Car Fire in New Fane Early Release at KMS And KHS February 4

A vehicle traveling on Kettle Moraine Drive just east of New Fane encountered some bad luck late Tuesday afternoon when his vehicle allegedly left the roadway and caught fire. The Kewaskum Fire Department extinguished the flames shortly after their arrival on scene. Also responding were the Fond du Lac and Washington County Sheriff's Departments. The driver of the vehicle had one passenger, both were uninjured and did not require medical transport. Both Sheriff's departments stated they have been on the scene of many minor accidents in the area because of the season's first "real" taste of winter driving in Wisconsin after about an inch and a half of snow blanketed Kewaskum Saturday morning. Kewaskum received about another two inches Monday and another two Tuesday. More snow was forecasted for the rest of the week. Both departments encouraged drivers to use common sense when on the roads after snow or icy conditions.

Kewaskum Library Hours Change

In an effort to better serve the community, the Kewaskum Public Library is now open until 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. This recent hour change, which follows on the heels of a September addition of Thursdays, now allows library patrons a total of 8 more hours of use as compared to last year at this time. "We had gotten some criticism when we paired back hours in order to accommodate Thursday," explained Matt Heiser, a member of the Library Board of Trustees. "And being within walking distance of schools and churches, parents like to come in while their kids are at athletic practices or CCD." So the hours were changed back to 10-8 and Thursday was kept. As a result, the employees of the Kewaskum Public Library saw an adjustment to their own work schedules. "It took some juggling," admitted Library Director Steven Baker, "But we try to be sensitive to what the community wants. After all, it is their library." Library Hours are Monday-Wednesday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., Thursday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

This December 2001, the Boltonville Fire Department was awarded a grant to purchase equipment to improve response time in cardiac emergencies. The purchase of the equipment was funded by partners in the local community, the Red Cross - West Bend Chapter, and by a federally sponsored grant called the Automated External Defibrillator (AED) Pilot Program, administered by the Wisconsin Office of Rural Health.

Thirty-nine organizations from around the state applied for the grant, and the Boltonville Fire Department was one of four that received awards of up to $8,000.

The other recipients were the Shawano County Healthier Communities

Partnership, the Great Divide Ambulance Service in Cable, and the Sheriff's Department of Richland County.

The department has used the funds to purchase one Medtronic Physio-Control AED from AvanTech. The department plans to complete personnel training and have the device in use by March. The AED will be placed in one of the department's fire trucks enabling fire fighters to provide emergency assistance when cardiac arrest victims are found during a search and rescue operation.

Future plans are to continue raising funds to expand the program, and to promote community awareness of the appropriate response in cardiac emergencies.

Town of Kewaskum Resident Supports Public Transit in Washington County

Kewaskum - Ellen Dettwiler is one Town of Kewaskum resident delighted to hear that the Washington County Board of Supervisors recently voted final approval to its 2002 budget. An ardent supporter of public transit, Dettwiler spoke in favor of continued county funding for the Washington County Commuter Express (WCCE) before the County Board of Supervisors during its budget deliberations in November. After some revisions, the Washington County budget was approved early in December, including funding provisions through 2002 for the WCCE. Dettwiler calls the service provided by WCCE "unbelievably convenient." She commutes via WCCE to her work at Saks, Inc. in downtown Milwaukee where she is a Senior Systems Analyst. (Saks is the parent company of Carson Pirie Scott, owners of Boston Store). She has been riding the WCCE motor coach four days a week since recently moving to her new home in the Town of Kewaskum. Dettwiler feels quite strongly as a new resident and taxpayer that public transportation is a worthwhile expenditure of taxes because it is so critical to the health and vitality of a community.

Since May of 1999, the WCCE has been providing public transportation between Washington and Milwaukee counties on comfortable motor coaches with amenities such as restrooms, reading lights and heating/air conditioning.

Riders destined for downtown Milwaukee may board WCCE motor coaches at three departure times from each of four Washington County locations: West Bend, the Washington County fairgrounds, Richfield, and the Lannon Park and Ride. After departing the Lannon Park and Ride, WCCE becomes express until its first destination stop on 16th and Wisconsin and other stops along Wisconsin Avenue as far as Cass Street. The WCCE's fares are $2.00 for a one-way ticket (when purchased in strips of 10) or $2.50 for a single, one-way ticket. Single tickets may be purchased from the WCCE driver. For exact scheduled information or location of ticket outlets, contact WCCE at 1-888-675-WCCE (1-888-675-9223).

Hospital Offers 'Helping Your Child Achieve a Healthy Weight'

One out of every five children in America is overweight and that could mean health problems as overweight adults, according to Dana Scheunemann, registered dietitian at St. Joseph's Community Hospital of West Bend. The good news, she says, is that parents have the power to help their children achieve a healthy weight.

Starting Wednesday, February 13, Scheunemann will be leading a monthly forum to educate parents of overweight children on issues surrounding childhood obesity. "Helping Your Child Achieve a Healthy Weight" is designed for parents who have children between the ages of 8 and 18 who have been determined by a physician as being overweight. The series will be held on the second Wednesday of each month from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the hospital.

"Over the past two decades the number of overweight children has increased by more than 50 percent so that today, from the ages of six to 17, there are 5.3 million children who are overweight," Scheunemann says. "The problem is that overweight children are at a greater risk for becoming overweight adults. And they are at greater risk for developing disease such as insulin resistance, hypertension and cardiovascular problems."

Lack of physical activity, unhealthy eating habits, and genetics all influence a child's weight, and the amount of TV watching children do is also a contributing factor.

"One of the most important factors in helping a child who is overweight is

News From The Capitol

By Rep. Glenn Grothman

What is Kwanzaa?

I always enjoy the holiday season. Being a Christian I associate it primarily with Christmas, the day on which the birth of Jesus Christ is celebrated. This is also the time of the New Year. Out of respect of Americans of the Jewish faith, commentators also mention Hanukkah, a Jewish holiday celebrating the victory of the Maccabees over the Greeks thereby freeing the Jewish people.

During the last few years, a new holiday is being given undeserved respect and attention. It is Kwanzaa. Frequently mentioned as an African American holiday, many people probably think it is an old holiday with some religious significance. In fact, Kwanzaa was nonexistent until 1966. Ron Karenga, an African American Marxist, invented Kwanzaa. Karenga disliked the United States and he disliked Christmas, which he thought of as white. He, therefore, made up a holiday that he wanted for blacks.

Karenga himself went to prison shortly after inventing Kwanzaa. He tortured women who were part of his cult, the United Slaves, who were not sufficiently obedient. He held hot irons against them and forced detergent and hoses in their mouth. Karenga tightened a woman's toes in a vice and held a gun to women's faces and threatened to shoot them. For the above he was convicted of two counts of felonious assault and one count of false imprisonment and sentenced to one to ten years in prison in California in 1971. The cult, which he formed, was involved in murderous competition with the Black Panthers in Los Angeles in the late 1960s.

There is some humor in Karenga's inept attempt to create a holiday for African Americans. Kwanzaa is a Swahili word. Swahili is spoken in East Africa and almost all African Americans have their roots in West Africa. It purports to celebrate the corn harvest, but corn is native to the Mayan civilization. In a 1978 interview with Washington Post, Karenga himself admitted "I came up with Kwanzaa because black people in this country wouldn't celebrate it if they knew it was American. Also, I put it around Christmas because I knew that's when a lot of (blacks) would be partying."

To allow this violent Anti-American radical to create a "holiday" and mention it along side of Christmas and Hanukah is deplorable. It is an insult to black Americans to allow this felon to speak for all of them. It is intellectually dishonest of the mainstream media to mention this holiday without its odious roots. Hallmark apparently sees an opportunity to make more money by even selling Kwanzaa cards. The rest of us should treat Kwanzaa with the contempt it deserves before it becomes a permanent part of our culture.

Moraine Park Targets 'Cyber' Students; Boosts Enrollment and Retention

Moraine Park Technical College is enjoying a surge in enrollment thanks to a recent initiative that put four complete programs and two certificates online. Moraine Park, with campuses in Beaver Dam, Fond du Lac and West Bend, worked with the Worldwide Instructional Design System team (WIDS) in developing approximately a quarter of the College's more than 80 online courses and making them available to online learners.

The new online courses, which debuted this fall, have successfully captured a portion of the distance-learning market and boosted Moraine Park's enrollment by 900. The school has also managed an online retention rate of 72 percent - far exceeding national averages and Moraine Park expectations, according to Pete Rettler, Moraine Park's instruction technology partner.

In order to get the courses online in just four months, Moraine Park turned to WIDS team members, who planned and wrote many of the college's general education core courses last summer. WIDS incorporates software and training to help educators design learner-centered curricula that link outcomes and standards. Developed by the Wisconsin Technical College System (WTCS), WIDS software is used at every level of education for curriculum development. In Wisconsin, nearly 50 K-12 school districts and all of the technical colleges, use WIDS.

"WIDS supports curriculum development in all content areas - from technical, career-focused courses to liberal and basic studies such as language, math, science, and social studies," said Judy Neill, WIDS director.

With the help of faculty content experts, WIDS team members used performance-based principles to develop online courses such as, "Written Communications," "Speech," "Technical Reporting," "Economics" and "Psychology of Human Relations." The goal of the four-month project was to better serve a target market of self-disciplined, motivated students who were sometimes geographically bound, said Mary Ann Bazile, Moraine Park's partner for program and design and outcome assessment.

Moraine Park's general education courses, which are required for all associate degrees and technical diplomas, are now online. Other programs were also added, including Emergency Dispatch Program; Web Developer Program; Water Quality Technician and Computer Information Systems Micro Programmer Specialist. Two certificates - Legal Office Skills and Clinical coding Specialist - were also added.

"One of the most difficult parts was to find appropriate learning activities that allowed the learning community to evolve with the online courses," said Denise Martinez, dean of general education. Moraine Park wanted to ensure that online learners felt part of a community within the courses. Retention rates for online learners are low nationally, around 30 percent, according to Rettler. By actively involving students and addressing other areas that affect retention, such as curriculum and instructor training. Moraine Park has engaged and retained learners, he said.

Facilitating interaction between learners and teachers was a goal of WIDS curriculum writers. Learning community frameworks were set up in each course, building interactivity through the use of discussion outlets, such as "chats," WorkSpace and WorkGroups. And, whenever possible, performance assessment tasks were used to move away from traditional exams.

To ensure "cyber" students are satisfied, a Moraine Park staff member monitors the online courses and acts as a liaison between the learners and the instructor. This helps ensure that learners are engaging in the classes. The staff member is actually called a "lurker" because she "lurks" in the courses and prompts students to get involved," said Cindi Thiede, Moraine Park's vice president of teaching and learning and corporate and community services.

The courses enable learners to succeed because they provide a framework for building in learning activities that students complete off-line. They also include synchronous and asynchronous activities that are designed to meet the performance assessments and related competencies, said Martinez.

The success of securing a new market of learners came as a result of good teamwork and planning on the part of both Moraine Park and WIDS, said Thiede. "More than half of the online students are brand new to Moraine Park and haven't taken courses from us before. I'm hoping to increase that number next semester."

Since 1992, WTCS has invested more than $3.5 million in the development and continual improvement of WIDS. Its newest tool for educators - WIDS 7 - available this January - makes creating online courses even easier. WIDS 7 is web-friendly software that allows users to design creative curriculum targeted to the learner. To learn more about WIDS 7 or Moraine Park, visit www.wids.org and www.morainepark.edu, respectively.

Tractor Safety Course Required For Young Farm Workers

Does your son or daughter work on a farm during the summer? Do you hire youth to work for you during the year? Do these young people have adequate safety training?

Accidents cause more deaths to individuals between the ages of 15 and 24 than all other causes combined. On the farm, the major cause of accidents is working with tractors and farm machinery. Most accidents happen when the operator does not know how to operate the tractor or machinery correctly or is unaware of the dangers involved.

To help reduce accidents, a Farm Tractor Safety Course is being sponsored by area High School Vocational Agriculture Departments and the University of Wisconsin Extension in Washington County. The course will be held on four Saturdays, February 9, February 23, March 2, and March 23 from 9:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. On Saturday, February 9 and February 23, the course will be held in Room 1113A&B of the Public Agency Center, 333 E. Washington St., West Bend. The March 2 session will be held at the Slinger High School in Room 205.

The March 23 session will be held at the Addison Town Hall in Allenton. April 6 has been set aside for a snow date. The course includes instructions on understanding how to operate a tractor, with emphasis on safety. To complete the course, you must attend all four sessions and pass a written and a driving exam. The course must be 24 hours to comply with federal and state requirements.

Federal law requires that youth under the age of 16 must be certified before being hired to work with tractors and tractor machinery. Effective May 1, 1996, state law mandated that no person may direct or permit a youth under 16 years of age to operate a farm tractor or self-propelled implement on a public road unless the youth has been certified as successfully completing a tractor and machinery certification course.

Prior to the law, only youth 14 or 15 years of age who operated tractors and equipment on a farm not owned by their parent or guardian were required to complete the safety course. Youth who drive a tractor for their parents may still do so without the formal training program as long as they do not operate the tractor on a public road. The law also does not apply to situations where a youth is driving a tractor and implement directly across (perpendicular to) a public road.

If you intend to hire any youth on your farm, make sure that they enroll in this course for your protection as well as theirs. There are penalties for not complying with the law. Also, some insurance companies have indicated that, technically, they can't cover an accident to an untrained youth.

Protect your child or the young person who works for you...enroll them in the Farm Tractor Safety Course. State law mandates youth registered for the course must be the minimum age of 12 by the first session of the Tractor Safety Course. The cost of the course is $25.00 per student and limited to the first 25 paid participants. To register, call your local high school Vo-Ag Instructor or the UW-Extension Office in West Bend. Phone West Bend at 262-335-4477 or 414-342-2929 for the Milwaukee metro area.

Milk Prices Expected to Hold Steady in 2002

MADISON - What does 2002 hold in store for Wisconsin agriculture? Two financial experts make their predictions for what farmers can expect to see during 2002 regarding milk, land and livestock prices.

Dairy Product Pricing

"Demand will continue to grow for cheese in 2002, with fluid milk prices flat to slightly declining," says Jim Moriarty, senior lending officer with Agribank, Farm Credit Bank, St. Paul, Minn. "Cheese demand has grown two to five percent annually for the past three to five years.

However, Moriarty notes cheese demand dropped slightly during the fall of 2001, due to the events of September 11 and the overall economic recession. Cheese sales dropped during this time, causing cheese sale growth to be less than three percent for 2001. Fewer people dining out in restaurants accounted for this lower demand.

Fluid milk is flat to declining one percent from year to year. Butter demand is also flat and has been declining as well in 2001 due to higher prices.

"Dairy product prices will be relatively favorable in 2002, but not as strong as in 2001," Moriarty says. "In some respects, milk prices will start out stronger than in 2001."

Moriarty expects the Class III base or cheese milk price to average $11.50 to $12.50, with a mailbox price in the $13 to $14 range. He also looks for the seasonal milk price to peak at $14 to $15 dollars in late summer.

Land, Commodity and Livestock Price Trends

"Wisconsin has seen a continued increase in land values, due in part to urban pressure," says Randy Schure, chief lending officer with Farm Credit Services (FCS) of Northeast Wisconsin in DePere, a member of the Wisconsin Farm Credit System. "I expect this trend to continue, but not at the rate we have seen in the past several years."

Schure expects commodity prices to hover near the same levels as in 2001, with possible price fluctuation due to changing weather or demand. Some portions of Wisconsin were plagued with difficult crop conditions during 2001. If farmers suffered below-average yields in 2001, their income was affected even with the help of farm program payments.

Beef cattle prices also took a hit after the September 11 tragedy and could take longer to recover than other commodity prices affected by those events, Moriarty explains. He expects beef prices to be somewhat softer for the first half of 2002, because fewer people are dining out.

Other livestock such as dairy replacement heifers saw strong prices in 2001, averaging about $1,500 and spiking as high as $2,000 per heifer. Moriarty sees heifer prices dropping somewhat, due to less overall dairy expansion during 2002.

However, Schure expects heifer prices to stay very strong in 2002, around the $1,800 to $2,000 range. Schure points to continued high demand for heifers, a higher cull rate throughout the industry and dairy cows spending less time in the milking herd than ever before.

Key Areas to Watch in 2002

Both Moriarty and Schure agree agriculture faces several issues in 2002 which may have a major influence on prices. These include upcoming Farm Bill legislation, increasing environmental regulations and a favorable interest rate environment.

The Wisconsin Farm Credit System includes four associations: AgStar Financial Services, Badgerland Farm Credit Services, FCS Financial Services and Farm Credit Services of Northeast Wisconsin. All are part of the Farm Credit Services nationwide network of cooperative lending institutions providing credit and financial services to farmers, ranchers and rural residents.

Outdoor Adventures with Mark Walters

Winter Camping with Joey

catch one fish which measured over 15 inches. That put us in high spirits for the next day.

Saturday, Jan. 5
High 35, Low 26

Due to a lean amount of daylight hours, there is a lot of camp time while winter camping, which includes cooking, wrestling and talking with Joey while in our tent. Last night I asked Joey what kind of job he would like to have when he's 20 years old. I was pleasantly surprised when Joey told me that he wasn't going to have a job. He was going to have a girlfriend with lots of money.

My father, the late Robert Walters, always said that "It's just as easy to love a woman with money as it is one without." Last night Joey slept with his head against Star's and received a dose of Star's snoring reality. Star is hitting a point in her life where she can snore as loud as my old buddy, Harold, "The Wildman" Moll.

Today was a day that both Joey and I will always remember. By day's end we had 30 flags and caught 11 walleye, all under very comfortable conditions. So far, out of the 12 fish we caught the first two were legal. The rest were released.

A crew out of Cashton fished next to us today. They must have caught 30 walleye, of which only 11 hit the 15 inch mark. Their catch of the day was a five pound catfish caught by Gary Miller.

Sunday, Jan. 6
High 30, Low 17

My brother-in-law Dick Schuster is a go-for-it kind of guy. Dick said he would find Joey and I and fish with us on Sunday, which was today. I found out Dick meant it when this morning an hour before daylight Dick, along with his two boys Riley and Trent, reached our camp.

The Schuster clan had got up at 3 a.m., and were anxious to catch fish. We made a day out of it under rather uncomfortable blustery conditions and caught 15 walleye. None reached the legal size minimum.

All five of us, plus the pups, had a good outing and that's what it's all about.

My plan for this week was to drive over to Waukesha County's Big Cedar Lake to winter camp and ice fish for northern pike. That plan changed when I heard decent sized walleye were biting on the Pentenwell Flowage.

I asked my eight year old stepson, Joey, if he wanted to join the pups and I camping on the ice and trying to catch some walleye. There was no hesitation to his answer, and thus began the education of Joey Dushek, winter camper and walleye fisherman.

Friday, Jan. 4
High 34, Low 21

All of my trips require work before the fun can begin. Today's was no exception. The gear required for two people to fish and camp on the ice for three days can fill a pickup truck. Due to thin ice, all of our gear would have to be hauled to our home on the ice by otter sleds. I own three of them. I would be pulling one, as would Star who today entered her 10th season of sled pulling. Joey would begin his first.

After our 20 mile journey we were greeted with both good and bad as we struck up a conversation with a couple of fishermen. They had caught 30 walleye, but only one was of the legal limit length of 15 inches. Under sized walleye have been the plague of the 23,000 acre Pentenwell for the last two winters. I decided to spend the weekend focusing on teaching Joey how to winter camp and watch walleye thru the ice.

We put out six tip-ups baited with flathead minnows and began building camp. There wasn't a lot of daylight left, but we managed to build camp and
