West Bend's Moraine Park Technical College to Be Site of Wisconsin's First Applied Manufacturing-Technology Center

Governor Says $7.1 Million Facility Will Make Wisconsin a National Leader in Evolving World of Manufacturing Technology

WEST BEND -- Moraine Park Technical College announced on Monday, March 13, it will be the site for a unique initiative to build the state's first-of-its-kind Applied Manufacturing Technology Center to help curb a statewide manufacturing job shortage.

Dr. Jack Shanahan, president of Moraine Park Technical College, made the announcement, along with Governor Tommy G. Thompson; State Senate Republican Leader Mary Panzer; community, educational and government leaders; and manufacturing students.

"Manufacturing is the second-largest industry in Wisconsin and new technology demands a state-of-the-art facility like the Applied Manufacturing Technology Center to educate and train workers," Dr. Shanahan said. "To get the type of concentrated manufacturing software and hands-on experience needed in these fields, students would ordinarily have to travel hundreds of miles away to other states. A West Bend location will mean convenience for students, area businesses and those around the country, who will now look to Moraine Park Technical College as a premier training site in these fields."

The $7.1 million Applied Manufacturing Technology Center will be built on the West Bend campus with construction expected to begin in April 2001. The 50,000 square foot building will feature high-skilled training areas equipped with high-tech computers, software and computer-aided manufacturing equipment used in tool and die making, punch press operations, tool and cutter grinding and electrical discharge work. The building is expected to be completed by December 2001.

"With this new facility, Moraine Park Technical College will be able to offer students cutting-edge training using the latest software technology that is revolutionizing the manufacturing industry. I am proud that we here in Wisconsin will once again be leading the way in preparing our workforce for the future," said Thompson. "The Applied Manufacturing Technology Center is what manufacturing businesses in Wisconsin tell us is an ideal solution to the worker shortage problem."

The facility will train workers from Wisconsin and other states, inspire new students and retrain those who need it in the current work force, according to Thompson.

Moraine Park Technical College enrollment levels in manufacturing classes more than doubled in the last few years. Currently, there are 396 students enrolled in the fields of tool and cutter grinding, millwright and maintenance mechanics, maintenance and industrial electrician, electrical discharge milling, tool and die making and tool and die design.

In Washington County alone, more than 34% of all employment is in manufacturing. The Applied Manufacturing Technology Center is expected to serve an additional 200 full-time equivalent students during its first year of operation, more than doubling Moraine Park Technical College's current enrollment.

"The state and concerned businesses have recognized a trend and are responding now to meet the growing demand for skilled manufacturing workers," Panzer said. "We're talking about high-wage, high-skill jobs, and it is our hope that these individuals will ultimately enhance the productivity of the manufacturing industry and become positive contributing residents in our communities."

The Legislature required the $7.1 million effort be a private/public partnership. Over the next year, Moraine Park Technical College will need to raise $2.1 million in donations from the private sector to cover capital costs. The remaining $5 million will be raised through user fees and a Legislature-approved tax levy on the ten-county Moraine Park Technical College district (Fond du Lac, Dodge, Green Lake, Washington, Wau-sara, Winnebago, Marquette, Columbia, Sheboygan, and Calumet).

The levy in the first year is projected to be 1.3 cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation. Over 15 years, the total levy paid by a district resident owning a $100,000 home is projected to be $35.95.

"This center for training and education will provide a business like mine with the skilled workers Serigraph needs to continue to be successful and contribute to this community," said John Torinus Jr., chairman and CEO of Serigraph, Inc., a West Bend graphics company. "The manufacturing worker shortage is severe wherever you go, and I truly believe that when businesses hear about the new Applied Manufacturing Technology Center, they'll want to either train their employees here or locate their business in the area for easy access to skilled workers."

Recent statistics indicate that the average age of a tool and die maker in Wisconsin is 57 years old and the average annual salary is around $50,000 a year. Many area businesses utilizing individuals from metal manufacturing fields could lose hundreds of workers over the next few years to retirement and the Applied Manufacturing Technology Center will train students to replace these workers, according to Dr. Shanahan.

Aids Activist Barbara York Pleads For a Awareness, Compassion for Victims

West Bend -- Retired teacher and aids activist Barbara York, of Lomira, says she learned a lot of vital lessons about death, acceptance - and life - from watching her AIDS-stricken son, Gregory die. "I feel I've become a much better person today, after having helped Gregory through that," she said.

York will be bringing her message of AIDS awareness and compassion for sufferers in a free public lecture at the University of Wisconsin-Washington County, now set for 7:30 p.m., March 23. York also will be addressing UWWC students in a noon seminar Wednesday, April 5. All York's appearances are free and open to the public.

Ms. York, who taught for 25 years in the Kewaskum school system, said her son had a bright future, when he worked and taught costume and theatre design at the prestigious UCLA drama school. Following that, he established himself as a successful costume designer in a television serial drama. "He had everything to live for," York says. "He was really hoping to be able to give more to the world. AIDS cut all that short."

But, in 1983, as rumors of an as-yet-unknown plague began to ravage the gay community, Gregory contracted the dread disease from a co-worker at UCLA. York says that was her first lesson in how vulnerable young people actually are.

"The man who infected him also infected 15 other people," she said. "Young people all believe that nothing bad will ever happen to them. They think they're going to live forever."

"I told him, 'Greg, we'll fight this.'"

York said her next lessons - bitter ones -- came at the hands of some friends and family, who told her that Greg's disease was the judgement of a cruel god, or the just desserts of a sinful lifestyle. "As a culture, we need to become much more tolerant of people," she said.

When Greg finally died in 1955, at age 34, York says his passing was full of acceptance, peace and grace. While it still hurts to lose her child, she explains, his death taught her yet another lesson about how to live and die.

"Every death thereafter, I just put in perspective," she said. "My mom recently died at age 83, and I regard her passing as a blessing. My own death, whenever it comes, is going to be so easy after having helped Greg through his."

ond, respectively. Athletes finishing first or second are eligible for competition in the upcoming state meet in Stevens Point.

Initiative is doing the right thing without being told.

Mixed Blood Theatre Company Presents 'Eastern Parade' at UWWC

WEST BEND -- The Minneapolis-based Mixed Blood Theatre Company packs a lot of powerful, entertaining messages into a brief, 40-minute performance.

In a series of stunning dramatic pastiches titled "Eastern Parade," the three-performer troupe will show West Bend audiences a series of short stories dealing with everything from the lives of Japanese-American soldiers in World War II, to the touching story of a Korean-American adoptee -- all accompanied by the rhythmic "heartbeat" of gigantic, Japanese "Taiko" drums.

The troupe is scheduled to appear at the University of Wisconsin-Washington County at noon, March 22, and again at 7:30 p.m.,

March 24, in the university theater. Tickets are set at $4 for the noon performance and $8 for adults/$6 seniors and under 18 for the 7:30 p.m. performance on March 24. Director Zarawaar Mistry said his three performers know they don't have much time to tell their dramatic stories. "It can be quite difficult to tell a long story in such a short time," he said, "but we know how to use 'broader brush strokes' to get the message across. You come out of there having learned a lot very quickly."

He noted that the relatively small Asian-American populations in the Midwest often mean the material is totally new to audiences here. He said that newness hastens an audience's total immersion in the play. "It becomes a very compelling thing for them, and they get drawn into it very fast," he said.

He likened the dramatic experience of a short performance to the difference between taking a long swim and a "quick dip." "The 'quick dip' often is just as refreshing."

He said that the small troupes of performers, who often spend months at a time in the touring cast, bring a special "ensemble" feeling to their performances. "The actors really come to rely upon one another," Mistry said. "It becomes a real intimate experience for both the cast and the audience."

For more information, please contact William Breyfogle, UWWC Director of University Relations, at (262) 335-5233, or Laurie Meacham, assistant director at (262) 335-5208.

The 2000 Census: It Is Vital That You Are Counted

By Lieutenant Governor Scott McCallum

This month, Wisconsin residents will be receiving in their mailboxes the U.S. Census Bureau's Census 2000 forms. It is more important than ever for Wisconsinites to stand up and be counted.

Wisconsin has not been growing as fast as the rest of the country as a whole. Already, Wisconsin is in jeopardy of losing one Congressional seat because of it. Census data is also used to redraw state and local voting districts and determines how much federal money will come our way. Wisconsin must get full representation in Census 2000 to make sure we get our share of more than $100-billion in federal funds that support programs for senior citizens, education, agriculture research, Community Development Block Grants, veterans benefits, employment programs and more.

The State of Wisconsin has enlisted some high-powered help to fire people up about Census 2000, including Brett Favre, who urges people, "Don't pass up this opportunity to be counted." To bring this important message to even more Wisconsin residents, the Census 2000 Road Tour is hitting the highways. A huge, silver motor home with the slogan, "This is your future, don't leave it blank" may be coming to your neighborhood soon. I will be participating in a Road Tour stop in Racine on March 23rd, but other stops will hit Forest County, Sawyer County, Wausau, Milwaukee, Eau Claire and many points in between.

The Census 2000 forms, which should arrive one to two weeks before Census Day on April 1st, are easy to fill out and completely confidential. Special help lines are available for those with questions or for those who don't speak English. Those who do not complete the forms can expect a census worker to knock on their door.

This year, citizens receiving the Census 2000 short form can respond via the Internet, which can handle up to 800,000 users per hour. For every 1% decrease in the Census Bureau's workload, about $34-million can be saved. Census officials are hoping this Internet option can get more people to participate. In 1970, more than 78% of households filled out the survey. That dropped to 65% in 1990 and is expected to drop as low as 61% this year.

A new question on the survey this year reflects changing trends in our society. Since many grandparents today are taking a bigger role in the care of their grandchildren, the Census Bureau wants a better handle on how many grandparents are now full-time caregivers. That number already jumped from 2.2-million children living with grandparents in 1970 to approximately 3.9-million in 1997. The 2000 census is expected to show even higher numbers. Congress in 1996 enacted welfare reform legislation to allow grandparents access to public and private support funds.

Once all the numbers are in, the work isn't even half done! The politically divisive task of redistricting begins in 2001, based on Census 2000 numbers. Aside from that, there is still a debate raging over just how Americans should be counted. Traditionally, actual enumeration (basically, a head count) was used to count the population, but the Clinton - Gore Administration wanted to change that method to statistical sampling this year, suggesting it would provide a better count of urban areas where minorities are often undercounted. A Supreme Court decision will provide states with both sets of numbers and each state can choose which numbers to use in state and local redistricting.

Expect to hear more on this controversial point. Wisconsinites tend to favor enumeration because as a state, we tend to do a better job at counting our citizens than some other areas of the country. Statistical sampling, or "making an educated guess" about our population, may hurt our overall numbers.

The Census 2000 team is always looking for new members. If you are looking for work or an extra source of income, chances are pretty good that there's a census job in your area paying up to $11 an hour with reimbursement for mileage. For more information, call 888-325-7733 or visit www.census.gov.

FFA Rabies Clinic Set for April 5

Rebecca Baron, seated, registers a member of the community at last year's Rabies Clinic. Rabies shots are administered by veterinarians from the Kewaskum Veterinary Clinic at a reduced cost of $12 per animal. Come out and support the Kewaskum FFA Scholarship Fund, Wednesday, April 5.

The Kewaskum FFA will be holding their annual rabies clinic on Wednesday, April 5, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Kewaskum High School Agriculture Department, located in the back of the high school.

Both cats and dogs in need of a rabies shot are welcome. The price of the shot is $12 per animal. The clinic is put on with the help of the Kewaskum/Al-lenton Veterinary Clinic. This event has been an annual fundraiser for the Kewaskum FFA Scholarship Fund for many years.

Proceeds will go to the Dr. Ogi Scholarship fund, a scholarship awarded to a deserving senior FFA member who plans on entering the agricultural field of study.

Girl Scout Week March 11-17

Girl Scouts Grow Strong In New Millennium

The start of the 20th century marked a period of historic advancement for women.

Female workers organized for better wages and working conditions in 1903. Jeannette Rankin became the first woman elected to the U.S. Congress in 1917, and suffragists gained women the momentous right to vote in 1919. The early part of the last century also gave birth to a movement that helped to produce female leaders and to shape women's futures right up to the present.

In 1912, a progressive woman from Savannah, Georgia, founded one of the most influential organizations in the lives of American women, the Girl Scouts. Girl Scouts from around the country will mark the 88th anniversary of their organization's founding during Girl Scout Week, celebrated this year from March 11-17, and Girl Scout Sunday was observed on March 12.

Throughout nine decades, the Girl Scouts have stayed true to Founder Juliette Gordon Low's vision: Helping girls grow strong. Now with 3.6 million members, Girl Scouting is giving more girls the opportunities they need to grow strong in body, mind and spirit.

"As we enter the 21st century, the timeless values of Girl Scouting ring as true today as they did in 1912 -- courage, strength, service and leadership," said Denise Schemenauer, Executive Director. "Now, as we celebrate the anniversary of the Girl Scouts' founding, we renew our commitment to helping today's girls become tomorrow's leaders."

Girl Scouting has helped produce leaders throughout its 88-year history. In fact, two-thirds of the current female members of Congress are Girl Scout alumnae. A recent Louis Harris study confirms that Girl Scouting has had an important influence on many of today's women leaders.

Two-thirds of the women of professional achievement surveyed reported that they were once Girl Scouts. The study also showed that the Girl Scout organization had a positive impact on most adult women's lives including their ability to work with others and make friends, to develop moral values and self-confidence and to serve as volunteers.

Girl Scouts is the world's preeminent organizations dedicated solely to girls -- all girls -- where, in an accepting and nurturing environment, girls build character and skills for success in the real world.

In partnership with committed adults, girls develop qualities that will serve them all their lives... like strong values, social conscience, and conviction about their own potential and self-worth. In Girl Scouts, girls discover the fun, friendship and power of girls together.

Through the many enriching experiences provided by Girl Scouting, they grow courageous and strong Girl Scouts. Where Girls Grow Strong. Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library Project

A national museum to honor Korean War veterans is planned for construction in Tuscola, Illinois.

The Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library will be among the first museums of national scope devoted entirely to the subject of one particular war. A long overdue tribute, the museum will be the only national repository in which to house three-dimensional artifacts, such as books and manuscripts, maps and photographs, and military and civilian documents associated with the Korean War.

The purpose of the Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library is to preserve a record of the participation of the United States in the Korean War, to educate and disseminate information to the general public about the Korean War era and the country of South Korea, and to promote good relations and friendship among Korean War veterans, the citizens of other United Nations allies who participated in the Korean War, and the people of South Korea.

The mission of the museum and library is to collect, research, care for, and interpret Korean War information and artifacts for Korean War veterans, their descendants, and the general public. The Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library will provide for the preservation of such material and for its accessibility, as far as may be feasible, to all who wish to examine and study it.

The primary objectives of the national museum and library are to build a museum facility, a library and a convention center; to advertise throughout the United States, in South Korea, and in Allied Nations for outright donations (no permanent loans) of objects associated with the Korean War; and to hire museum professionals to catalog and preserve all donations.

Educational programs will be scheduled to help the general public gain a better understanding of the events that surrounded the Korean War and the role in which Korean War veterans played to stop the spread of communism in South Korea and the world.

Veterans trying to locate those who served with them in various units, battalions, companies, and divisions will be assisted by a Korean War veterans registry. A nation-wide oral history project to tape the memoirs of Korean War veterans and DMZ veterans in the United States and throughout the world will also be one of the primary objectives of the museum and library.

A research library will be established in the museum for books that relate perspectives of the American,

Allied, and Korean history pertinent to the Korean War; reference books which provide historical information; movies and video tapes; photographs and slides; audio tape recordings; and maps, documents, and other such items associated with the Korean War and DMZ eras, and their participants.

General public use of the library, as well as scholarly research, will be encouraged. Youngsters will be provided with hands-on opportunities to learn about South Korea with the use of visual aids and three-dimensional objects. Traveling educational programs for schools will be established, and visitation by school groups will be encouraged.

Reunions will be encouraged in the museum's convention center. Fact sheets, videos, and publications will be created and utilized to educate the public. A museum store will sell Korean War-related educational materials. Visits from Korean nationals living in the United States, as well as visits from foreign travelers, will be encouraged. The museum will be aggressively promoted through public service announcements, the Internet, a quarterly publication, and by building coalitions with military museums and war memorial associations that honor the American, South Korean, and Allied participation in the Korean War.

The Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library incorporated in the state of Illinois in June of 1998, and fund-raising efforts are currently in progress. The establishment of the Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library is not financially supported by federal legislation.

Fund-raising for the museum and library is entirely the responsibility of the board of trustees. Most of the funds will come from individual and corporate sponsorship, and the sponsors will be recognized on inscribed tiles incorporated into the convention center walls.

The museum and library project is a grass-roots effort that began in Illinois, but is one that has been embraced by interested persons throughout the United States and South Korea. The war touched the lives of people nation-wide. For example, of the over 5.7 million Americans who served during the war, 1.5 to 1.6 million actually served in Korea.

Of course, the many surviving friends and family members of the 33,629 who died battle deaths in Korea, were also affected by the war. Countless thousands of Americans were also wounded in Korea, and large numbers of these Purple Heart recipients are still living in the states. The Korean War also touched the lives of people in the 21 other nations that participated in the Korean War, and the lives of Americans who served in Korea since the armistice signing.

The Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library is a non-profit, federally tax-exempt, historic preservation agency. Because interest in the museum is not limited to veterans, its membership is open to the general public.

A mechanism for permanent funding of the museum and library is in place. The constitution of the organization includes a clause requiring five percent of all membership dues had to be set aside in an Endowment Fund until 2000. Beginning this year, the amount increases to 10 percent. Funds are currently accruing in the account.

Additionally, convention center fees will, for the most part, be placed into the Endowment Fund to increase that permanent funding base. The museum is expected to receive numerous reunion groups each year.

Other funds to operate and maintain the museum will come from admission fees (no person will be prevented from utilizing the museum due to inability to pay admission fees), private and corporate donations, federal and state grants, bequeaths, and museum store proceeds. (Most of the general operating fund, which covers postage, office supplies, and the like, is generated by the membership dues. Donations contributed to the Wall of Remembrance and Wall of Honor tile program go to the Building Fund.)

The Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library will not only serve as an educational tool for the general public, but it will also serve as a tribute to the millions of Americans who willingly served their country during the Korean War. The museum will not glorify war. Instead, it will explain that war has often been necessary to safeguard freedom.

The Korean War, considered by many to be "The Forgotten War," successfully secured freedom for the people of South Korea and helped stop the spread of communism. Impressive state and local Korean War memorials have recently been built throughout the United States, but the proposal Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library, centrally located on a main transportation artery in an area of high tourism in Illinois, will have the power to educate the general public about the Korean War in a way that no visit to a statue or memorial can equal. The use of three-dimensional historical objects within a museum setting encourages exploration, study, observation, critical thinking, contemplation, and dialogue among museum visitors.

For more information, contact the Korean War Veterans National Museum and Library's organizing headquarters, P.O. Box 16, Tuscola, Illinois 61953. Phone (217) 253-5813. Tax Relief for Small Businesses

By Congressman
Jim Sensenbrenner

Small businesses in Wisconsin and throughout the country today face an unfairly high tax burden. Sadly, some small business owners are even forced out of business because the tax bite is simply too high, but relief is in sight.

Last week, the House of Representatives passed a common-sense tax relief bill for small businesses by a vote of 257-169. H.R. 3081, the Small Business Tax Fairness Act, provides nearly $46 billion in tax relief in the next five years to help small businesses and their employees.

Among its most important provisions, the measure passed today includes $463 million in tax relief this year through reinstatement of the installment method of capital gains tax payment. This provision allows small business owners who sell their businesses to pay their capital gains taxes in installments, instead of one lump sum.

The bulk of the bill's tax relief is contained in a provision which reduces the estate and gift taxes over a five year period by nearly $30 billion. The bill also provides tax relief through pension reform and retirement security enhancements such as increased pension portability. Further, it increases the health insurance deduction for self-employed individuals, provides real estate tax relief, and increases the deductible percentage of business meal expenses.

The Small Business Tax Fairness Act is fiscally responsible because it is financed solely by the non-Social Security surplus. Most importantly, it supplies the common-sense tax relief small business owners in Wisconsin need to stay in business.

Spring Has Sprung But Slow Down

Mild weather, high speeds and failure to wear safety belts are cited as reasons behind the hike in Wisconsin traffic fatalities this year.

Preliminary figures show traffic crashes claimed the lives of 49 people last month on Wisconsin roads which compares to 29 killed in February last year and a five-year average of 40 persons killed. So far this year, 113 people were killed in traffic crashes. January was a particularly deadly month with 64 motor vehicle-related fatalities in Wisconsin.

"Although the weather is mild and roadways are clear, motorists still need to be cautious, reduce their speed and buckle up," said John Evans, director, Bureau of Transportation Safety.

Of the 49 traffic-related fatalities last month, 37 drivers, nine passengers, two pedestrians and one motorcycle driver were killed on Wisconsin roads.

"Deaths on Wisconsin roadways are up," Evans said. "And even though mild temperatures mean better conditions we urge Wisconsin motorists to obey the speed limits, pay attention and be mindful of pedestrians."

The most deadly February since World War II was 73 persons killed in motor vehicle crashes in 1968. Both 1970 and 1973 were the next deadliest Februaries since World War II with 69 persons killed in traffic-related crashes. The safest post World War II

February occurred in 1983, when 23 fatalities were recorded.

"We need to spread the message that buckling up, obeying traffic signs and observing speed limits are paramount especially now that bicyclists, motocyclists and pedestrians are out in force enjoying the mild weather," Evans said.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Prayer to the Holy Spirit: Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, light all roads so that I can attain my goal. You who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evils against me and that in all instances of my life you are with me. I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things as you confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you, even and in spite of all material illusion. I wish to be with you internal glory. Thank you for your mercy toward me and mine. The person must say this prayer for three consecutive days. After three days, the favor requested will be granted, even if it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after the favor is granted.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of ALFRED C. VOIGT, who passed away four years ago, March 18, 1996:

God saw he was getting tired and a cure was not to be,

So He put His arm around him and whispered "Come with Me."

With tearful eyes we watched him suffer and saw him fade away, Although we loved him dearly,

We could not make him stay. His golden heart stopped beating,

Hard working hands to rest, God broke our hearts to prove to us,

He only takes the best.

IN MEMORY

In loving memory of ROY SMITH (Smitty), who passed away one year ago, March 17, 1999:

Your wife Bernice and family.

THANK YOU

Thanks to the Blessed Virgin for request granted.

PRAYER OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN

(Never known to fail)

Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this prayer for your hands (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks

DNR Plays a Facilitating Role in Proposed Hunting Season on Mourning Doves

By George E. Meyer, Secretary
Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources

Recently, I have read many articles and letters in Wisconsin's newspapers raising concerns about the Department of Natural Resources' proposed mourning dove hunting season. I believe that it is important to address these concerns.

As a state agency, the DNR works hard to consider all natural resources-related proposals and give each careful consideration. The decisions the DNR ultimately makes are based on science and the effects on the quality of our natural resources, as well as consideration for public input. Before a final decision is made regarding mourning dove hunting we must be confident that the biology is sound and that public opinion has been sought. This is the way the department has always conducted state business and the way decisions will be made in the future.

The DNR has had huge successes in water quality management, clean air and endangered species and habitat protection. Throughout the state, the department has played a central role in protection of wetlands and prairies, while restoring and protecting eagles, osprey, trumpeter swans, common loons, prairie chickens and the pine marten.

Soon the state will begin the reintroduction of whooping cranes. Our track record of natural resource conservation for the benefit of all citizens is long and successful. At the same time, the Department has a broad range of constituencies -- constituencies that are sometimes in conflict. When this happens, we need to give proposals due consideration while sustaining healthy natural resources. Mourning dove hunting is one such proposal.

This proposal has been reviewed carefully by the DNR's wildlife staff. Wildlife biologists working for the DNR are highly trained and skilled professionals who care deeply about wildlife. They have dedicated their careers to conserving natural resources for everyone who uses them. The department would not consider a mourning dove season if we thought it would limit the population.

The idea of mourning dove hunting season is not new. Proposals have been put forward by residents of Wisconsin numerous times over the past 40 years. The department's consideration of this season is in line with our mission statement which aims to provide "a full range of outdoor opportunities" in Wisconsin.

These opportunities include snowmobiling, hiking, camping, boating, jet-skiing, fishing and hunting. We considered this proposal just as we do all others. After thorough review, the department concluded that the science and biology are sound. The mourning dove population can sustain a regulated hunt without impact.

Regardless of the biology of the mourning dove there is a great deal of emotion associated with mourning dove hunting. The most difficult aspect of this issue is communicating the reason for hunting mourning doves. An important quality of hunting is that it maintains a deep connection between people and our natural resources. Hunting is a highly valued, emotionally based aspect of Wisconsin's conservation heritage. Beyond that, the Department feels it is the state's responsibility to provide opportunities for citizens to use our renewable resources whenever possible.

I'm reminded of a wonder analogy or a ripe apple in a tree. We could choose to let the apple fall off the tree and rot on the ground. Or, we could pick the apple and take it home and use it for decoration. Or, we could choose to consume the apple. No matter what we decide to do with the apple, we do not affect the apple's eventual fate. What is ultimately important is the health of the tree to produce apples in the future. The same is true of doves.

The forum for public input on the mourning dove hunting season is the Spring Conservation Hearings, held in each county on April 10. A list of Spring Hearings locations can be found on the web at www.dnr.state.wi.us/org/nrboard/springhearings. More information is available about the mourning dove at www.dnr.state.wi.us/org/land/wildlife/dove/dove.htm.

Volunteer!

* Help prepare hiking trails during a fun trail cleanup day on April 15!

* Looking for something your family can do together? How about "adopting a grandparent"?

* Do the words, "power tool" grab your attention? If this is the case, please donate some time during the Spring and Summer to helping a Newburg agency mow their lawn and to do some trimming. A riding lawn mower and a weed eater would be used.

* Person needed to facilitate workshop relating to parenting issues like stress reduction, nurturing routines, discipline, etc.

* Do you enjoy helping children in a very significant way? If so, be a part of the foster care adult recruitment. Be assigned a target area in your community and drop off recruitment information. Follow up monthly to restock.

* Still a kid at heart? If so, why not help out with a school carnival? Help run actual carnival games for elementary age students on May 19.

* Help move and clean mannequins or register participants attending a CPR class on April 8.

* Looking for something more long term? Why not be a friend to a 40-year-old disabled man by taking him fishing, to a movie, or other fun things. Or... be a mentor for an eight-year-old boy who likes to do "guy stuff" one-on-one.

* Come alone or bring your family to help West Bend with the Great American Cleanup Event. Volunteers will be picking up litter throughout the city of West Bend on April 15. Even an hour will make a difference!

* Are you at the Farmer's Market in West Bend on most summer Saturdays? If so, why not come to help out a local non-profit agency set up, sell their produce, and then take down their booth?

For these opportunities and many more, contact the Volunteer Center at 338-8256. If you don't see something that interests you, just stop by at 239 N. Main Street in West Bend or give them a call at 262-338-8256. They have something for everyone!

KHS Participated in Skills Olympics

The Moraine Park Foundation in cooperation with the School Relations/School to Work Department of Moraine Park Technical College sponsored the 22nd Annual Skills Olympics on Friday, March 3, at the Fond du Lac campus.

This year's event was attended by 650 high school student participants from 25 area high schools. Students competed for a scholarship of $200.00 with gold, silver and bronze medals designating 1st, 2nd and 3rd respective placing.

Honorable mention placing are also acknowledged. A single school trophy is issued to the top participating school. The 56 contests include a wide range of interests sponsored in each of the educational programs offered at M.P.T.C. It is interesting to note that many students participate in more than one competitive area in this all day event that cost each participant a $3.00 participant fee that covered lunch and entertainment. Contest specifications and judging criteria were provided to each student one month prior to the event. Many students spent countless hours preparing for the events of the day.

Mary Koch (Family & Consumer Education Department) attended the event with 37 Kewaskum High School participants.

K.H.S. attendance at this event increased significantly over last year, with students competing in a total of 19 of the 56 contests offered. The following students from Kewaskum received recognition: Nick Camp, Electronics, First Place; Josh Mueller, Computer / Data Processing, Third Place; Tiffany Trott, Nail Art, Honorable Mention; Carrie Gayan, Long Hair Evening Design, Honorable Mention; Jeanna Heppner, Create a Plate (Chicken Entree), Honorable Mention; Kelly Brock, Cake Decorating, Honorable Mention; Cheryl Sager, Cake Decorating, Honorable Mention; Tine Olewinski, Cake Decorating, Honorable Mention.

All K.H.S. students, freshman through senior, are encouraged to explore this unique opportunity to pursue scholarship that can be applied toward any M.P.T.C. course or any M.P.T.C. program offered at any time. Next year the event will be held and details will be made available one month prior to the event. For further information, please contact Mary Koch at K.H.S. at 626-4239 Ext. 4108. K.H.S. students are encouraged to review the 2000 contest details and to begin preparation during first semester this fall.

WisDot Limits Access to Personal Motor Vehicle Records

If you're looking for a motor vehicle record for another person you now have to complete a state form in which you certify that you are authorized to obtain information under the Federal Drivers Privacy Protection Act. The act limits access to personal identifiable information, such as the person's name and address.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled the act constitutional. It is designed to protect privacy and limits the release of personally identifiable information from ID cards, instruction permits, driver licenses, vehicle titles, vehicle registrations, and other motor vehicle records. However, persons involved in a crash or attempting to settle a crash claim are still able to obtain information about the status of a person's driver's license and driving violations.

The state Department of Transportation's Division of Motor Vehicle now requires that you complete a Vehicle/Driver Record Information Request, which asks that you check one of 13 possible reasons why you are authorized to receive the personal information. The reasons range from having the written consent of the person or being a law enforcement agency to being an employer of someone with a commercial driver license.

Only persons asking for their own records do not have to complete the form. They will, however, have to provide some type of proof of identity. Current DMV account holders -- firms that routinely request large volumes of information -- need only complete the form once unless they have multiple accounts with DMV.

The form is available at local DMV customer service centers or can be downloaded at <http://www.dot.state.wi.us/dmv/records.htm>. A new form must be completed each time a request is made for motor vehicle records. Persons who complete the form fraudulently could be subject to criminal penalties such as actual damages of not less than $2,500, punitive damages, attorney's fees and other litigation costs.

Beginning April 13, DMV also will not provide personal records for bulk distribution of surveys, marketing or solicitations. An amendment to the Drivers Privacy Protection Act requires that personal information cannot be disclosed for these purposes unless the state has the permission of the person whose record is being provided.

Legislature Passes Grothman Teacher Protection Bill

Representative Glenn Grothman (R-West Bend) praised the Senate for passing Assembly Bill 100 late Tuesday night, March 14.

The bill, which he authored, had previously passed the State Assembly on June 1, 1999, amended Wisconsin's corporal punishment law to prevent over-zealous prosecutors from bringing battery charges against teachers who are merely behaving as a reasonable person would.

Area teachers had complained to Representative Grothman that under current law there was a fear of teaching a disruptive student -- making it unclear who was in control of the classroom. Prosecutions in some part of the state had caused teachers time, legal fees and harm to reputation.

"Some of these laws created in the 1980's really went overboard in making the students' boss," said Grothman. "It's time to get back to some common sense."

The bill will now be sent to Governor Thompson's desk, where it awaits his signature.

AAL Branch 6811 Holding Kringle Sale

AAL Branch 6811 of St. John Lutheran Church, New Fane, is conducting a Kringle Sale beginning immediately and running to April 13.

Proceeds of the sale, together with a matching grant from the AAL home office will be used to assist with medical expenses for area residents Lisa Bronkhorst, a young Kewaskum mother of two who has suffered both liver and kidney failure and has been hospitalized for approximately the past three months awaiting organ transplants, and Heather and Eric Wendt, handicapped 13-year-old twins from Eden who have cerebral palsy, and are in need of special handicap equipment.

Flyers listing choices, price and numbers to call to place an order or for more information are posted in various business places in town. The support of the community is requested and appreciated.

Marni Lynn Wins Four Conference Track Titles

Marni Lynn helped the Carroll College Women's indoor track and field team finish second at the Midwest Conference Indoor Track and Field Championships on Friday and Saturday, March 3 and 4.

Lynn won both the 3,000m and 1500m races Friday night and set records in each event. Lynn's winning time of 4:43.84 in the 1500m run was just 0.20 seconds off the provisional qualifying time for the NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Lynn also ran a leg on the winning medley relay and placed a third in a tight finish in the 800m race on Saturday. In the 5,000m race, Lynn missed the conference record by just one second with her winning time of 18:33.

Lynn missed a lot of early season training and racing during the indoor season due to a bout with mononucleosis in January. Last year Lynn was the Division III Indoor National Champion in the 1500m run.

The largest prehistoric insect was believed to be the dragonfly. Fossil remains indicate a wingspan of up to 27 1/2 inches.
