SB Affirms Appointment of Downs

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

The Kewaskum School Board met Monday evening, to officially elect Jon Downs as president and find a replacement for the vacancy left due to the resignation of former president Larry Fechter earlier in the summer.

Downs was serving as president pro-tem after Fechter left the district.

Downs has served on the board since 1996 and has lived with his family in Kewaskum for 21 years.

After the board unanimously approved Downs on a motion by member Andy Degnitz, Mary Meisser nominated John Schulte to take over Down's vice president seat. Board member Gordie Dickmann motioned for Degnitz to take the seat. The board voted and Degnitz was chosen.

Track coach Jerry Gosa along with a number of parents and athletes were present to ask for the board's support in the replacement of the current track at KHS.

The building and grounds committee is currently looking into replacing the asphalt track with a rubberized track which would reduce injury and better prepare athletes for state competition. Parents also commended Gosa for his dedication and excellent coaching skills.

Treasurer John Schulte made a motion to approve accounts payable/payroll expenditures in the amount

Trustee Kenworthy Accepts VB Presidency

by Lana Harbeck Kuehl

The first order of business at Monday evening's village board meeting was to elect a replacement for former Village Board President Robert Wagner, who submitted his resignation on August 10, effective immediately.

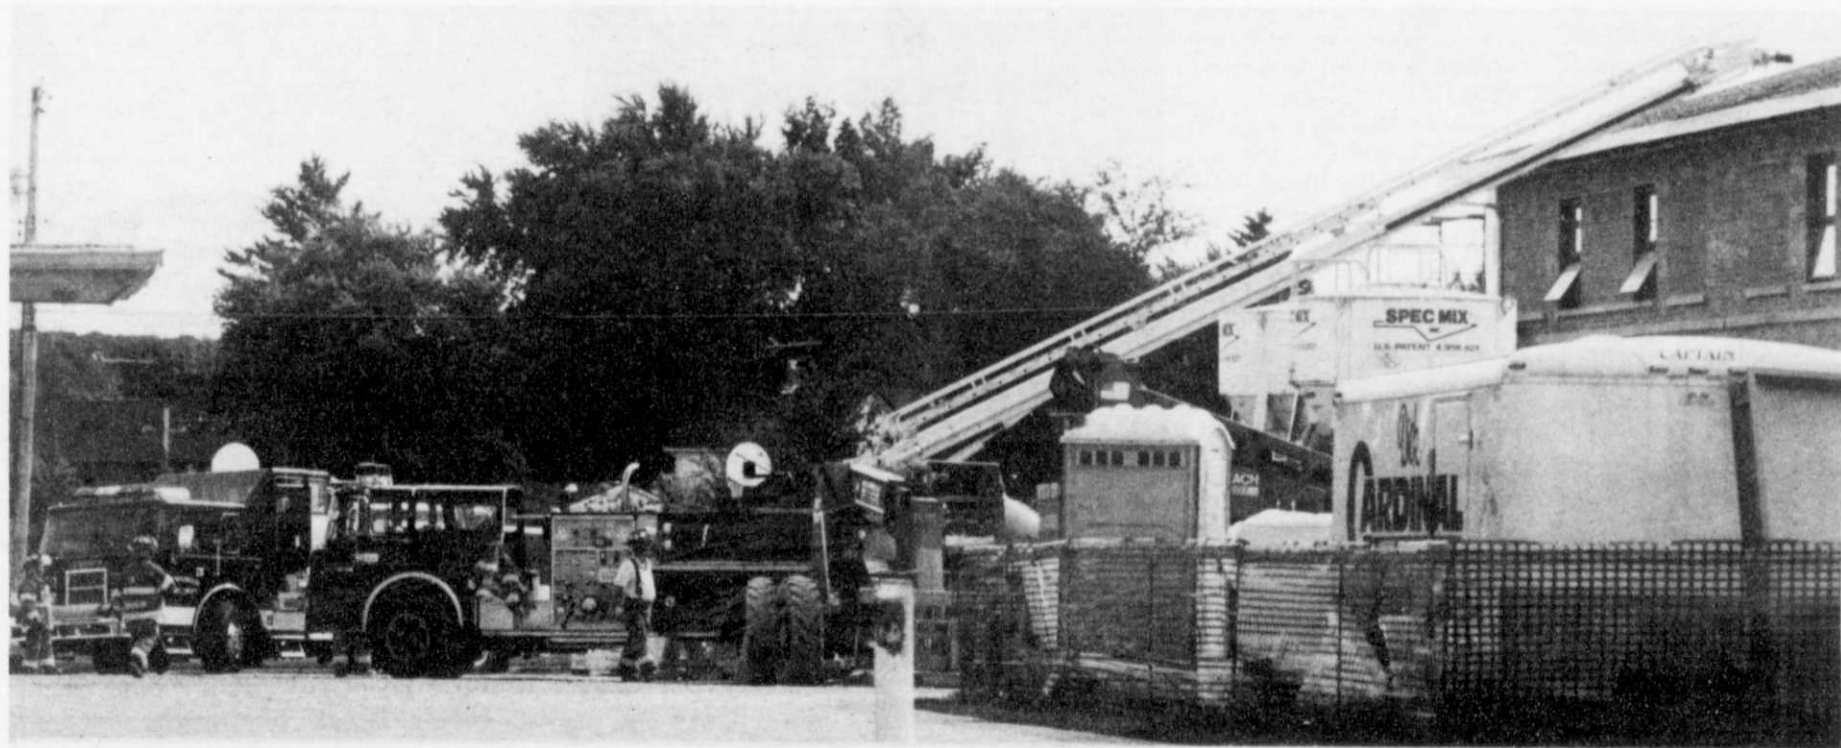

A motion was made by Trustee Robert Stoltzmann and seconded nominating Trustee John Kenworthy to serve as President Pro Tem for the meeting that was in session. A permanent replacement was to be discussed later on in the meeting under new business.

Fire Chief Mark Groeschel opened the Reports by Department Heads, stating that his department was currently having trouble with the 1976 TeleSquirt. It was felt the timing on the truck was off, and the engine was slow and smoked when still cold. Groeschel stated the repairs on the engine had been made for approximately $1,000. He also added that there have been no repairs

Firemen Respond to Call at Holy Trinity School

Members of the Kewaskum Fire Department responded to a call to Holy Trinity School on Wednesday, August 16 around 3 p.m. when a worker at the school discovered a work light had fallen, undetected, on some roofing insulation, which was smoldering. The school is currently being renovated with a new addition being erected. It was thought the fire was extinguished by the time firemen arrived, but according to Kewaskum Fire Chief Mark Groeschel, the insulation was carefully examined by firemen, because some types of insulation can burn down and sideways, instead of burning up, like a normal fire.

Wisely, on the side of caution, Groeschel also requested the use of the West Bend Fire Department's thermal imaging camera that can discover an undetected fire by heat sensors. No additional hot spots were found. The Kewaskum Fire Department is in the process of raising funds to purchase their own thermal imaging camera, which in today's technology, is quickly becoming an indispensable tool in the use of fighting unseen fires. made on this engine since its receipt in 1976.

Trustee Andrew Pesch asked Groeschel if members of his department were upset by remarks made in a daily paper recently regarding equipment purchases. It was Pesch's opinion, these remarks insinuated the Board just handed over expensive equipment to the fire department, more or less, on a "silver platter."

Groeschel stated the person that took the most objection to the remarks was himself. Pesch and Groeschel clarified the comments, stating that the fire department, as well as the department of public works, work extremely hard to develop the specifications, etc. on all new equipment requisitioned. All purchases must go through rigorous scrutiny by the departments as well as the board. Both departments also work equally hard on developing the equipment to make it "road ready." Nothing comes easily as many, many hours are spent on each and every new purchase approved by the board.

In the absence of Police Chief Richard Knoebel who was attending another meeting, the board officially approved the hiring of a new police officer, 38-year-old Barry Granrath, of Kewaskum. Granrath, who will start on August 31, 2000, has been employed as a jailer with the Washington County Sheriff's Department for the past seven years.

Granrath's hiring came as a direct result of the $150,000 grant the Kewaskum Police Department received from COPS (Community Oriented Policing Services) arranged through the offices of U.S. Senator Russ Feingold.

Director of Public Works Jerry Gilles reported the storm sewer construction for the new elementary school is now up to Third and Bilgo streets. He added the yellow curb markings should be painted throughout the village by the end of the week, weather permitting.

Administrator Dan Schmidt gave an update on the removal of railroad track at the intersections, stating he was informed they should be removed by the end of August. Markers and lights will be removed at a later time.

In his report, Schmidt added the equalized value for the village has increased to $5,500,000 which is up by 3.97%.

He also commented that the village web page has been changed and will be able to accommodate Village Board and Plan Commission agendas within a month or so.

Under Committee Reports, discussion was held on the park and recreation meeting held prior to the regular meeting. Schmidt reported the village and the school will be working in close proximity to develop a schedule that will be able to accommodate the Kewaskum High School baseball program next spring.

New Business addressed included a review of the Wisconsin Department of Administration's population count for the village effective January 1, 2000. Schmidt stated the current population estimate is 3,218 as opposed to the 1999 count of 3,207.

Schmidt was disturbed by the estimate, stating there were at least 20 new dwellings erected in Kewaskum since the 1999 count and the population only increased by 11. According to those figures, Schmidt stated, "we gained less than 1/2 person per home."

Schmidt was alarmed because these population figures have a direct impact on the shared revenue the village will or will not receive if the figures are not accurate. He stated this could amount to a considerable amount of shared revenue for the village.

These figures can be appealed, and Schmidt was directed by the board to file an appeal regarding the population estimates.

The board then got into the business of deciding what to do to permanently fill the seat of Village President. Administrator Schmidt explained in great detail the options the board had in this decision.

It was the consensus of the entire board that they opt for nominating a president from within, for the duration, until the next election in April, rather than having a member serve as president pro tem at each meeting.

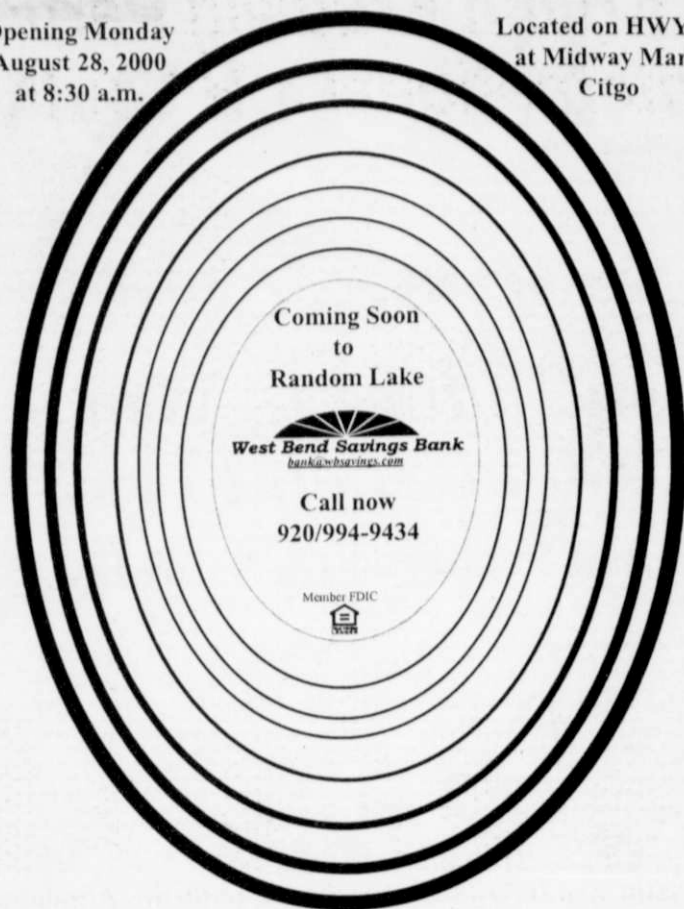

Trustee Stoltzmann made a motion to nominate John Kenworthy to serve the term as village president. The motion was seconded and the board responded unanimously. Kenworthy graciously accepted the responsibility.

Lastly, the meetings for September were adjusted to accommodate the Labor Day Holiday. The first September meeting will be held Tuesday, September 5 and the second meeting will take place on the regular third Monday, September 18.

There are more chickens than people in the world.

Kristin Krudwig Participates in International 4-H Youth Exchange

Kirstin Krudwig, a sophomore at Kewaskum High School, recently returned from Costa Rica, where she has lived for the past five weeks as a participant in the International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) Ambassador Program.

While in Costa Rica, Kirstin had a 5-day orientation in the Capital City of San Jose before moving in with the Arguedas Rodriguez family. She had the chance to visit volcanoes, beaches, and national parks. She also attended the Costa Rica vs. United States soccer game and toured a coffee plantation along with much more. The best part of the whole experience for her was living with another family and learning about the culture of this Central American country.

The International 4-H

Youth Exchange (IFYE) Ambassador program is a cross-cultural learning experience in which 4-H members, 4-H alumni, and other young adults, ages 15-24, live in other countries to increase global awareness, develop independent study interest, and improve language skills.

IFYEs have an opportunity to invest in their future -- before family and career commitments make it too tough to travel. The IFYE Program provides young people an opportunity to learn about and participate in life in another country. This international experience greatly enhances an individual's knowledge, employability, and skills. In addition, one may improve their language skills through daily use in another country.

Kirstin would like to share her experience with others through a presentation. If you are interested in having her at your business or organization, please contact her at (262) 629-9922.

Applications and additional information are available through the county extension office or from the international program coordinator in the state 4-H office. You may also contact the IFYE program manager: CD International Program Services, L.L.C., at (602) 943-7168.

The International 4-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) program in the United States is conducted by CD International Program Service, L.L.C., in support of 4-H programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Extension Service and the U.S. IFYE Alumni Association.

Kewaskum business manager Paul Reichert was present to update the board on the building projects.

Reichert made the board aware of delays in installing floor tile at Wayne. According to the company installing the tile, it cannot be installed until the moisture content of the concrete floor has reached a level of 5% or less. The concrete floor in the two new classrooms and in the hallway was recently poured and with the recent humidity levels the floor has not dried out very much.

He told members that the air conditioning has now been turned on which should expedite the drying process. He figured that tile installation may not occur until Labor Day weekend but would be ready for the opening of school. He further stated that the gyms at FES and WES are on schedule but will not be finished in time for school's opening.

Crews have started at both schools and will start unpacking and cleaning furniture within the week. New furniture will be received at the end of this week.

After almost an hour, the board came up with a plan to fill the vacant seat on the board.

Former board member Jean Goeden was in attendance to offer the board her assistance in finding the new replacement for the vacant seat.

The board discussed every aspect including doing background checks on the individuals. Other board members shot the idea down. Schulte was the lone member that felt a background check was necessary.

The board finally concluded to advertise the position in the Statesman with these guidelines:

- Position is open to any school district resident.

- Individual must submit a letter of intent stating their qualifications and reasons why they believe they would be an effective school board member.

- Applicants are informed that screening of candidates may become necessary prior to interviews.

- The School Board will limit the number of candidates interviewed to not more than five.

- Letter of intent must be delivered to the district office no later than noon on Monday, September 11, 2000. The address is 1450 School Street, Kewaskum, WI 53040.

- Letters received after the noon deadline will not be considered.

- Interviews for the school board position will be held on Wednesday, October 4, 2000.

- Individuals submitting a letter of intent are notified that all "names and addresses of an applicant for an appointment to fill a vacancy" become a matter of public record.

- The appointed will fill the position until the regularly scheduled School Board meeting in April, 2001.

- If interested in filling the second year of the position they would need to file nomination papers and run for election in the spring.

The board accepted a resignation from KHS science instructor Melissa Anderson.

The board hired Michael Schroeder to take over the biology instructor position left by the resignation of Carla Schmitt. Dennis Gutbrod was hired as a physical science/chemistry instructor to replace Melissa Anderson. Sherrie Meldahl was hired to replace KHS CD instructor replacing Bob Gonwa. Cheryl was hired as a part-time art instructor. This is a new position in the elementary schools. Kathryn Draeger was also hired to replace Jenny Flom a former first grade teacher at KES.

The board made the following extracurricular hires. Dan Ross- Asst. tennis coach, Joan Bauer- Head varsity and JV cheerleading coach, James Mathia- Head boys soccer coach, Tim Janzen- Asst. volleyball coach, James Korth- Asst. football coach, Dennis Aupperle- Head wrestling coach and Carla Schmitt- Head tennis coach.

The regular business meeting of the board of education will be September 11 at 7 pm in the high school library, 1510 Bilgo Lane.

The board will hold their annual meeting on September 25 at the KHS cafeteria at 7 p.m.

West Bend Savings Bank Announces Opening of Random Lake Office

WEST BEND SAVINGS BANK President and CEO, Ray Lipman, announced this week the opening of a new office for the bank in Random Lake, Wisconsin. The temporary office is located at N509 Hwy. 57, at the corner of County Highway RR, next to the Midway Mart Citgo station. Lipman also announced that West Bend Savings Bank is involved in plans for a new facility to be built in Random Lake in the next 12 to 18 months. "That facility would include all of the conveniences and amenities of our other permanent offices," states Lipman, "with complete drive-through banking, lobby and meeting room facilities." This will represent the bank's twelfth office in the area, with nine offices in Washington county, plus one each in Dodge, Ozaukee and, now, Sheboygan.

David R. Borchardt has been named as Vice President - Branch Manager of the new office. Borchardt is a Random Lake native who comes to the new position from State Bank of Random Lake most recently as Vice President of Lending. Assistant Manager is Vicki L. Brokenhagen, also of Random Lake, was a Senior Loan Processor at the same institution.

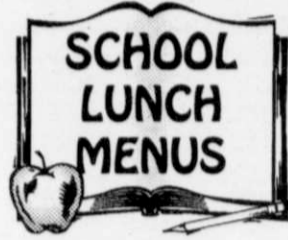

"The move into Random Lake is in keeping with the type of growth we have been trying to achieve," states Rick Larson, Executive Vice President and COO. "We have looked for the small, rural communities in the area that seem in need of a bank with a service-emphasis, like ours. People in these towns appreciate the ability to deal with local bankers who can relate to them, make decisions and offer products based on local factors and knowledge, and who they know are going to be there for the long haul."

The West Bend based bank has experienced significant growth over the past few years with new offices and expansion into online banking through their web site, www.wbsavings.com. Headquartered in West Bend since 1926, the institution has grown with, and as, the population of the area has grown, while remaining one of the few locally owned, independent banks.

The new office is scheduled to open August 28th, and will be open Monday - Thursday 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Friday 8:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., and Saturday 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon, telephone 920/994-9434. Plans for a Grand Opening Celebration on the weekend of September 15th are underway.

We would also like to thank the West Bend Fire Department for the use of their Thermal Imaging Camera. It was used to check for hot spots in the attic insulation. This is a piece of equipment that The Kewaskum Fire Department could use as well and we support them in their quest for this additional piece of life saving equipment.

Police Reports

Police received a Disorderly conduct complaint on August 11.

The complainant indicated that he was driving northbound on Fond du Lac Avenue. He stopped at the traffic signals and observed someone from Woody's Steakhouse throw empty baked potato skins at his vehicle. He indicated that one of the skins landed on his right side passenger windshield near the wiper. Another landed on the roof. He had his sunroof open, and some of the potato landed in his car.

The victim was then asked if he had any ideas who might have done this. He stated that he did and would like this person talked to.

The officer talked to the suspect who admitted that a number of parties were involved. The suspect stated that he would make amends with the victim.

On August 11, Police were dispatched to a Jefferson Drive residence in reference to a complicated trespassing complaint involving the owners of two neighboring properties.

On August 14, police were dispatched to a Western Avenue residence in regards to a possible stolen vehicle.

The victim's brother reported the incident, as the victim was out of state. He stated that the suspect had asked to borrow the vehicle to go to West Bend. The suspect was gone for quite some time, and he became quite concerned.

It was determined that the suspect had taken the vehicle out of the area, and the victim was concerned that the suspect was not going to be returning.

The suspect was contacted and stated that the car would be returned.

The vehicle was returned and there were no charges pressed.

On August 16, police were dispatched to Kuehl's Suds and Spirits for a vandalism complaint.

The victim stated that unknown actors had squirted salt water into the coin slot of the Pepsi machine in front of the store. He also stated that the perpetrators had attempted to pry open the lock, thereby jamming it. They were unsuccessful in opening it.

The individuals have not yet been found, if anyone has information contact the Kewaskum Police Department at 626-2323 or the Confidential Washington County WE-TIP Line at 1-800-232-0594.

Police reports are compiled weekly by Statesman staff member Nicole Rawley with help from the Kewaskum Police Department.

The first animal to receive star billing in a movie was a German Shepherd dog, whose screen name was Strongheart. He appeared in The Silent Call in 1921.

Little Folks Learn About Safety

The Little Folks School House recently received a visit from Deputy Rewerts of the Washington County Sheriff's Department. The visit was scheduled to coincide with a safety unit the children were working on.

To start off the presentation, the deputy talked about his uniform and "tools of the trade" referring to his radio, night stick, pepper spray, hand cuffs and revolver. The children were very curious and asked many questions.

Deputy Rewerts talked about stranger awareness, and safety in general, including a mini-lecture on guns. He then invited the Little Folks outside to investigate his squad car.

There, they learned about the different lights and sirens. Pictured above is the deputy showing the inside of the car trunk and explaining the tools he carries.

The teachers at the Little Folks School House, as well as the Washington County Sheriff's Department feel that a child is never too young to learn about safety and strangers.

They need to learn right from wrong and what to do if they ever find themselves in certain situations. The children that attended the presentation were ages one through 12.

Local Educator Completes Summer Graduate Workshop

VALLEY FORGE, PA - Jeanne Karl of Kewaskum, a teacher at St. Mary's recently completed a week-long historical interpretive workshop through Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Entitled "Heritage of our Past Presidents," the summer workshop - led by widely-respected historian Paul Sanborn, offered visits to important sites from Boston to Washington, D.C. Stops included the JFK Library, the Franklin Pierce Historical Site, Mt. Vernon, Monticello, the Woodrow Wilson House and others. Each stop gave participants a glimpse of how these locales shaped our nation's history while building an understanding and awareness of our national heritage.

"Our summer workshops are meant to inspire teachers who in turn energize their students," said Lt. Gen. Robert E. Kelley, USAF (Ret), president of Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. "The best teachers are those that are passionate about their subject and their students and those that attend our summer workshops are often both."

Each year up to three summer workshops are held with teachers from across the country attending, many of which are provided with financial aid from sponsoring corporations.

This year, workshops included:

* The Heritage of our Past

Presidents (Boston to Washington D.C.)

* The Civil War: Eastern Campaigns (Richmond, VA to Gettysburg)

* The Revolution in the Middle States (Philadelphia and the Delaware Valley)

Each workshop features interpretive lectures and daily tours of relevant historical sites, from battlefields to museums. There is a minimum of 45 contact hours of instruction for each course and participants are required to complete assigned readings and submit written material following completion of the workshop.

Workshop participants are also eligible for graduate credit from Immaculate College, Immaculata, PA.

Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge, with 29 chapters in 17 states, is among the nation's premier organizations devoted to citizenship-based education and the promotion of responsible citizenship. Each year the foundation hosts programs for more than 4,700 students from all 50 states. They participate in educational programs that include U.S. history, constitutional rights and citizens' responsibilities, core values, and the private enterprise system.

Founded in 1949 by prominent American business leaders, Freedoms Foundation continues to conduct national awards programs that recognize excellence in education and civic involvement. The Foundation's National Awards, Leavey Awards for Excellence in Private Enterprise Education, and Distinguished Awards programs have recognized more than 55,000 individuals and organizations since the Foundation's inception.

Letters to The Editor

To the Editor and those live in Kewaskum:

Aug. 14, 2000

Since I do not live within the village of Kewaskum I can hardly be accused of writing this out of self interest. However, since I do live within the Kewaskum school district and have paid taxes to the district for almost 25 years I believe I can speak from a viewpoint of one who cannot be accused of being an outsider.

I would like to address the resignation of the village president and some of what has lead up to this. The issue concerning RV's is just the latest issue, and a small part of a larger picture. But since that was the latest I will use this as the "warmest" example.

Some RV's are almost as large and have a somewhat similar impact of the landscape as that of a semi trailer. If everyone had one of these parked in front of his house, I doubt that anyone could argue that this would positively contribute to the character (or the real estate values) of the village. What would it be like if everyone would be allowed to fill the land he (or she) owns with all the "toys" that one can accumulate would be interesting to speculate upon. And one can hardly argue that the "toys" we all seem accumulating are "on the decline."

It was not that long ago that people prided themselves on being a "good neighbor." When consideration for neighbors, and a type of spirit toward the community in general was one of those indispensable minimal virtues of one who wanted to consider him (her)self an adult.

It often seems that in the present such an attitude is not only considered to be passe but even stupid, to be replaced by one where "pushing the envelope as far as possible" is considered a sign of accomplishment and pride.

I tend to believe that if the latter is to become the more prevalent attitude this will not only dramatically change what towns will look like, but also how enjoyable they will be to live in. I won't even address the issue of property values.

But one thing is certain: the decision, positive or negative, good or bad, will be ours to mold.

Jack Lutz

Exercise is Natural Reliever For Chronic Low Back Pain

People with chronic back pain can peddle away some of their discomfort, according to a new study by a Medical College of Wisconsin researcher at the VA Medical Center in Milwaukee. Martin Hoffman, M.D., professor of physical medicine and rehabilitation, has found that people with chronic low back pain reduce their pain perception for up to thirty minutes after a moderate workout on an exercise bike.

Dr. Hoffman will be presenting his findings at the annual meeting of the American College of Sports Medicine in Indianapolis on May 31. In Dr. Hoffman's study, eight people who have suffered from chronic low back pain for an average of seven years, reported feeling significantly less pain on a standard measure of pain perception after riding an exercise bike for 25 minutes, compared with before.

The subjects reported their pain level on a subjective scale in response to having a weighted plastic edge placed in their non-dominant index finger for two minutes. They indicated their pain level every 10 seconds marked with a 10 centimeter scale. The end points of the scale were "No pain" and "The worst possible pain imaginable." He did not specifically measure the subjects' back pain, because such pain is well known to be variable.

Dr. Hoffman isn't certain what the basis of the reduction in pain perception is, but he is sure that it does involve the whole body. "The exercise is done with the legs, and we found the pain alteration to affect the finger, so it's pretty safe to say it's a systematic effect. Therefore we expect the site of any chronic pain to be affected to some degree as well. If people would exercise a little bit they would likely get some relief from their pain," says Dr. Hoffman.

If someone with chronic pain doesn't have an exercise bike, not to worry, says Dr. Hoffman. "For the average person with chronic pain the advice I would give is if they can walk, and they have a place to do that, that would be ideal. If they don't live in an area where it's safe to walk or they don't like getting out in the cold or don't have a shopping mall or treadmill, one of the indoor exercise devices would be an alternative," he says.

People with spinal nerve damage might not be able to use and exercise bike. They might find a recumbent bike or a stair-stepping machine more tolerable, says Dr. Hoffman. None of the participants in this study had such nerve damage.

Dr. Hoffman believes that a regular aerobic exercise program would also benefit people suffering from chronic back pain. There is evidence of such benefit for people with other painful disorders. "There have been a couple of studies with people with fibromyalgia that have suggested that a regular exercise program may have some benefit," he says.

Dr. Hoffman's research, which was done with his colleagues, Philip S. Clifford, Ph.D, professor of anesthesiology and physiology and S.P. MacKenzie, physical medicine and rehabilitation resident, was supported by the Physical Medicine Research Foundation's Woodbridge Grants and Awards Program and the Veterans Affairs Medical Research Service.

Before King George IV of England ordered a set of boots made to fit each of his feet, shoes were designed to be worn on either foot.

Pit crew members make final preparations on Michael Andretti's car just before the grid.

Let the race begin! The corner workers at the inside of Turn One wave to the pace cars at the start of the Motorola 220, held August 17-20, at Road America in Elkhart Lake. The 55-lap race was won by Paul Tracy, of Team KOOL Green, earning him his 17th career victory and his second at Road America, winning the championship there in 1993.

President and Chief Executive Officer of CART, Inc., Bobby Rahal meets with the press. Much of the discussion surrounded a change in the testing schedule for next year, allowing crews to spend more time with their families and less time on the road. Rahal has been acting as Interim President, while using his efforts to improve the way CART races are held.

Speeding around the track was Paul Tracy in his Team KOOL Green #26, as he makes up for lost time on the track at Road America. He started the race in the seventh position and dropped to the 23rd position at the end of Lap One, and still finished the race as the champion.

Max Papis of Team Rahal, rides a bicycle checking out the track and unwinding before the start of the Motorola 220 at Road America.

By Laurie Ottery
Staff Writer/Photographer

Racing fans filled the grounds of Road America Aug. 17-20. Races included in the weekend events were the Trans-Am, Neon, Atlantic, Barber Dodge and the CART/FedEx Championship Series Motorola 220 race.

Friday and Saturday the track was roaring with revving engines, smoking tires and CART teams gathering information for their feature race. Practice and qualifying rounds helped to make adjustments and get a feel of how the cars handled around the track.

Sunday's Motorola 220 proved to be exciting, fast and everything from frustrating to exhilarating. As in past years, the unpredictable kept fans cheering right up to the checkered flag.

Series point leader Michael Andretti, of Newman/Haas Racing, was not happy with his qualifying times or his position to start the race. He knew the car was not at 100 percent, but had hoped to be in the starting row for competition. Like many teams, information gathered from the previous days helped to prepare them for the race on Sunday.

Pole setter Dario Franchitti, of Team KOOL Green set a track record in qualifying (145.924 mph; 1:39.866) in his Honda Reynard. It was his first Pole of the 2000 season and the ninth of his CART career. Franchitti started in the top five, for the seventh time, in the last nine events.

Predictions for the race in the beautiful rolling hills at Elkhart Lake are out of the question. The track, claimed to be a favorite for many drivers, has a history of many ups and downs for many teams, making the statement, 'It's not over until it's over' an understatement.

At 12:56 p.m. the announcement was made, 'Gentlemen start your engines.' Twenty-five cars would start with the top five positions going to Franchitti, Gil de Ferran (Marlboro Team Penske), Rookie Alexandre Tagliana (Player's/Forsythe Racing), Andretti and Adrian Fernandez (Patrick Racing).

On the first lap, at Turn 1 Tagliani makes a daring pass from the third position taking over the lead. Gil de Ferran pits with gearbox problems and subsequently drops out. And then there is Franchitti's teammate Paul Tracy. He came past the starting position thinking everything was looking good, but of course this is a competitive race where anything can and usually does happen.

"I came out of Turn 2 and my engine died," said Tracy. "It is amazing that nobody hit me. When I looked in my mirror I could see Kenny coming down fast behind me. I was slowed way down and the rest of the guys were running wide open. The guys in the pits determined that a throttle sensor malfunctioned."

The sensor is a mandatory safety measure designed to save the driver from a high-speed crash, by cutting power, if the throttle hangs open. Team owner Barry Green kept the spirits of Tracy up, while Engineer Tony Cicale talked him through disabling the system. Tracy had to keep the car rolling, depress his pit-speed limiter button for four seconds and then bump-start the car by letting out the clutch.

Tracy said he panicked at first, worried about someone else hitting him. He wondered whether or not he would be able to get back in the race and maybe pick up some points along the way. As he reached the back straightaway no one was even in sight ahead of him. Things didn't look good. Green told him to just drive, race as hard as he could, for as long as he could and not worry about the gauges or anything else. Tracy got himself into a rhythm and drove hard getting faster and faster as he moved up the standings.

While things were looking up for Tracy, many other drivers began having mechanical problems. Michael Andretti had a CV joint break. He watched parts of his car fly out from behind him before pitting and dropping out of the contention after only 17 laps. "What a disappointment," said Andretti. "This one really hurts. We were able to go longer on fuel and I thought we were looking good. The CV joint broke, it never breaks. The first time I heard of it breaking is when it happened to Juan in Detroit. All of a sudden I felt the drive go. The loss really puts the pressure on for the Championship points race. The fans should like the tight contention, but it's not as much fun for us."

Reigning Series Champion Juan Montoya led 11 laps and thought he had things under control when a broken shift cable ended his day on Lap 31. Defending Champion Christian Fittipaldi went up in smoke when a broken exhaust header led to a fire in his Ford Lola. The incident occurred at his second pit stop after only completing 30 laps. He was running in second place at the time.

Rookie Tagliana started out having such a great day. He led 23 of the 37 laps he completed only to be forced out with gearbox failure. At that point of the race, Barry Green took the opportunity to inform Paul Tracy that he was in the lead.

Tracy had no idea he was doing that well. He kept racing hard and passing guys along the way. Tracy said that he wasn't sure that some of them realized that he was on the same lap as them. They didn't put up much of a fight. He was ahead for now, but not yet in the clear.

Teammate Franchitti was not having any luck. He managed to start the race with a track record setting qualifying time, but was forced to retire for the day after only 43 laps had been completed. His problems seemed to have started after pitting on Lap 15. He was able to hold on racing hard, despite the fact that he had lost third gear. But then second gear was gone too and soon after the gearbox blew up, leaving him with no drive at all.

On Lap 45 Tracy was in the lead by 7.962 seconds over Fernandez, followed by Brack, Roberto Moreno and Jimmy Vasser. Tracy pitted and returned to the race in fourth place. On the next lap both Fernandez and Brack pitted and return to the race in third and fourth respectively. That put Moreno in the lead and Tracy in second. Although it may have looked like Tracy's luck was changing Moreno didn't have enough fuel to finish the race. He pitted at Lap 50.

With luck once again on his side, Paul Tracy took the lead on Lap 51. He held onto it for the rest of the race, getting the checkered flag with a 7.450 seconds lead over Adrian Fernandez, followed by Kenny Brack, Roberto Moreno and Jimmy Vasser.

Tracy drove a hard race, concentrating only on his driving and leaving the rest of the technical and mechanical maintenance up to his crew. On his victory lap once again his engine died as he rounded Turn 2. As he coasted along there was no restarting of the car. He stopped at Turn 5, got out and saluted the fans. That fuel consumption that he didn't worry about, well it ran out. Tracy had to be towed into the Winners Circle.

There were five leaders swapping the lead 10 times, nearly a track record. (The 1982 and 1983 races saw 11 lead changes each.) Tagliani led the most laps with 23, followed by Tracy with 13, Montoya with 11, Moreno with seven and Fernandez with one.

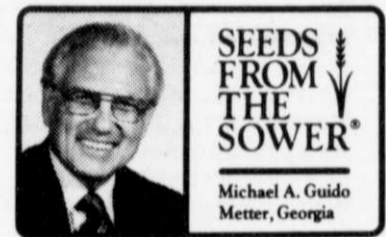

The official time of the race was one hour, thirty-seven minutes and 53.681 seconds. There were only ten, of the original twenty-five cars, running at the end with seven of them on the lead lap. Those seven were the only ones to complete all 55 laps, which were run without any yellow flags.

The Motorola 220 was plagued by mechanical failures, but that only tells part of the story. The Championship points race now has six drivers, separated only by 25 points. Michael Andretti remains in the lead with 125, Roberto Moreno holds second with 112, Gil de Ferran in third with 106, Adrian Fernandez holds fourth with 103, Rookie Kenny Brack at 102 and the Motorola 220 winner Paul Tracy has 100. Brack is the only one of the leading contenders who hasn't won a race this year. With six events remaining, the championship is anybody's guess.

Team KOOL Green's Paul Tracy earned his 17th career victory with a drive he could only dream about in Sunday's Motorola 220 at Road America. The win ties him for seventh in CART history with Danny Sullivan and was his second victory here, with the first being in 1993. He became the fifth multiple winner in 19 FedEx Championship Series events at Road America. Others include Mario Andretti (1983, '84, '87), Emerson Fittipaldi ('86, '88, '92), Michael Andretti ('90, '91, '96), and Jacques Villeneuve ('94, '95).

Road America fans were treated to lots to cheer for in an exciting race. Although many teams and their drivers didn't finish with smiles, there is still time to make up for the many mechanical failures they suffered. The race was completed on a beautiful sunny day, with the weather being only one of the many factors that can't be predicted here. It is never over until the lead car passes by the checkered flag.

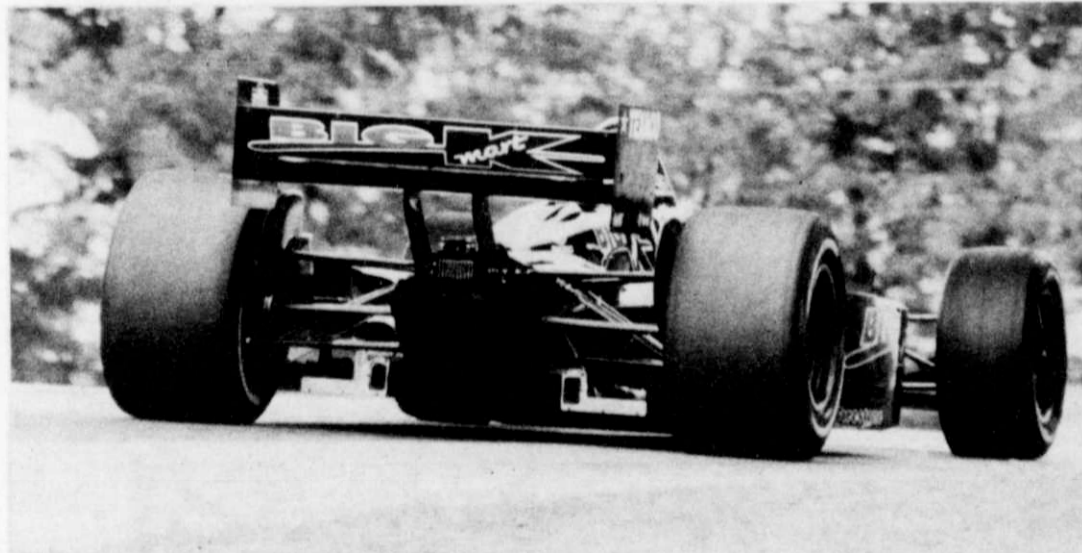

Last month I saw a picture of two fish that were found in a canal in Canada. Their jaws were locked together after a fight to the death.

That's how many a friendship ends - in a deadlock!

It's good to practice mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but it's not good to practice mouth-to-mouth mortification.

The Bible says, "A fool gets into constant fights. His mouth is his undoing! His words endanger him."

So let's pray with the Psalmist, "Help me, Lord, to keep my mouth shut and my lips sealed."

A back view of the Newman/Haas race car driven by Christian Fittipaldi, speeding down the track at Road America Sunday.

One Dose Usually All That's Needed To Prevent Pneumococcal Disease

A coalition of Washington County health care providers is urging people, especially those over 65 and those with special health problems, to get the vaccine that can prevent most types of pneumonia.

Pneumococcal disease is a serious disease that causes much sickness and death. In fact, pneumococcal disease kills more people in the U.S. each year than all other vaccine preventable diseases combined. Pneumococcal disease can lead to serious infections of the lungs (pneumonia), the blood (bacteremia), and the covering of the brain (meningitis).

Pat Pearson, infection control coordinator at St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend and a coalition member, said that the vaccine is more important than ever in the light of infections' growing resistance to drugs like penicillin.

"Drugs such as penicillin were once effective in treating these infections; but the disease has become more resistant to these drugs, making treatment of pneumococcal infections more difficult. This makes prevention of the disease through vaccination even more important," she said.

Anyone can get pneumococcal disease. However, some people are at greater risk from the disease. These include people 65 and older, the very young, and people with special health problems.

Usually one dose of vaccine is all that is needed for a lifetime of protection. However, under some circumstances a second dose may be given. Patients should consult their physician.

People can learn more by asking their doctor or nurse about the vaccine or by contacting any of the following coalition members:

Counties Seek to Better Protect Lakes

MADISON - Nearly half of Wisconsin's 72 counties have strengthened, or are trying to strengthen, their shoreland ordinances as an important tool to help them better protect remaining pristine lakes and streams and improve habitat, water quality and natural scenic beauty on already developed waterways, a new report says.

Although details vary from county to county, most of the 35 counties have generally reworked their rules to require the larger lot sizes, deeper building setbacks, and larger shoreland vegetative buffer zones that are more protective than the state minimum uniform standards set 35 years ago. Other provisions may address the placement of boathouses, piers and septic systems or address stormwater and erosion controls, according to a draft report prepared for the Department of Natural Resources by Wisconsin Association of Lakes (WAL), under lake grant funding to provide educational and technical assistance to the counties.

The efforts cover 78 percent of Wisconsin's 15,000 lakes statewide. The majority of the lakes are in northern Wisconsin, where the Northern Initiatives, a collaborative effort by government, non-profit groups and citizens, is also promoting education, voluntary conservation, technical assistance and acquisition as other tools to preserve and safeguard northern lakes and shorelands.

"We need to have the minimum standards improved enough to meet the shift in development patterns we've seen from a 28 by 40 foot seasonal home to a year-round, almost mansion-quality home," says Craig Conroy, Washburn County Zoning Administrator and president of the Wisconsin County Code Administrators. "The shoreland zoning changes we've seen across much of the north have provided us with the opportunity to do a better job of protecting those areas than we used to."

Since the state set uniform minimum zoning standards for lakes and streams in 1965, the number of homes on lakes of all sizes increased an overall average of 216 percent, and the average home has grown larger, according to DNR statistics.

These larger, more numerous structures can cause greater harm to water quality and populations of fish and other native species, particularly on sensitive lakes which have no inlet or outlet. DNR research has shown that the typical 1990s development of a 3,350 square foot home and a paved driveway will send into a lake five times as much more runoff, seven times as much phosphorus, and 18 times as much sediment as does undeveloped land. That pollutant load can contribute to declining water quality and smelly algal blooms and harm the ecosystem and fish spawning habitats. In addition, clearing shoreline plans an trees for larger homes, manicured lawns and extensive piers can eliminate critical habitat and decrease the ability to help filter polluted runoff and provide shade, DNR research shows.

Many counties responded to citizens' concerns about these potential harmful effects by capitalizing on a DNR grant program that helps underwrite local efforts to study and sort lakes and streams according to their vulnerability to the effects of development, and to citizens' visions for their waterbodies. Such efforts, known as lake or stream classification, have then provided local governments the foundation for tailoring zoning rules to a particular category or class of lake or stream, says Donna Sefton, executive director of Wisconsin Association of Lakes.

The counties have generally sorted their lakes into three categories based on physical features such as the waterbody's size, depth, source of water, and density of development, says Susan Tesarik, the lakes association's water resources coordinator.

Then the counties have examined their shoreland zoning ordinances to see whether they need to change them in any way, and to explore education, acquisition, and other measures the county and citizens can take to achieve goals that local citizens set for lakes in a certain category.

For example, lakes in a "wild" category which have little or no development, are placed under stricter zoning standards to help protect the lake against the highly dense development that can harm these sensitive seepage or spring-fed lakes, Tesarik says. That typically means newly constructed homes with septic systems must be on lots that are 300 feet wide instead of the 100 foot minimum the state standards require, and be set back farther from the water's edge than the 75 feet the state minimum standards require.

Because lakes in the least vulnerable class have already been developed to the degree that significant changes in lot sizes and setbacks will be impractical, these lakes are assigned the least restrictive set of standards, but not less than current state laws, Tesarik says. Efforts, instead, focus on restoring appropriate plant cover to the lakeshore, and toward assuring that people who re-build or add to their lots do it in a way that doesn't increase the harm to the lake and its ecosystem, she says.

"Classification is about allowing counties the opportunity to make wise decisions regarding the density, pattern, and types of development and use accepted at our waterfronts in order to preserve the character and value of our lakes and streams into future generations," she says.

The counties' classification efforts and subsequent rewriting of their ordinances offers a "pretty substantial" tool to help protect pristine lakes, says Carroll Schaal, DNR Lakes Partnership Team Leader. For example, the Northwest Regional Plan Commission has said that half of the lakes in the 10-county region it serves fall into the wild lakes category, the one featuring the most protective standards. "Those will never be developed at the density our large lakes are," he says.

"Lake classification and shoreland ordinances are not the savior of lakes," Schaal says. "You have to look at all the tools, such as land acquisition, education and information, and managing activities on the land that drains into a lake. But it's a good foundation for how you're going to manage a lake."

No Rattlesnakes Stocked to Control Wild Turkey Population

MADISON - Persistent rumors implying that the state Department of Natural Resources is stocking rattlesnakes in order to control wild turkey populations are untrue.

"The fact of the matter is that the DNR is not stocking rattlesnakes anywhere in the state for any reason," says Bob Hay, DNR reptile and amphibian specialist. "The U.S. Fish and Wildlife service is working to stabilize or recover the few remaining populations before this species disappears from the state."

The federal agency is conducting in partnership with DNR staff and with the Milwaukee County Zoo. The partners are seeking to determine if captive-reared massasauga rattlesnakes can be released in the wild and survive. Researchers hope to learn if this technique could possibly be used to aid in recovery of the reptile, which is being considered for addition to the federal endangered species list.

"This project is in its second year," explained Hay. "It came from a proposal to look at 'head-starting' the reptile captivity to see if the more mature snakes are less susceptible to predators and have a greater chance at survival. Loss of habitat and predation has put the animal at the doorstep to listing under the endangered species act."

In 1999, 15 head-started rattlesnakes were surgically implanted with radio transmitters. The animals were released in two large blocks of land in the Necedah National Wildlife Refuge in Juneau County. With the aid of the radio transmitters the animals were located daily. An additional 16 transmitter-implanted massasaugas were released on July 31 of this year.

Both of these sites are closed to the public except during the 9-day deer gun season in late November when the snakes are hibernating. The results of the first year showed very poor survival. Four of the original 15 released snakes died in the fall of 1999 before hibernation. Only two of the remaining 11 survived the winter and one of those died one day after emerging from its winter quarters. Presently, there are 17 massasaugas remaining in the study.

"The heavy mortality of the study animals shows the tough odds these snakes are up against," says Hay.

The study will last until the end of July 2001 when any remaining study snakes will be permanently removed from the wild. These snakes will be housed in zoos and other educational facilities around the country.

For more information contact Bob Hay at (608) 267-0849.

KHS Girls Golf Team Starts Conference Season

The Kewaskum varsity girls golf team started their season on Monday at Watertown Country Club with a third place finish out of seven teams.

The girls had a team total of 193, 10 shots back from Hartford's 183 and seven shots back from Oconomowoc's 186. Rounding out the conference scores were Watertown at 204, Beaver Dam at 221, and West Bend East and West Bend West tied with a 237.

Niki Dreher was Kewaskum's best finisher with a score of 40 on Watertown Country Club's front nine. Most years that score would have been good enough for medalist but the conference has some great golfers, so Niki had to share second place with Katie Lang from Oconomowoc while Hartford's Samantha Wolf shot a blistering 38 including an eagle on #7 with a 130 yard chip-in.

The other counting scores for Kewaskum came from Courtney Timblin and Candi Heberer who each shot a 50 and Jody Wichtoski who shot a 53. The girl's next meet will be next week at Hartford Country Club.

Spring Turkey Hunting Applications Incomplete

MADISON - Applications for spring 2001 wild turkey hunting permits recently mailed to people who have conservation patron license were missing the Wild Turkey Zone map and permit numbers, which should have been on the reverse side of the hunter information portion of all applications.

The 2001 spring wild turkey map and permit level information is currently available at local Department of Natural Resources Service Centers and on the DNR's world wide web site. In addition, a hunting zone and permit level information sheet will be inserted into the October issue of Wisconsin Natural Resources magazine mailed to conservation patrons.

Spring 2001 wild turkey hunting applications will be available at all Automated License Issuance System (ALIS) vendors and DNR service centers by the beginning of September. Turkey hunters should be certain to pick up both the application and the $3 special permit application sticker, which should be placed on the application. Incomplete applications will not be considered in the permit drawing. The application deadline for the spring 2001 hunt is December 10, 2000.
