Plan Commission Gives Favorable Vote For 24 Unit Senior Citizen Complex Here

FRONT ELEVATION
 SCALE 1/8" = 1'-0"

 Staff Writer/Photographer
 The Village of Kewaskum

Plan Commission met Tuesday evening to meet with Mr. Callan Schulz of Keystone Development, LLC.

Schulz presented his plan to erect Hickory Terrace Senior Apartments, a 24 unit senior apartment complex to the commission.

The property will consist of one building on the two acre parcel containing one and two bedroom apartments.

This property is designed exclusively for senior citizens. It incorporates many design features and amenities for individuals 55 years or older. Some of the amenities include: security entrances with intercom, community room, fitness room, library, planned activities, on-site management, garages and private patios or balconies.

The property will be restricted to seniors whose income is at or below 60% of the county median income.

Construction of the buildings is that of wood frame with brick and vinyl siding. The building will feature a pitched roof with asphalt shingles.

The interior will consist of all kitchens having factory finished wood cabinets, laminate counter tops, and stainless steel sinks. Each apartment will be equipped with an electric self-cleaning oven, a range hood with fan, garbage disposal, dishwasher and frost free refrigerator. The bathrooms will have combination shower/tub and vanity cabinets. All windows will be double-glazed with screens. Floors will be covered with carpeting in all areas except the kitchen and bathrooms.

Take Second in National Stock Market Competition

Jim Thelen and Todd Wright, two seniors at Kewaskum High School, won second place in a national stock market competition called "Main Exchange."

The competition involved hundreds of teams of students from across the nation. Wright and Thelen managed to turn $100,000 into almost $300,000 in just ten weeks by investing in the stock market.

The "Main Exchange" competition takes place over the internet and the prices and companies exactly mirror real life stocks exchanged on the market. The students are able to take $100,000 and invest it in whatever stocks they choose to make it grow over the course of ten weeks.

Thelen and Wright took part in the competition as part of their economics course at the high school taught by Dave Rockhill. Both students will receive jackets and KHS will receive $1,400 in new computer equipment for winning second place.

The grand prize for first place in the competition was an all expense paid trip to New York and the New York Stock Exchange.

Hwy. 45 Resurfacing Project to Be Discussed at Meeting Here

Mike O'Brien, communications manager for the Wisconsin Department of Transportation's southeast district, will discuss the upcoming US Highway 45 resurfacing project at a meeting with the Kewaskum area community on Wednesday, February 16 at 7 p.m.

All residents, especially those who commute to the Milwaukee area, and anyone else with interest, are encouraged to attend.

The meeting, sponsored by the Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held at the Community Room. A 15 minute video presentation will be shown prior to a question and answer period. Also included will be discussion on the best route revision for commuters to use.

The 15-mile US 45 project, from the Washington/Waukesha County Line

(County Q) to Lincoln Avenue in West Allis, will impact thousands of commuters, truckers, tourists and other travelers. The corridor is used by up to 150,000 vehicles per day.

Starting April 9, one southbound lane will be closed between 6 a.m. and 8 p.m., and two lanes will be closed at night. The work will involve resurfacing, bridge repairs and ramp improvements.

Southbound construction is scheduled through September, 2000. Work in the northbound lanes is scheduled in 2001.

Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce members are reminded this is their regular monthly meeting. A very brief meeting and election of the new board of directors will be held prior to the 7 p.m. meeting. Please try to attend both meetings.

Culinary Arts Program Earns Five Year ACF Accreditation

"A feather in its cap," is what the Culinary Arts Program at Moraine Park Technical College was given when it received a five-year Grant of Accreditation from the American Culinary Federation, Inc. (ACF).

"Becoming accredited by the ACF's Accrediting Commission is a mark of quality in the Hospitality Industry," said Donna Leet, dean for Moraine Park's Culinary Arts program. "It assures prospective employers that a student has been through rigorous and thorough educational preparation and that they can be expected to perform at a high level of competence in the workplace."

Leet also expects to see an increase in the number of students enrolling in Moraine Park's two-year program. "Students can look at the accreditation and know it is a guarantee of a high-quality program," she said. "They can be sure the education and culinary arts training they receive at Moraine Park is of the highest quality and will benefit them when they enter the workplace."

The Culinary Arts Program received its accreditation in July 1999 and will remain accredited through June 20, 2004. Although the normal grant of initial accreditation is for three years, according to the approval letter Moraine Park received from ACF Chairman Jerry Vincent, C.C.E., A.A.C., Moraine Park received a five-year grant because "the commission was very impressed with the exceptional program, documentation and program response to the team report."

Leet said the site review committee was particularly impressed with the program's written curriculum for all the courses and used the phrase, "mature and well-developed program" in their comments. They were also impressed with the amount of hands-on experience the students receive. "We met and exceeded the (ACF) standards for a quality program in all areas except one, and we have made that change," explained Leet. "That is why the committee deviated from its usual practice of a three-year accreditation and awarded us a five-year term."

Moraine Park's Culinary Arts Program is a two-year associate degree offered at the Fond du Lac Campus. Instructors include Dave Weber, Ron Speich and James Simmers. For information regarding the program call Stan Arpke, counselor, at (920) 924-3197.

Bronkhorst Fund-Raiser

Even though members of the Kewaskum 4-H's haven't had much of a chance to get to know their new club members, Ashley and Amy Bronkhorst, they are all working together to raise funds to assist their family because of their mother's serious medical condition.

Their mother is Lisa Bronkhorst, who the community has read about in the last few issues of The Statesman.

A fundraising brat fry will be held at Sentry in West Bend on Saturday, February 5, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Stop by and show your support if you are in the area.

Wayne Crusaders 4-H News

The Wayne Crusaders have been very busy this past Christmas season. At the December meeting the members brought in donations which included pet food for the Puppyland Humane Society. The club finished the meeting with a party. We ate a lot of food such as subs, soda and munchies.

January held some events for the club. For example, the leaders are debating the standards for the Wayne Crusaders scholarship. A group of members took their pets to Mapledale. Some of the pets brought in were rabbits, a hamster, cats, a collie, Dachshunds and baby pygmy goats. It was a blast!

The meeting in January was topped off with a demonstration by Zara Gerz and her Australian Shepherd puppies. After that, Kirsten Krudwig did a presentation about communications. We were divided into four groups to put on acts. It was very funny. The members had a three "little" Indian play, a talent show, a play about a clown graduating and a story of the hip chip, the magic teacup.

In February, our club will be participating in Celebrate Families at the Kettle Moraine YMCA in West Bend. We will also volunteer to work at Puppyland. Spring comes with many more things to do.

Construction Workers Needed

The Campbellsport Public Library needs your help! The library is looking for area construction workers or anyone who has construction experience to assist with the construction of the lower level.

The library has successfully reached its goal to attain enough funds to purchase all of the supplies necessary to finish the construction of the lower level. "With the volunteer help of area residents to do the rough framing, drywall and plumbing, we will be able to complete the meeting room, rest room and children's room."

The current plan is to take two Saturdays to do the core framing and complete the work as people are available after this has been done. This will make a tremendous difference to area organizations who are currently using the basement despite the fact that it is unfinished."

The Campbellsport Public Library was opened in the fall of 1997. Since that time, interest by area organizations in using the lower level has grown tremendously. Once the basement is finished, the library will be able to expand its services dramatically.

The public meeting room will be available at no cost for area non-profit organizations. For more information about signing up to assist with the construction, please contact Library Director Suellen Bladek at 533-8534.

On April 14, 1910, William Howard Taft became the first President to throw the first pitch to open the baseball season. The home team, Washington, beat Philadelphia 3-0.

An Evening Of Dances And Chances

The Volunteer Center of Washington County is hosting An Evening of Dances and Chances on February 26 at Hartford's historic Chandelier Ballroom.

The event, the Volunteer Center's second annual fund-raising gala, will feature dinner, dancing to a big band, casino gambling with chances to win big prizes and a great chance to support an organization committed to the matching up of volunteers and needing agencies.

The buffet dinner will be provided by Davian's Catering of Menomonee Falls and will begin at 6:30 p.m. following an hour of cocktails and hors d'oeuvres from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The big band/variety sounds of the renowned Dick Strauss and His Many Happy Returns Orchestra will then grab the spotlight, providing music from 8 to 11:30.

Following dinner, guests can also take their chances on the big prizes awaiting them on the casino and blackjack tables. Players can try to win chances for raffle prizes donated by area merchants and businesses.

Tickets are $50 per person and include fun money for gambling. Corporate tables are $500 for a party of eight and also include money for the casino games.

All proceeds benefit the Volunteer Center, an independent, non-profit organization which has been matching volunteers with non-profit agencies and people in need for more than 15 years.

To get tickets or more information, call the Volunteer Center at 338-8256 or stop by the office at 239 N. Main Street in downtown West Bend.

Celebrate Families February 6-12

Families are a concern of everyone. As our society is changing, what has long been known as the "traditional family" has also changed.

Today's families come in many shapes and sizes. Families may be nuclear, extended, blended, single-parent, dual-parent, multi-generational, bi-racial, elderly, yours-mine-and-others. The key is that they all exist right here. They all function, and they are ALL important.

Agencies, organizations, businesses, schools, churches, and concerned citizens in Washington County have joined together for the eighth year to develop and implement a unified approach to "Celebrating the Family."

A week-long program, February 6-12, 2000, is designed to emphasize the importance of the family. The theme, "Celebrate the Family," focuses on the family as a changing place, a growing place, a learning place, a belonging place, a doing, playing, working place, and a place to celebrate.

The belief is that through joint effort, we can have a significant impact on all types of families in Washington County. It is essential, in our changing society, that we try to meet the needs of our changing families and that we celebrate the importance of family in our own community.

It does not matter what family type you belong to, our goal is to emphasize that all families are an integral part of our community.

On Sunday, February 6, a Family Resource Fair will showcase organizations that offer services to strengthen families. Displays and activities by non-profit agencies and organizations will be held at the Kettle Moraine YMCA in West Bend. Various groups will be performing during the afternoon. A huge thanks goes to the event's corporate sponsor, West Bend Mutual Insurance.

The Kettle Moraine YMCA will provide their facilities to families from 11:45 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, February 6. Families can participate in open swim, on the track and open gym.

Resources for Families to Tap Into

Where do I get information on the effects of TV on children? Does any agency provide information for new parents? Where can I go for marriage counseling? What parent nurturing programs are available? Where do I get information on drug and alcohol problems? Does Washington County have an immunization program? Are there places in the County that families can enjoy the outdoors together? These are a few of the many questions that families can find answers to at the Family Resources Fair.

Approximately 35 agencies and non-profit organizations will be participating in the Family Resources Fair at the Kettle Moraine YMCA on Sunday, February 6, from 11:45 to 4 p.m. The exhibits will be part of the week-long program designed to recognize the support families and will be part of the kickoff of the Celebrate Families program here in Washington County.

Families are invited to attend this free one day event to enjoy entertainment and to learn about agencies and organizations who have family related programs or services that are offered.

This year the organizations that will be having displays at the "Y" include 4-H, the Aurora Health Care, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Boys and Girls Club, Catholic Charities, Citizens Advocacy, Concerned Women for America, Council on AODA, Dairy Queen, The Dyslexia Institute, Family Center, Friends for Life, Friends of Abused Families, Friends of Lac Lawrann, Home and Community Education, Housing Support Services, Independence First, Lac Lawrann Conservancy, MADD, Musical Masquers, Rehab Resources, St. Joseph's Hospital, The Threshold, Tobacco Free Coalition, Volunteer Center, West Bend Beautification Committee, Lioness Club, Police Department, Nutritional Education Program, Sheriff's Department, West Bend Library, WIC and Public Health Nurses, YMCA, and the Youth and Family Project.

CELEBRATE FAMILIES Turning Kids On to Reading

Reading should be included in a child's leisure time activities. Because television-watching competes with reading, parents need to make an extra effort to encourage kids to read. Here are some ways to do this.

READING AND STORYTELLING AS A FAMILY ACTIVITY

Reading aloud to your children and storytelling may be better competition for TV than having children read on their own. Set aside an hour or two each week for family reading or storytelling sessions.

Parents and children can be involved in selecting and reading the stories. Books or long stories can be read in installments. You can establish rituals such as telling ghost stories on rainy nights.

Make reading aloud as exciting as possible. Use different voices for dialogue and add comments about what has happened or what will happen next. With fidgety young listeners, skip over long descriptive passages and remember that toddlers have short attention spans. While you read, cuddle little children on your lap.

They will then associate good feelings with reading. Although you may want to tape a few stories to be played when you are not available, this can never substitute for cozy, in-person reading.

TEACHING THROUGH STORIES

Storytelling is an ancient way of teaching lessons, morals and ideals. Children will listen to and learn more from a story than with a finger pointed at them. For example, a story about a little beaver who got lost because he strayed from his mother, can teach a lesson.

Family storytelling entertains and teaches children at the same time and because it requires nothing but your imagination, it can be done in any setting at any time.

SET A GOOD EXAMPLE

It's one thing to tell children that you want them to read, but if kids don't see you reading they won't become readers either. To encourage them, have books around the house and give them as gifts. You can also read interesting items aloud to your children from magazines and newspapers.

DON'T TURN LEISURE READING INTO A CHORE

One of the reasons children don't like to read is that it may seem too much like homework. It's up to parents to expose children to reading for pleasure. Discuss books and stories with your children. Ask how they feel about a character or why they like a particular scene, rather than quizzing them on facts or details.

LIMIT YOUR CHILD'S TV TIME

The average American child spends three to four hours a day in front of the TV. Try to limit TV time to one hour a day with exceptions for special programs. The other hours can be spent reading or doing other constructive activities.

Never use TV as a punishment or reward because it makes it seem too important. Instead, make reading a special privilege. Let your child stay up half an hour later than usual if the time is spent reading.

CELEBRATE FAMILIES STORYTIME PROGRAMS

Germantown Library - February 8 at 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

West Bend Library - February 8 at 9 a.m. and 10 a.m.; February 10 at 6:30 p.m.

Kewaskum Library - February 9 at 7 p.m.

Hartford Library - February 9 at 10:30 a.m.

Slinger Library - February 9 at 9:30 a.m.

Storytimes will focus on the family and children. They will receive a special ribbon for attending.

MAKE YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY A FAMILY RESOURCE

Visit the library regularly to show your children the kind of books available. Children who are taken to the library regularly learn early that reading is for entertainment as well as for learning. This plays an important role in their success in school.

Ask the librarian to recommend books suited to your children's reading levels and interests and become acquainted with the children's books available there. To show children that books are important, teach your children to handle books carefully and make a fuss over the child's first library card.

Say Cheese, Create an Opportunity

West Bend, WI -- Giving new life to used disposal cameras is a good way for two Washington County organizations to encourage smiling and create jobs. The Threshold, a non-profit agency, and Creative Services, LLC, (CSL), a local company, work together every day repairing disposable cameras that would otherwise end up in landfills across America.

The Threshold receives used disposable cameras from CSL. Over 35 different styles of disposable cameras are received from sources nationwide at CSL. "Partnering with CSL in this niche industry has proven beneficial to both our organizations," said Tom Bergerud, Executive Director of The Threshold. "Our employees enjoy refurbishing disposable cameras. It's another way cameras bring smiles to people's faces," said Bergerud.

"The Threshold partners with businesses to reduce costs and provide on-going support of key parts of their manufacturing process," said Jim Gumm, Director of Manufacturing at The Threshold.

"We are the first stage in series of quality checks for CSL," according to Gumm. "Our employees verify that the lens, viewfinder and flash are intact and that the integrity of the camera is not compromised," said Gumm. The Threshold also tests and puts thousands of AA batteries for the cameras into boxes.

The raw materials, empty disposable cameras and batteries, are sent back to CSL for the next stage of the process. The disposable cameras are cleaned, refilled with batteries and film. The cameras with a flash are tested. The units are replaced with private and commercial labels, then sent to corporations for consumers, private promotions or special events including weddings, golf outings, and insurance promotions.

"We feel great about this entire process," said Terry White, Owner of CSL. "We restore life to a product otherwise sent to a landfill, create employment opportunities for people with varying abilities and help people with disabilities at The Threshold feel good about themselves," said White.

"This partnership with CSL empowers the people we serve at The Threshold. People of all walks of life, including people with cognitive or physical disabilities, need to feel worthwhile. Everyone needs self-esteem, a sense of personal value that they are important and can make a difference. The work we do with area businesses allows our clients an opportunity to have income and thus reduce the subsidy they receive from the government," said Bergerud.

This is a win-win-win situation. The person with a disability gets increased self-confidence and a paycheck. The business The Threshold partners with receives cost effective, on-going support in manufacturing. And government taxation to subsidize people with disabilities is reduced.

The Threshold is a private, nonprofit agency serving the rehabilitation needs of people in Washington County. Its mission is to support and represent individuals by creating opportunities that enable them to lead self-determining lives.

KHS Girls Improve, But Not Quite There Yet

The Kewaskum Indian ladies lost on Parent's Night to Random Lake by a score of 64-55. The Indians only scored three free throws in the opening quarter and then had to play catch up for the rest of the game.

Kewaskum did tie the game at 19 all in the second quarter, but then found themselves down by eight points at halftime.

Heather Rieder and Jenny Kraft had the hot hands in the second half as they scored 15 and 11 points respectively. Rieder, a junior, continues to improve with each passing game. Kewaskum's downfall was that they only went to the free throw line 10 times, versus the Ram's 28 visits.

Leading the scoring for Kewaskum was Rieder with a career high 21 points, all of which came in the last three quarters. Kraft followed closely behind with 18, including four three-pointers.

Bridget Polzean added six points on two three-point baskets and six assists. Jenni Logan had five points. Heather Radtke also added five, along with ten rebounds. Colleen Gosa rounded off the scoring with one point and 12 rebounds.

The Indians hosted conference foe New Holstein on Friday, and almost walked away with a huge upset of the EWC's second place team. The Huskies last shot gave them their only lead of the night on their way to a 39-38 win.

Kewaskum slowed down the tempo to take New Holstein out of their running game, and negate their size advantage in the post. The Indians 2-3 sagging zone took the Huskies leading scorer, Missy Brenner, out of the game, holding her to only four points on the night.

Jenny Kraft's outside shooting picked up where she left off on Tuesday with two three-pointers on her way to 11 first half points and Heather Rieder added six for a 19-12 Indian lead at the break.

Kraft continued her hot shooting in the second half with back-to-back threes to open the quarter, stretching the lead to 11 and forcing the Husky coach to take a timeout. The Huskies came out of the timeout with renewed awareness on defense and started to assert themselves.

After two New Holstein steals and layups cut the lead to seven, the teams played nearly even for the rest of the quarter with the Huskies cutting the lead to five with two late free throws.

The Husky defensive pressure continued to bother the Lady Indians in the fourth quarter, as they were only able to connect on one field goal, a three-pointer by Rieder, on the way to only five points.

The Huskies clawed their way back into the game and won it with a three-pointer with 20 seconds left. The Indians had one last shot, but their baseline jumpshot was off the mark as time expired.

Leading the way for the Indians was Kraft with 17 points, five steals and seven rebounds. Rieder followed with 12 points and seven boards. Heather Radtke added four points and seven rebounds. Jenni Logan contributed ten rebounds to go with her four points and Colleen Gosa added eight rebounds and one point.

Can You Sing?

by Ami

Our title is a question many people are asked. Especially when your church is seeking choir members. I have a good friend who loves to sing, but is lovingly hushed up if he but makes the attempt in public. Why is this, you may ask? Because he is a born MONOTONE is the answer. And what does that word mean? You may further question. According to our dictionary friend, Mr. Webster monotone is defined: recitation on a single note or key!...or a monotonous, continued recitation in the same unvarying tone which is most wearisome.

Like myself, my friend absolutely adores the splendor of nature. Be it spring, summer, fall or winter he is sensitive to and enthralled by the handiwork of Mother Nature. Of course, spring is the time for the ecstasy provided by the varied array of wild flowers so abundant in our Washington County woodlots and meadows. Likewise summer has its very special flower and prairie species. And who is not overcome by the flashing gold and red colors of each Wisconsin fall? And we dare not fail to mention the beautiful winter sculpting of Jack Frost and the talented SNOW FAIRIES!

A nature jaunt with him any season of the year is a real challenge for we no more than enter a nature-radiant area and he breaks out in (I dare not say song) and yet that rather flat one note aria to him in his version of delightful expression of his heart's thankfulness for the Lord's Creative genius. Sometimes the two of us fairly burst out with delectable laughter...as "his song" startles the wildlife to scamper for the safety of some quiet adjacent nook. So you see, some of us who feel we cannot "sing" really can even tho' perhaps OUR songs are best sung in the privacy of a tub or shower.

Only one person in two billion will live to be 116 or older.

Field of Dreams

Ten years ago two young boys began to fulfill their childhood fantasies when they took their first steps onto their field of dreams.

Like a baby's first step, those steps onto their field of dreams bestowed these two young boys with feelings of hope, inspiration, and desire. Moreover, unannounced to Ryan Herman and Matt Wiedmeyer, their field of dreams promised them both many years of hard work, dedication, recognition and at times, humiliation. But, most importantly, their field of dreams promised Ryan and Matt many years of friendship.

Ryan and Matt began their football careers playing pick-up games in the backyard with friends and family. Soon it was time to take the plunge into flag football in the early teen years.

Finally, the field of dreams that lied beneath the foot soles of Ryan and Matt was the mighty Kewaskum Indian football field. It was on the field that a friendship built upon similar life goals and beliefs began to emerge. Both Ryan and Matt wanted to make their childhood dreams a reality.

After a successful high school career, Ryan and Matt proceeded to extend their dreams by attending Carthage College in Kenosha. It was on that new field of dreams that Ryan and Matt would continue to build upon hopes and desires in order to fulfill lifelong dreams.

While playing for Carthage, Ryan was named MVP for Special Teams during his junior year. He received second team all-conference honors his senior year, and also led the Redmen in tackles his senior year while playing free safety. Matt's accomplishments included being a three-year starter at outside linebacker with one career touchdown.

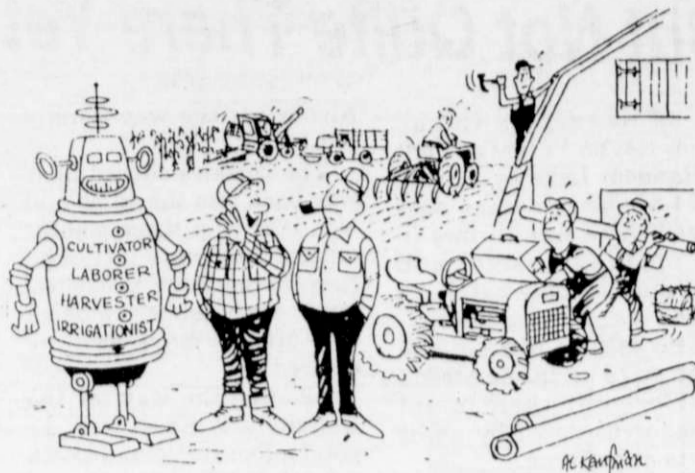

As the past ten years come to an end, Ryan is attending a police academy and finishing up course work at Carthage for his degree in Criminal Justice and major in sociology. Ryan will then be employed by the Kenosha County Sheriff's Department.

Matt will be graduating from Carthage with a degree in Criminal Justice and a minor in sociology. Not only will Ryan and Matt be taking a degree with them, but they will also be taking with them memorable years of friendship and adventure.

As one looks back on life, it is hard to believe where everything starts and where life leads you. However, it is not hard to believe that hope, desire, and friendship keeps us alive, and gives us strength and courage to take the next step that will make our dreams a reality. Ryan and Matt took their first steps ten years ago onto the field of dreams. Look where it has taken them today.

Ryan is the son of Dennis and Debby Terlinden of Allenton and David and Sue Herman of West Bend. Matt is the son of Vern and Kathy Wiedmeyer of Kewaskum.

"Actually can't do a thing - But it sure keeps the crew on their toes!"
