Board lists Beechwood School at $175,000

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

The Kewaskum Board of Education met Monday and were greeted with praise from KHS head track coach Gerald Gosa. The board also reviewed appraisals for Beechwood Elementary School.

Gosa thanked the board for the work that was done to improve the high school track and field facility. He further stated there were less injuries and improved performance of the track athletes because of the money the board invested in installing a rubberized track.

He also asked the board to think about keeping graduation on Sunday. He stated that it works better and there is not rushing to get back to make it for a Friday ceremony.

Margaret Krohn of Krohn Real Estate Services Inc. located in Saukville will be listing the school for $175,000. She will receive a 6% commission if she sells the school.

The board received appraisals from Quality Appraisal and Data Services for $320,000 and $200,000 from Commercial Appraisal Services, Inc.

Both appraisal firms felt it would take one to two years to sell the property.

Both firms also felt the property would be best suited for residential development.

There was much discussion on the issue, Gordie Dickmann asked about razing the building and selling land. Krohn suggested offering a credit to the buyer if they plan on razing the building. The credit would be taken off the sale price.

The board finally agreed that demolishing it would be a last resort.

Board president Andy Degnitz thought $175,000 would be fair. The motion was made and passed unanimously.

Dickmann announced to the board that the negotiations committee will meet on June 18 to discuss some issues. On July 18 they will meet with the KEA. Both meetings are open to the public. He further stated that they have agreed to the calendar for the 2001-2002 school year. "We're off to a good start," stated Dickmann.

KHS Principal Ganka Submits Resignation

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

Kewaskum High School principal Robert Ganka will not seek to have his contract renewed with the Kewaskum School District. His contract ends June 30 and so will his tenure as the high school's commander and chief.

Ganka came from Aracadia High School in 1999. He replaced Larry Wilson who began his tenure in Kewaskum in 1995 as vice principal after David Dillmann left the district. In 1997 Wilson became principal after Charles Heidner left the district for an elementary principal position.

Ganka offered his resignation late Monday afternoon before the school board meeting Monday night. The board accepted his resignation at the meeting.

Kewaskum superintendent of schools Wayne Graczyk and Ganka were unavailable for comment.

Residents Endure First Summer Storm

By Andrew R. Kuehl
 Staff Writer/Photographer

High winds, fierce lightning and flooding rains moved into the area just before 10 p.m.. The village's emergency siren was blown at 9:47 p.m. urging residents to take shelter and

Weekend of Golf Here

Chamber Golf Outing Needs You June 23

The Kewaskum Area Chamber of Commerce will be hosting their ninth annual 18-hole golf tournament on Saturday, June 23, at Hon-E-Kor Country Club in Kewaskum. Tee times will begin at 10 a.m.

This traditional summer fund-raising event will once again benefit the Chamber's annual Kettle Kountry Kolors family fun festival and all area golfers and non-golfers alike are encouraged to participate.

The format for this year's outing is a four-person scramble. Numerous golfing prizes will be awarded for the experts, the lucky golfers and the duffers alike, although a day of sun, green grass and outdoor camaraderie with a great bunch of people should be all the enticement you need to join in the fun.

The $60 entry fee ($30 for Hon-E-Kor members) includes golfing, a continental breakfast, lunch, steak fry dinner, live music to entertain you in the evening and the opportunity to soak up all the lovely nature throughout the course that the good Lord and Hon-E-Kor provides.

Leave your cares and worries at home, because once you start chasing that little white ball around the grass, it is guaranteed that you will not be thinking about whether or not to rotate your tires on Monday or which long distance carrier to choose. That is the beauty of the game. You only seem to be able to concentrate on moving that white thing from point A to point B and nothing else is allowed to enter your mind.

Try it... and this outing is the perfect opportunity because it is not just a gathering of pros trying to outdo each other. It's a mixed bunch of nice people who are just out on the course enjoying the beauty of nature and trying to improve their game. The competition for the prizes is a nice option, but not the uppermost thing on the mind of the participants. FUN and the great outdoors is the order of the day (and evening).

If you are still too nervous about trying your hand at the golf thing, join in the good time anyway in the evening for dinner and entertainment. Enjoy the scrumptious steak fry dinner prepared by some of your favorite Chamber members and kick up your heels during the live music provided. There will also be

Students Invited to Battle of Bands Here

Eighth through 12th grade students from West Bend and Kewaskum are taking steps to kick off their summer vacation with a bang!...or a battle...Battle of the Bands, that is. Members of Students Taking Action Not Drugs - or S.T.A.N.D. - have been planning this event, to be held at Riverhill Park in Kewaskum on Saturday, June 16 from 4 - 10 p.m.

Eighth through twelfth grade students are invited to attend. Seven bands, made up primarily of area high school students, will be performing. Tweaked, O-Na-Ni, and Cold Fusion are bands from Kewaskum and The Smelliez, 7 HRS Wasted, Cetera and L.A.S.T. are bands from West Bend. Each band will be playing for about 40 minutes; all are competing to be judged the winner of the Battle of the Bands.

Tickets are on sale for $2 each at West Bend High School, Kewaskum High School and to 8th graders at Kewaskum and West Bend middle schools. A limited number of tickets will be available at the door.

S.T.A.N.D. grew out of Assets for Youth, a West Bend, Kewaskum and Jackson area youth initiative. Over the last two years, members of Assets for Youth have been meeting with area students about their needs and concerns.

The youth overwhelmingly agreed that there is a lack of social activities for teens. Young people usually find themselves hanging out at someone's home, in parking lots, or downtown due to the lack of alternatives for people their age. A subcommittee of Assets for Youth, S.T.A.N.D., was formed to address this issue.

S.T.A.N.D. currently has five adults and 16 teens as active members. The Battle of the Bands is the first big project for the group since it was assembled earlier this year. The enthusiasm and dedication of the students are a thrill to Linda Dymond, Community Development Coordinator for The Council on AODA, and S.T.A.N.D. chairperson.

"We knew that if we wanted to have any success in planning drug-free activities for teens, that teens needed to take the lead. They (the teens) came up with the idea for the Battle of the Bands, and have been working to help take care of all the details. It is exhilarating to work with such positive young people."

Members of S.T.A.N.D. will continue to plan events such as this, and also work toward having a place where teens can hang out. "Teens seem to have gotten a bad reputation," says Dymond, "but here is a group of teens who are willing to work hard and take a STAND."

prepare for tornadic winds.

According to Wisconsin Electric officials all power has been restored to Kewaskum residents as of Wednesday morning. A total of 33 were left without power due to lightning blowing a line fuse. They further stated that there are individuals throughout southeastern Wisconsin without power but they were expected to be restored Wednesday afternoon.

A village of Kewaskum resident measured an inch and 1/4 of rain from the storm.

The hardest hit area in the county was Slinger and Hartford where winds measured 90 mph.

According to the Washington County Sheriff's Department there were no confirmed reports of tornado touchdowns or sightings.

Jim Moran Elected To Hospital Board

St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend has announced the election of Jim Moran to a three-year term on the hospital board.

Moran is senior vice president, corporate administration for Regal Ware, Inc. in Kewaskum and has been with the company for 28 years. A Milwaukee native, he earned his bachelor of business administration from the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater.

Moran has been involved in community service in many ways. Currently, he is vice president of the Cedar Campuses Foundation Board of Directors and a member of the board of directors of the Kettle Moraine Employers' Group on Health.

Formerly, he was a member of The Threshold Board of Directors, where he also served as president. He has served as captain for the Kewaskum Area United Way Campaign; served on and chaired the county's Economic Development Committee; and was chair of the Human Resources Committee for Holy Angels parish.

His professional memberships include the Cookware Manufacturer's Association-Employee Relations Committee, which he also chaired and the Society for Human Resource Management.

Moran and his wife Mia have three grown children and live in the Town of Kewaskum.

"It's just my luck to be stuck with a guy who can draw fast food but can't catch any."

Kewaskum Graduates Of UWWC

The following students from the Kewaskum area received their Associate Degrees at the Commencement Ceremony held recently at the University of Wisconsin Washington County.

They were: Rachel Elizabeth Beck (Fall 2000); Pamela Jean Hass (Spring 2001); Michael G. Mahan (Spring 2001); Amy Frances Rettler (Spring 2001); Amanda Jeanne Schulist (Spring 2001) and Theresa Marie Schultz (Spring 2001).

lots of raffles and door prizes awarded.

Set the entire weekend aside to improve (or begin) your golf game. The KHS Alumni golf outing is on Friday (also at Hon-E-Kor) which is a great opportunity to practice for the Chamber event on Saturday.

Remember... proceeds from the Alumni golf outing benefit the KHS Athletic program and proceeds from the Chamber event benefit Kewaskum's Kettle Kountry Kolers and that should be an incentive to sign up for these events today!

Take the time to get involved and socialize with the nice people you see everyday in your neighborhood. This is such a perfect chance for you to commune with the area's picturesque natural surroundings and benefit your community.

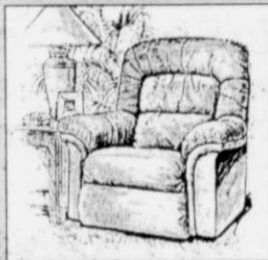

A sign-up sheet for the Chamber golf outing can be found on page 20 of this issue. If you would like more information, contact Aaron Laatsch at 626-2662.

Guest Article by Faith Mauk

One of the joys of being a grandparent is getting reacquainted with childrens books. The first gift we gave our grandchildren was a book and now when they visit they ask, Do you have any new books, Grandma? We also learned from their parents that books are a wonderful diversion for long car rides. As soon as everyone is buckled in, they reach for the books.

We read books that have been favorites for three generations that we read to our son, and also books from my childhood. The grandkids seem to enjoy imagining that Grandpa and Grandma were actually children at one time!

I started thinking about our favorite authors and one of the that immediately comes to mind is Wisconsin author Lois Ehlert. I would highly recommend her books to anyone that would like to check out some books from the library to enjoy with children. Her latest book is called Waiting for Wings and is about butterflies. She has written a wonderful selection of books including Chicka Chicka Boom Boom and our all time favorite Feathers for Lunch. The illustrations are gorgeous, the rhymes are fun, and there are just enough words to keep everybodys attention.

So if you would like to spend some really enjoyable time with children, help them develop a love of books. It is a truly a gift that will last a lifetime and its FREE at the library!

Faith Mauk is a patron of the Kewaskum Public Library. If you have a book review for us, please send it to kewaskum@mwfls.org. Or just bring it in with you when you get a book!

Reps. Grothman, Lasee Call on Thompson to Return

Madison- State Representatives Glenn Grothman (R-West Bend) and Frank Lasee (R-Bellevue) today expressed shock and amazement that the Joint Finance Committee spent an additional $35.5 million* on the highly controversial SAGE program. SAGE, a program designed to lower class sizes to fifteen children in 1st through 3rd grades, was described as having a minimal-and in some cases, no additional impact in second or third grade according to the non-partisan Wisconsin Policy Research Institute.

"Most voters remember when they were children having 25 or more kids in class. To allow the teachers' union to bamboozle gullible legislators into this expensive vote is incredible," said Grothman.

Most recent figures released by the Department of Public Instruction indicate in the last five years the student to teacher ratio in Wisconsin schools has already dropped from 15.4 to 14.8.

"I was wondering why no member of Joint Finance was willing to sign my no-tax pledge. Now I know, they were planning on a big spending increase," said Frank Lasee.

"This is my worst nightmare come true-without Tommy Thompson to keep the Joint Finance Committee in line, they will degenerate into total irresponsible spending," said Grothman.

Grothman and Lasee both plan on introducing amendments in Republican Caucus to remove the unnecessary spending. They also will issue a plea to Governor Thompson to return to Wisconsin and reign in Republicans on the Joint Finance Committee.

*an additional $20.7 in state spending and an additional $14.8 million in property taxes.

Formation of Mutual Holding Company 'Announced by West Bend Savings Bank

Raymond F. Lipman, President and CEO of West Bend Savings Bank, West Bend, announced June 8, that its Board of Directors has given approval to file an application with the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) seeking permission to form a federal mutual holding company (MHC).

"In the past, the rules governing a mutual savings bank have limited an institution's ability to expand with new services and products," explains Lipman. "The OTS has improved the MHC structure, and we have determined that it provides us with increased organizational flexibility and cost effective ways to expand, without losing our mutuality."

With the enactment of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, mutual holding companies are granted broader powers, on a par with financial holding companies, and the structure provides an ideal format for West Bend Savings Bank to take advantage of opportunities in the financial services industry.

The newly formed mutual holding company, to be named WBSB Bancorp, MHC, will be the sole owner of West Bend Savings Bank. Control of the mutual holding company, and therefore the bank, will remain with mutual members (depositors) and its local Board of Directors.

By adopting the new organizational structure the institution will be able to finance facility improvements, new offices, the acquisition of other financial institutions if opportunities arise, and loan and asset growth.

"This provides ways for our Bank to provide products and services at a pace equal to or greater than the much larger, publicly held institutions, without making us vulnerable to hostile takeovers or outside control," stated Lipman. "It's important for everyone to understand that when the new corporate formation is complete we will still be an independent bank owned only by our depositors. We are not 'going public,' or affiliating with an outside company with this internal corporate reorganization."

West Bend Savings Bank has been based in West Bend since 1926, has 12 offices in Washington, Ozaukee, Dodge and Sheboygan counties, and approximately 170 employees. The reorganization is still subject to regulatory approval and approval by the Bank's depositors. The reorganization is expected to be completed in the third quarter.

To be named to the Dean's List, a student must be an undergraduate enrolled full-time (at least 12 credit hours for a grade) and achieve a minimum grade point average of 3.5.

New Tourism Office At County Fair Park

An informal ribbon cutting ceremony was held for the new Washington County Convention and Visitors Bureau office May 11. As the second week in May is held as National Tourism Week, the newly established local Convention and Visitors Bureau celebrated its new office location with representatives from Hartford and West Bend Area Chamber of Commerce and the CVB Board of Directors.

A new year has brought a new opportunity to the Washington County CVB. As you may already know, Washington County stepped forward to provide office space for what was then a start up CVB, just a year ago.

Appropriately placed at the Washington County Fair Park, the CVB has filled its office to capacity. With limited space and a growing staff, the Fair Park has realized a need for change. Such a change provided the CVB with an opportunity to move from an internal office to an external and public location.

The new office will be accessible from the lobby of the Fair Park, allowing visitors access to tourism information first-hand. This also provides the CVB with the opportunity to cater to groups utilizing the Fair Park for an event.

Given that over 300,000 people utilized the Fair Park facility last year alone and that the space provides an area for brochure distribution, this move is welcomed and anticipated. Increased exposure for the CVB is inevitable.

The new space also provides a new benefit to CVB members, as it will be distributing individual business/organizational collateral from the center.

New Attractions, Exhibits and Activities Planned For 2001 At Wisconsin's Historic Sites

New attractions at several of Wisconsin's historic sites, combined with an innovative new plan for portraying the history of Wisconsin settlement at Old World Wisconsin, make the 2001 season an excellent time for families to do a little time traveling on their summer vacations or week-ends away from home.

For anyone who has never visited a Wisconsin historic site before, this season offers a tableau of state history to discover. And for those who have visited a site such as Old World Wisconsin or Wade House or Villa Louis in the past, something new and different is in store at each site that will make the visit as fresh and fun as it was the first time around.

Wade House in Greenbush will get its season off the ground with the rebirth of a little-known chapter of Sheboygan County history - the reconstruction of the historic Herrling sawmill. The original mill stood from 1854 to 1910, and beginning Saturday, June 16, an exact working replica of that historic sawmill will open to the public. Demonstrations of an industrial technology that disappeared in the 19th century will give visitors a fascinating peek at a time of remarkable settlement and town building in the Wisconsin wilderness.

Old World Wisconsin, the sprawling 576-acre outdoor museum of Wisconsin settlement near Eagle in Waukesha County, will give visitors an up-close and hands-on look at how immigrant pioneers, Yankee settlers and liberated slaves established their livelihood in frontier Wisconsin. The museum's 1870s crossroads village, its African-American and German settlements, and its Scandinavian farms will each offer behind-the-scenes tours, farming demonstrations and first-person dramatic portrayals of life in the 19th-century Wisconsin.

During two four-week segments at the height of the season, from June 17 through July 14, and from July 15 through August 11, Old World Wisconsin will turn the historical spotlight on individual elements of its town-and-country time capsule.

The first period will feature temperance rallies, town hall meetings, a Swedish immigrant gossip and a meet-a-critter program in the village and on the outlying Scandinavian farms. During the same time, the German, Polish and African-American settlements will offer behind-the-scenes tours, led by a museum curator, highlighting historic farming and gardening, domestic crafts, historical artifacts and a first-person portrayal of a 19th-century tax assessor. Beginning July 15, the locations will switch, with similar activities held in the opposite sections of the far-flung museum. A June visit may offer an entirely unique perspective than a return visit in late July or August.

Meanwhile, on the opposite side of the state, the Villa Louis Victorian mansion in Prairie du Chen will continue with the second phase of its extensive interior restoration. The first phase, completed in 1998, returned several rooms of the mansion to their heyday in the 1890s when the mansion was completely redecorated in William Morris-inspired British Arts-and-Crafts movement finery.

This year's restoration will complete the task, with the mansion's sitting room, kitchen and wrap-around verandas in store for complete restoration. Visitors to the Villa Louis this season will not only see the results of the restoration work completed in 1998, but will also witness ongoing progress of the project's second phase, including the application of window and wall treatments, laying of ornate carpeting, and a variety of painstaking handwork like that performed by interior decor artisans a century ago.

Farther north, Madeline

Island Historical Museum will debut a new exhibit depicting the evolution of resort life in the Apostle Islands region from the 1870s through the 1920s. "Good Ol' Summertime: Early Vacation Life on Madeline Island" presents a 3-D scrapbook of the growth of summer tourism in the region, which began in earnest on Madeline Island with the first summer homes built on the island in the late 1890s.

In Wisconsin Dells, long a summer tourism hot spot, the H.H. Bennett Studio and History Center will begin its second season, offering visitors a very different kind of experience from water slides and amusement parks. Here a person can step inside the historic studio of a pioneer 19th-century photographer who, in his own time, single-handedly popularized the magnificent dells of the Wisconsin River as a major Midwestern tourism magnet.

For more information on the Wisconsin historic sites' new season offerings for 2001, or for a full-color brochure, write or call the State Historical Society, 816 State St., Madison, WI 53706-1482, (608) 264-6586. You can also visit the sites on the World Wide Web at www.shsw.wisc.edu/sites.

Red Cross Disaster Classes

June through September are severe weather months in Wisconsin as well as in other parts of the United States. The local television and radio stations are constantly urging their listeners to be aware and prepared for dangerous weather conditions.

The Red Cross in West Bend will be conducting classes for persons wanting to help the community in disasters such as tornadoes, floods, fires, ice storms, etc.

"Introduction to Disasters" is a three hour video-based course which will introduce you to disasters, community response, and the role of Red Cross Disaster Services. The class will be held at the Red Cross office on Monday, June 18 at 6:30 p.m.

On July 9, a "Mass Care" class will be offered at the same location. This course gives an overview of the many facets of Red Cross aid, such as feeding, sheltering and distribution and how you can help in your community in the event of a major disaster. "Introduction to Disasters" is a prerequisite for "Mass Care."

The Red Cross office is located at 819 N. Schoenhaar Drive (off Hwy. 33) in West Bend. There are no charges for these classes and completion certificates will be issued to those attending. To register, call the West Bend Red Cross Chapter at 262-334-5687.

Kewaskum 4-H'ers Visit Riveredge Nature Center

Members of the Kewaskum 4-H'ers visited the Riveredge Nature Center on May 5 to learn about the Vernal Pond, in conjunction with their special emphasis theme "Water -- We're All Connected." Here they learned about mysterious plants and animals that come to life only in the spring and then disappear. Lying on a floating boardwalk, they scooped up water samples, collected water critters and then got the chance to identify them. Submitted by Sarah Kissinger

Area Volunteers Receive Awards

WEST BEND -- Three West Bend area volunteers have received the 2001 community award from Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Washington County. The three recipients are Sue Heule, Bonnie Opsal and Jane Schoedel.

The community awards are a way for Big Brothers/Big Sisters to give recognition to volunteers who support its organization. The recipients are chosen based on their long-term support and dedication to the agency.

Sue Heule was recognized for 20 years of service on the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Board of Directors. Heule's 20 years of service allowed her to be involved in almost every aspect of the agency. Through the years, Heule's great vision and love for the agency have shown through in her devotion to Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Bonnie Opsal was acknowledged for her continuing support of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters annual Bowl for Kids event. Opsal has participated in 14 of the 15 BFK's events and has raised over $11,000.

Jane Schoedel was awarded for inviting Big Brothers/Big Sisters to be the concession stand charity at a Craft Fair, The Fair to Remember, that she runs each year. Schoedel's generosity has allowed the agency to raise money for its various programs and to educate the public about Big Brothers/Big Sisters for the past two years. Schoedel has also solicited donations from a raffle that helps the agency to raise additional money.

"There are so many different ways for people to be involved in Big Brothers/Big Sisters," said Ellen Evensen, Executive Director of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Washington County. "Yet, a lot of people think the only way they can be involved is to be matched with a child. That is not the case and the community awards are proof of that."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters is a one-on-one mentoring program that matches youth from single parent families with adult volunteers. For more information on Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Washington County, call (262) 334-7896.

The officer made contact with the former roommate and he stated he would return the property later in the day.

On June 1, Kewaskum police were dispatched to a residence in regards to a vandalism complaint.

Whimsical Tea Service Sprouts Wings at Artspace

SHEBOYGAN -- MID-SUMMER ENCHANTMENTS: THE TEAPOTS OF EUNJUNG PARK features ceramics inspired by nature as well as traditional pottery. This exhibition of porcelain works by Korean-born artist Eunjung Park is on view at Artspace, a shop of the John Michael Kohler Arts Center from June 11 through August 19.

Ceramist Eunjung Park creates unique teapots that serve as a form through which to explore the metaphorical, functional, and ritual connections between people and objects.

The teapot is an everyday object, used in a variety of cultures for hundreds of years. Park recreates this common structure into startlingly original forms. Bananas, carrots, bok choy, and a variety of other colorful fruits and vegetables are merged and reshaped into ornately textured porcelain, creating not-so-traditional, yet functional, teapots adorned with wings, tiny snails, and other garden creatures.

Each teapot seems to take on a life of its own, almost like a new type of vegetable or animal. As the artist explains, "The spout is a nose of the creature that breathes, and the teapot invites a user with the aroma of tea through her spout, as flowers attract bees with their perfume and honey. The spout pours collected nature and nourishment through use, allowing human nature and Nature to meet."

Park was trained in traditional Korean ceramic decoration and throwing techniques and, in addition, earned an M.F.A. at the Rhode Island School of Design. She uses the time-honored Korean practices and builds upon them with her own creative and contemporary skill.

The John Michael Kohler Arts Center, a 33-year-old, nationally acclaimed visual and performing arts complex, JMKAC, is devoted to innovative explorations in contemporary American art. Its exhibitions focus on a wide range of concepts and directions, with particular emphasis on new genres, installation art, unconventional photography, the crafts, ongoing folk traditions, and the work of self-taught artists.

The performing arts also emphasize contemporary art forms in programming that unites the regional arts community and national visiting artists.

With the completion of its expansion, the new 99,000-square-foot Arts Center comprises ten galleries, an intimate theatre, a flexible interdisciplinary performance space, studio-classrooms, meeting spaces, Flying Colors Shop and Carriage House Cafe.

The Art Center hours are Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cafe Hours are Tuesdays and Thursdays and before evening performances from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. All other days of the week the hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

out of the pipe.

Upon arrival, the officer met with the complainant who stated that sometime between Thursday evening and Friday afternoon, someone had taken a CD case containing CDs from his vehicle.

The victim stated that he was unsure of who would have taken the CDs.

If anyone has information on any of the complaints, contact the Kewaskum Police Department at 626-2323 or the Washington County Chief's Tip Line at 1-800-232-0594. All calls are confidential.

By Sarah Hellmuth and Samantha Laack

A book required to read in Mrs. Rankin's fourth grade class at Kewaskum Elementary School was "Sadako and the Thousand Paper Cranes."

The character, Sadako, lived in Hiroshima and had leukemia. Her disease was a result of America dropping the atom bomb in World War II. As Sadako's illness progressed, she was hospitalized. One day her friend, Mitsue Chan, told her if she made 1,000 paper cranes the gods would grant her a wish. Sadako's wish would be to make her healthy again.

Sadako could only make 644 paper cranes before her illness took over and she passed away. Her classmates made the other 356 cranes in her honor.

Dan Laack, father of Samantha, came to our classroom and taught us how to fold and make paper cranes. The class decided to set a goal and try to make 1,000 paper cranes. In order for this to happen, each student would have to make 52 paper cranes. We set our goal. In less than four weeks, we achieved our goal of folding 1,000 paper cranes.

We then packed our cranes and sent the 1,000 paper cranes to Sadako's monument at Hiroshima's Peace Park in Japan, to honor Sadako and all the people who died as a result of the atom bomb.

Perfect Summers

Here are some more Perfect Summer stories from Mrs. Barb Rankin's class at KES.

By Brittany Aupperle

The perfect summer would be if my family bought a huge swimming pool with a hot tub connected to the pool. I would like that because I love to swim and play in the water.

The perfect summer would be if I could have Courtney and Amanda come over to my house everyday and they could stay overnight every Friday. Once every two weeks on Friday we could set up our tents and sleep in them.

I would also like it if my family and all my friends could all go to Florida to Disney for the whole summer vacation. I think that would be fun.

One thing I would like to clean is the attic because it is so messy. The attic never stays clean.

Winning the two million dollar lottery would also make my summer perfect. I would use half the money to buy clothes and shoes. The other half I would buy a mansion with a limo.

The perfect summer would be if I flew to Ireland so I could maybe find people related to me because I am part Irish.

I would also like to fly to Mars so I can prove that there is life on Mars and I could communicate with the people who live there. That would be the perfect summer.

By Lindsay Schneider

The perfect summer would be if I could go to Florida and go swimming every day. The perfect summer would also be if I wasn't allergic to bees.

The perfect summer would be if I could have my friends Melissa Prunty and Kelsey Guth spend the night every night.

For the summer to be perfect the weather would also have to be hot weather, but no so hot that everything melts.

My idea of a perfect summer would be if I won the thirty-four million dollars in the lottery and I could fly to Hiroshima to see Sadako's monument. While I was there I could make 1,000 paper cranes to put under the monument. If this is how my summer was I would never want it to end.

Then I would take another blue plane to California to camp in one of the huge Redwood trees. I would bring every single one of my relatives even if I don't know them.

My perfect summer would also be if I didn't have homework!

By Billy Utecht

The perfect summer to me is going to the Kalahari with my family. Another thing that would make a summer perfect is making summer vacation longer and traveling all around the world to see different things. Getting to stay up late at night, going to Hawaii and staying in a hut by the beach.

In Hawaii I would be able to go swimming in the water where I would try to learn how to surf. Then I would get in my private airplane and fly all around Hawaii. Next I would fly back to my hut and relax and fly home the next day.

Next I would go play with my friends. Then I would go in my house and sit down with my family and talk about what happened.

By Courtney Meyer

The perfect summer would be when I go swimming all the time. I would go over by Brittany Aupperle's and play all day. When I went home I could do whatever I want to and then clean the house.

I would go to Wisconsin Dells for free. Then go to California to Disneyland for the rest of the summer and I would invite Brittany to go with us and have a huge sleepover in California. Finally I would go to Hawaii and to the Grand Canyon for a week or two. On my way around the world I would stop in Florida to visit my Grandma.

I know in the perfect summer I would win the $1,000 dollar lottery and that would mean that I could go shopping at the mall ALL DAY. I wish that summer would not end. That would be my perfect summer.

Students in Kewaskum High School have been given the opportunity to experience first hand what teaching preschool is like. For the students Child Development Class, Carol Martin, the director of the program, divides the students into four groups and each group is in charge of teaching one day a week in a three week session.

Children ages three - five came to the high school to teach students there even more than they, themselves, would be taught. The children were there for two hours a day and had two different sets of teachers each day. The teacher of the high school course, Carol Martin, has been running the course for numerous years and plans on continuing in the fall.

The students found it a hard job to keep 25 children busy with the help of their classmates. On Tuesday, May 15, the activities included a story about popcorn, a science lesson/demonstration on how popcorn popped and an art project of gluing colored popcorn to a picture.

Before the students teach and interact with the children they study about a child from pregnancy to preschool.

Students enjoy the preschool work more than they do book work. The hands-on work really teaches them more of real life. As Betsy Marx, one of the students said "Preschool brightend any school day."

Spanish Spelling Bee Held at HTS

On Friday, May 25, Holy Trinity School in Kewaskum, hosted for the first time a Spanish Spelling Bee.

Students from sixth, seventh and eighth grade studied hard for many months to represent their grade in the Spelling Bee. Each participating grade had to study 108 words from nine different categories ranging from colors to school subjects. They also had to know the Spanish alphabet, which contains four more letters than our alphabet, and its proper pronunciation.

Spanish teacher, Senora Schneider, was very proud of how committed all the students were to being involved in the school's first ever Spanish Spelling Bee. Shown above are Senora Schneider and first place winner, Kyle Rieden; second place winner, Nicole Feucht, who just graduated, and the third place winner, Clark Stamm.

First and second place winners each received a trophy and all winners also received gift certificates to Little Professor.

Senora Schneider thanked all the Spanish students who demonstrated great effort to make the first Spanish Spelling Bee a success!

Letter to The Editor

FATHER'S "EMPTY HEARTS"

Fathers... it is in the world of today... that your names are not remembered as it really should be. With "empty hearts" you must ask, "Why?"

After you've put in a long day at work and reach home, the kids boast out loudly, "daddy's here!" And, then the big smacks and hugs are given to each other in return. And you know that since the very existence, it is you who has worried to feed them to their fullest.

You've "shouted-to-proudest" by taking them to the organization and school activities of their choice. And, if they have listened to the coaches lessons (and a little of you in-between) they will score the points to win the game. And you know that they have been brought to understand what sportsmanship is all about.

And you hope you've taught them "battle and doubts" that life sometimes encounters, and by having faith in God and prayer will lead them to the truth.

Then, as they grow, with age comes their first "big step forward"... getting their drivers license. With the teens hoping they will have the examiner they want.

And after now maturing, with hope in his heart, it's time for graduation from high school. And it is with mixed blessings in your "empty heart" that their future in this world of change can be met with courage while they meet strangers of all race and creed.

And as marriage comes their way, with an "empty heart" it is your prayer that God's blessing is with them for a future of love.

And as Papa and Nanna, too, it is proudly announced... A CHILD IS BORN! and there is no longer "empty hearts!"

And oh, Happy Father's Day!

Dare Graduation Held at KES

DARE graduates performed the DARE theme song.

By Kailee Sager and Kelsey Guth, 4th grade students from Mrs. Barb Rankin's class

On Thursday May 24, 2001, the fifth grade students from Kewaskum Elementary graduated from the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program, (D.A.R.E.) which was instructed by Officer Tom Bauer from the Kewaskum Police Department. The graduation was held in the KES gymnasium at 2 p.m.

Many people were invited to speak to the D.A.R.E. graduates. These people were, Representative Glenn Grothman, Chief Richard Knoebel of the Kewaskum Police Department, Mr. Wayne Graczyk the District Administrator and Mr. Kieth Kriewaldt the elementary principal. Also in attendance were three middle and high school students who served as D.A.R.E. role models for the fifth grade students, the fourth grade class and several friends and families of the graduates.

During the program, six students read their D.A.R.E. essays. These students, Cory McKay, Karee Raether, Paul Marchant, Candace Kuphal, Amanda Duenkel and Michael Gutjahr, did a wonderful job in expressing the reasons why the D.A.R.E. program was so helpful to them.

"At D.A.R.E. graduation everyone was talking about being drug free because you can die from drugs. Why would you want to do drugs anyway? Mr. Kriewaldt and Cory McKay astonished me with their speeches. Mr. Kriewaldt had three words to say, 'Make good choices.' This really made me think. Cory McKay said, 'Keep off drugs because you can die from them.' I don't want to die, especially from drugs because then I would not be able to fulfill my dreams," said Jamie Lesch, a fourth grade student in attendance of the graduation.

In response to the speeches, Chris Bednar said, "At D.A.R.E. graduation I learned a bunch of ways to say no to drugs and not to drink alcohol. Students made speeches about how D.A.R.E. changes how they thought about drugs. I really was excited and inspired by the speeches."

As part of the program, the graduates also sang their D.A.R.E. song and received medals from completing the program. Many of the fourth grade students reflected upon this, including Keirstyn Koenings who stated, "The fifth graders got medals and certificates because they graduated from the D.A.R.E. program. I liked the graduation because the fifth graders sang their D.A.R.E. song."

The fourth grade students learned a lot from attending the D.A.R.E. graduation. Many walked away with information about the program that they will be a part of next year. Alissa Clapper was one of these students. "At D.A.R.E. graduation I liked what Mr. Kriewaldt had to say, 'Make good choices,' and I know I will. The D.A.R.E. graduation has inspired me to join D.A.R.E. in fifth grade."

D.A.R.E. teaches you how to solve problems. We are very excited about being in D.A.R.E. next year as fifth grade students.

Other thoughts and comments from some of the fourth grade students who attended the D.A.R.E. graduation are below.

"On May 24, the fifth grade graduated from the D.A.R.E. program. D.A.R.E. stands for Drug Abuse Resistance Education. I feel that anyone that does drugs or even thinks about doing drugs is just ruining their life and other lives also." - Lindsay Schneider.

"At the D.A.R.E. graduation, fifth graders were recognized for learning how to make a difference in the world. They learned that people should not use drugs. The person that I was influenced by most was Mr. Kriewaldt. I think this because of three words that he said at graduation, 'Make good choices.'" - Lindy Taylor

"I think that the D.A.R.E. graduation had some sad moments in it. The saddest was when Mr. Kriewaldt gave his speech that a lady had her wisdom teeth pulled and was given drugs so her mouth would not hurt. She decided to then go to a party and drink. The reaction between the alcohol and the medicine caused her to go into a coma and she passed away. Be careful, this can happen to you." - Ashley Bronkhorst.

"The fourth graders watched the fifth graders graduate from the D.A.R.E. program. I feel that D.A.R.E. is a good program for kids. D.A.R.E. teaches kids to stay away from drugs and to have a good life." - Brittany Aupperle

"The fifth grade students gave speeches and so did Mr. Kriewaldt. He talked about a lady who did not listen to her doctor and took alcohol with her medication and passed away. I think that D.A.R.E. will be fun." - Courtney Meyer

"At the D.A.R.E. graduation every student got a medal. I really liked how happy they were to get the medal." - Stephanie Yahr.

"At the D.A.R.E. graduation every student got a medal and they sang a song that I liked very much. I was happy to learn that they learned so much." - Ashley Gonia.

Grant Funds Will Provide Park Land, Public Access to Silver Lake

MILWAUKEE - Washington County has been tentatively approved to receive a grant of $307,500 from the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources' Stewardship - Urban Green Space program. If awarded, the county will use this funding for costs incurred in the purchase of approximately nine acres on Silver Lake in the Town of West Bend.

Washington County has also been tentatively approved to receive a grant of $335,000 from the Recreational Boating Facilities program for the development of a public boat launch on Silver Lake. Recreational Boating Facilities program grants are awarded by the Wisconsin Waterways Commission and administered by the Department. The county is also seeking federal funds for construction of the public boat launch under the Sport Fish Restoration program.

The county purchased the nine acres from Mr. Roland Henschke in August 1999, according to Dave Dahms, DNR public waterways access coordinator. "This acquisition provides for the preservation of approximately eight acres of primary environmental corridor that includes a one-acre wetland. In addition to the public boating facility, the county intends to provide further woodland and wetland restoration, a wet detention basin and a trail that connects to the Ice Age National Scenic Trail," said Dahms.

In developing the public boating facility, Washington County will raze and remove existing structures, relocate gas and electric lines, landscape the entire site, and construct a new boat ramp, boarding dock and year-round restroom facilities. The public access site will have parking available for seven vehicle-trailer units and three car-only units. The public access site will be accessible for persons with disabilities.

These types of projects typically do not have the potential to cause significant adverse environmental impacts; therefore, the Department has made a preliminary determination that an environmental analysis will not be required for these projects.

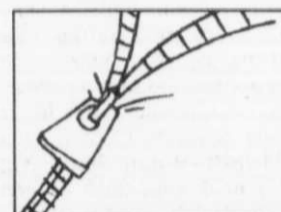

Information regarding the Department's grant determination can be reviewed at the DNR Southeast District Headquarters. Comments on the proposed project are welcomed and should be received by Dave Dahms or Dan Kaemmerer, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources, Southeast Region, P.O. Box 12436, Milwaukee, WI 53212.

A Permit May Be Needed for Summer Waterway, Wetland Projects

MILWAUKEE - For people who next year want to add riprap to a shoreline, build a pond, dredge a lakeshore to beat low water levels, buy a water trampoline - the newest toy to hit Wisconsin lakes - or "super-size" a pier, now is the time to begin planning such projects, Ben Callan, DNR water management specialist, says.

For anyone thinking of any of these projects - or purchases - affecting Wisconsin lakes, rivers or wetlands, the best place to start is the Department of Natural Resources web site - <http://www.dnr.state.wi.us/org/water/fhp/waterway/index.htm>. Or call your local DNR office and ask Ben Callan if a project or activity requires a permit.

"People need to start investigating now whether they'll need state or local permits for projects they want to enjoy next summer," says Mary Ellen Vollbrecht, DNR rivers and regulations chief. "Finding out now may enable you to plan and design your project in such a way to avoid needing a permit. It also may help speed up the permitting process, which can take up to several months, and it can help you do a better job of minimizing harm to the environment."

Research in Wisconsin and elsewhere is increasingly revealing that the cumulative impacts of individual lake and stream projects can hurt fish reproduction, eliminate native bird, turtle, frog and plant species, harm water quality and diminish the waterway's natural beauty, especially as such activity has skyrocketed, Callan says. The number of homes along Wisconsin's 15,000 lakes has increased an average of 216% since the 1960s, and in the last decade, the number of people seeking permits to build seawalls, to install riprap, or to otherwise modify waterways has tripled and the number of applications to build ponds has quadrupled.

Four State Record Fish Caught So Far in 2001

MADISON -- Fish records are falling like rain in Wisconsin.

Within the first few months of 2001, four record fish have been caught in a variety of Wisconsin waters. The records aren't for the glamour fish -- walleye, musky, bass or the like -- but for some of the state's oddball, infrequent catches.

* Guy Hall of Sturtevant caught a 1.05-pound warmouth May 26 in Eagle Lake in Racine County. The warmouth is a sunfish species.

* Landon Gryczkowski of Argonne caught a 32-inch, 14.48 pound splake April 14 in Lake Michigan off Marinette County. The splake is a lake trout and brook trout hybrid, a species stocked in Lake Michigan since the early 1980s.

* Stan Hagensick of Lynxville caught a 74-pound, 5-ounce flathead catfish March 30, on the Mississippi River near Genoa. Hagensick's catch, a 53-inch fish caught on an eight-pound test, obliterates the previous record, a 65-pounder caught in 1987 on the Fox River in Winnebago County.

* Roger Fox of Pittsville caught a three-pound, two-ounce white crappie January 8 from the Black River in Clark County. His catch represents the ninth time this record has changed hands in the last six years.

"For the most part, these are not your ordinary fish that are caught that often," says Karl Scheidegger, the Department of Natural Resources fisheries biologist who maintains the state records. "But people are now aware there are records to be had for some of these fish, so they may be targeting them or are more willing to wade through the paperwork if they think they've caught a record fish."

In the last four years, for example, records have been set for the quillback carpsucker, the moon-eye, the shortnose gar, the American eel, and the burbot, Scheidegger says. The new records reflect Wisconsin tremendous diversity of fish species and sizes, ranging from fish that hover around a pound, as Hall's warmouth did, to Hagensick's catfish, which was so large that it wouldn't fit on the DNR's scale when Hagensick brought it into the DNR La Crosse office, so a DNR fisheries technician took the angler and his fish to a business with a larger certified scale.

Records for game fish such as walleye, largemouth bass, and musky have been much more elusive for anglers in recent decades. Records for those three species date to 1933, 1940 and 1949 respectively, and likely reflect greater fishing pressure, Scheidegger and other fisheries biologists say.

"There are record fish out there -- it's just a matter of happening upon them," he says. "I have to believe the fishing pressure plays a role. There are a lot of people fishing now and some of the fish that may have been records in the past aren't allowed to grow to the size they reached in earlier times with fewer anglers."

However, the growing catch-and-release fishing ethic has helped in that regard, he says.

Doug Welch, a DNR fisheries biologist based out of Sturtevant, said that modern fishing equipment is making it easier for anglers to find fish. But it's still up to the anglers to catch them.

He said that the prospects of catching record fish may be improving on some lakes because regulations are more and more designed to protect against overharvest, and some waters now carry special regulations that allow the fish to reach a good size before they can be legally kept.

In some cases, as in the case of the warmouth Guy Hall recently caught, records may reflect a situation particular to that lake. The state used rotenone treatments on Eagle Lake to reduce populations of carp and bullheads, which have a tendency to root around on lake and river bottoms, harming water quality, aquatic plants and the fish and other aquatic creatures that depend on both to survive. The lake was restocked with game fish in 1992, and it's likely those fish grew quickly in the absence of the carp and bullheads, Welch says.

Hall, a weekend angler, was fishing for bass on Eagle Lake when he pulled in the warmouth. He took the fish back to his brother's house, where the two of them compared the catch to pictures in a fish identification book and determined it was a warmouth. They looked on the DNR's website to see the record for warmouth and found their fish beat it.

"I was just kind of lucky," Hall says. Catching a one-pound warmouth wasn't as exciting or challenging as catching the seven-foot sail fish he hauled in in Florida, Hall says, but he's getting the warmouth mounted and hopes to get a certificate he can get framed and display. DNR no longer lists the name of the anglers who caught the fish because of privacy requirements lawmakers have adopted in recent years.

should follow these steps to secure their place in Wisconsin fishing history -- if only until the next angler comes along with a slightly bigger one.

* Don't clean or, if at all possible, freeze the fish.

* Keep the fish cool, preferably on ice.

* Get the fish weighed as soon as possible on a certified scale (usually found in a grocery, hardware store, etc.) and witnessed by an observer.

* Contact the nearest DNR Service Center to get the fish species positively identified and to find out whether the fish is actually a state record.

For a look at Wisconsin's state record fish, visit the DNR website at <http://www.dnr.state.wi.us> and use the drop down menu to select "Fish, record."
