Annual Lions Chicken BBQ, Kettle 20 Sunday

Summer wouldn't be summer if not for the savory aroma of chicken slowly cooking on a grill. And the Kewaskum Lions will not let a summer go by without tempting all of us to attend their annual Chicken Bar-B-Que on Sunday, July 9 in River Hill Park. And the best part is they are going to cook it for us with all the trimmings, and all we have to do is show up to eat it! Good idea? You better believe it!

To make a good day even better, the KEYS Run Kettle 20 will be held in conjunction with the chicken barbecue. The Lions will be serving their delicious grilled chicken while runners from throughout the state of Wisconsin vie for the coveted first place finish in the 20 kilometer (12.2 mile) foot race event. Other runs include a 3.5 and a 5 mile race and will feature various men's and women's divisions.

The race is scheduled to begin at 7:30 a.m. in the park. Registrations will also be taken in advance. For more information on the race you are asked to contact Jerry Gosa at 626-4286.

Divisions for the Kettle 20 include six men's age groups: 1-17, 18-29, 30-39, 40-49, 50-59, and age 60 and over. The five women's age groups are 1-17, 18-29, 30-39, 40 and over and 50 plus.

Top male and female competitors will receive a trophy, followed by medals for second and third place, with ribbons being awarded for fourth and fifth. The two smaller races will also offer awards to the top place winners.

Runners look forward to coming back to compete in this annual race because of the challenge of the Kettle 20 and the scenic beauty of the rolling Kettle Moraine terrain.

All runners also have the advantage of purchasing their chicken dinners for a special price but they must order their tickets before the race begins.

The Lions Club will be serving their delectable dinners throughout the day, beginning at 11 a.m. and running until 3 p.m. Carry-outs will be available from 11 a.m. until closing.

The Lions plan on serving 700 chicken dinners so there's plenty for everyone. Beer, soda, other food, ice cream and homemade desserts will also be available at the park.

Whether you will be there to cheer on the runners, competing in the race, or just attending to sample some of the best grilled chicken in the area, plan on spending a little time in River Hill park and enjoy the live music scheduled for your entertainment. Raffle tickets will also be available.

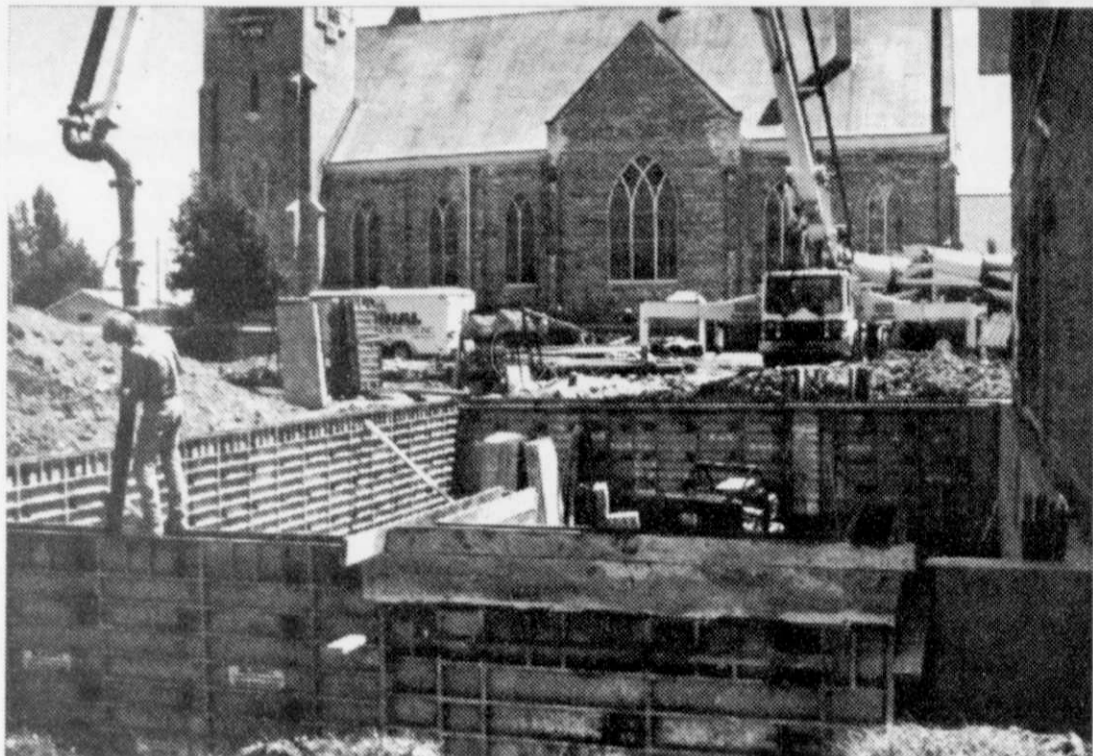

Proceeds from this annual event are used for the Lions local community projects, and Camp Rosholt for the developmentally disabled.

School District Walking Tours Scheduled

The Kewaskum School District will host Walking Tours of both the Farmington Elementary and Wayne Elementary school building remodeling projects on Monday, July 24. The times for the Walking Tours will be from 5 to 7 p.m. at each site.

Community members are welcome to stop in and walk through either building anytime between the scheduled times. School Board members and administrators will be present between 5 and 7 p.m. to welcome people and respond to questions.

Fortis Names Silbernagel a Top Producer

WOODBURY, MN-Fortis Financial services company based in St. Paul, MN, has named James Silbernagel of Campbellsport a top producer.

"Fortis representatives can only be named top producers by meeting the needs of their clients," said Roger Arnold, Fortis senior vice president of sales. "The only way to accumulate sales is by knowing your client's financial goals and making them a personal priority."

Arnold explained that top producers have call-in priority. Their applications are processed same day, they have access to fund managers and have preview privileges of new products or upcoming product changes.

"These benefits are turned into benefits for the reps' clients," said Arnold. "We strive to be easy to do business with and simplify our clients' financial lives."

Silbernagel has been a Fortis representative since the mid 1980's and joined Anthony Jasen to create Silbernagel & Jasen Financial Services in 1990. Their Kewaskum business serves Washington, Ozaukee, Fond du Lac, Waukesha, Sheboygan, Dodge and Milwaukee counties.

"We have a genuine interest in finding the right solutions for our customers needs," said Silbernagel. "We rely on our understanding of insurance and financial planning to develop effective and appropriate programs for our clients."

Fortis Financial Group (FFG) is part of Fortis

based in Europe. Fortis is ranked 48 on Fortune's top 500 global companies (September 20, 1999), operating more than 200 companies throughout the world, employing more than 62,000 and managing assets in excess of $400 billion (December 31, 1999). FFG's core products include variable universal life insurance, variable annuities and mutual funds.

FFG includes Fortis Investors, Inc., principal underwriter, a member of NASD and SIPC; Fortis Advisors, Inc. fund managers since 1949; Fortis Benefits Insurance Company and Fortis Insurance Company-IMSA members and insurers of FFG products. FFG received 1998 and 1999 DALBAR customer service awards. Its mutual funds ranked fourth on Barron's best mutual fund families (February 7, 2000) and frequently rank in the Wall Street Journal's top 10 list.

Substitute Teachers Needed

Local school districts are having a difficult time finding adequate numbers of substitute teachers to cover classrooms when teachers are absent. When this substitute teacher shortage occurs, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction will issue an emergency substitute-teaching license to individuals who hold a four-year degree in a field other than education.

Interested applicants can apply to the School District of Kewaskum. They would need to attend and complete a two-day workshop in Oshkosh (on Tuesday, August 22, and Wednesday, August 23, 2000). After course completion, the nec-

Grandparents University Is a New Adventure

Go alone or go with grandchildren to the first Grandparents University to be held July 24-25 at the University of Wisconsin - Madison campus. Discover the gifts of grandparenting, learn about today's younger generation, network with other grandparents, find resources for grandparenting and raising grandchildren, and learn ways to play and interact with grandchildren. There will be special workshops for grandparents raising grandchildren.

Keynote is Jack Westman, M.S., Professor Emeritus in Psychiatry of the UW Medical School. His topic is "Growing Together: Grandparents Parents and Grandchildren." Twenty-four seminars are available to select from the evening activities and tours are also planned. All classes will be held in campus buildings. Special accommodations due to limited mobility or health concerns are available.

Early bird registration is due July 7 and final registrations are due July 19. For information and registration materials contact Washington County UWEX Family Living at 262-335-4479.

essary paperwork (including certified school transcripts) would be completed and submitted to the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction with a $100 fee for the licensing.

After the State of Wisconsin has completed a background check, the individual would be able to substitute teach. Although we would prefer to see trained teachers in the classroom, there is an ongoing need for additional individuals to substitute teach. The Kewaskum School District is not immune to this problem. We continue to have difficulties finding adequate numbers of daily, short and long-term substitute teachers.

If you have any questions about the emergency substitute-teaching licensing program, please call Mr. Kieth Kriewaldt, Director of Elementary, at 262-626-8427, ext. 1001.

If you are interested in completing the program for an emergency substitute-teaching license, please call Debbie Goodsell at 262-626-8427, 8001 to request an application form. Space availability at the seminar is limited, so please response as quickly as possible.

Federal and Postal Job Scams: Tip-Offs to Rip-Offs

You never have to pay for information about job vacancies or employment opportunities with the U.S. government or U.S. Postal Service. But some fraudulent promoters are victimizing many Americans by selling information about federal job opportunities. These scam artists advertise in the classified sections of newspaper and offer - for a fee - to help job seekers find and apply for federal jobs. Some fraudulent companies even try to confuse consumers by using names that sound like those of federal agencies, like the "U.S. Agency for Career Advancement" or the "Postal Employment Service."

Fraudsters may lie about the availability of federal job openings in your area. For example, the Postal Service has few vacancies for career positions, and for many of the entry-level jobs, you must take a written examination. Postal Service hiring takes place at the local level through 85 district offices. If someone tells you that postal jobs are available, check with the Postal Service to determine if hiring is taking place and if an exam is required for eligibility. Because of the high volume of applicants taking the test, they usually are offered every few years in any particular district.

Federal agencies and the U.S. Postal Service never charge application fees or guarantee that an applicant will be hired. If positions require a competitive examination - and many do not - hiring agencies typically offer free sample questions to consumers who sign up for the exam.

It's deceptive for anyone to guarantee you a high score on the postal entrance examinations required for rural carrier associate, clerk, city carrier, mail handler, flat sorter machine operator, mail processor and markup clerk jobs. These exams test your general aptitude, something you can't necessarily increase by studying. Attending workshops, studying exam techniques and taking practice questions won't assure you of a top score on the exam - and even a top score doesn't guarantee that you'll be hired. You must meet other requirements, including passing a background check and a drug test. Some veterans receive hiring preferences.

The Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. Office of Personnel Management urge job seekers to avoid falling for these tip-offs to federal and postal job rip-offs:

- Classified ads or verbal sales pitches that imply an affiliation with the federal government, guarantee high test scores or jobs or state that "no experience is necessary."

- Ads that offer information about "hidden" or unadvertised federal jobs.

- Ads that refer to a toll-free phone number. Often, in these cases, an operator encourages you to buy a "valuable" booklet containing job listings, practice test questions and tips for entrance exams.

- Toll-free numbers that direct you to other pay-per-call number for more information. Under federal law, any solicitations for pay-per-call numbers must contain full disclosures about cost. Also, the solicitation must make clear if there is an affiliation with the federal government. You must have a chance to hang up before you incur any charges.

If you have concerns about a company's advertisement for employment services, contact:

- Federal Trade Commission: 1-877-FTC-HELP (382-4357) or www.ftc.gov.

- U.S. Postal Inspection Service: Your local office is listed in the blue (Government) pages of your telephone directory.

- Your state attorney general or your local Better Business Bureau.

FLOWER CHILDREN

by Ami

A neighbor's wife at a backyard supper party made this statement as she enjoyed the beauty of the variety of flowers in full bloom in that yard: "What would we do without the beauty of plants in bloom?"

It reminded me of the women pioneers who somehow saw to it that rose and lilac roots accompanied the covered wagons on their dangerous trips across country. Women who knew how very important it was to have the beauty of flowers to lift their hearts and souls even though their lives were filled with hardship, illnesses, and death.

Before I had time to share this thought one of the other neighbors very matter of factly enjoined: "You are so right about the flower thing but I believe having flowers about is almost as important as having a lively bunch of children to keep one young in heart and mind!"

Indeed her remark stirred up a host of sharing such as: "To me flowers bring a softness wonderment helping me to face the drabness one sometimes feels burdened with in life."

"The lovely colors and fragrance of flowers always stirs my thoughts of God and His lovely creations."

"You are so right about flowers and children. I just love to hear kids playing...letting their imaginations provide the world with a whole new look of wonderment and possibilities."

And then the joy of good food shared under a sunny blue sky made one believe in the magic of both flowers and the progeny of humankind.

July 12, 1910

This is a very special lady.

She cuts two acres of grass and trims around one hundred fifty trees. She helps cut rows of fire wood and gathers hundreds of pine cones so they won't damage her lawn mower. She climbs tall ladders to maintain her historical farm buildings. At age 88 she went white water rafting on the New River in West Virginia. The Parnell Tower, she has climbed several times. Her five bedroom home is lovingly cared for, although she would much rather be outside talking to God while strolling her eighty acre farm. The Lord has been with her for ninety years and has blest her with humor, working hands, good health and a loving heart.

We love you Mom and pray the Lord will continue to bless you with good health.

Lithotripsy Services Being Offered By Advanced Healthcare, S.C.

Advanced Healthcare, S.C. is offering Lithotripsy services at its outpatient surgery centers. Urologists Dr. Michael Krco and Dr. Alex Zacharias are performing the procedures at North Shore Surgical Center, 7007 North Range Line Road, Glendale, and at West Bend Surgery Center, 1710 Vogt Drive, West Bend.

Lithotripsy is an alternative to surgery for the treatment of kidney stones. In the past many patients required surgery to remove kidney stones. Lithotripsy created a non-invasive alternative for 95% of these patients. Historically, lithotripsy was only performed in hospital outpatient departments due to procedural technique requirements and high fixed equipment costs. Equipment was either purchased for a dedicated suite or leased from a company that brought the equipment to the hospital via a semi trailer that was parked outside in which the procedure was performed. Recent technological advances have created superior performance in a compact and portable unit. The unit is transported via a lift gate truck and can easily be wheeled into an ambulatory surgery suite.

When functioning normally, our kidneys filter chemical waste from the body and remove it by making urine that is passed out through the bladder. Kidney stones are formed when the kidneys cannot properly filter chemical waste from the body and crystals in the waste stick together and form stones. Problems occur when the stones pass through the ureter into the bladder, causing pain (sometimes severe), nausea, vomiting, blood in the urine, and infection. Sometimes stones are passed, with some discomfort, on their own. Larger stones, however, require treatment, such as lithotripsy, in which shock waves are focused on the stones from outside the body, breaking them into smaller fragments. These can be passed in the urine.

In addition to Dr. Krco and Dr. Zacharias, Advanced Healthcare Urologists Dr. Kevin Gee, Dr. Christopher Kearns, and Dr. William Annesley will also be performing lithotripsy services at local surgery centers.

Advanced Healthcare,

S.C., was formed in 1998 through a merger of Falls Medical Group, Milwaukee Medical Clinic and West Bend Clinic. It is the largest physician owned, multi-specialty group practice in Southeastern Wisconsin, with nearly 300 physicians providing care at 16 clinic locations and 2 ambulatory surgery centers in Washington, Ozaukee, Milwaukee and Waukesha Counties.

On Sunday, June 25, the Mrs. Wisconsin Pageant took place at the Country Inn in Waukesha. Carrie Kuehl, wife of John Kuehl, was representing Random Lake at the pageant.

One of the segments of the Mrs. Wisconsin Pageant was for the contestants to enter their husbands with an essay on why their husband should be "Husband of the Year 2000." The essay Carrie entered won John the award, along with numerous gifts.

John is the owner of Kuehl Electric. He is the son of Darlene Kuehl and the late Elmer Kuehl.

Carrie and John have been married for 11-1/2 years and she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Kumrow.

Together, John and Carrie have four children: Kyle, twins Desiree and Destin, Kierra and John also has a daughter, Amber.

Carrie entered the Mrs. Wisconsin Pageant because it is a pageant that honors today's married woman and focuses on marriage, family values, personal charm and community involvement. The pageant also benefits local charities.

The winner of this year's pageant was Mrs. Brookfield, Mary Peabody.

Blood Drive July 6 at Campbellsport

During summer holidays, you might be celebrating life by taking a family vacation, going to the park, or hiking in the woods. Another very important way to celebrate life is to donate blood--especially around the summer holidays.

When you give blood, you may be helping a young cancer patient or an accident victim get another chance at life.

Please take the time to donate blood around the summer holidays. A Red Cross blood drive will be held on Thursday, July 6, from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at The Campbellsport Community Center.

In the hour it takes to donate blood, you can make the difference between life and death. The semi-annual Blood Drive is again being sponsored by the Bishop Salvatore Schlaefter Knights of Columbus Council #11301.

FES kindergartner Bradley Boegel, left, wrote the letter that secured the WBKV Top Teacher designation for his classroom aide, Mrs. Alberta Clements.

A's Split

The Kewaskum A's lost a Tri-County game to Pardeeville on Friday night, 15-14, with Tim Gundrum taking the loss.

After trailing 14-2 the A's came back and tied the game at 14-all. Gundrum did a nice job of keeping the team in the game. Dave Bothe went 4-4 including a solo home run in the eighth inning to tie the game. The A's never gave up and did a great job getting back into this game. They are now 4-3 in Tri-County.

On Sunday, the A's defeated the same Pardeeville Braves in a Rock River contest, 6-5. Ken Immel pitched a great game, and Mike Mueller earned the save, getting the last out in the ninth.

Curt Schroeder made two great plays at shortstop and Jared Bruckert made a phenomenal diving catch in centerfield as the defense did not yield an error. Bruckert also hit a solo home run in the eighth which ended up being the winning run. Tim Gundrum had two of the seven hits for the A's.

The team will play Saturday, July 8, in Dotyville versus Mt. Calvary for the S.W.A.B.A. tournament at 10 a.m. and they will then play at 1:30 p.m. at Slinger in Tri-County League. On Sunday they travel to Hartford for a Rock River game.

The A's are now 7-3 in the Rock River League.

Bosnia Trip Opens New World to MPTC Instructor

When Mary Pat Thompson of Cedarburg, agreed to accompany her 63-year-old cousin, Jeanne McCue, on a relief trip to the war-torn state of Bosnia-Herzegovina, she knew it would involve hard work as well as some risks. But she also knew it would be an unforgettable experience and one she couldn't pass up.

"I was very honored that she (McCue) asked me to go with her and that I was in a place in my life where I could go," said the 46-year-old Thompson, a career counselor at Moraine Park Technical College's West Bend Campus. "All of our children (she and her husband have 19-year-old twin daughters and a 21-year-old son) are out of the house and it was just a good time.

"It's dangerous to travel alone, although Jeanne had done that in the past," continued Thompson. "She's run into a lot of different situations over the years, but she has a lot of faith so everything has always worked out. But she decided a while back that she would always take someone along."

Thompson and McCue, a nurse and administrator at Froedtert Memorial Lutheran Hospital in Milwaukee, who operates Bosnia Relief, a nonprofit agency based in Whitefish Bay, had originally planned their trip for April, 1999. However, because of the war in Kosovo, there were no flights into the area, so their trip was cancelled. Plus, McCue was concerned that her relief cargo would not make it safely to its destinations. "The black market is always a problem and she's afraid that if she doesn't accompany her cargo, it won't arrive," explained Thompson. "So Jeanne's gotten in the habit of accompanying it and making sure things get to where they are needed. Plus, there are a lot of government regulations when bringing things into the country, so she likes to shepherd that all through."

The missed trip in April was chalked up as minor setback for Bosnia and new plans were made. On October 24, 1999, Thompson and McCue left O'Hare airport for Bosnia-Herzegovina. "When we left there was a traveler's warning from the state department that had been in place since the start of the Bosnian war, but felt this trip was safe to go," said Thompson. "Jeanne had traveled under this warning before, but felt this trip was more urgent because of the recent war. There were lots of United Nations peace-keeping soldiers on the roads. They were the only other Americans we saw."

about 3,000 pounds worth, was boxed and packed by volunteers from Jeanne's church as well as some of her women friends. Then it was shipped airfreight to the Sarajevo airport about 8-10 days before Thompson and McCue were due to arrive. "Certain items are designated for certain places, so Jeanne makes sure that someone from each of these different groups is at the airport to pick it up," explained Thompson. "By the time we arrive the cargo was loaded and ready to go."

The cargo for Thompson's trip was largely for a home hospice set up by two Irish nuns in Sarajevo. "That was the main reason we made the trip in October," said Thompson. "They were having an opening ceremony for the hospice, so they wanted Jeanne to be there. Croatian television stations were there and apparently we were on TV, although we didn't see it."

As part of the event, a dinner was planned that included Bosnia-Herzegovina's Minister of Health. Thompson and McCue both attended. "The dinner consisted mostly of boiled vegetables so it was kind of different, but we were both very honored to be included," said Thompson.

Several items, primarily personal hygiene items, were donated by Moraine Park staff, along with t-shirts, hats and small toys. Thompson said she was particularly touched by the donation of the ten-year-old daughter of her co-worker, Carrie Schaub. "Kyla had given me several hair scrunchies and a Barbie," said Thompson. "Of course we couldn't put the Barbie in the refugee packs because you want all of the children to receive comparable things, so I decided to give the items to the ten-year-old daughter of one of the women from the hospice. This little girl was just overwhelmed and I asked her if she would write a letter to Kyla, which she did. She included a picture of her and her younger brother and I delivered it to Kyla when I returned home. Kyla plans to send a letter along with Jeanne when she returns to Sarajevo. So she has a pen pal in Bosnia that stemmed from the trip and Kyla's generosity."

Thompson describes the Sarajevo airport as primitive, although McCue told her that it has been built up over the past few years. "It was kind of funny because we both had very big bags," she said. "Whoever travels with Jeanne gives her one of their bags and she fills it with things, usually gifts for the friends she has made in Sarajevo. Or sometimes precious things - like one time she took over an EKG machine with her because she didn't trust it being shipped."

When the two arrived, they headed to a convent in downtown Sarajevo where they made their home base for the next seven days. "We had made the arrangements ahead of time and we paid the sisters to stay there," said Thompson, who describes Sarajevo as a beautiful city that still shows much ravage and devastation. "The convent was immaculate and sage. We received breakfast each morning and shared a common bath. None of the sisters spoke English, and they were the sweetest ladies. They work in an orphanage, which is where some of the items we brought along also went."

"In fact," continued Thompson, "we shipped several quilts to the orphanage that were made and donated to Bosnia Relief by a lady in Fond du Lac. When we arrived they had them on the children's beds. They were extremely pleased to have received them. Jeanne also gave them money for heat for the winter."

The goal for the October trip was to make connections with three different non-government organizations (NGOs) - Catholic Relief Services, Save the Children - UK and the hospice. McCue likes to travel to the sites where the supplies are being sent so she gets a feel for how the items are being used and more importantly, a feel for what is needed. "During each of our trips Jeanne would make some notes on what types of things would best serve these people, and that's what she tries to send on the next trip. However, because everything is donated, she is limited by what she receives."

Thompson describes the trip as having a Middle Eastern feel to it because of the Muslim influence. "I would begin and end each day with the sound of Muslim prayers serenading through the hills, which was very foreign to me, but very beautiful," she said.

McCue had arranged for both a driver and interpreter throughout the trip for which she and Thompson split the costs. "Our driver was a college-educated engineer, who had a good job before the war, but now was just pleased to have this small job," said Thompson. "Our interpreter, whose sister was killed in the war, was going to college for economics. She spoke English and Croatian."

The first morning their driver picked them up and took them to the Save the Children - UK office, a new contact for McCue. They spent the entire day traveling up into the hills with people from this group to get a first-hand look at what supplies the organization needed.

Bosnia Trip

It was on this journey that Thompson experienced one of her most memorably moments from the trip. "We went with these people in their land rover up into the hills and there were these bombed out homes that were now inhabited by gypsies who had been in refugee camps," she explained. "They left the refugee camps because the men were separated from their families and they decided they would rather be in these homes."

Thompson and McCue had brought along some children's refugee packs that included hygiene items as well as some small toys. McCue asked if they could stop and take in the packs. The people from Save the Children were somewhat reluctant, but agreed to stop. "We went into this home and met the two families that were living there," Thompson recalled. "They had absolutely nothing, no running water, no anything. Barely a roof over their heads, and yet they offered us coffee to drink."

"When we brought the packs into the house we were kind of fumbling as if we were unsure if there were enough for each of the children. Of course they don't speak our language and yet this one little girl could sense our concern over not having enough packs and she handed her pack to her little brother. And these people have nothing," said Thompson, who was noticeably touched. "As it turned out we did have enough for each child, but it was that kind of warmth and generosity that we experienced throughout the entire trip."

That trip into the hills was very unsettling because of the hazard of land mines. "The mines were marked with yellow caution tape, and when we came upon this one area we saw a little girl playing with the tape. A mother had also taken some of the tape and was using it as a clothes line."

Another day was spent as quiet observers with the female doctor and two female nurses, who Thompson describes as "three very brave women," from the hospice. They made several home visits including one involving a man and one a child, both in the latter stages of cancer. "Because Jeanne has a medical background the visits really helped her get ideas for her next visit," said Thompson. "We also saw how some of the trips donated items, such as male catheters, were being used. These items are difficult to get in Bosnia, and the hospice staff were eternally grateful for all of the sup-

Thompson and McCue also visited a refugee camp during one of their day trips, which Thompson described as "a bit dangerous." "Things got a little bit out of hand and we kind of got mobbed," said Thompson. "It looked like a real manageable side of the camp and we asked the people in charge if it was okay to be there. We were checking to see if our cargo had arrived yet and we had some things to set to the side for some kids. All of a sudden there were droves of people and they started helping themselves, which is okay. It just kind of overwhelmed us. All of the people who received the items were very grateful and thankful."

Thompson said the situation never made her feel unsafe until after the trip when she was looking at pictures and someone pointed out that in one shot of three older boys, one of them was holding a gun. "I wasn't scared at the time, because we never saw the gun," she said.

Although their days were exhausting, Thompson and McCue still mustered up enough energy to go out on a couple of evenings. "Jeanne had some friends that she wanted to visit and she brought certain things to them; little thoughtful things, that they can't get there," said Thompson. "One night we got a little lost trying to find one of their homes and that was not good. It was the only time I was a little frightened. But we found it and everything was fine.

"We really were great together," continued Thompson, referring to her and McCue's relationship. "We are very close. Each night, we'd go to bed and we would go over our experiences from the day and it would get us laughing. The things she would do. She would go right into these situations and I would just follow right behind her because I didn't want to hang back either."

Thanks to a fax machine, Thompson was able to make some contact with her family and co-workers during the trip. "I faxed my husband to let him know everything was fine and sent one to Moraine Park just to say hello and let them know all was well."

Thompson and McCue returned from their seven day trip on Halloween day, Thompson's birthday. "My family was very happy to see that I returned safely. They were all very supportive of the trip, and it wasn't until I returned that I realized they hadn't wanted me to go," said Thompson. "I felt confident everything would work out and it did. It was an opportunity for me to be there for Jeanne as her support and her companion and that's what I was. It was a real rewarding experience and I hope to be able to go again."

Since Thompson's October trip she has coordinated a couple of drives asking for winter items that were sent over through Bosnia Relief in December. She collected mittens, boots, shoes and sweaters from her church in Cedarburg and she also inspired her nephew and niece to hold drives. "My 10-year-old niece, Grace, held a clothing drive at her school in Cedarburg and my 14-year-old nephew, Spencer, collected 1,110 pairs of socks from his school in Gurnee, Illinois. They were both very excited to learn that their shipments made it to a refugee camp near Mostar. Both projects really brought home the meaning of living your beliefs through service to others, and it was rewarding for me to plant the seeds of service to others with these young people."

For persons interested in donating items to Bosnia Relief you can call (414) 962-2841 or write or send donations to Bosnia Relief, P.O. Box 17438, Whitefish Bay, WI, 53217

All members receiving blue ribbons are eligible for judge's choice awards. For older youth, two delegates are selected to represent Washington County at the Wisconsin State Fair Clothing Revue to be held in August. In addition, two alternates are selected in case one of the delegates is unable to attend. The alternates selected for this year are Jeanna Heppner of Campbellsport and Joyce Wagner of Kewaskum. Both are members of the Wayne Crusaders 4-H club.

A first year clothing 4-H member is selected to receive the Anna Lhotka Memorial Award. This year's recipient is Sarah Neuburg of Slinger, member of the Hi-Lite Happy Workers 4-H club. In addition, two members under the age of 14 received the Judge's Choice Award. They are Emily Rogers of West Bend, member of the Kirchhain Trotters 4-H club, and Allison Flasch of Allenton, member of the St. Lawrence Eager Beavers 4-H club.

Washington County Fairgoers will have the chance to view the garments made by these talented 4-H members and several others at this year's 4-H Style Show. The Style Show will prove to be just as exciting as in past years. The event will take place on the Fair Park Pavilion Stage on the evening of Wednesday, July 26, 2000. Everyone interested in fashion is invited to attend.

During the year, 4-H clothing members work to construct garments for this event. Judging concentration is less on garment construction than on the selection of pattern, fabric, accessories, and how the garment looks on the individual. Of course the garment construction must provide the right "fit" to prevent wrinkles in the wrong places and assure that the garment is not too small or too large. This year's judge was Becky Gutzmann of Rio.

The organizer of this year's Clothing Revue is Rachel Heitke and volunteers included Maggie Kiselicka, Michelle Klos, and Marilyn Nedelhoffer. In addition to award winners other 4-H members participating are Cassandra Benzing of the Badger Boosters 4-H club; Michelle Carranza and Amanda White-Graff of the Hi-Lite Happy Workers 4-H club; Bridgett Flasch and Krysten Kirsch of the St. Lawrence Eager Beavers 4-H club; Megan Heppner and Laura Weisse of the Wayne Crusaders 4-H club; Erin Rogers, Brittany Weier, and Melissa Zembrowski, all of the Kirchhain Trotters 4-H Club. SEE YOU AT THE FAIR!!

PRAYER OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN

Prayer of the Blessed Virgin: (Never known to fail). Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, fruitful vine, splendor of Heaven. Blessed Mother of the Son of God. Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh Star of the Sea, help me and show me here you are my Mother. Oh Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in my necessity (make request). There are none that can withstand your power. Oh Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Say this prayer for three consecutive days and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. Grateful thanks.

Parking/storage of recreational vehicles shall be limited to recreational vehicles owned and used by the property owner or tenant. Conditional use permits to store recreational vehicles shall be reviewed pursuant to Section 5.0 of this Ordinance.

No TB or Chronic Wasting Disease Found in Wild Deer

MADISON -- A survey of deer shot during the 1999 hunting season found no evidence of bovine tuberculosis or chronic wasting disease in Wisconsin's white-tailed deer.

Since 1996, close to 1,000 Wisconsin deer have been tested for tuberculosis with no TB-positive deer found. In 1999, for the first time, samples were also taken to test for chronic wasting disease.

Department of Natural Resources veterinarians and wildlife health specialists collect the samples from hunters during opening weekend of the gun deer season. Lymph node and brain tissue samples are taken from the animals and sent to either the U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Veterinary Services Laboratory (TB testing) or the Wyoming State Veterinary Laboratory (CWD testing) for analysis.

"Annual surveillance is necessary to assure the health of our deer herd," said Dr. Julie Langenberg, DNR veterinarian. "Michigan continues to have problems with bovine TB in that state and the disease has shown up in captive elk herds in Wisconsin. Hopefully, through yearly testing, we'll discover any signs of the disease early and be able to contain it quickly."

"Chronic wasting disease is one of a group of diseases that include 'mad cow disease' or bovine spongiform encephalopathy. CWD is a threat to North American deer and elk populations," said Dr. Langenberg. "So far, it has only been found in wild deer and elk in the northeastern Colorado-southeastern Wyoming area. But it has also been found in captive herds in South Dakota, North Dakota, Colorado, Montana, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Saskatchewan."

TB can infect goats, dairy and beef cattle, elk and deer and many of the carnivores or scavengers that feed on them. Michigan has found TB in wild deer in a six-county area. In 1990, TB was discovered in a captive Wisconsin red deer herd and in 1997 in three Wisconsin captive elk herds.

The disease can be spread between domestic livestock or captive wildlife and wild deer. Transmissions of bovine TB to people can occur but it is very rare. TB is generally transmitted through the air and it is highly unlikely a person would contract the disease from field dressing or eating the meat of an infected deer.

"Although we believe that Wisconsin's whitetailed deer herd is very healthy, we plan to continue testing every year," said Langenberg. "As long as cattle and captive deer and elk are moving into Wisconsin from areas where disease exists, Wisconsin's deer herd is at risk."

Depending on where hunters hunt and register their deer, they may be asked by a DNR wildlife technician or veterinarian to donate the head of their animal for testing. TB samples can be taken through an incision in the neck but since CWD testing requires brain stem tissue, the only way to collect it is to take the entire head.

"Sampling sites are chosen based on where we feel there's the greatest chance of finding the diseases," said Kerry Beheler, DNR wildlife health assistant. These include areas around infected herds of animals, areas where captive wild animals are being imported from disease endemic areas and where deer and cattle densities are high and there is a significant likelihood that animals will exchange saliva or nasal mucus in feeding areas.

The next total solar eclipse viewable in the U.S. won't occur until August 21, 2017. Its path of totality will stretch from Oregon to South Carolina.

Abel Parlor 'Milks' the Competition

The Allen and Carol Abel Dairy farm of Eden, hosts of WI Farm Progress Days 2000, July 11 to 13, has been undergoing numerous structural changes throughout the past year. Once the expansion is complete, one of these changes will make milking their large herd, 1,200 head, a lot more efficient.

Currently, the Abels maintain a double 12 stall, parallel milking parlor. By Wisconsin Farm Progress Days 2000 the milking parlor will be expanded to a double 20 stall, parallel milking parlor. The Abels plan to milk their 1,200 cows three times a day. Jerry Vreland, of Westfalia/Surge said, "They will be milking almost continually (over a 24 hour period)." Two or three people will be required to work during each milking process. Two people will need to work in the pit, and possibly one person is needed to bring cows in and out of the holding area.

The holding area will hold approximately 160 cows for an hour. In an hour, four sets of 40 cows can be milked; therefore, every hour a new herd of 160 head will be brought into the holding areas.

The milking parlor operates with Westfalia/Surge Equipment. Automatic take-off milkers with a prolagic control system will be used. All the information from the automatic take-offs is sent to a separate room where a full report on each cow can be viewed. Vreland said, "One of the problems with electronics is naturally, the more moisture you get, the more problems you can have. So we eliminate that problem."

Everything will be controlled in the pit. The whole milking process will be controlled by one button. The Abels have a subway barn, where milking meters and pulsators are in the basement. Because of the distance between the pit and the basement, an echo system will be installed. The echo system shows how much milk a cow gave and the cow's identification number. This information will be echoed to stalls, so the information can be read both upstairs and in the basement.

Each stall will have an automatic identification antenna attached to it. The antenna will identify the cow and send information about its milk production to a computer. Vreland explained, "It relays information on how long it takes her (the cow) to milk, and how much she has produced."

During the milking process, the milk is directly pumped into a Westfalia/Surge tanker truck equipped with a Cool Way cooling system (Therefore, the Abels do not need to have a bulk tank on the property).

As a cow is being milked, the milk is pumped from a receiver in the basement to another receiver in the milk room, and then it flows to the plate cooler. Milk enters the system's plate cooler at 98 degrees and is cooled to 36 degrees by a variable speed pump. Vreland explained, "A glycol solution is released at one end of the tank, and plain well water is released at the other end. This process cools the milk really, really fast. The tanks can pump about a gallon a second."

The entire milking process can be viewed during WI Farm Progress Days. However, due to contamination possibilities, no one can enter the milking parlor. Therefore, a Westfalia/Surge Equipment tent will be set up to the east of the milking parlor. Inside the tent, either a live video of the milking process, or a previously taped milking will be shown. Either way, the milking process will be displayed continuously throughout each day of the event.

Doubleheader At Roncalli

In the new coaches' elected three games per team season, the Indians drew Manitowoc Roncalli twice on the road. To eliminate excess bus cost and travel time, Coaches Mark Heise and Mike Schultz of Roncalli decided to play a doubleheader. So on Friday, June 30, the Indians headed north after an inspiring win the night before at Campbellsport.

Unfortunately, the Jets took it to the Indians twice, 12-10 in game one and 2-0 in the nightcap.

The Indians started Bob Ogi on the mound in game one, but he struggled giving up seven runs in three innings. He struck out three and walked four, giving up eight hits. Heise replaced Ogi with Josh Krahn in the fourth, but two home run balls allowed Manitowoc to tally 12 runs. The Indians tried to answer but a game-ending double play with the bases loaded in the top of the seventh ended the game.

Tony Fitts, Jon Boedeker, and Chris Canter continued their hot hitting by going 2x2, 2x4 and 2x5 respectively. Boedeker had a triple and a double. Jason Strobel, Brad Vetter, Justin Rhoads, Jason Calliari and Jake Peterson tagged singles.

Pitcher Eric Beily got the win for Roncalli, as well as a big three-run home run in the fifth inning.

Game two was controlled by the pitchers. The Jets worked two runs across, where the Indians could only get three hits off Roncalli ace Eric Belinski. Jason Calliari pitched for the Indians, striking out six, but six walks led to the two Roncalli runs. "Jason pitched a heck of a game for us," commented Coach Heise. "Too bad he didn't pitch in game one, he would have gotten the win."

The Indians' only three singles came from Justin Rhoads, Jon Boedeker and Jake Wilson.

On Saturday, July 8, the Indians travel to Two Rivers for their second doubleheader up north at 12 noon. On Monday, July 10, they meet Kiel at home at 5:30 p.m. at Kiwanis Park. Tuesday, July 11, they travel to Sheboygan Falls for a 5:30 p.m. rain makeup followed by a scheduled 7:30 p.m. contest. On Wednesday, July 12, Kewaskum will go to Random Lake for a non-conference matchup with the Rams at 7:30 p.m.

Indians Take Quick Trip to New Holstein

Tuesday's June 27th trip to New Holstein ended in a five inning rout of the Indians. The Huskies put together a flawless game to down Kewaskum, 10-0. New Holstein pitcher Mike Woelfel threw a no hitter, allowing only two Indians to reach base, one on a walk and one on an error.

Only 17 hitters went to the plate for the Indians. "Our number nine hitter, Jake Peterson, only got to the plate once tonight," said Coach Mark Heise. "That should tell you how our night went," expounded Heise.

Kewaskum's pitchers also struggled as Heise tried to find someone to shut down the Huskie bats. Josh Krahn, who suffered the loss, pitched four innings, giving up three runs on five hits.

Josh Parrent replaced Krahn in the fifth and allowed New Holstein six runs on four hits with one walk, and one hit batsman in two-thirds of an inning worked. Heise put Jason Strobel on the mound, who also allowed one run on one hit. A wild pitch, scoring the 10th Huskie run, ended the game on the 10-run rule.

Thrilled Fans and Extra Innings

The home game against Campbellsport on Thursday, June 29, was the highlight of the year so far for the Kewaskum varsity baseball team. The Indians had to use the Campbellsport ball diamond, as their home field was not available due to Rubber Ball Leagues at the Kiwanis Park.

"I would like to thank Coach Jerry Raether, the Campbellsport School System, and their custodial staff for preparing the diamond so we could play our home game here tonight," said Coach Mark Heise.

Being the home team played an important role in the game as the Indians came from behind for a dramatic 4-3 finish. In the last five games with Campbellsport, four have been decided by one run. The rivalry was at its pinnacle on this day, as the Cougars were undefeated in conference play with a perfect 13-0 mark. But as is always the case in Indian-Cougar games, records mean little.

After losing the first two encounters this season, the Indian boys were determined to not let this one get away. It started weak for Kewaskum as the Cougars jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first on a Jim Ziegler hit and an Indian error. The second inning also saw some shaky play by the Indians as the Cougars moved out to a 3-0 lead on two hits and a walk.

In the third, the Cougars loaded the bases but a great, over-the-shoulder catch by leftfielder Chris Canter got the Indians out of the inning without any further damage. The catch changed the momentum of the game.

Josh Krahn advanced the two runners on a deep fly ball to left. With Calliari on third and Boedeker on second, Ziegler committed a balk, by not hesitating, which sent "C" home with the Indians' first run. On the next pitch, a catcher past ball allowed Boedeker to dash home for Kewaskum's second run.

Playing five games in six days, Coach Mark Heise had to search for enough pitching to get through the week. He put senior Brad Vetter on the mound. Vetter had a shakey start, but after the Indians got out of the third inning, he gave up only three more hits in his last six innings of work, holding the Cougars at three runs. He pitched all nine innings, giving up just two earned runs and claiming his first conference win of the year.

With Vetter's pitching and the Indian defense holding the Cougars at bay, the Indians still had to produce another run to send the game into overtime.

Ziegler was replaced by Josh Glass in the fifth. With Glass on the mound, the Indians went to work in the bottom of the seventh. Josh Krahn opened the inning with a line drive single to left. Tom Ogi laid a perfect sacrifice bunt down the third baseline to move Krahn to second.

Tony Fitts singled to right to score Krahn with the tying run. Chris Canter's infield nubber sent Fitts to second as he was put out at first. "It worked as good as a sac," said Heise.

With the winning run at second, Campbellsport decided to intentionally walk Jason Strobel, to set up a force play at any base. Brad Vetter stepped to the plate and worked Glass for a walk to load the bases with two outs. Justin Rhoads sent a ball to the hole between short and third that looked like trouble, but shortstop Jake Flood made an outstanding play to get a force at third to end the inning.

Vetter held the Cougars in the eighth and ninth, setting up an exciting finish. Tony Fitts, who had the tying RBI hit in the bottom of the seventh, started the ninth inning with three balls and no strikes.

Glass hit Fitts with a pitch, putting him on first with no one out. With Chris Canter at the plate, Heise was again looking to sacrifice bunt to move Fitts to second. Canter's perfect bunt rolled down the third base line. Both pitcher Glass and third baseman Ziegler charged the ball.

Glass picked it up and threw it to first just in time to put Canter out. As Fitts went to second he noticed no one was covering third, so he rounded and kept going. With Fitts streaking toward third, Ziegler tried to get back. Shortstop Flood was running stride for stride with Fitts, but it was all for naught as first baseman Curt Beck launched a throw over everyone's head, allowing Fitts to score the Indians' winning run.

"What a performance by our team tonight," commented a happy Coach Heise. "After the third, we probably played the best six innings of baseball of the year so far."

Campbellsport's Adam Sarauer and Kevin Soyk were 2x4 in the contest.

For Kewaskum, Chris Canter, Jon Boedeker and Josh Krahn were all 2x4. The win puts the Indians conference record at 7-6, 8-6 overall.

Indians Extend Baseball Winning Streak to Four

Fifteen hits produced 13 runs on Monday, June 26, at Kiwanis Park in Kewaskum against conference foe, Sheboygan Falls, to extend Kewaskum's winning streak to four.

The pitching duo of Bob Ogi and Jason Calliari held the Falcons to six runs on seven hits. Ogi started and pitched four innings, striking out four and walking three enroute to his fifth conference win against three losses.

Ogi's ERA stands at 2.93 after pitching 40-2/3 conference innings. Calliari finished the game, pitching the last three innings. He struck out five, walked one and gave up only three hits to notch his second save of the year.

Hits were the order of the day. The Indians sent 11 batters to the plate in the first inning amassing seven runs on seven hits. The highlight of the inning was a grand slam home run over the left centerfield fence by Tom Ogi. Tom ended the day by going 2x3 with five RBIs. Jason Strobel and Justin Rhoads were 3x4. Josh Krahn went 2x2 with two RBIs. Chris Canter, Jon Boedeker and Tony Fitts added hits.
