By Andrew R. Kuehl Staff Writer/Photographer

Holy Trinity Parish will be holding a dedication for their newly remodeled P.E.C. (parish education center) Sunday, January 14 at noon in the commons of their addition.

The idea of a P.E.C. was not only to make the addition for the students at the school, but to make it for the entire parish to use, boasting room for religion classes and parish office space.

All the monies for the project were pledged and donated. Construction started in the middle of this past June.

According to principal June Gauvin, the construction went well except for "minor disasters here and there." One of those was a fire in early August when a worker at the school discovered a work light that had fallen, undetected, on some roofing insulation, which caused the insulation to smolder.

Gauvin explained that the time frame when the idea of P.E.C. came about till when construction was

LIBRARY LEDGER

By Steev Baker Kewaskum Library Director

In the winter months, the world slows its heart-beat down in hibernation. The sun drops from the sky, heavy with ice, and hunkers down close to the pines, leans into their needled arms, hoping to catch the secret of staying green.

I remember prints branded into the white fields, always a mystery-a murder of crows hopping by the roadside; quick-footed rabbit foraging in the snow; deer silently watching the sleeping land, ghosts of breath curling from their nostrils. And what to do but stay inside?

Our smooth skin is not meant for this biting wind that screams open-mouthed across the Great Lakes to chew the forests and empty places. We are a part of nature, but distant from it in our homes of glass and wood. Hiding from winter we warm our eyes by the flickering television screen, grumble at snow-covered driveways, stamp our feet and squint into the thermostat. But somewhere, someone braves the outside.

Packaged like a Christmas gift in hat, gloves, layers of jackets and coats, thick-soled boots, they clamor through drifts, pushing powder with plows made of bone. They laugh into the eyes of winter, daring to break the quiet of muffled streets. Defiant, they move ever-onward, red-cheeked. living life. I saw them pulling books from the shelves with their soft, mittened hands, unwrapping the pages like peppermints. They tucked their newfound treasures under their arms and were gone into the snow leaving behind wet prints on the floor and the spicy scent of adventure hovering in the air.

The Kewaskum Public Library wishes you and your family a Joyous New Year!

We will be closed on Monday, January 1; and Tuesday, January 2.

New books to enjoy during your holiday break:

Historian Stephen Ambrose tells the story of the transcontinental railroad in his best-selling book Nothing Like It in the World. The eighth book in the highly anticipated Left Behind series-The Mark-has the Tribulation Force fighting for survival against a revived Nicolae.

John Le Carre's newest novel The Constant Reader tells of murder, betrayal, and secrets revealed. Journey back in time and place with The Beatles in Rishikesh and discover the spiritual side of the famous rock group.

completed took a little over a year. This timeframe included, planning, fundraising and construction. The first meeting took place in September of 1999 and work is now finished except for renovations to the old part of the school which has now begun.

The project gave the old portion of the school new floor tile, ceiling tiles, paint, and heating and cooling updates. The whole school is now air conditioned, said Gauvin.

Maybe one of its best features, the new physical education classroom allows students a larger area and they are able to stay in the building. Prior to the addition students walked to the church hall for classes. The cafeteria remains in the church hall.

As for one of the most talked about additions to the school, a school bell located on the roof of the addition, Gauvin says the bell was found in the trunk of a car at Paul's Auction Company, just outside of Kewaskum. The bell was purchased and then refurbished by Mark Herriges, owner of Herriges Machining. The bell was installed late in the summer by Herriges himself. Albert Fleischmann of Campbellsport Building

Dealing With Debt After the Holidays

In the aftermath of the gift-giving season, millions of Americans struggle with how to pay the bills for presents and other expenses related to the holidays. For many, overzealous holiday spending may have pushed them into serious and troublesome financial situations, or aggravated existing indebtedness.

Early signs or dangerous personal financial trends include:

* Not paying bills on time, or juggling which to pay.

pay.

* Paying only the minimum on large credit card bills.

* Frequent overdrafts on checking accounts.

* Spending all income with no money going to savings.

* Being denied credit because of a bad credit report.

If one or more of the warning signs applies, consumers might consider the following guidelines for getting back on track:

* Determine exactly where the money is going. Draw up a budget and stick

* When having problems making payments, contact creditors immediately about alternative, more manageable payment plans. Do not wait until the matter has been turned over to a collection agency, which may not be willing to negotiate.

* Check out companies offering debt consolidation loans carefully. Exorbitant fees, high interest rates and inflated promises can aggravate debt and credit problems rather than ease them.

* Beware of firms or individuals who offer to "clear up" negative data reported to credit bureaus. If the negative information is accurate, credit bureaus may report it for at least seven years. Bankruptcies may be reported for 10 years.

* Avoid using credit cards. Pay off balances each month. If debt has accumulated, pay more than the minimum due each month, if possible.

Consumers who fall behind in paying creditors may be contacted by debt collectors. The Federal Fair Debt Collection Practices Act prohibits debt collectors from using harassing, oppressive or abusive tactics when attempting to collect owed money. They cannot use false statements or engage in unfair practices in the performance of their work.

Those who feel they need more help in solving their debt and credit problems might consider contacting the nearest office of the Consumer Credit Counseling Service (CCCS). CCCSs are local, non-profit organizations, providing education and counseling on personal budgeting and the wise use of credit. Services are free or for a reasonable fee.

For the nearest CCCS offices, check the phone book white pages or call 1-800-338-CCCS (1-800-338-2227).

Hazardous Waste Clean Sweep Program to Be Held in County

Disposal of hazardous waste has been a persistent problem throughout history. Disposing of our wastes down the drain or on the garbage truck are inadequate for disposing of materials we no longer want or need.

Toxic chemicals are stored in almost every room of a typical American home. We have cleaners in the kitchen, disinfectants and air fresheners in the bathroom, hobby supplies and pesticides in the basement or garage, to name a few.

Washington County has been awarded grants of $15,000.00 from the Department of Natural Resources, and $14,500.00 from the Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection to provide the community with a convenient, central collection point for the safe, economical and environmentally sound transport, treatment and/or disposal of hazardous wastes.

The County will NOT be accepting paint as part of the Clean Sweep. It's too costly for the County to dispose of paint. Residents can dispose of paint by letting it dry and putting the dried paint in with the regular trash. Thin layers of paint in a shallow box work best for drying the paint

In 2001, an Agricultural Clean Sweep will be run in conjunction with the Household Clean Sweep. The dates for both clean sweeps will be April 6, 2001 from 3 to 6 p.m. and April 7, 2001 from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

Please note: LATEX AND OIL BASED PAINT WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED unless it contains some form of metal or is lead based.

The Clean Sweep Program is for Washington County residents only. You will be asked to present some form of identification.

Only households may participate. Businesses, including farms, cannot be accommodated by this pro-

* Household hazardous wastes include solvents, cleaning and polishing chemicals, pesticides and paints. Single container size is limited to five gallons for liquid and 40 pounds for solid wastes.

* Keep the individual items of hazardous waste separate, and in their original containers. It can be extremely dangerous to mix them together. For liability and safety reasons, unidentified substances cannot be accepted.

When preparing to bring substances, take a minute to pack them carefully. Line a cardboard box with a plastic garbage bag and then put in the bottles, bags or containers, separating each with a packing of newspaper.

* Your waste motor oil is handled through your regular recycling program. Restrictions imposed by the hazardous waste disposal company and the EPA prohibit accepting the following: infectious materials (sharps, etc.); explosives, including ammunition; compressed gas cylinders; radioactive materials.

WHAT IS A HAZARD?

When you care for yourself, your home, your gardens, and your machines, you use many chemical products. Research sponsored by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency shows that some of these products contain hazardous chemicals.

The E.P.A. defines a hazardous substance as a "dangerous" substance which may harm human health or the environment. To be included in the E.P.A.'s hazardous category, the substance must meet certain standards during accepted scientific tests which show that it is TOXIC, IGNIT-ABLE, CORROSIVE (likely to eat through its container or your pipes), or REAC-TIVE (may explode during routine handling).

WHEN IS IT HAZARDOUS?

If used according to label directions, most household products are not hazardous. They may become hazardous if you use them improperly, store them improperly, or dispose of unused products improper-

IMPROPER USE may cause toxic health effects. IMPROPER STORAGE may allow chemicals to leak into the environment causing dangerous chemical reactions, toxic health effects or environmental pollution. IMPROPER DIS-POSAL allows these dangerous chemicals to enter directly into the environment through waterways or groundwater. These chemicals can pollute drinking water, kill wildlife, and accumulate in foods such as fish and ducks.

DO'S

* Read the product label. Follow use directions care-

Watch out for SIGNAL WORDS, such as CAU-TION, WARNING, or DAN-GER. U. S. Product Safety Commission requires the use of these words on products which are toxic in small amounts. Keep ALL of these products away from children!

Buy just enough product to do the job.

Look for a non-hazardous or less hazardous product to perform each job. * Make proper disposal of leftover products. Keep leftover products in original containers. * Share unused products.

DON'TS

* Do not DUMP leftover products in the backyard or down the storm sewer.

* Do not BURN leftover products. * Do not BURY leftover products. Do not THROW leftover products in the garbage.

Do not REUSE pesticide or other chemical containers for other purposes.

* Do not MIX chemical

Wayne Crusaders 4-H Club News

The Wayne Crusaders 4-H club meeting was held at Wayne Elementary School on December 12. The meeting was called to order at 6:30 p.m. Pledges were led by Brett Koeferl and Joyce Wagner. Normally the club meetings are held at 7:00 p.m. at Cedar Valley.

The Wayne Crusaders decorated a Christmas tree in front of the Kewaskum Hotel (Woody's Steakhouse). The tree won first prize with a Nutcracker theme. Lots of club members discussed with the club what they did when they worked on the tree. All of them said they had a great time decorating the three together.

Shoeboxes filled with toys and supplies were donated to Shoeboxes for Samaritans. Boxes were asked to be filled with assorted health supplies and toys for children of all ages. In total forty-three boxes were donated and all the donations were greatly appreciated.

Deb Anderson, from the Abused Families Home, came to the meeting and gave a presentation. Many members brought supplies and gifts to give to the center. From the supplies donated by the community, twenty families are being adopted by the home over this Christmas season.

After the meeting there was a Christmas party for all the members of the Wayne Crusaders club. Games were played and prizes were given out. The next meeting will be held at 7:00 p.m. at Cedar Valley on January 9, 2001.

Letter to The Editor

To see Christmas through the eyes of a child... took place when my son, Tim, his daughter, Hannah, 3-1/2, and I attended our school's "Sing the Songs of Christmas," program, December 21, at Holy Trinity Church.

We found a pew in the back and, of course, Hannah had to stand up in order to see the performance. Not once did she ever tire out and sit down on her daddy's lap! And mommy had even dressed her up in her red plaid Christmas dress, white tights and black patent shoes.

With me, (Nana Suzie) gazing up at her once in awhile, to see what all granmas look for... expression upon the face. And, suddenly with her somehow knowing this... she looked down with her big roly poly brown eyes, and said to me, "I love you!" And, oh my, my heart grew bigger than it was before.

And still standing ever so tall, hearing the songs of Christmas and looking over the heads of many and with daddy holding his arm around her... not once, but again, she looked down at me, and said, "I love you!"

For it was a child's birth we were celebrating... which brought love to all and Nana Suzie found out that children always do love! "Happy Birthday Baby Jesus!"

A Fresh Start

by Ami

The new year always reminds us of the opportunity to make "a fresh start!" Some folks call it "resolutions" to do better, or differently. Many of us find those resolutions difficult to keep and we no more than make but BREAK the special effort we had hoped to keep. This is not unusual. However, for some of us it becomes a rather depressing state of affairs.

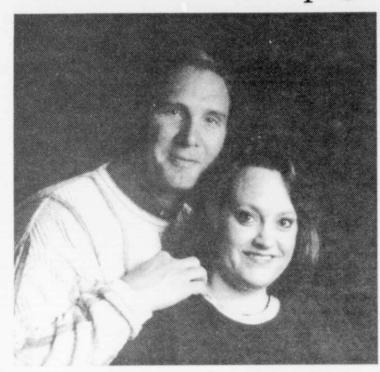

My tack in dealing with such a situation is to literally "head for the Wisconsin hills." Somehow or other there is something special in being in the great out of doors. Something soothing...a feeling that somehow or other things will turn out all right if we but face the issue squarely!

And face the issue I dare say I do...at least usually. Within the hills one finds a goodly number of interesting things to see. Rabbits, Red Fox, those brave winterstay birds; and sometimes a deer or two. And one wonders how they all survive cold the blasts winter...mounds of snow and freezing drizzle! Then, somehow, we tell ourselves, those winter residents of the hills know where to find nourishment, warmth and times to enjoy their every day life. How good it is then to zero in on our particular

Exploring the Winter Night Sky on Jan. 11

In January the Evening with Nature Series at the Northern Kettle Moraine State Forest continues with "Exploring the Winter Night Sky." The program will be held on Thursday, January 11, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at the Henry S. Reuss Ice Age Visitor Center. The Ice Age Visitor Center is located off of Hwy 67 1/2 mile west of Dundee. The program is free, but donations are always gratefully accepted.

Winter is a great time to get out and explore the night sky especially for beginning sky observers. The skies are crystal clear. This is not like the hazy nights of summer when there is so much moisture in the air. There are also fewer stars in the winter night sky then during the summer months. The winter constellations such as Orion and Capricorn, and the circumpolar constellations including the Big Dipper, Little Dipper and Cassiopeia are easy to identify and find. Bring a pair of binoculars to find some of the more distant and smaller objects found among the stars.

Rich Krause, a naturalist with the Schiltz Audubon Center in Milwaukee, has been conducting astronomy programs for many years. He will share his knowledge of the night sky and tips on becoming an expert observer of the dark sky. Join us for a fun-filled evening with the stars. The program will be held clear or cloudy skies.

For further information or directions to the Ice Age Visitor Center, please contact Jackie S. Scharfenberg, Forest Naturalist. She may be reached at (920) 533-8322, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

YMCA Camp Matawa welcomed families who participated in their first annual "Winter Family Fun Day" on December 9.

Many children and their parents enjoyed the beautiful winter surroundings at the camp facility located in the Kettle Moraine State Forest. Holiday music and a warm fire in the fireplace were the background as children crafted Christmas ornaments beside the 20 foot tree decked with lights.

Those who were not brave enough to try the indoor rock-climbing wall, enjoyed watching others attempt to reach the top.

Bill and Dewey, the two Belgian draft horses, pulled the sleigh through the freshly fallen snow throughout the forest. Hot chocolate and homemade cookies awaited those who tried snowshoeing and cross country skiing around camp and the children enjoyed visiting the barn animals, Darby the llama and the Shetland sheep.

Winter Family Fun Day at YMCA Camp Matawa was a free event for the community.

Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Launches Speech and Communication Program

Speech therapists at Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Agency have launched a new treatment program for those facing speech and communication challenges. Cedar Haven's Speech and Communication Enhancement Services include accent modification, voice and speech disorder treatment, voice preservation and other therapies for improving verbal communication.

"More adults than ever are investing in cosmetic surgery or orthodontics for how they look," said Cedar Haven Administrator Lori Dominiczak. "Improving how we sound is even easier with the right intervention. We give more first impressions through our voice than our appearance," Domimiczak said. "If it's a significant source of distress, or if it's been identified as a professional liability, it warrants attention."

Voice preservation instruction is available through Cedar Haven for educators, broadcasters, telemarketers, speakers or other professionals who can't afford to lose their voice. For those wishing to address an international or regional accent, Cedar Haven Speech Therapist Jill

Jorgenson is accepting clients for accent modification. Jorgenson has completed specialized training for accent modification. The treatment program is particularly beneficial for professionals whose accent interferes with customer communication. "The goal of accent modification is to improve communication without changing an individual's cultural identify," said Jorgenson. "All of us can learn the sounds of any language. Accent modification can help anyone master these sounds."

While all programs are customized to meet the individual's goals, a standard accent modification program includes 16 one-on-one sessions with a speech therapist. Speech and communication enhancement programs can be successfully executed for employee groups at reduced rates.

The new services Cedar Haven offers are a natural extension of services Cedar Haven speech therapists have been providing for children and adults with medical or developmental challenges since 1984. Cedar Haven continues to accept referrals from doctors; ear, nose and throat specialists; psychologists and surgeons patients requiring speech therapy or rehabilitation. In many speech enhancement cases, Dominiczak said, Cedar Haven's clinicians will work with an individual's doctor to identify and treat any medical condition that may contribute to the speech problem before therapy begins. Services are covered by insurance in many of these cases. For more information or an appointment, call 1-800-317-8899.

Cedar Haven Rehabilitation Agency became Wisconsin's first licensed not-for-profit rehabilitation agency in 1984. The agency operates clinics Fond du Lac, Grafton, Germantown, Horicon, and West Bend, providing physical, occupational, speech and massage therapy in home, outpatient, work and school settings. Specialty services include treatment for lymphedema and urinary incontinence, voice therapy, and work and sports injury prevention, assessment and treatment. The agency is a division of the Benevolent Corporation Cedar Campuses, a regional leader in rehabilitation, education, older adult living and health care.

Tractor Safety Course Required For Young Farm Workers

Does your son or daughter work on a farm during the summer? Do you hire youth to work for you during the year? Do these young people have adequate safety training?

Accidents cause more individuals deaths to between the ages of 15 and 24 than all other causes combined. On the farm, the major cause of accidents is working with tractors and farm machinery. Most accidents happen when the operator does not know how to operate the tractor or machinery correctly or is unaware of the dangers involved.

To help reduce accidents, Farm Tractor Safety Course is being sponsored by area High School Vocational Agriculture Departments and the University of Wisconsin Extension in Washington County. The course will be held on four Saturdays, February 10, February 24, March 10, and March 17 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. On Saturday, February 10 and February 24, the course will be held in Room 1113A&B of the Public Agency Center, 333 E. ate a tractor, with emphasis on safety. To complete the course, youth must attend all four sessions and pass a written and a driving exam. The course must be 24 hours to comply with federal and state requirements.

Federal law requires that youth under the age of 16 must be certified before being hired to work with tractors and tractor machinery. Effective May 1, 1996, state law mandated that no person may direct or permit a youth under 16 years of age to operate a farm tractor or self-propelled implement on a public road unless the youth has been certified as successfully completing a tractor and machinery certification course.

Prior to the law, only youth 14 or 15 years of age who operated tractors and equipment on a farm not owned by their parent or guardian were required to complete the safety course. Youth who drive a tractor for their parents may still do so without the formal training program as long as they do not operate the tractor on a public road. The law also does not apply to situations where a youth is driving a tractor and implement directly across (perpendicular to) a public road.

If you intend to hire any youth on your farm, make sure that they enroll in this course for your protection as well as theirs. There are penalties for not complying with the law. Also, some insurance companies have

New 'Smart Growth' Law Merits Attention

MADISON - Wisconsin's "Smart Growth" law mandates that local governments adopt comprehensive plans addressing a variety of land-use elements by 2010, according to the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance (WTA), a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to public policy research and citizen educa-

Local governments are updating their land-use plans in response to provisions in the state budget law enacted in October 1999, the WTA said. The legislature enacted technical revisions to the law in May 2000.

Under Smart Growth, existing land-use plans adopted by local governments will remain viable until January 1, 2010, and any new plans or plan updates may be developed under the "old laws." However, beginning January 1, 2010, and all landuse related actions of a local government regarding any ordinance, plan or regulation must be consistent with its adopted comprehensive land-use plan. This requirement applies to, among others, zoning ordinances, subdivision plats, municipal incorporations, annexations, municipal boundary agreements and extraterritorial plat reviews.

The WTA said comprehensive plans must address nine "elements": issues and opportunities; housing; transportation; utilities and community facilities; agricultural, natural and cultural resources; economic development; intergovernmental cooperation; land use; and implementation. The plans must contain projections for 20 years, in fiveyear increments, of future residential, agricultural, commercial and land uses.

Counties, cities, villages, towns and regional planning commissions are eligible for matching grants to develop comprehensive plans. The grants are administered by Office of Land Information Services (OLIS) in the state Department of Administration (DOA).

In October 2000, the DOA awarded its first round of Smart Growth grants, the noted. Overall, $1,002,838 in transportation planning grants funded by federal transportation monies was awarded to: three counties (Clark, Green Lake and Winnebago); 17 cities; five villages; 16 towns; the city and town of Platteville for a joint proposal; and the North Central Regional Planning Commission (RPC). The city of Green Bay received the largest grant ($230,000), followed by Clark county ($56,832), the city of St. Croix Falls ($51,380), North Central RPC ($42,000), Winnebago county ($41,925), the city of Prescott ($41,400) and the city of La Crosse ($40,000). Most of the local units will use the funds to develop computerized maps of their transportation systems.

In early 2001, the DOA will award $2.5 million in grants ($1.5 million from general purpose revenues and $1.0 million from federal transportation funds) for developing new or updated comprehensive plans. Local governments will be eligible for one comprehensive planning grant every ten years.

The new law also established the Smart Growth dividend aid program. Funding will be available in 2005-06 for towns, villages, cities and counties. To be eligible, the county or municipality must have adopted and implemented a comprehensive plan that the DOA and the Wisconsin Land Council determine meets statutory requirements.
