Ten-year-old Lauden Belongia, of Kewaskum, is already a winner with her ability to write. She has had her name in print in the June 20-26 1998 issue of TV Guide and has been announced on the Emmy-winning PBS series Arthur.

It all started when Lauden decided to enter a contest sponsored by TV Guide and she was eight-years-old and in the third grade at Holy Trinity School. Each young contestant was challenged to create his or her own episode of the Arthur cartoon. Over 10,000 entries were submitted and Lauden was honored with second place.

"My idea was used on an episode called The Contest," said Lauden. "Arthur himself wants to enter a story contest and have his idea written into a cartoon. His daydream is my idea. The set looks like Dr. Katz (a grown-ups cartoon on Comedy Central). Arthur complains to Dr. Katz that he is 18-years-old and very busy. His younger sister DW keeps bothering him and will not leave him alone."

In September Lauden was notified that the cartoon would air on Oct. 8, Oct. 22 and again on Dec. 17. She received an advanced copy of the episode. At the end of the cartoon Arthur himself announces,

"Thanks to Lauden Belongia, of Kewaskum, Wisconsin."

Lauden also won videos of the Arthur series, books and Arthur dolls all autographed by the Author Marc Brown. She has a certificate congratulating her as second place winner. The Associate Producer of Arthur, Jacqui Deegan, sent Lauden a personal letter encouraging her to keep writing and thanking her for watching Arthur.

BadgerCare Provides Peace of Mind for Young Mom

West Bend, WI -- Eve is a Washington County resident. She is married, the mother of small children, works part-time and has been uninsured for the last two years. Eve could not afford health insurance premiums for herself, though her husband and children did have coverage. Today, thanks to the new state sponsored health care insurance program called BadgerCare, Eve is insured and can afford medical attention.

"I have an ongoing health problem that needs to be monitored. Although I take good care of myself and have been pretty healthy, you never know when something serious can happen. I didn't have insurance for myself because I had to pay the entire premium which is out of the question for us right now...it was over $200 per month just for me," said Eve.

Like 600 other people in Washington County, Eve was living without health insurance because it was just not financially possible. Then, her sister-in-law told her about BadgerCare and Eve made the phone call to social services. "It granted me peace of mind. Now, I know that if something should happen to me I can get it taken care of. Having two young children I can't afford to be out of commission," said Eve.

Many people are reluctant to reach out when they need help, especially if they are employed and trying to make it on their own as a young family on a modest income. "It's hard to take that step and say 'I need help.' For me, I looked at it from the standpoint of I've been paying taxes for over 10 years and right now I need a little bit of help. I'm relieved to be insured again," said Eve.

BadgerCare has made it a lot easier for people to retain their self-respect and get the health insurance that is important for them to remain healthy, working and self-sufficient. "They just wanted my name and address, who was asking for coverage, whether or not we had family health insurance available to us, our ages and birthdates, that was about it. I was actually very surprised how short the pre-application was. It was very simple. The process was a lot simpler than the average insurance application."

Typically, after an initial request for application, which takes a few minutes, an eligibility appointment is made for a 1 - 1 1/2 hour meeting with an economic support specialist. At that appointment, tentative confirmation can be given to determine if you are eligible for the extensive coverage BadgerCare provides.

In order for families to be eligible for BadgerCare there must be a child under the age of 19 living in the home; they must not have current access to health care; and they must have income within the guideline limits.

Most people enrolled in BadgerCare pay a modest monthly premium but the coverage people receive with Badger Care is excellent. "Right now I pay 60 dollars but when you compare it to over $200 for private insurance, it is very reasonable. I like the fact that it's a maintenance plan. I'm seeing my same doctor, and so are my children. It covers check-ups, emergency services, health exams, prescriptions, dental, vision...it's gonna really help a person who's on a budget," said Eve.

"I encourage people to go to social services and ask to fill out an application. You really need to talk to someone...it's worth going in and asking..." said Eve.

For more information, Washington county residents should call Client Registration at 335-4677.

This information is distributed through a cooperative and collaborative partnership effort involving Washington County Department of Social Services, Washington County Health Department, Workforce Development Center and Catholic Charities. The focus of this outreach is to identify and inform Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) eligible families in Washington County of the availability of BadgerCare health insurance as well as the availability of child care subsidies, food stamp assistance and career development training opportunities.

St. Lucas Church Advent Services

The Christmas season is a busy time for nearly everyone. With so many things to do, we need to take a break from the holiday rush.

St. Lucas Lutheran Church, Kewaskum, will be offering an opportunity to take such a break. St. Lucas Lutheran invites everyone to join them for special Wednesday Advent Worship services December 1, 8 and 15.

Services will be held at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. The services will be based on the Christian devotional service, "Prayer at the Close of Day" or "Compline." This service, which has its roots in the Fourth Century A.D., is a quiet meditative prayer service.

In this setting, the church will put all the noise of this busy season in the background, and listen for the glad sounds of the true meaning of the season, namely, that the Lord sent his Son Jesus to be the Savior of the World.

Thanksgiving Services at St. Lucas Church

St. Lucas Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kewaskum, will hold Thanksgiving Services Wednesday, November 24, at 7 p.m. and Thursday, November 25, at 9 a.m.

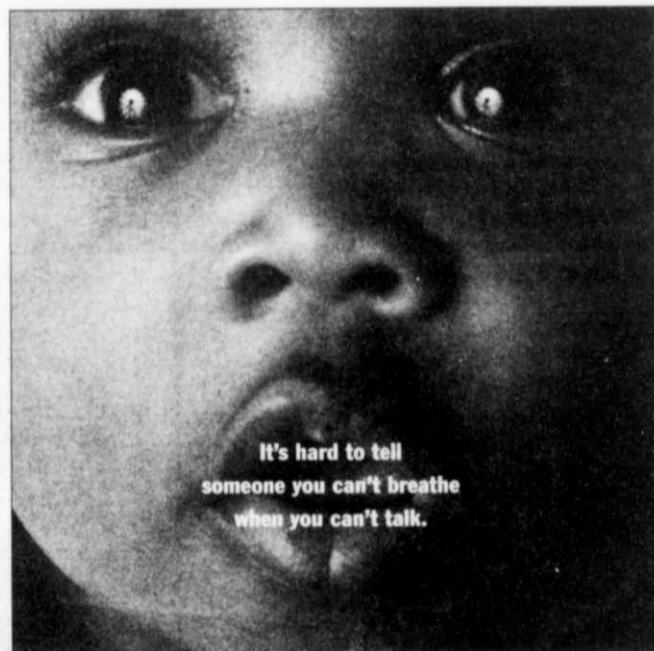

They invite everyone to join them as they thank God for all His blessings. The service will include songs by the St. Lucas

Lutheran Church choirs, hymns by the congregation and Scripture readings based on the theme, "We Thank You for Your Blessings: We Count Them One by One."

Although one cannot count every single blessing the Lord has given us, we thank him for giving us all that we need to live. Most importantly, each of us can thank God that he sent his Son, Jesus, to take away our sins and give us eternal life in heaven.

THANK YOU

I would like to thank my children, neighbors and friends for the visits, flowers, cards, prayers, care and concern, while I was a patient at St. Joseph's Hospital in West Bend and convalescing at home.

Special thanks to Father Robert Artman and Deacon Horner for their visits and prayers. Thanks, also, to all the doctors and nurses who cared for me.

These acts of kindness will long be remembered.

Author Works With Farmington Writers

Farmington second graders eagerly offer details to be included in a classroom story with the help of visiting author-in-residence Jim Lehman.

"Let your imagination go... that's where your gift as a writer will be."

Author/publisher Jim Lehman has spent twenty-some years practicing what he preached during his stint as Farmington Elementary School's author-in-residence.

During Mr. Lehman's visit (sponsored, in part, by the FES PTO), he shared his insights on writing during a schoolwide talk. He also shared two of his books: the inspirational "The Saga of Shakespeare Pintlewood and The Great Silver Fountain Pen," about an ant overcoming obstacles (including handling a regular-sized pen) just to share his stories with the world; and the delightful "The Owl and the Tuba," featuring a tuba-playing boy who "can't toot a hoot," and an owl that "can't hoot a toot," and how each finds his own niche.

Following the assembly, and over the course of two days, Mr. Lehman visited every classroom to work on writing activities with the students, highlighting the parts of a story, developing plots, and adding details, as well as working with the students in writing a classroom story.

Holiday Memories...

This Thanksgiving greeting dates back to 1914 and was submitted by Isabelle Muckerheide.

SEEDS FROM THE SOWER

Michael A. Guido Metter, Georgia

Recently a pastor took in a stranger who came to his church. For several days he was given the best the family had.

One morning the pastor arose to find the boy had left, taking with him his cash, credit cards and car.

But is this any worse than the way some have treated the Lord?

He has given us a place in His Father's house, loading us with His blessings. Yet some stalk out of the church without even saying, "Thanks, God!"

Not the Psalmist! He declared, "What can I offer Jehovah for all He has done for Me? I will serve You forever!"

Halloween Fun Held at KES

For their "little buddies" in first grade at Kewaskum Elementary School, the fifth grade "big buddies" put on a Halloween play, complete with treats and an exchange of cards afterward. Playing the title roles of the "four little, lost, lonely witches" are (clockwise, from front right), Caytlin Sprinkman, Bridget Dreher, Melissa Simonson and Samantha Kuphal.

"Alien" Jon Walters and "Astronaut" Casey Scheel, both fifth graders, stop to share their out-of-this-world costumes during the Halloween festivities at Kewaskum Elementary School.

Letters To The Editor

Are we thinking about the children?

Dear Editor,

Recently my wife and I attended the Kewaskum High School production of Oklahoma. Being new to the high school scene in Kewaskum, we really didn't know what to expect. On the one hand, we were anxious to find out what sort of talent the high school could marshal for this fairly demanding Rodgers & Hammerstein performance. On the other hand, we were also curious as to what the experience would mean to us in terms of the facility. We knew that the performance would be in Rose Hall. So, on this past Friday evening, we took our seats in the audience.

Our expectation in regard to the talent of the performers was exceeded. The kids did a great job and we were pleasantly surprised with both the musical and performing talents of all who performed. We would like to congratulate KHS, David Bertelsen, Keith Reynolds, Mary Forstner and the entire cast. Kudos! A job well done! Especially, in light of the facility in which you had to do it. In one word... deplorable! The acoustics in Rose Hall were disturbing. The sound echoed and disappeared at will. The music either faded away or drowned out the performers.

The logistical nightmare faced by directors and performers alike leaves this writer in awe of how performances like these can even be engineered in the face of such adversity! Rose Hall is wholly inadequate for the purpose of artistic performance of any kind unless that be athletic in nature. In addition to the acoustical problems stated above, one could add these problems:

- Cramped and uncomfortable seating
- Uneven ventilation
- No accommodation for orchestra or accompaniment
- Limited space for staging
- Lack of backstage facilities

- Improvised "hollow" stage resulting in annoying clunks and clangs
- Little provision for adequate lighting of stage
- Poor lighting for audience areas with no ability to dim lights
- Partial, uncomfortable bleacher seating
- Lack of graduated seating making it difficult to see from audience

This is a short list of problems. I am sure that a more comprehensive list could be developed. However, the point is, it is a crying shame that this is the best that the community of Kewaskum can muster in the way of the performing arts. It appears that replacing this facility is of low priority in the district. It was not a part of the latest referendum, unfortunately. Yet, I find it lamentable that nothing is in the planning to rectify this sad situation.

How important the arts are to our children! In a recent statement from the Center for the Arts in the Basic Curriculum, Stephanie B. Perrin wrote, "Intensive arts training, far from being impractical and elitist, can prepare students for life and work by developing in them the general skills and attitudes, the habits of heart and mind they need to prevail in post-modern society no matter what career they choose. Intensive arts training in

United Way -- County-Wide at 87%

Community thermometers around Washington County keeping track of the United Way's 1999 fund drive are at the 87 percent mark, reflecting the campaign's total of $937,102 in gifts and pledges as of November 12th counted towards the goal of $1,080,000.

"Our volunteers and donors continue to respond in a positive way," said Mo Josten, chairperson of the county-wide campaign. Volunteers were together on November 12 for their final report meeting, and are focusing on reaching the $1,080,000 total by the campaign's thank you celebration on December 7, to be paid for by volunteers and others who attend.

"We're pleased with the progress so far, and note that some of our divisions have already met and exceeded their individual goals," said Josten. She noted there are a number of divisions still hard at work to reach their goals.

"We urge past supporters to step up to the plate if they have not already done so," she said. "Our agencies are counting on the donations to be able to provide needed programs and services in the coming year."

Executive Director Barbara Hurula added, "As hard as we try each year, we're always challenged to reach new businesses and individuals who have moved into the Washington County community. Those who want to participate but haven't done so yet, are also urged to contribute."

Hurula commented favorably on numerous in-kind donations United Way receives throughout the year from area businesses, including local newspaper coverage, radio station promotions, cable television coverage, meeting space donations, the community thermometers, printing donations and much, much more.

"The bottom line is favorable for United Way for these generous donations," Hurula said. "The spirit of generosity from these businesses adds to our success -- and we're very grateful."

This year's campaign slogan highlights the reality of giving Help and Hope. With one out of four residents in our area having used or almost certain to use a United Way-funded service sometime in their lives, the fund raising effort touches thousands each year.

If you want to make a real difference every day, and give help and hope to thousands, please call the United Way office to make a contribution. Their number is 338-3821.

North Central Regional 4-H Forum Held

The 1999 North Central Regional 4-H Volunteer Forum was held October 14-17 in Wichita, Kansas. More than 400 volunteers from 13 states and the Providence of Manitoba, Canada attended educational workshops, listening to nationally known speakers and experienced area tours.

The theme "Pioneering the Future," gave the delegates the opportunity to look at new ideas and projects for the future. Sessions relating to Herb Gardening, Jazz Up Meetings, Listening and Communication, Group Recreation, Be Creative and many more. Volunteer delegates also had the opportunity to exchange ideas and share their knowledge with others. Volunteer leaders will be applying what they learned in 4-H clubs and community programs in Washington County.

Washington County 4-H program had six volunteer delegates attend this year's

planned and why it was needed.

Special thanks should go to Wayne Graczyk for his "take a stand" series in the Statesman and his informational critiques at P.T.A., Town, Village, private club and miscellaneous gatherings and radio broadcasts. This gave the public the information they didn't have before previous referendums.

Special thanks also should go to Gordy Dickman and his wife, Cheryl, who loaned the use of their home for R.I.C. meetings, were responsible for distributing signs, buttons and other paraphernalia promoting the referendum, and also to other members of the R.I.C. who worked so hard and so long on this issue.

Last but not least, thanks should go to the voters, whether you voted for or against, for taking a stand and turning out in large numbers to participate. I feel confident that everyone in the district will eventually be proud of this project and will realize that it is for the betterment of the entire district and all children in the area will benefit.

Thank you sincerely,

high school increases, not decreases, options. If you want a motivated, organized, hardworking, flexible, smart, creative worker, able to work well alone or in groups, hire a young violinist. I am afraid that there will be few if any violinists matriculating from KHS in the near future. Without a proper facility in which to perform, we are discouraging rather than encouraging music at KHS.

Yet, there is a more debilitating aspect to this sad scenario. Are we giving our students the type of education they deserve and need to excel in the coming century? Most studies indicate that schools lacking a strong emphasis in the arts will produce non-competitive students in the coming decades. It has been shown in numerous studies that musical training facilitates cognitive skills, including reading, abstract spatial abilities and creativity. Music, not to mention the arts in general, has an extra-music effect on children; enhancing their ability to learn and apply what they learn. To deny our children the opportunity to learn because we don't have the foresight to provide them with the basic learning facilities in which to do it is not only regrettable but inexcusable.

So, what can be done? "Much," as old Marley's ghost told scrooge. We need to address this issue boldly and innovatively. We need to build an auditorium in this community to facilitate the performing arts, promote artistic training and accommodate the growth of our youth as they develop into good citizens, able workers and thinkers. It is not too late -- it is never too late! We need to start thinking about the children. If you care about the arts in this community, make your voice known. Talk to your neighbors and friends. Share your concern with others. Perhaps a performing arts facility in this community need not only be a dream!

EDITOR'S NOTE: A few years ago, a handful of optimistic Kewaskum School District residents also had a dream to see money raised to have lights purchased and installed for the new football field, enabling Kewaskum to again resume night football games. This resourceful group of people had a goal and were driven to see this goal become a reality. In a very short time, they raised enough money and secured enough volunteers to see their dream come true. Perhaps it is time for another handful of district residents to come forward with another dream that surely could become another reality. I think we can... what do YOU think?

The following letter is about another handful of community-minded citizens who also had a dream about a youth football program that they developed into a successful reality. This community has so many concerned and involved residents that are constantly striving to make our world a better place for our children. All we need is someone to plant the seed of a new dream...

Letter to the Editor,
Kewaskum Statesman:

My husband and I wish to congratulate the eighth grade Gridiron football team on winning the State championship! It's really nice to see a great winning season. I'm sure the high school coaches are looking forward to seeing these kids at the high school level next Fall.

Our son, Greg, participated in the sixth grade level of Gridiron football. While they did not have a perfect season (7 wins, 2 losses), I feel compelled to write about the experience. This group of thirty-six sixth graders began to practice early in August. Many of them did not know each other at all or very well. It was interesting to see the transformation that took place as the season went on.

From the beginning, at their first practice, the coaches emphasized the importance of teamwork and that all would take a share of their success and their failures as any team does. I was most impressed that all the kids had an opportunity to play in the Saturday games. Teamwork is so important and will continue to be even more critical as we struggle with a workforce that is much smaller in numbers. It is so important that the concept of team is taught early on with our young people.

I commend the coaches for their dedication and enthusiasm, namely, Joe Backhaus, Eric Anderson, Kevin Darmody, Tom Kudek, Jeff Brettingen and Bob Cardarelle.

I highly recommend this well organized Gridiron program to parents who have interested children. Much more than the fundamentals of football is taught.

Sincerely,
Cindy Shaske

Meadow Rose Member of American Angus

Meadow Rose LLC, Kewaskum, is a new member of the American Angus Association, reports Dick Spader, executive vice president of the national organization with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The American Angus Association, with more than 33,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef cattle registry association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on over 13 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps records of production on individual animals for its members. These permanent records help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce high quality, efficient breeding cattle which are then recorded with the American Angus Association. Most of these registered Angus are used by the U.S. farmers and ranchers who raise high quality beef for U.S. consumption.

Plant breeder Luther Burbank developed 90 varieties of vegetables and 113 kinds of plums and prunes.

Travelers Show Concern About Year 2000 Situation

SECOND IN A SERIES OF EIGHT ARTICLES

If you're trying to decide between safety and celebration this New Year's Eve, you're not alone.

"Millions of would-be travelers are trying to estimate the travel risks posed by the year 2000 bug," says Bill Ryan, University of Wisconsin-Madison/Extension Community Business Development specialist. "While no one can guarantee a problem-free transition to the year 2000, following a few travel guidelines will help make your trip safe and enjoyable, no matter where you go or how you get there."

Some believe reservation systems for airlines, trains, cruise ships, car rental and hotels could malfunction when the clocks turn over to January 1. But travel industry computers passed the first test this past January and successfully handled the first reservations for the year 2000. "This is an excellent signal, although no guarantee," says Ryan.

Finding a flight to your destination may be challenging, but experts state that airline safety should not be a major concern. "While some people have expressed a fear of flying over the New Year's holiday, the Federal Aviation Administration states that all critical components of the air traffic control system have been adjusted for the year 2000," Ryan adds.

The Y2K bug may affect less critical parts of air travel. "You may arrive at your destination only to find escalators, baggage handling, ticket reservation, security systems and runway lights out of order. Airports in smaller communities may have more Y2K-related problems than those in larger cities.

Travel to certain foreign locations, especially in Africa, South America and Eastern Europe, could be a problem.

Trains could be interrupted by electrical outages and failures in their traffic and communication systems. "If you're traveling by train, be on the safe side and bring along enough food, water and reading material to get you through long delays," Ryan says.

Automobiles are equipped with numerous computer microchips used for power-train management, climate control, anti-lock brakes, traction control and other systems. However, auto industry experts are not aware of any computer chips that would render autos inoperable or unsafe.

"If you are one of the many Americans who plan to travel over the New Year's holiday, make preparations in the event inconveniences do occur," Ryan cautions. "Before you travel, seek updated information from travel businesses on their preparations and recommendations.

"Make contingency plans just as you would if you had stayed home, and do not rely solely on the travel industry to satisfy all your needs. Then, go and enjoy the celebration."

To help plan, Ryan offers these precautions:

* If possible, plan your trip so you leave a week or so before New Year's and return a week or so after.

* Have every travel or lodging provider send you written confirmation of your booking on its own letterhead. The confirmation should show all your deposits and prepayments.

* If possible, avoid connecting flights.

* Expect delays and allow plenty of time.

* Recognize that certain foreign destinations are less prepared for Y2K.

* Have your tickets on hand well before departure and call to reconfirm a day in advance.

* If you are concerned about your vehicle's Y2K readiness, contact your dealer or call the manufacturer's consumer assistance number.

* Have routine service on your car done before the year's end.

* Get in the habit of filling your tank regularly, as you would during a normal winter.

* Arrive early in the day at lodging facilities.

* Avoid changing hotels on January 1 and keep your moves after that to a minimum.

* Consult the Red Cross Y2K Readiness Checklist at their web site at www.readiness.org/disaster/safety/y2k.html.

The list suggests having a three-day stock of water, nonperishable foods and personal care products.

* Bring and safely store enough cash and travelers checks to get you through your trip in case you are unable to return home on schedule.

* Hold on to all travel receipts prior to and after January 1 to ensure proper posting of charges and payments.

More information about Y2K is available on the Cooperative Extension web site at www.uwex.edu/ces/admin/y2k.

Next week watch for information on minimizing Y2K risks.

Regular 1999 Nine-Day Gun Deer Hunting Season Opens Saturday

MADISON -- More than 650,000 hunters are expected to participate in Wisconsin's regular nine-day gun deer season that opens half an hour before sunrise on Saturday, November 20, and Department of Natural Resources wildlife officials are hoping that many of them will use bonus permits that were available for most of the state's deer management units. The permits allow hunters to shoot antlerless deer, which officials say is needed to control a statewide deer herd that is estimated to be nearly 1.6 million, the second highest on record.

"Hunters need to take on the role of deer managers by using the bonus permits to shoot antlerless deer," Mytton says. "Hunting is our main tool for managing deer populations and without a significant antlerless harvest to reduce populations, we'll certainly see larger herds next season

Hunters Need Yellow Stubs

All hunters are required to fill out and submit a deer registration stub when they register their deer at registration stations.

In previous years, the stub was printed on the back tag. Under the new ALIS system this year, license vendors were to provide license buyers with a yellow registration stub at the time of purchase. However, officials are concerned that many hunters may not have received the stub with their licenses.

All registration stations and ALIS sales outlets have been provided with yellow registration stubs and hunters may pick them up at any location. Many hunters like to have the stubs with them to fill out before they reach the registration station to save time. However, if a hunter does not have a stub, they may pick one up and fill it out when they register their deer.

and the continued need to hold special Zone T hunts to control the herd."

Bonus permits were available in all but about 15 of the state's 130-plus deer management units, and eight units were designated as Zone T units, where hunters could receive up to three free bonus permits per license (gun and archery). About 245,000 permits had been sold by November 8 with more than 358,000 still available in about 90 units.

Bonus permits cost $12 each for residents and $20 for nonresidents, and hunters may purchase up to two per day. All revenue generated through the sale of bonus permits goes toward the state's Wildlife Damage Abatement and Claims program.

More than 30 deer management units have been listed as "watch units" for the 1999 season. These units will follow general deer hunting regulations during the 1999 season, but are above population goals and meet some criteria for receiving Zone T status. If population control efforts continue to be unsuccessful in these units, they could be classified as Zone T units for the 2000 season, says Bill Mytton, DNR deer and bear ecologist.

As always, weather will be a primary factor in how successful hunters are, but following two mild back to back winters, the state's deer herd is again in excellent shape, with deer showing excellent growth and antler development, Mytton says.

Long-range statewide weather forecasts continue to call for unseasonably mild weather. If those forecasts hold true, Mytton notes, hunters may be able to stay out in the field longer, but they also wouldn't have snow for tracking and seeing deer, which could hamper hunter success, especially in the north. It's possible the mild weather may also prolong rutting activity, Mytton says, which was peaking this past week.

The dry conditions also have state forestry officials very concerned about the increased fire danger. Hunters are being urged to use extreme care with fire, smoking materials, and other sources of wildfire ignition, including vehicle exhaust systems.

Health Officials Will Monitor Deer Herd

Wildlife health officials and volunteers will be collecting samples from deer at select registration stations across the state during opening weekend to test for a variety of deer diseases.

"We're doing this as part of an overall program to monitor the health of Wisconsin's deer, not because we have any reason to believe any of these diseases are currently in our deer herd," says Kerry Beheler, a DNR wildlife health specialist.

Similar sampling projects in previous years have not turned up any signs of disease in deer. The samples will be tested for a number of different deer diseases, including Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD), Bovine Tuberculosis, Epizootic Hemorrhagic Disease, Bluetongue Virus, and distribution of the Ixodes deer tick.

Chronic Wasting Disease is a fatal disease of the nervous system that affects elk, mule, and white-tailed deer and can only be diagnosed microscopically in dead cervids, when Swiss cheese-like holes are seen in the brain. For that reason, it will be necessary to take the entire head of the deer at selected deer registration stations. Samples will only be taken from hunters voluntarily, and if a hunter provides a buck head with antlers, the antlers can be returned to the hunter at a later date, Beheler says.

Collectors will include personnel from the DNR, UW-Stevens Point School of Natural Resources, UW-Madison School of Veterinary Medicine, Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection, U.S. Department of Agriculture and the National Wildlife Health Center.

Guidelines for '99 Gun Deer Season

* The season opens on November 20 and ends November 28, with each day's legal hunting hours beginning one-half hour before sunrise and closing at sunset. Deer must be registered no later than 5 p.m. November 30.

* Licenses must be purchased by the close of business on Friday, November 20. This applies to muzzleloader hunters too. The muzzleloader season immediately follows the regular season, opening November 30 and running through December 6.

* Bonus permits can be purchased during the gun and muzzleloader hunts.

* It is illegal to possess any firearm on November 19 unless the firearm is unloaded and enclosed within a carrying case, except for: waterfowl hunting; sighting in of guns at established shooting ranges; or hunting at licensed game farms and shooting preserves.

* Coyote hunting is closed north of Highway 29 during the gun deer season.

* Blaze orange clothing is required for deer and upland game hunters during the gun deer season.

* This year's hunter safety graduates may use their certificate as authority to harvest a deer of either sex with their gun deer license in all units except state park units, Mississippi River Block Units and non-quota units.

* Many DNR offices across the state will operate on extended hours during opening weekend November 20-21. Some will also maintain extended hours on the second weekend of the season November 27-28. Hours vary, so customers are being urged to call ahead.

Lynn Qualifies for Nationals

By Jerry Gosa

Marni Lynn, a junior at Carroll College in Waukesha and former Kewaskum High School standout in track and cross country, qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association Division III National Cross Country Championships on Saturday, November 13, at the Midwest Regional Championships, hosted by Augustana College at the Highland Springs Golf Course in Rock Island, Illinois.

Lynn finished as the fourth individual finisher and sixth overall in team scoring. On an unseasonably warm afternoon, Lynn ran a personal best time of 18 minutes and 18 seconds (18:18). Rhaina Echols of the University of Chicago won the race with a blistering time of 17:16 and is expected to compete for the national championship. The second place time was 17:46, third 18:06, fourth 18:15, and sixth was Lynn in 18:18. "I ran around fourth place the whole race, but got passed by a couple of runners towards the end," reported Lynn.

"It was a really hard race. It took a long time to recover after the race," commented Lynn, when interviewed by phone Sunday. "They had said that the course was flat, but it wasn't. It was pretty much rolling hills... pretty constant hills," continued Lynn. "I felt that I ran pretty well. I'm glad that I qualified for Nationals and now feel that some of the pressure is off. My coaches had a lot of confidence in me and I think they had a little more confidence in me than I did going into the race," concluded Lynn.

This is the first time that Lynn has qualified for Nationals in cross country. (Lynn qualified for Nationals last spring in both the indoor and the outdoor track season, and won the indoor 1500m title and the outdoor 3,000m title.)

The University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh won the team title with 58 points. UW-LaCrosse finished second with 100 points, Wheaton College was third with 122 points, UW-Stevens Point was fourth with 156 points and UW-Whitewater was fifth with 158 points. The Carroll College womens team finished 12th out of the 31 teams. The top five teams and the top nine individuals qualified for Nationals on Saturday. A total of 209 runners competed in the women's division.

The N.C.A.A. Division III National Cross Country Championships will be hosted by the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh and will be held at the Lake Breese Golf Course in Winneconne, Wisconsin. The women's race starts at 11 a.m. and the men's race at 12 noon.

The top 25 finishers will earn All-American status. Last spring both the indoor and outdoor N.C.A.A. National Track and Field Championships were held in Ohio. The Wisconsin site provides an excellent opportunity for family, friends and spectators to attend the National Cross Country Championships.

Good luck, Marni, at Nationals!
