award was presented to them in their first year in business. Many Cadillac dealers never in their history have achieved this award. The master dealer of the year award is only awarded to the top dealers in customer satisfaction, sales and test scores of their employees. Nodell Cadillac is the only Cadillac dealer in Wisconsin who won the master dealer of the year award this year!

Customer satisfaction is paramount to the success of Nodell Cadillac and Nodell Chevrolet.

Gregory M. Marx and Cherylanne Marx also own Business Associates, a business real estate firm, a plastics firm, two leasing companies and the two dealerships.

Special Parent Night Planned

1998 vs 1988 - Any real change? Has the high school senior of 1998 grown up in a world that is substantially different than, say, the world of a 1988 senior? The answer is yes. Many of the differences can be marked by the advent of new technologies. Computers, VCRs, video games, virtual reality, MTV are all status quo. Not so 10 years ago.

Some real differences are not technology related. Take for example the existence of the HIV virus and AIDS. Seniors in '88 could remember when they first heard about this scary new disease in Jr. High. A senior today cannot remember a time when AIDS did not exist. One of the unnerving sides of the AIDS epidemic is that it has occurred during a time of unprecedented technological development. While virtually the entire world has become computer literate and connected via the internet, AIDS has stood as a mocking reminder that we are, after all, still human with problems we cannot solve.

Rapid technological advancement is nothing new in America, in fact, it's part of our identity. But technological changes combined with other social developments like single parent families, rampant teen pregnancy, abortion, ever increasing violence, gang culture in even rural America, etc., leave today's teen searching for at least a few things that do not change. Teens desperately need a value system that works.

The senior of 1998 is living in a much different world than his counterpart of ten years ago. Yet in many ways his needs are the same. He needs a value system that will see through what will undoubtedly be a decade of even greater change as we pass the year 2000.

The Kewaskum School District invites the public and all parents to join Everett Darren of Ohio on Tuesday, March 10, 1998 at 7:00 p.m. in the Kewaskum Middle School gymnasium. Mr. Darren is a singer, songwriter and national youth motivational speaker with a heart for kids and a message for parents. Hear what he has learned as he has traveled the country encouraging our youth. Free child care will be provided.

Everett will speak to parents March 10, Campbellsport students on March 11, Kewaskum students on March 12 and at Teen Breakaway at the West Bend High School Auditorium on Friday, March 13.

For more information, call Marilyn Terlinden 334-7243.

Klessig Descendants Join Forces to Save Saxonia House

By Sharon Callaway Roznik

Last August a family reunion brought 400 descendants of Ernst Klessig into Fillmore to celebrate their heritage. Among the relatives were Paul and Mary Williams of Janesville.

Now the Williams are working to save a part of that heritage, the 150 year old Klessig homestead located on 78 acres along Highway M in the Town of Fillmore.

Known as the Saxonia House, the main building once functioned as a lively German Inn, and has been historically identified as the largest standing half-timber frame house in Wisconsin, and one of the most significant examples of German architecture in the state.

The Saxonia House was built in 1855 by German immigrant Ernst Klessig, who arrived in Wisconsin at age 18 from Saxony, Germany in the year 1846. The new family home boasted 17 rooms, and served as an Inn for travelers, a post office and store, dance hall, and first gathering place for the Town of Farmington's Turn Verein (Turners). Klessig's efforts were welcomed in the newly-formed immigrant community, and the house was a center of activity for the new settlers.

One of the homestead's most compelling features are the stone-lined caves hollowed from a hillside in 1860, and still intact. The site once stored kegs of home-brewed beer Klessig served up in foamy glasses at the Inn. In 1879, the brewery turned out 741 barrels of stout ale.

Lawyer Mary Williams and her husband, Paul, toured the house and grounds during last year's reunion, after discovering the house and property were for sale. "We didn't know all these people existed, we'd never met them," Paul said of his long lost relatives, the reunion, and how they discovered them via the internet. Mary's great-great-grandfather was Ernst's brother.

The couple, along with a core group of relatives, got together and decided their ancestral home was worth trying to save. "We realized a developer might want to tear down the buildings and subdivide the property," Williams said. "Some of us started brainstorming about ways to keep this German heritage alive."

The original construction of Saxonia House is strong enough to save the building as an example of German "fachwerkbau." The method involves building a structural frame out of timbers, and filling in with bricks or other materials. Some "fachwerk" houses, such as this one, were covered with stucco, and are so strong, they last for generations.

The group hopes to purchase and restore the Klessig homestead, which includes the three story building, along with a brick summer kitchen, storage shed, barn and beer caves. The surrounding acreage is comprised of fields, wetlands, woods and streams.

If enough funds can be raised, the 150-year-old site will be transformed into a living history museum, complete with a mid-nineteenth century inn and a working brewery. Guests could spend the night and enjoy a weekend of German hospitality, wander through gardens along nature trails, and learn traditions and skills brought to this country from Germany.

The campaign to raise the estimated $1.5 million needed for restoration is well underway, and support is being sought from the 850 known descendants of the Klessigs, as well as the public, the state's German American community, and groups interested in historic preservation.

"Friends" accepted offer of $175,000 to purchase the property is contingent upon raising the needed funds to purchase and partially restore the property.

Organizers are also counting on donated time, skills, materials and talents to see the dream through. "Whatever you do, wherever you live, regardless of your income or your experience, we can use your help," Williams said.

A newsletter issued the first of this year, echoes the sentiments and great ambitions of Saxonia House supporters, describing what it once was and could be again:

"The food is hearty, the beer is stout, the land is fertile, the air is clean, the work is hard, the dancing raucous, the singing is harmonious, the prayers are sincere, and sleep comes easily. Now put yourself in that picture -- sleeping, eating, working, walking, playing and learning in the same place with a museum, beer garden, and nature trails to enjoy and pass on to other generations."

To help with the Saxonia House project, write to Mary and Paul Williams in care of Friends of the Saxonia House, 20 S. Main, Janesville, WI 53545. You also can call (608) 755-1674 or visit the group's Web site: www.geocities.com/Heartland/Ranch/2858.

Built in 1855 by Ernst Klessig, the Saxonia House is the largest standing half timber frame (fachwerk) house in Wisconsin. Efforts are now underway to preserve this historic site.

The beer caves were built into a hillside, and used to store hundreds of kegs of ale brewed in Klessig's nearby brewery.

Memories

Getting "back on track" after detouring off of Main Street for a tad, we arrive at the west corner of Main and Railroad Streets, at the site of the old Kewaskum depot. The depot is now only a fond memory of area residents who happened to have had the dubious honor of celebrating their fortieth (or more) birthday. If you are any younger than that, you probably are not fortunate enough to remember the lumbering old historic landmark.

The first train passed through Kewaskum in 1872 and the line was completed from Milwaukee to Fond du Lac in March of 1873.

The Northwestern Union Railroad was organized in February, 1871 as the Milwaukee and Northwestern. In May, 1872 its corporate name changed to the Northwestern Union Railroad, and it was consolidated with the Chicago and Milwaukee Railway Company in January of 1881. The line was subsequently consolidated with the Chicago and Northwestern Transportation Company in June, 1883.

A one story frame railroad depot measuring 22' by 96' was built in Kewaskum in 1876 to provide for the safety and comfort of the passengers. The structure, which was built at a total cost of $4,003, was torn down in 1967. Throughout the years various men have served as railroad agents:

Anthony Schaeffer, Frank Gottsleben, R.N. Gage, Harold Degner, A.L. Farr, H.J. Altenhofen and Joe Oppenorth, among others. Charles Moorer was the first agent, arriving in Kewaskum in 1873.

According to Helen Felix, before cars and when not everyone could afford a car, the trains and depot were the center of activity. People would congregate to watch the trains come and go. There were many passenger trains and several tracks in Kewaskum.

Residents would take a morning train to go to the big city of Milwaukee and come back on an evening train the same day.

Before Kewaskum had a high school, pupils would take a morning train to go to West Bend, where there was a two-year high school, and return later in the day or early evening.

A local boy, Emerson Olwin, was a conductor on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway. When traveling on the train, the local people always looked for Emerson. He was very friendly and when punching tickets, he would chat for awhile.

Stories were told that sometimes a passenger would get off the train and make a quick purchase at the Marx grocery store. How this was accomplished was the big question, since the depot was on the east side of the tracks and the Marx store was on the west side.

Jake Rempel was the gateman. He had his station in a little house up high right near the tracks. He would come down and put up Stop and Go signs when a train approached. At that time there were no gates and many trains. Sometimes when freight trains would unload, it was a very long wait for horse drawn wagons, pedestrians or a few cars to cross the tracks.

During World War II, a trainload of soldiers stopped in Kewaskum. A local lady walked from window to window and kissed the soldiers.

KHS School-to-Work Works

Tending to the offset lithography press for the KHS School-to-Work printing venture is senior Adam Helsell. Adam and his two co-workers learn all the printing tasks because they rotate assignments on a daily basis.

KHS junior Jana Goratowski lines up a cut to finish up a printing job. KHS staff, along with other district personnel, contract with the KHS printing program to design and print copies for use in classrooms and the district.

Besides the usual thorough high school preparations for the real world, some students at Kewaskum High School have also taken another very large step on the road to their careers.

A program at KHS (and throughout Washington County) called "School-to-Work" allows students the chance to actually work in the community in a field of their interest, as a possible precursor to a career.

Through the School-to-Work program, KHS students learn valuable career skills and gain hands-on experience while working for area businesses. This year more than 20 students are taking part. Students in the program do earn credit towards graduation, as well as a wage paid by the business, but there's much more to it than that.

"It gives students the chance to work in the career field they would like to pursue after graduation," said KHS instructor Mrs. Martin, who oversees students in the program, along with KHS instructors Mr. Amundson and Mr. Schatz (as program supervisors, they keep close tabs on student progress and employer expectations).

Currently, program students can be found in businesses from clinics to preschools to banks to restaurants to tool and die operations (to name but a few), learning more about fields ranging from medicine to education to restaurant management to the technical skills needed in today's work force.

"It's a look into their future career," described Mr. Schatz. "The kids not only get practical experience, they get an idea if this is a career they would really enjoy."

Three students looking into the printing industry, Adam Helsell, Jana Goratowski and Amanda Janz, currently run a printing business from KHS, under the supervision of Mr. Amundson.

Each of the three students is involved in everything from design and layout to delivery to mastering the use of an offset lithography press, along the lines of those found in area printing companies. The printing operation is in its initial year at KHS, and runs daily from 7 to 8:30 a.m.

"It's helped me learn a lot about the printing industry," said Adam.

Mr. Amundson says of the printing business, "It's working out great. The students are gaining graphics experience, but they're also learning things like getting in on time, doing a good job, and the satisfaction of seeing a finished product."

Amanda added, "It's showed me more of what I can do, what I can expect (from a printing career)."

"Even if a student decides that the field is not for them, that's still an important thing to realize," explained Mrs. Martin.

Not only do the students gain, it seems that so does the community.

"In the years I've done this," said Mrs. Martin, "we've never had a business refuse a co-op student. In fact, there are businesses that call requesting our students. It puts our students out in the community in a very positive light."

Such involvement and dedication -- of community, school and students -- have helped many students get a jump on their careers over the years.

And, it seems assured, there will be many more to come.

'A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum' at UWWC

A combination of some of the merriest forms of clowning that have kept audiences laughing for 21 centuries, since they first set Romans to guffawing in the Colosseum in 200 B.C., is coming to the University of Wisconsin Washington County Theatre-on-the-Hill for a series of performances March 6, 7, 13, 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the University Theatre.

This is the musical comedy called "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," which scored a 28-month run in New York from 1962 to 1964, brightened life for theatre goers in 44 other cities during a road tour, and in London and Paris.

The central figure is Pseudolus, a slave with a shrewd mind and a desire to obtain his freedom by playing on the desires of his young master and the young master's lascivious though aging father, for the same girl. Named Philia, she is the most delectable item among a girl-purveyor's stock in trade and the plot's complication is that she has already been optioned by a Roman warrior and is being kept on reserve for him by the girl-trader pending his return from some war or another.

The racy antics of the plot follow Pseudolus as he piles desperate deceptions upon previous deceptions in order to arrange matters satisfactorily for his two masters, father and son, and to keep the old man's battleaxe of a wife from spoiling the fun. The "chase" climax comes when Pseudolus must try to keep two characters disguised as Philia, and Philia herself, from meeting head on.

The keynote of the evening's shenanigans is set at the beginning when Pseudolus, abetted by three Proteans (so-called because they are utility men filling many roles in the show) sing the introductory song, "Comedy Tonight." The tomfoolery goes into higher gear when, soon after, Pseudolus with Senex, Hysterium and Lycus as a quartet of wily slaves and old codgers, devastate a comic song "Everybody Ought to Have a Maid."

These and the other songs of the show were written by Stephen Sondheim, lyricist for such other well-known Broadway hits as "West Side Story," "Gypsy" and "Do I Hear a Waltz?"

The tongue-in-cheek blending of the world's oldest and most sure-fire gags into the libretto of "A Funny Thing" was accomplished by Burt Shevelove and Larry Gelbart. The deliberate corniness of their antic is signaled by the very title they chose, as a parody of the ripe old line favored by so many comedians when introducing a joke in the days of vaudeville, "A funny thing happened to me on the way to the theatre tonight."

Shevelove and Gelbart, both long experienced as film and TV writers, drew the dizzy complications of their plot, and the humorous abundance in the lines ("There's a joke in every line," reported Variety, "the laugh tempo is so high that some quips are lost in the audience's uproar,") from the plays of Plautus, the ancient Roman who was pagan Rome's most successful writer in catering to the leering audience-preference of his time for improper jokes. Plautus also was the writer most often adopted or plagiarized every since, by Shakespeare, Moliere and innumerable others.

Professor Brad Ford is the director of this rib-tickler, whose chief chore is to space its laughs for the sake of audience safety.

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" is playing at the UWWC Theatre March 6, 7, 13, 14. All performances 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $7 for adults/$5 for seniors and under 18. UWWC students are free with a student I.S. Reservations can be made by calling 414-335-5208.

MADISON UPDATE: Indian Nicknames and Car Crashes

By Rep. Glenn Grothman

While the state legislature weighs what to do with the estimated $310 million surplus, some legislators are up to their old tricks, trying to ban certain nicknames from being used by public schools.

Senate Bill 341 bans the following from being used as a nickname, logo, or mascot: Apaches, Blackhawks, Braves, Chiefs, Chieftains, Indies, Indians, Raiders, Red Raiders, Redmen, Warhawks, and Warriors. This would mean that we no longer have the Kewaskum Indians or the Northern Ozaukee Warriors.

Proponents of this bill claim that Indian mascots perpetuate the notion of Indians wearing headdresses and acting like Hollywood stereotypes. Interestingly, the Indian casinos use a similar logo as part of their promotional activities and the Chief of the Lac Courte Oreilles tribe had the Governor smoke a peace pipe at the signing of the recent gambling compact.

More importantly, these people who introduced the bill are perpetuating the idea that we live in a racist, intolerant society. Of course, the reason high schools choose these nicknames is because they feel that the names signify bravery and self-reliance. In Kewaskum's case, it was done specifically to honor Chief Kewaskum.

Unfortunately, some Native Americans are going to believe the liberals who introduced this bill, and really believe that people in some communities have a low opinion of them. It is time for people who are proud of this country's heritage to defend these mascots and nicknames.

As a sidelight, the Department of Public Instruction estimates that it would cost the 54 school districts using the above names $891,000 to make the necessary changes. One would hope this bill will go nowhere, but a similar bill overwhelmingly passed the state Assembly just five years ago.

On an unrelated note, the Department of Transportation recently released accident figures for 1997. There were 723 fatalities, the least in three years. Even more interestingly, this figures out to only 1.34 fatalities per 100,000 vehicle miles traveled. This is the lowest fatality rate on record. It is now twice as safe to drive a car as it was in 1981, and four times as safe as in 1968.

Some of this is due to ever-improving medical care and the tremendous work of our volunteer fire departments and first responders. In addition, greater use of seat belts and airbags is unquestioningly a factor. Even so, the total number of crashes per mile has dropped by half in the last 30 years, which I believe can be attributed to superior roads. These are particularly good figures in light of the 65-mph speed limit, which some felt would cause the fatality rate to get worse.

I want to hear your views on these and other issues. Please feel free to call me at home, 338-8061. You can also reach me in Madison at the following locations:

Winter Fun at Middle School

Earning the title of Winter Carnival Queen and King were seventh graders Lisa Gessner and Jake Wilson.

It was hard to tell if these were, in fact, eighth grade girls or not on "Baby Day" during the Kewaskum Middle School Winter Carnival.

Winter carnival week came to Kewaskum Middle School, bringing a whole lot of ways to beat the mid-winter blahs. Events during the week included days to dress as hippies and babies. Even Olympic Greco-Roman silver medalist Dennis Hall stopped in to share an inspirational message about setting goals and making choices.

The week ended with a staff-run cookout, paid for by proceeds of the KMS juice vending machine, and an after school carnival/dance, complete with real carnival-style games, and a blasting sound system in the gym.

25 Years Ago

March 2, 1973

Tuesday, March 6, is Spring Primary Election Day throughout the State of Wisconsin. A special referendum will be held by Kewaskum Community Schools, Joint School District No. 2 on the question of whether to borrow the sum of $1,600,000 for the purpose of paying the costs of making permanent improvements of lands, to wit: construction and equipping a new middle school in Kewaskum and remodeling, building and equipping additions to the Farmington, Kewaskum and Wayne Elementary Schools and the Kewaskum Community High School.

A Caucus will be held in the Town of Kewaskum on Saturday, March 3, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Labor Center Hall in Kewaskum for the purpose of nominating candidates for the town offices in the Spring Election on April 3. Two veteran officials of the township, with a combined total of 60 years of service are not candidates for re-election and will not have their names on the Caucus ballot. They are Alfred Seefeldt, who has served as town clerk for 40 years and Arnold Amerling, who has served as a town supervisor for 20 years. Both are retiring from public office. Candidates seeking nomination in the township are as follows: Chairman - Walter Dei, Carl A. Meilahn, Mervin Thompson.

Survivors in the WIAA Split Regional tournament hosted by Kewaskum Tuesday night are the Indians of Kewaskum and Plymouth, who won their games over Random Lake and Campbellsport respectively. Kewaskum and Plymouth now advance to Regional semifinals at Plymouth tonight (Friday) where the Indians and the favored Panthers square off in the opener. In their game Tuesday, Random Lake and Kewaskum both started out wild and cold. A big third quarter, in which the Indians outdistanced the Rams, 23-12, put the game out of reach. Jim Gaffke, the game's top scorer, put on a sparkling performance on outside shooting and at one time the Indians led 25-7. Gafke totaled 27 points, probably his high for the season, followed by soph Scott Koth with 14 and Mike Koepke with 12.

The Green Bay Packers all-star basketball team will appear against Fuzzy's Tap Campbellsport all-stars at the Campbellsport High School gym at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 10, in a Cougar Club athletic benefit. Packer stars who will appear will include Ken Bowman, Clarence Williams, Jerry Tagge, Ray Nitschke, Scott Hunter, Mike McCoy and several others.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of RICHARD HALFMANN, who passed away 12 years ago, March 7, 1986:

You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory lasts,
We will remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes by, we'll miss you more.
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Deeply loved and missed by wife Joyce and family.

Difficult to Believe

by Ami

Most of us have experienced in the past six months the very unusual weather happenings across the world.

For those of us who reside in the central mid-west other than a very warm winter we have not had to meet nature calamities...As have our brothers and sisters in other states.

However, the week of February 15th will ever live in my memory for with my very own eyes I discovered a sight I know I shall never experience again. Indeed, I still just cannot quite grasp that discovery as fact and not fiction!

I, like many of my friends, hold the season of springtime to be my favorite season of each year. And over the years I have kept a few records of springtime experiences. Just to name a few, in our Kettle Moraine area the usual date of the Red wing blackbirds return to our county of Washington has been March 18th. On occasion a week before or a week thereafter. My most favorite wetland plant which grows in such great profusion hereabouts, the lovely greenskunk cabbage usually blossoms by the fifteenth of March. Many a time I escorted doubtful friends to view this wintry phenomenon.

It is a real eye full to see the red speckled, curly leaves bravely embracing the unique cabbage blossom amidst snow and ice! However, the week of February 15th, 1998, as I skied through a Moraine Kettle, there right before my very eyes as if saluting me stood a host of Skunk Cabbage blossoms seemingly announcing the untimely message: "Spring is here; earlier than usual, but true. Ah, beautiful spring."

Immediately it brought to my mind the memory, three years ago, in fall, picking fresh raspberries in my garden during an early, blustery snow storm. Surely dear Mother Nature really does love to fool us human beings.

Just as my dear old grandmother use to warn us during our younger days..."Just ready yourselves for when the wild plum trees put on their fragrant white blossoms, it is sure to snow and if you do not believe me, just talk to the robins. They'll substantiate my words and then some."

I ask you, what would we do without the subject of weather to talk about? Indeed, some of those weather tales are difficult to believe...and even more difficult to live through.

Falling - a Serious Hazard For Those 65 and Older

Did you know: Falling is the leading cause of death from injury in people 65 and over? Over one-third of people over age 65 have at least one fall a year? Medications commonly contribute to fall risk? Dizziness can be a sign of fall risk?

Loosing mobility can rob one of independence and cost thousands of dollars in medical care. According to the U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services, falls are the second greatest cause of economic loss due to injuries in the United States. Forty percent of nursing home admissions are at least partly due to a fall.

Learn to Save A Child's Life

St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend is offering an infant and child CPR class Tuesday, March 10, from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the hospital's fourth floor classroom.

Learn what emergency steps to take if an infant or child stops breathing. CPR and obstructed airway techniques for a choking infant are addressed. Participants can earn American Heart Association recognition.

The fee is $23. Registration is requested by March 10 and may be made by calling the hospital's Class Connection Line at 306-7888.

Hospital Offers Colorectal Screening

St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend and the American Cancer Society are offering home colorectal screening kits to help detect signs of colorectal cancer. The kits are available for pickup Saturday, March 7, from 9 to 11 a.m. in the hospital's visitors' lobby. Instructions are available with the kits, which cost $2. Results of the test are returned to participants within two weeks.

The American Cancer Society recommends an annual colorectal test for people over 50. A stool blood test can reveal the presence of hidden blood in the stool, sometimes a sign of colorectal cancer.

For more information, call St. Joseph's Community Hospital's Class Connection Line at 306-7888.

One out of four people who fall suffer serious injuries including bone fractures.

Studies show that falls are preventable. Individualized exercise programs are proven to improve balance and mobility. To maintain independence and quality of life, multidimensional exercises and improving one's environment are crucial to avoiding falls.

Some tips to averting falls in the home are:

1. Avoid clutter and leaving anything on the floor.

2. Wear shoes with non-slip soles and low heels. Make sure shoe laces are tied.

3. Have carpet secured in all areas. Use rugs sparingly on non-slip surfaces.

4. Use a night light and place a lamp near to the bed to avoid getting out of bed in the dark.

5. Use glasses only when they are meant to be used (i.e. reading glasses for reading not walking around and always use glasses if they are meant to be worn on a regular basis).

6. Do a complete check of interior and exterior walkways for adequate lighting, obstructions, secure handrails and furniture for grabbing onto for support, non-slip floors and level outdoor sidewalks.

For more information on how to avoid falls call Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Agency's Fall Risk Assessment Clinic at 414-334-1486. A physical therapist can provide a professional assessment to uncover the cause for balance problems. An exercise program can be tailored to your or your loved one's individual needs. Reduce the risk of falls through exercise, muscle strengthening and home assessments.

Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Agency is a division of Cedar Campuses, a not-for-profit organization.

School Club Sends Positive Messages

Heart suckers and Valentines were just the most recent ways the Just Say No Clubs of Wayne, Farmington and Kewaskum Elementary Schools sent positive messages throughout their schools.

As part of "Have a Heart Week," the clubs provided the treats to all elementary students and staff, but, more importantly, club members at all three schools visited classrooms to promote positive self-esteem messages, making good choices, and saying no to alcohol and other drugs (the Just Say No Clubs of WES, FES, and KES consists of students in grades three through five, currently with over 100 members).

During the "Have a Heart Week" presentations, students in kindergarten and first grade received coloring books with personal messages from club members about making the right choices. Students in the older grades watched videos and discussed them. Money for the videos, the coloring books, the heart suckers, and Valentines was raised through daily club candy sales at the school, and through a state grant received by the clubs to foster such positive outreach.

As follow-up to a job well done, the regular club meeting, organized by club officers, included games and videos promoting the same positive messages the club shares throughout the year.

New Local Heritage Map Makes a Perfect Sesquicentennial Souvenir

The Washington County Historical Society recently released a new, cultural and historic heritage map of Washington County.

The map includes more than 70 historical highlights from around Washington County, as well as color photos, both contemporary and historic of local sites, events and attractions. The map itself is highly detailed but easily readable, and includes such things as Rustic Roads and portions of The Ice Age Trail.

"Every township is represented with at least one historical fact," says Society Director David Tanner. He also stated, "it was incredibly difficult to pare down all the information available to us, and the whole project was very labor intensive, but it was worthwhile."

The project actually began under the direction of the Washington County Tourism Association, but was nearly scraped last July when the all volunteer group realized how much time would have to be devoted to managing the project. "I wanted it to succeed," says Tanner, "because the county had not had a map like this since the U.S. Bicentennial in 1976, and people were really calling for it."

So, the Washington County Historical Society decided to take it on. Tanner attributes a lot of the work to his volunteers and to Marcia Theusch, the chairman of the project, and to Design Advertising of Beaver Dam.

The current map is a big improvement from the original version of 22 years ago, and Tanner believes that in addition to tourists, a lot of local people will want the map as a keepsake of the State's Sesquicentennial.

Other highlights from the map include tidbits about Maxon Wright, Chief Kewaskum, various state landmarks, the Kohlsville Diamond, B. Schleisinger Weil, Kissel cars, local field-stone churches, Big Cedar Lake, local businesses and more.

The map is available for $1.99 plus tax at the Treasurer's Vault Gift Shop, Old Courthouse Square Museum, 320 S. 5th Avenue, West Bend, as well as several other key locations around Washington County. For more information, please call the Society at (414) 335-4678.

January 27, 1998
7:00 p.m.

The Plan Commission of the Village of Kewaskum, Washington County, Wisconsin, met in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 204 First Street.

President Robert H. Wagner called the meeting to order. Members present were Frank Beesten, Richard Schmidt, Charles Waala, Warren Dums, Theodore Meilahn, Zoning Administrator Gordon Hoffmann and Administrator Daniel Schmidt. A quorum was present. Michael Kimble asked to be excused and was absent.

It should be noted that Trustees Robert Stoltzmann, Gary Gavin, and John Kenworthy were also present.

The meeting was opened with a Moment of Silence and the Pledge of Allegiance.

On a motion by Frank Beesten, seconded by Richard Schmidt and unanimously carried by voice vote, the Commission approved the minutes as printed, for December 9, 1997.

Administrator Daniel S. Schmidt reviewed Section 6 & 7 of the Zoning Ordinance. Several points were brought up for discussion and some of those points need clarification from SEWRPC. It was noted at the next meeting Sections 8 & 9, etc. will be reviewed.

Several points were noted for discussion with SEWRPC:

1) In 6.3 parking requirements the possibility of reducing the number of parking stalls at an elderly housing complex.

3) The number of stalls required for handicapp and the related size of those stalls.

4) In 6.4 the width and definition of driveway islands.

5) In 7.1 raise the height of buildings from 35 feet to 45 feet. Address house chimneys and towers. Also define how and where to measure for height.

6) In 7.2 a review of residential fences as to, fences on stepped terraces, cyclone fences, define hedges, location of fence on or off the lot line, and maintain fences.

Note in discussion that the set back requirements have a clarification on split block zoning example R-1 to R-3.

Administrator Daniel Schmidt reviewed the number of housing units as reflected as of 1-15-98 using the number of building permits issued in 1997.

On a motion by Chuck Waala, seconded by Frank Beesten and carried by majority roll call vote, the Commission adjourned the meeting. Roll call vote was 6 "Aye" 0 "Nay" 1 "Absent."

PreventiveCare™ Program for Equine Wellness Available

Horse owners now can take advantage of a new opportunity to provide good preventive health care for horses. A new program, called PreventiCare™ is being offered by Dr. Mary Hanrahan and Dr. Daniel Bushard at Woodview Veterinary Clinic and is based on the premise that preventive health care is the best way to ensure a horse's lifelong health and well-being. The program, which is co-sponsored by Pfizer Animal Health, emphasizes the use of preventive medicine in horses so that life threatening or debilitating problems can be caught early or averted altogether. PreventiCare features a six-point equine preventive care program:

1. Annual physical examination
2. Annual dental examination/care
3. Immunizations as recommended by their veterinarian
4. Daily prevention of internal parasites with Strongid C or Strongid C2X
5. Twice yearly avermectin

Coulter, Rodenkirch Named Top Agents

At a recent awards banquet, Sandra Evans, Broker/Owner of Coldwell Banker Spectrum Real Estate, announced that Wendy Coulter and Gloria Rodenkirch were named as the top agents at Coldwell Banker Spectrum closing over $8.4 million dollars in 1997.

When asked about their success, Wendy Coulter stated, "Gloria Rodenkirch and I work as a team to provide outstanding service to our clients. By working as a team, one of us is always available to take care of our client's needs."

6. Annual nutrition counseling

PreventiCare showcases the first-ever Colic Assistance Plan™. The program "puts its money where its mouth is," says Pfizer Equine Product Manager Dan Kramer. If an enrolled horse which meets the PreventiCare requirements subsequently requires colic surgery, Pfizer Animal Health will cover the cost of surgery and three days of aftercare, up to $5,000.

"With this program, owners have the peace of mind that comes from knowing that, whatever happens, they have done the best thing for their horses-by providing good preventive care-and will be able to do the best thing for their horses, should colic strike," Kramer emphasizes. "They will not have to choose between colic surgery and euthanasia. Additionally, critical delays from the owner struggling with the economic justification of surgery may be averted, thus improving the horse's chances for survival."

Interested horse owners may enroll through Dr. Mary Hanrahan or Dr. Daniel Bushard, participating local veterinarians. In order to be eligible, horses must be enrolled and meet the six-point program requirements on a yearly basis. In addition, Strongid C and Strongid C2X must be purchased from your enrolling veterinarian, who is also required to administer all components of the program.

"We're sponsoring this program for several important reasons," says Kramer. "While the premise of wellcare for horses is not new, the manner in which this program is offered to horse owners and veterinarians is unique. PreventiCare is our way of expressing our confidence that the veterinarian is the key to providing an effective preventive health care program."

Horse owners interested in enrolling their horse(s) in the PreventiCare program should contact Dr. Mary Hanrahan at Woodview Veterinary clinic for more information.

The public is invited to an informational meeting to be held on Thursday, March 12 at 7:00 PM at Woodview Veterinary Clinic being presented by Dr. Bob Dressler of Pfizer Animal Health.

Famous Irish Lassies Are Better Remembered Than Irish Lads, New Survey Shows

(NAPS)—The wearin' o' the green looks much better on the ladies. When polled by Jameson Irish Whiskey, Americans were more likely to recall the names of famous Irish women.

Maureen O'Hara is best remembered, but when asked about their favorite lassies, consumers overwhelmingly chose Katharine Hepburn, closely followed by Rosie O'Donnell and Meg Ryan.

When asked about popular male personalities, most frequently named Irish men were the Kennedys, with John F. Kennedy Jr., being the most favored. Alec Baldwin, Andy Rooney and Conan O'Brien were among the other favorites named.

"And to be sure," says Karla Varley, brand manager for Jameson Irish Whiskey, whose sentiments turn green for the day, "when it comes to taking a St. Patrick's day nip, people prefer Irish whiskey—Jameson to be exact."

Taxes and Owning a Home

Thinking about buying or selling a home? Happy with the same old homestead? Keep in mind that home ownership and tax returns go hand in hand.

"Whether buying a first home, living in a home for some time, or in the process of selling one, home ownership can have a big effect on income tax returns," the IRS says.

When buying a home, some of the settlement fees and closing costs can be deducted in the tax year the house is bought. These costs include certain real estate taxes, mortgage interest and points that meet certain requirements.

Other costs of buying a home may be included in the basis of the property. "Basis," says the IRS, "is a way to measure the investment in a home for tax purposes." Costs like abstract and recording fees, surveys and owner's title insurance are included in the basis.

For people who itemize deductions, interest on most mortgages secured by a person's first or second home is deductible. In addition, qualifying points on a loan used to buy or improve the main home are usually deductible in the year paid.

Real estate taxes, imposed by state or local governments for the general public welfare, are usually deductible.

The Taxpayer Relief Act, signed into law on August 5, 1997, has ended both the once-in-a-lifetime tax break for people age 55 and older and the replacement home rule when people sell a principal residence. Under the old law, those 55 and older could qualify for an exclusion of up to $125,000 of gain on the home sale. Anyone who, within two years of the sale, bought a replacement home costing at least as much as the selling price of the old residence, would roll over any gain into the basis of the new home, thus postponing taxes. "And they still can," the IRS says, "if they sold their homes before May 7, 1997."

Under the new law, people of any age can exclude up to $250,000 of gain ($500,000 on a joint return) from the sale of a principal residence after May 6, 1997. Unlike the one-time exclusion, this one is allowed once every two years, but only if the person used the home as a principal residence for at least two out of the five years before the sale. If a person sells before satisfying the two-year residency requirement because of a change in employment or health, the exclusion is pro-rated by the percent of the two-year time met. The seller will have to pay tax on any gain exceeding the exclusion—the replacement home rule no longer applies. Those who sold a principal residence after May 6 and before August 6, 1997, may use either the old or new tax rules.

For figuring the gain on the sale of a home, the IRS reminds people to keep accurate records of all items that affect the basis of the home. This includes improvements such as adding a room, finishing a basement or putting up a fence.

More information on buying, owning or selling a home is covered in the following free publications. Call 1-800-829-3676. Or check them out on the Internet at www.irs.ustreas.gov.

Indians Defeat Cedar Grove; Lose EW Season Finale

A Parent's Night crowd was treated to a 62-46 win Tuesday night against non-conference foe, Cedar Grove.

The Indians coaching staff was able to allow plenty of minutes for the entire roster to demonstrate their abilities. Kewaskum broke open a close game, (23-22 at halftime) by outscoring their opponents, 27-6, in the third quarter. The reserves were able to finish out the entire fourth quarter.

David Gerhartz, the lone senior playing his last regular season home game, paced the Indians with 17 points, including four threes. Andy Christophersen had a double, double by scoring ten points and grabbing ten rebounds.

John Warnecke also had ten points while Shaun Timblin played a fine floor game by contributing six steals and five assists.

Coach Tom Timblin reported, "We were happy that Josh Rieder and Doug Wenzel played well. They both practice hard all year, but probably don't receive the minutes they deserve. It was a nice team win."

"We hit 11 of 16 shots in the third quarter," Timblin reported. "Everybody was hustling and making plays."

On Friday evening, the Indians traveled to Sheboygan Falls to challenge the Falcons in the 1997-98 Eastern Wisconsin Conference finale.

The Indians, who had been playing well recently, came out unexpectedly flat and missed their first nine shot attempts. They didn't score until 4-1/2 minutes had elapsed in the first quarter.

Kewaskum slowly battled back to pull within eight points at halftime. They were led by David Gerhartz and Shaun Timblin, who scored seven and five points, respectively.

The Indians whittled the deficit down to one point with five seconds left in the third quarter. The Falcons' Chris Kalk then connected on a three pointer, and then his teammate, Sam Pentz, stole the inbound pass, swishing another three point prayer as the buzzer sounded.

The fourth quarter seasawed back and forth and turned into a free throw shooting contest in the final two minutes. The Falcons converted 10 of 13 in the fourth quarter, compared to the Indians' five of 12. That was the final deciding factor as the Indians succumbed, 66-60.

"Those six points in five seconds at the end of the third quarter took the wind out of our sails," Coach Timblin commented. He added, "We have 10 underclassmen out of 11 players. All these tight games are giving the kids great experience. Next year, we're going to have to step to the next level and close the squeakers."

John Warnecke scored 17 points and had ten rebounds in the second half alone, as he almost single-handedly kept Kewaskum in the game. He finished with a game-high 21 points and 13 boards. Gerhartz added 13 points.

Timblin praised Warnecke's play, stating, "John, (at 6'2") was giving away four inches to their center. What else is new! He was a warrior tonight."

The Indians finished EW play with a disappointing 3-11 record, 6-14 overall.
